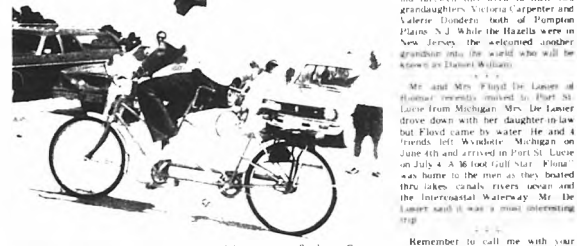
The return trip started from Clewiston at 8:15 a.m. and in view of threatening weather, it was decided to catch the 12 noon St. Lucie Lock opening and lunch there on board. They arrived back home at 1 p.m., reporting they had had a most satisfactory and enjoyable cruise.



BUILT FOR TWO?--The lack of a partner did not prevent St. Lucie County Commissioner Ed Enns from participating in Port St. Lucie's July 4 parade on his bicycle built for two.

Lions plan cruise

PORT ST. LUCIE--A Labor Day cruise to the Bahamas, at what PSL Lions Club Secretary Frank Bonfield calls "bargain basement" prices, is the latest fund raising effort of the local club.

The cruise is not limited to Lions. Anyone in the area may take advantage of the reduced price, provided reservations are booked by this Sunday, July 20, at a savings of $25 per person.

Free bus service will be furnished from Vero Beach, Fort Pierce, Port St. Lucie, Jensen Beach and Stuart to Miami. The cruise starts August 29 from Miami, last three days, on board the newest ship in service, the "Monarch Sun."

Registered in the Dutch West Indies, the "Monarch Sun" has everything imaginable for the comfort and pleasure of her passengers including a lounge, five bars, night clubs, a theater, card rooms, saunas, gymnasiums, duty free shops, pool, elevators, a casino and "bountiful" food, according to Bonfield.

All cabins are outside.

A $75 deposit is required for reservations. For bookings or details call Bonfield at 464-8180 or 283-6360.

As is always true with the Port St. Lucie Lions, proceeds from the cruise will be used for Lions Sight Preservation and Research programs.

PSL Welcome Wagon luncheon

Social hour from 11:30, luncheon begins at noon. Cards of your choice will follow the luncheon.

Stuart duplicate results

STUART--The Stuart Duplicate Club held its regular session July 9 at the Youth Center with four tables in play and an average of 42. A Howell movement was used.

Game time is 7:30. Wednesday evenings. Roger White is director and a partner is guaranteed.

Mardi Gras is set for Friday

PORT ST. LUCIE--A Mid-summer Mardi Gras is planned for this week's Friday Nite Gang session, starting at 7:30 p.m. at the North Port Marina.

Forty or more special prizes will be awarded to lucky ticket holders in attendance and refreshments will be served.

Host Benz welcomed back Al Zell and wife who had been absent for two weeks while vacationing, and David Kallach, an old timer absent for the past six months because of illness.

Ann Boman took home the main prize.

PORT ST. LUCIE--Members of the St. Lucie Country Club Womens Golf Association played the qualifying round of the Summer Handicap Tournament on July 8.

Ruby Johnson lead the first flight with a 72, followed by Pearl Roberts and Audrey Docod with 74 each, and Ginny Edwards with a score of 76.

Second flight, Angie LoBrutto 73, Bea Miller and Addie Hannum both 80, while Irene Helmer scored an 82.

Sixth flight, was led by Ginna Leyda with 78, followed by Cora Hudock with 80 and Bea Jahn with 83.

Seventh flight, Betty Nardone 78, Barbara Caldwell 81, Marge Thomas 86, and tied with Marge was Edie Smith, also with 86.

Presidents' Council meets Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Presidents Council of Port St. Lucie will meet in regular monthly session at the CESA Building on Thursday, July 17 starting at 2 p.m.

The Council is made up of all heads of the various organizations meeting and operating in the Port St. Lucie area.

JAYCEES AT WORK--Whenever there is a job to be done in or around Port St. Lucie, you will find the Jaycees willing and able to pitch in with a helping hand. For example, they manned the game booths for the younger set over the July 4 festivities at the CESA complex.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH—Congratulations and best wishes are extended this week to Mrs. Paul Mercer, Hazel Vincent and Josephine Doering celebrating July 16 birthdays; Henry Spiller July 17; Woodcock and Fire Chief Frederick Spinney July 18; Mrs. Alex Nichols July 19; Susan Rathgeber and Mrs. Orville Buckley July 20 and to Carl Barnum July 22.

Red Cross needs nurses for 'canes

STUART—The American Red Cross needs R.N.'s to volunteer as Disaster Nurses. At present there are openings for nurses for the hurricane shelters at Jensen Beach, Hobe Sound and Palm City. Resident nurses in any of these areas who would like to help can call 287-2045.

The First Aid trailer was used recently at the 4th of July celebration at Jensen Causeway. It also was used at the Martin County Fair and the Boat Races. It is available for all civic events. Each time this Trailer is in use it is in charge of a registered nurse assisted by a person qualified by the Red Cross in first aid.

At any of these events, the schedule is arranged so that no nurse needs to serve longer than 3 hours.

Boaters asked to cooperate

JENSEN BEACH—With the great increase in recent years of both land and water vehicles in America, drawbridges, the crossroads of these two types of transportation, have become objects of controversy.

In areas of both heavy land and water traffic, and during rush hour, tempers flair when either traffic under or on the bridge is backed up. It can be an unpleasant scene.

The Coast Guard has received numerous reports of boats signaling for bridges to open unnecessarily. Most of these cases involve boats that could easily pass under a bridge if such things as fishing outriggers, radio-television antennae, false mast, etc., were lowered. These are items that are not essential to navigation. Fixed items, such as radar antennae, flying bridges, sailboat masts, etc., are essential to navigation and are legitimate reasons to open a bridge.

Federal regulations require draw-bridge operators to open bridges on a vessel's signal. They also state, "all passage over, through, or under a draw-bridge shall be prompt, to prevent delay to either land or water traffic." Although a bridge must be opened for boats, traffic on the bridge must not be delayed unnecessarily.

The Coast Guard asks boaters to put themselves in the place of their counterparts on the bridge the next time they signal needlessly for a bridge to open.

Book sale July 25-26

STUART—The Martin County Library Association will hold its semi-annual book sale Friday and Saturday, July 25-26, from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at the library.

Proceeds from the sale will go towards furnishing the proposed new addition to the library.

Mrs. Huntington has company, her niece Betty and husband Donald LaPointe. They are from Milford Connecticut and will be here for about a week.

Mert says those kids are trying to get her to go to Disney World, offering to push her around in a wheel chair. She adds that seeing the attractions could be a long walk, but she isn't so sure she would like being "pushed around" after nearly ninety years of being able to get around on her own.

Warren and Barbara Flowers are in the park for a brief stay. They are the owners of the former Cecil Harlow mobile.

Dr. McCallister will be guest speaker at MCCA

JENSEN BEACH–The Martin County Citizens Association will hold their first annual meeting July 24, 7:30 p.m. in The Harris Hoke Room of First Federal Savings in Jensen Beach. All are welcome but please do not park in their business area parking lot.

They are pleased to present as their speaker Dr. Archie McCallister, who is the first full time director of Martin County's Health Dept. Dr. McCallister received the M.D. degree from Emory University. He is in the practice of Internal Medicine in Miami and later with the State Health Dept. of Florida at Tallahassee before coming to Martin County.

It is possible that the County Health Dept. can help the elderly of this county, as a number of ways. The ward organization covers a number of problems. Please come and hear what Dr. McCallister has to say, and be ready to tell him what you feel are some of our problems in Martin County, especially with and for people 55 years of age and over.

Academy urges early enrollment

Howes-in-the-Hills Early enrollment is urged for Howes Academy's expanded academic and recreational curriculum which begins with registration for the fall term September 2.

Howes President Hugh Westfall cited the need for early application because of an expected rush of parents to enroll their children when popular public school subjects become unavailable this fall.

Westfall said reports in local and national newspapers like the Wall Street Journal predict larger numbers of students per classroom and widespread elimination of programs in the arts, athletics and other extra-curriculars. This will cut the quality of education to the bone, he remarked.

Howes Academy, Florida's largest accredited boarding school for boys and girls of junior and senior high age, also accepts a growing number of day students each year. Classes are limited to 15-20 students and a "small world" atmosphere prevails, giving students from throughout the country an opportunity to share both language and cultural beliefs with students from other parts of the world.

About 65 percent of Howes students come from Florida, the remainder represent a broad cross section of the U.S., South America, Europe and the Caribbean Islands.

Rainbow Wheel plans

STUART—The Rainbow Wheel of the Welcome Wagon will have a swim party and pot luck luncheon at the home of Betty Kennedy, 12 Lakeside Trail, North River Shores next Tuesday, July 22 at 11 a.m.

Everyone who plans to attend is asked to call Mrs. Kennedy at 287-6457.

Tape for blind is delayed

JENSEN BEACH—The Martin County Taping Studio, which will produce recordings for the blind, will be at least a month late in turning out its first tape, organizer Lucille Beasley said.

Tape recording equipment that was to arrive by the first of July isn't expected to be delivered until August, Mrs. Beasley said.

Donations totalling $4,774 have been received by studio sponsors, and they now are trying to raise $3,496 for a duplicator.

A rummage sale to benefit the studio will be held Monday, July 28, at Langford Park in Jensen Beach.

How much will car rust cost you?

Plenty. If you don't stop it. That's where we come in, whether your car is new or several years old. We neutralize existing rust by spraying our exclusive penetrant deep into the hidden, boxed-in areas of your car's body. Then we apply our unique aluminized sealant that stops new rust. And our famous rustproofing guarantee is insured.

CELEBRATION—The days of knickers and ink-wells will be relived at the Monterey Shopping Plaza as part of its celebration of Martin County's 50th Anniversary. Turnabout models Evy Karafotias, left of Jensen Beach, and Buff Rastelli re-enact a little schoolroom mischief in the costumes they'll be modeling this Thursday and Friday as part of the festivities. Exhibits will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day and there will be evening entertainment starting at 7:30 p.m. on Friday.

Lake Mano News Notes

BY SYLVIA SIMAN

They are in the location of the former Stan Whyte, in a new lovely mobile.

Happy and safe traveling to those who are.

For lack of news, this column will now be terminated until the fall.

We thank all of you for your news items throughout the year and now all of you have a good summer and to all Peace

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19 - Aries Ascendant) - You can make your decisions now. Resist any selfish attitudes. Consider carefully before impulsively shirking responsibilities and neglecting the needs and desires of your mate or partner.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20 - Taurus Ascendant) - Pleasant relationships with coworkers are indicated. Give advice when asked, but don't feel hurt if it is not heeded. Give your major attention to work responsibility. Limit your social life just now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20 - Gemini Ascendant) - Put your very best foot forward since you could meet someone now who will be influential in your future. Guard against letting your pride interfere in a meaningful romantic relationship. Be charitable.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22 - Cancer Ascendant) - Not a good time to lend money; guard your finances. Follow your own feelings instead of the advice of others. Be content with a lesser position in an organization. Possibility of a trip with a friend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22 - Also Leo Ascendant) - Gossiping neighbors may be troublesome. Rise above feelings of personal slight and go about your life in your usual magnanimous way. Guard against feelings of jealousy or trying to rekindle a dying romance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 - Also Virgo Ascendant) - Take an optimistic matter of fact attitude toward what you discover regarding health matters. You can achieve a personal goal now. Enjoy leisurely evenings after a hard day's work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 - Also Libra Ascendant) - Good fortune in career comes through others just now. You may have to change personal plans to take a business trip. You're indecisive about redecorating plans now; better wait until later to start the project.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 - Also Scorpio Ascendant) - An unexpected change may involve a journey and will work out to your benefit. There is a possibility of a job change. Some of you may be changing residence; it could be temporary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 - Also Sagittarius Ascendant) - Energy is high and you can get a lot accomplished. Others are cooperative. Be considerate of mate and complimentary. Work on career plans, but keep your ideas to yourself for now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 - Also Capricorn Ascendant) - You can expect much from others; their tendency to grouse and complain now, tends later in the week. Be patient and resist being a worry-wart. Small investments are favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 - Also Aquarius Ascendant) - Your life may be changing now. Be optimistic, attend to duties and you will find you are in control. If others are not dealing fairly, don't be tempted to play their game. Maintain integrity.

PISCES (Feb. 18 to March 20 - Also Pisces Ascendant) - You may fall behind on your work schedule and need to put in some overtime. Keep up appearances with attractive wardrobe and appear at your best at all times. Enjoy activities with children.

Unlocks free services and 5¼% per year interest...

KEY ACCOUNT

"Community Spirit" is the password... Now there's Key Account.

Lots of new services have been offered recently by financial institutions. Now Community Federal brings these services together under one roof and offers you one Key Account.

It's a new type of interest-earning account. If you make transactions, you'll receive monthly statements. If there is no account activity, we'll send you quarterly statements to show the interest you've earned.

And your funds will earn 5¼% yearly interest, compounded daily, from the day you put your money in until the day you take it out.

The "Master Key"

Your $300 minimum Key Account balance will bring you some very valuable money management tools:

- Free Prestige Card. Serves as your account identification at all Community Federal offices — and at participating Prestige savings and loans across the country.
- Prestige Emergency Cash. From now on, when you're out of town and out of cash, you're not out of luck. Just visit the nearest Prestige location (over 2,000 in 46 states). You can cash a personal check or make an Emergency Cash withdrawal from your Key Account.
- Free Dial-A-Count Service. Earn daily interest on your paycheck. Just transfer that money to your basic checking account for monthly bills. Transfer money from checking to Key Account, too — by telephone, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
- Transamatic Savings. You never have to miss a savings deposit again. We can make it for you — automatically — on the day (or days) of the month that you specify.
- Free Automatic Mortgage Payment. For Community Federal home loan customers. Let us do the work for you!
- Free Direct Deposit of Social Security Checks. Do your plans conform to check day? Has your check ever been lost or stolen? Now the Treasury Department can mail your check directly to Community Federal each month. And we'll deposit it in your Key Account — automatically.
- Free Travelers Checks. Why pay a service charge? You can have as many free First National City Travelers Checks as you need — as often as you like!
- Free Money Orders. Sometimes you'd rather pay a bill with a money order than with a check. Now you can have free money orders with Key Account.
- Free Notary Service. There's a notary public at every Community Federal office (except our Singer Island Drive-In Facility). And now this service is free.
- More Free Services Will Be Added!

Open Your Key Account!

Community Federal's Key Account is the one account that makes sense for the homemaker and the tycoon. For young marrieds and retirees.

CONSTRUCTION UNDERWAY—The $44,895 CESA Community Center expansion got underway this week just as Contractor Richard K. Davis had promised. The addition will include a large lounge, two rest rooms with an outside access, and a storage closet. Tentative completion date for the project has been scheduled for sixty days.

Construction to start immediately

Groundbreaking scheduled for PSL professional building

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE—The weeks and months of cutting through the governmental red tape have apparently ended, and construction of the proposed professional building to be located on U.S. 1 in Port St. Lucie is expected to get underway within days.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the $800,000 facility have been tentatively scheduled for July 18, according to W.G. "Bill" Salva, president of GGS Corporation, developers of the project.

Construction will start immediately with a scheduled completion date of October 15 for the building itself.

The individual office suites on which leases have been signed will be the first to be completed according to GGS officials.

Last Thursday the P.H. Liles crew and equipment of West Palm Beach moved onto the site in full force to clear the two acre site for construction. The land clearing operations was completed by Saturday noon.

GGS officials took favorable on the proposed new hospital to be constructed, pending the approval of a certificate of need, on the Mid-Port Section of Port St. Lucie east of U.S. 1.

"A hospital in the area should necessitate the need for additional facilities facilities which we would hope to provide in part," Salva commented.

Although several minor delays were experienced in obtaining all the necessary permits for the building, Ed Glaser, the secretary-treasurer for GGS and Bill Salva praised the various state agencies and local departments for their fine cooperation.

"The State Pollution Control Board and the Board of Health were most cooperative. They agreed, adding the St. Lucie County Fire Department, Building Department and Planning and Zoning Director Al Thomas really went out of their way to smooth things out for us."

"We did run into for short cuts Glaser said pointing out the form had followed the required procedeure and routine for obtaining the permits.

A certified appraisal of $1 million has been completed by MAI on the project.

Lincoln National Insurance Company of Fort Wayne, Indiana is the lending institution for the proposed facility.

The building, situated on a two-acre site, will be located approximately one mile southeast the Prima Vista U.S. 1 intersection in Port St. Lucie, across from the Spanish Lakes entrance.

The facility will provide 21 units and encompass a total of 21,000 square feet of rental area.

There will be approximately one hundred parking spaces provided on the attractively landscaped site.

Of the seventeen letters of intent filed by members of the medical profession throughout the country, two are dentists, thirteen doctors, one druggist and one unit is a labratory.

The GGS Corporation is comprised of three equal partners, William "Bill" Salva president, Joe Gerlak, vice president, and Ed Glaser, secretary treasurer.

The firm has been involved in other projects in the area and has constructed homes and warehouses in Stuart.

LAND IS CLEARED—Land clearing on the two-acre site of the $850,000 professional building to be located approximately one mile south of the Prima Vista-U.S. 1 intersection and across from the Spanish Lakes entrance got underway last Thursday. The building when completed will house 21 offices, most of which have already been rented, according to W.G. "Bill" Salva, president of GGS Corporation, developers of the facility. Pictured above, left to right, Salva and Ed Glaser, GGS secretary-treasurer, and P.H. Liles of the land clearing firm. Groundbreaking ceremonies are scheduled for Friday, July 18. Construction is expected to start immediately.

Coane aces to win

PORT ST. LUCIE—There was a real [illegible] for top honors in the championship flight of the St. Lucie Men's Golf Association at Saints Course Thursday, but Bill Coane struck the clincher against [illegible] Ed Leary when he aced the [illegible] with an eight iron to take the [illegible] sweep in the association's [illegible] golf tournament.

Eight leaders in the drop-three-[illegible] half handicap, individual competition were:

Flight B—Bill Dunleavy, 56-6; Bert McDonnell, 57-5; Roy Hannum, 58-3; Art Sprague, 59-6.

February 1976 opening

25th Street extension reaches final stages

PORT ST. LUCIE—The third and [illegible] phase of the 25th Street extension [illegible] is expected to get underway [illegible] the next two weeks according to [illegible] Department of Transportation (DOT) [illegible].

[illegible] Saxon, resident engineer for [illegible] said Tuesday bids for the final [illegible] between Midway to Edwards [illegible] excluding the 10-mile Creek [illegible] were opened and the contract [illegible] June 26.

[illegible] Construction Company of [illegible] Pierce submitting a low bid of $[illegible] by was awarded the contract [illegible] pre-construction meeting with [illegible] contractor, DOT said the work [illegible] would have to be issued within [illegible] days from the date the contract [illegible] awarded recommending the work [illegible] be issued on July 26.

"The main reason for the delay in [illegible] the work order, according to [illegible] is to allow adequate time for the [illegible] companies (telephone, electric [illegible]) to mobilize and get moved, and for the necessary surveys to be completed.

"Sometimes it is harder to get the [illegible] moved than to do the actual [illegible]," Saxon said.

Construction, which will take approximately 125 working days to complete, will start immediately following the issuance of the work permit.

Whereas it was hoped by Port St. Lucie residents the north-south access from Port Pierce to South Port St. Lucie the only access west of the St. Lucie River would be opened in 1974, it appears February 1976 is a more likely completion date.

Construction of the various segments of the road have been the responsibility of the State Department of Transportation, St. Lucie County, General Development Corporation and the City of Port St. Lucie.

The section from Virginia Avenue to White City Road came under the Department of Transportation. White City Road to Port St. Lucie City limits was the responsibility of St. Lucie County and General Development Corporation and the City of Port St. Lucie were jointly responsible for the stretch between the Port St. Lucie City limits to St. James Drive.

NON-SMOKERS—Whether or not smoking should be prohibited during the time the Port St. Lucie City Council is in session might very likely be the topic of conversation between these two non-smokers. Norman Zinkoff, pictured on right, who has been leading a one man battle against smoking in the city hall, seems to have a willing listener in Lee Johnson. The City Council has agreed to seek a solution to the smoking complaint.

Let there be light...please

PORT ST. LUCIE—Several members of the Port St. Lucie City Council have been pleading with General Development Corporation to let there be light at the intersection of U.S. 1 and Morningside Boulevard.

The corner, which is pitch black at night was formally lighted by the GDC owned Hilton Inn billboard. The sign was removed when DGC dropped its option to renew the Hilton franchise recently.

GDC officials claim the reason the billboard has not been rebuilt is because the old sign blocked the view of its Homefinders Real Estate building from the highway.

Although no date could be offered both GDC President Louis Fischer and local manager Bob Seeley promised a replacement sign to be situated a few hundred yards from the original.

Park moves toward city rec

PORT ST. LUCIE—With time of the essence, General Development Corporation President Louis Fischer flew from Miami to Port St. Lucie Tuesday to offer the developer's intention of transferring Sportsman's Park to the city, thus clearing the way for city park participation in the St. Lucie County recreation budget. The area involves approximately a 17-acre tract.

Elmer Cox, PSL city manager, contacted Fischer Monday with a request for a letter of intent to give the city control of the park. With PSL general manager Bob Seeley out of town, Fischer agreed to fly to Port St. Lucie Tuesday afternoon to confirm the company's position.

Fischer indicated that the city's acquisition of the park would be through a lease arrangement, a warranty deed or the more lengthy process of annexation.

At any rate, when the recreation budget is ready, the park will be under city control, PSL officials were assured.

With that taken care of, Cox planned to attend a meeting of the Recreation Department in Fort Pierce Thursday night at 7 in to submit the city's proposal.

The city authorized Mayor Schuyler Sharpe to send a letter to David Gessner, chairman of the Ft. Pierce-St. Lucie County Recreation Board, with a $60,000 budget for the next fiscal year, of which PSL would budget $35,000. The city is asking the board to budget the remaining $25,000 for park activities.

The budget is predicated on a five year plan that would eventually see a field house a regulation football field and increased grandstand seating. Plans also include improving an existing tennis court and adding another fencing and lighting Babe Ruth field and general improvements to the park.

In order to provide continuity of care and upkeep of the park, the city pledged to cooperate to the maximum degree with the Recreation Board and its program supervisors.

At the same time, the city will continue to encourage the support of the local Optimist Club and the sponsors of the Little League and the Babe Ruth League.

Sportsman's Park is located within the 70 acre tract the local Planning committee has recommended for annexation into the City of Port St. Lucie. The tract is located just north of the city and includes three churches, the library, the CESA building and Southern Bell Telephone property along with the park.

The only tax revenue to be derived from the annexation would be the Southern Bell property, which Mayor Schuyler Sharpe has said would net the city approximately $8,000 annually.

When GDC made the recent proposal that the city take over the park, either by warranty deed, lease or annexation, a local committee began work on the five year plan for city maintenance and improvement of the property.

In preparing a list of the costs involved, the city turned to the county to determine what funding aid might be available.

When City Administrator Cox met with Tom Kindred, director of the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Recreation Department, he was advised to formally request that Port St. Lucie be included in the 1975-76 budget.

STANDS IDLE—Although the Port St. Lucie Turnpike Interchange has been completed, it will most likely remain closed to traffic for another thirty days or so. The lack of the electronic computer used to issue and figure the tolls due on the incoming tickets is reportedly the cause of the delay.

MARINE PARADE—A meeting of the committee to organize a Marine parade October 10 celebrating the 200th anniversary of the commissioning of the Colbert's flag at room of Heritage on Hutchinson Island on October 18, 1975 was held recently at the Elks Lodge. The committee is preparing all the advanced planning for the parade including all activities in establishing navigation limitations. Committee members include (standing, from the left) Mrs. Wilbert F. Sheppard, Mrs. James Hutchinson, Brent Seibert of the Martin County Historical Society, Dale M. Hudson III, Robert Kline, Mrs. Joan Wilhelm, Craig Black row, Charles L. Koch, Theodore L. Kramer, Edward Bonefeld, chairman, Fred Stein, Jr. and Richard Carr. Keegan of the Order of Refuge. Not pictured are Andrew Bailey, Dennis A. Hudson, Jr. and Kevin M. Nelson.

Speculators hit

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH—With the county tax roll late for the second year in a row, the county property appraiser's office has moved on a six day, 24-hour a day, three shift schedule to try to get back in the groove according to Ted Campo, executive assistant property appraiser for Martin County.

Talking to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club, Campo outlined the mini-computerization of the county tax roll, adding that it was March, 1975 before the office got through with the 1974 tax roll.

"There is no way that we can get a 1975 tax roll completed in three months," Campo said. He estimated that a preliminary roll would be ready by the middle of August and the final roll completed in October or November, so those who want to pay their taxes in 1975 can do so.

Campo was especially critical of speculators who have been buying land in agricultural areas, expecting to get the agricultural exemption from taxes.

"We have seen a large number of financial interests from the south of Martin County and from up north, who want agriculture exemptions in lands that are not in agri-business.

"They are trying to dupe the appraiser's office. They are speculators who put up a facade. They are no more in agri-business than you or I," he said.

Campo explained the 100 percent rule of appraising lands as mandated by the Florida Legislature. He said the valuation is based upon the market value of the land, and told of the ways his office produced the values based upon sales in areas.

"During the economic recession of 1974 we found that in all but a few isolated areas values held their own or went up. Sales numbers fell off but the sales made in the condominium area especially, values went up.

Campo explained that three to six sales or offers to buy constituted a "trend" that could set values.

Campo, who lives with his wife and five children in Lighthouse Point, joined the property appraiser's office in February.

Leif Erikson Day planning beginning

JENSEN BEACH—Viking boats with their colorful square sails will again dot the Indian River as members of the Sons of Norway of Florida gather to hold their annual Leif Erikson Day to the expanding Jensen Beach location celebration.

Dates of the three-day event were announced on October 1, 2 and 3, according to Dutch Lem, chairperson.

Over 500 members of the eight Florida lodges of the Sons of Norway are expected to participate in the weekend and the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island has been chosen as the host hotel for the group.

The private portion of the weekend for Sons of Norway members will center at the hotel with meetings, tennis and swimming events planned a banquet and talent show and dance leading up to the Sunday public portion on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

The causeway program will begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday and will feature the Orlando-based United States Navy Band in concert, a parade of bunads (colorful Norwegian costumes), a pageant recreating the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D. races featuring three seaworthy viking sailing boats that were brought from Norway, and a fish fry.

Postal sales are up

JENSEN BEACH—Postmaster Harold Salzler announced this week that postal sales for the fiscal year 1974-75, which ended June 30, increased 20.1 percent over last year. The 75-75 total was $241,940, compared with $201,668 for the previous period.

Although some other southern offices showed decreases, Salzler reported that postal sales in Jensen Beach have more than doubled in four years. Fiscal 1971 sales were $108,000.

Alliance meet scheduled

JENSEN BEACH—The Martin County Conservation Alliance will meet at 8 p.m. Friday, July 18, at First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart.

Venture Out News

BY WILLARD AUCH

Tasked with Bill and Mate Grealing then up in Michigan. They are both well and still planning to leave on their trip west this month. Bill says that they have had a wonderful growing season this year and Mate has had lots of gardens to eat and can. Look for them to arrive back at Vi-Ki with a trailer full of goodies.

Kathy and Bruce Parmenter with guests Eleanor and Fred Greenough spent several days touring around southern Florida on the Parmenter's new yacht.

How can we help but be a bit envious of Martha and Bob Pierce? They are leaving for a two-week Caribbean and South America cruise. They will be visiting Nassau, San Juan, St. Thomas, Martinique, Trinidad, Aruba, Cartagena and Rodney Bay on the luxury liner Britanis. They will be spending a day at the Panama to watch the operation of boats going through the canal. We know they will have a wonderful trip and lots of experiences to talk about on their return.

We are having many weekend guests, getting away from the noise and hustle of the big cities.

VENTURE HARBOUR TID BITS BY JESSIE R. SHAVER

News is scarcer than hen teeth for the few of us left here are leading a very dull life. Oh for the return of our friends and neighbors!

Doc and Kay Smyth had their south porch roofed and screened. It was finished just before they left on a trip so they haven't enjoyed it yet.

They were stopping in Albany, Ga. and a few other places before getting to the Drinkard place in Michigan.

A note from Betty and Paul Drinkard says they are having a good summer and looking forward to visits from several of their Venture Harbour friends. They send their regards to the others.

Bobbie Osterag has her daughter and grandson, Bonnie and Tammie Juettner of Long Island visiting for a couple of weeks.

They Slagle visited with former neighbors recently and stopped by to admire all the work Joe and Amy Fleming have done on her former home. She had dinner with the Shavers.

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE--The CESA Community Center netted over $500 from the July 4 festivities which included the annual parade, food, fun games and fireworks.

Clubs and organizations throughout the city cooperated to make the day one of profit for the CESA Community Center, according to Thomas Hillegas, CESA treasurer.

While members of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club were on hand to barbecue the spareribs, the local Jaycees manned the liquid refreshment stands and provided game booths and prizes for the younger set.

Those attending found a wide variety of baked goods which could be purchased and taken home to enjoy later.

The day's festivities concluded at Sportsman's Park with a 30 minute display of fireworks which many would-be spectators missed due to some last minute rescheduling.

The fireworks display, which was originally scheduled for the Port St. Lucie Marina was a real on again, off again, on again project.

The fireworks, approximately $600 worth, were purchased by General Development Corporation and donated to the local Optimist Club for display.

According to Hillegas, the fireworks were stolen from the Marina storage area earlier in the week, but were returned to the marina sometime during the afternoon of July 4, only hours before the display was to have been set off.

THE PARADE WAS OVER--Mrs. Eleanor Thorson joined her daughter and son-in-law, Councilman and Mrs. McChesney, for a jaunt over to the CESA complex where the trio enjoyed the good food and mingled with the crowds.

MR. AMERICA--Little Mr. America, alias Andrew Riley, was chauffeured along the July 4 parade route on a two wheeler by his mother.

YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY, BABY--And so have the July 4 celebrations and parades in Port St. Lucie. Gab-N-Eatas was one of the 22 floats entered in this years parade.

UNIQUE--The North Port Men's Golf League was represented in the July 4 Parade in Port St. Lucie by a unique entry. Charley Conley and his little dog Lu attracted much attention along the parade route.

Animal Birth Control

can be as simple as ABC

Here are a few suggestions:

Take your cat or dog to a veterinarian when it reaches the age of six months. Unless you are a breeder of animals, you should have all of your dogs and cats spayed or neutered.

Impress this important surgery to your neighbors and friends who have pets.

There are more than 25 million homeless cats and more than 10 million homeless dogs in America. You can help overcome this surplus by a program of Animal Birth Control.

Vote for legislation which will control this tragedy.

Millions of cats and dogs are dying of starvation each year. Many of them are killed by motorists. Yes, YOU can help, and it can be as simple as ABC.

Are You Guilty?

ORIGINAL MINUTES–Warner Tilton Sr. of Jensen Beach looks over the minutes of the first Martin County Commission, Aug. 5, 1925. Tilton and Carroll Dunscombe, the two original commissioners living in the area, were presented with copies of the first meetings of the County Commission at Tuesday's commission meeting, marking the county's 50th anniversary.

Birthday year

Martin County born in boom

The House of Refuge on Hutchinson Island will be 100 years old in October.

Mission accomplished for Martin County to celebrate its Golden Anniversary.

The county didn't come into being until Aug. 5, 1925, but the celebration events were started early.

Celebrating coordinator Attorney Bill Scott said the events were moved up because Gov. Reuben Askew was going to be able to attend.

However, the governor cancelled his visit to the county.

Martin county was born in the boom of the 1920's.

Much of the 1920's the county was part of the North Palm Beach County and Southern St. Lucie County, and they were beginning to get tired of being governed by the two governments.

So they armed with a petition containing 2,500 names and about [illegible] on hand, a delegation of the [illegible] went to Tallahassee to create their own county.

The governor at the time was John W. Martin of Jacksonville, and the delegation gained his support, where he advised that the governor wanted a county named after him.

A member of the Golden Gate delegation said that we became Martin County and won the governor's support.

With the formation of a new county, roads were paved, swamps were drained and the Jensen Beach Bridge was finished.

In 1924 Jensen Beach residents had unsuccessfully petitioned St. Lucie County for a bridge and they finally started to build one themselves, forming the Jensen Beach Bridge District to finance and supervise construction.

Dunscombe also was one of the 10 delegates who went to Tallahassee to seek support for the new county.

The five day, 50th anniversary celebration with a barbecue last Friday at the county fairgrounds, was concluded with the Tuesday meeting of the County Commission.

The 50th anniversary of the House of Refuge is one of nine such stations commissioned by Congress in the aftermath of a hurricane that ravaged the Florida coast in the autumn of 1873. One ship was destroyed off what is now Hollywood and its crew was not found for several weeks.

The nine houses of refuge were administered by the Life Saving Service, a forerunner of the Coast Guard.

The Martin County Historical Society was founded in 1960 to restore the House of Refuge, and is now trying to raise $100,000 to restore the interior of the house.

Celebration of the nation's 200th birthday will continue throughout the year with special events scheduled in Jensen Beach and Rivera.

Development opposed

Island committee is proposed

JENSEN BEACH–Efforts to keep a 180-acre tract of land on Hutchinson Island north of Jensen Beach Causeway in its natural state is underway.

At the Martin County Conservation Alliance meeting last week, Dr. Walter Stokes said the alliance should oppose any efforts to develop the island.

Dr. Stokes, who was chairman of the "save the savannas" committee, suggested a committee composed of conservation alliance members of Martin and St. Lucie counties be appointed to keep close surveillance on the island.

The mangrove marsh on the west side of A1A must certainly will remain in its natural state, the alliance members learned.

A letter was received from the Interior Department's field supervisor in Vero Beach, Joseph D. Carroll, by acting chairman Ed Gluckler.

Carroll promised close surveillance of any development projects in environmentally endangered areas of Hutchinson Island.

"This doesn't mean they will block any development, but it does mean they accept jurisdiction to see it's done right," Gluckler commented.

Although there are no immediate plans for development of the area–120 acres is owned by Besemer Properties and 40 is owned by Arthur Dehon–owners have spoken to county personnel on how to proceed.

Carroll reported in his letter that he had visited the site and found the area to be "productive wetland, the home of many red mangrove trees, crabs, fish and wading birds."

Although we are not a regulatory agency," Carroll wrote, "it seems obvious to us that the entire Besemer Properties would come under jurisdiction of the Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protective Agency."

Hutchinson Island, in both Martin and St. Lucie counties, was under study for possible designation as an Area of Critical State Concern, which would have meant state control.

However, when both counties had plans for preservation and development, and because the Council of Governments (COG) was being set up to coordinate the plans, the state left the areas under local control.

But the first of this month when the commissions of St. Lucie County and City of Fort Pierce voted to pull out of COG, a state official said his department would be looking into the situation.

Eastern Tin, who is chief of the Bureau of Land and Water Management, said his department will be looking into the council situation.

Dr. Stokes' committee, which was composed of members from St. Lucie and Martin counties and the cities of Port St. Lucie and Fort Pierce, worked to get the savannas acquired by the state.

The vast 6,000-acre wetlands in Martin and St. Lucie counties is high on the priority list to be purchased by the state.

Two original commissioners honored

Two of the original commissioners, Warner Tilton Sr. of Jensen Beach and Carroll Dunscombe of Stuart, were present for the ceremony.

Attorney Evans Crary Jr., a Stuart native, presided at the ceremony, recalling some events in the county during the early days.

Crary pointed out some of the early activities of Dunscombe and Tilton, crediting the two with being responsible for many of the things that are now enjoyed by the residents.

Dunscombe was involved in agriculture and citrus. "One of his groves was located not too far from the courthouse," Crary noted.

He said Dunscombe became a developer and an attorney.

"Tilton was involved in many of the activities," Crary noted.

He was a prime mover in getting the bridge across the Indian River, Crary said of Tilton.

Tilton was involved in the fish business with his father-in-law, R.R. Ricou. Tilton said his father-in-law had eight fish houses in Jensen Beach.

Tilton also served on the St. Lucie Inlet Commission, School Board, and has been active in real estate and insurance in the Jensen Beach area.

His home on Indian River Drive was built in 1905, and as one of the original members of the County Commission points out, "all my children were born in the house."

Tilton and Dunscombe were presented with copies of the commission minutes of Aug. 5, 1925 when the county was created Aug. 6-7 and Aug. 10 of 1925, by Crary.

Attorney William Scott, coordinator of the five-day celebration which concluded with the commission meeting ceremony, said there was a "tremendous crowd" at the July 18 barbecue at the fairgrounds.

Scott said it was a "low key" celebration since he didn't have any money to spend, and he didn't ask for any.

DRUMSTICK–Bill Yarlin of Jensen Beach holds a plate of barbecue chicken with all the trimmings at the July 18 barbecue at Martin County Fairgrounds. The barbecue was the kick-off event for the celebration of the county's 50th anniversary.

School loses in court

JENSEN BEACH–The state Supreme Court ruled last week that Martin County School Board is not entitled to some $1.2 million in state funds.

And the state is expected to hold back another $456,000 next year, money it says it overpaid the county.

The court contended that the board should have ignored the millage rollback law that Martin County voters approved by a 7,500 to a 700 margin.

The court ruled that the board could have levied the maximum allowable 4 mills and more funds could have been raised locally.

It was pointed out that the millage rollback law placed Martin County in a different situation from 66 other counties in the state which had to raise a specified amount of money through local taxes.

Under the local act sponsored by State Representatives Chris Sergard and Jack Poorbaugh, an increase in taxes is not to exceed 10 per cent in a given year.

The bill further states:

Whenever property value increases, the millage must be reduced in direct proportion to the increase in assessment.

According to the court opinion, written by Justice Alan Sundberg, the state doesn't have to give the county the extra money because the schools didn't raise as much tax money as they could have last year.

School Supt. James Naviaska said that because of the county's legal defeat the school taxes will go up from $6.16 to $7.080 of taxable property to $8 for $1,000 which is the state maximum.

'Hard' look at county budget

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County commissioners are taking a "hard" look at the preliminary budget requests of department heads, Finance Committee Chairman Commissioner Elmer Powers said.

We are asking the department heads to rework their budgets and make reductions rather than the commission making the cuts," Powers said.

He said that the commission hopes to complete its final budget review July 29 after a couple more work sessions.

We will continue to cut operating expenses, and we hope to hold the capital outlay," Powers said.

He pointed out that the state is requiring the county to pick up a 4 per cent pay deduction that goes toward employees' retirement fund.

He said that amounts to a 4 per cent raise for all employees, and a 5 per cent increase in the county's payroll.

Powers estimates the total of that increase to be more than $200,000.

"We have asked department heads to take those factors into consideration while re-working their budgets," Powers said.

Sheriff James Holt has asked for a $1.9 million budget, and last week the sheriff said he is willing to work with the commission and part-hearing agent in order to save money on equipment and other materials used by his department.

The sheriff and most other constitutional officers purchase their equipment and supplies separately from the commission.

While commissioners make no specific suggestions for cuts in the sheriff's budget, they are expected to meet with Holt again to go over his budget.

Powers said that cuts could be made in capital outlay projects, and when first confronted with budget requests of about $9.8 million, capital outlay projects included $250,000 for library expansion, $250,000 for lease-purchase of a new administration building, and $63,000 for remodeling county buildings.

Last week commissioners went over the library proposed budget with LeRoy Hennings.

The library budget showed an average pay increase of about 10 per cent, and library expansion of 11,000 square feet.

SICK WHALE–Wrapped in a blanket, a rare False Killer Whale that beached itself on Hutchinson Island, is shown in a tank at the Environmental Studies Center. The whale was transferred to the Miami Seaquarium where it died shortly after arriving. Scientists at the seaquarium said they learned a great deal from the whale. The eyes of the whale were sent to California for study, with other parts going to Maryland.

Attempts to save whale fails

A rare False Killer Whale beached itself about a mile south of Florida Power and Light Co. nuclear plant on Hutchinson Island the morning of July 16.

The whale, which was 68 inches long and weighed an estimated 150 pounds, was rescued by Marine Patrol officer L.D. Byrd and Marvin Miller of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and took it to a salt water tank at the center.

It later was transferred to the Seaquarium, and it dies after it was placed in a Seaquarium tank.

Miller said the whale was apparently having difficulty keeping its balance because it would roll over in the tank at the center.

Golden bell to commission

JENSEN BEACH–Attorney Bill Scott, coordinator of Martin County's 50th anniversary celebration, searched for almost a month to find someone in the county who was born or married on the date the county was created–Aug. 5, 1925.

Scott had a small golden bell with a "50" on top that he would have presented to the anniversary birthday celebrant at Tuesday's County Commission meeting.

Instead, he presented the golden bell to the county commission during the brief ceremony honoring the two original county commissioners–Warner Tilton Sr. and Carroll Dunscombe.

Variety of fish taken

JENSEN BEACH—A mixed bag of fish caught has been recorded in the Spook Nook Fishing Report during the past two weeks. Trout and snook remain good with fluke and whiting picking up.

Ted Bloom caught three trout in the river, using Tauta. Fred Dushanek 3 trout and a snook on Mirro-lures. Curtis McCollan and Levi Babineau had 70 yellowtails apiece using dead shrimp. Lloyd Burt, flounder, pompano and croaker, and Walter Lindell took a 15-pound bonita from the surf.

Reeds had 42 whiting. Bob Sallazzo a big tarpon, taken on a Blue Runner. Marty Taylor one 25 pound snook. Pete Dinnelle a 27½ lb snook. George Jammerman, a 12 pound snook, and Paul Albert had 3 trout.

Mark Wright had a 7 pound snook. Ben Fulton, one 17½-lb snook. C. Roberts, a 5-lb drum, and Leon Rich had three nice snook, 20, 22 and 25 pounds.

Charlie Heitzman caught a nice 7½ lb bass in the savannas. Charlie Arenie had a snook. Paul Parr, a 19-lb snook. F. Blatterman, an 8-lb trout. Graham Williams, 3 snook totalling 38 pounds, and Jack Myers one trout.

Bob Carruthers had 6 trout, and with Bob Jr. 4 trout. Ed Wagner, 30 trout and a snook, and with Pat, 4 trout and 2 snook. Stan Lippincott had 3 trout. Pete Peterson, 2 snook and 2 trout, and together, 3 trout, 1 snook, 1 blue and 2 channel bass.

Duck White caught 7 trout and 11 fluke. Steve Steele, 4 trout, 5 fluke and a snook. Frank Morgan, 3 blues, 3 trout, 11 at 8 pounds, and a 26½ lb snook, and Al Kroll took two nice snook from the surf, 10½ lbs. and 26½ lbs.

Edith Reehl was out three times, catching 32 whiting, 45 whiting, and on the third day, 48 croakers and whiting. Dushanek Nichols and Emper, three trout to 8 pounds.

Outside on the "Strike Two" with Capt. Bill Loible, Tom Neild and Bill Reader caught a 7 foot sail, released three.

David and Lisa Hellyer and Sherry Lee Miller, trolling on "Sun Dancer" with Don Chason, had 6 grouper, 1 tilefish, 6 barracuda, 1 king and a cobia.

Trolling offshore on "Lady G" with Captain Ivan Bolinski, Roger Ritner, Tony Helms, Gary Clark and Mike Gunvordahl had a good day. Helms landed an 89 inch sail. Other catches included a 35 pound channel bass, 38 inch barracuda, some bonita and kings.

Jim Caswell and Louis Runaghe went outside on Saturday and caught 6 dolphin, using mullet.

Happy reunion

JENSEN BEACH—Five Ohio friends had a happy reunion last week at the Jeannette Avenue residences of Marie Jones and Dorothy Rechsteiner. Mary Simon of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. William Simon of Largo, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, were visitors of the Jensen Beach residents.

The five friends drove to Cape Canaveral and witnessed the launching of the Apollo spacecraft. They all stated it was a most exciting and dramatic event and a thrill of a lifetime.

HOT CHICKEN—Lee D. Hammond, volunteer with the Stuart Fire Department, holds a hot piece of chicken that he is about ready to a customer. Volunteer firemen of Martin County sponsored the barbecue at the county fairgrounds July 18, kicking off the 50th anniversary celebration of Martin County. The volunteer workman at the barbecue pit is not identified.

An energy policy

WASHINGTON—What is the energy crisis? It is simply our ever increasing reliance on a source of energy over which we have no control — Middle East oil.

And it isn't getting any better. We are now importing one million barrels of oil more a day than we were just before the Arab oil embargo.

And more and more of that oil comes from the Middle East. In February of last year, the U.S. bought only 8.4 per cent of its imported oil from the Arab states. This year, the figure is more than 25 per cent.

Yet, for every day of this almost two year period, the energy crisis has been the subject of headlines, of political speeches, of editorial cartoons, of mandates and position papers.

But we are still no closer to a solution to the energy crisis than we were before the Arab oil embargo.

Why?

The answer, unfortunately, is a simple one—no one wants to make the hard decisions required to develop a national energy policy. The administration hasn't, neither has the leadership of the Congress.

Instead, everyone has approached the problem piecemeal, saying "if we do this, perhaps we can cut a little consumption here, and if we do that we can cut a little there."

Well, you don't solve problems on a piecemeal basis. We didn't turn the world almost defenseless America of December 8, 1941, into the arsenal of the free world on a piecemeal basis.

And it wasn't a piecemeal program which enabled this country, shocked out of lethargy by the Soviet sputnik, to launch a space program which put an American on the moon first.

No, we won World War II — and we won the space race — because we made a national commitment to win. And the people, the Congress, the White House — everyone — lived up to that commitment.

That is what we need to solve the energy crisis, a national commitment.

And that means massive amounts of money — money to encourage John Q. Homeowner and William Q. Small businessman to install solar water heating equipment.

Money to spark small businesses to do research into electric cars, with batteries which will last more than a day. Money to spark research into solar-powered automobiles.

Money to develop and produce the equipment which allows our utilities to burn coal without polluting the air. Money which will spark stepped-up research into nuclear power to insure the safety of the people living near nuclear power plants.

But that means facing up to the fact we have a problem. That means facing up to the fact that we can solve our energy problems or expand our welfare rolls, that we can give everyone a tiny tax rebate or we can sponsor a $21 billion research program.

But we can't do both.

That's a lesson we should have learned from the Vietnam war. President Johnson said we could have both guns and butter — and we ended up with runaway inflation.

Unfortunately, however, it appears neither the administration nor the Congress has learned that lesson. Neither side is willing to make a national commitment to end the energy crisis. To make this nation as self-sufficient in energy as it is humanly possible to make it.

Instead, we get programs to speed up oil exploration here in the U.S., at the cost of an increase in the price of gasoline and fuel oil — even though everyone knows we will soon run out of oil.

We end up with programs which give drips and drabs for research into solar thermal and safe nuclear energy, even though everyone realizes this is the direction we will be forced to go eventually.

The result is piecemeal legislation, a little here and a little there and not a great deal anywhere.

What we need is a comprehensive national energy policy, one to which we can and will make a national commitment.

Ronald Reagan

Detente

If there's one thing that sends Soviet leaders into orbit faster than a Soyuz spacecraft could, it's the mere mention of the name of Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn.

And apparently some of President Ford's foreign policy advisers are so nervous about bruising the sensibilities of the Soviets that they have persuaded him not to meet the man who is considered by many to be the world's greatest living writer and its most profound spokesman for human freedom and morality.

There are two reasons in this.

First, that the White House refusal to see Solzhenitsyn came during the very week the United States was celebrating its independence as the haven of human liberty. And, second, that the Soviets despite their sweet talk to us about detente—carry on elsewhere a constant barrage of speeches and articles vilifying the United States and its Western allies. Presumably, in the "spirit of detente," we are expected to ignore the worldwide anti-U.S. campaign.

Solzhenitsyn was in Washington the week of July 4 for his first public appearance before an American audience. George Meany and the AFL-CIO sponsored the event, and Solzhenitsyn held spellbound an audience of 2,500 including many dignitaries.

He was frankly critical of Western policy toward the Soviet Union.

He described detente as a "senseless process of endless concessions to aggressors" which can only get worse unless we decide to become visibly firm in our dealings with the Soviets.

No doubt this kind of talk is unsettling to Secretary Henry Kissinger and his diplomatists, but Solzhenitsyn's credentials are hard to deny. He is a Russian who loves his country, but not its government. He understands certainly better than most Americans, the Russian psyche and Soviet behavior patterns.

White House representatives were conspicuously absent from the dinner. Press Secretary Ron Nessen gave out a succession of reasons why there wouldn't be a meeting between Solzhenitsyn and the President. First, the President couldn't attend the dinner because he was scheduled to be at a party for his daughter.

Then, it seems there wouldn't be a subsequent meeting because Solzhenitsyn hadn't requested one. Next, Nessen said, the President doesn't ordinarily meet with private foreign personages. He met that very week with Brazilian soccer star Pele.

Then, "For image reasons, the President does like to have some substance in his meetings. It is not clear what he would gain in a meeting with Solzhenitsyn. For substance," the President has met recently with the Strawberry Queen of West Virginia and the Maid of Cotton.

Finally, the real reason for the snub surfaced—a visit with Solzhenitsyn would violate the "spirit of detente."

Frequently, the West German government uses the phrase "detente without illusions." The phrase suggests that detente offers both hope and danger. Apparently, our government hasn't learned it yet.

If past Soviet behavior is any example, they might even have responded—indirectly—in a positive manner to a Ford-Solzhenitsyn meeting. They might have responded with some signal—however slight—of relaxation of some of the more visible signs of repression. Remember how they stepped up approvals of emigration of Russian Jews from the Soviet Union about the time the trade bill was being debated?

On the other hand, the Soviets might have flown into a rage, as the President's advisers feared, and even cancelled the latest grain deal. One thing is for certain, though. They wouldn't have stalled out of the Strategic Arms Limitation SALT II talks. The proposed agreement already tilts in their favor.

Listen to Ronald Reagan's View-point Monday through Friday at 8:45 and 4:45 on WSTU 1450 on your dial.

JENSEN BEACH—A reminder to all that the Martin County Council on Aging is having their first annual meeting July 24 at 1:30 p.m. in the Harry Hoke Room of First Federal Savings in Jensen Beach.

Dr. Archie McCallister, Martin County Health Dept. Director will speak on Geriatrics.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a qualified plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan — an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of their annual earnings, not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax sheltered, and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA we will pay interest compounded daily at our current high rates.

When you reach retirement age — any age you choose between 59½ and 70½ — you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As income each month will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits —
At retirement age — between 59½ and 70½ — you may elect to either receive the proceeds of your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years which do not exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½ —
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½, the distributions will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a Federal tax penalty equaling 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible — persons working part time or full time students with part time jobs, self employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre retirement Years (accumulation period) —
During this period of time you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate as income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period) —
When you reach retirement age — any age you select between 59½ and 70½ — the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

HR-10 PLAN FOR SELF-EMPLOYED

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 contains important new provisions for self-employed persons to set up tax-sheltered retirement funds. At the First National bank all the information is available on retirement planning for the self-employed. Come in or phone for a complete [illegible]

SETTING UP THE PLAN

If you are self-employed, the owner of an unincorporated business, doctor, lawyer, accountant or other professional person, you may set up a retirement plan. Also, members of partnerships may set up plans.

You may set up your plan at First National with your funds going into a special savings or certificate of deposit account. You may contribute up to $7,500.00 each year or 20% [illegible] whichever is less. Persons born [illegible] than $7,500.00 [illegible] $7,500.00 or 15% [illegible] $7,500.00 or 10% [illegible] $7,500.00.

TAX BENEFITS

During each year you contribute, you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposits. All interest will accumulate tax free until distributed. When you reach retirement age — any age you select between 59½ and 70½ — the proceeds are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65. If you die [illegible] your heirs will not have to pay [illegible] plan.

EMPLOYEES ARE INCLUDED

If you have employees [illegible] contribute a certain percentage [illegible] to the plan for them. Contributions to the plan for covered employees must be at the same percentage rate as [illegible] there cannot be any discrimination in the plan.

PENSION OR PROFIT SHARING PLAN

You may establish either type plan depending on your individual needs.

PENALTY FOR PREMATURE DISTRIBUTION

A premature distribution occurs when you withdraw money before age 59½ except in case of death or disability. The government will impose a 10% excise tax in addition to regular income tax.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $7,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT

Received a note from Harriet Marquardt. She reports they are at Bob and May Tiffin sitting in the delightful breezeways just chatting and having fun. They had some of Bob's fine rainbow trout for dinner. She says Bob and May have a lovely place there beautiful trees and of course, Bob's garden.

They phoned Helen and Bill Samuels but doubt whether they would get to see them. Helen burned her hand badly. Parafin caught fire while she was burning to make strawberry jam. Helen will have to heal up and the kitchen will need a complete re-doing.

Marlin and Harriet found that New York is not as we might think. New York City has lovely hills, trees and trout streams. If any of you travel thereabout, its to stay at Worlds End Campground in upper Pa. Beautiful sites, trout streams and bathing in fresh water streams.

From Worlds End they stopped for one night with Helen and Sam Neely, Salvation has a garden but it sounds like he gets kidded about its postage stamp size as Harold Leonard calls it.

While there they heard about Isabelle Reed who broke her arm.

Herman and Ester Bender received a phone call from the Vandergraafs who say it is so hot and humid in Illinois, they can't wait to get back home here. They are having a great time with the grandchildren though. Leonard says "Hello" to everyone back at Nettles Island.

Looks like Sat. night was a great night at Jai Alai for some of our fot mowers. Ward and Lorraine Pettit, betting on Quinellas all night, won over $300, and their daughter Charlene Overbaugh after playing all night winning nothing, took her last $2 and won $1,371.80 on the Big Q. She woke up the next morning and had to check her purse to make sure she wasn't dreaming. They were pretty lucky at our Friday night bingo, too.

We're having pretty good attendance at the pool therapeutic exercise class, but there is room for a lot more. Come and take advantage of an exercise class that is not only good for you, but is proving to be lots of fun. They would like to start a swimming class, too, for all of you that have been yearning to learn.

Don't forget: exercising in the pool Mon. & Thurs. evenings from 6:30-7:30.

At last, we have a bulletin board in the Rec. hall that is pleasing to the eye. I was wondering what we could cover it with when Ray Cook came along and asked if I'd like something to cover it with as he had this nice fabric just lying idle in his trailer. Well we got it up and it looks great. Thanks Ray.

Les Roe went out diving today with a couple of diving friends for the two day open lobster season. There was a number of boats near Ft. Pierce all out for lobster. They got three lobsters, one large. I found it hard to believe. I was hungry just thinking about them (as well, I'll just have to settle for some bacon. I catch off the seawall in my back yard.

STUART—Mrs. Charles Hall has been elected first vice-president of the Animal Rescue League.

Mrs. Hall has served on the League's board since 1974. She is treasurer of the Animal Birth Control. Among her other interests, Mrs. Hall is active in the First Presbyterian Church in North River Shores. She serves on the Board of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Also, Lee W. Rasch, President of the Animal Rescue League, announced today that the League has received $1,250 in anonymous donations in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor was one of the original Board members of the League and a tireless worker on the animal's behalf. Mr. Taylor still puts in a full week's work as dog catcher for the league.

The Taylors have requested that the money be used for a receiving area for incoming dogs and cats.

Mrs. Reidar Wasler has given $10 to arts alterations in a new office for the Shelter Manager and volunteers who will be assisting in office work.

'Oliver' contest winner

STUART—Richard Carr, director of the Barn Theatre production of "Oliver", announced today that Philip Sloan had submitted the winning design in the poster contest sponsored by the Martin County Players.

Philip who is 9 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sloan of Hobe Sound. His design will be used on the posters and the program cover for the musical "Oliver" which will be presented August 1-2-3, 8-9-10, 15-16-17 at the Barn Theatre on East Ocean Blvd.

Philip and his parents will be the guests of the Barn on the opening night of "Oliver". He will also receive three season tickets for the 1975-76 series of productions at the Barn.

Legal Tender for AUCTION AUGUST 16, 1975 in the SAVANNAS Shopping Center

PICK UP THE LOOT—Shoppers who save their Jensen-Savannas Bucks can bid on all the prizes in the window of the vacant store next to Bruner's Sporting Goods in the Savannas Shopping Center, and Harold Haug, Ace Hardware. Mike Fa., Bruner's Sporting Goods, Irene Hunter, Jane Morris Dress Shop, and George Anderson, Able Carpets, helped to move the sign in front of the store Tuesday. Bucks savers will be able to bid on the prizes at an auction Saturday, August 16 in the Savannas Shopping Center. Ten Merchants from that center and the Jensen Beach Plaza across the street are participating in the campaign.

The four-day "mini-week" vacation in the Bahamas was donated to the merchant prize list by Jensen Beach Travel. It includes a round trip aboard the MS Grand Bahama, snacks on sailings, luggage handling in West Palm Beach, round trip transfers between the ship and hotel, four nights accomodations at the Grand Bahama Hotel, a welcome rum swizzle on arrival, and complimentary greens fees on the championship golf course.

Prizes will be on display at the empty store next to Bruner's in the Savannas Shopping Center.

The prize list also includes a nine-piece copper bottom stainless steel cookware-ware cookware set, a wheel-barrow, a Dial-a-rain oscillating lawn sprinkler, a ⅜ inch electric drill, a Wilson golf bag, a two-man rubber boat, a rotary lawnmower, a deluxe chaise lounge and matching lawn chair, a lawn spreader, a 10-foot by 20-foot carpet of outdoor grass, and a ten-speed bike.

Also, choice of color and price in a sport jacket, dress shirt, man's belt, six pairs of socks, sport shirt and six pairs of Hanes briefs.

And, three portable radios, a three-speed 20 inch fan, a Lazy-Boy rocker-recliner in Herculon fabric, and a six-drawer lingerie chest.

Food is not forgotten, and those Jensen-Savannas bucks" can be used to bid on five barrels of Maryland Fried Chicken, five ten-dollar gift certificates, or eight $25 bags of groceries of the winners' choice.

JENSEN BEACH—Want a trip to the Bahamas, a ten-speed bike, recliner, 3-speed fan, 2-man rubber boat, golf bag, or any one of dozens of prizes? Just save those "Jensen-Savannas bucks," and bid on your prize at the auction on Saturday, August 16, at 5 p.m.

Jensen merchants offer customers million bucks

JENSEN BEACH—With sirens wailing and lights flashing, Sheriff Jim Holt and his deputies assisted the local shopping center merchants in kicking off a sales promotion, delivering a million dollars in "Jensen-Savannas Bucks" to Community Federal Savings office next to the shopping centers on Commercial Street Tuesday.

The money was the keynote in a six-week promotion of shopping in Jensen Beach that begins today. Participating merchants in the Savannas Shopping Center and the Jensen Beach Plaza will give a "Buck" for each dollar spent in their stores.

At the end of the six weeks, on August 16 at 5 p.m., a giant auction will be held at which people can bid on a variety of prizes that will be offered. A professional auctioneer, Maurie Fulton, of Vero Beach, will conduct the auction at which shoppers can bid on the prizes with their "Jensen-Savannas Bucks."

Local merchants include Winn Dixie Supermarket, Eagle Family Discount Store, Tradewinds Restaurant, Leon's Furniture, Man From KIRK Men's Fashions, all in the Jensen Beach Plaza, and Ace Hardware, Bruner Sporting Goods, Western Auto, Able Carpet and Jane Morris Fashions of Savannas Shopping Center.

Merchants will match, dollar for dollar, purchases in their stores. For every dollar spent the shopper will receive one "Jensen Savannas Buck".

During the six week promotion, the merchants plan to offer "red hot specials" to encourage sales, offering a different special each week. The specials will be advertised in a promotional page in The Mirror, and in the stores.

Night meetings out according to mayor

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, Tuesday, lashed out at those complaining of City Council meetings being held during morning hours, thereby preventing the younger working residents of the community from attending the sessions.

Although the councilpersons had considered holding night meetings olely to benefit the working residents, these have not been held and most likely won't be until the Mayor sees some proof of interest.

"The night meeting idea was tested at the CESA building several weeks ago when the Charter Revision Committee held their public hearing on the first draft of the proposed city charter," the Mayor said.

"That meeting was well publicized and extremely important to those interested in the future of their city."

"The room was filled to capacity that night, but, there was little show of younger residents," he said.

Another instance cited by the Mayor, was the Monday night ordinance review meetings held weekly at the City Hall.

"Here again, these are the ordinances which govern your city, and yet every seat in this room was vacant except for those of us working on the review and members of the press," the Mayor said, adding, some of those meetings lasted as late as 11 p.m.

The Mayor went on to point out that those who attend night meetings have many to attend, including press members and implied the night meetings would be considered only if and when the residents show a genuine interest in their community.

Work progresses

CESA directors approve changes

PORT ST. LUCIE--The CESA Board of Directors last Friday approved the recommendation of the building committee to include an additional 744 sq. ft. to the 2,185 sf. foot expansion now under construction.

The additional footage will provide a storage room for furniture and equipment, a workroom for maintenance equipment, a blower room for the air conditioner equipment, and room for a small gift shop.

The change order will increase the cost of the expansion by $8,483, according to CESA President Dick Lundin.

The gift shop, 22' by 12' will open directly into the lounge, while the lawn maintenance equipment room, 10' by 12', will have an outside access.

Just one week before the Board of Directors approved three change orders amounting to $1500, which included adding dry wall to the restrooms and the s-s wall of the existing building and the addition of 100 feet of drainfield to the septic tank.

The 2,829 square foot expansion, the dry wall, and the additional 100 feet of drainfield will bring the total cost of construction to $47,237.

Richard K. Davis Contractors of Fort Pierce has the construction contract. Construction got underway last week and should be completed within 60 days, according to Davis.

The CESA addition will include a large lounge or meeting room, a snack bar, two restrooms with an outside access, the gift shop and the storage rooms.

Grimms Heating and Air Conditioning was awarded the contract to install the air conditioning for a cost of $10,132 on July 15, according to a CESA spokesman.

Grimms submitted the second low bid for the project.

Troy Air Conditioning submitted a low bid of $7,495, however, the equipment offered did not meet the specifications set forth by CESA architect, George Asklof.

Bids for the project include such items as three five-ton air conditioning units, a smoke withdrawal unit and the wiring for a public address system. The PA system will be installed at a later date when additional funds are available.

The three air-conditioning units will allow flexibility of usage depending on the number of people using the facility.

Both bids will be accompanied by bid bonds and performance bonds, according to Asklof.

The expansion of the CESA Community Center is expected to relieve some of the over-crowded conditions which exist in the area.

$500 DONATION--The situation could hardly have looked brighter for CESA President Dick Lundin last Friday afternoon when he was on hand to accept a $500 check from the Port St. Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association President Al Bowman for the CESA Building Fund. Lundin, who is serving his second year as CESA president, is seeing the fruits of his labors materialize. Construction on the 2844 square foot addition got underway last week with the completion date scheduled for sixty days. Pictures above, left to right, are Dick Lundin, Tom Hillegas, CESA treasurer, Al Bowman, and CESA secretary and acting vice president, Strelsa Schreiber. The check presentation was made during a meeting of the Presidents Council at the CESA building.

Demos kick off telethon with splash party

PORT ST. LUCIE--The South St. Lucie County Democratic Club will get the Democratic National Telethon off to an early start this Saturday, July 26, with a "Splash and Cocktail Party" at the Sandpiper Bay Pool from 2 to 5 p.m.

Tickets for the affair are going fast, but some may still be obtained by calling Bette Grossman at 878-6465 or Larry Johnston, 465-8340. All net proceeds will go to kick off programs of the National Democratic Committee.

Immediately after the party, a foursome comprised of Shirley Walker, chairman of the St. Lucie County Democratic Executive Committee, Betty Thibedeau, Karen and Larry Johnston will proceed to West Palm Beach where they will man phones during the Telethon which goes on the air at 9 p.m. Any person calling in a pledge from St. Lucie County may speak to any of the four localites if they so desire.

James Bass, St. Lucie County Tax Appraiser, spoke to the group at the July 16th meeting, answering questions re property values and how assessments are determined.

I-95 is getting closer

PORT ST. LUCIE--Construction of another segment of I-95, from the north St. Lucie County line to Indrio Road, is starting next week, if the necessary paper work is completed, according to DOT resident engineer John Saxon.

A team of agents is hard at it working on right-of-way procurements and relocations for the next leg of the interstate, set to head generally southeastward from Indrio Road, approximately one mile west of Johnson Road and cross Kings Highway, proceeding southeastward crossing Orange Avenue one half mile east of the Kings Highway Orange Avenue intersection, proceeding southeastward to intersect with SR 70, three quarters of a mile east of Kings Highway.

According to Saxon, the status of this project is "excellent."

Then where? Generally southward, with perhaps a southwestward swing, status undetermined.

Chuck Busbey, district public relations officer, says that the corridor through Martin County, location and design have received approval from the Federal Highway Administration.

However, no preliminary work on relocation, rights-of-way, etc. has been done to date.

Saxon said that, although it may sound easy to the lay person, getting a highway from initial idea to traffic is a "complicated, gobbledy gook of a mess."

He feels the lay person perhaps realizes the complexities of all of the ordinary responsibilities, including surveying, drawing, procuring rights-of-way, engineering and construction, but has little idea that the all important safety features, environmental aspects and funding are determinant factors.

Interstate systems are 90 per cent federally funded.

I-95 through Florida has been a long time a-coming and it seems to have a long way to go, but it is getting closer.

COG will meet August 7 in PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE--The St. Lucie River Council of Governments will meet August 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, who has been making every effort to pull the organization back together, said Tuesday he and City Administrator Elmer Cox would meet with Fort Pierce Mayor Ben Bryant and the Fort Pierce City Manager for a luncheon this week to discuss COG prior to the scheduled August 7 meeting.

Mayor Sharpe said he has also contacted St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Willie McCain to persuade him to reconsider his organization's withdrawal from COG.

Councilman Larry Kimmel, who has attended many of the COG meetings, recommended the group take steps to insure someone prepares a solid agenda.

"This is the best means of controlling the meetings and building up an interest in what should be a very worthwhile organization for all," Kimmel said, noting the water skiing topic should never have been brought out during the last meeting.

"That was a local problem and should have been handled by the City of Port St. Lucie," he said.

Commodore Reeb dances the hula

PORT ST. LUCIE--After much deliberation by the board of judges, Commodore Mike Reeb was judged the best hula-hula dancer at the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club Boat-a-cade to Francis Langford's Outrigger Restaurant on Saturday.

Commodore and Mrs. Reeb led the 16 boats and 160 members and guests to the resort, where Fleet Captain Bill Holzapfel, assisted by Bill Hoover, saw to getting everyone docked.

The Hawaiian costume contest was won by Thornton and Maxine Smith and Mary Jacobi another difficult decision, according to the judges.

The 50-50 was split five ways by Gayle Davis, Helen Jeffrey, Walter Buchroeder, George Pullis and Charles Swan.

Chairmen for the affair were Bob and Mary Clemens, assisted by Paris and Gayle Davis, George and Terry Pullis, George and Mary Jacobi, Larry and Shirley Hawersaat.

Cocktails, roast chicken and chicken chow mein were enjoyed by all, according to George Lindberg, publicity director for the club. He expressed appreciation to Outrigger Marina's Robert Holley who "went out of his way assisting the committee in its efforts to make the event successful." He also cited back-up-man Bill Hinchcliffe's "great job assisting in the temporary boat break-down."

Classy 76 takes fifth place

PORT ST. LUCIE--Smooth playing Tom Chapman toured the Saints Course of the Sandpiper Bay Country Club Thursday in a classy 76, but when the Sb Men's Golf Association handicappers had adjusted all of the day's scores to net, the Stableford two-ball champions for the day were Don Estes and Fred Doscher while Tom and partner August Ruppell had to settle for a fifth place finish. The leading teams:

Estes and Doscher, 75; Ed Wilcox and Charles Swan, 73; Woody Roberts and Walter Wilmas, 71; Woody Dunlop and Myron Thomas, Chapman and Ruppell, Al Van Nostrand and Larry Lorentson, 70; Bill LaCour and Paul Lewallen, 69.

Finance committee to meet Friday

PORT ST. LUCIE--Councilwoman-Treasurer Lolita Kernohan announced Tuesday the City Finance Committee will meet Friday, July 25, at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

The committee is expected to review the latest draft of the city's 1975-76 budget.

Council cut workshop sessions

PORT ST. LUCIE--Only one monthly workshop session will be held by the Port St. Lucie City Council during the months of August and September, according to an announcement issued Tuesday.

"Due to vacations the City Council will hold a workshop session on the first Tuesday only for the next two months," Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said.

The Council will hold their next workshop session July 29, August 5, and Sept. 2, 1975.

Meeting time is 9 a.m. at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Regular sessions will be held on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

Summer handicap matches played

PORT ST. LUCIE--The SLCC Ladies Golf Association played first round matches in the Summer Handicap July 15. There were only 5 matches played, with all the rest Byes. The second round will encompass the whole field.

Victorious were: Inez Bowman over Audrey Docas, Ellese Evans over Angie LoBrutto, Pearl Roberts over Cynthia Lorentsen, Jane Blackmond over Terry Pullis, and Sylva Barnwell over Esther Wilcox.

Variety of fish taken

JENSEN BEACH–A mixed bag of fish caught has been recorded in the Snook Nook Fishing Report during the past two weeks. Trout and snook remain good, with fluke and whiting picking up.

Ted Bloom caught three trout in the river, using Touts. Fred Dushanek, 3 trout and a snook on Mirro-lures. Curtis McCollan and Levi Babineau had 70 yellowtails apiece using dead shrimp. Lloyd Burt, flounder, pompano and croaker; and Walter Lindell took a 15-pound bonita from the surf.

Reeds had 42 whiting; Bob Sallazzo, a big tarpon, taken on a Blue Runner; Marty Taylor, one 25-pound snook; Pete Dinselle, a 27½ lb snook; George Jammerman, a 12-pound snook; and Paul Albert had 3 trout.

Mark Wright had a 7-pound snook; Ben Fulton, one 17½-lb snook; C. Roberts, a 5-lb drum; and Leon Rich had three nice snook, 20, 22 and 25 pounds.

Charlie Heitzman caught a nice 7½ lb bass in the savannas. Charlie Arenie had a snook; Paul Pare, a 19-lb snook; F. Blatterman, an 8-lb trout; Graham Williams, 3 snook totalling 39 pounds; and Jack Myers, one trout.

Bob Carruthers had 6 trout, and with Bob, Jr., 4 trout; Ed Wagner, 30 trout and a snook, and with Pat, 4 trout and 2 snook; Stan Lippincott had 3 trout; Pete Peterson, 2 snook and 2 trout; and together, 3 trout, 1 snook, 1 blue and 2 channel bass.

Duck White caught 7 trout and 11 fluke; Steve Steele, 4 trout, 5 fluke and a snook; Frank Morgan, 3 blues, 3 trout (1 at 8 pounds), and a 26½-lb snook; and Al Kroll took two nice snook from the surf, 10¾ lbs. and 26¼ lbs.

Edith Recht was out three times, catching 32 whiting, 45 whiting, and on the third day, 48 croakers and whiting; Dushanek, Nichols and Emper, three trout to 8 pounds.

Outside on the "Strike Two" with Capt. Bill Loehle, Tom Neild and Bill Reader caught a 7 foot sail, released three.

David and Lisa Hellyer and Sherry Lee Miller, trolling on "Sun Dance" with Don Chason, had 6 grouper, 1 tilefish, 6 barracuda, 1 king and a cobia.

Trolling offshore on "Lady G" with Captain Ivan Bolinski, Roger Ritner, Tony Helms, Gary Clark and Mike Gunvordahl had a good day. Helms landed an 89 inch sail. Other catches included a 35-pound channel bass, 38 inch barracuda, some bonita and kings.

Jim Caswell and Louis Runiagno went outside on Saturday and caught 6 dolphin, using mullet.

Happy reunion

JENSEN BEACH–Five Ohio friends had a happy reunion last week at the Jeannette Avenue residences of Marie Jones and Dorothy Richwine. Mary Simon of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. William Simon of Largo, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, were visitors of the Jensen Beach residents.

The five friends drove to Cape Canaveral and witnessed the launching of the Apollo spacecraft. They all stated it was a most exciting and dramatic event and a thrill of a lifetime.

HOT CHICKEN–Lee D. Hammond, volunteer with the Stuart Fire Department, holds a hot piece of chicken that he is about ready to a customer. Volunteer firemen of Martin County sponsored the barbecue at the county fairgrounds July 18, kicking off the 50th anniversary celebration of Martin County. The volunteer workman at the barbecue pit is not identified.

Legal Tender for AUCTION AUGUST 16, 1975 in the SAVANNAS Shopping Center

BE SURE

CLAIM THE LOOT–Shoppers who save their Jensen-Savannas Bucks can bid at all the prizes in the window of the vacant store next to Bruner's Sporting Goods in the Savannas Shopping Center, and Harold Haug, Ace Hardware, Mike Paul Bruner's Sporting Goods Irene Hunter, Jane Morris Dress Shop, and George Anderson, Able Carpets, helped to move the sign in front of the store Tuesday. Bucks savers will be able to bid on the prizes at an auction Saturday, August 16, in the Savannas Shopping Center. Ten Merchants from that center and the Jensen Beach Plaza across the street are participating in the campaign.

The four-day "mini-week" vacation to the Bahamas was donated to the merchant prize list by Jensen Beach Travel. It includes a round trip aboard the MS Grand Bahama, snacks on cruises, luggage handling in West Palm Beach, round trip transfers between the ship and hotel, four nights accomodations at the Grand Bahama Hotel, a welcome rum swizzle on arrival and complimentary greens fees on the championship golf course.

Prizes will be on display at the empty store next to Bruner's in the Savannas Shopping Center.

The prize list also includes a one-piece copper bottom stainless steel Revere-ware cookware set, a wheel-barrow, a Dial-a-rain oscillating lawn sprinkler, a ¾ inch electric drill, a Wilson golf bag, a two-man rubber boat, a rotary lawnmower, a deluxe chaise lounge and matching lawn chair, a lawn spreader, a 10-foot by 20-foot carpet of outdoor grass, and a ten-speed bike.

Also, choice of color and price in a sport jacket, dress shirt, man's belt, six pairs of socks, sport shirt and six pairs of Hanes briefs.

And, three portable radios, a three-speed 20 inch fan, a Lazy-Boy rocker-recliner in Herculon fabric, and a six-drawer lingerie chest.

Food is not forgotten, and those "Jensen-Savannas bucks" can be used to bid on five barrels of Maryland Fried Chicken, five ten-dollar gift certificates, or eight $25 bags of groceries of the winners' choice.

JENSEN BEACH–Want a trip to the Bahamas, a ten-speed bike, recliner, 3-speed fan, 2-man rubber boat, golf bag, or any one of dozens of prizes? Just save those "Jensen-Savannas bucks," and bid on your prize at the auction on Saturday, August 16, at 5 p.m.

Jensen merchants offer customers million bucks

JENSEN BEACH–With sirens wailing and lights flashing, Sheriff Jim Holt and his deputies assisted the local shopping center merchants in kicking off a sales promotion, delivering a million dollars in "Jensen-Savannas Bucks" to Community Federal Savings office next to the shopping centers on Commercial Street Tuesday.

The money was the keynote in a six-week promotion of shopping in Jensen Beach that begins today. Participating merchants in the Savannas Shopping Center and the Jensen Beach Plaza will give a "Buck" for each dollar spent in their stores.

At the end of the six weeks, on August 16 at 5 p.m., a giant auction will be held at which people can bid on a variety of prizes that will be offered. A professional auctioneer, Maurie Fulton, of Vero Beach, will conduct the auction at which shoppers can bid on the prizes with their "Jensen-Savannas Bucks."

Local merchants include Winn Dixie Supermarket, Eagle Family Discount Store, Tradewinds Restaurant, Leon's Furniture, Man From KIRK Men's Fashions, all in the Jensen Beach Plaza, and Ace Hardware, Bruner Sporting Goods, Western Auto, Able Carpet and Jane Morris Fashions of Savannas Shopping Center.

Merchants will match, dollar for dollar, purchases in their stores. For every dollar spent the shopper will receive one "Jensen Savannas Buck".

During the six week promotion, the merchants plan to offer "red hot specials" to encourage sales, offering a different special each week. The specials will be advertised in a promotional page in The Mirror, and in the stores.

JENSEN BEACH – SAVANNAS BUCKS

Konned by the Klan

BY ALICE HICKEY
AND DICK CAMPBELL

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Grand Dragon of the Invisible Knights of the Ku Klux Klan admitted there was no such animal, and found that he has been konned.

John Alder, who has variously been a member of the American Party and petitioner for the party's efforts to be on the ballot next year in Florida, a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and grand dragon of the Invisible Knights, and stalwart conservatist, is confused.

The American Party wants none of him. The Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America, Florida Division, says he isn't the head of Florida, adding he was duped.

Then, he began issuing news releases and the world began tumbling down around him.

John Paul Rogers rode as fast as Paul Revere to get to Port St. Lucie. He's the real grand dragon. He told Alder that he had been had. Alder then called his latest (and possibly last) news conference and admitted that he had bought his grand dragonship, and the people took his money.

Real grand dragon Rogers says it is a plot to turn people against the klan. He even went on the phone to newspapers to tell them so.

"Do not give money to anyone claiming to represent the klan," Rogers advised the public.

Now that sounds like a good idea.

Alder, who has been variously reported as 21 and 22 years old, "withdrew" from the American Party when leaders objected to him mixing his klan with the party, calling it "just as wishy washy as the Republicans and the Democrats."

He is not sure what party he will belong to now, but thinks he'll join the "Independent Party."

In a living room filled with the flags of the Klan, the United States, the Confederacy and his grand-dragonship, sporting little robed klan statues, Alder talked about his past and his beliefs.

He plans to attend Indian River Community College this fall, taking college level courses.

At the age of 14, he set up the George Wallace campaign in Pearl River, N.Y., all by himself.

In later years he belonged to the Carl McIntyre March for Victory, the New York State Conservative Party, the National States Rights Party and the KKK.

Alder believes that the KKK will be a powerful political party by 1980 that will apply "real medicine instead of the sugar-coated pills our government hands out."

He is against the left-wing press, Red China, busing, and says the government tasks out of both sides of its mouth.

He "firmly believes" that "harmony between the races" can best be achieved by segregation, adding there cannot be peace as long as black and white are forced in mix.

He added that the KKK is more patriotic than the John Birch Society, saying, "The KKK will do something about the problems, not just sip tea and wear a birch leaf."

ALDER--John Alder was "grand dragon for a day" after he received word from a mail-order [illegible] he could find out there was no such [illegible] Empire. He believes in many things, including the Ku Klux Klan, segregation, and George Wallace. He is against the government, tied China, the American Party, the Republican Party, the Democratic Party, busing and left-wingers.

DOG DAYS--Most folks have to suffer through dog days--the hot, sultry period between mid-July and September. But most dogs, like this well-fed Pug, have it made. They sleep most of the day under a shade tree, but there are occasions when man will interrupt an afternoon snooze just to take a picture. But then, that's a dog's day.

New Jersey welcomed George and Mary Lindberg back for a few weeks. The Lindbergs visited their son Charles and his family on Long Island and their son George and his family in Middle Ferry, N.J. Mary said one of her "musts" when she goes back North is a visit to Radio City. They were guests of honor at several dinners and celebrated birthdays of grandchildren. Mary and George also participated in the Elks Club July 4th parade in Ridgefield Park, N.J., but said there is no place like home on Arbor Ave.

Larry and Edith Huber had as their guests in their new home at 1433 S.E. Santuree Rd. their son and his wife, Pete and Cindy and their children John, Mike and Susan. The younger Hubers live in Bowie, Maryland, a suburb of Washington, D.C., where Pete works on Capitol Hill for the Architect of the Capitol.

The children loved the ocean. One intriguing adventure for the boys was searching for and trying to catch chameleons at the home of Edith's cousin, Mrs. John Linton of Thumb Point Drive South Ft. Pierce. The chameleons were not cooperative but they did catch one baby and held it by the tail which soon broke away to hide again.

Mrs. William Brennan and daughter Patricia of Lakehurst Drive returned to Port St. Lucie this past week from a wonderful seven week vacation to Europe. Mrs. Brennan and Pat flew from West Palm Beach to New York then on to Frankfurt, Germany to visit her daughter and sister, Mary Jane and her husband 1st Lt. Michael Sullivan of the Air Force, and their new daughter Michelle.

The Brennans visited the Austrian Alps (Garmisch area), Heidleberg, East and West Berlin, and Munich. They visited wine festivals, cheese factories and saw wooden shoes being made, but the best sight of all was when they returned to Florida and home.

Jensen Beach featured in Indian River Life

JENSEN BEACH--A large cruiser docked alongside the Outrigger Restaurant is the cover picture of the July edition of Indian River Life Magazine, as the editors compiled an edition on Jensen Beach.

On the inside, the tri-county slick magazine features Jensen Beach in a story by The Mirror editor, Dick Campbell, and a story on Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach campus by Ann Stoddard.

There is also a story on the women's shops in Jensen Beach, featuring the Jane Morris Dress Shop, Neptune Casual Shop and the Outrigger Fashion and Gift Shop.

Two free lectures

STUART--Two free lectures will be presented in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart at 8 p.m. on July 30 and 31 re the benefits of transcendental meditation as taught by Maharishi Mehash Yogi.

Sponsored by the International Meditation Society, a non profit education organization, the speakers will be Jean Gambee and Dagne Jochem.

STATION WORK--Work started last week on the site for a service station on the southeast corner of Commercial Street and Skyline Drive. Martin County Building Department issued a building permit with a total value of $16,000 to contractor Edmund Johnson. The building will be 11 4-foot by 30-foot, and owner of the station is Indian River Oil Co., Inc., of Fort Pierce.

'Get acquainted picnic' success

JENSEN BEACH--Members of Martin County Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, who attended the July 17 Get Acquainted Picnic on Stuart Causeway, decided to continue the monthly affairs during the summer.

The third Thursday of the month is the chapter's regular meeting date, therefore, the next picnic will be on August 21, again on the Stuart Causeways from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Everyone brings their own food and drink.

Ten states of origin were represented by the more than 40 persons attending last week's picnic. They included Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Maryland and Tennessee.

Ernest Curwen, vice president of the local chapter, introduced the travel chairman, Mrs. Jill Morris. She announced that trips to popular Florida attractions will be planned as members make their desires known. Both one-day trips by chartered bus, and overnight trips can be arranged.

Regular business meetings will be resumed on Oct. 16 in the Stuart Woman's Club. Car pools will be organized for this and subsequent meetings.

Hoffmans visit children

PORT ST. LUCIE--Carl and Lillian Hoffman of St. James Drive returned recently from a vacation visiting their son Ted, his wife Olympia and two grandchildren Greg and Janine, who live in Head of the Harbor, Long Island, New York.

While there, they were happy to see Lillian's sisters, Wanda Stocke of New York City and Rose Ziegler from Tarrytown, New York, as well as many friends in that area.

They then went on to see another son Robert and his wife Marie who live in York Beach, Maine, where they took in Bar Harbor and the White Mountains.

"All beautiful country," says Lillian, "but we're very happy to be back in beautiful Port St. Lucie."

Captain gets new assignment

JENSEN BEACH–Captain John D. McMahon, son of Mrs. Helen Wells of 93 Elmar Drive, Jensen Beach, has graduated from the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Captain McMahon received instruction in communicative skills, international relations, manpower management, resources and responsibilities, preparing junior officers for command staff duties. He is being assigned to Carswell AFB, Tex., for duty as an education and training officer.

The captain, a 1963 graduate of Dulaney High School in Luthersville, Md., received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Maryland where he was commissioned in 1967 through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He earned a M.S. degree in 1973 at Troy State University.

Card party next Tuesday

RIO–The Rio Civic Club's next card party is set for 1 p.m. Tuesday, July 29.

Table prize winners at the last party were Grace Lewis, Marion Davis, Lillian Hawarring, Mary Grant, Mary Stockwell, Helen Shomer, Gen Heasley, Rae Zajic and Emily Heiderschied.

Mrs. Maude Connell won the door prize.

Hostesses for the affair were Jo Sutorius, Freda Schlemm, Esther Wilson, Ethel Kuman, Grace Lewis and Mary Grant.

Everyone who likes to play cards is invited to the Civic Club parties.

Winning is only half the fun.

There's a lot more to Jai-Alai than the thrill of winning a Perfecta, Quiniela, or Double.
There is the game itself.
Bouncing balls careening off walls at 150 miles an hour.
The greatest athletes in the game climbing half way up a wall to retrieve a seemingly unretrievable shot.
The heart-pounding excitement of the "do-or-die" try.
From the moment the players step onto the court you're sure to remain on the edge of your seat.
Come out today and find out what Jai-Alai is really all about.

NOW: BIG Q.

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES

334-4946

Things have slowed down here in the park and my letters from our owners away have ceased coming in, so the news has to be less...sorry

Elly Harrison of lot 182 entertained guests recently. Her granddaughter Dina Rossi spent two weeks. Then Dina's parents came and Elly's daughter Gale and her husband Richard, also Elly's sisters Tracy and Lora spent the weekend, mostly poolside. They are all from Miramar Florida

I did receive a lovely letter from Betty Scott of lot 356, telling that she is hard at work with the rest of her fellow bicentennial committee. Seems they have had wonderful support from just everyone on their varied activities. She offered some good ideas for our project. Thanks, Betty.

Mac and Jean McCabe of lot 157 write they have visited John and Ruth in Alma, Michigan, where they also spent two days with Peggy and John Fleming. En route, they stopped at Thorntown, Indiana, to have some work done on their trailer at the factory located there. Now they are on their way home via the Poconos, and will visit some friends along the way.

I am happy to report a wedding of two of our owners on June 9th. Helen Stumpf of lot 383 to Fred Pascoe of lot 317. Their many friends here extend congratulations and best wishes. They were married in Michigan.

Art and Betty Nagy of lot 236 entertained Iris Torres recently. She is a teacher in the same school where Betty works in administration.

Fred and Doris Heinritz, long time guests of the park and friends of the Longs, Nagys and Smiths, are on a California tour, having a grand time.

Ann Reichenbach of lot 350 has been ill with a throat infection, but is recovering nicely now. Her son Curt is here visiting for a month and that is good medicine.

Weekend owners who visited were Mr. and Mrs. W. Porter of lot 508, Mr. and Mrs. J. Falls, lot 509, the Cahills and guests, lot 510, all of Happy Corner.

Al and Barbara Greenberg of lot 84 will be home for an indefinite visit.

Helen Allison of lot 123 spent the first week of her three week vacation alone. Daughter Betty and her husband Art took a short trip to places on the west coast they wanted to re-visit. Now all three will be home on lots 123-236 for the remainder of their vacation.

Good News – Marietta Brocklebank of lot 386 had her operation and is now at home with her daughter in St. Louis, Mo. She has a long recovery ahead of her, and hopes to be back here around September.

We are happy to see Maureen Holmes has recovered from her accident sufficiently enough to ride around the park in her electric cart for some fresh air.

Puppy week at the shelter

STUART–It's Puppy Week at the Shelter.

Thirty one puppies are looking for homes. Twenty-six have had their puppy shots. No pure breds but all pure in heart. Part poodles, part beagle, part of anything you care to name. Call the Shelter at 287-5753 or stop in Monday through Saturday from 10 until 4. Sundays the Shelter is open from 1 until 4.

New labs at Academy

Howe-In-the-Hills–Howey Academy science students will receive specialized instruction in a brand new complex of laboratories and classrooms when the fall term opens September 7.

This central Florida co-ed college preparatory school offers lab arrangements for both the study of chemistry, physics and biology-general science. Each lab is supplemented by a carpeted classroom to reduce noise levels, and the experiment center includes every modern safety feature both required and non-required.

Constructed last spring, the science complex offers the latest design in experimental facilities for both individual and small group learning. Separate experiment areas accommodate from one to four students at formica topped centers, which provide natural gas, water outlets and drainage sinks.

'A' average for local girl

UNTY BUILDING"--A plumbing contractor has filed a $4,068 suit against the ners of this building, Executive Plaza, Inc., that the Martin County Commission planning to purchase for $1,025,000. The commissioners want to purchase the ree-story building for administrative offices

Contractor seeks plumbing cost

ENSEN BEACH--A plumbing con- has filed a suit in Martin County Court seeking collection of owed allegedly owed by Executive Inc., he building the County ners on plans to purchase as a new inistrative office building

he lawsuit will not delay the hase of the building County ners Steve Calvert said Monday. Calvert & Dorsey & Son Plumbing, Inc. of Sound filed the suit ording to the suit, owners of the ding paid in full the original ding contract price of $20,298 on building but then requested ges in the plumbing that cost an tional $4,068.94.

he filed with the suit was a legal ument that places a lien on the property, and the suit asks that the court take charge of the property and sell it to satisfy any debt owed to the plumbing contractor.

A lien on the property prevents its sale by the owner, but Calvert said a bond posted in the amount of the lien would release the lien.

"Then they (owner and plumber) could fight over the $4,000," Calvert said.

County commissioners are considering purchase of the 23,600-square foot, three-story building at Johnson and Kindred Avenues for $1,025,000 and are considering budgeting $250,000 for lease-purchasing.

No public hearing date has been set for purchase of the building, but it is expected to be held in late August.

House of Refuge

Boat parade is planned

ENSEN BEACH--A boat parade on Indian River Saturday, Oct. 18, will mark the 200th anniversary of the House of Refuge.

Mrs. Janet Hutchinson, director of the County Historical Society and the museums--House of Refuge and Elliott Museum--said local boat owners have begun plans for the parade.

It is the consensus that the parade be limited to boats drawing four feet or less," Benedict said, "and we are asking those taking part to check on application forms whether they can anchor south of the House of Refuge to form the backdrop for the planned ceremony ashore or only to join the parade and keep going.

There are prizes within the House of Refuge--pound are going to be short a trophy," Mrs. Hutchinson said. "At the ceremonies there will want to watch the parade of boats, so we have decided to have speeches to about a minute or two."

Secretary of State Bruce Smathers will launch the museum on its second century of service, Mrs. Hutchinson added.

The ceremony will include a salute by all boats as the 50-star dress flag is hoisted by the Halpatiokee Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Society president Ross Philbrick will present the first copy of the Society's first publication--the History of Martin County to Mrs. Marshall Martin of Jacksonville, sister-in-law of John Martin, the Florida governor for whom the county was named 50 years ago.

The House of Refuge's Lyle gun will be fired by keeper Richard Carr, and Mrs. William Clark Shepard will be official hostess for the day.

Our immediate needs are for boats and bottles," Mrs. Hutchinson said. "We want as many boat owners (up to four feet draft) as possible to let us know that they will take part in the 200th anniversary boat parade. Also, donations of one gallon empty clorox bottles to mark the channel so no boat goes aground, are needed.

Although the House of Refuge has been in the rescuing business for 99 years, Oct. 18 is one day when we hope it won't be necessary to stop everything to give aid and comfort to sailors in distress," she concluded.

Savannas public hearing is set

JENSEN BEACH--The state will hold a public hearing on the savannas purchase at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27, in the St. Lucie County Courthouse in Fort Pierce.

Gene Langston, of the Department of Natural Resources, said the Fort Pierce hearing will be the only one the state holds.

There have been other hearings but they were informal and were arranged by local officials of Martin and St. Lucie counties.

Langston pointed out that most property owners are aware the state is interested in saving the savannas, but many don't know the scope of the project.

The state recently sent letters to 223 property owners in the savannas, asking whether they would be willing to donate or sell their property.

Langston said the state received about 35 replies.

The state is interested in buying the vast wetlands which lies between the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR-707A) north to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and between U.S. 1 east to the railroad tracks.

If the property is acquired, about 6,000 acres, the price tag might be about $16 million, according to Langston.

Langston said the large land owners will negotiate with the state. One of the largest land owners is General Development Corp.

Martin County School Board owns a 200-acre tract in the savannas, and School Board members last week said the school system should get something in return for the land.

The county got the property under the federal Land Grant Act of 1895, setting aside Section 16 for schools.

A "Save the Savannas" committee was organized a few years ago to preserve the South Savannas.

The two-county committee headed by Dr. Walter Stokes worked to get the state to purchase the marshlands under the endangered lands program. Voters approved a bond issue of $200,000 million in 1972 to purchase environmentally endangered lands in the state.

The state is obtaining an appraisal of the savannas and will have an idea of the cost once that it's completed in three or four months, according to Langston.

Langston said the state can negotiate with property owners now, but it won't be able to wrap up an purchase package until several more steps are taken.

Deputies seek two robbers

The two men forced their way into Randolph's home tied up the maid and governess and proceeded to ransack the house.

Randolph's three-year old daughter Georgiana cut the tape from governess Katherine Metzler, 20, and she called the sheriff's office at about 10:30 p.m. last Saturday.

Chief investigator Bob Crowder said Randolph and his wife were not at home when the two men came to the house, but were later summoned from dinner.

Crowder said the sheriff's office has a good description of the men and car they were driving.

Approximately $4,000 in household items were taken along with a small sum of cash, according to the sheriff's office.

Miss Metzler and maid Carri Parson, 52, were both tied up by the robbers but Georgiana and her 15 month old brother Bobby were left alone.

Neither the two servants nor the children were injured.

COG to meet

JENSEN BEACH--With two members voting to pull out of the Council of Governments (COG), the young two-county organization fell on hard times.

Council members will meet Thursday, Aug. 7, at Port St. Lucie in an effort to get together again.

Port St. Lucie Administrator Elmer Cox last week said COG may be revitalized.

Since the two St. Lucie County governments pulled out of COG, Sharpe has made an effort to get the officials to reconsider their actions.

Also, Martin County Commissioner Elmer Powers, who spearheaded the drive to create COG, said he would make every effort to revitalize the organization.

Merchants donate for float

JENSEN BEACH--The Commercial Street Merchants Association, made up of merchants in the downtown sector of Commercial Street in Jensen Beach, donated $141.35 to the cost of the winning Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce float in the July 4th Independence Day Parade.

New plan district gets support

JENSEN BEACH--County commissioners of the four-county area wanting to form a new regional planning district last week got the support of Lt. Gov. Jim Williams.

Williams told a delegation of commissioners representing Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties that it will take at least 30 days "to look at all aspects of the new region."

Commissioners took their resolutions requesting formation of a new regional planning council to Williams because he heads the State Department of Administration.

Williams agreed with the delegation that the four counties should be placed in a district of their own instead of being grouped with Dade and Broward counties.

"There is a need for some kind of structure to give some input to the counties in the northern part of the South Florida District," Williams said. "The tail simply wags the dog as far as you're concerned."

Martin and St. Lucie counties have not paid any dues to the South Florida District, and Willie McCain, chairman of the St. Lucie County Commission, said his county will refuse to join the existing council "unless we are forced to by court order."

The lieutenant governor who has the power to revamp the planning districts said a public hearing would be held in the area before he makes his final decision.

Williams said there might be some delays because of budgeting problems with the existing district.

Bud Weaver, chairman of the Palm Beach County Commission, said his county will owe the present council $32,000 in October, but "I think we're going to let them sue us. We're not going to pay it unless the court makes us."

Last June commissioners of the four counties met in Palm Beach County courthouse and they agreed to secede, if the state agrees, from the present planning district.

Commissioners agreed that they were part of an unwieldy and uncompatible system.

The South Florida Regional Planning Council--a sort of super zoning board for Florida's East Coast--has responsibility for considering and making recommendations on all the proposed major developments from Fort Pierce to Key West.

After the June session, commissions of the four counties adopted similar resolutions requesting creation of a new regional planning council.

The resolutions were "hand delivered" to Tallahassee last Wednesday, July 23.

While Indian River County is in a separate district--District 6--and commissioners in that county said they are satisfied with the present setup but feel they have more in common with Martin, St. Lucie and Palm Beach counties.

When the 10 state regional planning districts were formed about two years ago there was an effort by Martin and St. Lucie counties to create a district which included the present counties now wanting to organize a new district.

However, Palm Beach County voted to go with the bigger counties to its south.

Williams reminded Weaver that Palm Beach would have been in a different district from the beginning but the County Commission at that time wanted to be lumped with Dade and Broward.

"We've learned our lesson," Weaver replied.

Rebirth of COG

The Martin-St. Lucie Council of Governments needs a rebirth, and a reorganization, and a re-direction if it is to become meaningful to the governments involved.

We hope that the various governments remember the reason for COG. It was to get the government people together to talk about mutual problems.

Solving those problems are the responsibilities of the various governments, working in concert.

But one must know another so that problems do not become insurmountable. Communications lines must be kept open and COG is the answer to keeping those lines open.

Just sitting around and talking about problems is the first step.

Making the meetings mean ingful requires a change in the format of COG.

The first change lies in the need for strong leadership, and continuity of that leadership. Someone who believes strongly in the concept of COG should be the chairman, and remain the chairman, so that one call to each of the municipalities by someone each government representative knows can bring results.

There should also be some form of permanent secretary, and some form of permanent office, be it a file cabinet in some office or another so that the minutes and files would be kept in one place.

For those governments that do not wish to participate, we suggest keeping them informed with copies of meeting discussions so that when something really important is about to break they will be informed of the progress to the decision stage.

Because the St. Lucie County and the Ft. Pierce governments feel the COG is a waste of time should not kill COG. It should drive those other governments to make the meetings more meaningful.

And this brings up another point the meetings are to bring the government officials together to discuss mutual problems. They are not to offer a forum to people who like to hear their own voices, or have an axe to grind.

Anyone with something to present to COG should be required to present the problem and proposals relative to them in writing, and if of importance, they should be considered at a meeting, but without time-wasting debate from outsiders.

COG can do nothing officially. It can bring back consensus of information on problems to the various governments for action by the county and city governments on their own.

But as we maintained in the outset, the major purpose of COG is to let the government officials of each unit get to know one another and discuss problems facing the two counties and their municipalities.

Social Security limits

A move is under way to alter the earnings limits of recipients of Social Security. In one case a congressman would remove all restrictions, and in another a limit of $2,520 would be increased to $6,000.

A little history is called for in remembering the reason for the Social Security checks that arrive in great numbers in Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie.

There was a time when the people got old, and if their children couldn't take care of them they went straight to the "county home" or the "poor house."

How many readers over the age of forty remember the dire threat of grandpa saying, "We're all going to the poor house," back in the days of the Great Depression.

My grandmother hid her money in the mattress of her bed putting a little aside each week to save for her old age. She didn't trust banks. Again because of the Great Depression of the thirties.

So to protect the people and offer them some form of security in their golden days, the government put together the social security system, a benefit upon retirement, or in case of a child losing his or her parents income would be assured not much income, but enough to get by on.

The limits have risen slowly, and the dire threats of bankruptcy of the fund have been added fuel to the concern of elderly citizens about what they have spent quite a few years putting money into, and few live solely on the social security check.

A person on a retirement pension from private industry is not limited to his potential earning power. He gets his retirement no matter how much he earns. But a social security recipient gets nothing if he earns more than a certain amount. All over the $2,520 is deducted from his social security check.

This seems unfair and Congressman Paul Rogers has indicated that he supports a bill that would increase the outside earnings limit from $2,520 to $6,000 without reductions in social security benefits.

It is a first step toward the plan by Rep. James R. Jones (D. Okla.) that would eliminate all restrictions from earning power by those on social security.

It is possible that Rogers knows the opposition to such a broad ranging move, and hopes to get half a loaf from Congress with his $6,000 effort.

In any event the social security law is a simple case of forced savings by the government. The people put their money in the bank, and they have a right to get it back out.

There is a massive array of talent, that is not now being productively used that would be available to the job market if the limits were eliminated.

That reminds us of the person on unemployment who figures that if he took a job for so much money, he would only be earning so much less the check he gets for not working. Thus, it pays more to be out of work than to get that job and be working.

Auto workers making ninety percent of their salary for one year that they are laid-off from work can't really be called destitute and a part of the massive unemployment scheme.

There are always the exceptions and the cheaters who make a living off the system, but they are not in the greatest numbers.

If there is to be a social security system, then it should be what it really is, a method to force citizens to save for their retirement. If that is the case, they deserve the money at ages 62 or 65, and deserve to be able to work more if they wish, adding to their income.

We can talk about the cost of living increasing regularly all we want, but that loses sight of the fact that millions of Americans have banked their money, money earned by them and paid into a fund that they should be entitled to after they reach a certain age.

There should be no limit on their earning power just because they are getting back what they put in the bank.

Statistics? Whose?

I am absolutely appalled by statistics.

According to Webster's dictionary, statistics is a branch of mathmatics dealing with the collection, analysis interpretation, and presentation of masses of numerical data.

Now while the figures collected may be accurate enough, the analysis interpretation, and presentation of them can be manipulated in such a way as to be indeed misleading.

It matters not who is trying to accomplish what there is always a list of statistics available to lend purpose to the argument.

The folks in Port St. Lucie want a hospital situated in the southern part of the county. A small group leading the effort is having a difficult time acquiring a certificate of need for the construction of the proposed 116 bed facility.

Being a prerequisite for the construction of a hospital in the State of Florida, the certificate of need is issued via the recommendations of the Health Planning Council following public hearings on the local, regional and finally state level.

Thus far the statistics have been stacked against the Port St. Lucie group.

Personally I have been delayed by a lengthy freight train exactly 50 per cent of the time on my way to the Martin Memorial Hospital Emergency Room.

That is a frightening statistic all right but, when you learn I have made only two trips to the emergency room, an entirely different light falls on the statistical picture.

While I live approximately one-half the distance from the hospital as the residents of south Port St. Lucie my trip took over 15 minutes with little or no traffic on the road.

This is one point at which the residents of Port St. Lucie have pounded away. To cite only the distance to the hospital is indeed a misleading statistic without bringing to light the fact there are a draw bridge, a railroad crossing, confusion corner and city traffic to contend with.

It is also possible, though not probable, the emergency vehicle could be detained by the draw bridge and a train both on the same run should the freight train be northbound.

Another example is reflected in the fact that fifteen per cent of the population of St. Lucie County is 65 years of age or older. Those over 65 require a longer hospital stay and this percentage figure, average for the state is used to determine the hospital beds needed for the county.

However, although the fifteen per cent figure is accurate, the statistics do not point out that in the southern portion of the county that percentage is nearly 30 per cent over 65, or double the state average.

Just recently a certificate of need has been recommended for the Hospital Corporation of America to construct a 265 bed hospital as a replacement for Fort Pierce Memorial Hospital.

Using the statistical formula of 4.5 beds per 1,000 population, the approval for a 265 bed facility would indicate a population figure of approximately 59,000 for St. Lucie County.

Accordingly, should the 116 bed facility be approved for the south county area, the result would be, according to some of the statisticians, 135 plus beds too many.

Understandably, this would be anything but a feasible situation.

However, the figures obtained by Port St. Lucie City Administrator Elmer Cox from the Chamber of Commerce indicated a county population of 75,240 in 1974, 80,790 this year and an estimated 88,800 in 1976.

If all permits and certificates were granted neither hospital could be in operation within, I would guess, nearly two years.

At that time, give or take several thousand on the estimated population, the county would have need of 400 or more beds.

Whether or not the people of the south county area will win their battle for a local hospital remains to be seen, but the statistics should never be taken at face value — study them carefully.

It is difficult to admit that we were caught, but we must be honest, and admit it. We were caught.

Every once in a while someone says, "There ought to be a law," and we sit back and we sit back and say, "Wait a minute. There are too many laws now."

It may make it easier to pass a law against this or that, but each law takes away a freedom, and each new law reduces our right to "that which we can do without government."

We remind ourselves, and others, that government should do only that which the people themselves cannot do.

And so it goes with licensing boat drivers.

Seeing an inexperienced boater almost have an accident, and coupling it with the complaint of an irate resident who told of "those crazy kids in boats and water-skiing in the North Fork of the St. Lucie River," we wrote that boat drivers should be licensed in an editorial on May 21, 1975.

We did not expect the official uprising that we received.

And, because of the information we received along with the offended private interests, we retract our editorial position that boat drivers need to be licensed.

Leading the list of people who don't want to see licensing of boat drivers is, of all things, the United States Coast Guard.

Rear Admiral John F. Thompson, Chief of the Coast Guard office of boating safety, recently reaffirmed the USCG opposition to pleasure boat licensing before the House Merchant Marine Committee's subcommittee on Coast Guard and Navigation.

"At this time we do not advocate the licensing of operators," he said. "Such a program would entail a costly and burdensome administration. Further we doubt that licensing requirements adequately ascertain operator competency in the myriad of subjects such as weather, sea conditions, navigation problems, boat handling and rules of the road needed to become a safe boater."

The number of boating related fatalities in 1974 was down 17.6 percent over the previous year, and injuries dropped 37.9 percent. Property damage was down 19.3 percent over the previous year.

The recent Power Squadron-Coast Guard promotion of Safe Boating Week in the period of June 29 to July 5 was a perfect example of an effort to promote safe boating through boat inspection.

The general public seems to be doing a great job of handling the problem, and we will look twice the next time someone says "there oughta be a law."

Nashville, the city

Some critics like, and some critics have panned it.

I'm not going to see the movie. Haven't seen a movie in about 15 years. If the movie on television is old enough a "Road Show" with Hope and Crosby--I might watch.

So if I don't see "Nashville," I can't review it.

But I can recall some of my early days in Nashville, Tenn. The city was about 30 miles from my hometown.

And my memories of Nashville, Tenn., like the critics of the film, are both good and bad.

We used to call the city "Nastyville."

The railroad station was in the middle of Nashville, and the old [illegible] engines, coal burners back then--belched soot and smoke.

Ask Art Hansen, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce president, about the dirty city. He spent some of his early years in that city.

But of course there are some very pleasant memories about the city.

First there was the thrill of a small town boy going to the city and riding the streetcar with my uncle.

He was the one that stood in front of the street car and ran it. turned the wheel that made the streetcar go, opened the door for passengers and pulled the cord that rang the bell.

He was important, and I would stand next to him.

And when we would discharge all the passengers before we got to the station, we would make it away.

And then there were some pleasant times at Sulphur Dell, the place where the Nashville Vols played baseball in the old Southern Association.

You would have to see that ball park to believe it.

There was a short, short right field fence with a high screen, and the [illegible] played the "dump."

Left-hand batters developed what was called the "Dell stroke."

A popfly in any other ball park would be a home run in the Dell.

Some of the batters who developed the Dell stroke to its finer points went up to the Major League, playing with the old New York Giants.

You had to go under the stands to drink beer. I got to where I was missing a lot of the game.

And then there was Printer's Alley.

There were all sorts of "after hour" bars on the Alley.

And since Nashville's nickname is "Music City, U.S.A." there were all kinds of musicians in the city. And all the bars and lounges in the Alley had "live" music.

And there was Amos at the Rainbow Room. Amos played the piano, and would sing all the old songs that [illegible] deep in their cups would request. And before the night was over he would sing "Ace in the Hole."

I never went to the Opry, but I went to the auditorium where the Opry was gathered every Saturday night with their faithfuls.

But I was reminded by my teacher that the auditorium was good enough for a lot of concerts and the Opry still shouldn't complain.

Like one of the movie writers said of the film: "Don't ask critics. Don't ask people who've seen it. See it yourself and then draw your own conclusions."

If you are taking a trip anytime soon, see Nashville, Tenn. Then draw your own conclusions.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

At the onset of our current drive for funds with which to expand the Edgar Ernst Tire Reef, an envelope was received with a New York City return address. The most generous check it contained was made payable to the Stuart Sailfish Club Tire Reef.

A longhand "Thank You" letter and curious inquiry revealed the following. Back in 1952 Fritz and Buddy Lueders expressed a desire to go deep sea fishing. They were advised to go to Stuart, Florida, and express this desire to the Whitcar family which enjoy a nationwide reputation. The late Johnson Whitcar soon satisfied their dreams and five years later Curt Whitcar built the Skipper II for them upon which they spent many days successfully fishing the Gulf Stream and adjacent Bahamian waters. Buddy mastered a 446 lb. blue marlin which bested Fritz' puny 407 blue during those years.

An unfortunate fall in 1970 resulted in a back injury which has since sidelined Fritz from enjoying his most favorite sport. Although he himself has been denied the pleasure deep sea fishing provides he has determined that he, in the interim, will help provide that pleasure for others by supporting the efforts of the Stuart Sailfish Club to [illegible] the ocean bottom with worn out tires. The resulting reef has already proven the wisdom of this method of old tire disposal.

Fritz and Buddy Lueders have assured us of their continued support. The 20-20 vision of what is good for Stuart, manifested by "outsiders" should be carefully explored by many locally who have a more definite economic interest.

Wm. W. Donaldson
Vice President

Giveaway can't last

WASHINGTON—Giveaway after giveaway, bureaucracy piled on bureaucracy, welfare program stacked on welfare program—all combining to form a pyramid of paternalism.

But a pyramid, built on borrowed money, can't last. And so New York City is bowing under the weight of its self-imposed financial burden.

The state's help came in the form of the newly created Municipal Assistance Corporation, empowered to sell $3 billion worth of bonds to ease the immediate crunch of New York City's $11 billion short term indebtedness. The federal government's aid comes in the form of grants, loans and revenue sharing.

And yet it may not be enough. The Municipal Assistance Corporation is having trouble selling the bonds, even though they are backed by specially earmarked city taxes, because of the apparent lack of sympathy for the plight of a city known for its ill-fated attempts to be everything to everyone.

And so at long last, New York City is taking a good hard look at its policies. The traditional shorter summer work week for city employees has been ordered abolished.

And even more drastic, for New York City anyway, is the fact that officials are actually considering doing away with free college education for residents at City University of New York. And they are considering raising the subway fare from the current 35 cents to a level more realistic and more in keeping with a mass transit system which has been operating in the red for years.

In fact, they are even considering a wage freeze and selective salary cuts—steps almost unbelievable in a city where garbage collectors are paid $17,000 a year.

But, even as the city tries to economize, special interest groups are battling to ensure that cuts are made anywhere but in their benefits. Union leaders are adamantly opposed to wage freezes or salary cuts. Welfare recipients are screaming that their programs must be raised, or at least be left alone.

As bad as the city's financial situation may be, there is no real crisis attitude—mainly because too many city officials and residents are convinced either the state or the federal government will bail them out of their financial bind.

But the paternalists the giveaway artists and the builders of bureaucracy, who brought New York City to the brink of financial disaster, have their counterparts here in Washington.

And, unfortunately, there are few signs that New York City's dilemma has made any impression on them yet.

Even today, there is no rush in the House Judiciary Committee to hold hearings on the anti-deficit spending Constitutional Amendment which I and some 34 other members of Congress have introduced.

There will be no State Legislature in Albany or no Congress in Washington to appeal to for help if the federal treasury becomes bankrupt. There will be no help anywhere.

But there are those, both in the agencies and in the Congress, who refuse to look that far down the road. There are those who will maintain the federal government can be all things to all people, even though the day is fast approaching when half of the population will be working hard and paying taxes to support the other half which doesn't work at all.

Left unanswered is the question what happens when the workers get tired of supporting the non-workers and quit working themselves? What happens when there isn't enough money around to borrow to keep all the welfare and giveaway programs juggled in the air?

What happens when the United States reaches the brink of financial disaster as New York City has already done?

And it could happen.

Ronald Reagan

Events please Kremlin

The big news in the sky the Soviet-American space docking kept most eyes glued to television screens and gave Americans a warm glow of good feeling. Some events on the ground however were causing not so good feelings. For example:

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had some harsh things to say about Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn. He described the Nobel laureate's views as "a threat to peace" apparently because Solzhenitsyn has been warning Americans to be wary of Soviet intentions in detente.

Kissinger said: "I understand the message of Solzhenitsyn. It is that the United States should pursue an aggressive policy to overthrow the Soviet system. That, of course, is not Solzhenitsyn's message. The message is detente without illusions, but Kissinger seems to have decided to misunderstand it.

Kissinger's own message at his news conference on the other hand, seemed to be that we can listen to Solzhenitsyn talk about the lack of freedom in the Soviet Union all right, so long as we don't take him very seriously, for he's only a writer after all.

He told reporters he recommended that President Ford not see the Russian author yet rumors were flying that the White House had tried without success to arrange a Ford-Solzhenitsyn meeting, presumably to make up for its previous rejection of the idea and Press Secretary Ron Nessen's implausible explanations all the time Solzhenitsyn was in Washington. He address a large AFL-CIO-hosted banquet.

Kissinger's defensiveness about the Solzhenitsyn matter appears to stem from concern over the fate of the delicate Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) negotiations now under way. Solzhenitsyn warns that if detente is to work at all it must be on a quid pro quo basis, for the Soviets understand firmness but will exploit any sign of weakness. This may seem a threatening view to Kissinger who talks as if he believes that tiptoe diplomacy will be more effective with the Soviets.

If the final SALT II agreement is as much tilted to Soviet advantage as the Vladivostok proposals Solzhenitsyn's warning could turn out to have been prophetic.

While the Soyuz-Apollo crews were shaking hands in space and everyone was proclaiming enduring friendship on the ground, the Soviets continued their effort to subvert Portugal. In the last few weeks they have sent 60 new KGB agents to Lisbon and have spent $12 million since April on the Portuguese Communists. Their interference in the internal affairs of our erstwhile Atlantic Alliance ally seems to be paying off.

Portugal has slipped another notch toward a mistaken Communist totalitarian government.

The two largest vote-getting parties in the spring election, the Socialists and the Popular Democrats, PPD, quit the coalition government and took to the streets to protest the increasingly anti-democratic tendencies of the powerful Armed Forces Movement (AFM).

At first glance the protests seemed a hopeful sign, but the long range outlook isn't good. Outside the government the Socialists and the PPD will have an increasingly hard time functioning as organized political parties. And it takes organization to mount effective demonstrations.

The AFM, in fact, may choose to ignore the demonstrations until they evaporate. That's the way they handled the seizure of a Catholic church-owned radio station by a handful of leftist workers recently.

Protests, demonstrations, some backing and filling by the AFM. Outcome: the leftists still have the radio station.

All in all, the Kremlin must be smiling at recent events.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan . . . an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of their annual earnings, not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax deductible and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA, we will pay interest compounded daily at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age . . . any age you choose between 59½ and 70½ . . . you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As you receive this money, it will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits . . .
At retirement age . . . between 59½ and 70½ . . . you may elect, by written notice, to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½ . . .
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½, the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a Federal tax penalty, equal to 10% of the amount received, will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible: a spouse working part time or full time, students with part time jobs, self-employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre-retirement Years (accumulation period) . . .
During this period of time, you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also, the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period) . . .
When you reach retirement age . . . any age you select between 59½ and 70½ . . . the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $1,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT . . .

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	IRA
5 years	$ 6,308.12	$ 8,778.52
10 years	13,925.97	19,952.06

HR-10 PLAN FOR SELF-EMPLOYED

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 contains important new provisions for self-employed persons to set up tax-sheltered retirement funds. We at First National have all the information available on retirement planning for the self-employed and invite you to come in for a comprehensive explanation.

SETTING UP THE PLAN

If you are self-employed, the owner of an unincorporated business, a doctor, lawyer, accountant or other professional person, you may set up a retirement plan. Also, members of partnerships may set up plans.

You may set up your plan at First National with your funds going into a special savings or certificate of deposit account. You may contribute up to $7,500.00 each year or 100% of your income, whichever is less. If you desire to contribute more than $7,500.00, you are subject to the limit of $7,500.00 or 15% of earned income . . . whichever is less.

TAX BENEFITS

During your pre-retirement years you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposits. All interest will accumulate tax free until distributed. When you reach retirement age . . . any age you select between 59½ and 70½ . . . the proceeds are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65. Check the comparative chart below to see the advantages of a tax-sheltered plan vs. a non-sheltered plan.

EMPLOYEES ARE INCLUDED

You must include your full time employees in your plan who have worked for you for three or more years. Contributions to the plan for you and your employees must be at the same percentage rate as there cannot be any discrimination under the law.

PENSION OR PROFIT SHARING PLAN

You may establish either type plan depending on your individual needs.

PENALTY FOR PREMATURE DISTRIBUTION

A premature distribution occurs when you withdraw money before age 59½ . . . except in case of death or disability. The government will impose a 10% excise tax in addition to regular income tax.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $7,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT . . .

Skelton-Radebaugh vows exchanged

STUART — Sharon Elizabeth Radebaugh daughter of Mrs. Cassie Radebaugh of Stuart and Cushman S. Radebaugh, Jr. of Nashville, Arkansas, and Ronald Lake Skelton son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Skelton, Stuart, were joined in marriage at the First Baptist Church on Saturday, July 26.

Reverend Clinton C. Marlow performed the double ring ceremony in a lovely setting of yellow and white flowers flanked by two standing candelabra decorated with sprays of greenery. Mrs. Marvin Keller provided traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white imported satin organza and Peau d'ange lace, with a scoop neckline and lantern sleeves. The empire waist was defined with a narrow band of lace and two columns of lace appliques cascaded down the front of her demi-bell skirt, completely encircling the skirt and the attached cathedral length train. Her veil was of English illusion, held in place with a Peau d'ange lace Camelot adorned with seed pearls and crystal stones. She carried yellow roses and mixed greenery in a cascade.

Nancy Lynn Radebaugh, of Nashville, served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan Radebaugh of Stuart, another sister of the bride, Sheryl Sylvester of Stuart, Brenda Blackburn of Wrightsville, Georgia, cousin of the groom, and Judy Harless of Stuart. Their dresses were of yellow dotted swiss with long bouffant chiffon sleeves and ruffled hem lines. All wore yellow illusion picture hats. The maid of honor's flowers were a bouquet of yellow roses accented with white daisies, and the bridesmaids carried a single yellow rose. The flower girl, Gina Sylvester, wore a long yellow dotted swiss dress accented with daisies at waist and neckline and short puffed sleeves. She carried a basket full of yellow rose petals and wore a bandeaux of white daisies in her hair.

Best man duties were performed by Buddy Walker of Stuart and Donald Brown, Michael Farley, Lee Smith, Thomas Blackburn, Chip and Tee Radebaugh served as ushers.

Mrs. Radebaugh chose for her daughter's wedding a formal length gown of heavenly blue chiffon, featuring a V-neckline, long fitted sleeves and a wide, softly gathered cummerbund. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and white daisies.

Mrs. Skelton mother of the groom wore a long yellow georgette chiffon gown with angel wing sleeves and pearl detail. Her corsage was fashioned of white roses and yellow daisies.

Candelabra yellow and white daisies and roses decorated the tables at a reception held at the Captain's Quarters immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Clark Gibson assisted in receiving and serving were Patricia Bagwell, Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Johnnie Ruth Smith, Elsie Stewart, Patricia Murphy, Jeanine Parker, Mrs. A.J. Thomas, Jr., Mrs. Wilton H. Parker, Mrs. Franz Uhl, Mrs. Carl Bridges, Mrs. David MacMillan, Mrs. Hugh Hopkins, Mrs. W.C. Coleman, Jr., Terresa Dick, Kimberly Coleman, Mrs. Richard Coleman, Betsy Coleman, Jennifer Blackburn, Denise and Michael Radebaugh.

The couple will be at home at Harbor Pointe Apartments after August 30, following a wedding trip to the Caribbean.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Coleman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Coleman III, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Coleman, Patricia Murphy, Peggy Murphy, Jeanine Parker, Kimberly Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Parker, Jr. and Mrs. John Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coleman, Mr. and

MRS. RONALD LAKE SKELTON

Mrs. A.J. Thomas, Jr., Mrs. W.T. Herringdine, Mrs. Radebaugh Gronklos, Michael and Denis Radebaugh.

Prenuptial affairs included a brides maids luncheon by Mrs. W.C. Coleman at the Brass Sandpiper, a bachelor dinner at the home of Freddie Reddish and a rehearsal dinner at the Ramada Inn given by the groom's parents.

Council on aging elects officers

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Council on Aging last week elected Mrs. Kathryn Bishop as the new president to succeed Alvin Rupp who resigned last month for health reasons.

The council members also heard Dr. Archie McCallister, director of the county Health Department, tell of plans to send public health nurses to areas where senior citizens live.

He also said he hopes the department will have six public health nurses this year, two more than now are on the staff.

The council also decided to ask the United Fund for money. It received $3,000 this year.

Machine saves hospital cost

JENSEN BEACH—In these days of constantly rising medical and hospital costs it is comforting when something comes along that actually saves money for the patient plus at the same time improves the quality, accuracy and range of services. One such innovation is now in use at Martin Memorial. It is an ultra modern machine called the SMA manufactured by Technicon Corporation.

A recent advance in biochemical continuous flow analysis, this machine is capable of automatic sequential analysis of blood samples at the rate of thirty samples per hour with each sample having twelve different biochemical procedures run in one minute's time. The cost to the patient is $2 whereas if the twelve procedures were done individually it would cost $12, and would take three to four hours.

The results are presented in concentration terms on an immediately readable pre-calculated strip chart record which also shows normal concentrations for comparison, thus giving the physician his patient's biochemical profile at a glance.

It is not only more economical to subject every biochemical sample to a battery of tests rather than just two or three, urgently needed ones, profiling a blood sample often makes possible early detection of unsuspected pathology which effects changes in diagnosis.

Savannas public hearing is set

JENSEN BEACH—The state will hold a public hearing on the savannas purchase at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27, in the St. Lucie County Courthouse in Fort Pierce.

Gene Langston, of the Department of Natural Resources, said the Fort Pierce hearing will be the only one the state holds.

There have been other hearings, but they were informal and were arranged by local officials of Martin and St. Lucie counties.

Langston pointed out that most property owners are aware the state is interested in saving the savannas, but many don't know the scope of the project.

The state recently sent letters to 223 property owners in the savannas, asking whether they would be willing to donate or sell their property.

Langston said the state received about 35 replies.

The state is interested in buying the vast wetlands which lies between the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR 707A) north to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and between U.S. 1 east to the railroad tracks.

If the property is acquired, about 6,000 acres, the price tag might be about $10 million, according to Langston.

Langston said the large land owners will negotiate with the state. One of the largest land owners is General Development Corp.

Martin County School Board owns a 200-acre tract in the savannas and School Board members last week said the school system should get something in return for the land.

A "Save the Savannas" committee was organized a few years ago to preserve the South Savannas.

The two-county committee headed by Dr. Walter Stokes worked to get the state to purchase the marshlands under the endangered lands program. Voters approved a bond issue of $200,000 million in 1973 to purchase environmentally endangered lands in the state.

The state is obtaining an appraisal of the savannas and will have an idea of the cost once that it's completed in three or four months, according to Langston.

Langston said the state can negotiate with property owners now, but it won't be able to wrap up an purchase package until several more steps are taken.

"There is a need for some kind of structure to give some input to the counties in the northern part of the South Florida District," Williams said. "The tail simply wags the dog as far as you're concerned."

Martin and St. Lucie counties have not paid any dues to the South Florida District, and Willie McCain, chairman of the St. Lucie County Commission, said his county will refuse to join the existing council "unless we are forced to by court order."

The lieutenant governor, who has the power to revamp the planning districts, said a public hearing would be held in the area before he makes his final decision.

Williams said there might be some delays because of budgeting problems with the existing district.

Bud Weaver, chairman of the Palm Beach County Commission, said his county will vote the present council $32,000 on October 1st. "I think we're going to let them sue us. We're not going to pay it unless the court makes us."

Last June commissioners of the four counties met in Palm Beach County courthouse and they agreed to secede, if the state agrees, from the present planning district.

Commissioners agreed that they were part of an unwieldy and incompatible system.

The South Florida Regional Planning Council, a sort of super zoning board for Florida's East Coast, has responsibility for considering and making recommendations on all the proposed major developments from Fort Pierce to Key West.

After the June session, commissioners of the four counties adopted similar resolutions requesting creation of a new regional planning council.

The resolutions were "hand delivered" to Tallahassee last Wednesday, July 23.

While Indian River County is in a separate district—District 6—and commissioners in that county said they are satisfied with the present setup, but feel they have more in common with Martin, St. Lucie and Palm Beach counties.

When the 10 state regional planning districts were formed about two years ago, there was an effort by Martin and St. Lucie counties to create a district which included the present counties now wanting to organize a new district.

However Palm Beach County voted to go with the bigger counties to its south.

Williams reminded Weaver that Palm Beach would have been in a different district from the beginning but the County Commission at that time wanted to be lumped with Dade and Broward.

"We've learned our lesson," Weaver replied.

Swimming to reorganize

PORT ST. LUCIE—A Port St. Lucie Swimming Association reorganization meeting has been set for 4 p.m. Monday, August 4 at the Marina pool.

Children of all ages are asked to report at that time. The only requirement is that they be able to swim one length of the pool. Parents are asked to try to be there with their children.

Searles Snee tie

PORT ST. LUCIE—Ann Searles and Marcella Snee tied for first place in an Even Holes Out Net Tournament played by the Nine Holers on the Saints Course last week.

Kay Huber and Martha O'Dell tied for second and Mildred Riefler took third honors.

I-95 work ordered

PORT ST. LUCIE—Ben U. Simpson district engineer for the nine counties in South Florida, for the State Department of Transportation, has issued a work order to begin construction of a portion of Interstate Highway 95 in St. Lucie County that will add about four and a third miles to the project.

The work will extend from a point south of Indrio Road northwesterly to the south border of the Indian River County line, taking about 300 work days to complete the project. The I-95 extension will cost $6,043,206.51. The work will include extra heavy grading, one four lane divided facility, one dual bridge with an overall length of 281 feet, handrails, guardrails, reflective pavement markers, highway lighting, roadway signs and small drainage structures.

John Saxon of the Fort Pierce office of the DOT will be the resident engineer in charge of the overall project.

GDC outlines plans

PORT ST. LUCIE—A full barrage of General Development Corporation officials were on hand Monday to provide the city's planning and zoning board with an up-dated preliminary land use plan for the entire City of Port St. Lucie.

Referring to the GDC update as being a dynamic plan, Art Harper, corporation counsel, told the group, "The plan is dynamic because it is a living plan, one which will grow to meet the needs of the people of Port St. Lucie."

At the same time, however, he enlightened the group on some of the legal and environmental hurdles the developer faces.

GDC has sold 4,000 homesites under ten year contracts, some of which date back to the late 1960's, and some of these contracts are now coming due.

There is no question of GDC being able to meet its obligations to the customers, stockholders, employees and the public at large, but there are some hurdles to be faced, he said.

Harper, citing a completed resolution in the state's governing the environment since the time these contracts were negotiated, said that GDC officials are working within the legal framework with the environmental regulatory agencies and the U.S. Corps of Engineers, to solve the problems, especially relative to the homesites sold west of U.S. 1 and west of the Savannas.

"We are all interested in the Savannas," he said adding, "We want to keep this as a wildlife preserve and we don't want anyone else to spoil it either."

The seven unplatted areas within Port St. Lucie will more than likely be developed along the PUD planned unit development lines, according to Al Perez and Lois Bausch, GDC land planners.

PUD would, or could, encompass four different types of housing, all multi-family, as well as providing land for schools, recreational facilities, golf courses, civic and business interests.

Perez said his statement GDC's intention was to create a community that was self-sufficient.

The construction of garden apartments, townhouses, and single-family clustered homes would provide more green space, courtyards, and even a golf course while maintaining the same density as single family construction.

As an example, Balerdi said, "A 500-acre site yielding a density of 2.8 for single family would match the same density if more compact housing were constructed."

By comparison, The PUD development would accomodate the same density while providing 215 acres of open space.

Other GDC officials outlined future plans which included an additional bridge across the Florida Turnpike on Torino Boulevard on North Port, two interchanges planned for Interstate 95 which will be located at SR 212 and Port St. Lucie Boulevard.

The Port St. Lucie Boulevard interchange will be tentatively located approximately four miles west of the Turnpike.

COG to meet

JENSEN BEACH—With two members voting to pull out of the Council of Governments (COG) the young two-county organization fell on hard times.

Council members will meet Thursday, Aug. 7 at Port St. Lucie in an effort to get together again.

Port St. Lucie Administrator Elmer Cox last week said COG may be revitalized.

Since the two St. Lucie County governments pulled out of COG, Sharpe has made an effort to get the officials to reconsider their actions.

Also, Martin County Commissioner Ernie Powers, who spearheaded the drive to create COG, said he would make every effort to revitalize the organization.

Docos takes honors

PORT ST. LUCIE—Larry Lorentson had the day's low round of 76 but Jim Docos had the handicap to offset it and win the weekly golf tournament of the Sandpiper Bay Men's Golf Association Thursday at the Saints Course with a low gross of 89 to take A Flight honors. Flight winners in the individual low net competition were:

Play this Thursday for the association will be match play versus par with full handicaps.

Benz bussed by bevy

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Snooper turned up two birthdays at last week's Friday Site Gang session. Mildred Engleman and Hoel Cedric Benz, both St. Lucie Squeakers furnished by Frances Lee, Frances Bernina and Natalie Diedike, were served during the intermission. The host reported enjoying this treat nearly as much as he enjoyed the blessing he received from a bevy of beautiful grandmothers present.

There were visitors on hand, including Mrs. George Schlasser and Paul Schlasser from Dubuque, Iowa, visiting the Paul Fundella and Mrs. June Freeks of North Canton, Ohio visiting Mrs. Yost. Attending for the first time was Mildred English originally from Marietta, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. H.S. Donovan of Harston, Massachusetts.

Moe Levy took home the evening's main prize.

Thirty-five special prizes were awarded at the July 18th Mardi Gras. That night's Snooper found as visitors three grandsons of the Campbells, Greg, Scott and Bryan from White Plains, Ga.

The main prize for the Mardi Gras was won by Mabel Morrison.

PRESENTATION DAY—More than 120 dealers throughout the state of Florida gathered for Presentation Day at the Johnson Outboard National sales meetings held from July 12 to 17 at Sandpiper Bay. The 1976 line was demonstrated, with emphasis on innovative processes and the famous new automatic tilt. Motors, from 4 horsepower to the world's largest 200 horsepower, were shown and tried out as guests took boat rides. Eighty-five area sales managers from all over the country were present for the entire session.

Skelton-Radebaugh vows exchanged

STUART — Sharon Elizabeth Radebaugh, daughter of Mrs. Cissie Radebaugh of Stuart and Cushman S. Radebaugh, Jr. of Nashville, Arkansas, and Ronald Lake Skelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Skelton, Stuart, were joined in marriage at the First Baptist Church on Saturday, July 26.

Reverend Clinton C. Marlow performed the double ring ceremony in a lovely setting of yellow and white flowers flanked by two standing candelabra decorated with sprays of greenery. Mrs. Marvin Keller provided traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white imported satin organza and Peau d'ange lace with a scoop neckline and lantern sleeves. The empire waist was defined with a narrow band of lace and two columns of lace appliques cascaded down the front of her demi-bell skirt, completely encircling the skirt and the attached cathedral length train. Her veil was of English illusion, held in place with a Peau d'ange lace Camelot adorned with seed pearls and crystal stones. She carried yellow roses and mixed greenery in a cascade.

Nancy Lynn Radebaugh, of Nashville, served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan Radebaugh of Stuart, another sister of the bride; Sheryl Sylvester of Stuart; Brenda Blackburn of Wrightsville, Georgia, cousin of the groom; and Judy Harless of Stuart. Their dresses were of yellow dotted swiss with long bouffant chiffon sleeves and ruffled hem lines. All wore yellow illusion picture hats. The maid of honor's flowers were a bouquet of yellow roses accented with white daisies, and the bridesmaids carried a single yellow rose. The flower girl, Gina Sylvester, wore a long yellow dotted swiss dress accented with daisies at waist and neckline and short puffed sleeves. She carried a basket full of yellow rose petals and wore a bandeaux of white daisies in her hair.

Best man duties were performed by Buddy Walker of Stuart and Donald Brown, Michael Farley, Lee Smith, Thomas Blackburn, Chip and Tee Radebaugh served as ushers.

Mrs. Radebaugh chose for her daughter's wedding a formal length gown of heavenly blue chiffon featuring a V neckline, long fitted sleeves and a wide softly gathered cummerbund. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and white daisies.

Mrs. Skelton, mother of the groom, wore a long yellow georgette chiffon gown with angel wing sleeves and pearl detail. Her corsage was fashioned of white roses and yellow daisies.

Candelabra, yellow and white daisies and roses decorated the tables at a reception held at the Captain's Quarters immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Clark Gibson assisted in receiving and serving were Patricia Bagwell, Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Johnnie Ruth Smith, Elsie Stewart, Patricia Murphy, Jeanne Parker, Mrs. A.J. Thomas Jr., Mrs. Wilton H. Parker, Mrs. Franz Uhl, Mrs. Carl Bridges, Mrs. David MacMillan, Mrs. Hugh Hopkins, Mrs. W.C. Coleman, Jr., Terresa Dick, Kimberly Coleman, Mrs. Richard Coleman, Betsy Coleman, Jennifer Blackburn, Denise and Michael Radebaugh.

The couple will be at home at Harbor Pointe Apartments after August 16, following a wedding trip to the Caribbean.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coleman, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Coleman, III, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Coleman, Patricia Murphy, Peggy Murphy, Jeanne Parker, Kimberly Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Parker, Jr. and Mrs. John Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coleman, Mr. and

MRS. RONALD LAKE SKELTON

Mrs. A.J. Thomas, Jr., Mrs. W.T. Herringdine, Mrs. Radebaugh, Grosklos, Michael and Denis Radebaugh.

Premarital affairs included a brides maids luncheon by Mrs. W.T. Coleman of the Brass Sandpiper, a bachelor dinner at the home of Freddie Reddish and a rehearsal dinner at the Ramada Inn given by the groom's parents.

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Council on Aging last week elected Mrs. Kathryn Bishop as the new president to succeed Alvin Rupp, who resigned last month for health reasons.

The council members also heard Dr. Arthur Mc Allister, director of the County Health Department, tell of plans to send public health nurses to areas where senior citizens live.

He also said he hopes the department will have six public health nurses this year, two more than now are on the staff.

The council also decided to ask the United Fund for money. It received $3,000 this year.

Machine saves hospital cost

JENSEN BEACH—In these days of constantly rising medical and hospital costs, it is comforting when something comes along that actually saves money for the patient, plus at the same time improves the quality, accuracy and range of services. One such innovation is now in use at Martin Memorial. It is an ultra modern machine called the SMA 12/60, manufactured by Technicon Corporation.

A recent advance in biochemical continuous flow analysis, this machine is capable of automatic sequential analysis of blood samples at the rate of thirty samples per hour, with each sample having twelve different biochemical procedures run in one minute's time. The cost to the patient is $22, whereas if the twelve procedures were done individually it would cost $120, and would take three to four hours.

The results are presented in concentration terms on an immediately usable pre-calculated strip chart record which also shows normal concentrations for comparison, thus giving the physician his patient's biochemical profile at a glance.

It is not only more economical to subject every biochemical sample to a battery of tests rather than just two or three urgently needed ones, providing a blood sample often makes possible early detection of unsuspected pathology which effects changes in diagnosis.

BUILT DUNE–Sea oats were planted along the dune after a bulldozer rebuilt the dune that had been washed away by storms last fall at Hutchinson House on Hutchinson Island.

Are sea oats the answer to dunes protection?

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–The sand was soft and fell away from beneath the edge of the asphalt and limestone parking area that fronted on Jensen's public beaches. The area was two feet wide, and some of the asphalt paving had crumbled and disappeared into the soft sand.

The cut jutted back away from the one area with some semblance of holding against the wash of the ocean.

Two tall stalks of flimsy sea oats rose above the cluster of decaying vegetation that held sand to the edge of paving.

In the scene, a short five feet of space along the Atlantic Ocean, might be an answer to the protection of the very important dune line of Hutchinson Island. Lloyd Dutcher is betting that it is, and has invested $3,600 to see if it works, and that doesn't count labor.

A few miles down the island from Jensen's public beaches, Dutcher has planted sea oats on a newly rebuilt wall of sand. He hopes that the sea oats, now over a foot and a half tall, will grow to hold the sand that annual northeast storms tears away from the island.

Those storms have washed sand away from the dunes, eroding back and back, to within a few feet of the buildings that have been erected in several condominium developments.

No one seems to know what to do to stop the onslaught of the ocean storms. Dutcher's 400 feet of plantings at Hutchinson House has held up during the summer rainy season, and it is possible that the sea oats will have spread their root systems far enough by this fall, when the really heavy storms come, to give some idea if the sea oat plantings will be effective.

Walking along the condominium line where Suntide, Little Ocean Club and Little Ocean Place, and Hutchinson House are located, it is obvious that something needs to be done to protect the condominiums.

Some plan to use boulders to try to stop the erosion, but everyone admits that this is a temporary measure that could block public access on the beaches. The boulders, no matter how big, would drift into the sand, much the same as the boulders at the inlet jetty, and the small portions of paving that have broken off from public beach parking lots.

Dutcher's solution is simple perhaps too simple.

A bulldozer moves onto the beach at low tide and pushes sand up, rebuilding the dune after a storm. The, at the next tide, or within several tides, the ocean replaces the sand that has been moved from the beach.

The tour of the beaches indicated that where there was vegetation there was sand, held in greater quantities than where there was not sand.

At Suntide, growth of vegetation, including sea oats, sea grape and sea vines, held the sand in groupings that indicate that there is a holding action of the grasses and roots. Small mounds of sand were formed around the vegetation areas.

Where vines grew on the sand beaches, sand gathered as the vines caught the drift to the south.

All along the tops of the dunes were signs that warned pedestrians not to walk on the dunes.

Boardwalks across the tops of the dunes offered easy access to the beach without the dune destruction that is so evident where there is no walkway.

It may be that the balance of nature needs more than the sea oats, for the strength of the dunes seemed most evident at the points where the combination of sea oats, sea grape and vines were entangled in tropical confusion.

But the sea oat experiment seems to be working. The small plants, lined up like an army in the precise manner of man, have rooted, and seem to be thriving. They have not yet grown full-borne seed, and replanted themselves into the sand-holding confusion design that only nature seems able to manufacture.

Dutcher has not been able to coax his neighboring condominiums of the south of his experiment. The investment would be less than that of transportation of boulders to reinforce the dune.

Esthetically, the sea oat experiment is eventually going to be more beautiful than boulders or seawalls, for nature can do a much better job of growing tropical beauty than man.

That the frail, tall stalks of sea oats with their crowns of seed tassels, could do more than the concrete of man seems impossible. But Florida's coastline has shown the productivity of nature with the balance between ocean and island being upset only by man.

As to whether or not the experiment can work, Lloyd Dutcher has gambled on nature doing the job.

One look at the five feet of extremes at Jensen's public beaches, erosion of sand from under asphalt and limestone and tangled sea oats and vegetation holding sand, indicates that Dutcher might just be right.

KEY–Growing, dropping seed tassels and more growing seems be one way to hold the sand of tchinson Island beaches.

WASHED AWAY–The top of the dune at Little Ocean Club has moved back to within a few feet of the condominiums. Residents are asking for emergency action to save the buildings before fall storms wash more sand away. The wooden steps were once a bridge across the dune. No vegetation holds the sand all the way to the top of the dune.

A OATS–Are these tall stalks of , their seed pods waving from ds that bend with every wisp of d, the answer to erosion of the dunes g developed parts of Hutchinson and?

SAND HELD–Sea oats, grasses, and sea grape hold the sand embankment at the ocean front of Suntide Condominium. Where grasses, vines and sea oats grew, mounds of sand developed around the vegetation.

STAY OFF–Signs in front of Hutchinson House warn people to stay off the newly rebuilt dunes. Netting was used to hold original plantings of sea oats in place along the dune. Sea grape aids in holding sand.

Equitation teacher at academy

Howey-in-the-Hills–A veteran horseback riding instructor of twenty-two years' experience will teach equitation at Howey Academy when the fall term begins September 7.

This co-educational college preparatory school in central Florida is the state's only school for grades 7-12 to offer riding for both credit and recreation. Instructor David Schwalb will continue Howey's successful basic riding program of instruction on beginning, intermediate and advanced levels, and with the help of the school's riding club, would like to add more Howey sponsored equitation events which will be open to outside riders.

Publix has been giving S&H Green Stamps since 1952. And they've added up for Florida families year after year.

Enough for an electric ice cream maker, a blender and a popcorn popper. Or three pieces of patio furniture. Or a set of golf clubs.

A family that shopped at Publix for the past 23 years has a lot to show for it.

Your Key to More SAVINGS

Do not renew your present mobile home insurance coverage until you check with one of the Rick Carroll agencies. We have the first major new concept in mobile home insurance that will not only save you money, but give you more complete coverage. We can now insure your mobile home with exactly the same price and coverage as a permanent dwelling. The UTICA FIRE INSURANCE CO. of Utica, New York has appointed the RICK CARROLL INSURANCE agencies as their agents.

Please contact the agency nearest to you for more complete information on this new insurance concept. This policy will give you superior coverage of your mobile or modular home at a much lower premium than you are now paying.

Horoscope

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 - Also Aries Ascendant) - If you choose to accept a new, heavy work load it increases your chances for success. Curb your temper with relatives. Accept criticism graciously. Be very fair and considerate with loved ones.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 - Also Taurus Ascendant) - In social situations project charm and poise even though you aren't enjoying yourself. Cooperation from others is indicated. Go out of your way to help younger people. You could be honored by a group.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 - Also Gemini Ascendant) - You have a chance to learn a new skill. Be moderate in your social life overindulgence reflects on health. You're full of great ideas. Propose them to others who will be impressed.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 - Also Cancer Ascendant) - Resist being childishly determined to have your own way. Curb temper over money problems. Career matters prosper. Extend yourself in kindness to one who has done you a favor.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 - Also Leo Ascendant) - You solve your problems best by quiet thought and meditation. Use caution in the selection of social groups. Avoid those given to excessive behavior. You could attract people with deceptive motives now.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 - Also Virgo Ascendant) - Your high energy keeps you very active with both business and social life. Try to pace yourself or you could encounter health problems. Gear your thoughts and efforts to saving money for important things.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 - Also Libra Ascendant) - You are highly emotional now and need to call on your strength to refuse "going along" with something you don't want to do. A trip with a friend could prove costly. Work quietly to improve your own performance in career.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 - Also Scorpio Ascendant) - Don't make "snap judgments" now. Be analytical and cautious in your thinking. When in doubt, choose the course of responsibility. Not a good time to have a showdown with anyone. Curb stubbornness.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 - Also Sagittarius Ascendant) - Use care that you aren't jumping to conclusions without knowing all the facts. Others appear antagonistic - refuse to be drawn in to an argument. Recognize the need to budget your money.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 - Also Capricorn Ascendant) - Some longawaited news arrives and you are reassured. Career life runs smoothly. Be willing to spend some money on pleasure and entertaining. Others may envy you now so curb egotism.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 - Also Aquarius Ascendant) - Perhaps you should examine your motives if you are inclined to be fault-finding with others. Stick to routine now, and curb superior attitudes. Pay close attention to personal appearance. Be subtle.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 - Also Pisces Ascendant) - Someone you meet and are attracted to will probably be just a passing fancy, coming to naught. Concern with children may make you anxious. Take up a new educational course to increase earning capacities.

A personalized horoscope is available. A 115-page booklet is keyed to your individual place, date and time of birth. Discover your potentials, understand yourself and others better. For information, write: Your Horoscope Guide, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Bidding will be vigorous

$762,000 in 'bucks' given so far

JENSEN BEACH--Residents of Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie have spent over three-quarters of a million dollars in the first four weeks of the "Jensen-Savannas Bucks" promotion, and bidding on the many prizes offered by merchants is certain to be vigorous, according to L.D. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the merchant's group.

Kirkpatrick said that the ten participating stores have given out, dollar-for-dollar, $762,000 in the first four weeks of the six week promotion.

"I think it is terrific," Kirkpatrick said, adding that he expects that the million dollar figure would be passed near the end of the promotion.

Merchants are offering prizes, now on display in the Jensen Savannas Shopping Center, on which shoppers can bid with their "Jensen-Savannas Bucks."

The prizes will be auctioned off at 5 p.m. on Saturday, August 16, by Maurie Fulton, an "old fashioned auctioneer" from Vero Beach, in the Savannas Shopping Center parking lot.

The prizes include four-day "mini-week" vacation to the Bahamas; nine-piece copper bottom stainless steel Revere-Ware cookware set; wheelbarrow; dial-a-rain; oscillating lawn sprinkler; ¾ inch electric drill; Wilson golf bag; two-man rubber boat; rotary lawnmower; deluxe chaise lounge and matching lawn chair; lawn spreader; 10-foot by 20-foot carpet of outdoor grass, and a ten-speed bike.

Also, choice of color and price in a sport jacket, dress shirt, man's belt, six pair of socks, sport shirt and six pairs of Hanes briefs; three portable radios; 3-speed 20-inch fan; lazy boy rocker recliner in Herculon fabric and a six-drawer lingerie chest.

Also, five barrels of Maryland fried chicken; five ten-dollar gift certificates, or eight $25 bags of groceries of the winner's choice.

Participating merchants in the Jensen Beach Plaza and the Savannas Shopping Center are offering special bargains each week to induce shoppers into their stores. The specials are listed on Page 7A of The Mirror this week.

As the countdown began moving toward the auction next weekend, local shoppers closely guarded their BUCKS with some of them keeping their Bucks in separate envelopes [illegible] denominations of one, five, ten and twenty dollar bills.

Participating in the promotion, the first of its kind in Jensen Beach, are Winn Dixie Super Market, Eagle Family Discount Store, MacFrugal's, Lewis Furniture and Tackle and Maryland Fried Chicken. Also participating in Jensen Beach Plaza and Savannas are Ace Hardware, Bruner Sporting Goods, Jane Morris Dress Shop, Noble Carpet in the Savannas Shopping Center.

It was also announced that merchants participating in the promotion and their employees will be eligible to bid on prizes.

Turtles, letters released by center

JENSEN BEACH--Some turtles and letters were released this week by the Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach.

Six loggerhead turtles that have been in center tanks for about two years were released in the ocean.

And some 3,000 letters were mailed statewide telling the center story.

Whitacar said the turtle 12 pounds and 12 in. was found by two students who have visited the center.

The turtle was found by the students behind a trailer pool about two years ago and then put in a center tank, Whitacar said.

The letters and brochures call attention to the fact that the center is a model environmental education program.

Staffer Frank Pittman will be attending numerous meetings around the state inviting educators to look over the center according to Jay Jarrett, center director.

Pittman said the center's program may be adapted to any type of environment.

For inland counties, there might be land studies, lake studies, whatever is applicable, Pittman said.

Educators who respond to the center's offer to help set up an environmental program will have the opportunity to train at the center.

More than $80,000 from the federal government is financing the effort that will see the center assisting other institutions in implementing their own ecology programs.

The federal funds were granted the center on the premise it would offer service to other school systems.

NUMBER GAME--County Attorney Steve Calvert explained the new county wide street numbering plan to Jensen Kiwanians Monday. He showed maps that outlined the four quadrants used in [illegible] Jensen Beach is in the [illegible] and avenues will carry the [illegible] designation.

Jensen street numbering is delayed for awhile

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH--The projected September start on joining Jensen Beach to the county wide street numbering plan will be put off until October or November, according to Steve Calvert, county attorney.

Calvert explained the street numbering program to the members of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant using large maps of the plan.

According to the map Jensen Beach, the part of Sewall's Point and the upper portion of Hutchinson Island will be in the northeast sector of the numbering plan.

The county has been divided into four quadrants with the center line running east and west along Colorado Avenue, the north south line following Bootwick Road, the road off Commercial Street to the proposed county park just west of Jensen Beach. The lines intersect at Indian Gardens Corner in Stuart.

The delay was attributed to the final action on Port Salerno, where the Chamber of Commerce has recently come up with a street name plan that is acceptable to the county.

However businessmen and residents who are about to have stationary printed or any other expense item that might need an address, can receive their new numbers from the county attorney's office, Calvert said.

Under the plan, all streets in Jensen Beach will fall into the Northeast quadrant with NE being added to the street designation. Streets will run east and west and avenues will be north and south.

Commercial Street will be NE Commercial Street to Bootwick Road and from there to U.S. 1 will be NW Commercial Street. North River Shores will be in the northwest quadrant.

It will be easier to note the location of the street address by the numbering system, Calvert said. With twelve blocks to the mile, and each mile allowing a set of numbers to identify it from the center line, locations will be almost immediate from the number.

In the first mile north of the center line, all numbers will be in the 1200 numbers. The second mile would be the 2400 numbers, and so forth, both to the east and west and to the north and south.

The plan also provides for between one and sixteen digits between house numbers allowing for future flexibility as it writes the plan would not allow the numbering of houses in 3-4-6-8, but rather would set the numbers based upon the city block system.

Indian Gardens Road 707 would be named Dixie Highway, and would be an east-west road from U.S. 1 to Crossroads in Jensen Beach.

The decision to name Sewall's Point Road from the Crossroads to the city line of Sewall's Point was made on the flip of a coin, instead of continuing the drive as Indian River Drive.

Calvert said that the Town of Sewall's Point would not be a part of the plan, but we would hope that the town would join in the plan eventually.

The plan is a compromise that was worked out by Calvert when the post offices complained about conflicting and duplicate names on various streets in the county. It has been developed since 1973. The last year was spent in renumbering the streets of the City of Stuart.

The post office allows for one year of delivering to the new and old addresses, and Calvert said the Stuart Post Office was heralding over backwards to work with the people on changes.

An application blank for the new street number will be delivered to local residences by postmen when the changeover begins so that the number can be obtained.

Calvert admitted that the county has had no response from St. Lucie County on an effort to tie in the numbering system with St. Lucie County residents along the southeastern line.

"They really don't seem concerned about the fringe areas from Ft. Pierce," Calvert said. He added that residents of Beau Rivage were being sent to the St. Lucie County planning department for information on what will happen to that area when the change takes place in Martin County. Beau Rivage is served by the Jensen Beach post office.

16,400 decals sold

We expect to sell approximately 30,000 by Aug. 20, Tax Collector Alvin Andrews said Monday.

Aug. 20 is the renewal period deadline. The decals will make the present tag valid for another year.

"We are open five days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.," he said.

Upland sand okayed

JENSEN BEACH--The State Cabinet Tuesday authorized the use of "upland sand" to be placed on Hutchinson Island beach at Little Ocean Place and Little Ocean Club Condominiums where the ocean front dunes have been eroded.

William Carlton, director of the Bureau of Beaches and Shores, said that the Cabinet action was an amendment to the state permit from placing rock on the beaches.

Residents of the ocean front condominiums wanted to buildup sand from the ocean and place it on the beaches.

We are opposed to that ocean sand," Carlton said.

Carlton said that the sand and rock is the best method of building the beach.

Last month the state gave the property owners permission to build a rock revetment along the 28-foot strip.

However the condominiums have been unable to use the permit granted because the County Commission will not permit the use of rock. Zoning regulations forbid the work without County Commission approval.

Carlton also noted that the sand and sea oats won't stay in place during the storm season of October and November.

I hope that the sea oats would stay in place, Carlton

He said that [illegible] oats would [illegible] to stay in place.

Carlton noted that the [illegible] granted by the state [illegible] that [illegible] to stop erosion.

House of Refuge plans muzzle loader salute

JENSEN BEACH--A bronze muzzle loading cannon will be fired during the House of Refuge 100th anniversary October 18.

House of Refuge keeper Richard Carr will fire the 24 inch Lyle gun which was invented by Lt. David Lyle of the U.S. Army in 1877.

Carr said the gun was used to fire a 22 pound projectile carrying a line from shore to a ship.

The gun, using black powder and a 32 caliber blank, would fire the projectile about 900 feet, according to Carr.

The gun Carr will fire was built in 1884 and presented to the House of Refuge in 1900.

The two-story House of Refuge on Hutchinson Island was built for $2,900 in the fall of 1875, two miles north of Gilbert's Bar Inlet (St. Lucie Inlet).

Gilbert's Bar was named for an 1830 Spanish pirate. Don Gilbert, who would ship his schooner over the reef just outside the inlet and sail upstream to safety.

LONG LOAD—It took almost a half-hour for this load to clear the Jensen Beach bridge Monday morning. The train of barges were more than 500 feet long, with one tug pulling the load as two others churned up the water keeping the line straight. The dredging complex including a barge that was a floating hotel for crewmen, moved slightly more than one mile per hour.

'Osha' gives fits

OSHA is a four-letter word that's ... businessmen fits and is helping ... consumer costs. And, there is ... in sight.

... of the youngest federal ... agencies, the Occupational ... and Health Administration since ... has had the job of carrying out "the ... of Congress" by devising ... and implementing the Occupa... Safety and Health Act.

... stated purpose was to protect the ... and health of the American ... a commendable goal.

... OSHA's regulations and tactics ... something else again—a Catch-22 of ... red tape that is costing business ... and consumers millions of ... a year.

... regulations fill a shelf 17 feet ... over the Harvard Classics took up ... five feet, and businessmen are ... to know which ones apply to ... an OSHA inspector drops by. If ... don't, and their plants don't ... to the regulations, they're ... to stiff fines.

... might have thought that OSHA ... have offered an initial no-penalty ... to a business seeking to learn ... complied with a grace period for ... new agencies. No such luck. If ... fail the inspection, you are ... to the same penalties. You can ... your insurance company to make ... question, but there's no guarantee ... OSHA won't come along later and find some overlooked deficiency.

Civil liberties don't count for much with OSHA, either. Its inspectors can barge in on a "no knock" basis without the owner's permission or a search warrant. It even had this right confirmed recently by a federal court.

Excess paper work, the security blanket of bureaucrats, is required by OSHA of the businesses it regulates. This torrent of paper and words is reflected in the gobbledygook language of OSHA's regulations, too. Here is how they define an exit: "That portion of a means of egress which is separated from all other spaces of the building or structure by construction or equipment as required in this subject to provide a protected way of travel to the exit discharge."

Application of OSHA's regulations is almost whimsical.

The owner of a small business in one western state was told he had to install separate mens' and women's rest rooms for his employees. He had only one employee. At home they slept in the same bed and used the same bathroom. She's his wife.

There is more of the same in the way Antitrust regulations for trucks are now under discussion. One would require truck cabs to be so soundproof that drivers could not hear horns in emergency vehicles' sirens. The solution? A panel of lights in the truck cab which would flash when activated by such sounds. Result? More expensive trucks, higher freight rates and higher costs of the things you buy.

Talk in Washington is serious these days about deregulating, at least partially, the airline, trucking and railroad industries to sharpen competition and lower consumer costs.

There is little evidence that OSHA has accomplished much in the way of saving lives, all the while it has been adding heavy cost burdens and creating a bureaucracy with a growing appetite for tax dollars. Yet there is little talk of reforming or eliminating this regulatory labyrinth. It's overdue.

Adopting programs

WASHINGTON—Over the years, the Congress has adopted programs affecting almost every facet of our daily lives. But once adopted, the programs go on and on, without ever being subjected to further close scrutiny.

In fact, the only time most programs are even considered again is when someone asks for more money for them.

And all too often are the administrators of these myriad programs called before the Congress and made to justify their very existence.

This has been the biggest weakness and the greatest failing of the Congress.

Without periodic review, Congress cannot expect to get a dollar's worth of services for every one of the taxpayers' dollars spent so freely.

Without periodic review, Congress runs the risk of continuing programs which actually interfere in our economic growth which slow down our recovery from inflation and recession, which stifle the free enterprise system.

There is a chance, however, that this might at last be changed.

Legislation which I have just co-sponsored now pending before the House Rules Committee would mandate an evaluation of each and every federal program every two years.

The evaluation would be conducted by the Committee with jurisdiction over the agency involved. But it would be an in-depth evaluation, requiring agency officials and the beneficiaries of the program to testify in front of the ground up.

The first consideration, of course, would be whether the program is still relevant. And I am convinced such close scrutiny would uncover any number of irrelevant programs and organizations such as the federal Board of Tea Tasters of the Interdepartmental Screw Thread Committee.

These two boards which cost the taxpayers nearly $400,000 a year get funded each year, even though they have long outlived their usefulness.

If the program is deemed still necessary, the next step would be to determine whether the methods being used to accomplish a specific goal are still the best methods possible. If not, then the committee would look for alternative methods.

In this context, committees would also examine similar programs to insure there is no duplication. And duplication of effort is a disease rampant in the federal government.

But perhaps the most important question the committees will determine is whether the taxpayer is getting his money's worth. Is the program worth the money it is costing? How does it stack up against other programs which must be funded?

There are only so many dollars available and they should be spent on a priority basis, so that the taxpayers of this country get the services they require, but only those they require.

Given the current approach to federal spending, this is certainly not the case. Priorities are seldom applied. Each program stands or falls on its own, without any real regard to whether it is important enough to command money which perhaps could be more wisely spent elsewhere.

If this legislation were adopted, and if the Congress follows through with microscopic examinations of every program, our annual budget will be transformed into a statement of current priorities.

It won't be a mishmash of current, past and perhaps future priorities, which is unfortunately the case now.

Equally as important, I would expect a savings of billions of dollars each year. After all, this is a bill to control spending. The minute a program is outdated, the minute it is duplicated or the minute it is no longer producing as it should, it will be reviewed and either corrected or disbanded.

Believe me, it can be done. Georgia has been doing it for three years. Texas has implemented it this year. And other states and cities are experimenting with the technique called "zero base budgeting."

The "Truth in Budgeting Act," if adopted, would bring the Congress a giant step closer to controlling the burgeoning federal bureaucracy, a giant step closer to wise and prudent spending.

Bicentennial meeting Monday

JENSEN BEACH—The Martin County Bicentennial Committee will meet Monday, August 11, at 8 p.m. at the Elliott Museum, it was announced this week by William Connolly, chairman.

The meeting is designed to begin county wide coordination of bicentennial activities, Connolly said.

This is not a closed corporation. It is open to all who want to take part in our Nation's 200th birthday, and we encourage the public to attend the meeting," he added.

HAVE AN HONOREE—U.S. Rep. L.A. "Skip" Bafalis has been inducted into the Golden Age Hall of Fame. The award is the highest public service citation of the National Alliance of Senior Citizens. With Bafalis is Mrs. Alberta Lee president of the 10th congressional district chapter of the organization.

Bafalis honored by senior group

JENSEN BEACH—The National Alliance of Senior Citizens (NASC) today announced the induction of Congressman L.A. "Skip" Bafalis, 10th District, Florida, into the Golden Age Hall of Fame.

In making the presentation of the organization's highest public service award, Tenth Congressional District Charter Chapter President Mrs. Alberta Frances Lee of 319 Parrell Court in Port Charlotte said: "Congressman Bafalis has shown concern, compassion and understanding for the aged while making effective contributions toward solving the unique problems of the nation's elderly. On the Golden Age Index of the National Alliance of Senior Citizens, Mr. Bafalis was rated as a 'Guardian of the Aged' for his voting record in behalf of America's senior citizens."

As President of Congressman Bafalis' home district chapter, I am proud to welcome into the Golden Age Hall of Fame of our national organization a proved leader who has quietly and selflessly worked to improve the quality of life for older persons in America and Skip Bafalis well deserves this high honor," concluded Mrs. Lee.

CESA annual golf tournament planned

PORT ST LUCIE--Events galore, including many fun events, have been planned for every golfer participating in the CESA's First Annual Golf Tournament.

Numerous prizes and awards will be presented for both men's and women's divisions in the tournament scheduled for October 8 at the Sandpiper Bay. The events is being co-sponsored by GDC and the Sandpiper.

Play is limited to the first 144 ladies and men to sign up. Registration and entry fees must be received by September 8 at the CESA building, by a committee representative or the Sandpiper Pro Shop.

Tournament proceeds will go towards the improvement of CESA's operations and programs.

A luncheon and awards ceremony will immediately follow the tournament in the convention hall. Prizes will be awarded for both ladies and men's divisions with U S G A certified handicaps.

There will be special prizes for non handicap players under the Callaway System.

Entry fees are a $10 contribution to CESA and the non golfer can attend the luncheon for a $10 contribution. Both are tax deductible.

Ordinances updated at special meeting

PORT ST LUCIE--The adoption of seven ordinances headed the lengthy agenda for the special council meeting held Tuesday at City Hall.

The rezoning of a 6.04 acre tract from Special Commercial District to Townhouse District as requested by General Development Corporation under Ordinance 75-7 was unanimously approved on the second reading. The tract is situated just east of Sandpiper Bay.

The second reading and public hearing of an ordinance rezoning a 10.56 acre tract situated on the east side of Morningside Boulevard from Open Space and Recreation District (C-1) to Townhouse District (T-II) was also adopted unanimously. The rezoning was requested by GDC several weeks ago.

Following the public hearing, an ordinance requiring grade elevations for drainage pipes installed under driveways and providing fees for same was adopted on the second reading.

The ordinance provides that any driveway being constructed where drainage ditches parallel the front of the property over which the driveway must be constructed will require installation of an 11" x 18" corrugated metal pipe for the purpose of drainage.

The pipe must extend three feet on each side of the driveway.

A fee of $20 shall be paid to the City Engineering Department for the establishment of the proper grade elevation.

A recent review of the city's ordinances conducted by Councilmembers was for the most part, responsible for several other ordinances which were also adopted on the second reading during Tuesday's special meeting.

Included were:

Ordinance 75-12 amending a previous ordinance which related to the licensing and regulation of contractors within the City.

Ordinance 75-13 repealing a previous ordinance relating to the prohibiting of dumping of any garbage in the present sanitary landfill and providing a penalty.

Ordinance 75-14 repealing a previous ordinance relating to the commission of felonies and misdemeanors within the corporate City of Port St Lucie and setting forth penalties.

And, finally, the adoption of Ordinance 75-15 setting forth penalties for violations of the City Charter or ordinances.

Motion to recover costs filed

PORT ST. LUCIE--While the City's till was recently swelled with the repayment of $7,600 by Councilman Larry Kimmel and two former councilmen, Dr. Harold Nottley and Franklin Beardsley, the residents of this south county community have still not heard the last of the lawsuit which brought about this action.

According to Stuart Attorney Jim Littman, a motion has been filed to tax costs arising from the suit brought by Interested Homeowners of Port St Lucie, Inc., more than six months ago.

Hearing date on the motion has been set for 9:30 a.m. August 26 at the St Lucie County Courthouse.

The Motion Against Defendants asks for $367.45 to cover costs of the action including court filing fees, summons service fees, witness fees, court reporters at trials and depositions, and certified copies introduced into hearings as evidence.

The court battle has been costly. Residents are reminded of this by the appeal sent out two weeks ago by the Homeowners group for further contributions to cover the deficit incurred beyond the initial collection of funds.

George Blackmond, finance chairman of the Interested Homeowners, released figures showing the group's legal expenses total $6,999.06, of which a considerable balance was due Attorney Littman at the time of final hearing.

Blackmond reported Monday that contributions are coming in quite well and the Interested Homeowners will soon be out of the red.

Repayment of $7,600 to the city was ordered by Circuit Court Judge James Alderman. He ruled that Beardsley pay back $1,800 in salary collected while holding dual positions with the city while Nottley was ordered to return $1,800 in severance pay.

Councilman Larry Kimmel, who was the last of the trio to return the money to the city, paid back $4,000 in salary collected while also holding down dual positions with the city. Kimmel doubled in brass as mayor and city engineer, drawing compensation for both positions.

COG meeting will be Thursday

PORT ST LUCIE--The Council of Governments (COG) will consider naming a permanent chairman at its 7:30 p.m. Thursday, August 7 meeting at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Barron is speaker

PORT ST. LUCIE--Dempsey J. Barron, president of Florida Senate will be the speaker at the Democratic Executive Committee dinner at 8 p.m. Aug. 29 at the Brass Sandpiper.

Zoning to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE--The next regularly scheduled meeting of the city's Zoning Committee will be held August 14, 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall.

Flagpole to be dedicated

PORT ST LUCIE--The new City Hall flag pole will be dedicated during impressive ceremonies scheduled to take place at 10:30 a.m. August 22.

"This occasion will mark the official beginning of Port St. Lucie's observance of the 200th birthday of the United States. I know all our citizens will take pride in this significant occasion to be attended by members of our City Council," Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said, adding that other local governmental officials have been invited to join in the dedicatory exercises.

Admiral John B. Fradd, U.S. Navy, Retired chairman of local Bicentennial Committee, will lead the ceremonies and give the major address. Other speakers will include Mayor Sharpe and leaders of various veterans and civic organizations.

Names of the leaders and the groups they represent will be announced by Admiral Fradd August 15. One of the local veterans organization has promised to donate an American flag which will be raised prior to the opening of the formal ceremonies.

THE GREATEST--Watching the play in the Sandpiper Bay Invitational Tournament last weekend was the man who is recognized as one of the most famous and talented of all time gentlemen in the tennis world. Don Budge and his wife visited the tournament with General Jim explained President Gen. Forster left. Budge praised the play of the many Florida champions in the tournament.

Bowling lanes gets rezoning

PORT ST. LUCIE--The possibility of a 24 lane bowling facility became one step closer to reality Tuesday when the St Lucie County Commission approved the rezoning application.

Art Young stated he intends to construct a 24 lane bowling alley which will be expanded to 48 lanes as the need becomes apparent. Following the meeting Young indicated no time would be wasted in getting construction of the initial 24 lanes underway.

The approval extends the arterial zoning an additional 400 feet west of U.S.1, making the total distance involved 600 feet on Kitterman Road. The property was previously zoned agriculture.

The rezoning was requested for the purpose of constructing a recreational complex on the property. Under consideration, in addition to the bowling facility, is a roller skating rink for the young people of the area.

According to Port St. Lucie resident Don White, who attended the commission meeting, there was little opposition to the zoning change.

"The bowling facility will be welcomed by the people of Port St Lucie," White said, adding that the cost of gasoline makes the 25 to 30 mile round trip and the league bowling fees total about $6.50 per person. He estimates there are 500 bowlers in the Port St. Lucie area.

Although the County Commission did approve the application, they indicated a further study would be made to determine what depth arterial zoning should be permitted west of U.S.1.

The commission also indicated, according to White, extreme concern regarding the proper buffer zone to be established between a business area and that property zoned agricultural.

Everyone wins at Bingo-Bango

PORT ST. LUCIE--The 3 Holers played a Bingo Bango tournament on the Saints Course on July 29th.

The winners were:

2nd Place: Penny Lewallen and Marion Hornbeck.

Runners-up were also recognized with a token prize.

Accuracy pays off

PORT ST. LUCIE--It was accuracy all the way for members of the North Port Women's Golf Association in last week's tournament play at the Holiday Country Club.

Gwen Dierksen was closest to the pin on No. 12.

Low net winners by flights were:

Turek receives commission

PORT ST. LUCIE--Francis T. Turek has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Lieutenant Turek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Turek of 1107 Dorchester Boulevard.

The lieutenant selected through competitive examination for attendance at the school, now goes to Castle AFB, California for training and duty as an air traffic control officer.

A 1968 graduate of Commack, N.Y. High school, Turek received his B.A. degree in mathematics in 1974 from Eastern Junction University.

His wife, Jeannette, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Morgen, in Dove Cote Lane, Commack.

Snooper has busy night

PORT ST. LUCIE--After a relatively quiet summer, the Friday Nite Gang Snooper had a busy time at last week's session.

Visiting for the first time were Mrs. Charles (Louise) Goldbach, originally from Lancaster, New York; Mrs. Rose Roner from Queens, New York, and Gertrude Walker from Northport, Long Island.

The main prize of the evening was won by George DeGuerrier.

CESA presents variety show night

PORT ST LUCIE--Variety Night, an evening of music and entertainment, is the next event in CESA's continuing special events presentation.

Set for Friday, August 15, at 7:30 p.m., the program thus far includes a barbershop quartet under the direction of Harold Hazell, numbers by the Port St. Lucie Youth Choir complete with guitar accompaniment, organ music by Walt Walker, group singing accompaning by Walker.

Mrs. Lawrence Heil will serve as Mistress of Ceremonies for the event.

Card party

PORT ST. LUCIE--A card party sponsored by the St. Lucie Catholic Women's Club will be held Wednesday, August 13, in the parish hall of the church on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Youth Hobby Show deadline is approaching

PORT ST. LUCIE--Only one week remains for exhibitors to register for the Youth Hobby Show scheduled to be held at the CESA Community Center August 23. Entry forms are available at the CESA office.

Young people from kindergarten through twelfth grade are eligible to enter exhibits in the wide variety of categories. Ribbons, rosettes and cash awards will be given in the various classifications and age groups, and for the Best of Show.

Age classifications are Kindergarten and Grades 1, 2 and 3; Grades 4, 5 and 6; Grades 7, 8 and 9; Grades 10, 11 and 12.

Display categories are: Models, original or kit design; Arts, including painting, photography, sculpture, creative ceramics; Crafts, and Collections.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Satchwell are chairmen of the show. They urge all young people to register an entry immediately as space is limited and exhibits will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

The exhibit will be open to the public from noon until 4 p.m., with donations accepted at the door.

Members of the Port St. Lucie Youth Unlimited and 4-H Club "Lucky Charms" will act as hostesses, serving lemonade and cookies to the exhibit visitors and contributors.

Yacht Club plans mid-summer dance

PORT ST. LUCIE--An evening of dining, dancing and cocktails is in store for members of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club as plans for the annual Mid-summer dance are finalized.

The event, the club's second largest social gathering of the year, will be held at the Stuart Elk's Lodge August 22.

While the affair will be limited to 250 members and guests, those wishing to attend are urged to purchase tickets early. Ticket deadline will be August 12, according to George Lindberg, club director.

The evening will be kicked off with cocktails being served at 6 p.m. and fifteen minutes later the salad bar will be opened.

A buffet consisting of chicken, beef, ham and other goodies will be served at 7 p.m.

Members and their guests will enjoy an evening of dancing to the music of the Joe Roberts Band.

Tickets are available from Chairmen Dick and Liz Langdon by calling 878-0638 or by contacting Joanna Hart, Ruth Kretsch, Bob and Mildred Mitchell, Jim and Betty Hall, Fred and Jean Doscher, John and Stella Jankos, Andy and Katherine Mandas or all board members.

Edee Yeago received a long interesting letter from Deedee Bakes of Wollcestville, Indiana. She is looking forward to August 18 when she is expecting Fred and Lenore Viland, George and Kitty Wyatt and Crystal and Jean at Oliver Lake. Deedee and Orval will be spendin all of next winter in Cecil Harlow's trailer.

Luther and Mary Weeks are back from Virginia. Mary's niece, Mrs. Lyman Harrell and 13 year old Rondy of Emporia, Va., returned with them. Mrs. Harrell's late husband represented Virginia in the U.S. House of Representatives for some time. She and Rondy are seeing some Florida attractions and, after a little time in this area, will fly home.

Doc and Dorothy Robertson showed slides Saturday night of their recent 18-day tour of Alaska. Neighbors Walter and Alva Scott and Edee Yeago were watching, so I slipped in and enjoyed the show, too.

Doc and Dorothy thought it an excellent tour. The outstanding features were Mt. McKinley, the Arctic Circle, and the midnight sun.

Maybe the Robertsons will give a slide show for all of us next winter.

The last time I mentioned Hilda Giblin and Mabel Stevens, they were on their way to Middlefield, Mass. Now Ruth Hoke tells me they are back already, and are so glad to be home on Sails Street they don't expect to drive any further again than to the super market. That's where they must be today, because I can't contact them for details of their trip.

Len Schneider writes that Vanita with a group to pick blue berries. Vanita's three brothers froze their berries and will use them for homemade pies in their restaurant. Of the 36 pounds Vanita picked she froze 14 pints, ate some and gave some away.

Harry and Lydia Brandau and John and Eleanor Ballina spent a day with the Schneiders last week. They all dined at Vanita's brothers' place.

I quote Len: "A new shopping center and amusement complex called 'Old Chicago' is being built about eight miles from Lemont. Two hundred small specialty shops are around the inside. In the center is a tremendously high dome which can be seen for miles. Inside this dome are 14 amusement rides. Although only one third of the stores are now opened and it will be a month before the center is completed, hundreds of cars are in the parking lot. Times may be hard, but there's always some one that has money!"

More of Mary Neese's travels:

"For 20 years I have wanted to see Carlsbad Caverns. We did - walked the whole three miles'-It was an exciting experience, but we could scarcely walk for two days!

"The Saguaro National Monument nine-mile drive was an interesting sight of saguaro cacti, cholla, ocatillo and desert plants. Some are tall as trees, the cacti I mean. Arriving in Phoenix, we made a mistake alighting in a poor area. Our tour of Sun City the next day sort of erased the bad taste! Such a rich but comfortable area. We had brunch in their dear little restaurant at the shopping center - delicious and reasonable!

"At Yuma we had a good rest and a good swim at our motel and Sir George's was a great place to eat!

"Arriving at San Diego, after crossing the desert successfully, we had just an hour to wait for the bus to pick us up for a 70-mile tour of the city - clear up to La Jolla. A delightful young lady driver and narrator gave us a wonderful view of the area. The hillsides were covered with fantastically bright ice plants in full bloom. Such brilliant colors!

"Next day the bus again pushed us up for a tour of the zoo. A bus in the zoo, with another clear girl, made it a memorable tour, even to Henry the zebra who wiggled his ears and stuck out his tongue at her! An Air Safari ride over the zoo was interesting also. The seals, as usual, put on a good performance.

"On Mother's Day I drove to Balboa Park to hear the world's largest outdoor organ. The Naval Training Center Band was there to celebrate the special day. The mayor spoke and a wonderful baritone sang several Mother's Day songs. Roses were presented to 'Mother of the year' and several others, and the Order of Eagles put on a marching drill. We had the works - beautiful program, gorgeous day.

"On Monday we were again picked up at our hotel by bus and taken to the Bay where we had a two-hour Bay cruise. It was a bit hazy, but interesting. Warships all along the Bay gave us quite a feeling of security.

More next week.

WE'LL HELP YOU WITH YOUR DREAMS

Thanks to the ever increasing number of Martin Countians who are putting their savings to work for them at First of Martin County, we now have cash available for good first mortgage loans.

That's one of the traditional roles of First of Martin County. When people put their savings into a passbook account or certificate of deposit, we can then provide the funds needed for families to buy or build a home. And, lately, more and more savers have been taking advantage of our high interest rates (the highest you can find anywhere) and low minimum deposit requirements (the lowest permitted by federal regulations).

As a result, we now have a supply of mortgage money available to reinvest in Martin County homes.

If you are in the market for a new home or condominium, or would like to refinance your present one, stop in and see us today. We'd like to help make your dream-home come true.

CESA annual golf tournament planned

PORT ST. LUCIE—Events galore, including many fun events, have been planned for every golfer participating in the CESA's First Annual Golf Tournament.

Numerous prizes and awards will be presented for both men's and women's divisions in the tournament scheduled for October 9 at the Sandpiper Bay. The event is being co-sponsored by GDC and the Sandpiper.

Play is limited to the first 144 ladies and men to sign up. Registration and entry fees must be received by September 8 at the CESA building, by a committee representative or the Sandpiper Pro Shop.

Tournament proceeds will go towards the improvement of CESA's operations and programs.

A luncheon and awards ceremony will immediately follow the tournament in the convention hall. Prizes will be awarded for both ladies and men's divisions with U.S.G.A. certified handicaps.

There will be special prizes for non handicap players under the Callaway System.

Entry fees are a $10 contribution to CESA and the non-golfer can attend the luncheon for a $10 contribution. Both are tax deductible.

Ordinances updated at special meeting

PORT ST. LUCIE—The adoption of seven ordinances headed the lengthy agenda for the special council meeting held Tuesday at City Hall.

The rezoning of a 6.04 acre tract from Special Commercial District to Townhouse District as requested by General Development Corporation under Ordinance 75-7 was unanimously approved on the second reading. The tract is situated just east of Sandpiper Bay.

The second reading and public hearing of an ordinance rezoning a 10.56 acre tract situated on the east side of Morningside Boulevard from Open Space and Recreation District (OS-1) to Townhouse District (TH) was also adopted unanimously. The rezoning was requested by GDC several weeks ago.

Following the public hearing, an ordinance requiring grade elevations for drainage pipes installed under driveways and providing fees for same was adopted on the second reading.

The ordinance provides that any driveway being constructed where drainage ditches parallel the front of the property over which the driveway must be constructed will require installation of an 11" x 18" corregated metal pipe for the purpose of drainage. The pipe must extend three feet on each side of the driveway.

A fee of $20 shall be paid to the City Engineering Department for the establishment of the proper grade elevation.

A recent review of the city's ordinances conducted by Councilmembers was for the most part, responsible for several other ordinances which were also adopted on the second reading during Tuesday's special meeting.

Included were:

Ordinance 75-12 amending a previous ordinance which related to the licensing and regulation of contractors within the City.

Ordinance 75-13 repealing a previous ordinance relating to the prohibiting of dumping of any garbage in the present sanitary landfill and providing a penalty.

Ordinance 75-14 repealing a previous ordinance relating to the commission of felonies and misdemeanors within the corporate City of Port St. Lucie and setting forth penalties.

And finally, the adoption of Ordinance 75-15 setting forth penalties for violations of the City Charter or ordinances.

Motion to recover costs filed

PORT ST. LUCIE—While the City's till was recently swelled with the repayment of $7,800 by Councilman Larry Kimmel and two former councilmen, Dr. Harold Nottley and Franklin Beardsley, the residents of this south county community have still not heard the last of the lawsuit which brought about this action.

According to Stuart Attorney Jim Littman, a motion has been filed to tax costs accruing from the suit brought by Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc., more than six months ago.

Hearing date on the motion has been set for 9:30 a.m. August 26 at the St. Lucie County Courthouse.

The Motion Against Defendants asks for $387.45 to cover costs of the action including court filing fees, summons service fees, witness fees, court reporters at trials and depositions and certified copies introduced into hearings as evidence.

The court battle has been costly. Residents are reminded of this by the appeal sent out two weeks ago by the Homeowners group for further contributions to cover the deficit incurred beyond the initial collection of funds.

George Blackmond, finance chairman of the Interested Homeowners, released figures showing the group's legal expenses total $6,999.06, of which a considerable balance was due Attorney Littman at the time of final hearing.

Blackmond reported Monday that contributions are coming in quite well, and the Interested Homeowners will soon be out of the red.

Repayment of $7,600 to the city was ordered by Circuit Court Judge James Alderman. He ruled that Beardsley pay back $1,800 in salary collected while holding dual positions with the city, while Nottley was ordered to return $1,800 in severance pay.

Councilman Larry Kimmel, who was the last of the trio to return the money to the city, paid back $4,000 in salary collected while also holding down dual positions with the city. Kimmel doubled on brass as mayor and city engineer, drawing compensation for both positions.

COG meeting will be Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Council of Governments (COG) will consider naming a permanent chairman at its 7:30 p.m. Thursday, August 7 meeting at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Barron is speaker

PORT ST. LUCIE—Dempsey J. Barron, president of Florida Senate, will be the speaker at the Democratic Executive Committee dinner at 6 p.m. Aug. 29 at the Brass Sandpiper.

Zoning to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE—The next regular, bi-scheduled meeting of the city's Zoning Committee will be held August 14, 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall.

Flagpole to be dedicated

PORT ST. LUCIE—The new City Hall Flag pole will be dedicated during impressive ceremonies scheduled to take place at 10:30 a.m. August 22.

This occasion will mark the official beginning of Port St. Lucie's observance of the 200th birthday of the United States. I know all our citizens will take pride in this significant occasion to be attended by members of our City Council," Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said, adding that other local governmental officials have been invited to join in the dedicatory exercises.

Admiral John S. Tradd U.S. Navy Retired, chairman of the Local Bicentennial Committee, will lead the ceremonies and give the major address. Other speakers will include Mayor Sharpe and leaders of various Veterans and civic organizations.

Names of the leaders and the groups they represent will be announced by Admiral Tradd August 15. One of the local Veterans organizations has promised to donate an American flag which will be raised prior to the opening of the formal ceremonies.

THE GREATEST—Watching the play on the Sandpiper Bay Invitational Tournament last weekend was the man who is recognized as one of the most famous and talented of all time greats in the tennis world: Don Budge. Budge and his wife coached the tournament with General Development President Lou Dorfman. Bill Budge praised the play of the many Florida champions in the tournament.

PORT ST. LUCIE—The possibility of a 24-lane bowling facility became one step closer to reality Tuesday when the St. Lucie County Commission approved the rezoning application.

Art Young stated he intends to construct a 24 lane bowling alley which will be expanded to 48 lanes as the need becomes apparent. Following the meeting, Young indicated no time would be wasted in getting construction of the initial 24 lanes underway.

The approval extends the arterial zoning an additional 600 feet west of U.S. 1, making the total distance involved 800 feet on Kitterman Road. The property was previously zoned agriculture.

The rezoning was requested for the purpose of constructing a recreational complex on the property. Under consideration, in addition to the bowling facility, is a roller skating rink for the young people of the area.

According to Port St. Lucie resident Don White, who attended the commission meeting, there was little opposition to the zoning change.

The bowling facility will be welcomed by the people of Port St. Lucie, White said, adding that the cost of gasoline makes the 25 to 30 mile round trip and the league bowling fees total about $6.50 per person. He estimates there are 500 bowlers in the Port St. Lucie area.

Although the County Commission did approve the application, they indicated a further study would be made to determine what depth arterial zoning should be permitted west of U.S. 1.

The commissioners also indicated, according to White, extreme concern regarding the proper buffer zone to be established between a business area and that property zoned agricultural.

Accuracy pays off

PORT ST. LUCIE—It was accuracy all the way for members of the North Port Women's Golf Association in last week's tournament play at the Holiday Country Club.

Gwen Dierksen was closest to the pin on No. 12.

Low net winners by flights were:

Everyone wins at Bingo-Bango

PORT ST. LUCIE—The 9 Holers played a Bingo Bango tournament on the Saints Course on July 29th.

The winners were:

2nd Place: Penny Lewallen and Marion Rombach.

Runners up were also recognized with a token prize.

Turek receives commission

PORT ST. LUCIE—Francis T. Turek has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Lieutenant Turek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Turek of 1167 Manchester Boulevard.

The lieutenant selected through competitive examination, for attendance at the school, now goes to Castle AFB, California for training and duty as an air traffic control officer.

A 1968 graduate of Cumback, N.Y. High School, Turek received his B.A. degree in mathematics in 1974 from Eastern Junction University.

Snooper has busy night

PORT ST. LUCIE—After a relatively quiet summer, the Friday Nite Gang Snooper had a busy time at last week's session.

Visiting for the first time were Mrs. Charles (Louise) Goldbach, originally from Lancaster, New York; Mrs. Rose Rubin from Queens, New York; and Gertrude Walker from Northport, Long Island.

The main prize of the evening was won by George DeGuerrier.

CESA presents variety show night

PORT ST. LUCIE—Variety Night, an evening of music and entertainment, is the next event up CESA's continuing special events presentation.

Set for Friday, August 15, at 7:30 p.m., the program thus far includes a barbershop quartet under the direction of Harold Hazell; numbers by the Port St. Lucie Youth Choir complete with guitar accompaniment; organ music by Walt Walker; group singing accompanying by Walker.

Mrs. Lawrence Hett will serve as Mistress of Ceremonies for the event.

Card party

PORT ST. LUCIE—A card party sponsored by the St. Lucie Catholic Women's Club will be held Wednesday, August 13, in the parish hall of the church on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Youth Hobby Show deadline is approaching

PORT ST. LUCIE—Only one week remains for exhibitors to register for the Youth Hobby Show scheduled to be held at the CESA Community Center August 23. Entry forms are available at the CESA office.

Young people from kindergarten through twelfth grade are eligible to enter exhibits in the wide variety of categories. Ribbons, rosettes and cash awards will be given in the various classifications and age groups, and for the Best of Show.

Age classifications are Kindergarten and Grades 1, 2 and 3; Grades 4, 5 and 6; Grades 7, 8 and 9; Grades 10, 11 and 12.

Display categories are: Models, original or kit design; Arts, including painting, photography, sculpture, creative ceramics; Crafts; and Collections.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Satchwell are chairmen of the show. They urge all young people to register an entry immediately as space is limited and exhibits will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

The exhibit will be open to the public from noon until 4 p.m., with donations accepted at the door.

Members of the Port St. Lucie Youth Unlimited and 4-H Club "Lucky Charms" will act as hostesses, serving lemonade and cookies to the exhibit visitors and contributors.

Yacht Club plans mid-summer dance

PORT ST. LUCIE—An evening of dining, dancing and cocktails is in store for members of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club as plans for the annual Mid-summer dance are finalized.

The event, the club's second largest social gathering of the year, will be held at the Stuart Elk's Lodge August 22.

While the affair will be limited to 250 members and guests, those wishing to attend are urged to purchase tickets early. Ticket deadline will be August 12, according to George Lindberg, club director.

The evening will be kicked off with cocktails being served at 6 p.m. and fifteen minutes later the salad bar will be opened.

A buffet consisting of chicken, beef, ham and other goodies will be served at 7 p.m.

Members and their guests will enjoy an evening of dancing to the music of the Joe Roberts Band.

Tickets are available from Chairmen Dick and Liz Langdon by calling 878-0639 or by contacting Joanna Hart, Ruth Kretsch, Bob and Mildred Mitchell, Jim and Betty Hall, Fred and Jean Doscher, John and Stella Jankowski, Andy and Katherine Mandas and all board members.

Animals need homes, or they will be destroyed

BY DENNIS DOYLE

JENSEN BEACH–Efforts to promote the neutering of cats and dogs by the Animal Birth Control (ABC) group in order to prevent the birth of unwanted animals may seem unimportant to some people, but for someone like Pappy Elsaesser, manager at the Martin County Animal Rescue League, it's life-saver.

Hundreds of stray and unwanted cats and dogs are cared for daily at the animal rescue league facility located on South Dixie Highway, where Elsaesser, a retired Pan American pilot who first became involved in the shelter while helping with the Martin County Animal Rescue League Fund Drive some months ago oversees their care.

For some animals it will bring the chance for adoption, but for the majority it will mean putting them to sleep.

"Theoretically," Elsaesser said, "our dogs are kept here one month. This varies according to the physical condition of the dog. If it appears to be a good prospect for adoption, it's kept longer if we have the room."

However, the shelter manager explained this is not always possible during peak periods like this past July 11 when the shelter housed 153 animals. The months low was on July 27 with 115 animals while the daily average is between 125 and 130 cats and dogs.

The problem of unwanted animals does however effect the pocketbook of the taxpayer. The rescue league is currently operated on funds provided from the county, city and private donations.

Elsaesser estimates that it takes about $68,000 per year to run the rescue league shelter. From that amount, $12,000 is provided by the county and $14,000 from the City of Stuart.

The other $42,000 comes from about 500 interested Martin County residents whose concern for the animal welfare in the county provides the additional money by reaching deep into their pockets," Elsaesser said.

The staff at the rescue league consists of 3 full-time and 5 part-time people who work at the facility caring for the animals. "We don't go out and pick up animals," Elsaesser said, "our job is here in this building."

Most of the animals come to the shelter by way of the dog catcher from the City of Stuart who must enforce that area's leash law.

Others are brought in by the Martin County Sheriff's Department, which must now enforce the new animal control ordinance No. 52, recently passed by the Martin County Commission applying to all unincorporated areas in the county.

"This new ordinance won't have a big effect on us here," Elsaesser said, "because if a dog is creating a nuisance someone has to go to the Sheriff's Department and sign an affidavit of complaint against the animal's owner. I don't think many neighbors will want to get involved to that point."

"This ordinance is worse than a leash law and could make life miserable between some neighbors," Elsaesser said.

Stray animals brought to the shelter are kept for 10 days in accordance with Martin County Law. If the owner comes to claim the animal, a $3 per day fee is collected.

All unclaimed animals are given a check up by one of four area veterinarians who decide if the animal is to be treated for any illness or destroyed.

Owners who decide to give up their pets, bring them to the animal shelter.

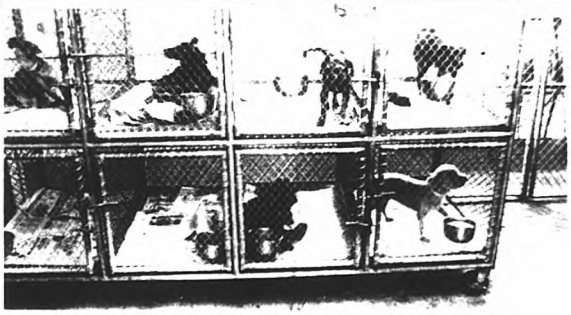
For instance, an owner with a dog that needs treatment for heart worms can easily pay between $40 and $75, Elsaesser estimates.

Recently when a woman brought in the family dog stating they were giving it up, Elsaesser asked her why. The woman replied: "I can't afford the veterinarian bills anymore. I can't even afford the dental bills for my kids teeth."



PUPS–These homeless pups could make some little child very happy, but instead their fate will most likely bring an early death. There are 10 million homeless dogs in the country today, most of which will be put to death because animal shelters don't have the room.

HOMELESS CATS–There are many adoptable cats at the Martin County Animal Rescue League. Nationally there are more than 25 million homeless cats, most of which are eventually destroyed.

MANAGER–Pappy Elsaesser is the manager of the Martin County Animal Rescue League where he oversees the care of the unwanted animals with 2 full-time and 5 part-time workers. Elsaesser, a retired Pan American pilot, first became involved with the shelter when he worked on the Martin County Animal Rescue League Fund Drive.

TAKE ME HOME–This small sad eyed pup at the Martin County Animal Rescue League is one of many hundreds of dogs and cats needing a home. He seems to be saying please stop by the shelter and take me home. It could make some little person very happy.

Don Budge adds flavor to tennis tournament

PORT ST. LUCIE–Some of the most exciting play in the history of Sandpiper Bay tennis was exhibited last weekend at the local courts, as Florida's best competed in the first sanctioned invitational tournament held at the club.

In mixed doubles agent, Gary Kesl, Gainesville, and Judy Alvarez, Tampa, defeated Ron Fick, Palm Beach, and Marge Cooper, Orlando (a Virginia Slims competitor), 8-7, 4-6, 6-1.

The only local area tennis player to survive the competition to reach the finals was Sally Campbell, Jensen Beach, who teamed with Jeannie Sackett, Miami. The team lost to Ruth Barnett, Palm Beach Gardens, and Ellen Hayes, Winter Park, 6-2, 6-3.

The tournament was watched with interest by Don Budge, one of the world famed pioneers of tennis in the United States and a name familiar to even non-tennis players.

"This is excellent tennis," Budge said. "There are many good players in Florida, and I enjoy being a part of this game." Budge was visiting the club as guest of Lou Fischer, president of General Development Corporation, and played several matches during the weekend.

The tennis great moved easily on the court when playing, and spent much of his time signing autographs for local tennis buffs.

MANAGING–Keeping the weekend tournament running properly was the job of Sandpiper Bay tennis pro Mario Obando and general manager Pierre Rollinger.

Couple sues Martin

JENSEN BEACH–A suit has been filed in Circuit Court against Martin County Commission and officials of the Building, Zoning and Legal departments by a Jensen Beach couple.

The couple, Alex and Rose Izzo, 150 N. Skyline Drive, in the suit alleges the county improperly issued a building permit in November, 1971, to Bandy Lightweight Roofing and Supply, Inc. to enclose a crane structure which was located in an M-1 light industry zoning classification and was a nonconforming use.

The permit was issued without a public hearing or public notice, the suit states.

In the suit, the couple contend that the structure is an obstruction to their view of the Indian River and Hutchinson Island, and is a nuisance as it created an increased noise level, and caused cracks in the plaster of their home.

County Commissioner Tom Higgins, who was Zoning director when the permit was issued, said he didn't see the need for the Board of Zoning Adjustment to review the matter.

Higgins pointed out that the new top on the building was to cover up the steel plant so people in Skyline Drive would not have to look down onto it.

It also was noted by Higgins that the cover was approved after meeting with the residents and Bandy officials to try to meet their objections.

The couple is seeking a writ of mandamus to require the county to rescind the building permit and future permits until regular processing under the county ordinance is established.

Committee on promotion

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce Merchants Committee is considering ways to promote the area business community.

Duso points out that a major advertising campaign or promotion by one or a few individuals is "financially out of the question."

"A cooperative effort by small businessmen, motels, restaurants, etc. is more effective. A real effort by everyone pulling together is needed."

Duso said some attractions are needed to get visitors to the area, and said that the environment of the area should be promoted.

And he suggests a sign on Florida's Turnpike at Exit 54 be erected direction visitors to Jensen Beach and "the beaches."

Long COG agenda

JENSEN BEACH–The Council of Governments (COG) will consider naming a permanent chairman at its 7:30 p.m. Thursday, August 7 meeting at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

At that time COG members hope to welcome back a couple lost members according to Port St. Lucie Mayor Sonya Sharpe.

Sharpe, who has met with officials of both the St. Lucie County Commission and the City of Fort Pierce in an effort to persuade them to reconsider their withdrawal from the organization, is optimistic about the future of COG.

Although neither agency has agreed to rejoin, officials have agreed to send a representative to the Thursday meeting to discuss the possibility, the mayor said, adding, "I feel certain if we can get St. Lucie County to come back in, that Fort Pierce might also return."

Fort Pierce Mayor Ben Bryan, Jr. said Monday that he may attend the Thursday meeting. Bryan, before Fort Pierce resigned from the two-county organization, was that city's representative to COG.

Fort Pierce and St. Lucie County pulled out of COG early in July, calling the meetings a waste of time.

Mayor Sharpe, who has headed a one man campaign to pull COG together again, emphasized Tuesday that although the public was welcome to attend the session, it was not a place for them to air their complaints.

The public has it's own branch of government and that is where the complaints are to be made, the mayor stressed, adding he felt strong about public participation being the cause of the two entity withdrawal.

Although Thursday's COG agenda is quite lengthy, it defines specific areas of concern common to each of the two county entities involved.

Heading the agenda will be a discussion on naming a permanent chairman to the organization.

Also included will be discussions on solid waste disposal in Martin and St. Lucie counties, water quality and drainage and public transportation.

Also slated for discussion are combined purchase of office supplies, sharing cost of new heavy equipment by paying municipal or county owner a fee for hours equipment is used, and utilization of single engineering or other consultants.

Received another note from the Marquardts They arrived back at May and Bob Tiffts after a beautiful trip through the green and White Mountains and the Adirondacks

Since they were rather close to Agnes and Bill Petzold, they decided to look them up The Petzolds were not home when they arrived, so they just drove down to the river to their boat yard and hooked up to electricity Bill and Agnes pulled in about 8:30 and were so surprised, all the could think of was Hal-Mar — so the had a very pleasant evening with them

The boat yard is very interesting It's been in operation for over 200 years The original owner, whose name was Gildersleeve, built large barges for use on the Connecticut River

May Tifft tells me the Neelys are out in Los Angeles and Ontario, Canada, visiting, and plan to visit Nina and Harold Leonard on their way back east.

She also wrote that Wilma Hoffman suffered a heart attack on the way home in April while visiting Hazel and Lou Pettisand, and has been grounded there They expect to be able to return home to Michigan soon

Another sad note Roy O'Neal, Virginia's husband, died suddenly in Bar Harbour, Maine on Sat., July 26 after a swim in the ocean Upon returning to the beach, he died of a heart attack while chatting with friends

He was in perfect health and looked as well, also very athletic

We all remember him as the tall slim gentleman who swam so beautifully you couldn't help but notice He also attended the exercise class while he was here

Our deepest sympathy to his wife Virginia, who will be returning to Miami shortly All cards & letters should be addressed to her at 1700 N. Treasure Dr., Miami Beach, Florida 33141

THANK YOU

I would like to thank the many friends for their cards, prayers and many kindnesses extended to me and my family during the recent passing of my wife Minnie

10 percent increase

$1 billion tax roll is expected

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County's 1975 tax roll will top the $1 billion mark, a 10 per cent increase over the 1974 roll of $909 million, according to Executive Assistant Property Appraiser Ted Campo.

Owners of property for which the assessed value has changed, going either up or down, will be getting notices.

Campo said the notices were to be mailed Tuesday, Aug. 12, and property owners will have until Aug. 29 to come in and discuss the changes with the staff.

"If they are still dissatisfied with the assessment, they can file a petition with the clerk of the circuit court to appear before the Board of Tax Adjustment," Campo said.

Tax bills probably won't go out until October because the state Department of Revenue is expected to approve the roll in mid September.

Campo said the estimate of a 10 per cent increase is conservative.

Much of the increase is due to new construction which added about $60 million in taxable property, according to Campo. The rest of the increase comes from rising property values.

The 1974 roll was almost double that of the year before because all property was reappraised as required by state law.

Campo said in some sub-divisions, including Yacht and Country Club, Hideaway Isles and Hidden Rivers, sales prices and assessment have dropped.

Values also are going up in the Skyline Drive area, along U.S. 1 south of Stuart and in some waterfront condominiums.

Campo said he plans to put the new tax roll on microfilm which will save about $1,200 in printing cost.

With the help of the Jensen Volunteer Fire Department, the new Beach Chamber of Commerce sign was completed on Tuesday morning. ...ing in the project were local attorney Brian Bibeau, a Chamber director, Don ... volunteer fireman and Chamber director, and Fire Chief Randolph ...ney.

Savanna Road-Skyline Drive connection is proposed

Heyburn, chairman of the chamber Traffic Committee, said he would talk to Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick about the connection of the two roads.

Heyburn pointed out that Savanna Road and Skyline Drive are within 10 to 20 feet of each other north of the Jensen Beach Plaza.

He said the road will relieve the traffic at the Commercial Street and Savanna Road intersection, and make it a shorter drive for residents on Skyline Drive to the shopping center.

Heyburn also said that he was going to discuss a bicycle path with Philbrick. He said the bicycle path should go from Langford Park along Indian River Drive.

He also noted the need for bicycle paths along South Savanna Road, but said "we should start with Indian River Drive first."

A bicycle path from Poor Bob's Restaurant across the causeway could come later, according to Heyburn.

PLATES HERE—The new Jensen Beach Bicentennial license plates have arrived, and are proudly displayed by Jensen Kiwanis president Dick Penick and Kiwanis bicentennial chairman Bob Meyer. The plates are a bicentennial project of the Kiwanis Club, and are on sale at the Jensen Chamber of Commerce, local businesses and from Kiwanis members for two dollars each.

Sheriff-Clerk seeking Shevin opinion

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs and Sheriff James Holt have asked the Attorney General's Office for an opinion on how much control the County Commission can exert over the operations of constitutional offices.

They are seeking an opinion by Attorney General Robert Shevin on the validity of a County Commission policy adopted two weeks ago.

The policy states:

1. All salary increases and fringe benefit increases for any and all county employees (including those employed by this board as well as those employed by constitutional officers) shall be limited to those mandated by state law.

2. All county equipment be frozen at present inventory levels. Any request for new equipment shall be approved by the county administrator.

3. All county positions and salaries frozen for the 1975-76 fiscal year.

All vacancies and new positions be approved by the county administrator or this board prior to being filled.

The two constitutional officers said they object to the idea of county commissioners and the county administrator attempting to govern the transactions of their departments.

'Mixes' ready for adoption

JENSEN BEACH—The Animal Rescue League has several "mixes" for adoption this week at the shelter.

Animals for adoption include:

Male cocker mix, one year old, a stray; two female collie mixes, one has had all her shots, "Jo-Jo" is still waiting for a home; he is eight months old, part bird dog and part red-bone with all his shots.

Part Persian kitten, seven-week-old, female, and three gray tiger kittens, male.

Bicentennial group meets

JENSEN BEACH—An organizational meeting of the Martin County Bicentennial Committee was held Monday, Aug. 11, at Elliott Museum.

"We wanted to see who was doing what, and encourage communities and organizations to tie-in their activities with the Bicentennial Celebration," Bill Connolly chairman, said.

"We took note of some of the activities that have been held, and commended Jensen Beach for its parade and activities," Connolly said.

"We also took note of the House of Refuge planned celebration," he continued.

He said another meeting would be held Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. at Elliott Museum.

...ICE OFFICE—The newest office of First Federal Savings ... Association of Martin County was officially opened ... weeks in Indiantown. Present for the opening were Buck ...auldin, assistant vice president and branch office coordinator Larry Durrance, manager of the Jensen Beach facility and assistant treasurer, Skip Breeden, manager of Indiantown, Bill Owens, chairman of the board, and Paul Hennings, president.

RUMMAGE SALE—The Ladies Auxiliary of the Jensen Beach Optimist Club will hold a rummage sale at Langford Park Aug. 23. Anne Pearl, left, Ways and Means Committee chairman, and Carol Moussou, rummage sale chairman, are shown with a few of the items that will be on sale.

Congressional pay

WASHINGTON—There are times when the Congress can act quickly, moving a legislative proposal from committee to the President's desk in just five days.

Unfortunately, it usually happens only on bad legislation.

This ridiculous pay hike first surfaced July 25 in the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee as a add-on to a minor bill. By July 30, it had cleared the committee, the full Senate, the full House and was quickly dispatched to the White House for either signature or veto.

Just who will benefit from this new largesse? Some 17,000 top-ranking government officials — from Vice President Rockefeller to the 435 Congressmen and 100 Senators to federal judges to high-ranking military officers.

Many of these raises were justified. Federal judges have gone without a pay hike since 1969 and for many, usually the better ones, this has meant leaving the federal bench for private practice.

The same was true for the top grades in the executive branch of government. Many of the brighter, more innovative public servants were leaving government to give their families a better life.

After all, six years is a long time without a pay raise—particularly when the Consumer Price Index has jumped 47.5 per cent in the same period.

But if the pay hikes for judges and others were justified, the pay boost for Congressmen most certainly were not.

Granted the inflation which drove the consumer price index up 47.5 per cent in six years has affected Congressmen and Senators the same as it affected everyone else. But it is the Congress which caused the inflation.

It was the Congress — dominated by those who delight in spending money which isn't there to please every special interest group imaginable — which refused to even try for a balanced budget and thereby bring inflation under control.

It could be argues—and it has by some that this legislation, tying Congressional salaries to the rise in the cost of living, takes away some of the incentive Senators and Congressmen might have had to bring inflation under control.

I agree. In fact, I have consistently advocated taking just the opposite approach. Instead of freeing Congressmen of any responsibility for deficit spending, I have advocated a 10 per cent pay cut for all members of Congress who vote for budgets which don't balance.

After all, every year the budget doesn't balance, you and I are penalized by higher costs on those goods and services we need. Why not put the penalty where it belongs, on the free spenders who cause the inflation?

As one of my colleagues, Congressman Bud Shuster of Pennsylvania put it, so aptly, "The American people would be better off if Congress got a pay decrease when the cost of living went up and a pay increase when the cost of living went down."

Unfortunately, not enough Members of Congress agreed. And now, Congressional salaries are firmly tied to the cost of living unless President Ford vetoes the bill.

For John Q. Taxpayer, this bill will mean between $34 million and $49.7 million, depending on whether the cost of living boost this fall is 5 per cent or 8 per cent.

However, as dismayed as I am about the sly, backdoor tactics used by some Members of Congress to give themselves a pay hike, I am more dismayed over the way the vote was handled on the House floor.

House passage of this new giveaway came after an apparent last minute vote switch. The bill had failed by one vote after the regular 15 minute voting period had elapsed.

But House members broke out in shouts, some claiming the electronic voting machine had malfunctioned. Then, House Speaker Albert delayed announcing the final vote and one member switched his position.

The end result was passage of the pay raise bill by a razor thin 214-213 vote.

And the Congress has, once more, failed to live up to its responsibilities.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

We've had a couple of welcome rains this week. It almost looks like we'll need some more to green things up nice the way you like them.

I bet the boys on the lawn cutting crew are happier this way. The less it rains the less the grass grows and they can keep up with the job better.

It appeared that everyone was really enjoying the beach with the extremely low tides occurring a few days in a row. It made for great shell hunting & many were coming back with some treasured sand dollars made easier to find.

Good news for you beach goers. Ron Engel & his wife and family are now operating the Ocean Beach Snack Bar. It will now be open 7 days a week from 11:0 or later, depending on how many people are waiting for that hamburger, corndog, hotdog or other treats.

Anyway, you can depend on it being open and someone ready to serve you. See you at the Beach Snack Bar.

Our bingo for kids has successfully run for the past 3 weeks, thanks to Harold Koenig. Sad to say, he will be leaving us this week. The kids really looked forward to this event Saturday mornings and we hope we'll have someone willing to take over the fun of calling the numbers for the kids so they can continue to enjoy something planned just for them. Any volunteers?

We had a real good time at the pool splash party Sat. night. There was a table full of snacks and dips, along with record music outside and lots of good company.

The rain that came later just moved everybody inside. But it did keep us from enjoying the pool as much as we would have liked to.

John Barone, son of Mr. & Mrs. Dave Henry and their three grandsons, Michael, Jimmy & Bobby, were down for the weekend visiting. The boys love it here so much, they spend more time here than at home.

Also here on a short vacation, are Mrs. Henry's aunt and uncle, Steve & Lillian Lupo. They are staying in the Henry's Nomad on lot 222. They just fell in love with the whole area, so upon retiring on Sept 30th they plan on residing at Ridgeway Mobile Home Park in Hobe Sound, where they purchased a lot and mobile home.

They enjoyed the pool party Sat. night.

Jim and Kay Brown have their motor home on the road again. They're gone for a month or two to N. Carolina and Tennessee and hopefully, on to Colorado. They're just sort of planning as they go, taking it nice and easy.

Doc and Mable Ackert have returned. After being back for over three weeks, I finally ran into them checking the bulletin board in the rec hall. They're both looking good, too. Welcome back.

We like to let you know who our new lot owners are. Dorothy Engel's parents, Pete and Ann Duero from Milwaukee, Wisc., are the proud owners of lot 495. Pete and Ann were here for one month this spring, and that was enough to lure them back to Nettles Island. We hope to have them here for as much of the winter as possible.

You all remember Tom Roberts, our past recreational director. He is now sports director at the Naval Base in Orlando.

Mr. Roberts and a life guard there spent two days in the hospital recently after a chlorine explosion occurred. After being summoned by the lifeguard, he went in with a gas mask on to correct the problem. The chlorine gases penetrated his clothing and put both of them in the hospital.

Have you ever watched a little child anticipating the arrival of Christmas or their birthday? Well, that's how it is with George Gleason, lot 1385. Only he's not a child, but a big man waiting for the delivery of his 16 ft. Hobie Catamaran and sail boat.

He is so excited, he couldn't sleep half the night the first week after he ordered it. He's got another week or so to wait and after that we won't see him around much anymore, not on land anyway. All we'll see is a sailboat go whizzing by and a big smile.

We are going to continue making all sorts of articles for the bazaar in November. Do you have any ideas? Come down and let us know about them.

In spite of the fact that many families are up north and elsewhere, there was a good turnout for the pot luck last Thursday night. Mildred Gray, Kate Ramsey, Jane Mock and Bam Breyer were on the committee. They arranged and decorated the tables very nicely. It looked so intimate and romantic with the whole group eating by candlelight.

As usual, the cooks outdid themselves on a good variety of foods. The cheeses and grapes at the end of the meal was a wholesome and different touch.

Husbands of the committee women cleared the tables and took care of the cleaning up in the kitchen. How about them? All men take notice! Thanks, fellows. Someone said that there was a new breed of men coming into the park. They're very helpful and should be commended.

After supper Esther Yost, with the help of some side comments from husband George, showed slides of their show place home near Lancaster, Pa. The slides were varied, colorful, beautiful and seasonal. The garden scenes of crab apple, dogwood, red maples, European mountain ash, spruce, pear and fruit trees were gorgeous. There were also pictures of azaleas, hydrangeas, gladiolas and many other flowers. The Yosts have sold that home and now live permanently in Pinelake Village.

Jane and Howard Gorman have returned from Saginaw, Michigan where they attended their son-in-law's graduation from General Motors Institute. They also spent a week with their daughter.

We are all glad to see George Casper up and around again.

Welcome to Pinelake Village Amanda and Einard Aho, who come to us from Farmington, Michigan. They have two married daughters and five grandsons.

SAND BAR–This sand bar that forms annually on the south side of the relief span of the Jensen Beach Causeway is back again. The bar, which impedes the flow of the Indian River, is usually removed by county crews, and the sand placed on the north side of the causeway to slow erosion that occurs during northeasterns.

FIREMEN OUTING–The Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department held their annual picnic on Sunday, July 28, on the Jensen Beach Causeway. Fire Chief Randolph Spanley, right, and volunteer fire fighter Mike Quinn are waiting for the barbecue pit to get hot. The volunteers and their families and friends enjoyed the outing.

CURE seeks public notice

JENSEN BEACH–Citing the danger of a major catastrophe from a nuclear reaction accident, Citizens United against Radioactive Environment (CURE) last week filed formal legal papers with the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) and the state Public Service Commission (PSC).

PSL Welcome Wagon luncheon

PORT ST. LUCIE–The monthly luncheon of the Port St. Lucie Welcome Wagon will be held Monday, August 18th. Social hour begins at 11:30 a.m. followed by the luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Walter Kramel at 878-1561, no later than Thursday, August 14.

Members interested in forming a bowling club using the Ft. Pierce Bowling Lanes, should contact Mrs. A. Schmitt at 878-1887.

Car class at college

FORT PIERCE–Indian River Community College announces a new course for the Fall Semester entitled "Do Your Own Car Care." This will be a non-credit course which will deal with basic car maintenance, such as changing oil, checking a battery, changing a tire etc. and how to trouble shoot common problems such as an engine knock or a short in the electrical system.

Airman at New Hampshire base

JENSEN BEACH–Now serving at Pease AFB, N.H. with a Strategic Air Command unit is Airman First Class Kathleen M. Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Martin of Jensen Beach.

VOL. 6 NO. 33 AUGUST 13, 1975

MAKING A POINT--Mrs. Harry Ciampaglio took the opportunity following Tuesday's Council meeting to make her point to President Vern Forrar of the Port St. Lucie Homeowners Association. William Lemon, center, listened in on the discussion while waiting his turn to speak to Forrar.

Official people tab will cost city $2,545

PORT ST. LUCIE--Unanimous approval was forthcoming Tuesday from the Council authorizing the Mayor and City Clerk to execute the necessary agreement with the Federal Bureau of Census for the purpose of updating the City's population count.

The census will provide the accurate and official count which should pave the way for the City to receive greater benefits available under the Federal Revenue Sharing Plan, according to Elmer Cox, city administrator.

Figures released by Cox this week indicated approximately $1,800 would cover the cost of sending a federal agent to Port St. Lucie. The balance of the money will be used to hire persons to carry out the survey.

The sooner we can get this count underway, the better," Cox told his listeners, adding that everything possible would be done to speed up the action.

Up until now, the city had no way of obtaining an accurate population count and consequently is losing money annually from the revenue sharing.

"The city is currently receiving its federal revenue based on the 1970 census figure of 2,680.

"Although we have no accurate way to determine a count, based on the number of utility hookups in this city with FP&L, GDC Utilities, and Southern Bell Telephone Company, a conservative estimate would be 8,000 persons," Cox said.

The special census will be conducted in the same manner as the federal government does every ten years, by a door to door canvas of the entire city.

Although Cox declined to estimate the time it would take to complete the project, he did mention that with the modern techniques he would be hopeful of a sixty day completion date.

"We are racing against time, in hopes of being able to receive the additional federal funds for next year," he said.

The census will cover people, but it is expected the city administrator will discuss the possibility of including a dog count, saying he thought possibly this might be arranged without too much difficulty.

City to clamp down on renters

PORT ST. LUCIE--Numerous complaints filed by homeowners with the police hall relative to rental property in the area has prompted officials to take action.

Councilman Bill McChesney said recently he had met with Bob Seeley, general manager of Port St. Lucie, and members of the Florida Home Finders with regards to the responsibilities of renters to the City of Port St. Lucie.

"We have had too many complaints about renters who did not follow set procedures such as lawn maintenance, garbage disposal and others," he told his listeners. It was his intention to call a meeting of all the realtors who rent homes in the city "to make certain they understand thoroughly their responsibilities, not only to the person to whom they are renting, but to the city itself."

"We want to make sure that the properties involved are maintained at a standard to which we are accustomed to in this city," he said.

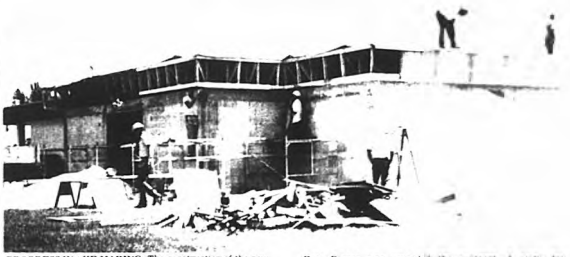
McChesney furnished Elmer Cox, city administrator, with a list of the realtors which operate in the city, and at the same time requested Cox to set up a meeting as soon as possible.

It is McChesney's opinion the realtors have a responsibility to police the areas. He pointed out they (realtors) are being paid by the person who owns the home, to see that the property is kept up, and they also owe a responsibility to the homeowner who resides here in the city.

The councilman assured homeowners the city intended to touch all bases with the realtors and would at the same time outline several of the city ordinances for the group, and urge periodic inspections.

Councilman McChesney has not taken the complaints lightly, and as an example he cited one instance he had personally investigated.

"The renters moved out of the house, put one bag of garbage at the curb and left four more bags of garbage on the carport. Obviously some animal or animals had scattered the garbage all over the area," he said, adding he was hopeful such problems would be resolved within the very near future.



PROGRESS IN THE MAKING--The construction of the new addition to the CESA Community Center is progressing with such speed, it is almost unbelievable. Richard K. Davis of Fort Pierce was awarded the contract. A sixty day completion date was indicated at the time construction started.

Finance committee to meet August 22

PORT ST. LUCIE--The next meeting of the City's Finance Committee will be held Friday, August 22 at the Port St. Lucie City Hall, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan.

Meeting time has been set for 2 p.m. in a brief report, Mrs. Kernohan, city treasurer and chairman of the finance committee, told members of the Council two Certificates of Deposit were recently purchased by the City.

"One came due last Friday and the second was up on Monday," she said, adding she had called five local banks before placing the CDs.

She quoted the Port St. Lucie Bank as paying 6% percent interest on six months and First National Bank and Trust as paying 6% for 90 days.

The Council unanimously approved the placement with the two banks.

According to Mrs. Kernohan the City will have another Certificate of Deposit come due August 20.

Hospital group slates meeting

PORT ST. LUCIE--A special meeting of the Port St. Lucie Civic League will be held Monday, August 18, at 4:30 p.m. in the new homeowners lounge at Sandpiper Bay.

Ed Fessel, a member of the Port St. Lucie Community Hospital group and also a director of the Civic League, said a public rally will be held August 25 at 7 p.m. at the Sandpiper Bay Hall.

"I think a visible display of the PSL Community Hospital support is the key for gaining the needed public support," he said.

All heads of the various homeowner groups and the public are invited to attend the August 18 meeting.

The Port St. Lucie Hospital group working within a 60-day extension granted by the Palm Beach Health Planning Council, has accumulated more than 3,000 individual signatures in support of the proposed hospital.

Representatives of the Port St. Lucie group attended a Monday night session of the Palm Beach council, at which time the council agreed to support the Hospital Corp. of America's appeal to the state agency that turned down the request for a certificate of need for a 265-bed hospital in Fort Pierce.

The application for certificate of need by the Hospital Corp. was unanimously approved by the Fort Pierce health planning committee and the Palm Beach council before being reviewed by the state agency.

The Port St. Lucie certificate was denied by the two local groups.

Mayor names city health committee

PORT ST. LUCIE--"True, we have no serious health problems in our city, but we must be forearmed, if not forewarned."

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe told the Council Tuesday as he proceeded to name three persons to the newly created health committee.

Dr. Charles Huyt was named to chair the committee. He will be assisted by Dr. John Bianco and Dr. John Jarnewicz.

The doctors, who will serve on a volunteer basis, will work closely with the St. Lucie County Health Department.

Although the committee has not been assigned any specific task at this time, it is expected to research the possibility of a hospital for Port St. Lucie.

Two additional persons are expected to be added to the panel.

"I think this is another step in the right direction," Mayor Sharpe said, adding it is his intention to form a recreation committee in the near future, probably as soon as the City acquires the Sportsman's Park tract from GDC.

Negotiations are now in the process between the City and General Development Corporation.

90 years old

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mrs. Inga Amundsen of Lynbrook, New York, who is visiting at the home of her daughter Mildred and son-in-law Ernest Hoffer on S. Saranac Ave., celebrated her 90th birthday on Monday, August 11.

Born in Mandal, Norway in 1885, she came to the United States in 1907 and has lived here since.

Hobby Show registration ends Friday

PORT ST. LUCIE--Registration for the Youth Hobby Show scheduled to be held at the CESA Community Center on Saturday, August 23, closes this Friday.

Entry forms are available at the CESA office for any young people who haven't signed up yet.

Age groups are set as follows: Kindergarten and Grades 1, 2 and 3; Grades 4, 5 and 6; Grades 7, 8 and 9; Grades 10, 11 and 12.

Ribbons, rosettes and cash awards will be given in the various categories and age groups and for Best of Show.

The exhibit will be open to the public from noon until 4 p.m., with donations accepted at the door.

Members of the "Lucky charms" 4-H Club and Port St. Lucie Youth Culminated will act as hostesses, serving lemonade and cookies.

Presidents' council to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Presidents Council of Port St. Lucie will meet in regular monthly session in the CESA building at 7 p.m. Thursday, August 21.

The Council is composed of the heads of all organizations operating in Port St. Lucie.

The Council president requests a one hundred percent attendance at Thursday's meeting. If it is impossible for an organization head to be present, he is urged to send a representative.

Four golfers enter semi-finals

PORT ST. LUCIE--The St. Lucie Ladies Golf Association will conclude their July Handicap Tournament August 19 at the Sands Course.

The four women entering the semi-finals this week include Jane Blackmond playing Mary Kuhn, while Edna Fickenger will challenge Iva Dean Bouck.

A low gross and low net in Flights was the play of the day when the group met last week.

Low net Doris Harvey, 74, and a 3-way tie with a score of 78 by Edna Fickenger, Jean Dosher and Fannie Brodie.

CESA's Variety Show is Friday

PORT ST. LUCIE--"Entertainment galore" is promised at CESA's Variety Show set for this Friday, August 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Two more acts have been added to the show. Magic by Larry Hollett and Steve Allo, both fourteen years old, and Tap Dancing by Charles Wheisel.

Also appearing will be a barbershop quartet under the direction of Harold Hazell, the St. Lucie Youth Choir.

Barnett and Levy split

PORT ST. LUCIE--Joe Barnett and Mae Levy tied in the contest for the evening's main purse at last week's Friday Nite Gang session. According to custom, they split the prize.

Demos meet August 20th

PORT ST. LUCIE--All registered Democrats in St. Lucie County are invited to attend the next regular meeting of the South St. Lucie County Democratic Club next week.

Scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, August 20, the meeting will be held at the North Port Marina.

The recent fund raising splash and cocktail party held at Sandpiper Bay was both a financial and social success, according to co-chairmen Betty and Mike Grossman.

The Grossmans, who have years of experience in the social and fund raising department, plan to have a busy schedule for the fall and winter seasons.

New hours for blood pressure clinic

PORT ST. LUCIE--The CESA Blood Pressure clinics are now being held Monday mornings between the hours of 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the CESA Community Center.

Area residents are reminded that membership in the PSL Blood Bank may be obtained by the minimal fee of one dollar.

Building starts on the rise

PORT ST. LUCIE--For the seventh consecutive month, the number of building permits issued in the City has risen.

Permits issued in July were for 19 residences and 24 additions, totaling $498,936. No permits for commercial building were issued.

The total dollar amount for residences was $456,186, for additions $42,750, bringing 1975 totals to 109 residences for $2,700,342; 154 additions for $294,015.20; and one commercial project at $47,967.

1974 totals through July 31 were 267 residences for $6,263,600; 145 additions for $258,028; and two commercial projects for $438,000, for a grand total of $7,019,628.

August 1974 was the biggest month with permits issued for 88 residences to the tune of $1,350,618 and 56 additions for $217,966.

Then the recession-inflation energy problems reared their ugly heads, bringing applications for building permits to a near stop. Ten residential permits were issued in October, seven in November and seven in December.

Opp's '28' is best

PORT ST. LUCIE--It was "Nine Best Holes out of 18" tournament play for the North Port Women's Golf Association last week.

Low Putts found a three-way tie between Faye Moore, Marge Foehr and Alice Sharp with 29.

COG is alive and well

PORT ST. LUCIE--In what would seem to have been the final meeting of the St. Lucie River Council of Governments (COG) last Thursday evening, a complete revitalization took place and, for the first time, it appears the organization will move ahead on solid footing.

The meeting was termed the most successful and constructive ever held during the organization's fifteen month history by all attending.

Comments made following the session are indicative that all members will attend the September 25 meeting to be held at the Pelican Yacht Club.

Picking up the tab for the September dinner meeting will be Mayor Pat Reason of the Village of St. Lucie, the newest member to join the group.

The Village of St. Lucie was admitted to COG last Thursday night when the group met at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Both men agreed the Thursday session, chaired by Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, was what they thought COG meeting should have been all the way along: an informal gathering where members could exchange ideas, discuss common problems, and just plain get to know each other better.

St. Lucie County and Fort Pierce withdrew their membership when meetings were taken over by public participation.

Smoke and fire damages

PORT ST. LUCIE--The home of Harold DeNova, 683 Harbor Lane, Port St. Lucie, received $1500 smoke and fire damages from a fire Sunday. St. Lucie County firemen who responded to the blaze said the cause of the fire was believed to be a cigarette. Damage to the contents of the home was set at $800.

Council meeting is August 26

PORT ST. LUCIE--The next regular meeting of the City Council will be held August 26, at 9 a.m. in the city hall.

Following last week's all day session, there will not be a workshop meeting held next Tuesday, August 19.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

We've had a couple of welcome rains this week. It almost looks like we'll need some more to green things up nice the way you like them.

I bet the boys on the lawn cutting crew are happier this way. The less it rains, the less the grass grows and they can keep up with the job better.

It appeared that everyone was really enjoying the beach with the extremely low tides occurring a few days in a row. It made for great shell hunting & many were coming back with some treasured sand dollars made easier to find.

Good news for you beach goers. Ron Riegel & his wife and family are now operating the Ocean Beach Sanck Bar. It will now be open 7 days a week from 11-6 or later, depending on how many people are waiting for that hamburger, sandwich, hotdog or other treats.

Anyway, you can depend on it being open and someone ready to serve you. See you at the Beach Snack Bar.

Our bingo for kids has successfully run for the past 3 weeks, thanks to Harold Koenig. Sad to say, he will be leaving us this week. The kids really looked forward to this event Saturday mornings and we hope we'll have someone willing to take over the fun of calling the numbers for the kids so they can continue to enjoy something planned just for them. Any volunteers?

We had a real good time at the pool splash party Sat. night. There was a table full of snacks and dips, along with record music outside and lots of good company.

The rain that came later just moved everybody inside. But it did keep us from enjoying the pool as much as we would have liked to.

John Barone, son of Mr & Mrs Dave Henry and their three grandsons, Michael, Jimmy & Bobby, were down for the weekend visiting. The boys love it here so much, they spend more time here than at home.

Also here on a short vacation, are Mrs. Henry's aunt and uncle, Steve & Lillian Lupo. They are staying in the Henry's Nomad on lot 292. They just fell in love with the whole area, so upon retiring on Sept. 30th, they plan on residing at Ridgeway Mobile Home Park in Hobe Sound, where they purchased a lot and mobile home.

They enjoyed the pool party Sat. night.

Jim and Kay Brown have their motor home on the road again. They're gone for a month or two to N. Carolina and Tennessee and hopefully, on to Colorado. They're just sort of planning as they go, taking it nice and easy.

Doc and Mable Ackert have returned. After being back for over three weeks, I finally ran into them checking the bulletin board in the rec hall. They're both looking good, too. Welcome back.

We like to let you know who our new lot owners are. Dorothy Engel's parents, Pete and Ann Duero from Milwaukee, Wisc., are the proud owners of lot 495. Pete and Ann were here for one month this spring, and that was enough to lure them back to Nettles Island. We hope to have them here for as much of the winter as possible.

You all remember Tom Roberts, our past recreational director. He is now sports director at the Naval Base in Orlando.

Mr. Roberts and a life guard there spent two days in the hospital recently after a chlorine explosion occurred. After being summoned by the lifeguard, he went in with a gas mask on to correct the problem. The chlorine gases penetrated his clothing and put both of them in the hospital.

Have you ever watched a little child anticipating the arrival of Christmas or their birthday? Well, that's how it is with George Gleason, lot 1285. Only he's not a child, but a big man waiting for the delivery of his 16 ft. Hobie Catamoran sail boat.

He is so excited, he couldn't sleep half the night the first week after he ordered it. He's got another week or so to wait and after that we won't see him around much anymore, not on land anyway. All we'll see is a sailboat go whizzing by and a big smile.

All kinds of cards are played every Friday night.

We are going to continue making all sorts of articles for the bazaar in November. Do you have any ideas? Come down and let us know about them.

In spite of the fact that many families are up north and elsewhere, there was a good turnout for the pot luck last Thursday night. Mildred Gray, Kate Ramsey, Jane Mock and Barn Bruyn were on the committee. They arranged and decorated the tables very nicely. It looked so intimate and romantic with the whole group eating by candlelight.

As usual, the cooks outdid themselves on a good variety of foods. The cheeses and grapes at the end of the meal was a wholesome and different touch.

Husbands of the committee women cleared the tables and took care of the cleaning up in the kitchen. How about them? All men take notice! Thanks, fellows. Someone said that there was a new breed of men coming into the park. They're very helpful and should be commended.

After supper Esther Yost, with the help of some side comments from husband George, showed slides of their show place home near Lancaster, Pa. The slides were varied, colorful, beautiful and seasonal. The garden scenes of crab apple, dogwood, red maples, European mountain ash, spruce, pear and fruit trees were gorgeous. There were also pictures of azaleas, hydrangeas, gladiolas and many other flowers. The Yosts have sold that home and now live permanently in Pinelake Village.

Jane and Howard Gorman have returned from Saginaw, Michigan where they attended their son-in-law's graduation from General Motors Institute. They also spent a week with their daughter.

Larry O'Donnell is back home from the hospital.

We are all glad to see George Casper up and around again.

Welcome to Pinelake Village Amanda and Elnard Abo, who come to us from Farmington, Michigan. They have two married daughters and five grandsons.

SAND BAR--This sand bar that forms annually on the south side of the relief span of the Jensen Beach Causeway is back again. Chamber of Commerce sign is a community project completed

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Editor's note: Just as the Jensen Chamber of Commerce building was completed with volunteer effort and donations, so the new sign was designed the same way. The editor was chairman of the committee on the sign and wants to personally thank all who had a part in the sign, some of whom do not wish their participation to be made public.

JENSEN BEACH--It seems no simple process but putting up a new sign for the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce was a major undertaking, requiring many man hours of labor and generous donations.

The project got under way with the submittal of many color sketches of possible sign ideas in all, produced by artist Jim Engle. Then, Joe Kelleher volunteered to paint the sign.

Contact was made with Florida Power and Light Company and Southern Bell to place wiring underground so that the sign could be placed high enough to avoid vandalism.

But, where to find a sign.

Clarence Rydell and his partner of Gold Coast Tire had a sign in their warehouse and donated it to the Chamber of Commerce. Chamber president Art Hansen removed the former printing with paint remover, and Kelleher set to work.

Leonard Smith of Jensen Builders offered to stake out the long planter planned to hold the sign and poured the footers for it. Bell and Dodd Concrete and Tile laved the blocks and Torow Construction poured the cap and is in the process of putting finishing Marblecrete on the planter.

Forms were fitted into the planter, and Randy Steel produced two 25-foot, hundred-pound, four-inch posts to hold the sign. Then, Porter Lumber allowed the use of a fork-lift to help volunteers move the posts into place.

Once in place the posts were painted by a crew from Florida Institute of Technology.

Electrical hookups for the sign were done by TAC Electric in a coordinated effort between the Martin County Building Department, FPL, Southern Bell and Tom Charles.

With the help of the "cherry picker" from the Jensen Volunteer Fire Department, Brian Bibeau and Don Wilkie put the sign in place on Tuesday.

The sign of the Chamber of Commerce was a community-wide project, and many who helped are not mentioned in this story. The sign will stand as a dedication to community involvement.

CHANGING WIRING--In order for the new Jensen Chamber sign to be installed, Florida Power and Light Company and Southern Bell offered to place the wiring for the Chamber building and Virgil's Barber Shop underground.

DESIGNER--Artist Jim Engle, well-known local artist, made eight different ideas [illegible] which the present Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce sign was chosen. He works in his studio at Ocean Breeze Park.

THE PAINTER--Joe Kelleher, well-known local artist and former owner of the Art Mart in Rio, put the finishing touches on the Chamber signs, working from Carl Engle's drawings.

CAREFULLY--The [illegible] planter had to be poured [illegible] near the Florida Power and [illegible] Southern Bell Telephone [illegible] edge of Commercial Street.

First of Martin County opens Indiantown branch

JENSEN BEACH--On Thursday First Federal Savings and Association of Martin County its new branch office in The opening will be through August 15 with a opening providing souvenirs for and a drawing for prizes.

for the new office began in 1973. Approval by the Home Loan Bank Board was August 30, 1974. Construction May 1975.

The new branch office building was by Donald C. F. Miller. associated with Fore Line the builders of Largo. Construction also was by Fore local Indiantown sub-con whenever possible.

The new Indiantown office, the third and second brand new branch to be opened by First of Martin in the past six months will be by Ralph D. (Skip) Breeden. It will be staffed by Deborah Culberson and Connie Whitaker. Laurence M. Durrance Jr., Assistant Treasurer of the Association, will supervise the opening of the new branch office.

Mr. Breeden, born in Maryland has lived most of his life in Florida. He graduated from Lake Worth High School, Palm Beach Junior College and Florida Atlantic University in 1969. He has been employed by First of Martin County since January 1974 and most recently has been manager of the Association's Hobe Sound office. He is married to the former Cathy L. Johnson from Stuart, who teaches at the Indiantown Middle School.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County was chartered in 1955 and opened on Flagler Street in Stuart on February 7, 1956 with 176 depositors and $230,000 in assets. It moved to a new main office building on U.S. No. 1 in 1960.

In 1965 it received approval for a branch office in Jensen Beach which was opened the following year. At that time, the Association had grown to $14 million in assets.

Further expansion to serve the residents of Martin County was made in April 1972 when it opened the Hobe Sound office. At that time, the assets of the Association had reached $46 million.

On April 15th of this year, First of Martin County opened its new 7,500 square foot Hobe Sound office on U.S. No. 1 in Hobe Sound. Six weeks later, on June 2, 1975, the Association opened its first office outside Martin County in the City of Okeechobee.

With the opening of the new Indiantown office on August 7th, First of Martin County now has five offices to serve the residents of Martin and Okeechobee Counties.

As of June 30, 1975, First of Martin County reported total assets of $83.6 million and serves over 13,500 residents of Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee Counties.

METAL POSTS--Installing the metal posts in concrete were Chuck [illegible] Heaton, Art Hansen, and others who passed by.

Obituaries

GERTRUDE B. McKAY

JENSEN BEACH--Gertrude B. McKay, 95, of 8 N.E. 7th Avenue, Ocean Breeze Park, Jensen Beach, died Saturday, August 9, at Martin Memorial Hospital.

A native of Nova Scotia, Canada, Mrs. McKay had been a resident of Ocean Breeze Park for six years, coming from Boston, Massachusetts. She was of the Methodist faith and a Past Noble Grand, Patron, Radiant Star Rebeccah Lodge No. 206.

Survivors include her sister, Mrs. Mary Butterfield of Ocean Breeze Park, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services and burial will be by the Deware Fuperal Home in Quincy, Massachusetts. Yates Funeral Home is in charge of local arrangements.

EDWARD J. BISHOP

JENSEN BEACH--Edward J. Bishop, 65, of 217 Ne. Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach, passed away Monday, August 11, at Martin Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Bishop was born in Ligonier Township, Pennsylvania, and came here three years ago from Latrobe, Pennsylvania. He was a steelworker, a member of the Lutheran faith.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Rosella W. Bishop of Jensen Beach, two sisters and two brothers.

Funeral services and burial will be in Latrobe under the direction of the Dell Funeral Home, with local arrangements by Yates Funeral Home.

SETTING POSTS--Moving the heavy posts, weighing over 100 pounds each, was facilitated by Porter Lumber's lift truck, and each had to be plumbed with a level so that the concrete could be properly poured to set straight.

AARP picnic next week

JENSEN BEACH—The August picnic for members and friends of Martin County Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), will be held Thursday, August 21 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the Stuart Causeway.

Those attending are asked to bring their own food, drink chairs and TV tables so that the group can be seated together.

The same excellent weather enjoyed at our June and July picnics has been scheduled for this event, says Jill Morris, picnic chairman.

Anna Maria and Rose Marie Dell Aria, AARP members who also participate in the St. Lucie Sweet Adelines, will lead group singing. Reports will be made by the travel, social and insurance committees.

A special invitation is extended to all members of the national AARP now in this area to attend the picnic and sign up with the local chapter, now numbering 685 members, according to Ernie Lurwen, vice president.

Lockwood-Stephens wedding was held

JENSEN BEACH—Sarah Marie Lockwood, daughter of Mrs. Marie R. Lockwood of Jensen Beach, became the bride of Joe D. Stephens of Fort Pierce in an afternoon wedding on July 12 at the Jensen Beach Community Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Donald E. Johnson.

Escorted to the chancel by her brother, Harold, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon. The extending lace train. The double silk illusion veil of elbow length was trimmed with a lace border and attached to a lace seed pearl decorated cap. Her flowers were an assortment of white blossoms interspersed with baby's breath on a base of Springeri fern.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Andrea Mills Martin, Longwood, Fla. and Mrs. Donna Klingler of Cincinnati, Ohio, a cousin of the bride. Their gowns and accessories were identical to those of the matron of honor.

The bridegrooms father, John Clyde Stephens, Sr. of Eutaw, Alabama served as best man. Ushers were John Clyde Stephens, Jr., Tuscaloosa, Ala., brother of the groom and David Culpepper of Fort Pierce, Fla.

The mother of the groom wore a floor length dress of green quana with green accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Bobbi Winebrenner Shreck attended the bride's book at the reception held at the Community Room of the church. Serving refreshments at the reception were Mrs. Marie Christansen, Mrs. Hilda Castello and Mrs. Helen Richardson, all of Jensen Beach.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stephens, Sr., paternal grandparents of the bridegroom, Georgia Richards, aunt of the bridegroom and Lynn McGalliard, cousin of the bridegroom, all of Eutaw, Alabama. Rita Stephens, aunt of the bridegroom of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Cecil Stephens, aunt of the bridegroom of Mobile, Ala.; Mrs. Ann Stephens, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Other out of town guests from Cincinnati, Ohio were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leibel, aunt of the bride and sons Greg and Steve; Mr. and Mrs. George Frondorf, uncle of the bride and Jeanine Matthew; Danny and Joe James Klingler and daughter, Carrie Williams Strom of Gainesville; Dennis Martin of Longwood, Fla.; Stan Smiley, West Palm Beach; and Linda Harger of Miami, Fla., also were present.

Following a mountain honeymoon in North Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens will live in Fort Pierce, Fla.

Premarital events were a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Merton D. Chase of Vista Pines on June 26th, and a rehearsal dinner, feted by the groom's parents on Friday evening, July 11th, at the Ramada Inn in Stuart.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH—Happy birthday wishes are extended this week to Elaine Rhoden celebrating August 14; Dora Newsom, 15; H. Pomeroy and Henry Wening, August 15; Mildred Jones, 17; Walker and Emmett Grant, August 17; Helen Silvers and Robin Tilton, August 18; and to Mildred Greenland, Ethel Schuster, John Duggan and Willard Bookman, August 19.

GOP women sponsor outing

JENSEN BEACH—The Republican Women's Club of Martin County will sponsor a summer jamboree Saturday, August 16, from 1:30 to 5:30 on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

A fish fry Florida style will be prepared by chefs Sheriff Jim Holt and Robert W. Epp. Music and entertainment will be provided by The Sunshiners. Chairwomen for the event are Mrs. Jane Henderson and Mrs. Mary Ivanek.

Mrs. Ross H. Philbrick will be mistress of ceremonies. Hostesses for the event are supervisor of Elections Sandra Randolph, Clerk of Court Louise Isaacs, Mrs. Mary Heard, Mrs. Dotty Effinger and Mrs. Jane Kelly.

Tickets for the event may be purchased in advance by calling 287-8647 after 4 p.m. daily or may be obtained the day of the jamboree.

Jensen Beach school opens September 2

JENSEN BEACH–More than 600 students will start the 1975-76 school year at Jensen Beach Elementary School Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Classes for the kindergarten through the fifth grade school start at 8:20 a.m.

Classes for Martin County High School students got under way Monday, Aug. 18.

On Monday, Aug. 25 the 329 elementary and middle school teachers will report for their pre-school orientation session at Stuart Middle School at 8:30 a.m.

Jensen Beach teachers will be in their classrooms Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, according to John Clyde, assistant principal.

There will be 28 staff members and six aides to welcome the approximately 615 students. Two new teachers join the staff this year, Marty Figun and Barbara Mascari, according to Clyde.

Among other pre-school activities at the Jensen Beach school will be an orientation session Thursday, August 28, for kindergarten parents.

The session at the school will begin at 7 p.m., Clyde said.

For the new teachers in the school system, about 25, there will be the annual air tour over the county starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 30.

And for the staff at Jensen Beach there are many new books to be unpacked and many new students to register.

School Supt. James Nautiks reminds parents that Florida law requires that all children entering public or private schools for the first time must be immunized for diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, polio myelitis, rubella and mumps.

$1 million public hearing set on building

JENSEN BEACH–A public hearing on the proposed purchase of a $1 million office building will be held Tuesday, August 26, by the Martin County Commission.

Commissioners scheduled the public hearing on that date so they could vote on the purchase of the $1,025,000 three-story Executive Plaza Building which will be used as county offices.

County officials have estimated that it will cost $52,000 to finish the uncompleted portions of the building.

Located on 1.8 acres of land with 130 parking spaces, the building is appraised at $1.32 million.

With the proposed purchase of the building, the tentative capital expenditure for the fiscal year 1975-76 is more than $2.2 million, an increase of a million dollars over last year's capital expenditure budget.

Other capital outlay expenditures for the new fiscal year include $925,000 for St. Lucie Inlet improvement, and $225,000 for roads.

Last year capital expenditure was $1,179,500 and the previous year, 1973-74, was $1,147,248, with the St. Lucie Inlet improvement the biggest expenditure for the past two and present years.

Meanwhile a Hobe Sound plumbing contractor has filed a suit in Circuit Court seeking to collect $4,068 allegedly owed by Executive Plaza, Inc.

A.A. Dorsey and Son Plumbing, Inc. contends that the amount was never paid, and filed with the suit a legal document that places a lien on the property and thus prevents its sale by the owners.

According to a "fact sheet" issued by the commission, the office building would yield income of $62,065.96 annually from leases of present occupants.

Lessees includ Dean Witter and Co., Pitman Insurance, Thurlow and Thurlow, attorneys, Allied Business Co., U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the Florida Parole Office.

Scheduled to move into the new building are the County Commission, County Administrator, County Attorney, Planning and Zoning, Building, Engineering, Finance, Purchasing and Veterans.

In the 1973-74 capital outlay expenditure, $75,000 was budgeted for the courthouse annex expansion.

Some of the offices that are presently in the courthouse annex will move to the new office building if the commission approves the purchase.

Five tons of pot seized

JENSEN BEACH–Five tons of marijuana were seized last Friday on the north fork of the St. Lucie River near Sandpiper Bay Resort by Martin County sheriff's deputies.

Four men, all from the Florida Keys, were arrested and charged with possession of over five grams of marijuana.

They were identified as Michael Wilkerson, 26, Allen Keith Tittle, 25, Robert Tittle, 33, and Ronnie Boggess, 32, all of Marathon.

Bond was set at $50,000 for each and all four were still in Martin County last Monday.

Sheriff James Holt said the two boats, the Hunter and the Adios, had been in the area for about a week. He said they were observed last Friday riding lower in the water than usual.

The sheriff said he ordered the boats stopped after they passed under the Roosevelt Bridge and turned northward toward St. Lucie County.

The boats and men were apprehended without resistance near the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

The boats came in from the ocean through the St. Lucie Inlet, and the sheriff said it was the first time they had come in with anything on them that we know.

The 5,000 pounds that weighed down each boat amounted to the Sheriff's Department's largest marijuana seizure. Value of the marijuana was set at about $3 million, and it was said to be the third largest in the state.

SET AFIRE–Martin County Sheriff's Department Deputies watch as the 4300 pounds of marijuana burn at the Stuart city dump last Thursday. The grass was set afire by Sheriff James Holt and doused with diesel fuel.

COG is alive and well after meeting

JENSEN BEACH–In what would seem to have been the final meeting of the St. Lucie River Council of Governments (COG) recently, a complete revitalization took place and for the first time, it appears the organization will move ahead on solid footing.

The meeting was termed the most successful and constructive ever held during the organization's fifteen month history by all attending.

Comments made following the session are indicative that all members will attend the September 25 meeting to be held at the Pelican Yacht Club in Fort Pierce.

Picking up the ish for the September dinner meeting will be Mayor Pat Bacon of the Village of St. Lucie, the newest member to join the group.

The Village of St. Lucie was admitted to COG last Thursday night when the group met at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Both men agreed the Thursday session, chaired by Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, was what they thought COG meetings should have been all the way along: an informal gathering where members could exchange ideas, discuss common problems and just plain get to know each other better.

St. Lucie County and Fort Pierce withdrew their membership when meetings were taken over by public participation.

Motel group is planned

JENSEN BEACH–Local hotel and motel operators have formed a steering committee to consider organizing a Martin County Motel Association.

If a local motel association is not formed it seems likely that motel operators in the area will get together with operators in Fort Pierce and Vero Beach.

Serving with McManemon will be Ken Benjamin, Sandpiper Bay Resort; Allen Forbes of the Ramada Inn of Stuart; John Fitzgerald, Holiday Inn, Florida Turnpike in Fort Pierce; and Alice Irvine, Howard Johnsons, Stuart.

The steering committee is expected to meet with Vero Beach Motel Association members in the near future.

Tax notices are received

JENSEN BEACH–About one third (about 10,000 — of Martin County property owners last week received notices of changes in their property value.

The tax appraiser's office said they were not "swamped" by property owners questioning the increases.

Those who object to their latest assessment have until August 29 to file a petition in the court clerk's office.

Crary makes safe landing in emergency

JENSEN BEACH–Attorney William Crary landed his Cessna 310 safely today as emergency equipment from Witham Aerospace Corp. and the Stuart Fire Department stood by.

Crary, according to police officer Fred Trimm, had jammed the front landing gear and circled the airport for more than an hour attempting to release the gear.

Trimm said Crary apparently jerked the nose upward as the tail section bumped and the landing gear fell down enabling the plane to stop.

Crary was accompanied by his wife, son William, Jr. and his wife, and Michael Crary, son of attorney Evans Crary who is owner of the plane.

Lake commercial fishing is debated

JENSEN BEACH–Biologists of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission said their plan to allow commercial seining in Lake Okeechobee will relieve an overcrowded fish population and cut down on the predators spoiling the waters.

But opponents claim seining has been banned in the past and, at best, should be tried on a limited basis before opening the lake to all comers.

Biologists Lotlan Ager and Dennis Jirnovec told a gathering at Martin County Courthouse there is not enought food in the lake to support all of the fish there. As a result, the fish have to compete with each other for food and they grow slower and reproduce less than they would if there were fewer fish.

Game Warden Ross Parsons said he has found public opinion to be split 50-50 regarding the proposal based on three public hearings.

There will be a meeting September 26 of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to review the findings of the public hearings.

Animals for adoption

JENSEN BEACH–The Animal Rescue League has a six-year-old Irish setter for adoption this week.

Also at the shelter for adoption is a one-and-a-half year old male cocker and five black kittens.

The shelter is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m.

Palm tree inspection asked

SEWALL'S POINT–Town commissioners will seek an inspection from the county agricultural agent on possible lethal yellowing of coconut palms along Sewall's Point Road.

Mayor William Sowden read a letter at the last commission meeting from King Spray Service which indicated the palms along the roadway are weakening and should be inoculated with terramycin for prevention of the disease.

Commissioners said agent Robert Whitty should check the trees before any inoculation program is purchased.

Lethal yellowing palms were found over two years ago near Jonathan Dickinson State Park.

Martin County has a ban on transporting any possibly contaminated trees into the county from the south.

MARIJUANA DESTROYED–The Martin County Sheriff's Department destroyed 4300 pounds of marijuana last Thursday at the Stuart city dump. The majority of the grass was confiscated in a raid by the local department last March. Above Sheriff James Holt sets fire to the grass, doused with diesel fuel.

GETTING READY--Ladies from the St. Joseph Guild have been busy preparing for the annual Christmas Boutique to be held at the church sometime in late November. Proceeds from the event will go to the church. Those working at the church Monday were, from the left, Betty Stewart, Mary Nebrig and Margaret Koch.

SIGNING IN--Kirk Friberg, 9, registers for Jensen Beach Elementary School's fourth grade with his mother, Mrs. Carol Friberg, looking on. Mrs. Sheila Lewis, school secretary, registers the young student.

Steele is catching 'em

JENSEN BEACH--According to the Snook Nook Fishing Report for the past week, Steve Steele is finding and catching fish. In three outings, Steele had 8 snook, 8 trout, a fluke, one channel bass and three redfish.

Ed Wagner had 11 trout and 2 snook; Pat Patterson, 7 trout; Pete Peterson and Stan Lippincott, 7 trout; and Bob Carruthers, 2 trout.

Jeff Heasley took a 25-lb. jack from the surf.

Dr. and Mrs. John Delk, from Orlando, caught a 6 ft.-8 in. sail on Saturday.

Request is okayed

FORT PIERCE--St. Lucie County Planning and Zoning Commission last week recommended rezoning of property on South Hutchinson Island.

Apostolopoulos requested rezoning of property from multiple family to business.

He asked for the rezoning to allow for construction of a commercial marina at Beach Club Colony.

The petition will go to the County Commission for public hearings.

LONG LINE--For the past few days there has been a long line in Martin County courthouse -- extending from the Tax Collector's office into the courthouse annex. Martin County motorists are in the line, waiting to buy their 1976 auto stickers. The stickers must be placed on all motor vehicles by midnight Wednesday, Aug. 20, after which the Highway Patrol will begin issuing tickets for drivers who have invalid tags.

Football sign-up at Park

JENSEN BEACH--Registration for the Optimist Club football players will be held the next three weeks -- through the first week in September -- at Langford Park from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Registration is for boys 10-14, and practice started for the new season Monday, August 18, at the park.

Pay raise

The price of hot air is going up! Congress has just given itself a pay raise.

With the nation facing the prospects of double-digit" unemployment and several public officials setting an example for austerity (one new congressman rides the bus to work; another rides his bicycle) the House of Representatives has voted to fatten its members' paychecks by nearly $4,000 a year, from $42,500 to $46,112.

To the credit of a good many congressmen, the vote was close. It passed by a single vote, 214 to 213.

In fact, had it not been for some last minute hysterionics on the part of Democratic Caucus Chairman Phillip Burton, the electronic voting device in the House would have recorded it the other way around.

In the final seconds of voting, with the tally at 214 "against" and 213 "for", Burton hollered, "The machine's broken! The machine's broken!"

He later told reporters that this was a ploy. The machine wasn't broken at all, but Burton's theatrics had given him the time he needed to get the machine turned back on to record some switch votes. By using arm-twisting Speaker Carl Albert helped Burton by using some stalling techniques at the podium.

So much for congressional "leadership" at a time when public opinion polls show the average American ranks congress at its lowest point in history in terms of confidence.

By tacking their pay raise measure to a post office bill, which also raised salaries of federal judges and upper level bureaucrats, Burton & Co. hoped to make their move inconspicuous. Their plan to rush it through without a roll call vote (thus avoiding embarrassing questions from voters at election time) was thwarted, but it's a safe bet that those voting "aye" aren't going to shout from the rooftops about it back home.

Burton and his allies were luckier a year ago when the House Administration Committee granted the entire House a juicy $10 million package of perquisites. These benefits would come automatically to each member if the committee's decision didn't even require ratification by the full House.

It was rammed through in express train fashion by Committee Chairman Wayne Hays, who said he would deal with opponents of the measure by simply eliminating their staffs. That silenced the opposition.

The perks include extra money to put out those puff-piece newsletters to constituents twice a year (previously two were paid for from each congressman's office budget) and much more as many paid-for trips back home to their districts. As many as 12 of the total of 64 trips can now be assigned to staff members.

If you're upset about all this, now's the time (or never) in the middle of a recession. Don't bother writing your congressman about it this month. He's still on vacation.

More nutty studies

WASHINGTON— Unless President Ford exercises the veto, the National Science Foundation will be given another $791 million to spend on programs explaining Eskimo pronunciation to grade schoolers and on studies into such esoteric subjects as the social life of the prairie dog.

And, once more, it will be able to do it without undergoing any real congressional scrutiny.

The House of Representatives tried to regain some semblance of review over the activities of the National Science Foundation. It adopted, by a 212-199 vote, an amendment which would require that agency to submit its research grant applications to Congress for review.

The idea was to take a real close look at the value of some of the foundation's subsidized studies. After all, this is the agency which spent $15,000 studying hitchhiking, $84,000 to learn why people fall in love, $112,000 on a study of the African climate during the last Ice Age and thousands of dollars more on scores of equally mind-boggling subjects. Some sort of review seems justified.

Unfortunately, however, the Senate refused to go along with the House amendment, thanks to the urging of Senators Kennedy of Massachusetts. And the idea died.

Without this review, the taxpayers are going to be deprived of their opportunity to determine whether the studies they are funding are worth while. Worse yet, it could pave the way for further excesses and even greater expenditures.

There are only so many tax dollars available. Therefore, they should be spent carefully. It is an old maxim of government that the closer the scrutiny, the wiser the spending.

And it is obvious from some of the studies funded by the National Science Foundation that it hasn't been getting the scrutiny it deserves.

Even more questionable is whether in these times of extremely tight money, the budget for the NSF should be increased $35.6 million above the already high $755.5 million requested by the administration.

Yet that is what the final version of the National Science Foundation's 1976 authorization does.

However, it isn't just the research studies funded by NSF which have been the subject of intense Congressional condemnation.

The National Science Foundation funded, and is the leading proponent for expanded use of the controversial school program known as "Man A Course of Study."

This program, as geared for grade school pupils, has kicked off quite a furor, particularly in its emphasis on the activities of a remote Eskimo tribe.

There are long portions dealing with this tribe's treatment of the weak and elderly – sending them out to die alone on an ice floe, sections dealing with the tribe's casual acceptance of sexual promiscuity, sections dealing with casual violence.

All of this for grade school youngsters.

No wonder some parents and teachers have reported an upsurge in youngsters with psychiatric problems after prolonged exposure to this series.

Yet, despite all the criticism of the National Science Foundation and its work, there are those who contend Congress has no real business poking its nose into this agency's work, who contend that any attempt to review foundation research grants is "anti-intellectual."

Well, I don't feel that spending money wisely is anti-intellectual. And I don't accept the contention that subjecting the work of any government agency to close scrutiny is going to send us back to the Dark Ages.

After all, if the agency can't stand up to close scrutiny, there is something drastically wrong with it.

And, if it's wrong, corrections must be made as soon as possible.

Bidding is high as million-dollar spree ends

JENSEN BEACH--A four-day vacation in the Bahamas went for $2,350, a ten-speed bike for $3,050, and a $25 bag of groceries went for $1,750 as over 1,500 persons gathered in the Savannas Shopping Center Saturday to spend some of the million Jensen-Savannas Bucks collected over the past six weeks.

The first merchants promotion in Jensen Beach was termed a "great success" by many, including participating merchants, and comments were mixed as the dramatic afternoon heard some forty-five prizes auctioned off.

Near the end of the auction, conducted by Roger Chancey, principal of Palm City Elementary School, the air was filled with white "Bucks" as disappointed bidders threw their dollars in the air.

"It looked like snow," said one.

The parking area of the shopping center was white with the discarded bills.

It was easy to see why the bidding was so high, as nearly $100,000 was bid to win the 45 prizes that were auctioned.

As the pattern was formed, with the opening bid of $2350 for the island trip, neighbors began giving their "Bucks" to others to give them a chance to win. The lowest bid of the afternoon was $700 for six pairs of Hanes briefs.

Many who arrived at the auction had already collected enough to raise the total bidding to high figures and that led others to combine their "Bucks" for the later bidding.

"It's a ripoff," said one who had brought $500 "Bucks" to bid.

"This is the most excitement I've seen in Jensen Beach in years," said another, who added, "I hope they do it again."

"It's nice to see people giving their dollars away to help someone else," another said.

"I can't find a parking place," one complained after driving through both shopping centers and seeing all roads near the shopping centers lined with cars.

Merchants were evaluating the promotion this week, looking at the positive and negative sides of the auction.

"I'm really pleased with it. We put on a good show, offered some fun for the people, and some won prizes. We let the people know they can find what they want right here at home, and at reasonable prices," said one.

Another said that he felt that the next merchant promotion should offer a broader range of possibilities for shoppers to win, and suggested that a drawing might be the answer.

"But we do want to continue promoting together and want all the merchants to take part," he added.

During the six week promotion, ten participating merchants offered many special sale items in a page in The Mirror. The promotion was designed to reach out to local residents and offer them incentive to shop locally.

The Jensen Savannas Bucks were treated as money by the merchants with shoppers getting a "Buck" for each dollar spent in the ten stores. A million "Bucks" were given out during the six weeks. Merchants and their employees were not allowed to participate in the promotion.

Bidding near $100,000 listed

JENSEN BEACH--Most of the bidders combined their "Jensen-Savannas" Bucks" with those of neighbors to bid almost $100,000 for 45 prizes as Roger Chancey conducted the auction Saturday in the Savannas Shopping Center.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

Other than the beautiful hot swimming weather we had this weekend things were pretty quiet here on Nettles Island

The pump breakdown at the beach pool closed that one down this past week I'm sure it made a few people unhappy, but it's giving maintenance a chance to drain, clean and give it a whole new face lifting with a coat of paint Also our other pool received recently They're working hard at it right now and should be finished by the end of this week You can always take a nice cool dip in the ocean while you're waiting It's been beautiful

The only activity that took place this weekend was the Friday night bingo It looks like Tom Vanmeter might be starting one of his lucky streaks again He won the big N.I again, all by himself

One of those (chance in a million) things happened George Gleason volunteered to do the calling on the second half of bingo The first game was a BIG coverall! He gave his cards to friends to play for him while he did the calling and I'll be darned if he didn't call off all his own numbers and win the $$ He wasn't sure if he should believe them or not, but it was so and it made for a few good laughs

"Dear Dorothy, Your roving reporter along with news of where our travels are taking us this summer and news via mail received from other Nettles Islanders

Speaking of mail, first of all, a big thank you to Jim Wallace in our post office for speedily forwarding our accumulated mail to us received it all in a big envelope just 2 days after he got our request.

"We have been at Lake Tansi, Tenn. for nearly a week and find it so delightful, we plan to stay longer Enjoying the beautiful cool mountain air and there is much to see and do here Had spent the last couple of weeks in western North Carolina with many happy stops We visited friends (former Buffalonians) we hadn't seen in years

"Would you believe" I just read last week's issue of our Jensen Beach Mirror Fellow campers here in the park passed along a copy that was passed on to them Such fun to read the column and keep up with news while we're away.

Had a letter from Mary and George Shimp They leave for Europe Sept 1st and will be there 3 weeks. Should have much to tell us when they return to Nettles next winter Also heard from Dr. Norm Ehlinger from Mich He and family will be at Nettles for a short stay by the time this reaches you Sorry we'll miss them, will have to wait until their Christmas visit. Other Nettles neighbors, Doc and Kip Strong (Detroit) write that they may get in a short visit to Nettles in the fall before they start out in their motor home for a trip to the West Coast.

"Guess that's all for now Best regards to all our friends at the resort See you in the fall"

Every time you saw Ken Hyde this spring and early summer, he was studying Even when we had the car wash last May, he sat in a golf cart under a palm tree and studied while his car was being washed

Well, it all paid off as he passed the test for his casualty license and can now sell casualty insurance in addition to ordinary and life insurance Congratulations Ken

Evelyn Staley can't rave enough about the wonderful weekend she just spent with Ann and Bernard Murphy who showed her the town of St Augustine

They went roughing it on the beach in style in the Murphy's new motor home

They spent Sunday afternoon on the beautiful St Augustine Beach, driving along the hard white sand and stopping to swim and enjoy the sun They topped it off with a New England boiled dinner in the comfort of the motor home

Evelyn was fascinated no end by the whole trip She said she took her can of Off along that she always has with her and never had to use it once

It looks like Mary Fey from the P.D.Q. Store is at it again She landed an 18 lb. snook Thursday morning, using a little grunt as bait She caught it at her usual fishing spot, the little bridge on the causeway in the resort She sure knows how to catch 'em'

Mary told me this story a while back

Richard Moran, vacationing here at Nettles Island this summer, was fishing, using cut mullet as bait He set his pole down when something (we don't know what) took the bait and the road and off it went.

Two nights later, using the same bait, he hooked onto something and started to reel it in, not knowing what he had

Believe it or not, it was his rod and reel A little bit sandy, but he was a very happy boy

Good news! I heard from Marietta Brocklebank. She says all the cards she received helped her to feel much better. She is exercising carefully to strengthn herself, per doctor's orders. Her doctor has not released her as yet, but she hopes to be able to return to H.O. by November.

I received a letter from Mary Sumner. They were attending the N.CT. Rally at Virginia Beach, Va., the first time they had been out for a week or more, as Mark had surgery five days after arriving home in May, and spent all through June recuperating. He is fine now, but must rest a lot.

They are taking in the many sights of the area. They took a four-hour cruise to Old Williamsburg, Va., to see the place where the first settlers landed, then to the James River where an English Colony was established at Jamestown, then on to Williamsburg, at one time the U.S. Capitol, where the Capitol Building is still standing after being restored two times when big fires had destroyed parts of the building. They visited the Old Governor's Palace and Gardens, the old jail and tavern, many old homes and printing shops, the 18th century Britons Parish Church, all so interesting. There were 750 or more trailers at the rally, with about 2000 people in attendance.

Ethel and Paul Pinkiewicz share these notes from Jo and Huly Gorman of lot 128, telling of going through rains around Washington, D.C., forcing them to stay at a trailer park there, then continuing on the next morning to Philadelphia. They have had a heat wave up there, "at present 97 degrees" and no relief in sight.

They found their home and yard in good shape, thanks to good neighbors. Huly has been busy doing some photography work for his old organization up at the camp where they used to spend their summers, a series of pictures.

Heard from the Stanley Stankos of lot 101. They are home at Harvey, Ill. They attended a Winnebago Rally at Forest City, Iowa, for a week. About 3000 people in 982 units attended the Mexican Rally. They say they had a fine time, no rest, "but you can always get that at home."

Here's the latest about Leo and Vi O'Neil. They have just returned from five week tour. They entered th shuffleboard tournament held Gaylord, Mich., last month, where the won first place in the main event. The Vi won second place in the main ladies event, so they have two more trophie to add to their collection. They expect t be back here either at Holiday Out Pinelake, the first week in October.

New program at FI

JENSEN BEACH—A ne degre program will be offered at Florid Institute of Technology in Jensen Beac beginning in January 1976.

Dean E.E. Tealey said the progra will terminate with an associate science degree in underwater techn nology.

He said the underwater technolog student will also receive associat medical training.

"This program has been developed with the offshore o industry," the dean said, whe employment prospects for the skille well-trained technician are excellent.

Dean Tealey said the studen seekin admission to the program will b required to furnish evidence of basi scuba certification by a recognize agency.

Winning is only half the fun.

There's a lot more to Jai Alai than the thrill of winning a Perfecta, Quiniela or Double. There's the game itself. Bouncing balls careening off walls at 150 miles an hour. The greatest athletes in the game combining half-way-up a wall to retrieve a seemingly unretrievable shot. The heart pounding excitement of the double play. From the moment the players step onto the court you're sure to remain on the edge of your seat. Come out today and find out what Jai-Alai's really all about.

MORTGAGE $$$ AVAILABLE

Savings Deposits At All-time High

JENSEN BEACH, Fla.—A substantial increase in total savings deposits at First of Martin County has resulted in an abundance of mortgage monies being available. There now are ample funds for good first mortgage loans for the construction, purchase or refinancing of homes in this area.

According to officials at First of Martin County, savings deposits in passbook and certificate accounts have increased significantly in recent months. As a result, there is a good supply of money available for first mortgage loans to local residents.

The remarkable increase in deposits is attributed to the fact that no savings and loan pays higher interest rates on regular savings accounts than First of Martin County, and no bank pays as much. It is also a fact that First of Martin County has the lowest minimum deposit requirements allowed by federal regulations.

At the same time, all savings at First of Martin County are insured up to $40 thousand per account by an agency of the federal government.

First of Martin County now has five convenient financial centers to serve its customers. Mortgage applications will be accepted at all five offices during regular business hours — 9 AM to 3 PM, Mondays through Thursday, 9 AM to 6 PM on Friday.

Do you look forward to school?

As the opening of a new school year approaches, several children in the Port St. Lucie area were quite willing to express their opinion on the matter.

"Yes, I'll be real glad to go back to school. Not much to do around here and besides the weather is hot." Todd Peters

"I want school to open because I like it. I like summer, too, but I like school better." Jennie Phillips

"I can't wait! I'm going in second grade and I want to see all my friends." Michele Riley

"Maybe I'll be glad to start school. Yeah, I guess I will." Robbie Schneider

"I can't wait for school to start because I like school work. I want to get good education." David Riley

"Not really. No. I don't have a favorite subject. Guess you could say I just hate school." Tim Schneider

Mayor Sharpe pleased

Land negotiations favorable

PORT ST. LUCIE–It is highly possible that within the next sixty days the City of Port St. Lucie will acquire a site for the proposed city hall complex.

The site being considered is located at the intersection of Airoso and Port St. Lucie Boulevards, and is the same site our Planning and Zoning Board has recommended for the second time in a many years," Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said Tuesday.

"Although GDC President Lou Fischer did not think it too likely the city would obtain the land cost-free, he did say he thought the developing firm would be able to come up with a price the city would be able to live with," the mayor said.

"We are not looking at a retail price, but something that is within the city's means and also agreeable to the company," Fischer was quoted as saying.

Although no firm commitments were made, Fischer has indicated GDC would come up with an offer by September 1.

If the City Council decides in favor of the location for the city hall complex and the purchase price is agreeable, it is entirely possible the land deal would be finalized within sixty days according to Mayor Sharpe.

The amount of property needed for a civic complex places a limit on the parcels that are available, but the Airoso-PSL Blvd. tract is considered adequate to handle the multi-purpose center.

The proposal submitted to the Council several months ago for consideration called for a city hall to be the center around which the other civic center structures would be oriented.

It has been proposed that eventually the complex would include county related activities as well as state and federal activities.

A recreation complex is also included in the long-range plan for the center.

The City's Planning and Zoning Board recommended the 25.12 acre site because of its central location and the fact it is readily accessable.

Mr. Fischer has shown a tremendous interest in our entire city. He is enthusiastic about the city's long range planning and has offered to help us in anyway possible to carry out these plans," Mayor Sharpe said.

The city, in its 1975-76 budget, has set aside $75,000 for the acquisition of a new city hall.

The land site for the proposed city hall was just one of many items discussed when City Administrator Elmer Cox and Mayor Sharpe met with GDC officials in Miami last week.

City officials are hopeful the deed to the Sportsmans Park Complex will be received in September.

"As soon as the park is turned over to the city, bids will be advertised and we will get busy on improvements immediately," Sharpe said, adding the lights would be one of the first improvements made.

Other items discussed included the acquisition of parks by the city, a site to be set aside for the street and road department, shopping centers, commercial sites, and the North Port Marina.

"We talked in terms of our city twenty five to thirty years from now. Now is the time to master plan the city.

School sites, as reflected in the present master plan, are already inadequate as far as acreage is concerned. Now is the time for us to work with the school department to set up new sites while open land is still available," Mayor Sharpe stated.

Flagpole dedication August 22

PORT ST. LUCIE–Dedication of the new City Hall flagpole will mark the official beginning of Port St. Lucie's observance of the Bicentennial celebration. An impressive dedication ceremony is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. August 22.

"I know all our citizens will take pride in this significant occasion to be attended by members of our city Council," Mayor Schuyler Sharpe declared further stating that other local governmental officials have been invited to join in the exercises.

Admiral John E. Fradd, Retired, who is chairman of the local Bicentennial Committee, will deliver the major address and lead the ceremonies. Other speakers will include Mayor Sharpe and leaders of various Veterans and civic organizations.

One local Veteran organization has promised to donate an American flag which will be raised prior to the opening of the formal ceremonies.

Council to study pension plan

PORT ST. LUCIE–The discussion of various pension plans will most likely head the agenda when the City Council meets September 2 for the regular workshop session starting at 9 a.m.

City Administrator Elmer Cox announced last week that he will have several offers pertaining to the city's pension plan for the council's consideration at that meeting.

First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart tendered their resignation to the position as trustee for the Port St. Lucie pension plan.

On August 7, Col. R.H. Cook main trust officer of the bank met with Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and City Administrator Elmer Cox to submit the bank's resignation. However, under the provisions of the contract the termination will not become effective for a period of sixty days.

Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan, who also heads the city finance committee, has made several informal inquiries of certain banks relative to a pension plan, according to Cox.

"I do believe the Council will want to consider every aspect in light of First National's resignation. Therefore, I will have complete details for the Council's consideration on at least two pension plan offers received from various companies.

"I want to have all the information together in time so the members of the council will have ample opportunity to review the documents prior to a discussion on September 2," Cox said.

The state plan will also be available at the same time, according to the city administrator, who is hopeful of also having a representative from the state present at the meeting to explain the plan.

The resignation of First National Bank was forthcoming within days following Col. Cook's request for the signatures of three council members plus that of the city clerk to make payments to Mrs. Grace Kavanaugh, Dr. Harold Nottley and Franklin Bradshaw.

When councilmembers refused to oblige, the bank in accordance with the ruling handed down by Circuit Court Judge James E. Alderman, proceeded to issue the payments.

The original pension plan was set up by Pittman Insurance Agency in Stuart under the instructions of the City Council.

The legality of the pension plan had been questioned in a recent lawsuit brought by the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie against the then City Council.

On June 20 Judge Alderman ruled the pension plan, although favoring certain members of the Council, is legal.

Five tons of pot

JENSEN BEACH–Five tons of marijuana were seized last Friday on the north fork of the St. Lucie River near Sandpiper Bay Resort by Martin County sheriff's deputies.

Four men, all from the Florida Keys, were arrested and charged with possession of over five grams of marijuana.

They were identified as: Michael Wilkerson, 26; Allee Keith Tittle, 25; Robert Tittle, 33; and Ronnie Boggess, 32, all of Marathon.

Bond was set at $50,000 for each and all four were still in Martin County last Monday.

Sheriff James Holt said the two boats, the Hunter and the Adios, had been in the area for about a week. He said they were observed last Friday ruling lower in the water than usual.

The sheriff said he ordered the boats stopped after they passed under the Roosevelt Bridge and turned northward toward St. Lucie County.

The boats and men were apprehended without resistance near the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Large crowd expected at hobby show

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Youth Hobby Show scheduled for August 23 at the YMCA Community Center is expected to attract many local residents.

Those who would like to see how the young people of Port St. Lucie spend their time developing interesting hobbies, then you certainly won't want to miss the opportunity of stopping by the CESA Building Saturday, anytime from noon until 6 p.m. to see the Youth Hobby Show.

Among the exhibits will be stamp collections, ceramics, oil paintings, needlework, shells and many more items on display.

Awards will be given out Saturday afternoon in the form of blue, red and white ribbons, rosettes and cash prizes for the best of show in each age category.

The girls from the Lucky Charms 4H Club and Youth Unlimited of Port St. Lucie will be acting as hostesses. They will bake the cookies to be served.

There will be an admission charge of 75 cents for adults, 18 and over. Children will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Get acquainted tea planned

PORT ST. LUCIE–A Get Acquainted tea will be held by the St. Lucie Junior Woman's Club on Saturday, August 23, at 4 p.m.

All young women between the ages of 18 and 35 who are residents of St. Lucie County are cordially invited to attend.

The affair will be held at the Woman's Club of Fort Pierce building, located at 500 S. 29th Street in Fort Pierce.

All new and prospective members will meet present members and be presented with information and "favors" representing the various club departments and activities and projects.

Refreshments will be served.

For further information, contact Mrs. Miles Heckendorn at 878-3655.

Yacht Club to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–The next meeting of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club will be held Tuesday, August 26.

The meeting time will be 8 p.m. at the Marina Port Marina.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by The Mariners, a singing group from Stuart.

Several new members will be introduced and welcomed during the evening.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting by social hostess Mrs. Edna Kessler.

Motel group is planned

JENSEN BEACH–Local hotel and motel operators have formed a steering committee to consider organizing a Martin County Motel Association.

If a local motel association is not formed, it seems likely that motel operators in the area will get together with operators in Fort Pierce and Vero Beach.

Serving with McManemon will be Ken Benjamin, Sandpiper Bay Resort; Allee Forbes of the Ramada Inn of Stuart; John Fitzgerald, Holiday Inn, Florida's Turnpike in Fort Pierce; and Alice Irvine, Howard Johnsons, Stuart.

The steering committee is expected to meet with Vero Beach Motel Association members in the near future.

WORKSHOP SESSION–Teachers of the Port St. Lucie Elementary School are involved in workshop sessions being held at the school prior to next Tuesday's opening. Two additional classroom teachers have been added to the staff this year making a total of twenty-two full time teachers at the new school.

Gang has a feast

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Friday Nite gang had a feast to end all feasts at last week's session.

Frances Bernota, Snooper Fran Lee and Natalie Dreble learned that Hostess Irene Benz might not be present for today the 22nd, which is her birthday. They surprised her with homemade cookies.

So – a feast.

Also reported by the Snooper was the return of Mr. and Mrs. John Saita after a long summer vacation. Visitors were his sister and brother in law, Mary and Sal Salvo of East Meadows, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Gil Stallings and son were "first timers."

The main prize of two tickets for the CESA chicken barbeque on Labor Day was won by Gertrude Walker.

"DISSEMINATION OF HURRICAN INFORMATION"

Naturally, Florida residents are deeply interesting in the weather and you will find that the news media will faithfully report the discovery and progress of suspicious weather conditions. If a tropical depression grows to hurricane proportions, listen to southeast Florida radio and T.V. stations for frequent advisories concerning the hurricane's progress.

When a hurricane watch or warning is announced for Martin County tune to W.S.T.U. (1450 AM) or W.M.C.F. (92.7 FM) for Local Government and Red Cross advisories. These are official - do not listen to rumors. A Hurricane Watch or Warning means:

1. HURRICANE WATCH

The hurricane is 24 to 48 hours away and may cause dangerous conditions in Martin County.

2. HURRICANE WARNING

Hurricane winds of 74 miles per hour or higher or a combination of dangerously high water and very rough seas are imminent within the next 12 to 24 hours.

Each resident of Martin County should have in mind a course of action if a hurricane threatens. Accually there are only three alternatives. These are:

1. Stay at home and weather it out.
2. Leave the area.
3. Go to a Red Cross shelter, a motel-hotel or a friend's home.

The following are some factors to consider:

a. If your home is built to withstand strong winds, is in good condition and is not in a low lying area, you should be perfectly safe in your own home.

b. Know the elevation of your property above mean sea level. If you don't know ask your County or City Engineering Department. Another consideration is that, even though your home may be on high ground, access roads might flood and isolate you for several days. If you are in a low lying area which is certain to go under water, you should plan to leave home early. Pre-storm tides may cut you off. 75 to 90 percent of casualties result from water - winds are of secondary importance.

c. If you live in a trailer, boat or mobile home, or if your residence is old or not in good repair, or you feel insecure in your home, you should by all means plan to leave home early.

Whatever your course of action, there are certain basic precautions you should take. Of course there will be several others that come to mind and will be suggested by well meaning friends and "hurricane experts", but the following advice comes from those who have experienced many hurricanes over a period of years.

"FOR THOSE WHO STAY AT HOME"

1. Lay in a supply of food - particularly canned foods and other items that do not require refrigeration. Check your first aid kit.

2. Your water supply may fail. Sterilize your bathtub and other containers by scrubbing and then swabbing with ordinary bleach and fill with water. Boil water before drinking.

3. Check emergency cooking and lighting facilities, and be sure that adequate fuel, batteries, candles, bulbs, etc., are on hand.

4. A battery operated radio is essential for receiving weather reports after the power fails.

5. Turn your refrigerator and freezer to the coldest setting. Open only when absolutely necessary, and close quickly. Most home freezers will maintain food preserving temperatures up to 48 hours or more, if left closed. Electric service may be damaged or shut off as a safety precaution when winds reach hurricane force. If there is considerable damage to the electric system, restoration of power could be delayed several days. Find out beforehand if, and where, you can get dry ice.

6. Fill the gasoline tank of your automobile and keep the tank topped. Gasoline pumps are operated by electricity and useless during a power failure.

7. Secure or take indoors everything that is loose. Awnings, lawn furniture, signs, trash cans, outdoor lights, etc. They have a way of becoming high speed missiles during hurricanes. Half empty swimming pools and lower T.V. antennas.

8. Most windows will withstand high winds but it is the flying objects, such as tree limbs, roofing materials, etc. that cause the damage. Storm shutters and awnings must be closed and secured and unprotected windows should be boarded up or taped inside. A supply of materials, such as boards, nails and a hammer should be kept on hand for emergency repairs.

9. Keep a window partially open on the side of the house opposite from which the wind is blowing. All internal doors should also be kept open. The reason is that during hurricanes the barometric pressure outside could become so much lower than inside that windows blow out by themselves. As the storm passes the wind will shift to the opposite direction. Don't forget to close the windows and open one on the other side of the house.

10. If the storm center, or "eye" passes your area, there will be a calm period or lull lasting from several minutes to a half hour. Wind and rain will cease and the sun may even shine, but do not be fooled. Do not go out except to make quick emergency repairs. The wind will resume from the opposite direction often with greater force than before.

"FOR THOSE WHO GO TO SHELTERS"

1. If you live in a mobile home or trailer or you feel insecure in your home and can't leave the area for one reason or another, go to the nearest Red Cross Shelter as soon as they are opened. Evacuate exposed beaches and islands early. Pre-storm tides may cut you off.

2. As a rule, Red Cross Shelters are not opened until the Hurricane Warning is announced. However, during the Hurricane Watch period you will be informed of the shelters that will be opened should a Hurricane Warning be issued.

3. Food, such as sandwiches, etc. for the first meal which requires no cooking should be taken to the shelter along with blankets, pillows, medicine, and personal items for the family.

4. Parents of babies must remember to bring formulas, baby food, sufficient diapers and ice chest to keep formula.

5. During the storm no one will be allowed to leave the shelter unless an emergency exists.

6. No alcoholic beverages or pets will be permitted in the shelters.

7. Sterilize and fill your bathtub and other containers with water. The water supply may fail or be contaminated for some time after the storm subsides and you return to your residence.

8. Tie down or place indoors all loose objects. Secure your home and turn off all power and fuel supplies.

9. Fill the gasoline tank of your automobile and keep it topped.

10. If you have a sick person you feel should be evacuated, consult your doctor to determine if evacuation should be made to a shelter or to hospital. This also applies to women in their last stages of pregnancy.

"FOR THOSE WHO LEAVE THE AREA"

1. Tie down or place indoors all loose objects. Sterilize and fill your bathtub and other containers with water. The supply may have failed in your absence. Secure your home and turn off all power and fuel supplies. If you leave behind a trailer or mobile home, be sure it is as securely anchored as possible. It might still be there when you return.

2. If you live in a trailer or camper on Hutchinson Island or County, State or Private Park, plan to leave as soon as possible after Martin County has been placed on a Hurricane WATCH. This is to reduce the possibility of traffic jams and high wind problems, which will surely occur if everyone delays their departure until the Hurricane Warning is announced. This particularly applies to persons pulling trailers.

3. Where you go to escape storm danger is a matter of personal choice and a factor always to be considered is the direction the storm is moving. The north central part of the state appears to be a good choice. Unless you have friends to stay with, select a good motel or hotel and hole-up for the duration.

"AFTER THE STORM"

1. Avoid all fallen or low hanging wires.

2. Do not tamper casually with wreckage. A harmless looking carton may harbor a snake. Animals and reptiles are driven out of low lands by high water and are as distraught and probably hungrier than you are after the storm.

3. Use your phone for emergencies only. If the damage is widespread, do not jam the telephone system to report interruptions in individual electric, gas, water and telephone services. Utility companies have plans for complete service restoration. Report individual trouble to utility companies only after services are returned to normal in your neighborhood. Jammed switchboards may prevent emergency calls for police, firemen, doctors and ambulances. Do report immediately to police or utility companies any hazardous conditions such as downed live electric wires, broken water mains and overturned bottled gas tanks.

4. Don't get in your car immediately after the storm and drive around to see the damage or how your neighbors made out. This contributes to the inevitable confusion, delays utility restoration and could be downright dangerous.

5. Remember that streams and rivers may rise higher after the heaviest rain has ended.

6. If you intend to file an insurance claim, don't repair anything until your insurance man has had a chance to see it.

7. It's wise to boil drinking water until it has been determined that the water supply hasn't become contaminated.

Protect your boating investment

Long-time Florida residents and boat owners figure if they hear that annual statement concerning hurricans again they'll scream. It seems every year the weather experts indicate this could be the year that Florida gets a big, bad killer.

Since Florida has received only a couple of brushes since 1963 and nothing compared to the constant parade of hurricanes we endured during the 1940's and 50's we're probably safe again.

Why the big concern over hurricanes? It's simple...If you haven't ever rode out one first hand then you can't appreciate the loss of lives, millions of dollars of damage and general confusion and disarray they can leave an area in upon their departure.

Midwesterners have a healthy respect for tornadoes and rightfully so, and hurricane bearing down on Florida should command the same type of attention because they frequently pack tornadoes as well as hours of 100 mile per hour winds.

Sustained high winds and tornadoes combine to create a serious enough problem, but water damage to homes, boats, utilities, businesses and virtually everything else in its path can create nightmares.

One of the big fears weather prognosticators, civil defense and other safety-oriented groups have is not really with the oldtime residents. The fear lies in preparing the newcomers for an approaching hurricane.

Florida's population has jumped faster on a state-to-state basis in the past 20 years than most of the other states combined.

The Sunshine State now ranks in the top seven in the U.S. in population and nearly half of our residents know as much about nuclear warfare as they do about hurricanes. Your chances are about equally as good for survival in either one if you are not prepared properly.

For Floridians, in many instances, a hurricane bearing down on us presents two problems. We must concern ourselves with a home, frequently on the water, as well as a boat. Improper preparations in either instance is financial suicide and could even result in the loss of loved ones.

Unlike 20 to 30 years ago when hurricane forecasting and prediction of movement was like playing Russian roulette, today's hurricane predictors have the latest, most sophisticated and elaborate equipment available to mankind. It is virtually impossible for us to get caught by surprise without a reasonable amount of time to make preparations.

And when one of those temperamental and unpredictable ladies start brewing in the Caribbean or Gulf of Mexico, only the totally ignorant or completely uninformed person could be caught unaware. Every printed or broadcast medium keeps everyone informed with progress reports every hour, day or night.

Unfortunately, there is still one chief problem. Every one will wait until the last minute to start scurrying around and making preparations while they could be made now and should be made now. It would be wise to have a plan of attack before the attack is imminent and panic sets in – both at home and on the waterways.

While Floridians do not enjoy a changing of the seasons winter, spring, summer and fall, we do have hurricane season and it runs from June 1 until November 30. Statistically, Florida has faced most of its hurricanes during the September, October and November months so there is time to take action.

In many instances, preparations run parallel with the waterfront home and boat, but we will focus most of our attention on the boat owner.

The most important thing a boat owner can do is make arrangements with one of Florida's many storage sheds and covered yacht basins should a hurricane threaten. An agreement could probably still be made now, but it's practically impossible when the hurricane warnings are issued.

If you are unable to make any of these types of arrangements within your immediate area and will face rising water problems, then it is advisable to attempt to find an inland waterfront home owner without a boat and make a private arrangement to tie up there. Rising water is a considerable problem along the coastal waters while further inland, it might only be a minimal increase which would create only limited problems.

An added incentive to make these types of preparations is the fact that most Floridians take their vacations during the summer or hurricane season. Streaking back to Florida to beat a rapidly-approaching hurricane could certainly ruin that well-planned vacation.

Another major obstacle boaters will face that must be considered is the problem of bridges and waterway traffic. A boat owner waiting until the last minute will be nearly helpless when the storm tempo picks up. Boats that easily cleared many bridges without raising them or that would even clear bridges that can't be raised under normal conditions will find that the rising water has blocked their path. This will be a problem for the boat owner waiting until the last minute before heading inland for safer grounds or even a facility he has storage reserved.

The same individual waiting until the last minute to make a mad dash to safety will also find that his buddy the bridgetender isn't going to raise his bridge every time a boat approaches. Automobile traffic will be increased to a frantic pace involving last minute preparations and a bridgetender isn't going to tie up 500 automobiles and families so your boat can meander through.

There are many items of concern for boat owners. The fuel tanks should be full to keep out condensation and also to give a boat owner mobility if he should have to move. Hurricanes frequently knock out electricity, even for days in some cases, and there could be a fuel shortage due to storm created circumstances.

Boat equipment like lines and fenders should be thoroughly inspected and leave no question they are capable of enduring high winds and rising water for a long period of time. Many large boat owners use breast lines across canals to keep their craft intact, but they should not every impede progress of other boat owners.

All canvas, light gear, chairs and virtually everything else should be stripped off your boat to eliminate unnecessary losses or damage to you or a nearby boat. If you should decide to stay aboard your boat during a hurricane, do not ever venture outside unless you have received the "all clear" report from the U.S. Weather Bureau. And never stay aboard during a hurricane without wearing a life jacket.

The small boat owners should also attempt to arrange for covered or protected storage, but if that is impossible there are several steps which are vital to the preservation of your runabout. If the boat can be put on the ground, then chain it to something immobile and add six inches of water to help keep the boat on the ground.

In the case of trailered boats, slide wedges under the tires to prevent the trailer from rolling and also under the tire springs because of the additional weight. Many people even let the air out of the trailer tires to keep it in place.

Other preparations should include a safe supply of fresh drinking water stashed aboard your boat or in your home because the drinking water supply could be impure from hurricane damage or broken water lines. Everyone should have a good, reliable, battery-powered radio to maintain contact with the outside world when the electricity goes out as well as a couple of good flashlights. It would also be advisable to have several rolls of tape available to prevent shattering glass should a flying object hit the windows of the boat. Put a big X across the inside of each window before the storm strikes.

These suggestions will help you weather a storm with a minimum of damage. Add common sense to the list and you'll be in pretty good shape. Always remember hurricanes are killers, leave property damage in the millions of dollars and are frequently accompanied by tornadoes. They should never be taken lightly.

Don't ever assume that you're saving money by not having hurricane protection; it's a wise investment at all times. A hurricane can easily destroy one of your biggest financial investments and supplier of literally unlimited hours of fun and leisure-time activity because of your lack of preparations. Don't put off until tomorrow what should be done today.

Are Your Hurricane Preparations Complete?

Is hurricane cycle going to hit Florida again?

Old-time Floridians often reminisce about "the big storms."

The ones that whipped stinging salt spray through the air so fast and hard that paint literally was peeled from building walls. Or water surges that rose like liquid walls to gut two and three floor dwellings and knock down huge trees like bowling pins. The killer storms.

Dr. Neil L. Frank, recently appointed director of the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, calls those "Category 3" storms--packing winds of 125 miles-per-hour or more and sporting ten-foot water surges. Such storms have not scored direct hits on Southeast Florida's mainland for 25 years.

Statewide, one major hurricane, named Donna, struck the lower West Coast in 1960, causing 13 deaths and over $300 million in damages.

People refer to Southeast Florida's hurricanes of the Sixties when they tell how they've experienced plenty of big storms, said Dr. Frank. "And I tell them they're wrong. They've really only experienced the center of many comparatively mild storms, and just the fringe of a major one Betsy in 1965.

"And, in a way, that worries us. We're concerned by the apathy that's been created by a fairly long period of major hurricane inactivity in all of Florida," he said.

Dr. Frank, the Hurricane Center's fourth and youngest director, detailed to SSNews some signs of the apathy appearing since the last major hurricane slammed squarely into Southeast Florida--hitting Miami on midnight, October 17, 1960. Traveling up the center of Florida, Hurricane King caused $27.5 million in damages and three deaths.

Mobile Homes Vulnerable

"Look at the mobile homes springing up across the state. Even if anchored, they could be destroyed when hit with major stormy winds. And our coastal population growth during the past two-and-one half decades has gron 150 percent. Of Florida's 8.5 5 million coastal residents, 79 percent just don't know from personal experience what one of these big storms is all about."

Though most Floridians have not experienced the full impact of a major storm for 25 years, or that of any storm for the last 10, Dr. Frank feels "we may be due."

Florida was pelted by numerous storms in the Forties. In fact, seven destructive ones in six years. During the Fifties, most storms slammed into the United States' eastern shore. And Gulf states felt the brunt of six large storms in the Sixties.

Has thus supposed cycle gone full circle? Is Florida again due for flurries of major storms?

Know Weather Patterns Exist

"We know that a pattern exists," Dr. Frank explained, "but the National Hurricane Center does not have enough detailed information to tell whether these cycles are 'regular or not'."

Though Florida's earliest known hurricane was recorded September 18, 1559, extensive storm information has been logged less than 100 years. The Hurricane Center staff "needs more than a century of good records to chart and forecast definite patterns," said Dr. Frank.

But this could be the year of hurricanes warns Dr. Jerome Namias, a professor at the University of California and one of the leading researchers in water-weather relationships.

Transfer of heat from water to air when the air mass is cooler than the ocean surface is the critical factor in hurricane development, Dr. Namais told the Meteorological Association.

Uncertainties still exist

While forecaseting methods and building codes have improved, there are still too many uncertainties to take these tardy tropical visitors lightly. But, says Dr. Frank, "we are certain that man's unchecked coastal development is bringing the population ever closer to any hurricane's wrath."

Coastal areas feel the biggest impact of any hurricane. These areas are subject to a storm surge -- tides that usually develop near the hurricane's eye and range up to 15 feet or more above mean sea level. Such surges are capable of demolishing the soundest of structures, gutting three-story dwellings and carrying helpless victims into the Atlantic Ocean or Gulf of Mexico. Often called "storm tide," the surge is the most dangerous single element of a hurricane, causing nine out of ten fatalities.

The highest storm surge in Florida, about 18 feet or more, occurred in the "Labor Day" hurricane on the Keys in 1935. Over 400 people lost their lives in that storm.

Two other destructive forces packed into any hurricane are (1) high velocity winds and (2) flooding. Sustained winds in a few of the severe hurricanes have reached 200 m.p.h. The 1947 storm which hit Fort Lauderdale had 150 m.p.h. winds. The heaviest Florida rainfall, and flooding, inconnection with a tropical storm occurred at Trenton (30 miles west of Gainesville) in October, 1941. Thirty-five inches of water fell in a 48-hour period. Depending on the storm's movement, water content, rate of ascent and temperature, major storms can deposit 20 inches of rain or more within a couple days. In inland Florida, flooding is the greatest threat.

And the inevitable end?

"If men do not take a rational approach to population, then Mother Nature will apply her solution. And she has generally been unacceptable to man," Dr. Frank concluded.

How hurricanes get names

"Amy" is an amiable name. But if your news media meteorologist mentions her, prepare for rough times. "Amy" is the first of 21 female names picked by the National Hurrican Center for 1975 storms.

The other 20 in the order they'll be used: Blanche, Caroline, Doris, Eloise, Faye, Gladys, Hallie, Ingrid, Julia, Kitty, Lilly, Mabel, Niki, Opal, Peggy, Ruby, Sheeba, Tilda, Vicky and Winnie.

Before 1950, tropical storms and hurricanes were nameless. In that year however weather specialists dubbed all storms with titles from the phonetic alphabet -- Alpha, Baker, Charlie, etc.

Simultaneously U.S. servicemen stationed in the Pacific were naming typhoons after wives, girlfriends and daughters back home. That idea caught the fancy of American forecasters leading to the now 26-year old practice.

Your best protection from Hurricane damage is using good common sense..before...during and after a storm. The following tips are offered to further assist you in protecting your home and family:

1. Listen to the radio (have a battery powered back up in case of power failure) and TV for up to date information concerning storm development.
2. Collect and place indoors or closed garage, all loose objects, such as garbage cans, potted plants, yard tools or furniture. Anything that can be blown about!
3. During or after a storm, NEVER touch fallen or low hanging wires of any kind and avoid pools of water with wires in them.
4. If you feel insecure in your home, or live in a mobile home, or in a low lying area subject to flooding..go to your nearest American Red Cross Shelter.
5. Fear creates panic. If all precautions and instructions are heeded, hurricanes need not be feared. Nevertheless, pay the storm the greatest of respect. Seventy-five to ninety percent of casualties result from water, the winds are of secondary importance.

When warnings go up, here's what to do

A hurricane warning should give you 18 to 24 hours to prepare for the approaching storm.

Here are some important precautions to take:

OUTSIDE THE HOME

Clear out all gutters, drains and downspouts.

Check roof doors and windows to make sure they are watertight and in good condition.

Bring inside the house garbage cans, garden tools, lawn furniture and any other objects that might be blown by the wind. Tie and stake piles of lumber.

Place rolled up newspapers between screen and inside doors to absorb water.

Do not drain swimming pool but lower to half level. Turn off power to pump, motor, lights and chlorinator. Wrap exposed pump with weatherproof cover. Remove all loose objects and add extra chlorine to pool.

Fill the car's gas tank. If you don't have a garage, set the brakes, check the wheels and leave it in the most sheltered place possible.

Do not park your car on low ground near salt water - it will rust badly.

Remove or fold television or radio antennas. If not removed, tie them securely.

Take large boats into a sheltered canal or river and moor them strongly. Smaller boats should be removed from the water and tied down.

Move trailers indoors if possible. Otherwise take them to a high sheltered area and tie down over top with strong, web belting type material. Tie belting to secure stakes and check the wheels.

In the event of a full-fledged hurricane, trailers are under no circumstances safe and they should be abandoned.

If you live in a safe location start preparing for a storm when it is within 300 miles of land. Persons not in a safe place should leave immediately.

INSIDE THE HOME

In case the electricity goes out or there's another emergency you should store lanterns, flashlights or candles, a battery radio with spare batteries, a small alcohol or bottled-gas cook stove, several days' supply of water in sanitary containers, canned and bottled food, first aid supplies and a snake-bite kit, a fire extinguisher, an ax, hammer, nails and boards, a large sponge and bucket, heavy plastic or pieces of waterproof canvas to cover broken windows.

Follow the storm's progress over the radio. Do not go outside when the wind calms down - it may just be the eye of the hurricane passing over and you may be lashed by winds in a matter of seconds.

Provide packaged foods that can be stored without refrigeration and eaten without cooking. Some food can be cooked ahead of time and frozen for later use. If special dietary foods or medications are needed, make sure there is an ample supply.

Stay inside but to equalize the pressure inside the house, keep a window or door slightly open on the side away from the wind.

Sterilize bathtub and other containers by scrubbing and then swabbing with bleach. Let dry and fill with water for a backup water supply.

Place rugs and furniture that might be damaged on tables or on upper floors if flooding is likely.

Turn your refrigerator and freezer to colder settings. This will help preserve food in case power fails later.

Take ill persons who may require medical care to a place where they can receive it.

Use your telephone only for emergencies.

Place valuables at an inland location, preferably in a safe-deposit box if you live near the ocean.

Keep hurricane parties as dry as possible. Intoxication can lead to tragedy if an emergency arises.

If you do not feel your home is safe, go to one of the nearby Red Cross shelters. If you leave for other shelter, make sure the Red Cross has announcement it is open and go well in advance of the storm.

Frozen foods can be saved when the power fails during a hurricane. A well-stocked freezer keeps most foods frozen up to 36 hours, however this varies with room temperature, the size of the freezer, types of foods being stored and how well the appliance is insulated.

If it looks like the electrical in your area will be interrupted for an extended period of time, wrap your frozen foods in newspapers or even blankets to cut down on thawing, and take them to a commercial frozen food locker for temporary storage.

If partial thawing has taken place before refrigeration is resumed, refreeze any packages in which some ice crystals remain. These frozen foods should be marked and used as soon as possible.

Thawed fruits can be used for high quality jams, jellies, sauces and preserves. Completely thawed meats, poultry and fish should not be refrozen. If these foods are not spoiled they may be cooked and refrozen.

How to track a hurricane

Advisories are numbered consecutively for each storm, and describe the present and forecast position and intensity of the storm. Tropical cyclones are not given names until they reach the storm stage - that is, closed isobars, rotary circulation, and winds over 39 miles per hour (34 knots). Tropical cycline advisories are issued at six-hour intervals - at midnight, 6 a.m., noon, and 6 p.m. Easter Daylight Time. Bulletins provide additional information. Each message gives the name, eye position, intensity and forecast movement of the tropical cyclone.

Hurricane eye positions are given by latitude (for example, 13.2 degrees North) and longitude (for example, 57.6 degrees West), to the nearest one-tenth of one degree. When the storm moves within range of the radar fence eye position may also be given as statute miles and compass direction from a specified point.

When you receive a tropical cyclone advisory, note the advisory number, eye position, intensity and forecast direction of movement in the table below. Then mark the eye position on the tracking chart. Because hurricanes change direction very quickly, you should concentrate more on where the storm will go

Standing next to a school sign on Indian Road is seven-year-old William Massey who will be a third grade student at Jensen Elementary School.

September 8 meeting

Jensen-Rio United Way planning October drive

JENSEN BEACH–The renewal of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Way drive got impetus Tuesday at a meeting where the organization set up the machinery to hold the drive in October. A general meeting of residents of the Jensen Beach-Rio area was set for September 8 at Florida Institute of Technology.

The temporary chairman of the drive organization is Richard Neeson, named to handle details until the election of officers at the general meeting, to be held in the lecture theatre of the Ralph Evinrude Science Building at FIT Monday, September 8 at 7 p.m.

The nominating committee named included Neeson, LaVaughn Tilton and Jane Henderson.

Participating agencies, workers and the general public are invited to the meeting, according to Neeson.

The Jensen-Rio United Way will operate its drive separate from but cooperating with, the Martin County United Way.

At the meeting, attended by some community leaders in Jensen Beach, it was decided to consult with the Martin County United Way on percentage of budgets for Martin County agencies so that there is no competition or overlap of drives. The Martin County drive is set to be held at the same time, beginning October 22.

At the meeting, it was decided to update the Jensen-Rio United Way charter and attorney Brian Bibeau plans to have the charter updated and revised by-laws ready for the annual meeting on September 8.

The group set the territorial limits of the Jensen-Rio drive as the area bounded on the east by the Atlantic Ocean, on the west by U.S. 1, on the south by the St. Lucie River and on the north by Walton Road.

The Jensen-Rio United Way plans to keep its own records, collect and disburse its own funds and fund agencies in the Jensen Beach area, including the Samaritan Ambulance and Langford Park. It will work with the Martin County United Fund in funding county wide agencies.

Mrs. Tilton plans to contact the Rio Civic Club to set up the kickoff breakfast for the opening of the drive, a traditional beginning that was held before the Jensen group joined the county wide effort several years ago.

Neeson urged all interested residents to come to the general meeting on September 8 to take part in the Jensen-Rio drive.

Savannas hearing in Fort Pierce

JENSEN BEACH–A public hearing on the proposed purchase of the savannas will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 27, in the St. Lucie County Courthouse in Fort Pierce.

A Department of Natural Resources (DNR) official said that the Fort Pierce hearing will be the only one the state will hold.

There have been other hearings, but they were informal and were arranged by local officials in Martin and St. Lucie Counties.

The state is interested in buying the vast wetlands which lies between the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR707A, north to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and between U.S. 1 east to the railroad tracks.

If the property is acquired, about 6,000 acres, the price tag might be about $16 million.

More than 220 letters have been sent out by the state to property owners in the savannas, asking whether they would be willing to donate or sell their property.

September 9 agenda

No decision on building

JENSEN BEACH–No decision was made Tuesday by the Martin County Commission on purchase of the $1.05 million Executive Plaza as an administrative building, but they got many options from residents on the issue.

Many of the remarks centered on what should be done with the present courthouse facility and not so much on whether the county should buy the Executive Plaza.

After the two-hour session, Commissioner Tom Higgins observed that he had heard no alternatives offered.

Question of the building purchase will be on the Sept. 9 agenda, after commissioners have considered the capital outlay expenditures at another session.

The hearing began with staff personnel giving some facts about the Executive Plaza which is located across the street from the Stuart Post Office.

The immediate purchase price is $1,05,000 with estimated cost of renovation is $52,000.

Under the planned five-year lease purchase at 8 percent per annum the total payment would be $1,188,510.

The county would receive $251,766 in rental from private companies already in the building.

Public Defender Elton Schwarz and a representative of the state attorney's office pointed out the need for additional court space.

"We favor moving all court facilities in the courthouse," Schwarz said.

Schwarz predicted that another circuit judge would be named for this circuit in the near future, and at least two more courtrooms are needed.

County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews and Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs both said they need more space.

While there wasn't a great outcry of residents in opposition to the purchase, residents did question the immediate need for the immediate purchase of a building and having county buildings at several locations.

Ed Cox said that the people should vote on the expenditure and noted that the only thing he gets out of the county is a little smoke – referring to mosquito control efforts.

Former Stuart Commissioner Mike Luce suggested that the commission build a building that would meet their needs, noting that the City of Stuart built a City Hall that will meet the needs of the community for years to come.

Commissioner Timer Powers noted that a central location for county services might not be the answer.

"We are looking for service centers in outlying areas," Powers noted.

Indiantown, in Powers district, has a courthouse annex.

There were other suggestions as to what the commission should do with the present courthouse, and Bob Krause said the "old A&P building (courthouse annex) should be torn down – it's not safe."

And there were suggestions that the courthouse be sold or torn down and made into a parking lot.

"We are looking at a pressing need," Powers said.

County Administrator Jack Nobel said that it would be after October before county personnel could begin occupying the Executive Plaza, if the commission approves its purchase.

BICENTENNIAL TAG–Pretty Diane Arton prepares to place a Bicentennial tag, "Let's Ring It Again," on the front of her car. The red, white and blue tag with a liberty bell is being sold for $2 by the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club. The tags are available at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Street merchants. Proceeds will go to the Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee.

Leif Erikson Day plans revealed

JENSEN BEACH–The 1975 Leif Erikson Day celebration in Jensen Beach will exceed any held in the past, according to Grant Shaffer, local president of the Gulfstream Lodge of Sons of Norway, hosts of the event.

Shaffer told Jensen Kiwanians Tuesday that planning by the nine Florida lodges of Sons of Norway are complete and new and exciting ideas have been included in the pageant and boat parade.

Unlike in the past, Leif Erikson Day is a two-day affair with Saturday, October 4, set aside for meetings and social events for the expected 500 members of the lodges at the Holiday Inn Oceanside and Sunday the public will be on the Jensen Beach Causeway for the races and pageant will be held.

There will be a concert by the U.S. Navy Band.

Races will be held between one hundred, eight-man rowing sailing boats and two seven-man boats. The three boats are over one hundred years old and were brought to America from Norway, found in barns along the fjord country.

The reenactment of the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 AD is the highlight of the day, with authentic costumes designed to add to the color of the day.

There will also be dancing, and Scandinavian music will bring colorful bands (costumes of native regions) on the stage at the Jensen Beach Causeway. The Norseman Trio will play for the dancing.

The holiday atmosphere will be heightened as a fish fry and sauerkraut dinners are served to the public.

Long weekend is ahead

JENSEN BEACH–The last long weekend of the summer begins Friday, as Martin County courthouse and many federal and state offices will be closed for the Labor Day holiday (Monday), September 1.

On Tuesday, Sept. 2, elementary and middle school students will report to their rooms, beginning the 1975-76 school year.

At Jensen Beach Elementary School, classes start at 8:30 a.m.

New trend

Lower island density

JENSEN BEACH–A trend toward lower project density on Hutchinson Island may be developing.

Martin County Planner Kris Schenk said that island developers, who a couple of years ago were fighting for higher densities, today are lowering the number of homes per acre they plan to build.

And instead of building four-story apartments, developer Robert Corcoran said he wants to put up one and two-story villas, according to Schenk.

At New Port Jensen, on Jensen Beach Causeway east of the bridge, the county's Planning and Zoning Commission has agreed to a reduction from 136 homes to 100 homes. That lowers the density from 12 units to 8.7 per acre.

At the Maritimes-West, approved plans called for 23 apartments with a density of 10.1 per acre. But the planning board has agreed to Corcoran's request for reducing the number of homes to 26 and for building a Japanese restaurant.

Schenk said that the alterations in the plans would produce buildings that were more attractive and saleable, and more expensive.

Approximately 1,000 units are built or under construction on the island and 2,900 units have concept approval which will eventually be converted into planned unit developments (PUD), according to Schenk.

Schenk said he has advised developers with conceptual approval to work toward completion of the PUD agreements within the next six months or find themselves before the commission again seeking density number approval.

Commissioners also have discussed the proposed development of Seaspray, which would be built just south of the Dunes Club. The developers want to be able to put up 24 units with a planned unit development instead of the 18 that would be allowed with conventional zoning.

Commissioners have ordered a moratorium on construction on the island until they are assured that more water will be available for new residences. The existing Southern Gulf Utilities system can provide enough for 1,400 units, according to county engineer Ken Ferrari.

That number reflects the homes that have been built and some that have been approved by commissioners.

Utility ordinance defeated in 4-1 commission vote

JENSEN BEACH–The proposed ordinance for county regulation of privately owned utilities was defeated Tuesday by the Martin County Commission.

The ordinance, "water and sewer utility regulations," which drew opposition from utility companies, was defeated by a 4-1 vote.

Commissioner Maggy Hurchalla supported the ordinance.

Attorney for county utilities pointed out that utility rates would be increased to provide funds for complying with the regulations.

Also, it was noted that the county is not large enough to set up its own public service commission.

Commissioner Timer Powers noted that the ordinance was a "very complex subject," and that the commission has a "long review" on it.

At a recent workshop session on the ordinance, Commissioner Hurchalla noted that she had found state regulations insufficient.

She said that she was not interested in the county setting rates, and she would be glad to let the Public Service Commission (PSC) do it if "we could get the quality of service regulated."

It was pointed out during the meeting Tuesday that the county already has the tools for regulations, and Commissioner Powers said he believes that the County Health Department has the ability to give the quality of service.

Bafalis seeks voters' views

JENSEN BEACH--U.S. Rep. L.A. (Skip) Bafalis is seeking the view of residents in his 10th Congressional District.

He has mailed out his third questionnaire asking the voters to give their view on a variety of subjects.

Bafalis' questions range from the food stamp program to the probe of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

Some of his questions include:

1. Do you feel the United States should resume diplomatic and trade relations with Communist Cuba?

2. Would you favor a tax increase to finance medical care for all Americans?

3. Would you favor reform of national welfare and food stamp programs to tighten up work requirements?

4. Do you favor a full public investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA)?

Blood Bank extends hours

STUART--The Martin County branch of the Palm Beach County Blood Bank will be extending its hours to serve local residents according to Sara Timon, chairman.

Beginning September 5, the blood bank will be open Monday and Wednesday from noon to 8 p.m., Thursday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The blood bank will be closed on Labor Day.

Shappelle places first in SLCC

PORT ST. LUCIE--Joe Shappelle fired an impressive 72 over the Saints Course Thursday to win top honors in the weekly tournament of the Men's Golf Association, edging out Larry Lorentson and Tom Jelnick.

Shappelle, a five handicapper, wound up with 41 points in the Stableford competition to take the championship flight. Howard Klerk with a 15 handicap had an 82 for 41 points to win Flight B honors, and Ken Castle's 87 and 22 handicap were sufficient to win Flight C with 43 points.

This Thursday's tournament will feature two best balls of foursome competition, with full handicaps.

Summer program is outlined

JENSEN BEACH--A report on the summer recreation program was given by Martin County School Superintendent James Navitsky to the Tuesday session of the County Commission.

Navitsky praised the commission for its cooperation in the program that he labeled as a success.

In his breakdown of attendance figures, he included swimming pool attendance, 30-day recreation program, and the program funded through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

During the 30-day recreation program at various communities, Jensen Beach-Langford Park had the highest attendance, 1,879, followed by Hobe Sound with 1,549, with Port Salerno third with 1,547.

Navitsky reported that at the swimming pool, during open swimming for 45 days, the attendance was 13,500; swimming teams, 2,925; recreation program, 1,950, and with other classes the total was 19,459.

A total of 131 males and females, ages 14-21, were employed under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act with wages totalling $57,488.55 in federal funds.

Commissioners reminded Navitsky that funds for the summer program in the new budget should be considered at a budget session.

Water hot, fish deep

JENSEN BEACH--"The water is hot. You've got to fish deep and you've got to look for the trout in the holes or in the fast water where it's cooler," says Fred Dushanek of the Snook Nook.

Local fishermen have had some luck according to the Snook Nook report for the past week.

On Tuesday, August 19, Charlie Arenie caught 4 trout; Frank Morgan, 1 trout and a 3-lb. blue; and Pete Peterson and Stan Lippincott, 4 trout.

Jeanine Lusardi caught a trout on Wednesday; Capt. Lee Southard, a 13½ pound snook; Charlie Areni, 2 trout; Bob Carruthers, an 11½ pound snook and a trout; Steve Steele, 4 trout; and Pat Vought had a snook and a trout.

Friday, August 22, Steve Steele had a trout and one snook; Adrian Lusardi, 1 trout; Lionel J. Lusardi, 2 trout; Charlie Areni, 3 trout; and Ed Wagner landed 4 trout and 2 snook.

Ted Bloom tried his luck on Saturday, August 23, and caught 11 trout and 4 snapper. James Peeples had 2 trout and 1 red fish; Ron Blakeney, one trout and 2 red fish.

Charlie Areni was out again on Sunday and caught 1 trout and a 9 pound snook. Ed Wagner and Ted Bloom, 4 trout and 3 snook; and Steve Steele had 11 trout. Also on Sunday, Ed Burnett had 2 trout.

Monday found more anglers out trying their luck. Bob Carruthers had 5 trout; E. Burnett, one trout and 2 snook; Pat Paterson and Ed Wagner, 6 trout; Pete Peterson and Stan Lippincott, 3 trout.

Dr. F.I. Southard caught an 8½ pound snook; Steve Steele, 4 trout and a snook; and Ben Canter landed a 9 lb.-10 oz. trout.

CHECKS BARGAINS--Vince Bocchino checks shoes on the table to see if he can find his size. The Jensen Beach Optimist Club leader also did a lot of work at last Saturday's rummage sale sponsored by the Optimist Auxiliary. Proceeds from the sale will go to youth activities.

Over 200 attend yacht club mid-summer dance

PORT ST. LUCIE--More than 200 members and guests attended the mid-summer dance held by the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club at the Elk's Lodge in Stuart last Friday.

Door prizes were won by Ralph Waite, Thelma Graham, Margie Brown, Cy Leap, Ben Bereck, Anne Dahlman, Germaine Galati, Lela Holzapfel, Effie Leap, Erna Eriksen, Emma Jones and Bill Holzapfel.

The committee for the affair were co-chairmen Dick and Liz Langdon, assisted by Joanna Hart, Ruth Kretsch, Bob and Mildred Mitchell, Jim and Betty Hall, Fred and Jean Dascher, John and Stella Jankowski, and Andy and Katherine Mandas.

They were introduced by Jack LaFrance and received a round of applause for "a good job well done."

The next special event will be a boat-a-cade to the Bay Harbor Club on Saturday, September 22. George Lindberg, publicity chairman, says more details will be given later.

Gang has cookies

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Friday Nite Gang, not satisfied with last week's performance, really had a feast at its session on Friday night.

Thru the combined efforts of Betty Zell, Carolyn DeSantis, Kay Campbell, Claire and Moe Levy, home made cookies, filled cupcakes and a pound cake were brought in to help celebrate the birthdays of Kay Campbell, Carolyn DeSantis and Betty Davis, all 39. Goodies were coming out of the ears of all participants and the Gang saluted the Birthday Girls with a very loud Happy Birthday song.

Besides reporting the birthdays, the Snooper reported only one visitor: Millie Scoglio of El Monte, California, visiting the DeGurneries.

The main prize was two tickets to the CESA barbecue on Labor Day, happily won by Thelma Weigel.

Harvey and LoBrutto win Scotch

PORT ST. LUCIE--Doris Harvey and Angela LoBrutto teamed up to take first honors in St. Lucie Ladies' Association Scotch Foursome play on August 12. Their total was 66½.

Charma Bramley and Lee Kruckman, with 69, came in second. Kay Dunlop and Eleanor Flanagan were third with 71.

Tied for fourth with 71½ were, Ann Merz and Kay Scott and Inez Bowman and Fannie Brodie. Seventy-two gave fifth place to Marion Cole and Elfrieda Wochata, and sixth place went to Dottie Offner and Dorina Tanner with 73.

Cake was served to the ladies as they came in by Dorine Tanner. It was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Ortlepp who celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary. Mrs. Ortlepp is a member of the ladies' group.

Boitet is commissioned

PORT ST. LUCIE--Dawn C. Boitet son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Boitet of 1460 Sunshine Ave., Port St. Lucie, has been commissioned a Navy ensign while attending Indiana University under the Dental Scholarship Program.

He will receive financial assistance while working toward his degree and will report for active duty upon graduation. He entered the Navy in June 1975.

Don't give up hope

WASHINGTON—Frustrated, angry and disgusted – that's the mood of the people of the 10th Congressional District of Florida as reflected by their letters.

In recent weeks, my office has been deluged with letters, most of them prompted by the mailing of the annual 10th Congressional District questionnaire. And the letters reflect a growing discontent with the actions of the Administration, government, both the Administration and the Congress.

The bulk of the letterwriters are motivated by what they consider a lack of communication with their elected officials – a feeling that very few officials in Washington really care what the people feel and want.

And they are angry – angry at a Congress which has been all to unproductive, except when it comes to enhancing its members a pay raise.

But, most of all, they are disgusted by what they consider a monumental lack of concern over the problems facing the nation. They wonder why no one seems to care about the constantly increasing number of welfare recipients and the mind it places on those working hard and paying taxes and those struggling to make ends meet on a fixed income.

They wonder why, merely to please rabid dictators and third world demagogues, the United States is even considering a giveaway of the Panama Canal.

As one Vero Beach resident put it, "It's the members of Congress I want to hear from and the public's money on useless junkets at taxpayer expense, by filibuster by delaying tactics and other manipulative parliamentary procedures."

And then, after another very unproductive session, you have the temerity and gall to grant yourself an unearned and unclassified pay increase while calling on the rest of us to tighten our already tight belts."

I can readily understand the feelings of anger and despair. For there are time – all too many times, in fact – when I share the same feelings.

I too complain about leaders who care more for world opinion than they do for the feelings of the people here at home. I too get angry at the giveaway artists in the Congress who have special programs for everyone, except for the great bulk of the people who work hard, pay taxes and keep the country going.

And I was just as dismayed at the Congressional pay raise move, particularly coming as it did in a hurry-up amendment to a noncontroversial and absolutely unrelated legislative program.

But, unlike many of the Floridians who have written in recent weeks, I am not ready to throw up my hands and quit. And I am certainly not ready to give up on the American system of government and stay away from the polls.

Perhaps because I am here, I can see signs of change. I can see a swing away from huge federal deficits which do nothing but feed the fires of inflation and back toward a balanced budget. I see signs of a growing concern with the needs of middle America.

Now, perhaps those who feel that way are not yet a majority in the Congress. But the trend is growing.

All it takes for the trend to become a reality is for the American people to take a more active role in politics – to pay close attention to promises of the candidates and the voting records of the incumbents, and to vote against those who want to be all things to all people.

And, if we don't give up hope, we will soon see the day when the majority in Congress is a majority committed to middle America and her needs, and not to welfare chislers and the third world demagogues.

BANKERS–David B. Irons, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, announced that Richard B. Grant, left, assistant cashier, and James A. Foster, assistant cashier, have attended the Florida Bankers Association Florida School of Banking at the University of Florida. The school is designed to provide bank personnal at the supervisory level with the opportunity for increasing their knowledge about banking.

MCCAG board meets Thursday

JENSEN BEACH– The Martin County Councilon Aging (MCCAG) will hold its regular monthly board of directors meeting at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, August 28, in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart.

Included on the agenda is consideration and discussion of proposed changes in the by-laws. After a year of working with the original by-laws, it has been deemed advisable to make minor changes.

Some officers' seats were not filled at the last meeting and nominees will be elected at this meeting.

The public is invited to attend the board meetings and will be heard in discussion, although they may not vote.

The MCCAG Health Committee is working with the Martin County Health Department to establish a visiting nurses group. This group will work with and through MCCAG homemaker health aides to furnish help to those who are confined to beds but can still be made comfortable in their own homes.

An advisory council is being formed. Meeting in September, January, March and June, the council's specific responsibilities are to elect directors and give assistance and feed back to the board.

Anyone who has suggestions of needs that MCCAG might meet is welcome to make them at board meetings or to the council office at 209 S. Dixie Highway, Stuart, telephone 283-2242 or 283-2243.

Fire damages condominium

JENSEN BEACH–A fire which destroyed one apartment at Conquistador Condominium last Wednesday night apparently was set deliberately according to fire department and sheriff's investigators.

The apartment, in Building 1 of the complex on St. Lucie Boulevard, was severely damaged by flames, smoke and water, and those adjoining it also received smoke damage.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Al Schiller inspected the apartment which is owned by Louis Weimar and concluded that the blaze was started in the smaller of two bedrooms.

Mike Weimar, 15, son of the owner, said he was alone in the apartment when the fire started.

Weimar said he rushed out of the building as the automatic alarm went off, alerting other occupants.

Chuck Weimar, 20, and friend, Mike Sunzan, 22, left the apartment about 30 minutes before the fire was detected according to the youth.

No one was hurt, and investigators have not estimated the damage.

Beasley guilty of port charge

JENSEN BEACH–St. Lucie County Circuit Court last week found attorney Alton Beasley guilty of delivery of marijuana, but at the same time acquitted him of the delivery and sale of cocaine.

Circuit Judge Wallace Sample ordered a pre-sentence investigation and allowed Beasley to remain free on bond.

The pre-sentence examination is expected to take about four weeks. He faces a maximum of five years in prison on the felony conviction.

His attorney, Roger Cullun of West Palm Beach said he plans to file an appeal.

Donald Raulerson and Charles Ramps were arrested along with Beasley and will go on trial this week.

According to testimony during Beasley's trial, drugs were purchased from Raulerson and Ramps after Beasley set up the buy.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)
If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you may now start your own pension plan – an Individual Retirement Account or IRA.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS
The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside 15% of their annual earnings, up to a maximum $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA are tax deductible and the interest accumulates tax free.

While you are accumulating your IRA, we will pay interest compounded daily at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age – you may also choose between 59½ and 70 – you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in lump sum or over a period of years. You will be taxed on it all then, however, taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS
A. Regular Retirement Benefits
At retirement age – between 59½ and 70 – you may elect, by written notice, to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability, but may result in adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½ – the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a Federal tax penalty equal to 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS
Wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible: a spouse working part time or full time; students with part time jobs; self-employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES
A. Pre-retirement Years (accumulation period)
During the period of time you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. And the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period)
When you reach retirement age – any age you select between 59½ and 70 – the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $1,500 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	IRA
5 years	$ 8,309.12	$ 7,762.92
10 years	19,925.97	19,952.16
30 years	84,453.11	147,196.61

ALL FIGURES ARE BASED ON A 5% RETURN AND ASSUMES 25% TAX BRACKET. HIGHER RATES ARE AVAILABLE DEPENDING UPON TERMS.

HR-10 PLAN FOR SELF EMPLOYED
The Pension Reform Act of 1974 ... [illegible] ... tax sheltered retirement funds. As of January 1, 1976 the maximum allowable tax deferred deposit ... [illegible] ... comprehensive details of this plan.

SETTING UP THE PLAN
If you are self-employed, the owner of a ... [illegible] ... business, a doctor, dealer, a professional person, partner, etc., you may set up this plan. Also, employees may participate in such plans.

You may set up your plan at any bank, savings and loan association, mutual savings bank or credit union. Deposits are limited to 15% of earned income or $7,500 a year, whichever is less. Your deposits are fully tax deductible. Your earnings accumulate tax free. You may establish the plan and make deposits for the previous year up to the date your federal income tax return is due.

TAX BENEFITS
During your pre-retirement years you are entitled to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposits. All accumulated earnings are tax deferred. When you reach retirement age – you may select between 59½ and 70 – earnings are fully taxable as ordinary income when received. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65. Please see comparative chart below to see the advantages of a tax sheltered plan as a supplement to your IRA.

EMPLOYEES ARE INCLUDED
You must include your full time employees in your plan after they have worked for you for three years. Contributions to the plan for you and your employees must be at the same percentage rate. If you cannot be in the plan yourself, under the law, you cannot be in the plan for your employees.

PENSION OR PROFIT SHARING PLAN
You may establish either type plan depending on your individual needs.

PENALTY FOR PREMATURE DISTRIBUTION
A premature distribution occurs when you withdraw money before age 59½ – except in case of disability. The government will impose a 10% penalty tax in addition to regular income tax.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $1,500 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	HR-10

Savannas hearing in Fort Pierce

JENSEN BEACH—A public hearing on the proposed purchase of the savannas will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 27, in the St. Lucie County Courthouse in Fort Pierce.

A Department of Natural Resources (DNR) official said that the Fort Pierce hearing will be the only one the state will hold.

There have been other hearings, but they were informal and were arranged by local officials in Martin and St. Lucie Counties.

The state is interested in buying the vast wetlands which lies between the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR707A) north to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and between U.S. 1 east to the railroad tracks.

If the property is acquired, about 6,000 acres, the price tag might be about $10 million.

More than 220 letters have been sent out by the state to property owners in the savannas, asking whether they would be willing to donate or sell their property.

Taxpayers to meet and elect directors

PORT ST. LUCIE—The St. Lucie County Taxpayers Association is having a meeting of the general membership on August 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Center N. Indian River Drive, Fort Pierce.

A spokesman says that it is important that all members attend as the election of members of the board of directors will take place at this meeting.

Finance committee to meet Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE—The City Finance Committee will meet Thursday, August 28, at the City Hall.

Meeting time will be 2 p.m., according to an announcement made Tuesday by City Treasurer Lolita Kernohan.

CHARGE—Admiral John E. Fradd, USN (Ret.) took charge of the flag raising ceremonies which also kicked off the City's Bicentennial Year last Friday at the Port St. Lucie City Hall. Admiral Fradd, who was appointed by Mayor Schuyler Sharpe to chair the Bicentennial Committee, named his committee during the thirty minute flag raising. Those named included Councilmen Bill McChesney, Vaughn Lewis, Ken Miller, Don White, Russell Wolf, Bruce Colton and Vern Forrar.

GOOD TURNOUT—More than 400 persons attended the Monday evening pep rally in support of the proposed $6.5 million, 116-bed Port St. Lucie Community Hospital. Residents interested in establishing the local facility were urged to write letters to Health Planning Council officials voicing their desires and support.

Hospital pep rally draws crowd

PORT ST. LUCIE—A packed house was what the director of the Community Hospital asked for at the pep rally held Monday night at the Sandpiper Bay resort, and a packed house was just exactly what he received.

The rally intended to show the visual support of the proposed Port St. Lucie Hospital to Fort Pierce, West Palm Beach and Tallahassee was without a doubt, a successful demonstration as over 400 persons gathered at the hall.

Ed Fessel, director for the local hospital group, urged all those interested in establishing their own hospital in Port St. Lucie to write letters to both local and state Health Planning Council officials and express their desires.

"If you really want this proposed hospital to all means let the officials hear from you," Fessel told the listeners Monday evening.

Letters should be addressed to: Art Forehand, Bureau of Medical Facilities, 1323 Winewood Blvd., Tallahassee 32301; and to Richard Warfield, Executive Director of the Health Planning Council, Inc., 324 Datura Street, Suite 101, West Palm Beach 33401.

When several residents asked if there wasn't a form letter available that could be picked up, signed and forwarded, Fessel's answer was negative.

Implying that the letters must come from individuals, he suggested the letter open with the statement that the individual writer wants and would support a hospital facility in Port St. Lucie. From there the reasons must come from within.

"Simply write it from the heart and if you want a hospital here, tell them why," Fessel said, stressing the importance of such support.

Last June backers of the proposed local hospital just missed one in their efforts to obtain a certificate of need when the Martin-St. Lucie Health Planning Council refused to recommend the issuance to the West Palm Beach Health Planning Council, Inc.

When the recounts council voted to delay for 60 days action on the local facility proponents of the 116-bed hospital for the south county, quickly circulated petitions requesting approval for the facility. Well over 2,500 signatures were forthcoming. The $6.5 million Community Hospital would be a nonprofit facility.

The local facility would include a 24-hour emergency department, radiology department, laboratory and surgical department with seven operating rooms.

The one story, masonry concrete structure, planned as an acute care short stay, medical-surgical hospital, designed to meet all federal and state safety, engineering and health requirements, will be situated on a 20-acre site on the east side of U.S. 1 and Morningside Blvd. in the Midport section of the city.

One point also has been emphasized as the hospital will be an open staff facility. This, according to Ed Fessel, would mean that any qualified doctor would be able to practice at the facility, regardless of his other hospital affiliations.

The initial building will contain approximately 63,000 square feet, be completely air conditioned and have its own auxiliary power supply.

Ample parking would be provided and utilities such as water, sewer and power are already assured for the site, which, incidentally, is already zoned for hospital use.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe addressed the group during the opening of the Bicentennial Year and the raising of the City's first flag. The Mayor in his address, told the group, "As long as that flag flies, we will be free men," adding, "But first we have to be good citizens." Pictured above, left to right in foreground, are VFW Post 10139 Poppy Chairman Joe Kuffy, Mayor Sharpe and Senior Vice Commander C. Pallazzotto.

Leif Erikson Day plans revealed

JENSEN BEACH—The 1975 Leif Erikson Day celebration in Jensen Beach will exceed any held in the past, according to Grant Shaffer, local president of the Gulfstream Lodge, Sons of Norway, hosts of the event.

Shaffer told Jensen Kiwanians Monday that planning by the nine Florida lodges of Sons of Norway are firmed, and new and exciting ideas were included in the pageant and boat racing.

As held in the past, Leif Erikson Day is a two-day affair, with Saturday, October 4, set aside for meetings and social events for the expected 500 members of the lodges at the Holiday Inn, Oceanside, and Sunday the public day on the Jensen Beach Causeway when the races and pageant will be held.

There will be a concert by the U.S. Navy Band.

Races will be held between one offering (eight man rowing sailing boat) and two seatings (six man boats). The three boats are over one hundred years old and were brought to Florida from Norway, found in barns along the fjord country.

The reenactment of the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 AD is the highlight of the day, with authentic costumes designed to add to the color of the day.

There will also be dancing, and Scandinavian music will bring colorful bunads (costumes of native regions) on the stage at the Jensen Beach Causeway. The Norseman Trio will play for the dancing.

The holiday atmosphere will be heightened as a fish fry and sauerkraut and weiners are served to the public through the afternoon, and the various lodges plan booth presentations with Norwegian trinkets and souvenirs on sale, along with the famous open face sandwiches of Norway.

Shaffer told the Kiwanians that he hoped to have the ship that was featured in the movie "The Vikings" here for Leif Erikson Day. The ship is presently owned by a Sons of Norway member in Tampa.

outh hobby show is successful event

ST. LUCIE—The CESA Youth Hobby Show, another first for the CESA Recreation Center and Port St. Lucie, was held Saturday, August 23. The show was open to the public, and was termed a "definite success" by all agencies participated in the showing.

Although young people from kindergarten through 12th, and from the Port St. Lucie community, entered and entered models, collections, crafts and crafts. There were almost twenty varieties in subjects as there were entries.

Category winners were:

Elizabeth Klein, watercolor

Chrysnae Tabone, macrame

Peter Rain, railroad.

Joe Skolnick, stamps.

Sweepstake award recipients were Chuck Patricia McMorrow, Ann Stephen Klein, Cindy Ann

Refreshments and serving were members of the Charms 4-H Club and the Port St. Youth Unlimited.

Judges for the event were Mrs. Brock, St. Lucie County Home Economist; Mrs. Blanche Rosenau, Art teacher at Fort Pierce Central High School; and Mrs. Jack Roberts, Career Education Coordinator for St. Lucie County Schools. Each heaped praises on the word shown by the young people and expressed their congratulations for the good show.

The organizing committee, Mrs. Strelsa Schreiber, Mrs. Nicki Porter, Mrs. Elsie Silpetz and Chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Robert Satchwill, expressed appreciation to the judges, the Lucky Charms, Youth Unlimited, and most importantly, to the young people who participated as well as to the community at large for their support, all of which made the event successful and one to be remembered.

County democrats going for Culpepper

PORT ST. LUCIE—The South St. Lucie County Democratic Club is hosting a joint meeting with the St. Lucie County Democratic Executive Committee to hear Palm Beach County Comm. Robert Culpepper speak.

Set for Wednesday, September 17, at the new Port St. Lucie Elementary School Multi-Purpose Room, the business meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. with Culpepper speaking at 8 p.m.

Called "an extremely dynamic individual with great political possibilities" by a spokesman for the Democratic Club, it is rumored that Commissioner Culpepper will run for the 10th Congressional District seat now held by Representative "Skip" Bafalis, Republican of Fort Myers Beach.

All St. Lucie County Democrats are urged to attend.

Food and beverages will be served following the meeting. For young adults with small children, baby-sitting service will be available at the school.

Among those present at the last meeting were Mrs. Shirley Walker, chairman of the St. Lucie County Democratic Executive Committee, who presented a short film entitled "Florida on our mind, action '76", a bicentennial film showing the past, present and future of Florida. Vice Mayor Frank Rose, City of Port St. Lucie, and Phil Thibedeau, Director of St. Lucie County Civil Defense.

The 50-50 prize winners were Phil Thibedeau and John Fennell. Fifty-three members and guests were present.

Bill James will be speaker

PORT ST. LUCIE—Rep. Bill James, minority leader of the Florida House of Representatives, will be the featured speaker at the Republican Club meeting September 4 at the CESA building.

The public is invited. A barbeque chicken dinner will be served at 6 p.m., with the program starting at 7 p.m.

Table service should be brought, and tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Fred Johnston, 878-2413. Reservation deadline for tickets is September 1.

Homemakers to resume

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Beautiful Waters Homemakers Club of Port St. Lucie will resume monthly meetings on September 11 at the CESA Building on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Achievements of the summer workshops will be on display. Bazaar items will be accepted.

The program for the day will be "Let the Buyer Beware" and will be presented by Mrs. Harold Hazell and Mrs. Clyde Richardson.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY—An impressive ceremony was a scene for those who attended the brief but meaningful ritual last Friday morning at the City Hall. At that time the city was presented with its first flag and at the same time the Bicentennial Year in Port St. Lucie was officially kicked off. Admiral Jiuin E. Fradd, USN (ret.) as chairman of the Bicentennial committee, an appointment made by Mayor Sharpe approximately five weeks ago.

KICKOFF—The Bicentennial Year was officially kicked off last Friday in Port St. Lucie with the flag raising ceremonies conducted in front of City Hall at 10:30 a.m. The flag was presented to the city by members of VFW [illegible] Matton Post 10130. Admiral Fradd, USN-Ret. [illegible] named chairman of the City's Bicentennial Committee.

City budget on drawing board

PORT ST. LUCIE—It was back to the drawing board once again for the City's 1975-76 budget, when it was discovered the latest draft of the document would be approximately $125,000 out of balance due to the millage rollback bill passed last November.

City Administrator Elmer Cox explained that a millage rate of 2.095 would generate the same amount of revenue this year as the 3.1 millage did last year, the difference being the reassessment of property throughout the area.

This, said Cox, "throws the budget completely out of balance since we will be obliged to conform with the millage rollback bill."

The rollback bill, passed last year for Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River Counties by a referendum, provides no municipality can raise the millage more than ten percent in any given year without a referendum, and, by the same token, should the property assessments be increased to generate more revenue then the millage must be rolled back accordingly.

Therefore, it appears that if 2.095 millage would generate the same amount of revenue as 3.1 mills did last year, the city will be held to a maximum ten percent increase over the 2.095 mills.

This increase would establish a 1975-76 millage rage at 2.304 and would generate an additional $30,000.

Since the recommendation for the new budget must be forthcoming by the council not later than September 5 to comply with state guidelines, a special meeting will be scheduled for September 2 following the workshop session at the City Hall.

At that time the council will review the Finance Committee's recommendation on tax millage rate and discuss what is hoped to be the final draft of the 1975-76 budget.

It is expected the times and dates for the public hearings on millage rates will be scheduled at the September 2 special meeting.

Awards highlight ladies night

PORT ST. LUCIE—District Governor John Woods and Zone Chairman James Stinson were honored guests at the bi-monthly August meeting of the Port St. Lucie Lion's Club.

This meeting was designated as "Ladies Night" and the fun and food were shared by a full house.

The District Governor brought two guests, Japanese exchange students who are visiting Lions Clubs in this district. The students are guests in the homes of local Lion's families during their stay in Florida, and in well spoken English, expressed their happiness in the hospitality of Florida Lions and the Florida climate.

The spirit of the Port St. Lucie club was given a boost by the announcement that of 57 clubs in this district, the local club ranked thirteenth in size. This was accomplished in less than one year from the time they received their charter.

As a reward for perfect attendance during the past year the following Lions received plaques:

Jack Andrews, Frank Bonfield, Dick Borgman, Mel Broom, Russ Conser, Lynn Calhoun, Joe Cary and Bob Carl.

BLESSING—Rev. O.G. Grotegend of St. Andrews Lutheran Church gave the blessing at the flag-raising ceremonies conducted at the Port St. Lucie City Hall last Friday morning. Approximately thirty persons, including members of the VFW Andy Matton Post, their auxiliary and members of the city council were in attendance.

Had a long, newsy letter from Al and Peg Ray of lot 175 sent from Tansi Lake in Tennessee. They tell of visiting 13 beautiful state parks around the area and of lovely dining rooms with good food. They drove to Gatlinburg, Tenn. and rode the aerial tram car up Mt. Harrison - very cool at the top, but hot in the city. Then they visited friends in North and South Carolina.

Pinny and Zoo Bennett, also of Tansi, and H. O., said to tell me that they were having a great weekend reunion with grandchildren, sons and daughters and that 17 would be there for the weekend. Pinny was busy for two weeks taking care of her two grandsons from N. Carolina before this reunion. Pinny is a true H. Outer. She has The Mirror mailed to Tansi and passes it around for all to enjoy.

Al and Peg received a letter from Carrie and Charles Ullman of lot 290. Robert and Myrtle Black had the red carpet out for Charlie and Carrie and Lester and Catty Ullmann of lot 327 when they all visited.

Dobbie and Rita Dobson are touring Europe and will be returning to the park in October.

More good news: Frank and Bootie White will be returning early also!

Bert and C.J. Ouellette of lot 34 got together with Kay and Ray Johnston of lot 247, the Gilberts of lot 346, and the Wedlakes. All had a grand time.

Another fine letter from Stephanie and Fred Kiefaber of lot 74. They tell of traveling along Route 89, the most fantastic road in the west, winding thru the Wasatch Valley, seeing hundreds of fruit trees, lots of ranches and more beautiful scenery. This route takes you thru Wyoming and Montana where there are majestic national park forests and the Grand Tetons. Standing well over 10,000 feet and snow capped the year round, the Grand Tetons are so beautiful and awe inspiring, one just stands and looks and wonders.

Stephanie and Fred took a boat ride down the Snake River which was calm, but interesting. They saw moose, geese and a bald eagle, one of a pair that lives there the year round they were told. Eagles mate for life, usually 25 years and this pair has lived in the area for 18 years. This year the eagles decided to build a new nest across the river. The nest is at least six feet wide. They were told the old nest weighed at least a ton, and it is easy to understand for they never rebuild, but keep adding to it each year.

Next stop was Jackson, Wyoming, where they watched the nightly feature - shooting a horse thief on a busy street (using blanks, of course). There is a 45 foot long bar with 2054 silver dollars under plastic which they say is very attractive. Then on to an original theater, very small and narrow with no air conditioning. But the play was great and the performers excellent. After the performance, they ended up at an old fashioned Pink Lounge, an ice cream parlor.

Next on to Yellowstone Park to see Old Faithful, which erupts approximately every 55 minutes shooting 10 to 12 thousand gallons up an average of 130 feet. Temperature of the water is 204 degrees. There are mud pots, fumerols and pools all over fascinating. They also tell of a most interesting old inn near Old Faithful which had 120 rooms when it was built in 1903. Now east and west wings have been added, making 350 rooms. Staffed with 250 employees, all college students, the inn hosts 50,000 guests per season. The inn also has a clock which is one story tall, built on the premises of rock from a nearby hill.

Moving along to Mamath Springs they stopped to see the falls at Obsidean Cliffs. Leaving Wyoming, they entered Montana where one finds ranches that are measured in miles instead of the usual acres. All farmers were busy baling hay, cutting ripe wheat and oats. On one ranch they saw 10 tractors working at once. They passed the late Chet Huntley's ranch.

Stephanie said for the fun of it they bought pans for panning gold. Although they never found any gold they did find several dollars worth of garnets. It was fascinating because one wouldn't know what might turn up in the next pan full.

Next day they visited Big Hole Battleground, where Chief Joseph taught the army a lesson in tactics. The ride to the battleground along the Big Hole River is beautiful.

Someone said "Ghost town" to the Kiefabers, and off they went to Hannock, which is a place where $22,000 in gold was mined in one week, and $32,000 another week. Now the state is buying up the old places and restoring them. Stephanie promises more to follow.

I was pleased to receive the following from Bert and Nora Turner. You may recall we reported some time ago that the Turners are spending the summer at Frenchboro, Maine. Frenchboro is located on a small island 10 miles out in the Atlantic. Bert is working as resident engineer for the U.S. Army on a bay dredging project.

"August, 1970 - To answer some questions and state some facts:

"We did get the church open and are putting on a weekly half hour hymn sing, followed by an hour slide show.

"Our furnace is on and used some part of every day except four since 11 June. The electric blanket is also on every night.

"I am requesting departure from here no later than 24 September. No snow, no ice (visible). No excitement, plenty of interesting developments and items.

"Two weeks ago we got back to the mainland for two hours of food shopping.

Anchored in the harbor this week was the old sailing schooner of Adm. McMillens' North Pole explorations. David Rockefeller's sloop and V.P. Nelson Rockefeller's sailing yacht and others were here.

"The dredge has been digging up bones. Big mysterious bones. We dried cleaned and displayed them for the aborigines to see. (I have learned this not the proper way to treat them.

"The only means of communication here is by CB and marine radio, which is a big party line for all to hear. Local folks started talking about the bones to each other and to friends on the mainland.

"David Rockefeller and wife came to our field office while I was out to sea to see the bones.

"The next day we had one U.S. Coast Guard officer, Museum PhDs, Biology faculty, Natural History and Fossil curator, Dr. this and Dr. that.

"The bones were now on their way to Dr. Mead, curator of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C.

"More and bigger bones came to light today. Other authorities, Stanley Grierson and Dr. Silver came rushing out here to examine photograph and instruct us in how to protect and preserve them until they could receive proper care.

Now I need a public relations line to receive the guests as I can get on with the dredge reports.

"Our 23 wild ducks that come to us a day for a hand out have become three flocks of 25. We are getting tricked corn for them and out pleasure.

"Blueberries, raspberries and wild cranberries are plentiful for picking.

As guests of a summer visitor we have sailed around the edge of this and two other islands on three different days.

"Never a dull moment."

The Castaways, Bert and Nora Turner.

Notes from Nozzle Nolen on Summertime Pest Control!

Here comes summertime and all the pest problems that go with it. Nozzle Nolen suggests the following pest control tips:

1. Check doors, windows and other openings around your home for cracks and seal them up to keep out unwelcome insects.
2. While unloading groceries, check containers and produce for roaches and other insects to prevent their infestation.
3. Call today for a free Nozzle Nolen home inspection and information on monthly pest control service!

Venture Out News

The Thornton Cooks and the Garretts have just advised me of the following:

Ralph George Foster, 66, a semi-retired St Thomas executive, was killed Saturday afternoon when the small boat in which he and his wife Harriet were fishing was hit by a 17-foot lake taxi on Stoney Lake, about 20 miles north of Peterborough. Mrs Foster was not injured.

Allan Donald Cole, 18, of Peterborough has been charged with dangerous operation of a vessel. St Thomas Aid. Helen LeFrank, daughter of the victim, said Sunday that her parents had taken their trailer to the Peterborough area for a planned week-long visit with friends and had rented a boat equipped with a 5-h.p. motor for fishing. Mrs Foster told her daughter that there was a girl about nine years old sitting on the bow of the boat taxi when she noticed the bigger boat bearing down on them.

Mrs. LeFrank said her mother shouted to her husband, "They don't see us," and Mr. Foster tried to start the outboard motor and get out of its path.

The bigger boat, Mrs. LeFrank said, tore the smaller boat in two. Mrs. Foster and the driver of the lake taxi pulled Mr. Foster from the water and took him ashore. He was taken to hospital in Peterborough where he was pronounced dead. The mishap occurred about 11 a.m.

Mr. Foster was a member of the Indian River Lot Owners Association Committee. His cheerful mien and ready wit will be missed by all who knew him.

Harriet said in a letter that Ralph was buried July 2nd. On July 7th she had a severe coronary attack and was hospitalized until August 1. She was home about two hours when she fell and broke her leg. The knee-high cast is scheduled to be removed about September 2.

Surely the many friends of this charming couple join us in extending sympathy to Harriet Foster and best wishes for a speedy recovery from her ailments.

A nice letter from John and Wilda Wilson tells us that they are enjoying a busy summer.

Wilda and I have recently enjoyed somewhat of a Venture Out Holiday. Our old home week. We are parked at Chardon, Ohio near our younger daughter and were pleasantly surprised when we came back to our trailer Friday, August 1, to find Guy and Jane Richdale, Venture Out lot 625, parked next to us. They were returning from Indiana to their New Jersey home, so stopped to visit. On Saturday we had arranged to go square dancing with Marion and Chuck White. They have rented in Venture Out and Holiday that the last three winters and have a home a few miles south of where we are. The Richdales do not square dance, but went with us to watch.

"Shortly after we arrived at the hall, Martha and Leo Williams (Holiday Out lot 440) appeared. They are in the area visiting their family. After the dance we returned to our trailer for ice cream and a good gabfest. The Richdales departed on Sunday and we have heard from them as having arrived home safely.

"The next Saturday was an even bigger day. Maurice and Lee Foote (Holiday Out lot 438) came to go dancing with us and with them were Peg and Clancy Guthiel (Holiday Out lot 439). The Williams and Whites were also at the dance, so that made five couples from St. Lucie. All except the Williams returned to our trailer. Wilda had baked fresh peach pie that day so we had pie, icecream and coffee, and recounted everyone's doings for the summer into the wee hours.

"The next morning Lee and Maurice Foote had us all at their home for a cookout; all except the Whites as they took off with their trailer for a New England trip. It was really great to have so many of our friends together."

"Our weather has been hot and dry but today we at least are having an all day rain, which is needed. We hope you are both well and we expect to be home on our lot by October first."

"It is a little early to start the count down for our return to V.O. first of January. But it is only 4 months, 18 days, 5 hours and 18 minutes. Just received the latest Mirror. If I read our daily papers as thoroughly as I do the Mirror, I'd be a well informed individual.

"I work in the office 5½ days per week. One of our salesmen is taking an extended two months vacation, so I am pinch-hitting for him making calls over the state. So far this year we are having the best volume business in our 36 year history. Hard to figure with the recession, but the energy shortage on the other hand is keeping the coal mines operating 100 percent capacity, which is the life blood of our economy.

"Lucy and I recently attended my Academy's 1925 Fiftieth Class Reunion at Berea College, Berea, Ky. I didn't know how "ornery" I was until being reminded by some members of the class "I subscribe to the theory in my declining days that I would be foolish to decline anything." So, when the invitation came we responded, and really enjoyed seeing friends that I had not seen for 50 years. They had all gotten older except me.

"Earlier this summer Lucy spent three weeks visiting my sister Thelma in La Jolla, Calif., and our son in Fort Ord, Calif., and our married daughter in Los Alton, Calif. Cindy, our single daughter, will be teaching Special Education in Lexington, Ky. this coming school year. Transferring from the Fayetteville, N.C. school system, where she worked with Learning Disabilities this past school year. We are glad to have her closer to home. We may see some Kentucky football games this fall if we can get free room and board at Cindy's apartment. Ordinarily none wants to see time slip by, but the sooner January comes, the better.

We have had two cards from Mate and Bill Greuling from up N.W. Canada way, where they are traveling with their grandson Chrissy from Michigan in their Airstream. They have visited Waterton Lakes National Park, Glacier National Park, Banff, Lake Louise and Jasper, heading on to Vancouver and by ferry to Victoria, then to Olympia National Park, taking it easy and enjoying it all.

A letter from Marge and Bob Moore says Bob is still trying to relax. Both have been on a fat free diet. They purchased a cookbook from the American Heart Assn. which turns out to be gourmet eating and Marge spends much of her time preparing same. Both losing weight with plenty to eat.

Bob is starting to drive for short distances and with walking, swimming and bicycling is getting back into fine shape.

He has kept busy with many projects around the house, but 15 h.p. Johnson motor and the Scott FM tuner and amplifier.

We are sure that both of them are looking forward to an early return to V.O.

Our daughter Barbara Auch arrived Tuesday for a short visit on her way to study in Rome, Italy.

VENTURE HARBOUR NEWS
BY JESSIE SHAVER

Not many news notes were handed to me this past week so have not much to write and no chatter to pass on.

A letter from Sam Tucker says he is fine and having a good summer. He just returned from New Hampshire where he visited his son and family. Also a letter from Tucker's friends, Winnie and Tom Windlake. They will be in Venture Harbour in January to stay with Sam a couple of weeks before they move into Holiday Out where they have a trailer lot reserved for February and March. They have friends that want to rent a trailer in Venture Out for the winter if they can find one available.

Bobbi and Andy Gerard are leaving the end of the week to drive granddaughter Robin home. While in Maryland, they will visit family and friends then head north to Long Island, Rhode Island and Vermont to do the same arriving back in Florida in time for fly to the Caribbean for some snorkling before Andy starts his fall cooking classes. Andy put a small snapper that Robin had caught on a hook and landed a 6-lb. trout. That's

College registration is underway

FORT PIERCE—Registration for the fall semester is currently underway at Indian River Community College. College credit and institutional credit classes begin September 4. Adult high school, general and vocational education classes begin September 8.

Interested students should contact the College Guidance Department to arrange for an appointment to see a counselor and plan their fall schedules.

By registering early for classes students are able to enroll in the classes of their choice offered at convenient times. Recent high school graduates are encouraged to visit the IRCC Guidance Department for career counseling and assistance in formulating future educational plans.

Start early for college

Howey-In-the-Hills—The best time to begin preparing your boy or girl for college is in junior high school.

Headmaster William Branyon of Howey Academy, Central Florida co-educational college preparatory school, said that while most parents don't think about college until their children are in high school, Howey recognizes the need for an early start and begins college preparation with grade 7.

Registration for Howey's fall term is September 7, and immediate application is urged for boys and girls in grades 7 - 12 as boarding and day enrollment is limited.

The six-year college prep plan at Howey merges both junior and senior high grades into an academic plan from which 98 percent of Howey graduates enter college.

To better prepare the Howey seventh and eighth grader for high school studies, specialized reading and study skills programs are required and many of the educational facilities for the upper grades are available to junior high students, including the modern library and newly constructed science classrooms and laboratories.

In addition students of all grades are encouraged to participate in varsity, junior varsity and junior high athletics including tennis, golf, soccer, basketball, baseball, cross rowing and volleyball. Other activities include music and the arts, horseback riding and water sports.

Howey's 20-1 student/teacher ratio provides an opportunity for students of all abilities to overcome educational handicaps, especially that of over crowded classrooms.

REV. DONALD E. JOHNSON

Reception September 14

Rev. Johnson heads National Council

Beginning his eighth year at the Jensen Beach church, Reverend Johnson has served as Florida coordinator for all coordinators in the United States.

Besides being an active pastor within the church framework, Johnson has served locally on the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Division of Youth Services, the Drug Abuse Council, Inter-Agency Steering Committee and Martin County Mental Health Association.

There will be a reception honoring him from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, September 14, at the church's Fellowship Hall, and the public is invited.

The National Council of Community Churches, with executive offices in Worthington, Ohio, started in Lake Forest, Illinois, in 1966. At present there are 190 active churches in the council, with the heaviest concentration of churches in Florida, California, Illinois and Ohio.

Community churches related to the council are free and autonomous.

The hosts and hostesses for the reception will be the people who attended the conference this year. They include:

Jay Pitchford, Mark Sandell, Melissa Stalker, Sally Bricker, Rob Woodruff, Martha Bacon, J. Van Melear, Chris Kirkpatrick, Lynn Marsteller, Robert Mills, Mitchell Bullock, Philip Ngai, Eric Hillman.

Gary Stalker, Leigh Hunter, Kevin Brown, Michael Mills, Connie Miller, Rhonda Cumpsty, Art Chan, Martha Garcia, Steve Hillman.

Outlying areas

Community centers planned

JENSEN BEACH—Community Service Centers in the outlying areas of Martin County are being boosted by Commissioner Timer Powers.

Powers, a veteran commissioner of Stuart, calls the service centers "an exciting new concept in government."

"The principle is bringing government service to the people rather than taking the people to governmental services.

"This is in direct contrast to the normal way of building bigger buildings in the county seat," Powers said.

Indiantown, in the western part of the county, already has a Community Service Center, and Powers points out that the county offers part-time service in all its agencies.

"The mileage is not important," Powers said. "It is the time involved and not having the traffic congestion. It is an alternative to having government in one area.

"Services at the Indiantown center include the tax collector's office where the residents can purchase licenses for car tags, and health department personnel.

Sheriff's deputies now have room to fill out forms. In the past they had to park their patrol cars under a shade tree to do that, Powers observed.

Voting also is done at the Indiantown center, and vehicles are inspected at the center on certain days of the month.

"We have had tremendous cooperation from all county agencies," Powers said.

There also is enough land at the center to enable the county road department to store equipment, and the state Forestry Service has an observation tower on the property along with the offices.

Community Service Centers will increase efficiency in government, Powers believes.

"It is an exciting concept of government and in the future we could establish specialty teams that could go from one center to another.

Powers also foresees the possibility of holding County Commission meetings in different areas on special occasions when the community has specific problems.

Budgeting funds for another Community Service Center may be in the 1977 budget, according to Powers.

"It is the county's responsibility to give service to the people," Powers said.

CENTER SIGN—Martin County Commissioner Timer Powers points to a sign in front of the Community Service Center in Indiantown. The sign has a list of county agencies and the times representatives will be at the center.

Agencies-residents invited

Jensen-Rio United Fund organizes this Monday

JENSEN BEACH—Local agencies and residents of Jensen Beach and Rio will get together Monday night at 7 p.m. in the lecture theatre of Evinrude Science Building to set up the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund drive.

At the meeting, the planning of the October 22 kickoff of the drive will begin, along with consideration of budgets for various agencies, including Langford Park, the Samaritan Free Ambulance and any other agency that is considering participation in the drive.

A nominating committee of Richard Neeson, temporary chairman, Jackie Hall and Lavaughn Tilton will offer a slate of directors for the new drive. All are leaders of the former Jensen-Rio United Fund.

The goal for the drive will be set following the presentation of budgetary matters to the board of directors. The local group plans to work with the Martin County United Way to avoid overlap in campaigning, and plans to seek proper information on funding percentages of agency participation in the drive.

All agencies, and interested citizens and groups are invited to the meeting, according to Mrs. Hall, who has sent out a letter to the organizations in the area asking for help.

Brian Bibeau, local attorney, is setting up the necessary non-profit organization to handle the drive, and a charter is expected to be ready for approval at the Monday night meeting.

The territorial limits of the drive will be U.S. 1 on the west, Hutchinson Island on the east, the St. Lucie River on the south, and the county line on the north, with Walton and Eden in St. Lucie County added to the area.

Mirror first; topless photograph

JENSEN BEACH—Another first? Is topless fad that bad?

The Mirror plans to let the Mirror readers decided for themselves.

With deep research and apologies to the Martin County Commission, now considering an ordinance banning topless entertainment in the county, Mirror editors have looked into the issue and find that a cleavage of controversy really exists in the minds of our readers.

Many who have expressed opinions on the subject admit to never having seen a topless entertainer, much less a topless photograph of a topless subject.

On September 17, The Mirror will publish a topless photograph. Interviews are now being conducted to choose the subject matter.

Not being chauvinistic, nor sexist, The Mirror will publish a male and female topless photograph.

The editors feel that it is important to bare this subject to the entire population so that the county commission receives proper and fitting comment upon which to make decisions as to whether or not there is to be a topless ordinance.

Need volunteers

Samaritans expand service area

JENSEN BEACH—Beginning Oct. 1, Jensen Area Good Samaritans will extend its service to include North River Shores and all of Hutchinson Island.

"We are going to cover the areas where the City of Stuart will no longer take care after Oct. 1," George Krauss, president of the voluntary ambulance service, said.

The City of Stuart ambulance service will only operate within the city limits, and the Tri-County Ambulance Service will cover the Palm City, Port Salerno and Tropical Farms area.

"We want to make sure that the residents of the North River Shore area and all of Hutchinson Island residents know where to call for ambulance service," Krauss said.

Krauss said residents could call his number, 334-1365, or Wally Redit's number, 334-4457, for ambulance service.

For ambulance or fire calls anywhere in the county, Civil Defense number is 287-5575.

Krauss pointed out that the Samaritans will be covering the same areas, but are just adding the additional areas.

"Because of the expanded service area," Krauss said, "we need more volunteers.

"We have 40 active people, but most of them are available at nights. We have a problem with available personnel during the day.

"We now have two ambulances and a third will be coming in a few weeks," Krauss said.

The new ambulance will cost about $12,000 and federal funds pay for half the cost and one-quarter by the county.

"Donations will make up for the other part of the ambulance cost," he said.

The Samaritans will hold a membership meeting at Langford Park at 8 p.m. Wednesday, September 3.

"We urge all persons interested in joining to attend the meeting," Krauss said.

Savannas purchase is urged

JENSEN BEACH—At a public hearing last week, approximately 100 savannas property owners and conservationists from Martin and St. Lucie Counties asked questions and urged the state to purchase the vast wetlands in the two counties.

Bill Jernigan, an administrative assistant in the state Department of Natural Resources, and Gene Langston, another state representative, told the group the state's primary objective is to preserve the 10,200-acre marshlands between Jensen Beach Cutoff Road north to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and east of U.S. 1.

Most of the men and women crowded into the St. Lucie Courtroom did not have to be sold on the purchase of the savannas as they expressed the fear that the savannas would disappear if the state did not purchase it.

Discussing the project timetable, Jernigan said that by November 10 the department should have a property appraisal on the savannas.

The appraisal, along with information on the purchase costs, will go to an interagency advisory council composed of nine department and division heads.

The council's recommendation will go to the Cabinet, possibly in February, for a final decision.

The savannas itself meets all the state standards for purchase, but the purchase price must now be determined.

Langston said he will be dealing first with four large property owners. There are a total of 223 landowners involved.

Fred Vidzes of General Development Corp. (GDC), one of the largest landowners, said GDC is committed to preserve the savannas.

However, in one area, the land had been platted over 10 years ago and 4,000 of 6,000 lots are now being sold by contract. Vidzes said it would be legally and practically impossible to regain these lots.

Langston replied that the state should move ahead without the subdivided land.

The state has sent letters to all savannas property owners notifying them the state is interested in acquiring their property for a state preserve. Jernigan said the response to the letters has not been good, but blamed the poor response in part to the hard to understand letters.

The public hearing was designed to draw response from area residents. The only concern expressed by most property owners was that the state should not allow a great deal of recreational use of the area or it does buy it.

Power struggle?

House of Refuge flap endangers bicentennial

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH—In what looks like the continuation of a power struggle for control of county employment, the House of Refuge Museum joined the growing list of departments over which the county commission seeks employment control.

Last week the hiring of a "keeper" at the waterfront museum was challenged by Commissioner Maggie Hurchalla, and the museum seemed destined to be closed down on August 31, when the last keeper's resignation took effect.

A special meeting of the county commission was cancelled due to a lack of a quorum on Friday, and the decision of who had the power to hire for the museum commission was deferred.

Closing of the House of Refuge would have meant turning off the electrical power and resultant destruction of the entire project conducted at the museum, and possible vandalism of the 60-year old structure.

The action could threaten the Bicentennial planning for a 100-year old celebration of the establishment of the House of Refuge, one of a string of refuges for shipwrecked sailors along the east coast of the United States. It is the only one of its kind, and is now being restored with local and federal funding in the amount of $100,000.

A celebration is planned for October 4, the anniversary of the establishment of the building, located on a coral island in the southern part of Hutchinson Island, and includes a boat parade and ceremonies highlighted by Secretary of State Bruce Smathers.

In the past, keepers have been hired by the Martin County Historical Society on recommendation of the museum director, Janet Hutchinson. Mrs. Hutchinson operates the privately endowed Elliott Museum and the county-funded House of Refuge Museum, and has been director of museums for the past ten years.

County Commission Chairman Rosa Philbrick is president of the historical society and one of the directors for many years.

The matter seems to be a case of the county trying to establish criteria for the job and a say that has been admittedly ignored in the hiring and firing, if only approval of the person selected by the historical society.

The society, having operated under its own set of rules for the past ten years, and having built a museum system that is the envy of many other counties, looks at this as being a violation of trust, or meddling in the affairs of the society.

County Administrator Jack Noble told The Mirror Tuesday that his position was that of interpreting the desires of the county commission.

"The use of a county vehicle for private purposes was questioned, as was the status of the keeper as a county employee," Noble said.

He added that there was no job description of the position, though the employee was paid by the county and received county benefits, and should be subject to the rules of the county.

"We need to clarify the rules and the subjectivity of the employee to those rules. It is possible that this should be a contract position," Noble said.

He explained that the county has a 40-hour a week policy for employees, but the keeper is on duty 24 hours a day, six days a week. He gets a salary and a place to live.

"It's a unique position," Noble said.

Historical Society members question the ability of the county to hire a qualified person for something as specialized as the museum.

In past weeks, as budget fever hit all county departments, Mrs. Hurchalla has questioned the hiring practices of the various county constitutional officers, including the sheriff's department, the county clerk, the supervisor of registration and the assessor.

Sheriff Jim Holt has received an attorney general opinion stating that the sheriff alone has the power to hire and fire his employees as a constitutionally elected official.

DISPATCH CENTER—This is the dispatch center for the Tri Area Ambulance Service. The ambulance service provided by volunteers will go into operation October 1 and serve the unincorporated areas of Palm City, Tropical Farms, Port Salerno, Golden Gate, Monterey section, and Port Sewall.

Tax roll is near

JENSEN BEACH—Assistant Property Appraiser Ted Campo is expecting the preliminary tax roll to be ready this week.

He said mechanical and power failures have caused a delay with the computer.

Meanwhile, about 40 persons have protested their tax roll appraisals.

So far, the date for starting the tax roll review has not been announced.

The tax roll is not set open to the public because a "printout" of the computerized appraisals is not completed. However, notices have been sent to property owners whose appraisals have been changed since last year.

September 15 is the last day for filing protests of new appraisals.

Extended dry spell here

JENSEN BEACH—Tuesday's showers didn't bring to an end the extended dry spell we've had in Jensen Beach but it was a welcome relief.

According to one person who keeps tab on the rainfall we had less than two inches of rain during August.

Bicentennial exhibit opens

JENSEN BEACH—The American Bicentennial Florida Exhibition will be at Grant Plaza on U.S. 1 through Saturday, September 6.

Sponsored by the Bicentennial Commission of Florida and Martin County Bicentennial Committee, the exhibit opened at 10 a.m. Wednesday, September 3.

The exhibit features the national Bicentennial themes of Heritage '76, Festival U.S.A. and Horizons '76.

It will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

Simon is speaker

The 50th meeting, the super vision of business, will address key issues of concern to business.

Chamber directors to meet Monday

JENSEN BEACH—The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8.

Reports by various committee chairmen are slated at the meeting which will be held at the chamber office.

MORTGAGE $$$ AVAILABLE
Savings Deposits At All-time High

JENSEN BEACH, Fla. — A substantial increase in total savings deposits at First of Martin County has resulted in an abundance of mortgage money being available. There now are ample funds for good first mortgage loans for the construction, purchase or refinancing of homes in this area.

According to officials at First of Martin County, savings deposits in passbook and certificate accounts have increased significantly in recent months. As a result, there is a good supply of money available for first mortgage loans to local residents.

The remarkable increase in deposits is attributed to the fact that our savings and loan pays higher interest rates on regular savings accounts than First of Martin County and no bank pays as much. It is also a fact that First of Martin County has the lowest minimum deposit requirements allowed by federal regulations.

At the same time, all savings at First of Martin County are insured up to $40 thousand per account by an agency of the federal government.

First of Martin County now has five convenient financial centers to serve its customers. Mortgage applications will be accepted at all five offices during regular business hours — 9 AM to 3 PM Monday through Thursday, 9 AM to 6 PM on Friday.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

For nearly a hundred years there has been a Keeper at the Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge on Hutchinson Island, who was hired, for the first seventy or so years, by representatives of the Federal Government.

Since 1957, when the House of Refuge had become a museum, the "Keeper" (meaning a capable person in full-time residence responsible for the safety and well being of the building) has been selected and hired by representatives of the Martin County Historical Society and the Museum Commission, on the recommendation of the Director of the Historical Society.

Starting with the first Keeper, in 1876, who resigned after about two years the tenure of this position has varied from a few months to, at most, three or four years. It appears that the monotony, the sandflies, mosquitoes – and the plain loneliness – require frequent replacement of someone who will live on the premises, keep the building in good running order, and be it always ready to receive groups of school children and paying visitors.

In 1958, the Martin County Museum Commission and the Historical Society in an agreement with the then Board of County Commissioners, engaged a Director to "manage the affairs of the House of Refuge." In 1961, when a second museum came under the auspices of the Historical Society, the Commission appointed the then Director as Director of BOTH museums. It would appear that it is the responsibility of a good director or department head to select qualified personnel that can work cooperatively in the department and with the head of that department, be it in a museum or any other business.

The present Director of the Historical Society (and its two museums) Mrs. Janet Hutchinson, took office at a time when the then resident caretaker of the House of Refuge was soon to retire. Thus she was responsible for interviewing and recommending to the Board of Trustees and the Museum Commission the replacement, who then went on the County payroll. Thus Mrs. Hutchinson has done three times in the nine and a half years of her directorship the most recent occasion being last month, when on August 1st the then Keeper submitted a letter of resignation, naming August 31 as the last day of his employment.

After interviewing three well qualified applicants for the post, Mrs. Hutchinson, with the concurrence of Mr. R.H. Philbrick, president of the Historical Society, and Mrs. William Clark Shepard, chairman of the Society's executive committee, advised the County Administrator and the County Finance office of the name and Social Security number of the new Keeper, whose assignment would start September 1 – thus following the established procedure observed since 1957.

It is indeed too bad that one County Commissioner proved to be lacking in understanding – or, perhaps, simply in knowledge – of the working of an organization that has done nothing throughout the twenty years of its existence but see to it that the House of Refuge be maintained in such a manner as to enable it to take its place in the history of the County, the State, and the Nation. To this end, the 99-year-old House of Refuge (the oldest standing structure in Martin County) has, through the diligent effort of the present Director, already been designated a State Historic Memorial. It has been listed on the National Register of Historical Places, resulting in it to matching Federal funds for complete restoration – which funds (totaling $100,000 are already set aside), and it has been named for inclusion on the Florida Bicentennial Trail. Further, a celebration has been planned for October 18 next, to mark the 100th Anniversary of the date on which the Secretary of the Treasury, in 1875, authorized its construction.

Surely this is a time to praise the venerable House of Refuge, the efforts of the Martin County Historical Society to preserve it, and the nearly ten years of hard work put forth by the present Director to see that well deserved attention is paid to this landmark as it enters its second century of service.

+Anne Young Shepard, Chairman

To the Editor:

My husband and I are anticipating a move to your area as he will be studying at Florida Institute of Technology beginning in mid-Sept., and we were wondering if it would be possible for some of your citizens to correspond with us, since we have no acquaintances in Jensen Beach.

To give you a brief knowledge of ourselves, we are 23 years old, no children, interested in scuba diving, enjoy our dog and cats, baptized in the Lutheran faith, and we both like music. David likes mechanical work, baseball and football. I enjoy cooking, tennis, and writing letters, which is what prompted this note.

It would be so much nicer to know some people when we arrive, instead of coming into your community friendless, so if you can post at print this letter somehow so lots of people can see it, we surely would appreciate your kindness. Very sincerely,

Gentlemen:
Att: Dick Campbell & Charlie Cates

As chairman of the Fire Works Fund Raising Committee, I would like to thank the Mirror for its generous July Fourth contribution. I am sure the editorials written by your staff helped us attain and surpass our goal. It is cooperation like this that makes the annual event so successful. Further, it demonstrates what a fine community spirit we are so fortunate to have in our area.

In closing, on behalf of the Chamber and myself, may I once again say thank you. Sincerely,

+Fred P. Niels

To the Editor:

Alice Hickey's column on E.C. Wareheim was entertaining, humorous, and succinctly put, and any other apt adjective one could use.

Of course, Mr. Wareheim is more than a "landmark" or "institution" to me and my staff. He is a gentleman, consummate banker, a source of knowledge, wisdom and expertise we all draw from. It was a pleasure to read your column, which snuggled him out in a light and touching way, a way our community may not have really appreciated until now.

Thank you again. It was a great article.

Sincerely,
+Ronald F. Mitchell, Pres

Lincoln special co-sponsored by First National Bank

STUART—The First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, through its membership in the American Bankers Association (ABA), will co-sponsor "Lincoln, the Unwilling Warrior" on NBC-TV Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 9 p.m. on Channels 5 and 7.

Television viewers will gain new insights into the life of Abraham Lincoln, as Commander-in-Chief during the Civil War, in this fourth hour long special, based on Carl Sandburg's Pulitzer Prize-winning biography of the 16th President.

The first three programs in the six-part series have already won awards from TV Guide, the American Better Broadcasters Association and the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

In "Lincoln, the Unwilling Warrior," Holbrook portrays this man of peace thrust into the role of Commander in Chief. The period covered begins with Lincoln's journey to Washington for his inauguration and ends with the bittersweet victory over the Confederate forces. The transformation of the man and the nation, caused by the Civil War, is vividly depicted.

Each of the six programs in the series concentrates on a personal aspect of Lincoln, as depicted in Carl Sandburg's six-volume biography. The remaining two programs in the series will be aired in February and April, 1976.

Annexation to follow

Park dedication is Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE—The long awaited transfer of Sportsman's Park from General Development Corporation to the City of Port St. Lucie will become a reality Thursday morning during ceremonies scheduled for 9:30 a.m. at the park.

General Development Corporation's President and Chief Executive Officer Louis Fischer is expected to arrive from his Miami office to present the deed to Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe.

Port St. Lucie's general manager Bob Seeley has been credited with being instrumental in persuading the development firm to donate th approximate 16 acres to the City.

Among those invited to participate in the Thursday morning ceremonies are members of the St. Lucie County Commission, Tom Kindred, county recreation director, State Representative Chuck Nergard, presidents of each local club and organization within the city and River Park, members of the City Council, General Development officials and residents of the community.

The park is presently located outside the city limits, however the city is expected to begin annexation proceedings as soon as possible.

The deed for the 16 acre tract is explicit in restricting the use of the land for recreation and park purposes only.

Should the City fail to comply with such restriction, the land would revert back to General Development Corp.

Back in June, a favorable recommendation handed over to the City Council by the local Planning and Zoning Committee made the annexation of a 70 acre tract situated just north of the City a virtual certainty. Sportsman's Park was included in that 70 acre tract as were three churches, the library, the CESA building and the Southern Bell Telephone property.

According to City Administrator Elmer Cox, there has been nothing other than favorable comment relative to the pending annexation.

At that time the City's Planning and Zoning Board recommended speeding $50,000 during the first year on improvements to the Park, however that figure was trimmed by $20,000 during Tuesday's Special Council meeting due to the millage rollback in ad valorem taxes this year. The 1975-76 millage rate was established by the City Council at 2.095 which will generate the same amount of revenue as did the 3.1 mills last year.

City officials did not take advantage of the 10 percent increase they could lawfully have set this year.

A public hearing will be set within the next three weeks on the new millage figure.

Of the $50,000 figure, the city requested St. Lucie County kick in $25,000, since through annexation the park would become a part of the St. Lucie County Recreation program.

Aside from the money, the County would also provide program services under their recreation program.

The city would hire the caretaker to keep the grounds in order.

Millage set at 2.095; budget trimmed

PORT ST. LUCIE—After a $156,000 trimming, the City Tuesday approved strength and final draft of the 1975-76 budget during a special meeting.

The final draft of the budget shows estimated revenues of $601,050 and projected expenses of the same amount.

The budget was approved by the City Council on a 4-1 vote, with Councilman Jerry Kimmel dissenting.

A public hearing for the new budget will be held as a special meeting in the City Hall. Meeting time will be 7:30 p.m. however, the date of the hearing has yet to be scheduled.

State law requires the public hearing be held at least fifteen days following the advertisement publication date.

At the same time, the City Council approved or adopted a millage rate of 2.095 which, according to City Administrator Elmer Cox, will generate the same amount of revenue as did the 3.1 mills last year, due to the property reassessments in the area.

The city did not even take advantage of the 10 percent increase provided by legislation last November under the millage rollback bill.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe opened the discussion on the 2.095 millage rate by saying, "A lot of people in our community are hurting due to inflation and unemployment. I think we should stick to the lowest possible millage this year. Next year, if we have to, we will go up the 10 percent."

Councilman Bill McSheaney, who was a little reluctant at first about the low rate, finally agreed to go along with the majority of the Council but added, "I hope and pray our construction increases in this city this year. I do hope we won't get caught in a bind."

McSheaney agreed only because of the surplus shown on the new budget, particularly in the police budget.

Once the public hearing is held, the millage rate will remain. However, the door was left open for the City Council to amend the budget if it was deemed necessary.

Barbecue draws large crowd

PORT ST. LUCIE—The CESA operating funds were boosted by nearly $600 last Sunday when a large crowd turned out for the barbecue.

According to President Dick Lundin, more than three hundred persons were served during the afternoon.

No more money, please

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc. have reached their $1,540 goal required to put their accounts in balance.

"We don't want any more checks, we have no need for additional money at this time," announced George Blackmond, finance chairman for the group.

"It is never easy to raise money, but, in this case, it came in very nicely.

People saw the need for it and I am convinced that was the real reason for the success we had," Blackmond added.

The membership of the organization is still growing, according to the finance chairman, who said, "In collecting the balance of the funds needed we acquired 41 new members."

The future of the Interested Homeowners organization is a decision which will be made by the board of directors.

"I do not know at this time if the organization will operate on a standby basis or be very active," Blackmond said.

The $1,540 goal was sufficient to liquidate the legal expenses plus the cost of several publications and all other expenses incurred by the group during the lengthy legal battle with the City of Port St. Lucie.

Savannas purchase is urged

JENSEN BEACH—At a public hearing last week, approximately 100 savannas property owners and conservationists from Martin and St. Lucie Counties asked questions and urged the state to purchase the vast wetlands in the two counties.

Bill Jernigan, an administrative assistant in the state Department of Natural Resources, and Gene Lang, another state representative, told the group the state's primary objective is to preserve the 10,200 acre marshlands between Jensen Beach cutoff Road north to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and east of U.S. 1.

Most of the men and women crowded into the St. Lucie Courtroom did not have to be sold on the purchase of the savannas as they expressed the fear that the savannas would disappear if the state did not purchase it.

Discussing the project timetable, Jernigan said that by November 10 the department should have a property appraisal on the savannas.

The appraisal along with information on the purchase costs, will go to an interagency advisory council composed of nine department and division heads.

The council's recommendation will go to the Cabinet, possibly in February for a final decision.

The savannas itself meets all the state standards for purchase, but the purchase price must now be determined.

Langston said he will be dealing first with four large property owners. There are a total of 232 landowners involved.

Fred Vidzes of General Development Corp. (GDC), one of the largest landowners, said GDC is committed to preserve the savannas.

However, in one area, the land had been platted over 10 years ago and 4,000 of 8,000 lots are now being sold by contract. Vidzes said it would be legally and practically impossible to regain these lots.

Langston replied that the state should move ahead without the subdivided land.

The state has sent letters to all savannas property owners notifying them the state is interested in acquiring their property for a state preserve. Jernigan said the response to the letters has not been good, but blamed the poor response in part to the hard to understand letters.

The public hearing was designed to draw response from area residents. The only concern expressed by most property owners was that the state should not allow a great deal of recreational use of the area if it does buy it.

James will address republicans

PORT ST. LUCIE—Representative Bill James, minority leader in the Florida House from Delray Beach, will be guest of honor and featured speaker at the Port St. Lucie Republican Club meeting on Thursday, September 4.

To be held at the CESA Building, the meeting will begin at 8 p.m. with a chicken, potato salad and dessert supper for 120 members who have purchased tickets in advance.

Supper will be followed by a brief business meeting. Then Representative James will take the stand to talk on Republican principles and politics.

All registered Republicans are invited to attend, but those attending the supper must have advance reservations, according to Jack LaBrance, program chairman for the club.

Sharpe replies to state auditor

PORT ST. LUCIE—Mayor Schuyler Sharpe who said earlier the state audit of the city's finances held no surprises, issued his formal reply to Ernest Mason, auditor general, during a special meeting held Tuesday.

Mayor Sharpe said he had not attempted to undertake a comprehensive analysis of the review in light of the State Attorney's investigation of the city's financial matters which, he said, "were thoroughly studied, analyzed and reported upon in your office by nine field staff auditors. It is obvious from the report their work was thorough and objective despite the admissible absence of some records or the inadequacy of others."

In his reply the Mayor assured the Auditor General that, while the city has been able to tighten the local rules and regulations relating to the proper and acceptable methods of handling and protecting public monies, the city is pursuing with all deliberate speed to improve procedures by:

"First requesting the accounting firm to cooperate with the city's finance committee and administrative heads to define precisely in writing the City Hall organization which will be fully responsible in establishing policies and procedures leading to a municipal financial system that will comply with all applicable Florida Statutes, and

Second, working toward a system of bookkeeping and recordation of all municipal financial transactions that will coincide with widely accepted accounting principles which are indeed the basis of true internal control with all of its essential supportive documents relating to municipal revenues, deposits and expenditures.

My office and the City Council are keenly aware of our responsibilities in safeguarding and accounting for all public monies," the Mayor said.

According to the Mayor's statement, the city will await and be prepared to implement whatever action State Attorney Robert Stone recommends upon the completion of his on going investigation of the City's financial matters covering the period from July 1, 1968 through May 31, 1975.

Although city officials have yet to make the findings of the two month study of the city's finances available, it has been reported the audit details a number of questionable and improper financial procedures and cites various payments made by city employees without authorization or documentation.

The audit was brought about through a petition listing more than 400 names of local residents requesting the investigation.

CESA Golf Tourney planned

PORT ST. LUCIE—More than 200 entrants have already signed up to compete in the First Annual CESA Golf Tournament. The prestigious benefit event is open to 144 men and 144 women who will challenge the Saints and Sinners courses at the Sandpiper Bay resort on October 9. The announcement was made by the 15 member tournament committee.

Tournament Director Tom Chapman said that the shotgun affair will offer players with Sandpiper Bay emblems in the man and woman low net winners. CESA handicap finishers placing second, third and fourth will be awarded golf merchandise. Special prizes will be given to leading Callaway handicap entrants.

In addition, golf bags will be given to the man player coming closest to the pin on the Sinners third hole and to the women players accomplishing that feat on the Saints 16th. Golf balls will be awarded to every player hitting the fairways on both of these greens. The Schultz Chevrolet company is donating the golf bags and every player will receive commemorative bag tags.

Chapman explained that players with current USGA handicap cards will play at USGA entrants and all others as Callaways handicap entrants. As an example under Callaway a golfer deducts his four worst holes and uses the final not exceeding 36 plus an adjustment of two to determine his handicap. There is a Callaway chart being used for the tournament that stipulates that no hole may be scored at more than twice its par and that the 17th and 18th holes may not be deducted.

At the recommendation of CESA President Dick Lundin it was agreed to have a permanent plaque installed in the new CESA lounge that will have inscribed each annual men's and women's division winners.

Committee member Irene Chapman reported that 200 men and women have already entered and that many residents have signed up for just the post tournament luncheon and cocktail hour.

She stressed that after September 8, entries will be accepted from non-member non-Port St. Lucie residents, if any spots in the 288 player tournaments are still open. Entries are now being received from Country Club members and non-members who are Port St. Lucie residents and who pay the tax deductible $10 entry fee and $4 cart fee, with luncheon included in the entry fee.

General Development Corporation sponsor of the event being committeed by the local men's and women's golf associations' presidents Jack Blackmond and Al Van Nostrand, is furnishing the prizes, the luncheon, half of the cart rental fees and providing use of the golf courses. Arrangements for the facilities were coordinated by GDC President Louis E. Fischer, Port St. Lucie General Manager Robert L. Seeley and Sandpiper Bay Resort Manager Pierre Roellinger with all proceeds going to the CESA community center.

CESA pancake breakfast scheduled for September 14

PORT ST. LUCIE—The next big event scheduled to up the CESA Operational Funds will be a pancake breakfast to be held at the Community Center on Sunday, September 14.

Hiram Demaison will be the master chef for the affair.

Serving will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until 2 p.m., according to Demaison.

Tickets are available at the CESA building, from any director or trustee of the organization.

Punt, pass and kick October 4

PORT ST. LUCIE—The annual Punt, Pass and Kick Competition will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday, October 4, at Lawnwood Baseball Complex.

A clinic will be held Saturday, September 27, at 9 a.m. at the Lawnwood complex.

Sponsored by the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie Recreation Department in conjunction with Sunrise Motor Co., the competition is free and open to all boys ages 8 through 13. Seven-year-olds who will reach their eighth birthday by December 31, 1975, may compete, but a 13-year-old who becomes 14 on or before January 1, 1976 will not be eligible.

Deadline for registering is Friday, October 3, at 5 p.m. Youngsters may register at Sunrise Motor Co.

A Mirror first; a topless photograph

JENSEN BEACH—Another first" is the topless fad that bad?"

The Mirror plans to let the Mirror readers decided for themselves.

With deep research and apologies to the Martin County Commission, now considering an ordinance banning topless entertainment in the county, the Mirror editors have looked into the matter and find that a cleavage of opinion really exists in the minds of our people.

Many who have expressed opinions on the subject admit to never having seen a topless entertainer, much less a photograph of a topless subject.

On September 17, The Mirror will publish a topless photograph. Interviews are now being conducted to choose the subject matter.

Not being chauvinistic, nor sexist, The Mirror will publish a male and female topless photograph.

The editors feel that it is important to here this subject to the entire population so that the county commission receives proper and fitting comment upon which to make decisions as to whether or not there is to be a topless ordinance.

Mayor returns $200 monthly in donation to city

PORT ST. LUCIE—Those attending the workshop session Tuesday were in for a big surprise when they learned Mayor Schuyler Sharpe contributed $200 monthly back to the city earmarked for beautification projects.

The information was released by City Administrator Elmer Cox following criticism by a local resident who suggested some of the council members had taken no steps to cut their own salaries as promised in campaign speeches.

When another resident said he thought it would be illegal to return a portion of the salary to the city, the Mayor agreed.

"I have contacted the IRS and any employee can contribute to whatever he chooses. I choose to contribute $200 of my $500 monthly salary back to the city, a perfectly legal contribution, the Mayor said.

A big round of applause followed.

Tarpon Springs is sponges and Greeks

BY DICK CAMPBELL

TARPON SPRINGS–The introduction to Tarpon Springs from the Gulf of Mexico is beauty, with outriggers of shrimp boats reaching for shallows, the lighthouse of Anclote Key beaconing safe harbor, and markers providing safe passage into the river.

The channel is narrow, and scenic beyond description.

Brightly colored sponge boats, sturdy and strong, are mixed with the many pleasure boats that harbor in this unique Greek community that is so foreign to the usual Florida.

True, there are the palm trees and palmettos, but this city 28 miles north of Tampa on U.S. 19 seems more Greek than Floridian. Greek signs, newspapers and foods in markets dominate the old town area.

The town square is dominated by an impressive St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church, where the 2,500 population of the Greek community lead their religious lives.

In the tourist sector of the town, the sponge docks beckon visitors to curio shops that feature sponges, beautifully designed copper sculptures and icons for the faithful.

Of all the restaurants, Pappas is perhaps the most popular. It is there that the Greek fare is most adventurous, with the Greek salad an experience that the gourmet will find rewarding.

Pappas Restaurant opened in 1925 and now has expanded into a new restaurant, opened just last month. It is modernistic and many-leveled, an attractive addition to the community.

It was founded by Louis Pappamichalopoulos, who came here from Greece in 1904. It is now run by his sons, Mike, Lucas and Jack, who have become dominant forces in the community.

Upon the discovery of sponges in 1905, Greek divers came to Tarpon Springs to develop what has become the largest natural sponge industry in the world.

There are only twelve sponge boats left of the nearly 200 that once plied the waters off Anclote Key, but production is still up, and the auctions are still held twice each week at the sponge docks.

Divers still go down to seek the sponge, their bronze helmets trailing the long air line to the boat. In shallower waters, some still use the hooks to reach down to find the black skinned sponge clinging to a crevice or coral.

The Greeks still hold their dances and festivals, with the blessing of the fleet the largest event, and the celebration of Epiphany a January religious spectacular.

As the years have passed, the tourist resort ideal of Tarpon Springs has maintained its charm, but further east the commercialism of shopping centers and industrial expansion has brought affluence and a strong base to the area economy.

Boat building firms have developed along with the small industries that cluster around a good place to live.

The quiet bayous of the Anclote River, and the accessibility of Lake Tarpon, has encouraged the development of a residential community that brings businessmen from as far as Clearwater, 14 miles to the south, to find quiet and peace.

F.I.T. trustees are appointed

MELBOURNE–Two prominent Floridians who have achieved national recognition as outstanding business executives have been elected to serve three-year terms on the Board of Trustees of Florida Institute of Technology. The announcement was made by F.I.T. President Jerome P. Keuper.

They are Robert C. Allen, Chairman of the Disney World Operating Committee in Orlando, and J.B. Stancliffe, President of the Stancliffe Investment Company and former President of Florsheim Shoe Company, Chicago, Illinois.

Allen joined Disneyland in California in 1955 and in 1963 transferred to Walt Disney Studios in Hollywood. He became general manager of Celebrity Sport Center in Denver, Colorado, a year later. Celebrity Sport Center is owned and operated by Walt Disney Productions. He moved to Florida as vice president of resorts, when Walt Disney World opened in 1970.

In July, 1973, he was named chairman of the Disney World Operating Committee.

Trailer fees are reported

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County's share in the sale of mobile home license plates was $121,947, according to the president of the Florida Mobile Home & Recreational Vehicle Association.

President Robert E. Quinn said that a total of $11,753,691 from the sale of mobile home license plates was returned to state cities and counties during the period from July 1, 1974 through June 30, 1975.

The Martin County Commission received $52,522 and the School Board got $60,974 with towns and cities in the county getting $8,451.

The license fees are paid annually by mobile home owners who rent the property on which their homes are located, mainly in Martin County's 6 mobile home parks. Mobile home residents who own their lots usually choose to pay real estate taxes on their homes, according to Quinn.

License fees range from $20 to $80 depending on the length of the home.

No arson found

STUART–Martin County Sheriff James Holt said his department has discounted the theory that the three boys whose parents' apartment burned August 20 at Conquistador Condominium were involved in the incident.

Sheriff's Detective Chief Robert Crowder said fire probers found no motive for arson, but also could find no accidental cause.

The fire, which destroyed one apartment and damaged two others, apparently started in a bedroom and was found by Michael Weimar, 15, of Birmingham, Mich., who said he was watching television when he noticed the smoke in the bedroom.

Sheriff Holt said the investigation into the fire is continuing, and lab tests will provide information to his department.

Not covered by a pension?
Start your own tax-deferred plan!

Are you a professional person? The owner of a small business? A free-lance artist or musician? Employed by a company with no pension plan?
Now you can start your own tax-deferred pension plan when you open an Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) at Community Federal Savings.
Community Federal's new I.R.A. will allow you to save – and deduct from your pre-tax income – up to $1500 or 15% of your annual earnings, whichever is less.
You can also transfer funds from a company pension into an I.R.A. when you leave that firm's employment.
The new tax law means you will not pay any taxes on your contributions, or the accumulated interest, until the time you retire. And you're likely to be in a lower tax bracket, then.
Visit the Community Federal office nearest you soon to see if you qualify for a tax-deferred Individual Retirement Account.
If you don't have a company pension to take care of your retirement, Community Federal will help you take care of yourself.

Rev. Grotefend retires after 54 year ministry

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE--The people of Port St. Lucie paid honor to retiring Reverend Oliver G. Grotefend last Sunday night at the church he helped to found and served as pastor for the past ten years.

The congregation and friends of the Northern Church of St. Andrew surprised the dinner, attended by more than 200. The church has grown from 30 members in 1966 to over 200 today.

One of the surprises was letters from most of the six church organizations he served in his ministry, including the St. Ion Lutheran Church in Detroit, Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Detroit, Hope Lutheran Church in Cleveland, the Protestant Latin America Committee Miami, Lutheran Refugee Center, and Fair Havens Lutheran Retirement Center in Miami Springs.

His wife, Effie, was as surprised as Rev. Grotefend when Mrs. Rod Aderholt presented the Lazy Boy Rocker on behalf of the congregation to the minister.

While it wasn't a surprise party, it might have well have been, according to those in attendance. Grotefend received a cash gift of over $700 to help him on his planned trip to Egypt.

Elaborate cakes were on display, decorated by Mrs. Alice Jensen.

Grotefend served in the army during World War Two, reaching the rank of major. He served as regimental chaplain with the 36th division, assistant Eight Corps Chaplain, chaplain in the Solomon Islands and at Guadalcanal, and senior chaplain at Okinawa.

Decorated with the bronze star with oak leaf clusters, a commendation ribbon with oak leaf cluster, three commendation citations, and five theatre and service ribbons with three bronze stars, Grotefend became staff instructor at chaplain school and later director of the chaplain section of the 3rd ARASE School.

He was instrumental in founding the interracial Fellowship Lutheran Church in Cleveland.

Reverend Grotefend will be presented with a plaque from the local boy scout troop that he helped to found, a plaque honoring him for his 52 years of service to the scouting movement.

HIS ROCKER--Rev. Oliver Grotefend enjoys the Lazy Boy Rocker that his congregation presented him on his retirement as Mrs. Rod Aderholt applauds. "It was just what he has always wanted," she exclaimed.

ENJOY--The Rev. Oliver Grotefend contemplates the colorfully decorated cake that was a feature of Grotefend's retirement dinner Sunday at the St. Andrew Lutheran Church. Left to right are Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, and Mr. and Mrs. Rod Aderholt.

GUESTS--Helping to honor Rev. Oliver Grotefend on his retirement after 54 years in the ministry were these guests, who heard Grotefend thank them for their generosity and friendship in his ten years with the church at Port St. Lucie.

Jewish Holy Days come early

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Jewish High Holy Days are coming early this year, according to Rabbi Mel Hecht of Temple Beth El. This is because Jewish Holidays are determined by a lunar calendar in which months are normally 28-29 days, rather than the 30-31 days of the solar calendar. Every so often another month is added to make up the difference.

The Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashanah, begins with sundown, September 5, and continues until the sun sets again the next day.

Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, upon which Jews fast, is celebrated ten days later, beginning this year on the evening of September 14. Traditionally, this is a time of new beginnings, when Jews reassess their actions over the past year and recommit themselves to the ideals of their faith.

According to tradition, there are four Jewish new years corresponding to the changes of the season and the planting and harvesting of various crops. The most important of these New Years were once celebrated in the spring around the time of Passover and Easter. But, since the Jewish New Year celebrates rebirth of all living things, resurrection, and God as Father and King, this major celebration was moved to the fall. In this way it would not be confused with the Christian expression and interpretation of those concepts during Easter.

Those Jews wishing to attend High Holy Day Services should contact Temple Beth El in Fort Pierce at 461-7428.

A schedule of Jewish High Holy Days follows.

Rosh Hashanah, September 5 and 6, evening and morning.

Yom Kippur, September 14, Kol Nidre-evening.

Yizkor Memorial, September 15, day.

Because of limited seating capacity, Rabbi Hecht says it is best to make reservations. Call 461-7428 or write Temple Beth El, P.O. Box 1119, Fort Pierce, Fl. 33450.

Fishing report

JENSEN BEACH--Some trout, a few snook topped the Snook Nook fishing report for the past week.

Bob Carruthers had one trout on Tuesday. Roy Greenwald and Fred Dushanek 4 trout. Charlie Arend, 2 trout. Steve Steelve, 4 trout, and Bill Yurillo, Jr. one 12-lb snook.

On Wednesday, Pat Paterson had 4 trout. Charlie Arenie, one trout and a snook. Pete Peterson and Stan Lippincott, 4 trout, and Steve Steele caught 4 trout.

Friday found Bob Carruthers out again for one trout. Earl Clouse had a trout. Ed Wagner, 9 trout and a snook. Ted Bloom a total of 25 trout for Thursday and Friday along with a snook. Steve Steele, 8 trout, Jack Myers, 2 snook and 3 jack, and Joe Apelbeck, 6 drum and 5 sheepshead.

Saturday, either no one went fishing or no one caught anything, at any rate, no one registered a catch.

On Sunday, however, there were quite a number of anglers out.

Charles Bruce caught 27 whiting surf-fishing with shrimp. Frank Morgan, one 5-lb blue. Frank Cooney, 3 trout. Ed Wagner, 6 trout, and Anthony Lowgo caught a 23-lb snook.

Robert, Angelo and Sally Monaco, Port St. Lucie, were outside on the "Hoevos" (pronounced wavoes) on Sunday and caught 3 dolphin and 2 kings, one weighing 34 pounds.

Labor Day found Dave Woods with 3 blues and a snook. Bob Carruthers, 3 trout. Ed Wagner and Pat Paterson, 13 trout, and Howie Byers had 5 trout and 1 snapper.

Shuffle tourney is nearing end

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie Shuffleboard Club Summer Tournament is nearing the end. Tuesday evening found eleven courts in play for the Saints and Sinners, the Saints winning six, the Sinners, 5. This brings the total wins for the Saints to 84, while the Sinners have 46. It was a close match this week but the Saints seem to have an almost unbeatable winning streak this season.

The Petticoat girls were there Thursday evening to earn their punches. Their season ends Sept. 4. The girls are expected out in force next Thursday for the final event.

Helen Ruzicka, Petticoat director, has appointed Alyse Thomas to be chairman of the luncheon committee. She promises it will be a gala event, full of surprises and fun.

The luncheon will be held Thursday, Sept. 11 at the Ramada Inn in Fort Pierce, according to Ms. Thomas. The trophy winners for the season will be announced at that time by Ms. Helen Ruzicka.

The luncheon is to be a buffet with a choice of foods to satisfy everyone and the group will have a private room. Social hour will start at 11:30 a.m. and luncheon will be served at 12:30. Tickets are available for a nominal fee.

This is open to all lady shuffleboard players in the Port St. Lucie group. Ticket deadline is September 4.

Yvonne Tsundreau, Marguerite Faller, Helen Scott and Helen Ruzicka, who are serving on the committee, say they will be glad to collect ticket money or help in any way they can.

It is hoped all members will participate in the season end celebration to conclude a successful summer fun schedule.

Twelve new members are welcomed into PSLYC

PORT ST. LUCIE--At the last meeting, a dozen new members were welcomed into the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club by membership chairman Fred Adler and other club officers. Those welcomed included Ben and Mary Fiorlenza, Gilbert and Margaret Pepe, Peter and Dorothy Cecere, Henry and Natalie Deible, G.B. and Lee Carlton, and Francis and Patricia Blalock.

The 50-50 was split three ways with Dorie Hinchcliffe, Bob Dobler and Gilbert Pepe.

Bill McChesney, a member of the United States Power Squadron, gave a short talk on boating safety and the fun boating can be for the entire family. He suggested that everyone should take the free 10 lesson boating course at the Student Union Building, Martin County School, starting September 9 at 7 p.m.

Commodore Mike Reeb introduced a singing group from Stuart who call themselves "The Mariners." They entertained the more than 100 members and guests present with some fine barbershop quartet harmonizing.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by hostess Idris Kessler and her committee.

Gang plans Mardi Gras

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Friday Nite Gang host announced at last week's session that the September 5th session would be Mardi Gras Night.

This is the night when 60 or 30 special prizes are given away to lucky ticket holders and funds for the operation of the Gang's program are obtained. A good crowd is expected.

The Gang Snooper reported two visitors last Friday. Evelyn Mohr from Sayville, N.Y. and Birdie Mohr from Amityville, N.Y. visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wysienski. First timers, the youngest yet, were Terri Ann (6) and Joseph (4) Cappello, originally from Ozone Park, New York.

The Snooper also reported that Natalie and Hank Deible were celebrating their 36th Wedding Anniversary this week. To help in the celebration, Marie Benz, Fran Lee and Frances Bernota supplied cupcakes for the occasion.

The main prize of the evening, two tickets for the CESA barbeque on Labor Day, was won by A. Wysienski.

PORT ST. LUCIE--A White Elephant Sale has been scheduled for the benefit of CESA operational funds. It will be staged from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on November 1 at the CESA Building, with food available during most of the day.

Various clubs and organizations have been contacted to assist in the operation of tables and other attractions, and to solicit donations of good merchandise which is not needed or used in the home.

Persons who have used merchandise in good condition are asked to call 878-2866 for pick up after September 18. Clubs may save their merchandise for their own member of this committee if they so desire.

This is the one and only CESA benefit White Elephant sale to be put on this fall. Your help is asked in making it a success.

Play for the day - '6 clubs to a bag'

PORT ST. LUCIE--It was "6 clubs to a bag" play for the St. Lucie Women's Golf Association on August 26.

Low net winners in flights were:

Third Flight - Marion Cole, 74; Fannie Brodie, 75; Mimi Lamont and Bunny Leybourne, 76.

Sixth Flight - Lee Rasb, 69, Betty McDonnell, 81, and Terry Pullis, 82.

Holiday Out and Venture Out signs at the entrance to the park are all painted over a bright yellow. Also the new yellow lines denoting thru lane and visitor parking lane, as well as the 30 visitors parking bumpers were all finished in time for the holiday weekend.

The State Bicentennial Exhibit is here at Grant's Plaza on So. Federal Highway, south of Stuart. It will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day from September 3 through September 8.

We were hosts to 45 trailers over the holiday, including a lot of children having a good time before returning to school.

Al and Barbara Greenberg are back on lot 83 for two or three weeks.

Martha and Len Williams, lot 440, are home in Geneva, Ohio. They had a very happy reunion with friends from Holiday Out and Venture Out.

It seems they all stopped at a park in Chardon, Ohio, then went on to a square dance. It was completely unplanned but enjoyed by the Williams', Maurice and Lee Foote of lot 438, Clarence and Peg Guthell of lot 439, all H. Outers, and John and Wilma Wilson, Guy and Jane Richdale, and Marion and Chuck White, all V. Outers. After the Saturday night dance, all returned to the Wilson's trailer for fresh baked peach pie and coffee, and a good gab-fest, a very enjoyable time for all.

Another segment of the Kiefabers travels.

They tell of stopping at the Smoke Jumpers headquarters where they saw all the equipment the jumpers use, the plane they jump from, the sixty pound pack they carry, and the sewing room for making and repairing all their uniforms and equipment. They learned that it takes 45 minutes to pack a parachute. The jumpers work five months a year and alternate jumping.

In St. Ignatius, an Indian town with schools, recreation hall and gym, they visited a Roman Catholic church which had many beautiful frescoes, so many in fact, they didn't know where to look first.

They watched a fisherman catch eight sockeye salmon, then give up because he couldn't control his casting in the high wind.

After six days in Agpar Campground in Glacier, the Kiefabers left for St. Mary, which is located on the other side of Logan Pass, altitude 6664 feet. Their Dodge bucked and backfired over the corkscrew two-lane road over the Pass. After twelve miles in sunshine, fog settled in and was so heavy all they could see was the yellow line for the next 30 miles. They finally reached the top, however, where they found sunshine again and many, many people some throwing snow balls, others eating lunch.

Canada has three different types of park: national, provincial (similar to our state parks), and free campsites every one-half mile. While at Waterton Lake, F.P., they did their laundry at the ITUSSISTSTOKIOP, and I dare anyone to try to pronounce it! There are many bicyclists on the road there.

Their next stop was the Grand Coulee Dam, which backs up the Columbia River 151 miles to the Canadian border. When full, the dam contains 10 million acre-feet of water, with a depth of 400 feet, providing irrigation to 500,000 and electric power for four western states, and could serve seven more. There is a light show at the dam every night which, the Kiefabers say, is most beautiful and spectacular.

Eleanor and Fred Greenough are leaving for a month's vacation visiting relatives in Rochester and Elmira, New York. Then they're going on to Bradford, Pa., their former home town, to visit friends. I hear that a going-away party was given for them the night before leaving. At this time, I do not have the names of those who attended.

Earl Bowes found a lonesome, lost four-inch turtle in the sand while fishing. He picked it up and put it in the surf, only to have the strong waves wash it back twice. So he waded out past where the waves were breaking, and sent it safely on its way.

We received word that John Rottschafer had a short stay in the hospital recently, but is back home, all O.K. Good news!

POPULATION CENTER--Supervisor of Elections Sandra Randolph points to north Martin County area on her voting district map where there is a heavy concentration of voters. Mrs. Randolph endorses the concept of "bringing the government to the people."

Government to people

Randolph backs service centers

JENSEN BEACH--Taking the government to the people at Community Service Centers in outlying areas of Martin County has the strong support of Supervisor of Elections Sandra Randolph.

Taking the government to the people is a good idea," said Mrs. Randolph, and she quickly points out, "This is what we have been doing since I've been in office."

"We have been taking the voter registration books to the people," Mrs. Randolph said.

Fourth Commissioner Elmer Powers calls the proposal of service centers "an exciting new concept in government."

The principle is bringing government service to the people rather than taking the people to government, Powers pointed out.

There is a Community Service Center in Indiantown, Powers' district. And Powers and the county planning staff are discussing establishing Community Service Centers in the northern and southern part of the county.

Mrs. Randolph said that she is at the Indiantown center on a part-time basis like other county and some governmental agencies.

"We could be in a north county service center at least one day a week," Mrs. Randolph added. "It is almost impossible for working people to get to the courthouse and register to vote.

"We may need part-time help, especially during election time, at a Community Service Center," she pointed out.

"The advantage to a service center would be having all the necessary registration forms and information along with typewriters," Mrs. Randolph noted.

And a Community Service Center in the northern section of the county would provide a place to vote and possibly more voting machines.

On several occasions, Mrs. Randolph has stated the need for another voting place and more voting machines.

Only six voting machines can be placed in Langford Park Fieldhouse, voting place for precinct No. 1, and Mrs. Randolph said that she needs eight machines.

Also, Mrs. Randolph suggested that Precinct No. 1, with more than 3,000 registered voters, be split.

From Commercial Street in Jensen Beach, it is a round trip of about 14 miles--along Indian River Drive, Sewall's Point Road and A1A--to the courthouse.

And from Commercial Street to the Vehicle Inspection Station south of Stuart on A1A, it is a round trip of about 18 miles. Indiantown area residents can get their vehicles inspected at the Indiantown Community Service Center on certain days of the week.

"The mileage is not important," Powers pointed out. "It is the time involved and not having the traffic congestion. It is an alternative to having government in one area."

While Powers and the planning staff are looking to Community Service Centers in north and south county, the largest congregation of people is north at the St. Lucie River to the St. Lucie County line--about 14,000.

Voter registration figures provided by Mrs. Randolph shows more than 3,000 in Jensen Beach, 1,447 in North River Shores, and two of the four unorganized areas are North of the St. Lucie River Sewall's Point with 519 registered voters, and Ocean Breeze Park with 316 registered voters.

"Taking the government to the people is a good idea," Mrs. Randolph said.

County zoning director resigns

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Zoning Administrator Ron Borts has resigned from his post, effective Sept. 30, according to County Administrator Buck Noble.

Borts will become a sheriff's deputy when he leaves the Zoning Department.

PTA open house Monday

STUART--The Stuart Middle School PTA invites parents and friends to an Open House meeting on Monday, September 15.

Planned to start at 7:30 p.m., the meeting will be held in the Open Concept building. A large representative group of teachers will be on hand to answer questions about the curriculum.

Officers elected

LaVaughn Tilton will head Jensen-Rio drive

JENSEN BEACH--Enthusiasm was the key to the first organizational meeting of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Way drive Tuesday night as Lavaughn Tilton was elected president of the drive.

Mrs. Tilton, a former president of the old Jensen-Rio United Fund, and past treasurer of the Martin County United Way, said "I am thrilled with the enthusiasm of the people who came, and I feel we will have a successful drive."

Eugene Peer, local attorney, was elected vice president, and will assist as an area captain and business solicitation.

Kathleen Spencer, who was treasurer of the Jensen-Rio United Fund for many years, was elected treasurer, and Jackie Hall, also a past president of the UF and many years active in it, was elected secretary.

Directors of the drive will be captains and are now being contacted by the officers.

The tentative date of a kickoff for the drive has been set at October 22, and seven agencies have thus far asked for inclusion in the drive. They include the Jensen Samaritan Free Ambulance, the Langford Park, Mars Hill Recreation Association, Boy and Girl Scouts, Animal Rescue League and the Children's Home Society.

Tax roll tops billion

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County's 1975 tax roll topped the $1 billion mark for the first time with a total taxable value of $1,025.

According to preliminary figures released Tuesday by the Tax Appraiser's office, the tax roll is $78 million over last year's tax roll.

The preliminary tax roll figures have been sent to the State Department of Revenue for approval, according to assistant county appraiser Ted Campo.

The County Commission, which had a property tax rate of $4.398 per $1,000 last year, could raise an equal amount this year with a rate of $4.315 per $1,000.

Commissioners agreed Monday at a budget session that they will try to keep taxes at the current level.

The preliminary figures show:

1. Taxable value of real property for operating purpose, $839,787,353.

2. Taxable value of personal property for operating purposes, $78,780,821.

3. Taxable value of centrally assessed property for operation, $6,505,346.

4. New construction and additions $62,185,680.

Attorney general speaks to NOW

JENSEN BEACH--State Attorney General Robert Shevin will be the kick-off speaker at the statewide conference of National Organization for Women (NOW) which will be held Sept. 12-14 at Florida Institute of Technology in Jensen Beach.

Shevin is scheduled to speak at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, when the convention is scheduled to open.

Friday will be devoted to registration of delegates to the third state conference.

Dr. Shirley McCune and Dr. Sandra Schotta will be keynote speakers. Dr. McCune is program coordinator, resources center on sex roles in education and Dr. Schotta is senior associate of the National Institute of Education and coordinator of its federal women's programs.

NOW is a national organization with membership in every state.

'The drunk lady' tells about rehabilitation

JENSEN BEACH--While interviewing a prisoner in St. Lucie County Jail about going to the state DWI School, another inmate walked up and said, "Are you the Drunk Lady?"

"That name has stuck with me, and I kinda like it," Mrs. Betty Thornburgh told Jensen Kiwanians Monday at the regular meeting of the group at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant.

Mrs. Thornburgh is the sole member of the school that persons arrested and convicted of driving while intoxicated are sent to as a part of their sentencing.

The school is self supporting, with a charge of $50 per person. Each person goes to four weeks of classes, two of which have "homework" before they are released from their obligation.

Mrs. Thornburgh told the Kiwanians that the pilot program in Florida started in 1972, and has become a model for other states. She works with judges of counties and municipalities, and her state organization sets standards and guidelines for the rehabilitation program.

"We operate under the premise that if you give the people the information, they will change their ways," she said.

Each session is two and one-half hours long, and the students must attend four weekly sessions. The DWI Center has five classes each week, and if a person doesn't show up, a bench warrant is issued.

"We don't fool around," she said.

In the first session, the students learn the seriousness of the drinking while driving problem with two films and lectures.

"We deal with a great amount of hostility in the first session. We try to tell them that the worst is over with, facing court and a judge, and try to make the four weeks a learning process."

In the second session, the students learn about "BAL" and "BAC." BAL is blood alcohol level, and BAC is blood alcohol content, two measures of alcoholic content in the bloodstream.

A BAC of .05 percent can be maintained to drive a car, and .10 percent is the legal limit. How much a person can drink depends upon the weight of the person and his or her tolerance to alcohol.

An alcoholic builds up a tolerance to alcohol, so it would take more to reach the limit," she said, whereas a person who doesn't drink might reach his limit much faster.

In a third session, the students learn about problem drinkers, those who allow drinking to affect their lives, jobs or families, and other areas of life.

"One of eleven drinkers is an alcoholic or has a drinking problem," Mrs. Thornburgh said. She added that the class learns about "red flag areas" to look for in drinking so that they can recognize if they have a problem.

In the last session, the class deals with personal action to improve living so that the students know "what to do to avoid another DWI charge."

With seven of twenty-one drinkers classed as "problem drinkers, we show them the resources available to cure problems."

After the class is over, the instructor evaluates the student and sends the results to Mrs. Thornburgh. Each teacher must have a master's or doctorate to be able to teach, and assistant instructors are law enforcement people.

Mrs. Thornburgh gave some tips to the Kiwanians on drinking.

"If you drink, eat first. Then, drink slowly and space your drinks. Know what you are drinking, set a limit and stick to it. Stop in time, and be honest with yourself," she said.

"If you are going to drink, that's your business. If you are going to drink and drive, that's everybody's business," she concluded.

Fire department sets record

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department has a record it can be proud of, and the residents of the area made it possible.

"We haven't had a fire since July 5," Chief Randolph Spanney said Monday. "It is a record for the department and I want to thank the folks of Jensen Beach, Ocean Breeze Park, Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island for making it possible."

Mirror topless photo is topic

JENSEN BEACH--The effort of The Mirror to educate readers who have never been to a topless show has brought much talk from the man and woman on the street. Calls to The Mirror regarding the proposed Mirror topless photograph have continued all week.

Known as a "family newspaper," The Mirror announced last week that it would publish a topless photograph in the issue of September 17 so that all residents of the area will know what is faced in the proposed "Topless ordinance" of the county commission.

The photograph will be in good taste, said Mirror editor Dick Campbell. "We believe that everyone should know what a topless ordinance would do to the community as related to morals and to ability to accept that which is different."

The Mirror plans to reveal all next week with its topless photo. In addition, to avoid the "sexual" label, The Mirror will publish the photo of both a man and a woman, topless.

VEHICLE INSPECTION--For many residents in north Martin County, it is about a 20-mile round trip to the motor vehicle inspection station on A1A south of Stuart. With a Community Service Center in north Martin County, vehicles could be inspected by county crews on a part-time basis similar to the Community Service Center in Indiantown.

FCD budget is cut

JENSEN BEACH--An additional $423,427 was trimmed from what was already termed "an austerity budget" before its final passage recently by the Governing Board of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

The $19.2 million budget, to be raised by advalorem taxes, resulted in a millage drop from .394 mills raised last year to .375 mills in the coming year. This means that a home assessed for $35,000 with homestead exemption will pay $11.25 in taxes as compared with $11.82 last year.

Dr. John DeGrove, Board Vice Chairman, noted that the new budget did not include any salary raises for the District 900 employees, but he said that this does not close the door to a possible "modest cost of living adjustment" in about six months if expenditures at that time are shown to be very conservative.

The lion's share of the budget, $8.7 million, will go for operation and maintenance of the District's water management works. Other major expenditures include: resource planning, $2.9 million; land acquisition and relocations, $1.3 million; resource management, $1 million; construction, $954 thousand; and $2.6 million for conducting the affairs of the District.

...GTON--Social Security was ...gned to assist working men and ...en in enjoying their retirement ...rs.

...t has failed--and failed ...rribly!

...For instance it has failed is the ...ridiculous restrictions placed on how ...h a Social Security beneficiary can ...rn and still receive benefits ...der the law as currently written. ...ne between the ages of 65 and 72 ...n only $2,520 a year and still ...ve full benefits. For every dollar ...ed over the maximum, $1 is ...ducted from benefits.

It isn't fair to the working man or woman who paid faithfully into the Social Security system throughout a working career only to find inflation has robbed his benefits of much of their value.

After all Social Security isn't welfare. It is merely a return on money invested in the system by both workers and employers over a long period of time. It is a government enforced savings program.

If, over a lifetime of working, an individual took the same amount of money and invested it in a savings account, there would be no limit on how much he could earn.

Yet, just because the federal government took the money, it feels it can impose any restriction it wants.

That's wrong. It's particularly unfair because the same investment into a private annuity would have brought the working man a much better return on his money--at least twice as much per month and probably more.

In these days of skyrocketing prices, particularly for food and fuel, it is almost impossible for a retired couple to get by on Social Security alone.

But for an older American between 65 and 72 to augment his income, he must be extremely careful not to exceed the earnings limitation of $50 a week. If he does, he loses money which he invested in the system.

Unfortunately, that isn't the only inequity in the Social Security system. There are others. Women, for example, are not treated equally in the computing of Social Security benefits.

However, there may be a ray of hope for those older Americans trying to make ends meet.

The House Ways and Means Committee is taking a good close look at the entire system and numerous changes will be made.

Several proposals have already been made to raise the earnings limitation to a more realistic figure. Some have suggested it go to at least $5,000 a year, others would put the level at $7,500.

However, I see no reason for any earnings limitation. Why should a worker be punished by reducing benefits from a fund into which you forced him to contribute?

It doesn't make any sense. And if we are going to compel working men and women to pay into a federal retirement fund, it should at least be a sensible program.

If nothing else, the Social Security system must be revamped so that all Americans are treated fairly and equally.

And if the earnings limitation is lifted and other inequities corrected as I am hopeful the Ways and Means Committee will recommend we can do much to restore Social Security recipients to their rightful place in society, to the first class citizenship their many years of hard work have earned them.

DREDGE WORK--A State Department of Transportation (DOT) dredge last week began removing a sand bar which blocked the flow of water under a bridge at the west end of the Stuart Causeway. Stagnant water and rotting vegetation caused by the sand bar resulted in a bad odor in the area.

AARP plans last summer picnic

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Chapter of American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will have its final picnic of the summer on Thursday, September 18, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the Stuart Causeway.

All members and prospective members are welcome to attend. Everyone brings his own food, drink and chair.

The first regular meeting of the fall season will be held on October 16 in the Stuart Woman's Club. Car pools will be arranged.

Plans will be made to hold Defensive Driving Courses for AARP members again this fall, according to Ernie Curwen, vice president of the local chapter.

The eight hour course is given in four weekly sessions of two hours each. Whenever a group of at least 15 persons agrees on a time and place of meeting, an instructor can be provided. Certain companies give a 10 percent discount on auto insurance premiums upon evidence of completion of the Defensive Driving Course.

More information may be obtained by calling Curwen at 334-0756.

Library review is scheduled

JENSEN BEACH--A community orientation at the Indian River Community College Library will be held on two consecutive Saturdays, September 13 and September 20, from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Parents, students and all interested persons are invited to attend this orientation on how to utilize the college library facilities.

EXPLANATION--Robert L. Johns of Fletcher and Johns appeared before Tuesday's City Council meeting to clarify the services performed for the City of Port St. Lucie by his accounting firm. Johns answered several questions posed by both council members and local residents attending the session.

City accountant recommended

Accountant explains audit scope

PORT ST. LUCIE--In an effort to bridge a communications gap between city officials, local residents, and his accounting firm, Robert L. Johns of Fletcher and Johns explained in detail Tuesday morning the purpose of a general audit.

Fletcher and Johns, who have provided the city's audit for the past several years, has been criticized for not having picked up certain discrepancies that were revealed in the state audit recently.

From the accounts I have read in the papers recently, there is obviously some misunderstanding as to the purpose of a general audit, the type we have provided for the city," Johns told his listeners.

There are several types of audits and, as an example, our audit and the state audit performed entirely different functions," he said.

"Many people think the definition of an audit includes fraud and hanging someone, but this is not so.

"The purpose of a general annual financial audit which we provide for the city, is to provide an accounting of monies received and expended for the audit period.

At the end of each month according to Johns, the city received a report along with a management letter. The management letter points out any discrepancies the auditing firm may have discovered along with recommendations for correcting them.

We, Fletcher and Johns, are in a position to recommend changes. However, we are not in a position to enforce such changes," Johns said.

At the same time he suggested the city employ an accountant to perform in-house financial tabulations.

Under question by Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, Johns said he had never been completely satisfied with the way the city books had been handled and had on more than one occasion, recommended changes.

He did say, however, that the record keeping has improved since the present council took office.

Johns pointed out the state audit was not a complete audit.

They (state auditors) were searching for specific items to see if certain expenditures were documented and legal. However, there were probably areas which were not investigated nearly so thoroughly," he added.

According to Johns, the scope of an audit is pre-determined between the client and the CPA.

When asked about the cost of a compliance audit, an audit which would have detected the discrepancies in question, Johns told the council it would be prohibitive.

This would require the auditing firm employing additional staff and would involve untold hours which the city would have to pay for. My advice would be to hire a city accountant to handle the in-house details, which would then be submitted to the accounting firm on a monthly basis," he said.

Both City Administrator Elmer Cox and Councilwoman and City Treasurer Loleta Kernohan complimented Johns for his cooperation in assisting the city.

Stone: 'Need to clear air'

City officials will face 'Sunshine Law' probe

PORT ST. LUCIE--Apparently Port St. Lucie officials have not seen the last of investigations, according to information released this week.

A complete and thorough investigation will be conducted to determine whether or not local elected officials have violated the Florida Government in the Sunshine Law.

In a hastily called press conference Monday morning, State Attorney Robert Stone said his office had received numerous complaints from individuals as well as organized groups throughout the city pertaining to alleged violations.

My office has received more complaints from the Port St. Lucie area than any other governing body in this four county area," said the prosecutor for the 19th judicial district.

In view of this fact Stone said he would like a session with the courts of St. Lucie County for a grand jury investigation of the matter.

This is the best law in my opinion to protect the rights of the individual and I intend to do every thing within my power to see that every letter and spirit of the law is upheld," Stone said.

The scope of the grand jury is expected to include apparent irregularities which surfaced during recently conducted state audit of the city's finances.

State said he will subpoena records from meetings concerning allegations that certain actions have taken place that are not recorded minutes.

Three members of the Port St. Lucie Council have been named in the allegations according to Stone, but the investigation will be extended to include the entire elected body and appointed boards. The three members were not named.

Stone made it clear to all attending the press conference that his request for a grand jury investigation did not mean anyone in Port St. Lucie are guilty of violating the Government in the Sunshine Law, but such an investigation would provide for a closed door method of collecting information and eliminate the possibility of political involvement.

Whether or not the law has been violated the investigation will clear the air once and for all and everyone will be protected.

The 18 member investigative panel is expected to convene later this month according to the state attorney.

DEED PRESENTED--The deed to Sportsman Park was presented Thursday by Mayor Schuyler Sharpe jointly by president and general manager of Port St. Lucie Several residents, city and county officials attended the brief ceremony. See Page 11 for complete coverage.

Local hospital proponents will seek support of HPC

PORT ST. LUCIE--The proponents of the proposed 116-bed Port St. Lucie Community Hospital will appear before the St. Lucie-Martin Health Planning Committee (HPC) Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. tonight to make another bid for the certificate of need.

Nearly three months ago the local Council turned thumbs down on recommending the certificate of need, a pre-requisite for the construction of a hospital in the State of Florida, for the proposed hospital. Officials at that time were granted a 60-day delay by the Regional Tri-County Health Planning Council to gather additional information.

A petition supporting the local hospital and signed by more than 3,350 people has been forwarded to the HPC/CHPC council which will meet tonight at the Indian River Community College.

Meanwhile reportedly while hospital supporters were circulating petitions, the Health Planning Council has been now preparing a second negative report.

It has been reported the original objections to the application for the certificate of need have not been met by the additional information.

According to the staff report, the Port St. Lucie Hospital included the Jensen Beach area, situated in northern Martin County, as part of the service area.

The Planning Council maintains there is no proof these patients, who now use Martin Memorial Hospital, would switch to the Port St. Lucie facility and, if this should occur, Martin Memorial would lose approximately 15 percent of its patients.

This would result in unused facilities in Martin County and, therefore, increase the hospital costs in that area, according to the council.

The Hospital Corporation of America is building a 225 bed hospital in Fort Pierce which with the addition of 116 beds in Port St. Lucie, would add up to be in St. Lucie County. The council reports St. Lucie County will not need 340 beds until 1980.

According to the council, an empty bed costs $20,000 a year to maintain, with the empties beds costing $2 million a year resulting in higher costs to patients and less money available for other health care needs.

Although Port St. Lucie needs more general practitioners and internists, according to the council the upgrading of emergency medical services will provide only emergency services, and a emergency room in every block is not needed.

The two county council report states the economic feasibility of the new hospital is based on the false assumption that the area is not presently served by other hospitals.

Homeowners meeting is set for October 9

PORT ST. LUCIE--The next quarterly membership meeting of the Port St Lucie-River Park Homeowners Association has been scheduled for Thursday, October 9.

Program committee chairman Gen Jacobi announced at an executive board session last week that the meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. in the CESA Building. Robert Seeley, chairman of the Port St. Lucie Hospital, Inc. committee will speak on the need for a hospital in the area and outline steps which have been taken to obtain such a facility.

President A.B. Bowman conducted the executive session, accepting reports from the various committee chairmen.

Community Affairs head Dale White said the ambulance question has been settled. In response to a request from the Homeowners Assn., the county has agreed to the use of the Rescue Unit stationed at the local fire station.

Recreation Chairman Arthur Todd reminded that even though Sportsman's Park has been turned over to the city, many organizations will still need the support of the public. In line with this, the PSL-RP Homeowners will continue to sponsor a Little League baseball team.

Other committee heads reporting were Ross Mallack, health and welfare, and George Lindberg, public works.

Turnpike interchange will open Sunday

PORT ST. LUCIE--Port St. Lucie-Exit 54 will open officially on Monday, September 15, but ribbon cutting ceremonies will be held on Sunday at 1 p.m.

Approach roads to the interchange, directional signs, stop signs and lane markings have been ready for some time. All that was needed was the $182,000 one man toll booth to complete the project. Delay in shipping the booth from New York was cited as the reason for the failure to open on time.

The opening of Port St. Lucie-Exit 54 marks the end of more than a year's construction on the $1.6 million project which will give Port St. Lucie residents access to the state's only major north-south toll road without having to leave the city limits.

To date, the city has not received a response to attempts to get the state to take over maintenance of Port St. Lucie Boulevard from U.S. 1 to the turnpike, which will be the primary feeder route.

City officials said the public is cordially invited to attend the Sunday afternoon ceremonies.

Senior citizens dinner will benefit CESA

PORT ST. LUCIE--Proceeds from a Senior Citizens dinner to be held Friday, September 26, at 6 p.m. will go to benefit CESA's operation funds.

Tickets are available at the North Port Marina, Saints Golf Course at Sandpiper Bay, the CESA Building, or from Mrs. Francois at 878-1161, or Mrs. Ron Hamblin, 334-2513.

Mirror topless photo is topic

JENSEN BEACH--The effort of The Mirror to educate readers who have never been to a topless show has brought much talk from the man (and woman) on the street. Calls to The Mirror regarding the proposed Mirror topless photograph have continued all week.

Known as a "family newspaper," The Mirror announced last week that it would publish a topless photograph in the issue of September 17, so that all residents of the area will know what is faced in the proposed "Topless Ordinance of the county commission.

"The photograph will be in good taste," said Mirror editor Dick Campbell. "We believe that everyone should know what a topless ordinance would do to the community as related to morals and to ability to accept that which is different."

The Mirror plans to reveal all next week with its topless photo. In addition, to avoid the "sexist" label, The Mirror will publish the photo of both a man and a woman, topless.

Gauntlet thrown

PORT ST. LUCIE--A sizeable delegation from the Fort Pierce club made an appearance at the first September Port St. Lucie Lions meeting.

Both clubs boasted of their ability to outperform the other in the upcoming drive for new members which starts October 1st. The gauntlet was thrown, the winning club will present its favorite project with the entire proceeds of the award.

The business portion of the evening including initiation of two new members Paul Zinzer of So. Naranja and Jack Culliton of Alcasa Boulevard.

Secretary Frank Bonfield reported that the Labor Day Cruise was a social and financial success and, when he finishes counting the proceeds, the PSL Lions will have substantial additional funding of their continuing projects.

PORT ST. LUCIE COMMUNITY HOSPITAL--The proposed 86-5, 116 bed non-profit hospital facility will include a 24-hour emergency department, radiology department, laboratory and surgical department with recovery rooms. All qualified doctors would be able to practice at the "open staff" facility, regardless of other hospital affiliations. Ample parking provisions are included in the plans, and utilities such as water, sewer and power are already assured for the site which, incidentally, is zoned for hospital use. The initial building will contain 83,000 square feet, be completely air conditioned and have its own auxiliary power supply.

Puppies, kittens are at shelter

JENSEN BEACH—There are plenty of puppies and kittens waiting for homes at the Animal Rescue League Shelter.

Ready for adoption this week are "Tiger," a shepherd-husky mix, this is a one-and-a-half year old with all his shots. "Rascal" is part shepherd, doberman, and is a year old with all his shots. "Bandit," "Shy," a one-year-old beagle and "Bandit," an eight-month-old part-Siamese.

The shelter is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

DIGNITARIES PRESENT–A number of local dignitaries were present to witness the transfer of title for Sportsman Park from General Development Corporation to the City of Port St. Lucie last Thursday morning.

COUNCILMEMBERS–Councilmembers Bill McChesney and Lolita Kernohan were among those present to witness the turnover of Sportsman Park to the City of Port St. Lucie.

Deed presented

GDC donates Sportsman Park to city

PORT ST. LUCIE–A number of local residents and dignitaries were on hand Thursday morning to witness the city's takeover of Sportsman Park.

At the 9:30 a.m. ceremony, Louis E. Fischer, president of General Development Corporation and Bob Seeley, assistant vice president and general manager of Port St. Lucie, jointly donated the park site to the City of Port St. Lucie.

Fischer said GDC had carefully considered the transaction for a long time and they felt it was the only proper thing to do.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, accepting the deed on behalf of the residents of the city, commented on the importance of this day in the history of Port St. Lucie since this was the first full scale park the city had owned.

The city has included $30,000 in the 1975-76 budget earmarked to start the improvements at the facility.

Although the park is presently located outside the city limits, annexation proceedings are expected to get underway as soon as possible which will also include the school site.

Sportsman Park, located on Prima Vista Boulevard adjoining the new Port St. Lucie Elementary School, encompasses approximately 16 acres.

Existing amenities and facilities include a Little League park, complete with lights, fencing, press box and clubhouse; two tennis courts; basketball court; playground; baseball diamond and football area maintained by the Optimist Club, and a parking area.

In accepting the deed to the park, Mayor Sharpe told those attending a long term recreation development program will be undertaken.

Once the annexation process has been completed, city officials will pursue their efforts requesting that St. Lucie County kick in with some $25,000 through the County Recreation Department as well as providing programmed services under their recreation program.

Mayor Sharpe went on to say that future plans call for lighted tennis and basketball courts, a covered parking area with barbeque pits, and a football field with lighting.

The deed for the 16 acre tract donated to the City is explicit in restricting the use of the land for recreation and park purposes only.

Should the city fail to comply with such restriction, the land would revert back to General Development Corporation.

Back in June, a favorable recommendation handed over to the City Council by the local Planning and Zoning Committee made the annexation of a 70 acre tract situated just north of the City a virtual certainty. Sportsman's Park was included in that 70 acre tract as were three churches, the library, the CESA building and the Southern Bell Telephone property.

According to City Administrator Elmer Cox, there has been nothing other than favorable comment relative to the pending annexation.

Dignitaries attending the Thursday morning ceremony included St. Lucie School Superintendent D.R. Seelinger, State Representative Chuck Nergard, Tom Kindred, recreation director of St. Lucie County, Dave Gessner, chairman of the County Recreation Committee, Finn Parrish, chief deputy sheriff, Rev. Dr. O.G. Grotefend, retired minister of St. Andrew Lutheran Church, St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Willie McCain, and Eddie Enns, county commissioner.

City officials attending included Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, Frank Rose, vice mayor, Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan, Councilman Bill McChesney and Elmer Cox, city administrator.

ADDRESSES CROWD–Robert Seeley, assistant vice president of General Development Corporation and general manager of Port St. Lucie, addressed the crowd attending the dedication of Sportsman Park over to the City of Port St. Lucie. The deed transferring the property was jointly presented by Seeley and GDC President Louis Fischer at the 9:30 a.m. ceremonies last Thursday.

DID YOU HEAR THE ONE ABOUT?–Tom Kindred, head of the Recreation Board and D.R. Seelinger, Superintendent of St. Lucie County Schools, share a good laugh at ceremonies making the deeding of Sportsman's Park to the City of Port St. Lucie.

DEED IN HAND–With the deed to Sportsman Park in hand, Mayor Schuyler Sharpe praised General Development Corporation for the generous gift. GDC President Louis Fischer looks on.

TALKING IT OVER–St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Willie McCain and Port St. Lucie Vice-Mayor Frank Rose discuss the future of Sportsman Park. The deed turning over the 16 plus acres of land to the City was presented last Thursday.

BY MARY GRAU

We're having good turn outs at bingo in spite of the hot weather. Last week Rose DeVries won the jack pot. It sure is a fun evening.

Come down and visit with your neighbors and find out who has returned from their vacations; also, to meet the new comers in the park.

The Arts & Crafts girls are all busy with all kinds of individual projects to help with the bazaar. Some are weaving others making Christmas ornaments, and still others are doing macrame or table mats. Something doing for everyone that is interested.

Joe DeVries was the big pill pool winner Thursday Aug. 28, but Bob Palmer beat him Sept. 2. Come down and join the fellows.

We'll be having another new family soon. The DeBarge's are getting ready to move in. Alice's birthday is March 28, Jerry's is July 7th and their anniversary is Feb. 28.

Big Al and Little Mary Miller, from our own park, have enlarged their restaurant out on US 1. The motif in the new section is very original and clever. The piano player brings back many pleasant memories. The food is excellent and the drinks must have been good, judging by the happy singing customers accompanying the piano player. Go and see for yourself.

Just found out that Mary Miller is in Martin Memorial Hospital recovering from a blood clot in her leg. She will have to be off her feet for another month.

Larry O'Donnell is entering St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm on Thurs. where he will receive transfusions, be on the dialysis machine and then be operated on next Monday for the removal of his right kidney. We are all praying that everything goes well with you, Larry.

The LaChuyses have just returned from their vacation. They visited with their son in Kokomo, Ind., then went on to Mishawaka, Ind., where they visited with their daughter, Dorothy Tobolski, and her family. They also visited with Rachel's sister Susan Theads and many friends while there. From there they went to Decatur, Ill. to visit with their daughter Delores Koehler and her family. Their grandson, Richard Koehler, from Joliet, Ill., was visiting with his mother too, so they had quite a reunion. On the way home, they visited with their grandson, Randy Koehler and his wife Susan at Owensboro, Kentucky. Rachel says now that they're home she'll have to get caught up with her sleep.

I was wondering why we didn't see Sue or Jack Mayo lately and found out that they had been on a trip and have just returned.

Elleen and Bob Rosenboom and Eileen's mother, Mary Vincent, have just returned from an extended trip up north. They went to Virginia Beach to see their son Robert and his family, then on to N. Syracuse, N.Y. to visit with daughter Martha and her family, then on to Cooperstown, N.Y. where daughter Beverly has a summer camp. Mary Vincent visited with many friends that she has known for a great number of years.

They all returned with heavy colds and are very glad to be back in sunny, warm, Florida.

Venture Out News

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Paynter and children Ryan and Elaine vacationed for a week in Carl's father's trailer. His father is Curt Paynter.

In the previous week, Edward Paynter and friend Jessie Turner also vacationed here, staying with sister and brother-in-law, the Fred Merkers. They spent most of their time here in the pool, playing basketball and getting sunburned.

A note from Cora Lee Irwin tells of a wonderful summer in Tennessee, with the start of a beautiful fall. Both of the Irwins are starting to look forward to being back in Venture Out for a real fun time with their many friends in the park and on Swordfish Drive (Hillbilly Avenue).

A call from Mate and Bill Greuling on my birthday reports they are back home, safe and sound after a 7,000 mile trip. Bill says the garden is something both he and Mate will be busy getting in order for a while.

Barth Auch left Tuesday for her stay in Italy. A phone call told us she arrived O.K.

We are sorry to report that Archie Bright of lot V-O 636, formerly of Holiday Out, passed away at Martin Memorial Hospital this past week.

The weather man has been passing us by — very little rain, and our lots are brown and dry. Let's all hope for a good rain soon, and how about a few words about what you all have been doing this past summer.

The Labor Day holiday was a real one for the Chvejas in their beautiful sailboat "Cro-Chek". They spent five days sailing to Melbourne. With them as their guests were the Walkers of Sewall's Point. They spent the time swimming, visiting many inlands, watching gorgeous sunrises and sunsets ... all in all, a fun trip.

Bob and Jan DeBaker are vacationing in the north, visiting relatives and friends.

The Robert Campbells spent about three weeks vacationing out on their river point lot. Son Nathan is now with us.

Kay and Joe Brunneau are also spending some time with us. Their son Gilbert is in the Kissimmee Hospital in Augusta, Georgia, recuperating from illness incurred while serving with the Army in Europe.

+ + +

This weekend the Chvejas enjoyed a fishing trip off the St. Lucie Inlet with Bob and Bonnie Campbell.

GED tests to be given

FT. PIERCE–General Education Development examinations will be given September 23, 24, and 25 at 8:30 a.m. in the Martin Room of the Kohlegard Student Union at Indian River Community College. Applications for the September GED tests must be made two weeks in advance in the Guidance Office of Indian River Community College's main campus in Fort Pierce.

Courses are provided by IRCC to review and survey those high school subjects which are covered by the tests. Successful completion of the examinations leads to the State High School Equivalency Diploma. Applicants should be 18 years of age or older.

Motor repair course offered

STUART–Are you mechanically inclined? Like to work with your hands? A new course to prepare persons for initial employment, or to up-grade skills, as an electrical motor repairman, will begin on October 2nd at 7 p.m. This two night per week class may be just what you've been looking for.

Designed primarily to give you that practical "hands on" experience, the course will include the assembly, installation, testing, maintenance and repair of electric motors, generators and related equipment such as starting devices and switches. Instruction in the use of hand tools, power tools and electrical test instruments will be covered.

IWL plans fishing contest for younsters under fifteen

JENSEN BEACH—A free fishing contest for youngsters fourteen years old and younger is planned for September 27 by the Martin County Chapter of the Isaac Walton League. It was announced this week.

The fishing contest will be held on the Jensen Beach Causeway from 8 a.m. to 12 noon, and children will receive 353 prizes for their legal limit catches.

The activity is part of the IWL celebration of National Hunting and Fishing Day. Fishermen can use the bridges, pier or fish from the bank of the causeway.

Rules specify that the contestants bring their own tackle and bait, and spears, castlines or nets will not be allowed. Legal size fish will be admitted as entries, and all fish will be accepted, except eels, seacats and sting rays

Golf course moves ahead

JENSEN BEACH—A new 18-hole golf course moved a chip shot ahead Tuesday with Martin County Commissioners approving a survey of the proposed site.

The new course, adjacent to the existing Martin County Golf and Country Club, is between the airport and St. Lucie Boulevard.

According to Ed Higbee, chairman of the golf course expansion committee, financing will be through the county's pledge of revenues including the new $18 annual capital sinking fund assessment required of all members.

He said funds are on hand now in the sinking fund to pay for boundary survey and architectural services.

While final costs would not be available until an architect is hired, preliminary cost estimates include, golf survey, $20,000 to $30,000; architect, and $350,000 to $400,000 construction cost.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19 - Also Aries Ascendant) - Nostalgia dominates your thoughts, leading to feelings of lethargy and dissatisfaction. Accept mature responsibility for best progress toward promotion in career. Be supportive with associates.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20 - Also Taurus Ascendant) - Concentrate on efficiency in your craft or skill - a management position may be offered. Enjoy your working environment with good humored associates. Make social plans to follow.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20 - Also Gemini Ascendant) - Recognize that someone who advises you has your best interests at heart and is not trying to run your life. Strive for efficiency in all you tasks - aim for the top. You could meet a romantic partner now.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22 - Also Cancer Ascendant) - Compromise a difference of interests with one important in your life. Take a philosophical view if someone you trust proves unworthy of your confidence. Possibility of a financial windfall you didn't expect.

LEO (July 23 to August 22 - Also Leo Ascendant) - Don't get upset over someone who breaks a promise - maintain your own integrity. Don't allow a visitor to upset your work schedule or strain your budget. Those planning a wedding should shop for clothing now.

VIRGO (August 23 to Sept. 22 - Also Virgo Ascendant) - If Someone met now could change your life. Curb discontent with possessions showing signs of wear. Read one you love with an open palm. Possessiveness or jealousy cause problems in relationships.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 - Also Libra Ascendant) - Investigate your basic beliefs and material holdings for possible weaknesses. Start now to repair what you find to be faulty. Rely on past experience to guide you. Seek help and let others take the lead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 - Also Scorpio Ascendant) - Be patient in a depressing situation. Resist temptation to throw over the traces and run. Seek the answers inside yourself. Resist impulse and impatience. Stay with routine matters. Good news arrives.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 - Also Sagittarius Ascendant) - Travel could be troublesome. Double check arrangements and condition of equipment. Those seeking employment find now a good time for resumes, renewing ads, sharpening skills.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 - Also Capricorn Ascendant) - Call on past experience to separate the true from the false. An association could be getting toward separation or conclusion. Someone from the past may reenter your life. Separate the grain from the chaff.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 - Also Aquarius Ascendant) - High accomplishment marks your efforts now. Double check on financial drain - stop up the gaps. Unexpected repair bills are a problem. Handle matters yourself without complaint.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20 - Also Pisces Ascendant) - You are working at a steady pace with no unusual concerns. Social life is pleasant, but you must guard against weight gain. Take special care to maintain harmonious relationships with neighbors.

Unlocks free services and 5¼% per year interest...

KEY ACCOUNT

Lots of new services have been offered recently by financial institutions. Now Community Federal brings these services together under one roof and offers you one Key Account.

It's a new type of interest-earning account. If you make transactions, you'll receive monthly statements. If there is no account activity, we'll send you quarterly statements to show the interest you've earned.

And your funds will earn 5¼% yearly interest, compounded daily, from the day you put your money in until the day you take it out.

The "Master Key"

Your $300 minimum Key Account balance will bring you some very valuable money management tools:

- Free Prestige Card. Serves as your account identification at all Community Federal offices — and all participating Prestige savings and loans across the country.
- Prestige Emergency Cash. From now on, when you're out of town and out of cash you're not out of luck! Just visit the nearest Prestige location (over 2,000 in 46 states). You can cash a personal check or make an Emergency Cash Withdrawal from your Key Account.
- Free Dial-A-Count® Service. Earn daily interest on your paycheck - then transfer that money to your bank checking account for monthly bills. Transfer money from checking to Key Account, too — by telephone, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
- Cookie Jar® Remote Tellers. Choose your own hours and make nine different transactions with your Prestige Card. Two Miller's Super Valu locations: Lake Park (7am - midnight) and West Palm Beach (open 24 hours).
- Transmatic® Savings. You never need to miss a savings deposit again. We can make it for you — automatically — on the day (or days) of the month that you specify.
- Free Automatic Mortgage Payment. For Community Federal home loan customers. Let us do the work for you!
- Free Direct Deposit of Social Security Checks. The Treasury Department can mail your check directly to us each month. And we'll deposit it... automatically.
- Free Travelers Checks. Why pay a service charge? You can have as many free First National City Travelers Checks as you need — as often as you like!
- Free Money Orders. Sometimes you'd rather pay a bill with a money order than with a check. Now you can have free money orders with Key Account.
- Free Notary Service. There's a notary public at every Community Federal office (except our Singer Island Drive-In Facility). And now this service is free.
- More Free Services Will Be Added!

Open Your Key Account!

Community Federal's Key Account is the one account that makes sense for the homemaker and the tycoon. For young marrieds and retirees.

To open your Key Account — the one account that unlocks the door to many free financial services — just visit the Community Federal office nearest you. Or, give us a call, and we'll be happy to mail the materials to you.

To bee or not to bee

JENSEN BEACH–A personification poetry session took up the first half of a meeting of the Martin County Writers Association on September 3 presided over by L. June Smith.

Mrs. Smith quoted from a poem in which the "mason" bee was alluded to. In response to members questions she admitted she had to do some research to find out that the mason bee, as the name implies is one that builds his abode with mixture of dirt and water. A discussion on bees, wasps, mud-daubers, yellow jackets and hornets followed with each member recalling the where, when, what and how of his or her most painful sting.

The second half of the meeting was devoted to prose writing. Ethel Hurst related her methods of research on a recent working vacation when she traveled to Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania and her home state of Ohio. The research was done for a historical novel on which she is working.

Club President Marion Gauger introduced new member Donna Strauss, whose credits include directing, producing and writing plays. Mrs. Strauss is presently working on a book of short stories.

The Martin County Writers Association meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart. For information call Mrs. Gauger at 334-0506.

CAPTAIN'S PARTY–Captain Carlo Chiarella welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Quinto Podesta of Jensen Beach to the traditional Captain's Party aboard the cruise ship Mardi Gras. The Podestas and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Silno of Fisherman's Haven returned Saturday from a week long Caribbean cruise to Nassau, Puerto Rico and St. Thomas. Podesta told The Mirror "they had a ball."

FIT plans real estate course

JENSEN BEACH–The Real Estate Principles and Practices Course 1, a prerequisite for the Florida Real Estate Salesman's license, will again be offered this fall on Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. beginning September 16, 1975. The class will meet in room 13, Main Building on the Jensen Beach campus according to Dean F.E. Tealey.

Fee for this course is $47.00. Registrations will be accepted at any time during business hours at the Administration office on campus or in the classroom immediately prior to the first class meeting.

Welding class for adults is starting September 30th

JENSEN BEACH–Mr. Henry Childers, Martin County Director of Adult Education announced that the Adult Education Department will offer a ten session, thirty hour course in basic welding, beginning Tuesday, September 30, 1975. This course will be offered jointly with Florida Institute of Technology at Jensen Beach, and will cover the welding of common metals by electric arc and oxyacetylene process. Course emphasis will be placed on manipulative welding skills and practical welding applications and will cover operation of gauges, tanks, torches and various kinds of welding equipment with emphasis on modern safety practices. Students will gain an understanding of welding and the skills needed to perform basic arc welding and oxyacetylene processes, through supervised student practices. No prior welding experience is necessary.

A fee of $45 will be charged for the course which includes all materials except personal safety glasses and gloves. Adult students 18 years of age or older may enroll in the course which will meet Tuesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Industrial Arts Building on the FIT Jensen Beach campus beginning September 30 and ending December 2.

The class will be limited to 13 students and registrations will be accepted on a first come, first served basis at the Admissions Office, FIT during business hours.

Traffic study is urged

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Chamber directors want to take another look at the traffic situation in downtown Jensen Beach.

At the Monday night meeting the directors decided to ask the County Commission to work with the Department of Transportation (DOT) to study the traffic situation.

It was pointed out that a traffic study was made in 1969 and the recommendation of that survey was to make Commercial Street one-way and to eliminate parking at a future date.

A couple of years ago after a chamber study, angle parking was eliminated near the Indian River Commercial Street intersection, making left and right turn lanes onto Indian River Drive possible.

In other action by the chamber directors the need for keeping financial and other business records was pointed up.

Also an appraisal of all chamber property will be made.

And there will be an attempt to obtain bands for the next July 4 parade and selling Bicentennial decals and vehicle tags.

Local airman assigned

STUART–Airman Ralph E. Harris, son of Mrs. Ruby J. Burnett of 4032 S.E. Bobby Lane, Stuart, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force veterinary specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, trained to inspect food serving and storage facilities, is being assigned to Homestead AFB, Fla.

Airman Harris is a 1974 graduate of Warner Robins (Ga.) High School.

Japanese steak house is planned

JENSEN BEACH–An internationally known Japanese Steak House operation is slated for a fall opening on Hutchinson Island in Maritimes West. It was learned this week.

David Nelson, president of the firm, said he planned a small, unique, steak house in an "architecturally pure design building." Nelson, who commutes to the general offices of the firm in Miami each week, lives with his family at The Maritimes, a condominium development on Hutchinson Island.

The Japanese Steak House, Inc. is a franchise operation with franchisees in Miami, London, Freeport, New York and Las Vegas. The Miami operation is located in Miami Springs Villas.

In the 2,000 square foot building on the west side of A-1-A, Nelson plans both communal and "tatami" (on the floor) seating.

The operation features food prepared at the table in the Japanese tradition, and according to Nelson, the decor will be authentic.

"We will feature superb dining," Nelson said.

The franchise plans steak houses in Vero Beach, Boca Raton and West Palm Beach, also.

County buys building

JENSEN BEACH–As was expected, Martin County Commission voted Tuesday to purchase the $1,025,000, three-story Executive Plaza to be used as the county's administrative offices.

The commission proposed to buy the 27,126 square foot building across from the Stuart Post Office under a lease purchase agreement.

The vote to purchase the building was 4-0 with Chairman Rosa Philbrick abstaining from voting.

Philbrick said several days ago that there might be a conflict of interest since the Jensen Beach Bank had some financial dealings with a building owner. Philbrick is a director of the bank.

The base purchase price is $1,025,000, and will be paid for in five payments of $237,710.14 in a five-year period.

About $53,000 will be needed to complete the uncompleted portions of the building.

About 53 county employees will occupy the building, including county commission, county administration, county attorney, planning and zoning, building, engineering, finance, purchasing and veterans officer and their staffs.

Present tenants in the building include Dean Whitter, Pittman Insurance, Thurlow and Thurlow, Allied Business, Soil Conservation, and State of Florida Parole Leases by these offices go to 1978, to 1979.

Courthouse offices vacated by the administrative staffs will be converted into courtrooms and court related offices.

Rivarettes to meet Monday

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Riverettes will meet at 10 a.m. Monday, September 15, at the home of President Marion Lepore, 146 Ramie Lane, P.S.L.

All members and those who have received their diplomas from Welcome Wagon are urged to attend.

Park development is planned

JENSEN BEACH–State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials have notified Martin County commissioners that they will ask the Cabinet to budget planning and design money for St. Lucie Inlet State Park next year.

They will ask for "actual construction" during 1978, according to DNR executive director Harmon Shields.

The 648-acre park, purchased in 1986 for $2.45 million, is located on the south shore of the St. Lucie Inlet at the north extremity of Jupiter Island.

The park is currently a thick tangle of mangrove, cabbage palm, vines and other scrub.

State officials have not made a final decision on what kind of access to make available to the public. Boat access is difficult because of the thick vegetation on the intracoastal waterway side of the park. Choppy surf on the ocean side when the tides are high and shallow water when tides are low.

The nearest parking area is at the north end of North Beach Road on Jupiter Island on the south side of the Hobe Sound National Wildlife refuge beach, and it's a six-mile walk from there.

At one time a bridge to the park was planned from the dead end of Cove Road on the mainland south of Port Salerno. A ferry to the park also has been discussed.

Improvement to the St. Lucie Inlet by the U.S. Corps of Engineers also is planned for 1978. Sand pumped from the inlet would be used to nourish the eroded park beaches.

Fishing report

JENSEN BEACH–Hot waters are still plaguing anglers and slowing down fishing in the area, but some trout and a few snook were taken during the past week.

Ted Bloomy, Bloom landed 21 trout and a snook in the Indian River using tours. Ed Wagner wading and plugging had 9 trout and a snook. Steve Steele, a bridge fisherman, caught 2 snook, 6 trout and one 7-lb. redfish.

Carl Seiber tried using mullet and took a nice 13-lb. snook from the river, and Sterling Chambers landed a 13½-lb. snook fishing off the 10 cent bridge.

Stan Lippincott had a 5½-lb. trout and he and Pete Peterson teamed up for 4 trout.

Fred Dushanek caught 7 trout to 5 pounds using T.O. Rigs.

Bret McClure used Mirro-lures to catch 3 snook, 4½ to 9 pounds, and 3 trout.

Charles Bruce had 14 trout. Dan Mason, one trout and two snook, using shrimp, and Dennis Newman caught a 6½-lb. trout also on shrimp.

Joe Apfelbeck continues to catch drum and sheepshead at the 10 cent bridge. In two outings he had 25 drum and 32 sheepshead.

Vic and Marie Heineman, surf fishing and using shrimp, caught 8 pompano and a 2-lb. sheepshead.

Nick Melillo caught 8 kings, the largest of which weighed in at 33½ pounds.

Mary Boyer used pan fish to catch 3 trout, one at 4½ lbs. and one weighing 5 pounds.

Jack Klett of the Snook Nook says fishing will probably remain slow until the water cools off. Several regular local fishermen say they will wait

Mrs. Loperfido wins bundle

PORT ST. LUCIE–Periodically, the Friday Nite Gang holds special Mardi Gras sessions with one person conspicuous in winning large number of prizes.

Last week's Mardi Gras was an exception. Thirty extra prizes were awarded with Philomena Loperfido snagging four of them, closely followed by Marie Benz with three.

With a small crowd on hand the Gang Snooper came up with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gianneti from Chicago, visiting Philomena, and Ann Trivan from Crestkill, New Jersey, the only first-timer.

Regular caller Al Zell was absent on other business, so Host Cedric Benz did the honors.

Local angler drowns

PORT ST. LUCIE–The body of Joseph Fusco, well-known Port St. Lucie fisherman was recovered last week from C-24 Canal near the Port St. Lucie Spillway following an intensive 11-hour search.

The search was instituted after Edwin Whitaker of 206 Olive Avenue called the emergency number and reported seeing a man fall from the spillway wall. Fusco had just caught a fish when he fell into the water, Whitaker said. That was at approximately 8:30 a.m.

Fire Department Rescue Unit and SCUBA team, including Lt. Ronald McCorkle, Lt. Adrian Gahn and Gary Merritt, and the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department conducted the search. The body was finally found at 7:10 p.m. by PSL Safety Director Lewis Thomas and Gerrit Bruins.

Bicentennial meets Monday

JENSEN BEACH–The Martin County Bicentennial Committee will meet Monday, September 15, at 8 p.m. at the Elliott Museum. It was announced Monday by Bill Connolly, chairman.

The public is invited, and future planning of bicentennial events will be on the agenda.

Samaritans need more volunteers

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Area Samaritans need volunteers to be ambulance drivers and emergency medical technicians - EMT.

The Samaritans have two fully equipped ambulances, carrying such modern equipment as scoop stretchers, traction splints, electronic blood pressure gauges and positive pressure oxygen equipment and a third ambulance will arrive this month.

A group of volunteers dedicated to providing free ambulance service, the Samaritans consist of trained drivers and EMTs with over 100 hours of training.

Beginning Oct. 1 the Samaritans will expand their services to include the North River Shores area and South Hutchinson Island.

When an emergency call is received by Civil Defense the ambulance crew is immediately notified through one-way radios called "plectrons." Once the crews is in the ambulance they have direct two-way communication with Civil Defense, Martin Memorial Hospital and Sheriff's Department.

Anyone wishing to join the Samaritans or wanting additional information, call George Krauss at 334-1365 or Wally Redit at 334-4457.

Nuke plant plans drill on Monday

JENSEN BEACH–A nuclear accident will be simulated at Florida Power & Light Co.'s (FPL) nuclear plant on Hutchinson Island at 4 p.m. Monday.

No ... of the residents may be aware of the communication and deployment ... which will be concentrated in a ... area from White City roughly ... southward.

The simulation is basically to check ... communication between ... public safety agencies so ... will go smoothly if the nuclear ... should have a real emergency, ... to St. Lucie County Civil ... Director Phil Thibedeau ... the second such test. The first, ... April, revealed some ... problems.

... Federal Nuclear Regulatory ... requires periodic emergency ... involving plant personnel ... other county services, Thibedeau ... said.

... the nuclear plant, all personnel ... moved from the plant to a ... station 1,500 feet from ... according to FPL's Samuel ... emergency planning administrator, said.

... technicians with radioactive ... equipment will go to Jaycee ... Fort Pierce, and a token ... of plant employees will go to ... as part of the evacuation ...

... officials said they decided not to ... its people during the simulated ... because the police, sheriff's ... and highway patrol already are ... at handling large numbers of ... and don't need more practice. ... According to the test drill, there will ... report of a loss of coolant water at ... plant, water which would be ... and could disperse into the ... atmosphere.

FREEDOM RIDER–The Bicentennial tag was designed for motor vehicles for the year-long celebration of the nation's 200th birthday, but John C. Martin of Ocean Breeze Park thought it was a good idea to have the tag on his three wheeler. Tags are available at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Street merchants.

Government to people

Officials back service center

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County courthouse officials, including a county judge, said additional services to the people could be rendered at a Community Service Center in the north county area.

"It would be a convenience to the people," County Judge Dwight Geiger said.

And Community Service Centers in the outlying areas of the county was called a step in de-centralization of government by School Supt. James Navitsky.

Judge Geiger and Navitsky noted some activities that could be held in a Community Service Center which would be taking the governmental services to the people.

"We could hold plea day at a service center," the judge said. "Also we could hold traffic court and there could be filing of lawsuits."

At plea day, if a person entered a not guilty plea, the trial would have to be at the courthouse, Judge Geiger explained.

Navitsky noted that day-time adult education courses could be held at the service centers.

It was noted by Navitsky that the school system is going in for de-centralization by budgeting funds to individual schools.

"The area schools will have money to do the things they think need to be done," the superintendent explained.

While Tax Collector Alvin Andrews and Capt. Morgan Sprott of the Sheriff's Department said their departments would use the facility if constructed, they noted that it would be an added expense.

"It wouldn't reduce the workload of my office," Andrews said.

"We would have to have an employee at the service center at least two days a week with office equipment," Andrews said.

Andrews called outlying service centers an "extension of bureaucracy."

"If the taxpayers want to pay the cost of service centers, that's their perogative."

"The long lines of vehicle tag buyers should be eliminated after next year," Andrews explained. The state plans to spread tag buying over a 12-month period."

"If there is a Community Service Center I would staff it," Andrews noted.

"The concept of bringing the Sheriff's Department to the people is a good idea," Capt. Sprott said.

Sprott, in charge of the department's road patrol, pointed out that a Community Service Center would mean additional personnel.

"We would start with a part-time employee and later we could have radio contact with the main office," he said.

Sprott said that the department now has two deputies per shift in the Jensen Beach area, and with a service center it would probably mean additional deputies.

County Commissioner Timer Powers called the proposed service centers "an exciting new concept in government."

"The principle is bringing governmental service to the people rather than taking the people to the government," Powers said.

Powers of Indiantown, points out that the Community Service Center in Indiantown has serviced the people of the area for the last several years.

He called the service center "the best buy the county ever made."

Powers proposed to budget money for a service center in the 1977-78 fiscal year.

Foreclosure suit is filed

JENSEN BEACH–A Wisconsin bank has filed a $2.3 million mortgage foreclosure suit against Beacon 21 Condominium at Rio.

First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee filed the suit in Martin County Circuit Court against three corporations formerly headed by the late Robert J. Granger, developer of Beacon 21, and against Sue widow Catherine Granger.

The bank's attorney asked for an emergency appointment of a receiver to take charge of the project, but the request was denied by Circuit Court Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge.

The suit alleges that some $2 million is now due on mortgages for the projects. Lands to Environmental Concern Ltd., Warner Creek Ltd., and Wram Construction Co., all formerly headed by Granger, date back to early 1973, according to the suit.

Agencies are named

$18,000 goal is set in Jensen-Rio drive

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund began gearing up for the Monday, October 20 kickoff Oct. drive for $18,000 to aid seven local agencies.

Officers and directors of the fund met Monday night to accept applications for participation in the drive of the newly organized fund. Included in the list of agencies in the Jensen Samaritan Free Ambulance, Langford Park Association, Palm Glades Girl Scout Council, Gulfstream Boy Scout Council, Mars Hill Community Center, Martin County Council on Aging and Martin County Animal Rescue League.

The board denied the application of the Children's Home Society of Florida citing a budget of $181,000, with $90,000 for salaries and $45,000 in fees charged.

"We feel this takes them out of the charity classification," said LaVaughn Tilton, president. "Our thought is that we should see if we can support our local community agencies first."

Planning for the kickoff breakfast at the Rio Civic Club at 8 a.m. on October 20 includes a keynote by Frank Wacha, former county commissioner, and a prayer by American Legion District Chaplain Richard Newson.

The board of directors voted unanimously to accept the agencies and a tentative goal amount. The Samaritans will receive $5,000, Langford Park $5,000, County on Aging $3,000 and scouts, Mars Hill and Animal Rescue League $1,000 each. An additional $1,000 will be placed in an emergency fund.

The organization this year withdrew from the Martin County United Fund to conduct its own drive. The keynote of the drive seems to be a desire to produce local donations for local agencies, with a minimum of expenses.

Mrs. Tilton explained that the only expense from collected money will be the cost of paper to do printing for the drive.

The Jensen Beach Mirror and Florida Institute of Technology will do all layout and printing at no cost to the Community Fund. The post office box rent and the cost of printing checks have been donated. Even the kickoff breakfast is donated by the Rio Civic Club," Mrs. Tilton said.

The directors outlined the seventeen areas that will be in charge of captains for solicitation. Each area captain will become a member of the community fund board. Captains announced thus far include Richard Newson, business; Ro-bard Campbell, special gifts; LaVaughn Tilton, St. Lucie Heights; Jackie Hall, Rio; William Delancey and Jane Hill, Mars Hill; Louella Mabel and Jane Henderson, North Skyline Drive; and Eugene Peer, North Hutchinson Island.

Viking boats to race on Leif Erikson Day

JENSEN BEACH–Viking boats with their colorful square sails will again race in the Indian River as members of the Sons of Norway of Florida gather to add their annual Leif Erikson Day to the expanding Jensen Beach Bicentennial celebration.

Dates of the three day events were announced as October 3, 4 and 5, according to Dean's Lem, chairperson.

Over 500 members of the eight Florida lodges of the Sons of Norway are expected to participate in the weekend, until the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island has been chosen as the host hotel for the group.

The private portion of the weekend for Sons of Norway members will center at the hotel with bowling, tennis and swimming events planned, a banquet and talent show and dance leading up to the Sunday public portion on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

The raucous program will begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 5, and will feature the Orlando-based United States Navy Band in concert, a parade of Nordic costumes, a pageant recreating the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1001 A.D., races featuring three seven-man sea chest sailing boats that were brought from Norway, and a fish fry.

250 prizes are planned for young fishermen

JENSEN BEACH–The annual Izaak Walton League (IWL) fishing contest for boys and girls will be held on Jensen Beach Causeway Saturday, September 27 from 9 a.m. to noon.

More than 250 prizes will be given to the boys and girls for their legal limit catches.

The contest is part of the IWL celebration of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

The league will give four spinning rods and reels and three tackle boxes with lures as top prizes.

Bailey Boat Yard, Casa Rio Boats and Stuart Marine will give gift certificates and other prizes will be donated by Stuart Tackle, Stuart Bait and Tackle, Something Fishey, Shark Nook, Ricou Photo and Sports, Ideal Sports Shop, Brunson Sports Shop. Also, Chet Treload will give a boat road St. Lucie Marine will give a set of skis and George Dungarden will give a Kodak instamatic camera.

Prizes will be given for various categories of fish caught, including the most unusual fish, largest jack, Crevelle, largest lady fish and largest ribbon fish.

The anglers can use the bridges, pier or fish from the bank of the causeway.

State drops savannas suit

JENSEN BEACH–The state Department of Pollution Control (DPC) has dropped its suit against St. Lucie County over the Walton Road bridge across the savannas.

The lawsuit, charging damage to the waters of the savannas because the county didn't get a work permit from the state, was filed in January and dropped at the recommendation of Vance Kidder, an attorney in the Department of Environmental Regulation.

St. Lucie County Attorney Ralph Wilson said he thinks the suit was dropped as a result before county and state officials several weeks ago in Orlando.

The suit was filed after the county during an emergency, replaced the old wooden Walton Road bridge across the savannas with two culverts.

DPC claimed the waters of the savannas are under their control and that the county didn't apply for work permits before starting the bridge replacement.

The county maintained a permit from the state wasn't necessary because the county owned the road right of way.

Claiming the culverts restricted the water flow through the savannas and polluted the nearby waters, the state was asking a fine of $5,000 a day from May 1, 1975 until the violation was corrected.

The state is watching the savannas closely because they are under its control and their purchase is being considered.

GED courses

STUART–Adults who lack a high school diploma are urged to enroll now at Martin County High School or Indiantown Middle School. Registration takes place Monday through Thursday at 7 p.m.

Adults eighteen years of age or older and legally out of school may enroll in the GED review classes held Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. at the above schools.

Public hearing on budget

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County Commission will advertise a $7.18 million budget with a millage of 4.5309 and a public hearing has been set for 7 p.m. Monday, September 29.

A second public hearing will be held October 7 at 1:30 p.m. to set the millage, which is a .906 increase over last year's millage.

The largest single item making its first budget appearance is the first of five annual payments of $227,706 to be made on the purchase of the Executive Plaza building across from the Stuart Post Office which will be used for administrative offices.

Last week the Tax Appraiser's office agreed to a $34,000 cut in the budget which means that department will be minus three planned new employees and Executive Assistant Ted Camp will not get a $6,000 raise. Camp will receive $18,000 during the fiscal year beginning October 1.

The millage for this year's budget – 1974-75 – was 4.320.

The county must conduct the Board of Tax Adjustment for appeals on property valuations and hearing dates have not been set. The county must await approval of the new tax roll from the state before hearing dates are set.

Rev. Johnson honored

JENSEN BEACH–Sunday, Sept. 14, was an especially happy day for the congregation of Jensen Beach Community Church.

More than 150 persons attended the reception honoring the Rev. Johnson from 3 to 5 p.m. and he chatted with each person and they shared refreshments with the guests.

Many of the people attending the reception were from other sections of Florida, including ministers and their families.

The reception was planned by the church delegates to the national conference in Washington, D.C., in August.

Also attending the national conference were a large delegation of the youth of the church.

The adults and youths who went to the conference were the host and hostesses for the reception.

Beginning his eighth year at the Jensen Beach church, Rev. Johnson has served as Florida coordinator for all coordinators in the United States.

Besides being an active pastor within the church framework, Johnson has served locally on the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Division of Youth Services, the Drug Abuse Council, Inter Agency Steering Committee and Martin County Mental Health Association.

The National Council of Community Churches, with executive offices in Worthington, Ohio, started in Lake Forest, Illinois, in 1950. At present there are 190 active churches in the council with the heaviest concentration of churches in Florida, California, Illinois and Ohio.

Community churches related to the council are free and autonomous.

The hosts and hostesses for the reception will be the people who attended the conference this year. They include:

Jay Pitchford, Mark Sandell, Melissa Stalker, Sally Bricker, Rob Woodruff, Martha Bacon, J. Van Melear, Chris Kirkpatrick, Lynn Marsteller, Robert Mills, Mitchell Bullock, Philip Nagle, Eric Hillman.

Gary Stalker, Leigh Hunter, Kevin Brown, Michael Mills, Connie Miller, Rhonda Cumpaty, Art Chan, Martha Garcia, Steve Hillman.

Mrs. Gladys Burnett, Mrs. Pat Hillman, Mrs. Helen Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hurst, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miner.

CHURCH GATHERING–The adults and youth of Jensen Beach Community Church were the host and hostesses for the Sunday afternoon reception honoring the Rev. Donald Johnson, pastor. About 150 persons attended the reception at the Fellowship Hall from 3 to 5 p.m.

Capping ceremonies held

JENSEN BEACH–Four practical nursing students were capped in a ceremony at Indian River Community College Sept. 10.

The candidates are Harriett Barlow, Judith Knox, Emma Johnston and Christine Wyatt.

The students will now continue their studies for nine additional months, completing the program in June, 1976.

Christmas boutique

JENSEN BEACH–Ladies of St. Martin de Porres meet every Monday in the home of Josephine Throp, 308 Ridge Court, Jensen Beach, in preparations for their upcoming Christmas boutique.

Top pets at shelter

JENSEN BEACH–Three dogs–an old setter, Norwegian elkhound and mixed shepherd–are the cream of this week's crop at the Animal Rescue League Shelter.

Shelter hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Fishing is poor

JENSEN BEACH–Jack Klett of the Snook Nook talking about how poor fishing has been, said "I've got more fish in my freezer than they can find out there." However he did say that surf fishing is picking up.

Father Frank Alvarez and Bruce Fletcher used sand fleas to catch 3 pompano and 6 large whiting. John Mitnaya caught 3 blues and a mackerel on plugs. Waller Neff had 2 blues. Chris Roberts, one 3-lb. mackerel, and Art Ryan and Carl Herzog caught 8 whiting, 3 pompano and 2 sheepshead.

Bob Kingsley, Al Jones and Dan Schmidt, outside on the "I-Wooda" had 2 bonita, one tuna and a king.

Some trout were caught as Bob Carruthers had two, Pete Peterson six, Buck White, two, Stan Lippincott, one 6 pounder, and Harry Beamer had a six-pound trout.

Brett McClure had 2 trout, 3 snook. Oscar Dishman, one snook and a trout. Charlie Arens, 3 trout. Pat Vought, one trout and a snook. Henry Royer 3 trout, one weighing 6 pounds, and Charlie Bruce, 10 trout.

Gene Wagner Jr. used shrimp to catch 6 mangrove snapper, 4 sand perch and a large drum off the 10 cent bridge. Joe Apfelbeck, 15 sheepshead and Steve Steele had 7 trout, 8 snook and a red.

Augie DeVuyst caught a nice 15-lb. snook.

Klett said that fishing should pick up when the water cools off.

650 students at FIT

JENSEN BEACH–An enrollment of 650 full time students is expected at Florida Institute of Technology Jensen Beach campus when the fall quarter begins the first week in October.

"In order to smooth the transition from home to college life for these new students, and to insure that the school year gets under way efficiently, we have scheduled many special activities during the period before classes start," Dean Teaters said.

The ROTC is hosting an outdoor open house with refreshments at 3 p.m. Monday, and on Tuesday at 6 p.m. there will be a general get acquainted gathering and barbeque at the pool area for all new students, faculty and staff.

Returning students will begin arriving over the following weekend with registration of all students on Sunday, Sept. 28, in the auditorium from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Seniors, think academy

WASHINGTON–Attention all high school seniors:

Wondering what you'll be doing after graduation? Looking for a way to get a good college education but strapped for finances?

Stop and think about the nation's military academies – West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis, the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs or Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York.

All offer a solid education at no cost to you except for a commitment to serve your country for a few years.

And it is an opportunity open to every high school senior in the 10th Congressional District. There are no quotas involved. Selection is based entirely on grades, physical fitness and leadership ability.

If you're interested, write to me at my Washington office, 608 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

But don't delay. There are a number of things which must be accomplished before you can be considered for the class entering next year. And the deadline for compiling all the needed data is December 1.

Among the documents applicants must file are a record of high school grades to date, a letter of accomplishments, three letters of reference, a photograph and their scores on the SAT test.

Since it takes time to compile all this data, anyone truly interested in a military academy appointment should contact my Washington office no later than October 10.

Those applicants who complete their folders by the December 1 deadline will be given an opportunity to appear before the 10th Congressional District Academy Screening Committee for a face-to-face interview.

The screening committee, composed of military academy graduates, educators and other community leaders, interview each applicant to determine whether he – or she – has the dedication and the determination necessary to successfully pursue and complete a military academy education.

Since only 10 applicants can be considered for each vacancy at the academies, the screening committee also serves to narrow the field to the 10 most qualified.

The top 10 then compete for the single vacancy in an examination administered by the individual academies.

While this may seem an involved process I have found that it is the best method possible for insuring that these much-sought-after appointments go to the best qualified applicants.

After all, the future defense of our nation is involved in these appointments. Therefore they should go to those best qualified to use them.

However although each Member of Congress is permitted only one appointment to each academy each year, this doesn't necessarily mean only one applicant from the 10th District will win a place at each academy.

Every year the academies select "qualified alternates" for special appointment. And in the past three years, we have been extremely successful in sending the academies candidates of such promise that many have won qualified alternate appointments.

This reflects great credit on the teachers and parents of the youths of the 10th District because it has been their efforts and the talent and dedication of the youths themselves which has won such high acceptance at the military academies.

And, remember, the military academies are no longer strictly male territory. Under legislation recently adopted, girls are also being accepted for appointment to the military service academies.

So, if you're a high school senior interested in obtaining a good education and in serving your country, please write me today regarding a military academy appointment.

Tea will honor volunteens

STUART–Volunteens Linda Delamater, Rhonda Meister, Sue Whittle, Sharon Heggie, Dana Robinson, Debbie Morris and Nat Lane IV will be honored and presented with awards earned during the summer Volunteen program at Martin Memorial Hospital.

Sponsored by the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, who are responsible for the program, the Sunday afternoon tea will be held in the Conquistador Clubhouse, 1800 S.E. St. Lucie Blvd., on September 28 at 3 p.m.

The Volunteen program provides an opportunity for young people to experience hospital work first hand and helps them decide if they want to pursue a career in the medical field. They are restricted to work twenty hours a week. Each day they are assigned to various nursing units where needed. After 50 hours of service a cap is awarded, after 150 hours, a pin, and after 300 hours, a cap stripe.

Mrs. O. Pantejo, R.N., director of in-service education at Martin Memorial, was responsible for training the group for hospital service.

Mrs. Katie Sachrison, director of nursing, will attend to present the earned awards to the group.

Volunteen Chairman for the Auxiliary, Mrs. Betty Smith said that she hopes all parents will attend the tea.

Izaak Walton League will install officers September 25th

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County Chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America will be installed in ceremonies following dinner at the Crow's Nest on September 25. Festivities will start with a happy hour at 6 p.m.

Incoming officers are Hugh Furman, president; Larry Hoffman, 1st vice pres.; Gordan Starrett, 2nd vice pres.; Lloyd Smith, secretary; Esther Smith treasurer; Floyd Dillie, state director; and directors Kathryn Swenson, William Haines, Werner Zugschwerdt, Richard Senn, Dr. Fred Krauskopf and Juanita Edwards.

Kenneth Peters, state president of the League from the Jupiter Chapter will be guest speaker. Mrs. Harry Kurk, also of Jupiter, will install the officers.

Deadline for reservations is Thursday, September 18. Spouses and guests are welcome. Call 287-2628 for reservations.

Mylar is named Demo chairman

JENSEN BEACH–Kenneth Mylar has been elected chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Martin County.

An instructor at Martin County High School, Mylar replaces Mrs. Joanne Langberg as chairman. Mrs. Langberg resigned as chairman for personal reasons.

Virginia Heaslip was elected to fill the vacancy of vice chairman.

Moving Ahead with a New Look.
We are approaching our nation's 200th birthday. Many events are taking place and are in the planning stage across the nation and in Martin County to celebrate this historical occasion.
Of course here in Martin County we are preparing to celebrate our county's semicentennial. We at First National will be joining in to help celebrate these great events through the coming months.
We thought it appropriate and befitting to change our graphic look in both our public service and customer service advertising during the next year.
We have also adopted the motto: Moving Ahead for America and Martin County because we feel it best expresses our greatest expectations for our future. Whether it's offering the finest in modern banking services or participating in worthy community affairs, you know that First National is moving ahead – moving ahead for America and Martin County.

BOBBY CLASS PARTICIPANTS–An average of fourteen have attended each session of the newly formed hobby classes at the North Port Marina. The group meets one or two afternoons at the facility each week where they work on various hobby projects. Ron Loperfido not only conceived the idea, he also personally funded the program.

Certificate rejected

PSL hospital loses again

PORT ST. LUCIE–For the second time, the St. Lucie-Martin Health Planning Committee has rejected the proposed 116-bed Port St. Lucie Community Hospital.

The overwhelming vote against the application was a recommendation only.

Under state procedures the request will next go to the Tri-County Health Planning Council St. Lucie Martin and Palm Beach counties which meets in Palm Beach Gardens Sept. 25 for the council recommendation.

The final decision is made by the State Bureau of Medical Facilities.

Last June, the committee had voted not to recommend a certificate of need for the hospital, and backers were hoping that additional information might change the decision.

The staff recommendation was that the construction of the hospital would result in 106 excess beds, with resulting higher patient costs.

C.E. Fessel, main spokesman for the Port St. Lucie Community Hospital, said that whatever state projections show, there are special factors in the Port St. Lucie situation which merit exceptions to the statistical rule.

Fessel said there is a dire need for 100 beds in Port St. Lucie.

Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe criticized the decision based on projections and figures.

Councilman Frank Rose said he was disappointed but not surprised at the decision of the committee.

According to the staff report, the new hospital includes the Jensen Beach area in Martin County as part of its service area.

There is no indication the report states, that these patients who now use Martin Memorial Hospital would switch to the smaller, less-comprehensive facility in Port St. Lucie.

According to the report, an empty bed costs $20,000 a year to maintain, and 100 empty beds would cost $2 million a year, resulting in higher costs to patients and less available money for other health care needs.

Only two members of the 12 present voted to recommend a certificate of need: Fred Wiggins and Sam Leader. Two council members abstained from voting: hospital administrators Basil King of Fort Pierce and Gus Cromwell of Martin Memorial.

Disaster drill at nuclear plant

PORT ST. LUCIE–A nuclear accident will be simulated at Florida Power and Light Co. (FPL) nuclear plant on Hutchinson at 4 p.m. Monday, Sept. 22.

Few of the residents may be aware of the communication and deployment practice which will be concentrated in a mainland area from White City roughly five miles southward.

The simulation is basically to check the methods of communication between all area public safety agencies so events will go smoothly if the nuclear plant should have a real emergency, according to St. Lucie County Civil Defense Director Phil Thibedeau.

This is the second such test. The first, held last April, revealed some communications problems.

The Federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission requires periodic emergency drills involving plant personnel and other county services, Thibedeau explained.

At the nuclear plant, all personnel will be moved from the plant to a pre-assembly station 1,500 feet from the plant, according to FPL's Samuel Engabury, emergency planning administrator said.

FPL technicians with radioactive monitoring equipment will go to Jaycee Park in Fort Pierce, and a token number of plant employees will go to the park as part of the evacuation exercise.

State officials said they decided not to move any people during the simulated evacuation because the police, sheriff's office and highway patrol already are skilled at handling large numbers of people and don't need more practice.

According to the test drill, there will be a report of a loss of coolant water at the nuclear plant, water which would be radioactive and could disperse into the atmosphere.

Presidents to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Presidents Council of Port St. Lucie will meet at the CESA Building on Thursday, September 18, at 2 p.m.

The Presidents Council is composed of the heads of the various organizations and clubs operating in Port St. Lucie. Now that the vacation period is over and clubs are back on schedule, a good percentage is expected when reports will be given and each organization head will tell of activities coming up for the fall-winter season.

If a president is unable to attend, he is urged to send a representative.

Nine holers plan luncheon

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Women's Nine Hole Golf Association will hold a social luncheon at Ocean Village on A1A on Tuesday, September 23, in lieu of their regular tournament play. Reservations may be made by calling Kay Stabler.

Last week the Nine Holers played a Poker Hand tourney. Judy Fessel, a new member, came in first with four Fs.

Ethel Collett's four 7's took second honors. Kay Stabler and Aletha Legge tied for third place with four 8's.

The Nine Holers play every Tuesday at Sandpiper Bay.

State drops savannas suit

PORT ST. LUCIE–The state Department of Pollution Control (DPC) has dropped its suit against St. Lucie County over the Walton Road bridge across the savannas.

The lawsuit, charging damage to the waters of the savannas because the county didn't get a work permit from the state, was filed in January and dropped at the recommendation of Vance Kidder, an attorney in the Department of Environmental Regulation.

St. Lucie County Attorney Ralph Wilson said he thinks the suit was dropped as a result between county and state officials several weeks ago in Orlando.

The suit was filed after the county, during an emergency, replaced the old wooden Walton Road bridge across the savannas with two culverts.

DPC claimed the waters of the savannas are under their control and that the county didn't apply for work permits before starting the bridge replacement.

Claiming the culverts restricted the water flow through the savannas and polluted the nearby waters, the state was asking a fine of $5,000 a day from May 1, 1975 until the violation was corrected.

The state is watching the savannas closely because they are under its control and their purchase is being considered.

Bunko to resume

PORT ST. LUCIE–Barracks 2936 Veterans of WWI, announced this week the Bunko parties will be resumed on Thursday, September 25, starting at 8 p.m.

Six prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served at each session.

Chairman Cedric Bentz says, "You do not have to be a member to participate – it's all come!"

Commander Lee Malone and Peter Bentz also serve on the committee in charge of the parties.

Fire arms course offered

PORT ST. LUCIE–A fire arms safety course, sponsored by the State of Florida Game and Fresh Water Department, will be given at the CESA Community Center starting October 6th. The classes will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. on the five Wednesdays in October.

CESA Project Director Don Donahoe says "Persons who keep fire arms in their homes should be interested in this course, and all hunters should be interested."

Registration deadline is September 8.

Interchange confusion?

PORT ST. LUCIE–Residents in this south county community will soon be using the new turnpike interchange providing, of course, the city and DOT can agree on the date and time for the official opening.

The latest word is that the interchange either opens September 17 (today) at 10 a.m. or it will be officially opened at 3 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 22, the date the city officials have rescheduled.

The original ribbon cutting ceremonies scheduled by the city for last Sunday afternoon were postponed when the turnpike booth was damaged by fire enroute to Port St. Lucie. The fire occurred on I-95, a few miles south of Titusville.

At press time Tuesday, City Administrator Elwert was awaiting the phone call from Tallahassee advising whether or not DOT would consent to postpone the opening.

DOT employees worked around the clock throughout the night on a temporary booth being installed at the interchange.

Bowling league meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Men's Get-Together Bowling League will hold its pre-bowling business meeting Monday, Sept. 22, 9:15 a.m. at the North Port Marina on Peninsula Vista Boulevard.

Several important issues are to be resolved at this meeting.

Troop 499 holds Court of Honor

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–Approximately eighty-five persons were in attendance to witness the presentation of awards during the semi-annual Court of Honor ceremonies conducted by Scout Troop 499.

The affair was held at St. Andrews Lutheran Church last Thursday evening.

Four Life and one Star award highlighted the ceremonies.

Indicative of an active troop the awards were presented to twenty-six members, according to Scoutmaster Ed Swanson.

Four boys, John Webb, Bob Gillen, Mike Hurst and Barry Lee, were presented with their Life pin, the second highest honor in scouting.

Next in the scouting ranks is the Star which was presented to Jeff Walters.

Others receiving awards included Scott Ramsey, first class, and William Von Taborsky, tenderfoot.

Topping the list for the number of awards received was Charles Stallings who claimed a total of thirteen during the evening.

Swanson, whose pride in his troop is evident, announced plans are in the making for the troop to attend the National Scout Jamboree in 1977.

Scoutmaster Swanson, his wife and three children recently returned from the World Scouting Jamboree held in Lillehammer, Norway, during the first week of August. One hundred thirty seven countries were represented by 17,000 scouts at the World Jamboree. Swanson, a scouting enthusiast, pointed out scouting is 64 years old this year, only one percent of all boys everywhere get the chance to become scouts and less than one percent of that number make Eagle Scouting's highest honor.

Chappelle wins by one stroke

PORT ST. LUCIE–Joe Chappelle edged Tom Jelnick by a single stroke to take top honors in the weekly golf tournament of the Men's Golf Association at the Sainta Course last Thursday.

Leading finishers in the various flights of the individual net stroke play competition were:

Flight C, Ken Castle, 69; Harold Nottley and August Ruppel, 71; Rudolph Brodman, 73; Evert Stabler, 74.

This week's competition involves low net partnership play with both balls counting.

Viking boats to race October 5th

JENSEN BEACH–Viking boats with their colorful square sails will again race in the Indian River as members of the Sons of Norway of Florida gather to add their annual Leif Erikson Day to the expanding Jensen Beach bicentennial celebration.

Dates of the three day event were announced as October 3, 4 and 5, according to Joan S. Leib, chairperson.

Over 500 members of the eight Florida lodges of the Sons of Norway are expected to participate in the weekend, and the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island has been chosen as the host hotel for the group.

The private portion of the weekend, for Sons of Norway members, will center at the hotel with meetings, tennis and swimming events planned, a banquet and talent show and dance leading up to the Sunday public portion on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

The causeway program will begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 5, and will feature the Orlando-based United States Navy Band in concert, a parade of "bunads" (colorful Norwegian costumes), a pageant recreating the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D., races featuring three "seserrings" (six-man sailing boats that were brought from Norway), and a fish fry.

SONG LEADERS–Phyllis Smith, left president of Martin County Sweet Adeline Inc. and Roberta Crawford, director, are shown at a practice session of the singing group. A membership night for the harmony group will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 22 at Monterey Plaza in the beauty salon.

TENDERFOOT–William VonTobertay proudly displays the tenderfoot badge he was presented at the Scout Troop 499 Court of Honor held last Thursday evening at St. Andrews Lutheran Church in Port St. Lucie.

SPANISH GALLEON–It was a Spanish Galleon that Jeff Jennings chose to put together during the hobby classes at the Port St. Lucie Marina. When the model is completed it may be purchased by it's builder or will be placed on display and sold early in December. Each young person participating pays only twenty five cents per session to help pay for the rent of the facility. The models have been provided by Loperfido who invested $300 of his own money to get the program underway.

PSL youths turn out for hobby classes

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–Living in a community which is predominently comprised of senior citizens is not easy for the younger couples.

For the teenager these problems are multiplied.

Basically, activities and life styles are geared to this type of living in Port St. Lucie.

The lack of social functions or even part time employment for the teenager in this area adds to their boredom and more often than not this situation results in mischief and vandalism.

Ron Loperfido, who heads the recreation facilities at the North Port Marina, has for some time been an advocate of more activities for the youth of the community.

"These young folks need something to do. They need some type of social functions." Loperfido has said repeatedly, but for the most part such remarks fell on deaf ears.

Last week Loperfido set out in his own quiet way to do something about the situation.

He dreamed up the idea of forming a youth hobby class at the marina for both the boys and girls of the community to enjoy.

This Loperfido felt, could provide something constructive for them to do while at the same time serving a social function by having an occasional cookout following the class.

To fund the program, Ron Loperfido dipped into his own pocket to the tune of $300, chose two local boys and enlisted the assistance of Herb Tschudy to accompany the boys to West Palm Beach where they purchased oil paint sets, macrame, needlepoint, a wide selection of models and all the necessary items with which to work.

All items are stored at the marina between sessions and are free to those who participate in the classes. There are no dues charged, however, each participant is asked to pay 25 cents for the use of the marina. Loperfido makes up an difference for the rental.

Future funding of the program is expected to be derived from a garage sale which the group is currently planning. The money will be used to purchase additional items for the classes.

For over a month Loperfido planned the program and, thus far, is quite satisfied with the results.

The group will meet on the average of three times a week or whenever the marina is available, as long as there is an interest in the program.

What will be done with all of the finished projects?

"They will be put on display probably around the first of December and later sold. Here again, the money derived from the sale will go towards the purchase of various hobby crafts for future sessions," Loperfido said.

Should the person who completed a project wish to purchase it, the purchase price will be the original cost plus a minimal charge for the materials used.

INTENT–Eric Harmon works intently on one of the models available at the hobby classes held at the North Port Marina. An average of fourteen young people have attended the afternoon sessions. Models and craft projects will be made available for sale within the next couple months.

PROUD MOTHER–Mrs. C.G. Stallings proudly pins one of the thirteen awards on her son's uniform during the Court of Honor held last Thursday evening by Scout Troop 499. The event was held at St. Andrews Lutheran Church, sponsor of the local troop.

MOVING UP–These two youth scouts were among the twenty six members of Troop 499 who move up the scouting ladder by receiving awards at the Thursday night Court of Honor. Pictured above, left to right, are Jeff Walters and Scott Ramsey. Walters was presented his Star award while Ramsey received his first class pin during the ceremonies.

FINAL TOUCHES–Jim Cogger puts the final touches on a model plane he is completing. All models and hobby items were purchased by Ron Loperfido who extends the invitation for all young people in the area to take part in the hobby classes. There are projects for the girls such as needlepoint, macrame and oil paintings, and a wide selection of models for the fellows.

Diet, diabetes, acupuncture, highlight discussion topic

PORT ST. LUCIE–The famous Rice Diet established by Duke University, acupuncture and juvenile diabetes are among topics on the agenda when the Florida Hospital Institution, Educational Food Service Society meets Sept. 17-19 at Sandpiper Bay.

Mrs. Kay Spillane of Hobe Sound president of the society, said Dr. William G. Myers, also of Hobe Sound, would lecture on the Rice Diet.

Dr. E. Stanton Maxey of Stuart, Dr. Gerald M. Jenkins of Indian River College in Port Pierce and Mrs. Renee Marsteller of Jensen Beach also will address the conference. Dr. Maxey will discuss acupuncture while Dr. Jenkins subject will be furthering education and Mrs. Marsteller will speak about juvenile diabetes.

Nearly 200 society members and guests from Florida are expected to attend the three-day meeting.

Mrs. Spillane said the meetings at Sandpiper Bay are open to the public and will include a symposium on Diets and Dentistry to be held at 11 a.m. on Sept. 19.

Marty Koitzsches celebrate 50th

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Indian Valley Country Club in Telford, Pa. was the setting for a cocktail and dinner celebration commemorating the 50th Wedding Anniversary of Marty and Emmy Koitzsch of Spanish Lakes and Spring House, Pennsylvania.

Hosted by Dr. Richard E. and Karen Koitzsch and Martin E. Koitzsch, some 65 friends and relatives, from far and wide, came to honor the occasion.

After dinner, the group caravaned to Dr. Koitzsch's hillside home to "fun-out" the balance of the evening.

The Koitzsches will be at home at 10 Del Prado, Spanish Lakes after September 20.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH—Wishes for happy birthdays are extended this week to Dottie Gerard and Mike Quinn celebrating September 17 (today); to Ann Escott and Mrs. Jack Hardy September 19; Nellie Cook and Rae Britton, September 20; Dana Deserree Kilbourne, September 21; Al Palmer and Henry Spencer, September 22; and to Mrs. Thomas Whitley, September 23.

Have a happy day and a good year!

Students register Sunday

JENSEN BEACH–Both new and returning students at FIT will report for in-line registration on Sunday, September 28. Registration will be held in the Auditorium, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

At this time, students will receive their final schedule of classes for the fall quarter. All classes will begin on Monday, September 29.

Registration has not been held on Sunday in the past, meaning a loss of time in the classroom each quarter. By holding registration on Sunday, all classes will be able to meet for the full number of sessions required.

All students transferring from other colleges and universities will have received their schedule on Thursday. However, they must still report to in-line registration in order to have their student ID cards validated and to pick up cafeteria cards.

New FIT student center will open this year

JENSEN BEACH–FIT Jensen Beach will have a new Student Center this year. The renovation of the Leach Mansion on the Jensen Beach campus will provide the students with a full Student Center. The adaption of the mansion was made possible through a $50,000 grant from the Kresge Foundation of Troy, Michigan, with matching funds made available through the efforts of the Board of Trustees and friends of the university.

The Student Center will contain all the necessary services students need while on campus. The three-story building will contain a Rathskellar on the bottom level (cellar). This area is large enough to accommodate small entertainment groups, a bar, tables, etc. It has been painted and decorated by students and named "The Bottom of the River." The university has made application for a license to sell beer in the Rathskellar.

The first floor above ground will contain the student bookstore, a snack bar with outside patio and awning, a large main hall and various meeting rooms. The second floor west wing will house the Student Affairs Offices and will include recruiting functions, admissions, financial aid, veteran's affairs, a placement office, and will also handle small student financial transactions. The east wing is completely structured for student activities. The Student Government, Yearbook, and student newspaper will have their offices in this wing.

The east wing will also have a TV lounge, and a music room soundproof of course.

University officials feel that this Student Center was badly needed. It will provide the student body with a common area specifically designed for student use. It is this type of building which will allow continuous participation of the student in other facets of college life than the classroom.

Chamber speaker

Goldwater warns of bureaucracies

PORT ST. LUCIE–U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) warned of the growing power of bureaucrats living in the nation's capitol at the annual Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce installation dinner Friday night at Sandpiper Inn.

"In the past, any way out was always to create a new government agency," Goldwater said. "And if the trend continues for another 10 years, we will be governed by people who are elected, not elected."

Senator Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential candidate, told the 350 persons at the dinner that the businessman's responsibility to work to reverse the socialistic trend is not just to retain profits and jobs in Fort Pierce or Arizona but for the future of the country.

He said the key to the economy is to let businessmen make a profit.

Adequate profits for business people is the solution to unemployment in this country.

Military spending was defended by Goldwater pointing out that the country is spending a smaller percentage of the federal budget on the military now than in George Washington's day. He said the Navy is the smallest and weakest it has been in years and only the Air Force would be a match for Soviet forces.

The veteran senator said that the big increases in government spending have been in the areas of health, education and welfare, and he said he is voting against increases in those areas.

Goldwater arrived late, explaining that he had been delayed by an armed services matter.

Sam Gas, long time friend of the senator, met him at the Stuart airport and introduced the speaker.

During his talk, Goldwater displayed some military humor in referring to Fort Pierce's go-go dancer, Cat Futch.

"Don't think the Air Force isn't jealous," he said, adding that the Air Force would have handled the matter of Miss Futch's topless dance on a nuclear sub differently.

The commander of the submarine Finback, Cmdr. Connelly Stevenson, was transferred to a desk job in Norfolk, Va.

Instead of relieving the man of his command, the senator said, "the Air Force would have given him a star."

Richard Hellstrom, incoming chamber president, said the chamber's goal this year will be to develop concern with government spending and regular input on the local, state and federal level.

"We hope to influence the direction the government takes," Hellstrom said.

WELCOMED GUEST–Although he arrived over an hour late, U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater received a real St. Lucie County welcome as he entered the 69th annual meeting of the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce last Friday evening. Approximately 600 attended the annual dinner.

District 'A' budget is up

JENSEN BEACH–The proposed budget for Taxing District 'A' Jensen Beach area is $148,988 with a millage of 7556 according to Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick.

The total includes a $35,000 carryover, Philbrick said.

A total of $117,940 will be raised by the proposed millage, the Jensen Beach area commissioner pointed out.

The district's 1974-75 budget was $131,186.

A breakdown of the proposed district budget shows expenditures of $6,500 to the property appraiser and tax collector's office, and some $28,000 for street lights.

Jensen Beach and Rio Fire Departments account for more than $36,000; supplies, equipment and salaries.

More than $12,000 is budgeted for Langford Park to pay for salaries, lights and maintenance. Also, some $5,200 is budgeted for an ambulance shed.

Philbrick said that the 7556 millage is certified to the tax appraiser's office.

The County Commission has approved the new county budget which is in excess of $7 million, exceeding the present budget by about $450,000.

A public hearing on the budget has been set for Sept. 30 at 7 p.m.

The new budget will require a property tax rate increase of about 7 per cent, about 80 cents per $1,000 of taxable value on the county tax roll.

Contest rules are announced

JENSEN BEACH–The Bicentennial Committee to select "Miss Betsy Ross" and "Mr. Uncle Sam" Monday announced rules for the contest.

Father Frank Alvarez, pastor of All Saints Episcopal Church, said the boys and girls in the Jensen Beach-Rio area may enter the contest.

The categories for the students entering the contest will be kindergarten through fifth grade, sixth to eighth grade, and 9th through 12th grade. Also, Pine and St. Joseph schools.

Contestants must submit essays on "Let's ring it again" or "Lanterns in church tower." The essays must be delivered to Father Alvarez by Oct. 31, 1975, and the winners will be announced Nov. 11.

The winners must take part in the July 4 parade in 1976, Father Alvarez said.

Winners will receive U.S. Savings Bonds.

Other members of the Bicentennial Committee are Miss Virginia Ray, head of the English department of Martin County High School; Mrs. Margaret Moore, owner of Lord and Lady Shop in Jensen Beach and John Clyde, assistant principal at Jensen Beach Elementary School.

The committee will judge the essays.

Top honors for Jensen

JENSEN BEACH–Two of the four Martin County High School students in the National Merit Scholarship semi-finals live in Jensen Beach, and one is the daughter of Principal Jack Fulton.

Brenda Sue Fulton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fulton Jr. of the Flora Ln. Jensen Beach.

Jane S. Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Miller of the S. Indian River Dr., Jensen Beach.

The other two students are David B. Lowe IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lowe III of Port Salerno, and Teresa Rathkopf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Rathkopf of Stuart.

The four semi-finalists are the only the school ever produced, Mrs. Fulton said.

Miss Fulton, 16, said she wants to attend Florida State University and Miss Miller said she wants to attend Duke University.

They are among 15,000 students throughout the nation who will be competing for about 4,000 scholarships to be awarded in the spring.

Semi-finalists are the highest scoring students in each state of the more than one million who entered the competition by taking Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Government to people

Central location for center urged

JENSEN BEACH–Three North River Shores residents believe that a Community Service Center in north Martin County should serve the needs of the community and government.

And the trio emphasized the fact that the center "should be centrally located and built for future needs."

Carole Selover, Jeanette Weiss and Mary Lou Sanders, all officers in the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA, discussed how a community center could be utilized by the north county area.

Mrs. Selover, PTA president and Mrs. Weiss, PTA vice president, agreed that the center should be large enough for future growth and somewhere north of St. Lucie River.

Mrs. Sanders, PTA secretary, said she would like to see a community center built in North River Shores since she believes that the area has been bypassed by county services.

"It could be used instead of the schools," they pointed out.

Noting that social gatherings had used the National Guard Armory in her hometown, Mrs. Sanders said that "The center could be used for government and community gatherings."

Locating Community Service Centers in the outlying areas of the county was first proposed by Commissioner Timer Powers. He called the idea "an exciting new concept in government."

"The principle is bringing governmental services to the people rather than taking the people to the government," Powers explained.

Several county officials have endorsed the idea, pointing out how a service center could be used by their office.

A $1.4 million northeast Palm Beach County courthouse complex is scheduled to open this month.

"The County Commission (Palm Beach County) wants to provide county services for people locally rather than have them come all the way to downtown West Palm Beach" project architect Rudolph Arsenicos said.

According to reports on the Palm Beach County complex, the offices of Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Planning and Zoning, State Attorney, and Agriculture will occupy the first floor.

The second floor will have a courtroom and related facilities.

The complex is expected to meet the county's needs until 1980, and the county officials anticipate adding three more stories after 1980.

Commissioner Powers said that he hopes to start budgeting money for a Community Service Center in 1977-78.

Site for God Country Day is announced

JENSEN BEACH–The second annual God and Country Day will be held at Martin County High School gymnasium Feb. 15, 1976 at 3 p.m., the co-chairmen of the committee announced Monday.

Father Frank Alvarez of the Jensen Beach All Saints Episcopal Church and Virgil Rathbone of the Jensen Beach American Legion Post 128 are co-chairmen of the event.

They said Martin County High School band will furnish the music for the program.

Members of the God and Country Day Committee are Ben Fulton, Jr., Irene Stewart, Jerry Wilkinson and Father Alvarez for the church, and Ed Douglas, William Herzog, Virgil Wilson and Rathbone for the Legion.

"The committee wishes to express its thanks to the Martin County School Board for its complete cooperation given to the committee," the co-chairmen announced.

Fishing contest is Saturday

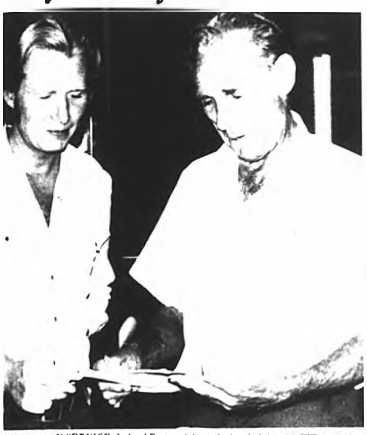
JENSEN BEACH–The annual Izaak Walton League (IWL) fishing contest for boys and girls will be held on Jensen Beach Causeway Saturday, Sept. 27, from 9 a.m. to noon.

More than 250 prizes will be given to the boys and girls for their legal limit catches.

The contest is part of the IWL celebration of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

PLANNING--Working most of the summer to plan the new student year, John O Conner, head of the athletic department, Billie Swainson, assistant to the dean and Peter Navaretta, dean of students, put the finishing touches on their plans for 650 students coming to school this week

Infirmary and health service



NEW HEALTH SERVICE--Leland Patton, left, is the head of the new FIT student health service that will be operating this year. He discusses last minute planning for the facility with plant manager Ira Belcher

JENSEN BEACH--This Fall, FIT will have a new Infirmary and Health Service on its campus. The intent of the service is to fill the health needs of the student body in all aspects ranging from illness to accident management and follow up care.

It will be located in the North Dormitory where it is easily accessible to the students and staff alike.

The infirmary will be supervised by the campus physician and directed by a medical technician. It will offer facilities for the treatment of injuries due to accident, illness and other cases not necessitating hospitalization. In addition, it will provide therapeutic and pharmaceutical supplies, immunizations, complete examining facilities, and an extensive spectrum of laboratory screening procedures arranged in conjunction with the school's Medical Technology program.

Students suffering from an illness will be seen during sick call which occurs daily and emergency procedures provide for continuous protection in the event of accidents. Several area physicians, Dr. Carter of Jensen Beach, and Dr. Allison of Stuart, have volunteered their services in support of this aspect of student health care.

The FIT infirmary service has been designed to strengthen the college community by enhancing its ability to fill the needs of the students, many of whom are living far away from their homes and family doctors.

The Health Service will open with the beginning of the first quarter and will remain open for the entire school year.

Begins in January

Underwater program is new at Jensen's FIT

JENSEN BEACH--"Sink or swim!" has been a common introduction to many watery environments. But there must be a safer way to learn to work on bridge pilings or offshore oil rigs.

A grant of $18,753 has been made to help the FIT-Jensen Beach Campus initiate a program that will lead to an Associate of Science Degree in Underwater Technology, as announced by Dr. Hugh Popenoe, Director of the State University System of Florida Sea Grant Program.

Effective immediately, the grant will be administered through FIT's School of Marine and Environmental Technology in Jensen Beach. The major goals of the project, according to the proposal submitted to the Office of Sea Grant, are to provide industry with trained underwater technicians, serve as a model program for other institutions, and provide students with a high employment potential program.

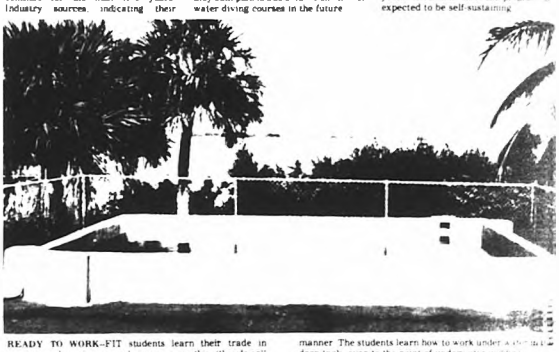
Need for the program was documented by a survey of industry requirements. In January 1975 a shortage of 300 to 500 trained diver technicians existed, a trend likely to continue for the next five years. Industry sources, indicating their support of the program, have already promised substantial matching funds in the form of equipment.

Only two similar degree programs exist in the U.S. A unique feature of the FIT program, according to James W. Woodberry, principal investigator and head of the Department of Underwater Technology, will be the required support courses in Underwater Emergency Medical Training. Other required courses include intermediate through advanced diving, basic and underwater photography, machine shop practices, instruction in both topside and underwater welding, compressor maintenance and repair, submersible piloting, surface supplied and mixed gas diving, and underwater tools and hydraulic systems.

Students graduating with the proposed technical training may benefit their employers and themselves through rapid advancement in specialized "in-house" training programs. Associate investigator and assistant dean Peter Navaretta hopes to integrate the underwater technology curriculum with marine sciences and they both plan to add saturation and hot water diving courses in the future.

The Jensen Beach campus, acquired by FIT in 1972, houses the School of Marine and Environmental Technology. A Diver Training Tank 25 feet deep was completed in March 1975, and a modern marine vessel and maintenance facility will be added along a service pier extending into the [illegible] River. Within a few miles of the campus are located such training sites as a 3[illegible] feet deep muddy basin in the St. [illegible] River with its 2 inch [illegible] visibility; the St. Lucie Nuclear [illegible] Plant Outfall System, varying [illegible] current and visibility conditions; both the St. Lucie and Fort [illegible] Inlets, and freshwater sinks with [illegible] silt bottoms and depths up to [illegible].

From July through December [illegible] plans include modifying [illegible] facilities, obtaining additional [illegible] ment, and hiring personnel. [illegible] instruction begins in January [illegible] staff size expected to increase [illegible] five times in the first two years of [illegible] program. Based on favorable [illegible] by the Office of Sea Grant, [illegible] funding is anticipated for the [illegible] years. After that time the program is expected to be self-sustaining.



READY TO WORK--FIT students learn their trade in marine and environmental sciences in this "hands-on" manner. The students learn how to work under a variety of deep tank, even to the point of underwater welding.

Met fishing tourney is expanded

TOURNEY LEADERS—Johnny Crawford, left, of Jensen Beach, has been selected as one of the coordinators for the Metropolitan South Florida Fishing Tournament. He is shown with Vic Dunaway, tourney director. C. Scott Fletcher is the other coordinator in Martin County.

JENSEN BEACH—The Met Tournament, oldest and best known public fishing contest in the nation, will undergo the most dramatic expansion in its 40-year history next season when it adds three new angling divisions and extends its boundaries to take in the Florida Gold Coast from Key West north through Stuart. Also included for the first time will be Florida's biggest bass hole, Lake Okeechobee.

As before, the Met will operate in Greater Miami, the Florida Keys, Everglades National Park, the Ten Thousand Islands and certain portions of the Western Bahamas.

With the new face goes a new name—Metropolitan South Florida Fishing Tournament, replacing the name "Metropolitan Miami" which the famous contest has worn since its establishment in 1936.

Sponsored as a public service by the Miami Herald and by Coca-Cola, the Met runs from mid-December to mid-April annually and is open to anyone. There is no entry fee or advance registration. More than 100 official weighing stations are located throughout tournament territory, most of them at public marinas, docks, piers, tackle shops and fishing camps. Entry is as easy as filling out a simple form describing the angler's catches or releases.

The only requirement is the signature of a witness to the catch.

To make the Met as appealing to the casual fisherman as to the avid angler, competitive categories are divided into two broad groups: General Divisions and Casting Divisions.

The four General Divisions impose few regulations and are based simply on line test: Unlimited, 20-pound, 12-Pound and 6-Pound.

Three Casting Divisions offer specialized challenges. They are Spinning (10-pound line), Plug Casting (15-pound line) and Fly Casting (15-pound leader). In these divisions, entries are restricted to fish taken by casting and retrieving artificial lures.

A separate Junior Division, maintained for contestants less than 15 years old, however, juniors also are eligible to compete in the other divisions.

First-place awards are offered in each of the eight divisions for 24 different species of saltwater and freshwater game fish. In all, resident and visiting anglers will be able to chase a total of 272 championship plaques and trophies, plus a number of other major trophies for outstanding angling achievements.

In addition, the Met awards thousands of personalized certificates, each with a sew-on jacket emblem, for entries of exceptional weight and for releases of game fish.

For many years, more than 90 per cent of the Met's entry total has been made up of fish caught and turned loose alive. The tournament encourages weight entries only for "bragging size" fish which most anglers would bring back in any event.

Though comparatively few in relation to releases, fish which reach the scales at Met weighing stations traditionally include some of the most noteworthy catches in all angling. Numerous world records have been set in Met competition, and each year many Met entries make headlines in outdoor columns of newspapers and magazines all over the country.

The Met Tournament has long been considered a leading influence nationwide in the development of new and challenging light-tackle specialities, and also in the refinement of fishing tackle and techniques.

Eligible species in the Met are Atlantic pompano, Allison tuna, amberjack, barracuda, black bass, blackfin tuna, bluefish, bonefish, bonito, cobia, dolphin, grouper, jack, jewfish, kingfish, ladyfish, mackerel, mako shark, blue and white marlin, permit, pickerel, pompano, redfish, sailfish, shark, snapper, snook, swordfish, tarpon, trout, bluefin tuna, wahoo and Warsaw grouper.

Moving Ahead with a New Look.

We are approaching our nation's 200th birthday. Many events are taking place and are in the planning stage across the nation and in Martin County to celebrate this historical occasion.

Of course, here in Martin County we are preparing to celebrate our county's semicentennial. We at First National will be joining in to help celebrate these great events through the coming months.

We thought it appropriate and befitting to change our graphic look in both our public service and customer service advertising during the next year.

We have also adopted the motto "Moving Ahead for America and Martin County" because we feel it best expresses our greatest expectations for our future. Whether it's offering the finest in modern banking services or participating in worthy community affairs, you know that First National is moving ahead... moving ahead for America and Martin County.

Poor Sewall's Point

It was once called the winter home of presidents

It was also supposed to be Palm Beach and Henry Flagler wanted to put the railroad down the peninsula with lush estates on either side But the posh estate owners wouldn't have it They sent him packing and he built Palm Beach somewhere else

As the prices went up, and as it became difficult to hire domestics, the estates began to deteriorate Palatial homes with lovely gardens gave way to smaller lots, and then the subdividoins broke down the exclusivity of Sewall's Point

In the main, Sewall's Point was for the wealthy, or near-wealthy Most of them were retired, or retired in business to keep themselves busy

Soon, more subdivisions grew up along the narrow, two-lane Sewall's Point Road, kept narrow and two-lane to discourage the rabble of Jensen Beach and Stuart from using the road to go to and from

The town was formed to control zoning and preserve the unique character of a residential community The town council did just that

The council and some interested citizens bought a city water service by chipping in a few hundred thousand bucks, signing up, and letting Southern Gulf bring them the water from Stuart

As the estates were broken down into subdivisions, young people began moving into the town It was still run by the older folks, but the character slowly was changing, changing from wealthy old folks who retire to cut lawns or run for the town council or play golf, or go to board meetings up north occasionally, to upper-middle income young families who have kids living next door to the wealthy older people

Aye, there's the rub

So one day some of the younger men got elected to the town council, and they asked what was being done for kids

The old timers said that the kids could use the Jensen Beach and Stuart recreation facilities, because the people of Sewall's Point didn't have land, and, after all, it was so expensive, and after all, Sewall's Point is a retired town

The carefully laid plans of zoning regulation and residential character attracted just those who could louse up a retirement by paying taxes and asking for things for the kids and building tennis courts, and back boards and even swimming in the city portion of the river

The hundred or so voters of a few years ago suddenly found 519 registered in the town And, of all things, 186 Democrats had slipped under the wire still not enough to challenge the 296 Republicans, but an indicator of things to come

Poor Sewall's Point what to do?

Alice doesn't

At the risk of sounding like sexists The Mirror doesn't support the October 29 strike of NOW's women

The strike is designed to prove to the nation how much it depends on women and is based on a similar strike held in 1971 The title of the strike is "Alice doesn't" so named by the militant National Organization of Women

NOW is asking women not to work in the home or out of it, spend any money on groceries, services or transportation, volunteer for anything, or provide any support for non-feminist political causes or issues in business, government, churches or unions

As the editor and the news editor of The Mirror are the only full-time males on a female-dominated (and we know domination) newspaper, we feel that all women should work on October 29

Gee whiz, that's the day the paper comes out

All right, Hickey, back to work

Welcome, students

It is another year at Florida Institute of Technology in Jensen Beach, and we want to welcome the students back, and welcome newcomers to our community

FIT has grown in the three short years that it has been on campus in Jensen Beach The old "SOMET" (School of Marine and Environmental Technology) has given way (thank goodness) to FIT–Jensen Beach.

We welcome the change, for FIT is an important part of our town, and we feel a part of FIT

The 650 students that attend our campus are people interested in learning the "hands on" philosophy of education that we think is extremely necessary to the future of America, especially in the marine science field.

Students will find many things to keep them busy This means that they will spend most of their time studying and will find little time to have time on their hands But, if they do have some time, they will find that there are many recreational advantages in Jensen Beach.

There are beaches that are unspoiled to welcome the swimmer and surfer There is a fine complex for sports, including tennis, softball and track at the Langford Park facility just down the road

There are other entertainments that the students don't need a newspaper to tell them about, and we are certain that they will find them.

Welcome back, FIT students. It's good to have you.

Dick Campbell

Topless is forgotten

I'd like to say that some irate citizen broke into the office and held us all at gunpoint, forcing me to hand over the topless photo

I'd like to say that the film didn't turn out on the topless photograph and we would have to shoot it all over again

I just forgot about it That's all

On Wednesday afternoon the phone began ringing again and again

I thought this was the week you were going to run the topless photograph Where is it? they would all question

It was right there sitting on my desk

I had become locked in the layout room and darkroom all afternoon, making pictures and negatives and other things and making up some pages, and being so busy that I forgot all about it

So we are printing it on the editorial page

Rightfully so, too, for it's an editorial opinion about the noise going on about topless things

Personally, I've never been in a topless club Not that anything is wrong with that it's just that I don't believe too much in spectator sports

It is even difficult for me to watch the Dolphins play I keep seeing a block I want to make or a pass I could have caught or a tackle I should have made

By the time the Dolphin game is over I'm sore and tired

But, it had to be printed, so I'm putting it here on the page of opinion It is my opinion of the need for an ordinance covering the topless problem

(Cut-string)

The last thing we need in Martin County is someone to legislate the morals of the people If people want to go to topless places, they should be able to go to topless places If dirty book places want to open they should let them open

Why? Frankly, who is going to tell the government where to stop?

Just what is pornography? Just what is dirty?

It would be easy to say that all newspapers in Martin County are pornography if the county commission decided it didn't like what the newspapers printed The county would then fit the newspapers under the pornography ban We would be out of business and there would be no dissent toward policies of the county

Sounds far fetched?

This is exactly the explanation used by Justice William O Douglas in answer to such a question at a meeting at the United States Supreme Court I was there And I believe him

The marketplace is the place that dictates whether or not the people need this so-called protection

Topless places would be out of business if the people didn't want to go there Many are going out of business due to the lack of business

Porno stores would go out of business if the people decided not to buy the goods on sale

It is up to the people They should decide what they want or do not want, and their buying power is the answer to regulating what is in print and what is not, or what is on stage and what is not

Of course the topless business got a boost from the proposed ban by the county just as the stage show "Hair" became a hit after it was banned You know the story of books that have been "Banned in Boston" They become instant hits

The Martin County Commission need not become worried about the people's morals There is too much other work to do

The Holy Bible is still the number one selling book in America, as it has been for many years That tells something about the people

Charlie Cates

Budgets, buttons

The person occupying the stool next to me at a local hash house asked me what I was going to write about next week that was funny

Since the budgets had been announced a couple days ago, my mood was a shade darker than usual, so I replied that I didn't know anything funny

Later in the day I got to thinking there must be a funny side to the budgets

So I took another look at the $13 million plus school budget and found that it was up almost 2 mills more than this year's figure

I found no chuckles here

But I found that the local effort by taxpayers had increased over the years to the point that it is $3 73 per cent compared to only 27 54 per cent state effort Few other Florida counties can make that statement

So I smiled with some satisfaction knowing that I live in a prosperous county

Also, 64 state counties are below Martin County in assessed property value That makes the smile broader but no chuckles

And then I looked at the county budget, some $7 million plus My mood got dark again The new budget of the County Commission is about $450 000 more than the present figure and includes the first of five payments on the Executive Plaza building–$237 700 That's not very funny

Then when the commissioners cut out $50,000 from the road and bridge fund slated for bike trails I was at a narrow line between laughing and crying

But then County Administrator Jack Noble assured me that the State Department of Transportation (DOT) had promised the county $250 000 for bridge work etc and $50 000 of that would be budgeted for bike trails I suppose a horse laugh

Anytime you depend on the state coming through with $250 000 you gotta be kidding

But along came the first Saturday college football game and Tennessee was taking on UCLA College football on a Saturday afternoon has a way of making a fella forget budgets even a Tennessee football fans were taking their lumps from the UCLA team

And during the game the television cameraman went into the crowd apparently looking for another pretty girl to give our eyes a treat when he zoomed onto a guy without his shirt showing an ample girth with a big belly button

I had a belly laugh since I thought that ABC must be trying to get back something CBS has ruled that navels are a no-no for Cher during the television family hour

Now I've never seen Cher's belly button on television, but since I'm a belly button man I'm sorry I've missed seeing it It must be something more than the ordinary belly button

It's little news items like Cher's belly button crisis and Cat Futch dancing topless on a submarine that will take your mind off budgets

Veteran's Day changes

WASHINGTON–To most Americans, the date October 27 has no real significance Yet, according to federal law, that is the day set aside for commemorating Veterans Day this year

In 1968, the Congress decided to play games with the calendar, moving holidays around to give workers five three-day weekends a year And, the fourth Monday in October was set aside for Veterans Day

There was real significance to the original date, November 11 It was 11 o'clock that day in 1918 that World War I ended the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month

But the 90th Congress in its determination to play with the calendar decided the significance of the date meant nothing

The other changes were equally as ridiculous George Washington was born February 22 But this year because Congress mandated it be celebrated on the third Monday of February, the observance was held February 17

And Memorial Day once celebrated May 30 because that was the date first selected to honor the dead of the Civil War has been moved to the last Monday in May thus year falling on May 26

Christopher Columbus fared as well as George Washington Instead of being celebrated on October 12, the date originally selected to commemorate discovery of the new world (Columbus Day is now the second Monday of October This year, it falls on October 13

Only Labor Day remained untouched It has always been commemorated as the first Monday of September so it escaped unscathed

As happens all too often the (victims of the 90th Congress in revamping the calendar weren't received with great deal of enthusiasm by the public

In fact, veterans organizations throughout the nation refused to accept the switch in dates for Veterans Day also known as Armistice Day

They galvanized their members into action And as a result, 46 states either refused to accept the change in dates or accepted it and then switched back to November 11

And, I'm pleased to say, Florida was one of the 46 states refusing to go along with the whims of the Congress

Finally, after seven years of confusion the Congress has seen the error of its ways By a 410 to 1 vote the House has approved legislation restoring Veterans Day to its proper date, effective November 11 The House action came almost a week after the Senate had approved the move by a voice vote

Actually, I would hope the president would go further perhaps even as far as inspiring the Congress to correct some of its other errors such as voting to buy foreign friends with aid instead of developing massive give-away programs which inspire people to work and many, many more

In the meantime, however, I am pleased to see the Congress has finally responded to the legitimate demands of the people and has taken steps to restore Veterans Day to its rightful place

It was a step long overdue And the veterans of Florida and the rest of the nation deserve a great deal of credit for bringing it about

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

I congratulate you and your staff for the excellent coverage you have given to the proposed Port St Lucie Hospital Of course, your efforts are [illegible] when the subject appears to have been at the last meeting at Community College

However, where are all the extra beds we were told about I had occasion, my wife to be the Martin County Hospital last Sunday evening and she was put in the very last room that was available And this is the time of year when so many residents are away and very few visitors are with us

What in the world will we do when the busy season is with us Will we put patients in the hallways or even storerooms or what will we do

In my humble opinion, [illegible] not done their school work properly when they inform us that we already have a surplus of hospital beds in this area This was proven quite conclusively last Sunday evening

Nothing is safe anymore

For two weeks I have been practically standing shotgun over my desk here at The Mirror to guard my various assortment of clutter from the clutches of our business manager Osa Campbell

To most Mirror staffers, Osa is most commonly known as the "white tornado" She can, in record time and under normal circumstances, sweep through the office, clean off eight desks, change files and re-arrange more furniture than you could believe possible

Currently The Mirror office is being consolidated and even the veteran staffers are having difficulty in keeping track of their typewriters, desks and chairs

I have been around to witness three Mirror moves and I am well aware of what can happen to the stacks of old clippings last year's phone book complete with notations, picture negatives and yesterday's messages

However one day last week, with several errands to run, I received assurance the general area of my desk would be relatively safe for an hour or so.

It was late afternoon before I got to Stuart

Being in somewhat of a hurry, I pulled my car up close to the entrance, packed up the documents from the seat and quickly darted into a Stuart bank to leave them.

In my usual fashion I had pulled the keys from the ignition and pitched them under the front seat

Returning only moments later I noticed my car door standing open.

Somewhat puzzled, I quickly deduced that even if I had left the door open, it would have swung shut due to the incline of the parking lot

Nearing the car I could see one pair of feet clad in hose and high heels protruding from the car door

Walking closer, I peered in to determine where the body was that went with the feet I was looking at

Right there before my eyes was a petite young figure in a bends down position leaning across the car seat and obviously searching the floor

Amazed to the point of being speechless, I stood quietly by for what appeared to be several minutes while this young lady completed her search

Then it happened.

As she began to pull her body up and out of my car, apparently she had found whatever it was she wanted.

"Good afternoon," I said as she stood up.

"Oh! Hello," she answered as she gently straightened her pretty dress and hair with one hand while clutching my car keys in the other

"I am sorry, I must have been in your way," she said with a big smile as she turned to walk away

"I bed your pardon, but this is my car and those keys you have are also mine," I said

Stopping short a few feet away, she turned briefly, smiled again and continued on to the rear of the car

"Please, would you mind, young lady, I am in a hurry and I would like you to give me my keys," I said in a more serious tone

At that point I have no doubt I had probably witnessed Anna Oliver's most embarrassing moment as she came scurrying toward me with an out-stretched hand clutching the keys

"I am terribly sorry," she repeated several times

"I forgot," added me to come out and get his car keys from under the seat, get in the trunk and bring him some material he had left behind He said it was a green car parked next to the east entrance," she said, adding, "Oh my gosh, this next car is green too I'm sorry, I'm sorry"

"That's quite alright," I said, adding, "I too have difficulty locating the things my boss moves"

Hearing is set on town budget

...WALL'S POINT–Town Commis... have proposed a $133,000 budget ...r 2 mills for the coming fiscal year, ...d a public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24 , on the budget.

Commissioners agreed on the budget and millage at a workshop session last week.

At the session, commissioners debated over whether the town should ...ake steps toward being a retirement ...mmunity or provide facilities for families with children.

Commissioner Frank Clarke, at 65 ...e oldest member of the commission ...d the one who prepares the proposed budget, suggested reducing the property tax to 1.5 mills in order to give residents on fixed income relief from taxes.

Clarke said that the community is basically a retirement village, and people on fixed incomes need a tax break.

Commissioner John Williams, at 40 ...the town's youngest commissioner objected to Clarke's comment.

Williams noted that the commission cannot plan programs just for retirees.

Williams and Commissioner Dick Grandield noted that a number of residents have expressed interest in the town acquiring land for a park.

North Port men play low net tourney

PORT ST. LUCIE–Low net scores was the weekly play of the Northport Men's Association at the Holiday Golf Club in Stuart last week.

Bert Moore had low net in flight A with 63. Hank Sewell had a 62 to top flight B. In flight C, Julius Wisan carded a net of 64, and Dick Leiberth won flight D with 63.

Earl Graham was closest to the pin on the seventh hole and tied for low putts with Walt Kramel with 26.

REWARDING–There is nothing more rewarding to a committee who has worked hard planning an event, than to have the affair successful. The Port St. Lucie Yacht Club boat-a-cade and luncheon held Saturday was truly a big success. Pictured above, left to right, is the committee who planned the outing, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Corcoran and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Troutman.

Water bill dispute settled

JENSEN BEACH–The staff of the state Public Service Commission (PSC) appears to have settled a dispute over water bills between residents of Leilani Heights and developer George Apostolopoulos.

Residents of the South Savanna Road subdivision complained to the state agency when their water bills for August went up dramatically.

John Boyles, head of the PSC's water and sewer division, said the utility company has agreed not to collect the big bills they sent out to customers but will mail a letter explaining how the problem occurred and that the full rate will be applied in the future.

Apostolopoulos, developer of the subdivision and owner of the utility system, said the sudden increase came when he discovered his employees misread the water meters for the past six to eight months.

He said the meter readers have been charging customers for only one-tenth of the amount of water actually used because they had not recorded the last zero on the meter which remains stationary instead of turning as does the rest of the dial.

Students seek housing and part-time employment

JENSEN BEACH–September means a population explosion in Jensen Beach, as some three hundred fifty of the 650 returning FIT students seek reasonably priced furnished quarters within easy commuting distance of the campus. These are students who have been in attendance for one year or more, and are no longer required to live in the dormitories.

More than fifty veterans and married students are also expected to report to school in Jensen Beach for their first year, and will be in need of housing. Most of these students are twenty five or older, and will be residing in the area for the next four years. Many area property owners have reported that students have been excellent tenants, and they are looking forward to their return.

Students will also be seeking part time employment to help finance their education. Both male and female, the students possess a variety of skills, and can fill almost any slot in the employment field. In addition to weekends, most students have planned their classroom schedules in a manner that will allow them a number of free hours on week days.

The FIT staff is most appreciative of the reception students have received in the community in the past, and will welcome calls from those who might have offers of available housing or employment.

GOOD FOOD–Herbert Feller was one member of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club who seemed to enjoy the boat a-cade luncheon held last Saturday in Stuart.

'Best-ever' boat-a-cade

PORT ST. LUCIE–It was boats-a-weigh last Saturday as 150 members and guests of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club made their way boat-a-cade style to the Bay Harbor Club. Sixteen boats made the trip.

The fleet was led by Commodore Mike Reeb, and Fleet Captain Bill Holzapfel, assisted by Bill Hoover, directed docking procedures.

Following the cocktail hour and buffet luncheon of chicken, shrimp creole, ham and all sorts of goodies, Norman Kaiser furnished recorded music for everyone's listening and dancing pleasure.

Les and Pearl Troutman chaired the event, assisted by Bill and Lillian Corcoran, Harold and Dorothy Hazell, Fred and Nan Young, Tom and Helen Scott and Herb and Marguerite Feller.

They were given an enthusiastic round of applause for what was dubbed "one of the best boat a-cades ever."

Nergard will address Republicans

PORT ST. LUCIE–Jack La France, program chairman of the Port St. Lucie Republican Club, announces that State Representative Charles Nergard will be guest of honor and featured speaker at a meeting of the club to be held at the 25A Building on Thursday, October 2.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. with a covered dish supper. Those attending are asked to bring a salad, dessert or main dish for four persons as well as their own table service. Coffee will be served by club social hostesses Phoebe Williams and Pearl Troutman.

Following Nergard's 7 p.m. talk, a regular business session will be held at which time the slate of candidates for 1976 club officers and directors will be announced.

All Republicans are invited to attend the meeting. The Port St. Lucie Republican Club meets the first Tuesday of every month.

Programs need SACC support

PORT ST. LUCIE–Weldon Lewis, St. Lucie County Administrator for eight years, attended the State Association of County Commissioners of Florida held in Kissimmee from Sunday through Tuesday of this week. He was accompanied by his wife Jean.

Lewis feels that a number of legislative programs need the support of the association and believes the conference provided an appropriate background for discussion.

He also feels the SACC conference resulted in renewed interest in the 5th and 6th cent gasoline tax issue in trying to return those revenues to the counties.

Methodists make changes

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie Methodist Church, with a new pastor in the person of Reverend E. Keith Ewing, is changing to its fall-winter schedule effective September 28.

Worship services will be held at 8:45 and 11 a.m. with church school at 9:45 a.m. A nursery is provided at both services.

Roberts tops field

PORT ST. LUCIE–Pearl Roberts ...ter set 68 topped the field in St. Lucie Indian's Golf Association "Two Ballgame" play last week.

...ame ... winners in flights were:

Mayor hosts dinner

PORT ST. LUCIE–St. Lucie Village Mayor Pat Beacom, the newest member of the St. Lucie River Council of Governments, will host the group for a dinner at the Pelican Yacht Club Thursday Sept. 25.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST–Among the distinguished guests appearing at the 69th meeting of the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce was U.S. Representative Skip Bafalis.

Community fund

Area captains added as drive is nearing

JENSEN BEACH–Eighteen areas of solicitation have been set thus far in the organizational drive of the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund, according to LaVaughn Tilton, president.

As the drive began gathering momentum toward an October 20 kickoff, board members contacted residents to take areas for the $18,000 drive.

Mrs. Tilton said that it would be possible that the drive goal would change, as several agencies had asked to be included after the deadline, and after the goal was set. The applications for participation will be considered by the board in the near future.

"Everyone we have contacted has responded enthusiastically when asked to help with the drive, and all seemed pleased to have our original drive in force again," she said.

The door to door campaign will begin with a kickoff breakfast at the Rio Civic Club on Monday, October 20. Frank Wacha, former county commissioner, will be the keynote speaker. Richard Neeson, district American Legion Chaplain, will give the prayer. Area captains will then be given materials to proceed with their drive.

Mrs. Tilton asked that the status of employees participating in the Martin County United Way Drive be clarified.

"People employed by Grumman, Southern Bell and the Martin County Schools have asked what they can do to support the Jensen-Rio drive," Mrs. Tilton said. "The Martin County United Way has employees withholding pledges with many industries and businesses."

This is a matter of personal choice. People can give to whatever drive they wish," she explained.

Both the Martin County Council on Aging and the Jensen Beach Lions Club have offered volunteers to help with canvassing.

Thirty-four foreign students on FIT campus

JENSEN BEACH–It is not unusual for students from all of the fifty states to be enrolled on the FIT Jensen Beach campus. This year, FIT will also host thirty-four foreign students, representing twelve countries.

Financial aid is generally not available to foreign students, meaning that they are completely responsible for their own obligations while studying in this country. Many, however, are the recipients of scholarships made available through their own government. These scholarships provide full payment of tuition and fees, plus an allowance for living expenses.

Countries represented this year are Canada, Mexico, Ecuador, Puerto Rico, Republic of Panama, England, British West Indies, Nigeria, Norway, Iran, and Kuwait.

All foreign students are proficient in the English language, and have proved to be an asset to the university and the community.

OPENING DAMPENED–True to form for a project plagued with one problem after another since its inception, even the official opening of the Port St. Lucie Turnpike Interchange was dampened by rain Monday afternoon. Regardless of the weather conditions, approximately twenty-five persons appeared for the ribbon cutting ceremonies.

$13.7 million school budget

JENSEN BEACH–Almost 64 per cent of the $13.7 million 1975-76 Martin County School Board budget will come from local sources compared to 52.19 per cent for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

The School Board, which received the budget last week, apparently will levy 8 mills this year, an increase of almost 2 mills over this year.

A public hearing on the budget will be held today, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the commission meeting room at the courthouse.

Compared to the 63.27 per cent contribution to the budget, only 27.54 per cent will come from state funds and another 9.17 from federal sources.

In the 1973-74 fiscal year, state sources provided some 53.70 per cent with local sources adding 40.61 per cent.

The big jump in local sources comes about from property assessment increases.

A breakdown of the appropriations show $11 million for operating funds, $343,037 for debt service, and $1.2 million for capital improvements.

Ambulance shed is planned

JENSEN BEACH–A shelter for the Jensen Area Samaritans' ambulances will be built on south Savanna Road on property donated by Jensen Beach Realtor Ransom Tilton, the president of the volunteer ambulance group announced Monday.

President George Krauss said that the ambulance house will be constructed south of Pine Lake Village with Martin County help.

Krauss pointed out that the Samaritans, dedicated to providing free ambulance service to the area, will expand their service (to) the North River Shores area.

"We will have an ambulance in the North River Shores area Saturday, Sept. 27, and Sunday Sept. 28, to acquaint the people with our operations," Krauss said.

"We need ambulance drivers and emergency medical technicians," Krauss said. "Anyone wishing to help should attend our next meeting Oct. 1 at the Langford Park Fieldhouse."

All emergency ambulance calls are dispatched from Martin County Civil Defense and the telephone number is 287-5575.

Hannum and Estes win top honors

PORT ST. LUCIE–Roy Hannum and Dee Estes turned back the challenges of Marv Jensen and Tom Jelnick, and Bill Hyde and Rudy Broadman to win the partnership honors in the weekly tournament of the St. Lucie Country Club Men's Golf Association played September 11 over the Saints course.

Leading teams were:

Estes and Hannum, 142; Jensen and Jelnick, Hyde and Brodman, 143; Warren Thorpe and Bill Dunleavy, 144; George Montooth and Myron Thomas, 146; Ed Fessel and Howard Hickman, Buck Vernoia and Sam Dewhirst, West Lat/Gour and Barney Mingus, 146.

The hot, muggy weather affected playing conditions with only one contestant, Vernoia, turning in a sub-80 score for the day. His low net of 66 topped Montooth's by a single stroke.

North Port Golf League names winners

PORT ST. LUCIE–The weekly tournament of the North Port Golf League was played Tuesday at the Holiday Country Club in Stuart.

Low net winners in flights were Vince Metziger, flight A, with 59; Lyle Thomas, flight B, with 65; Harold Hazell took flight C with 64, and flight D went to Ken Wildfong with 66.

The week's nets were based on local handicapping. Beginning next week, the league will use U.S.G.A. handicaps.

Bert Moore was closest to the pin and Ed Rombach had the least number of putts with 26.

Edris Kessler takes honors

PORT ST. LUCIE–In Women's Nine Hole Golf Association "Low net and putts" play last week, Edris Kessler took top honors in both categories. She led the first flight with 30 and putted only 13 times. Inda Fiesler's 36 took second honors.

Second flight winner was Nancy Vernoia with 37 net, and she had a chip in. Kay Huber was second with 42.

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH–Led by a three-some of tenacious defensive teams, the Port St. Lucie Vikings' three Junior Football League teams all tied or won their 1973 openers at Langford Park this past Saturday night.

In the Lower Division's "A" game, both teams battled to a 0-0 tie, but the game was probably the best insofar as equally matched personnel. Meanwhile, teams representing Port St. Lucie in the Senior and the Lower "B" divisions won their games.

Led by Eric Price, the Jensen Beach Sharks seemed to have a good shot at upsetting the Port St. Lucie Vikings, but it was not to be.

Price, who carried on the first four plays of the game, ended up with 39 yards on only 12 carries, but that wasn't enough. In the early going, neither side could get any kind of an offense going at all.

Early in the first quarter, Port St. Lucie had forced the Sharks all the way back to their own ten yard line, but Price & Co. quickly moved themselves out of the hole.

The game's momentum shifted back and forth with no score until the fourth quarter, when Port St. Lucie finally mounted the killing drive. The series of plays had begun halfway through the third quarter, and did not end until 5:22 remained in the football game. The capper to the 9-play, 28-yard drive was a one yard quarterback sneak by James McCorkle. That made the score 6-0, and that's the way it stayed.

Meanwhile, in the Lower Division "A" game, both teams featured fantastic efforts, but they just could not move the ball into the end zone.

In the Senior Division game, Port St. Lucie proved that they're a team to reckon with, as they shut out the Razorbacks, 16-0.

John Geraghty and Pop Delaney had 14 and 13 yard runs early in the ballgame, which put the ball at the PSL 17, but they couldn't cash in. PSL's first big break came with about 13 minutes remaining in the second quarter. After recovering a fumble at the JB 4, PSL's Kevin Albrecht scored on the third play to make the score 7-0. Later, Mark Wilson scored on a 20-yard interception return, and PSL also got a safety to make the final 16-0.

In other games around the league, Port Salerno's Lower Division team tied Palm City, 0-0, while the Upper Division annialated Palm City, 56-0.

In High School action, Martin County lost to Forest Hill, 6-0, while Ft. Pierce Central (ranked 8th in the state), and Vero Beach (5th) each won their second games.

Port St. Lucie teams impressive in openers

Christmas crafts class offered

PORT ST. LUCIE–The CESA Community Center is now taking registrations for a Christmas Crafts Class, an eight week course with a registration fee of $7 for the full course.

Scheduled to start on Thursday, October 16, the class will meet weekly from 1 to 3:30 p.m., under the direction of Mrs. Susan Hamby, director of the Fort Pierce Community Center. Mrs. Hamby has many years of experience.

The objective of the course is attractive decorations, small gifts, Christmas cards, and related holiday items.

Vikings to celebrate

JENSEN BEACH–Viking boats with their colorful square sails and Norwegian Americans with their colorful bunads (native costumes) will be part of the holiday scene for the sixth annual Leif Erikson Day celebration on Jensen Beach Causeway Sunday, Oct. 5.

More than 500 Sons of Norway members are expected to attend the celebration, and participate in the event.

The causeway program will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday and will feature the Orlando-based U.S. Navy band in concert, a parade of bunads, a pageant recreating the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D. and races featuring sexerings (six-man sailing boats that were brought from Norway) and a fish fry.

Joan S. Lein, general chairperson of the celebration, said the private portion of the weekend for Sons of Norway members will center at the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island.

Mrs. Lein and other members of the Sons of Norway held a coordinating meeting for the Leif Erikson Day celebration last Sunday at Holiday Inn.

Sons of Norway members will hold a variety of events at Holiday Inn Friday and Saturday, Oct. 3-4, including a banquet, talent show and dance, leading into the Sunday public portion on the Causeway.

Mrs. Metcalf has returned

PORT ST. LUCIE–Mrs. Carol Metcalf of 1279 Coral Reef Street, Port St. Lucie, returned Monday evening from a three-month tour of the midwest and Alaska.

After flying to Seattle, she boarded a cruise ship, sailing the inside passage to Skagway. Then it was the Circle Tour of Alaska on the narrow gauge railroad, over White Horse Pass, along the Trail of the Yukon Gold Rush of 1898, including Mt. McKinley, and winding up in White Horse, Dawson, Fairbanks.

Mrs. Metcalf enthusiastically recommends Alaska as a "must" for travelers, adding "I have traveled all over Europe and the mainland U.S.A. and have never experienced such beauty as there is in Alaska."

Mrs. Metcalf is a teacher of piano and organ in the Fort Pierce, Port St. Lucie, Stuart and Jensen Beach area.

Edris Kessler takes honors

PORT ST. LUCIE–In Women's Nine Hole Golf Association "Low net and putts" play last week, Edris Kessler took top honors in both categories. She led the first flight with 30 and putted only 13 times. Inda Fiesler's 36 took second honors.

Second flight winner was Nancy Vernoia with 37 net, and she had a chip in. Kay Huber was second with 42.

IRCC sponsors sewing class

PORT ST. LUCIE–Indian River Community College is offering a sewing class at the CESA Building beginning Friday, October 10, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

A change in IRCC policy requires participants to register and pay fees at the first class meeting. No new students will be accepted after October 16.

Shirley Fallin of IRCC will be teaching the class. Basic and intermediate sewing instruction is planned, including learning to measure oneself and make necessary pattern alterations to assure a good fit.

Experienced seamstresses will be provided the opportunity to upgrade skills to work with the newer fabrics and patterns of today.

Obituaries

VIVIAN P. SEAMAN

JENSEN BEACH–Vivian P. Seaman, 66, died Saturday, September 20, at Martin Memorial Hospital.

A native of Missouri, she had lived in Jensen Beach for six and a half years. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church, Stuart, the Methodist Women's Society, "We Gleaners" Church Circle, Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the Jensen Beach Women's Association, and the Garden Club of Jensen Beach.

Survivors include her husband, William J. Seaman of Jensen Beach; one daughter, Mrs. John Hall, Savannah, Georgia; two brothers, Joe Pickett and Carl Pickett, both of Missouri; and two sisters, Mrs. John Ditto and Miss Lucy Pickett, both of Missouri.

Services were held on Tuesday, September 23, at the Aycock Funeral Home Chapel, Jensen Beach, with Reverend Morris S. McCastlain of First United Methodist Church officiating.

Friends who wish may contribute to the American Cancer Society.

SHORT RIDE–From Commercial Street and Savanna Road intersection to Linda Drive, Jayne Thorburn has 740 feet of bike path to ride on before riding area streets to her home on Skyline Drive. From the intersection south to Jensen Beach Elementary School where she is a student, nine-year-old Jayne has a narrow sidewalk to ride on.

BY MARY GRAU

There will be bingo as usual Wednesday evening. Last week, Rose DeVries and Rita Palmer were the jackpot winners.

* * *

Bob Palmer won at pill pool last Thursday night.

A spaghetti dinner is planned for Tuesday, October 7. It will consist of spaghetti and meatballs, salad, bread, pie or cake, tea or coffee.

Come and bring your friends. Buy your tickets early because only a limited number will be printed. Watch the bulletin board for more information.

In Arts and Crafts, the ladies are all busy making articles for the Christmas bazaar. Come and help.

* * *

The Seccuas are back. They went to New Hampshire and the Catskills, visited with son Roger in McAfee, N.J. and stayed with friends at the Jersey shore. They also visited their daughter Joan in Wyckoff, N.J.

* * *

Ruth and Jim Bricker took a quick trip up to Orlando and Disneyland last weekend. They had been to Maine for a vacation two weeks ago. Have you noticed Jim hiking around the park and down in Jensen? It seems that he's getting in shape to go to Europe and retrace his steps taken during the war. More about it later.

* * *

Rita and Bob Palmer and Rachel and Camiel Lachysse spent the day in Clearwater recently, and then enjoyed a delicious dinner at the Kapok Tree Inn.

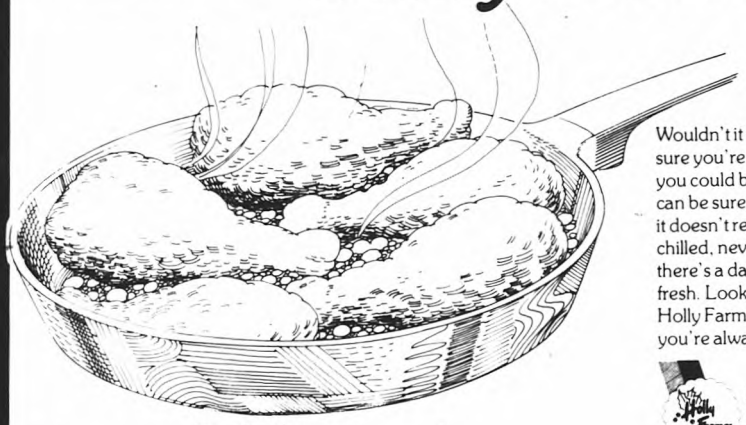
Pick the chicken you can trust... Holly Farms.



Wouldn't it be great if you could always be sure you're getting the best quality chicken you could buy? Well, with Holly Farms, you can be sure. Every piece is U.S. Grade A (or it doesn't reach our store). And it's shipped chilled, never frozen or packed in ice. Plus there's a date on the package to tell you it's fresh. Look for the bright red and yellow Holly Farms package. It's your assurance you're always getting the finest chicken.

It's the one to pick to be sure.

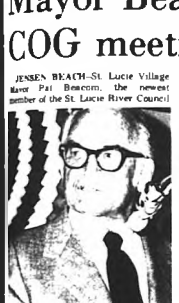
Mayor Beacom will host COG meeting Thursday

JENSEN BEACH—St. Lucie Village Mayor Pat Beacom, the newest member of the St. Lucie River Council of Governments, will host the group for dinner at the Pelican Yacht Club Thursday, Sept. 25.



WELCOMED GUEST—Although he arrived over an hour late, U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater received a real St. Lucie County welcome as he entered the 49th annual meeting of the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce last Friday evening. Approximately 600 attended the annual dinner.

The regular meeting will be conducted following the dinner at the club. Meeting time will be 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend but can not and will not be permitted to take an active part in the meeting.

COG meetings are intended only as an informal gathering of the two county, four city governmental heads to discuss mutual problems and exchange ideas.

Several items have been listed on the tentative agenda including a discussion on problems relative to the State mandate regarding development of master land use plans to meet the mid 1977 deadline, observations of the affect of higher gasoline prices on tourism commerce and trade in the immediate area and a uniform method of protection and rescue in the event of a hurricane.

Verbal approval for holding the meeting at the private club was obtained by Mayor Beacom from the assistant attorney general, according to Port St. Lucie City Administrator Elmer Cox.

Chamber speaker

Goldwater warns of bureaucracies

PORT ST. LUCIE—U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) warned of the growing power of bureaucrats living in the nation's capitol at the annual Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce installation dinner Friday night at Sandpiper Inn.

"In the past, any way out was always to create a new government agency," Goldwater said. "And if the trend continues for another 10 years, we will be governed by people who are selected, not elected."

Senator Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential candidate, told the 556 persons at the dinner that the businessman a responsibility to work to reverse the socialistic trend is not just to obtain profits and jobs in Fort Pierce or Arizona, but for the future of the country.

He said the key to the economy is to let businessmen make a profit. Adequate profits for business people is the solution to unemployment in this country.

Military spending was defended by Goldwater pointing out that the country is spending a smaller percentage of the federal budget on the military now than in George Washington's day. He said the Navy is the smallest and weakest it has been in years and only the Air Force would be a match for Soviet forces.

The veteran senator said that the big increases in government spending have been in the areas of health, education and welfare and he said he is voting against increases in those areas.

Goldwater arrived late, explaining that he had been delayed by an armed services matter.

Sam Gay, long time friend of the senator, met him at the Stuart airport and introduced the speaker.

During his talk, Goldwater displayed some military humor in referring to Fort Pierce's go-go dancer, Cat Futch.

"I don't think the Air Force isn't jealous," he said, adding that the Air Force would have handled the matter of Miss Futch's topless dance on a nuclear sub differently.

The commander of the submarine Finback, Cmdr. Connelly Stevenson was transferred to a desk job in Norfolk, Va.

Instead of relieving the man of his command, the senator said, "the Air Force would have given him a star."

Richard Hellstrom, incoming chamber president said the chamber's goal this year will be to develop concern with government spending and regulations on the local, state and federal level.

"We hope to influence the direction the government takes," Hellstrom said.

CESA benefit golf tourney shaping up

PORT ST. LUCIE—The entry list is nearly filled up for the first annual CESA Golf Tournament, a benefit event scheduled to be played by 288 men and women as a shotgun affair over the Dunes and Sinners courses of the Sandpiper Bay Resort on Thursday, Oct. 9.

Tournament Chairman Tom Chapman reported Monday that 260 have already filed their $10, tax deductible applications with the vacancy list diminishing daily by six or eight. "If you want to play on Oct. 9, you'd better sign up real soon because it looks like we're going to fill up fast," he said.

The prestigious event was limited to residents of Port St. Lucie through Sept. 1 but now is open to all golfers in the area.

With an impressive prize list and championship emblazoned blazers for the winning men and women players it is being sponsored by the General Development Corporation locally through the auspices of Resort Manager Pierre Roellinger and Port St. Lucie Manager Robert L. Seeley, and overall by GDC President Louis Fischer.

Golfers with current USGA handicaps will be eligible for one list of prizes, and those with Callaway handicaps (the established USGA handicap for another set of merchandise prizes. The prizes are now on display at Chuck Johnson's Sinner's Pro Shop.

The $10 entry fee includes a festive luncheon being provided by GDC's Roellinger in the Great Hall of Sandpiper Bay after the tournament. The only other expense entrants have is a $4 cart fee.

The names of the two winners will be engraved on a permanent plaque being donated to CESA by the Port St. Lucie Bank. It will be installed in the nearly completed new lounge addition at CESA.

The Shultz Chevrolet Company of Fort Pierce has donated golf bags that will be given to the man player coming closest to the pin on the third hole of the Sinners and to the woman player accomplishing that feat on the 16th at the Saints course. All players will receive distinctive bag tags, and host pro Johnson is donating golf balls to be awarded to the man and woman player having the longest drive on designated holes. There will be a bullseye on the closest-to-the-pin holes and golf balls awarded to players hitting it on both of these greens.

All of the proceeds from the entry fees and donations made by well-wishing residents who can't play in the event or attend the luncheon, and one half the cart rental fees, will go the the CESA building fund and operating fund.

The championship awards will be made by President Fischer after a cocktail hour and luncheon following completion of the golf tournament.

If you want to make a last minute entry, get in touch with C. Bromley at the Port St. Lucie Bank, Tom or Irene Chapman, or either President Jane Blackmond of the Women's Golf Assn., or President Al Van Nostrand of the Men's Golf Assn. The two Sandpiper Bay associations are "committeeing" the tournament for GDC and CESA President Dick Lundin.

'Big event' plans finalized

PORT ST. LUCIE—President Bill Strout announced this week that all systems are go for the Port St. Lucie Lions' big event of the year - the Charter Night Dinner Dance.

Set for Monday, October 27, the gala event will be held in the plush dining room of the Ocean Village Inn on the ocean on A1A. The entire room has been reserved for the Lions for the entire evening.

Dr. Walter Campbell, Past International President of Lions' Clubs, and the only Floridian to hold that distinction is coming up from Miami to speak.

The festive affair will start with a 6:30 p.m. happy hour, followed by prime ribs and all the trimmings.

At 8 p.m. Charles Bloehm and "The Sound Investment" will start the dancing festivities, continuing until 1 a.m.

"So there it is," Strout says. "Plenty of your favorite libation, a gourmet dinner, your favorite dance tunes by a big orchestra in the newest, most exclusive dining room on the Treasure Coast."

Tickets are available from Any Port St. Lucie Lion.

Special meeting is set to review pension plan

PORT ST. LUCIE—With time running out, the City Council agreed to review in depth the highly criticized pension plan and investigate three alternatives available at a workshop session and special meeting scheduled for next Tuesday.

The workshop session will start at 9 a.m. in the city hall with the special meeting to follow.

A lengthy discussion was kicked off Tuesday morning when City Administrator Elmer Cox asked for council approval to send a letter of intent to the Florida Retirement System of the State Department of Administration. Such a letter would constitute the first step toward the formal application by the City Council to qualify its employees to participate in the State Retirement System.

Two months ago First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart submitted a letter to the city withdrawing as trustee of the existing pension plan. The withdrawal will become effective October 6th.

First National submitted their withdrawal when the city council refused to sign an approval for the bank to make the court ordered disbursements of pension benefits to former councilmen.

Within recent weeks the Council has had representatives explain in detail two substitute plans but it was agreed Tuesday more information was needed before a decision could be reached.

Both Councilmen Bill McChesney and Larry Kimmel protested any issuance of a letter of intent on the part of the city.

"It is unfair to try to get any decision from this council before we have seen all the facts," Kimmel said adding, "I really don't know what the facts are."

McChesney who maintained this item should have been discussed long before this time, said, "We have got to clear the air, especially with the IRS and find out if we are legal in whatever we decide."

"I am quite certain the IRS will not permit us to withdraw the funds from the retirement plan and put it in the city's account on the basis we are good little boys and will pay it back."

At this point City Administrator Cox was instructed to inquire with other local banks to see whether or not any of them would considering becoming a permanent trustee or perhaps a lame duck to handle the funds until such time as a plan is decided upon by the city.

City Attorney Spencer Gilbert was at the same time, instructed by the council to investigate the legalities of a trusteeship change with the Internal Revenue Service.

"I will be the first to vote for a pension plan if and when I am certain of all the facts. Number one I want the air cleared with the IRS, number two, I think we should look into an extension of the present trust or number three we need to locate a same duck to serve on an interim basis," McChesney told his listeners.

According to Cox there would have been a possibility of First National Bank continuing on as trustee for an additional period of thirty days if three councilmembers would have agreed to sign the disbursements for Mr. Harold Nobley in the amount of a $22,000 lump sum payment, for Ken Thompson in the amount of $1500 and the third for Strickland, a former city employee for several hundred dollars.

Cox told the council he had been assured by First National there was enough recovery money available to carry the plan for nine mos without additional cost to the city.

The council refused to sign the disbursement approval. However under the terms of the contract the court has granted the trustee the authority to make such disbursements with or without council approval.

Council members seemed to agree if the bank could recently purchase an annuity for former Councilman Franklin Beardsley to pay him $200 monthly without the three council signatures then why should they be requested to approve the other disbursements.

City agrees to fund Bicentenniel kickoff

PORT ST. LUCIE—The city's Bicentennial committee asked for and got $1,000 from the City Council to kick off the various year long projects planned by the committee.

Admiral John E. Fradd, USN, Ret., who heads the committee said the proposed projects would be self supporting, but explained $1,000 was needed to get it rolling.

The committee would like to see just how many flags they could have flying in front of Port St. Lucie homes. To do this, the flags would have to be purchased in quantity and that takes money, Admiral Fradd told council members.

"From what I can see, you are in a sense just asking for a loan," said Councilman Bill McChesney.

A unanimous vote was forthcoming on the issue.

Price attends SACC meet

PORT ST. LUCIE—St. Lucie County Commissioner George D. Price attended the 4th annual conference of the State Association of County Commissioners (SACC) of Florida from Sunday, September 21 through Tuesday, September 23. The conference was held at the Orlando Hyatt House in Kissimmee.

Price feels that the state is shirking financial obligations toward the counties and should be assuming the responsibility of funding the court systems in order to relieve the counties' burdens.

Along these lines, another point Price stressed was returning the 5th and 6th cent gasoline tax revenues to the counties for use in their secondary road building programs.

Price, a member of the SACC Board of Directors for the past six years, believes the conference has been an ideal opportunity to clarify various issues in order to present a more unified view to the state legislators.

Attending the SACC with Commissioner Price was his wife Mary Anne.

Jr. fishing contest nears end

PORT ST. LUCIE—Junior fishermen have just a few days left in which to enter the Port St. Lucie Anglers' Club fishing contest. Entries will be accepted through September 30.

The contest, which began June 1, is for any youths - boys or girls - age 15 or under who are bonafide year-round residents of the Port St. Lucie and River Park area. Fish entered may have been caught in any of the area fishing spots.

Official weighing stations are located at the Northport Marina, Sandpiper Bay Marina, Stuart Bait and Tackle Shop, The Snook Nook, Buck White's Tackle Shop in Fort Pierce, the Sand Flea in Fort Pierce, and Fire Stations No. 3 and No. 5 in Port St. Lucie.

HOLE-IN-ONE—Mary Kuhn shot a hole in one on the thirteenth hole of the Sinners Course Tuesday when the St. Lucie Women's Golf Association held their invitational tournament. Golfers from Marty County and the Stuart Yacht and Country Club were invited to participate.

Anglers' coming events

PORT ST. LUCIE—Ben Forlenza, Port St. Lucie Anglers Club activities chairman announced at last week's meeting that a Fishing Fest has been scheduled for Thursday, October 2 at the Jensen Beach Causeway. He urged members to come and fish, then gather for lunch. He also stated the club's semi-annual cookout will be coming up on Sunday, October 19.

James L. Towns, a member of the Heddon Company's fishing council, provided the program telling members how and where to catch bass. Towns says he fishes at least 30 hours a week keeps complete records of procedures and catches, and sets a fast pace for the occasional or pure amateur fisherman.

Worms are Towns' main bait. The colorful Heddon lures he demonstrated he saves for early morning and evening activity.

With Towns were Bill Whiting, who told the story of United Bass Fishermen, and Jim Albright Heddon sales representative.

Lucky members took home lures won in a prize drawing.

In the business session members were urged to recommend candidates for club offices for the coming year. The nominating committee includes Phil Rodi, chairman, Floyd Gillam, John Jankowski and Wayne Whitaker.

Dorothy Brunton, club secretary, reminded members that the Northport Marina pool offers swimming instruction especially for older citizens.

Members approved revisions in the club's Constitution and By-Laws, resulting from a study by a special committee.

Ed Buffington closed the meeting with a moving tribute to the late Joe Fusco, long time club member who drowned in the C-34 canal recently after hooking a fish.

A goal of $18,000 has been set to meet the needs of the Samaritan Free Ambulance, the boy and girl scouts, Longford Park, Mars Hill Recreation, Animal Rescue League and Children's Home Society.

As the board of directors searched to find volunteers to complete the list of area captains, Mrs. Tilton praised the attitude of residents.

"Everyone has been great. Each volunteer is willing to do anything to get the drive off on the right foot and some offer to do more than their share," she said.

Two new area captains were announced, including Mrs. Richard (Jean) Leidani Heights, and Mrs. Fred Arndt, Fisherman's Haven.

Center direction in 90 days

NSEN BEACH–"We should be g some direction on Community Centers within 90 days," y County Commissioner Timer Isaac Monday.

Planning Department must ine the physical requirements- ation and design to meet the d the area served," Powers as a veteran commissioner of ears, suggested the Community Center concept for outlying areas and south county–at a Commission meeting several ago.

"It's an exciting new concept in government," Powers said in discussing some of the advantages of taking the government to the people.

He pointed out that the north and south county areas have the population to support a center. "I don't think we are looking at any magic number for establishing a center," he said.

Some of the things the Planning Department will be looking at in recommending the location of centers will be available property, roads and if the center will be available to all residents of the area.

While a Community Service Center is not intended to be a social center, Powers pointed out that the Indiantown center has room for group meetings. "It is not a substitute for civic meetings."

Powers points out that County Agent Bob Whitty schedules meetings with farm organizations and last week Whitty said he would be happy to have a center in the north county area to hold meetings.

Whitty, the latest county official to endorse the Community Service Center concept that Powers is boosting, noted that he receives a number of calls from the Jensen Beach area about lawns, shrubs etc.

"Down in the Palm Beach County agent's office, they have three people on the telephone talking to people about gardening," Whitty said.

At the Indiantown center, which has been serving the area for several years, various organizations hold meetings– ambulance group, 4-H Club and other volunteer groups.

"It's nice to have a place for the organizations to meet," Powers observed, "and as time goes on, the other service centers should have space for meetings."

From Jensen Beach Cutoff Road at U.S. 1 to the Agriculture Center on A1A (Whitty's office) it is a round trip of about 12 miles.

"The mileage is not important," Powers pointed out. "It is bringing governmental service to the people rather than taking the people to governmental services."

'Mayor's Night' at COG meeting

JENSEN BEACH–It was "mayor's night" at the meeting of the Council of Governments (COG) last week.

1 St. Lucie Village Mayor Pat Beacom was host of the meeting at Pelican Yacht Club in Fort Pierce.

2 Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe was elected COG chairman for the year.

3 Fort Pierce Mayor Ben L. Bryan Jr. said he will recommend that Fort Pierce rejoin the group.

COG members started the meeting by choosing Mayor Sharpe as chairman, noting a permanent chairman will give continuity to the meetings.

And the Port St. Lucie mayor brought up the need for a bus service linking Stuart and Fort Pierce. The group asked Mayor Bryan to investigate the possibility of helping travel agent Frank Bonfield to bring a bus line to the area.

In other action, COG members discussed a mutual aid pact between the municipalities which would let them go to the aid of one another during disasters without fear of suit and with a chance to be reimbursed if disaster funds were paid by the federal government.

The governmental representatives agreed there would be no hesitation in aiding a neighboring community, but they also agreed that the pact should be drawn up.

A discussion was held on trying to unify master plans in the two counties, and they decided it would benefit the area if one planner could be hired to do the master plan for both counties so there would be some conformity in their goals.

Sharpe also urged the governmental representatives to get their groups to toughen their stand on flood insurance, pointing out that unless building codes are toughened, the cities or counties could lose the federally subsidized insurance.

Several weeks ago Fort Pierce Commission and St. Lucie County Commission voted to pull out of COG, noting that the meetings were "a waste of time."

Mayor Bryan said last week that he thought a lot was accomplished and that COG may turn out to be a valuable organization.

St. Lucie County Commission was not represented at the meeting, but Mayor Beacom explained that this was due to sickness in the household of Commission Chairman W.R. McCain.

The next COG meeting is slated in two months at Port St. Lucie.

The Vikings are coming

Leif Erikson Day is Sunday at the Jensen Beach causeway

FIRE EQUIPMENT–Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Chief Randolph Spanney is at the control panel of one of the department's fire trucks. The department has five trucks and a new one coming in within the next few weeks.

Tax roll is available

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County tax roll is available to the public, Executive Assistant County Tax Appraiser Ted Campo said.

This year's roll will not be printed in book form as it has been in the past, Campo said.

Instead, the roll is printed on micro-photo cards that are placed in a countertop machine that enlarges the pages and lights them so they are legible to the viewer.

Last week the state Department of Revenue approved the county tax roll which tops the $1 billion mark.

With the state approval of the roll, the county can receive appraisal protests and mail bills, according to Tax Appraiser E.F. Schnurbusch said.

Fewer than 100 appraisal protests have been filed this year compared to more than 600 last year.

Fire Prevention Week plans announced

JENSEN BEACH–Bicentennial silver dollars will be awarded to prize-winning poster artists Monday as the Jensen Beach Volunteer Firemen recognize Fire Prevention Week next Monday.

Jensen Beach Elementary School students will receive the prizes from firemen at 9 a.m. in the office of Dale Clark, principal, according to Will Bowman, chairman of the "week."

Firemen then will take the posters to stores along Commercial Street to distribute them.

Later in the morning, or early afternoon, the firemen plan to take a fire truck to the Jensen Beach Plaza for a display of several hours.

We invite the public to look at our newest truck and ask any questions about fire fighting," Bowman said.

Bowman added that Fire Prevention Week would be a good time for local businessmen to think about cleaning up potential fire traps.

Chief Randolph Spanney said that during the week residents should check their electrical wirings in their homes.

"Faulty wiring in homes is one of the reasons for fires," Spanney said.

"It's also a good idea to check extinguishers to see that the working properly," the chief added.

The department has five trucks, a new one has been ordered and should be here within the very near future.

FIT tops 700 students as enrollment climbs

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Campus of Florida Institute of Technology passed the 700 mark Monday and seems headed for a new record enrollment, according to Tim Tealey, dean of the school.

The student population was estimated at between 625 and 650 in the early part of this summer, based upon early enrollment. Tealey said he expects that the enrollment will be between 710 and 725.

"Two students just arrived from Columbia, South America," Tealey said, "and others are due. It's just that they seem to be having trouble with travel, but they have indicated that they will be on board for this year."

The enrollment at the local college was 710 on Monday morning.

Classes started on Monday, but there are usually some students who arrive late.

The graduate course in business also showed a high degree of increase, with 25 students in the first class, and the same number in the other two classes due to register.

Captain Adams takes final salute

JENSEN BEACH–Captain Francis A. Adams, the 101 year old Spanish-American War veteran, was buried Friday, September 26, at All Saints Cemetery in Jensen Beach.

He is glorified in the good he did in at peace," said Jack Lydick of the Stuart Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) said.

Lydick gave the eulogy at the cemetery as representatives of the American Legion, VFW, and city and county law officers stood solemnly in uniforms as the captain's friends gathered to pay their last respects.

The graveside services were held following a brief church service at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Stuart.

The Reverend Arthur A. Smith conducted the church service and gave the final blessing at the cemetery. A 21 gun salute was fired by the VFW.

Clerk stalls plaza payment

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs said she wants an opinion from the attorney general before she co-signs a $227,700 check for the first of five annual payments on the Executive Plaza building.

Mrs. Isaacs said she will not authorize spending county money to buy an administrative building until she finds out if it's legal.

The first payment on the building is scheduled for Oct. 7.

She said she is not sure that the county commissioners did everything they are required to do to assure that the purchase is in the public interest.

Mrs. Isaacs pointed out that as county auditor she is responsible for the payments.

She said she didn't know enough about the purchase "do not feel good about it."

Her comments on the purchase came at the close of Monday night's public hearing on the $7.1 million 1975-76 budget which the commissioners approved.

Commissioner Timer Powers said he was disappointed that Mrs. Isaacs didn't share her concern with the commission.

The County Commission voted to purchase the Executive Plaza Sept. 9. In the purchase of the $1,025,000 building across from the Stuart Post Office, the county assumes responsibility for a $700,000 mortgage and accrued interest in default since last November.

It also was noted by Mrs. Isaacs that if commissioners had not acted when they did the building may have become available later at a lower cost.

Mirror editor is appointed to SBA advisory council

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Mirror has been appointed a member of the Miami District Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration by Thomas S. Kleppe, administrator of the SBA.

Kleppe said that Campbell was selected for council membership in recognition of his knowledge of and interest in problems of small businesses. As a member of the district council, Campbell will take part in semi-annual meetings of the twenty-two member group to discuss the needs of the local small business community and the means by which the SBA can most effectively meet those needs.

The advisory council also serves as a channel of information to local business and commercial interests regarding specific SBA programs and as an advisory body which makes recommendations concerning the SBA programs keeping the district director Tom Butler informed of current economic conditions within the Miami district.

Campbell, who will serve without pay for the two-year term, attended the first meeting of the board last weekend at Marco Island.

JENSEN BEACH—All Saints Guild of All Saints Episcopal Church will sponsor a rummage sale this Saturday, Oct. 4th from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Items will include clothing, household goods, small appliances and much miscellaneous. The public is invited.

Philbrick opens NARFE season

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County commission Chairman Russ Philbrick will address the Martin County Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, NARFE, at its first meeting of the fall season next week.

Set for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 8, the meeting will be held in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart.

A social hour will kick off the opening session followed by Philbrick's talk on The county commissioner's role in the government of Martin County and a question and answer period.

A cordial invitation is extended to all retired federal government employees in Martin County.

Halloween planning

JENSEN BEACH—The annual halloween celebration in the Jensen Beach area will be known this year as the Bicentennial Halloween Celebration, Virginia VanDien chairman said.

A meeting of area organizations leaders will meet at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7.

The event has been very successful the past four years, Mrs. VanDien said. Vandalism hardly existed in the past four years of these halloween festivities.

She said that the contribution of money and time by area residents has paid off.

Brief program at dedication

JENSEN BEACH—A short ceremony is planned for the tenth anniversary of the House of Refuge on Oct. 18.

The program is going to last for 30 minutes, Mrs. Janet Hutchinson said. Mrs. Hutchinson, director of Martin County Historical Society and its two museums Elliott Museum and House of Refuge said that people planning to attend the ceremony should park their cars at the Elliott Museum. The boat parade starts at 1 p.m. and the dedication ceremony begins at 2 p.m.

We will have buses from Florida Institute of Technology to transport people to the House of Refuge, Mrs. Hutchinson said.

She also said that Martin and St. Lucie counties Boy Scouts will be dressed as Indians and will lead the boat parade of three canoes.

Florida Secretary of State Bruce Smathers will be on hand for the ceremonies according to Mrs. Hutchinson.

Sailing course scheduled

JENSEN BEACH–Want to get away from the noise and vibration of power boating?

If so, sailing is the answer where peace and tranquility of quietly gliding over the waters of the St. Lucie and Indian Rivers can be found.

Flotilla 59 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary is again scheduling its popular seven lesson basic sailing course for families who are interested either as potential sailboat owners or who have recently become the proud owners of any type, from a Sunfish to a cruising sloop.

Subjects to be covered are

1 Getting to know the boat: hull keel and steering, spars, rigging and sails.

2 Under Way: true and apparent wind, running, reaching, beating.

3 Maneuvering: coming about and getting out of irons, jibbing, sailing a course, angle of heel and stability.

4 Boat Handling: rigging the boat, bending and hoisting sail, leaving mooring or pier, picking up a mooring, docking and landing.

5 Rules of the Road, Advanced Techniques: Tuning, balance and trim.

6 Heavy Weather and Emergencies: wind and weather, reefing, emergency handling in squalls, knockdown and capsize, man overboard dismasting, the well-found boat.

Classes will be held at Flotilla 59 headquarters located at the foot of Flagler Avenue, starting October 14, on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 p.m. Registration is prior to the first class and the only cost is for textbook material.

FIT oarsmen hard at work

MELBOURNE–Fresh and eager from their summer vacations, oarsmen of FIT's crew are back at work on the Indian River. Some 35 returning oarsmen returned to Melbourne before most of the student body began basing their skills for the Oct. 26 Head of the Charles Regatta in Boston.

This year's team is probably the strongest to begin fall practice at FIT following last year's record season. In addition to their total domination of intercollegiate competition, the FIT team captured three small college National Championships at Philadelphia's Bad Vail Regatta. Last year's winning Varsity and Junior Varsity lightweights and undefeated Frosh and Heavyweight crews will be well represented this fall as will be the Heavyweight Four, which finished third nationally in Philadelphia.

Below par 1974 finish of the Charles, FIT's lightweight crew fourth and the heavyweights were second against some of the nations strongest crews in each event.

Most of the oarsmen have worked on strength and conditioning over the summer months, according to Coach Bill Jurgens, who is in his seventh season at FIT. Senior Pete Neilson was selected from the nation's college oarsmen for the National Development camp.

Garden Club flower show

STUART–The Garden Club of Stuart is planning a Flower Show to be held February 27 and 28, 1976.

The first meeting of the committee for the show will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, October 2, at the home of Mrs. Robert Fenton, 111 Balboa Ave., Stuart.

Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Malcolm Crabtree are co-chairmen for the event.

73 YEARS–Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reid of 6 Arica Drive in Ocean Breeze Park celebrated their 73rd wedding anniversary Sept. 25. They were married in Cedar Rapids, Iowa and have been coming to Ocean Breeze Park for the past 25 years.

Ten years ago in The Mirror

Members of the Jensen Beach volunteer fireworks committee were pictured working a 70-foot "fireworks" bridge to be featured at dedication ceremonies of the new Jensen Beach Bridge. Workers pictured were Bill Yurillo, Carl Barker, Lou Tranowski, Dave McConnell, Jim Pauly and Steve Sabat.

Fater-Sebright wedding

JENSEN BEACH–Linda Joy Fater, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Alvin Fater, of Wyandette, Michigan, became the bride of Jerald Michael Sebright on September 20 at St. Patrick's Church in Wyandette, Michigan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white tissue satin with empire bodice, and chantilly lace in panels down the front of the skirt and on the lantern sleeves. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations with baby's breath.

Attending as maid of honor was Kathy Wisniewski of Wyandette, and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Gary Martin, the bride's sister from Romulus. Their gowns were blue, and they carried nosegays of white carnations and baby's breath.

Gary Martin served as best man, and the ushers were Chris Martin and David Martin, all cousins of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose a light blue polyester gown and the mother of the groom chose a deep pink polyester gown. Both had white carnation corsages.

Card party is set for Oct. 9th

JENSEN BEACH–Promising lots of prizes, WWI Barracks 854 Auxiliary is sponsoring a dessert card party on Thursday, October 8.

Festivities will start at 12:30 p.m. at Langford Park Hall.

Hostess for the affair is Marguerite Tracy. For reservations call 283-7311.

Moving Ahead with a New Look.

We are approaching our nation's 200th birthday. Many events are taking place and are in the planning stage across the nation and in Martin County to celebrate this historical occasion.

Of course here in Martin County we are preparing to celebrate our county's semicentennial. We at First National will be joining in to help celebrate these great events through the coming months.

We thought it appropriate and befitting to change our graphic look in both our public service and customer service advertising during the next year.

We have also adopted the motto "Moving Ahead for America and Martin County" because we feel it best expresses our greatest expectations for our future. Whether it's offering the finest in modern banking services or participating in worthy community affairs, you know that First National is moving ahead ... moving ahead for America and Martin County.

High school students can take free courses

MELBOURNE—Students at Brevard and Martin County high schools are reminded of a policy approved a year ago by Florida Institute of Technology permitting them to take certain credit courses at the university free of charge. Dean of Admissions, Holmes C. Seesnang, urged interested students to consider the opportunity since registration for the fall quarter is only a week away.

The policy is as follows:

1. FIT may grant, upon application, outstanding high school juniors and seniors from Brevard County and Martin County permission to enroll, tuition free, in credit courses up to a maximum of 15 hours. This is equivalent to one quarter and is potentially a savings of $$$$ at the present tuition rate of $44 per credit.

2. These grants will be made to a maximum of 12 students for any academic year.

3. Enrollment in courses will be on a space-available basis.

4. The Credit for these courses will be held in "escrow" and should the student elect to attend FIT following graduation from high school, these courses will be credited toward the fulfillment of the requirements for the degree for which the student is a candidate.

5. Should the student wish to use the credit for these courses at another university, credits will be transferred upon payment of the regular FIT tuition.

6. Students who wish to take courses at FIT will be expected to meet the following requirements:

a. Satisfactory performance in related courses in high school.

b. Overall above average grades.

c. Substantial SAT scores.

The final decision on all applications will be made by FIT's Admissions Committee. All students who wish to take advantage of the above opportunity should contact the FIT Admissions office immediately.

Shell Shop is entered

JENSEN BEACH—The Shell Shop, 30 Commercial St., Jensen Beach, was entered sometime last Tuesday night, Sept. 23, and between $400 and $500 in merchandise was stolen, according to store owner.

A glass panel on a side door was pushed in to gain entrance.

Shell necklaces, two boxes of shark's teeth and various jewelry items were stolen. The shop is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Killer.

JENSEN BEACH—The German-American Club will hold its annual bazaar Saturday, Oct. 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Redeemer Lutheran Church on East Ocean Blvd.

The club will hold its Oktoberfest Nov. 1, at the VFW Hall on Kanner Road in Jensen Beach.

Community Federal serves you with $200 million in assets and 9 convenient locations

We joined the community in 1955, with a storefront office in Riviera Beach and $204,580.58 in assets. Today, there are nine locations from West Palm Beach north to Jensen Beach, in Martin County. And our assets have increased one-thousand times, to more than $200 million.

Community Federal savings rates have come a long way, too. Passbook savings now earn 5¼% yearly, compounded daily, as opposed to 3% yearly, paid semiannually, in 1955. We also offer five high-earning certificate plans. They hadn't been invented when we opened.

As for services! In 1955, no one dreamed of Direct Deposit of Social Security Checks, Transmatic Savings, or Dial-A-Count Telephone Transfers. Much less a nationwide system for Prestige Emergency Cash Withdrawals. Now they're just a few of the services you get with a Community Federal Key Account.

Back in the Fifties, a board member said, "We should take a friendly name — then live up to it."

Snake venom helps Bruner

JENSEN BEACH—J. Herbert Bruner can walk across the room without crutches and cross his legs, something he hasn't been able to do in five years.

And he demonstrated regaining strength in his right hand by a firm handshake.

"I have use of my right leg, strength in my right hand, and can stay several hours without having to go to bed for a rest," the former Martin County Commissioner said.

Over the past four or five years, Bruner has been unsuccessfully treated at various hospitals in the country for the disease that killed baseball great Lou Gehrig and thousands like him.

But something highly unusual has happened to Bruner on his way to what doctors said would be a slow death by amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

Last July Bruner was referred to a little-publicized research of two Boca Raton doctors, Murray Sanders and Oliver Fellows.

Using injections of detoxified snake venom, the Sanders Medical Research Foundation reports encouraging success in halting the nerve and muscle deterioration that typifies amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

Both doctors are too cautious to claim they've actually discovered a cure, several patients such as Bruner have shown functional improvements.

Neither doctor can promise anything more encouraging, but Sanders estimates that half his patients have seen positive results from the cobra and krait venom that Sanders purchases from the Miami Serpentarium.

Bruner said he goes to Boca Raton three times a week for shots, but he expects his own doctor to get the serum.

Bruner was forced to resign from the County Commission about six years ago because of his health.

"I got to the point that I couldn't go for about three hours without needing rest," Bruner said about having to vacate his county post.

Now he is so confident of regaining his health that he said he hopes to play tennis in a couple of years.

After witnessing Bruner's miraculous turnaround in such a short period, his old foes on the tennis court had better be in shape for Bruner's return.

WALKING TALL—J. Herbert Bruner shows that he can walk without crutches. Bruner, former Martin County commissioner, has made a miraculous turnaround after taking injections of detoxified snake venom. He is a victim of the disease that killed the baseball great Lou Gehrig, and has been using crutches for the past several years.

Central wins

FORT PIERCE—Fort Pierce Central beat Leonard High 19-18 at the Leonard field.

The win leaves Fort Pierce Central with a 3-0 record and on top of the Suncoast Conference's East Division.

Women bowlers meet Sunday

JENSEN BEACH—The Martin County Women's Bowling Association will meet in annual open session at the Jensen Lanes this Sunday, October 5.

Meeting time is 2:30 p.m. The proposed budget will be presented and association trophies awarded.

IRCC offers investment course

FORT PIERCE—Indian River Community College is offering a course in Basic Securities Investments, stocks and bonds. The class, held on Thursday evenings from 8 to 10:30 p.m. in Room A 208, will deal with the fundamentals of investing in stocks and bonds and will also survey the problems and opportunities of the present U.S. economy.

Rick Harris, holder of a degree in finance and a representative of a member firm of the New York Exchange, will be the instructor.

Orchid show is planned

FORT PIERCE—The Fort Pierce Orchid Society will present "A Fall Festival of Orchids" to be held October 4 and 5 at Indian River Community College's gymnasium.

For the first time, exhibitors in this annual show will include not only local orchid hobbyists, but also the newly formed Vero Beach Orchid Society and the Tropical Orchid Society of West Palm Beach.

An invitation has been extended to anyone wishing to submit an exhibit, corsage, arrangement or individual orchid plant to bring it to the gymnasium on Friday, Oct. 3, after 2:30 p.m. for registration. Phone Steve Lindley, 466-2535 for information and space reservation.

The public is invited to attend the show and view the many displays. Admission is free. Hours are Saturday, October 4, from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. and Sunday, October 5, from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Art classes are offered

STUART—An art class sponsored by Indian River Community College is currently being offered at the Stuart Youth Center on Wednesday mornings from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Students may paint in the media preferred.

Art shows will be held on Oct. 5 and Dec. 14. The class requires a registration fee of $5 and is being instructed by Madeline Hebeisen.

Pension plan

First National extends trusteeship thirty days

PORT ST. LUCIE--The First National Bank and Trust of Stuart agreed late Tuesday afternoon to extend their trusteeship on the City's pension plan for an additional thirty days or until November 1.

"I am pleased That extension will give the city time to investigate other plans effect an orderly transition with another bank in the area, or move toward joining the State Retirement Plan," Cox said adding, "he hoped to be able to compile the additional information the Council had requested within the week

First National officials agreed to the extension only after the City Council Tuesday morning during a special session authorized the bank to make lump sum pension payments to two ex-councilmen, Dr. Harold Nottley and Franklin Beardsley, and a former city employee Jim Strickland

Just one week prior the Council refused to grant their approval for the disbursements even though they were made aware such a move could be used as a bargaining point to encourage the bank to grant an additional thirty days

Two months ago First National submitted a letter to the city withdrawing as trustee for the existing pension plan a plan which has been highly criticized for some time That resignation would become effective October 6

A workshop session was scheduled for Tuesday to discuss alternate plans but for the second time in as many weeks the matter was tabled due to the lack of sufficient information Following the workshop session, a special meeting was scheduled whereby the Council could have acted on the decision

The City Administrator has requested additional information from the Washington Insurance Group and the State of Florida which operates a retirement plan for city and state employees

Representatives from both have appeared before the Council in recent weeks to outline their respective programs

Last week when the City Attorney Spencer Gilbert recommended the State Plan, council objected on the grounds they did not feel they had access to sufficient information to go along with such a recommendation

At this point, it is not certain if the Council intends to scrap the present plan at all, however it will be necessary to find another bank to serve as trustee

Meanwhile Cox will continue his efforts to obtain cost figures from the Washington Group and the State Retirement System as well as inquiring with local banks regarding a new trusteeship

At the same time City Attorney Spencer Gilbert has been instructed to clear the air with the Internal Revenue Service relative to a transfer of funds

Cox is hopeful the alternative proposals can be completed within days to present to the Council for their consideration and discussion

Sharpe scores county takes

PORT ST LUCIE--Obviously a little sore than somewhat fed up over the vast amount of tax dollars returned to the City of Port St Lucie by the county, Mayor Schuyler Sharpe spoke out on the situation loud and clear before the commissioners during the Monday workshop session

In addition to the heavy tax burden borne by General Development Corporation and the City of Port St Lucie Sharpe pointed out the City pays over $43,000 for police protection provided by the St Lucie County Sheriff's Department

A comprehensive review of the tax flow from our city into the County coffers would disclose we get precious little in return from so large a contribution

The Mayor went on to say that much of the tax revenue derived from his city and the City of Fort Pierce is expended for road, highway, bridge and related activities in the unincorporated areas of the county, while no such appreciable benefits accrue to Port St Lucie

"Some tangible assistance is needed to help solve our highway, drainage and lighting problems," he said, adding, "The people of Fort Pierce also suffer some marked degree of double taxation with respect to the road City-County funding operations

It was also pointed out by the local Mayor that the county's 25 percent to help finance the 201 Sanitary Sewer Study Program is derived from county wide taxes to provide special benefits to property in the unincorporated areas of the county, and to some degree to benefit Fort Pierce

"Port St Lucie would not derive immediate benefit from the study since this City may not be part of a county wide or regional sanitary sewer system for many years to come," Sharpe said

In closing, Sharpe urged a type of summit meeting among all the governing bodies in the County with a view toward "reaching some compromise on a more equitable and fairer distribution of funds and services" made possible by County wide tax levies

Hospital hopes are still alive

PORT ST LUCIE--Backers of the proposed Port St Lucie Community Hospital still are optimistic about the chances of their certificate of needs application being approved on the state level even though it was denied by the regional health council

Ted Griffin, legal counsel for the hospital board, pointed out that the Health Planning Council's 14-6 vote against approval indicated there is "mixed feelings" on whether the proposed hospital is needed in the area

Local support of the 116 bed community hospital has been demonstrated several times in recent months with a well attended public rally and several petitions

The Health Council's recommendation will go to the Bureau of Community Medical Facilities which makes the final decision on hospital applications

The agency has until December to act on the Port St Lucie Hospital

Hospital officials presented its case to the council last week pointing out that at least 50 per cent of the Port St Lucie residents are over the age of 50

The community residents are far removed from hospitals in Stuart and Fort Pierce officials said

"We feel there are extenuating circumstances in our case Griffin said "we continue to hope for our own smaller satellite hospital

A staff assistant said the council's vote against the hospital makes it clear that hospital officials still hadn't justified the need for the facility

The Port St Lucie City Council recently passes a resolution in favor of the hospital which would serve the area between Stuart and Fort Pierce

City names deputy clerk

PORT ST LUCIE--Taking time out from her vacation, Miss Ann Power appeared at the City Hall Tuesday morning to be sworn in as the city's deputy clerk

City Clerk Donna Braggan administered the oath of office to Miss Power in brief ceremonies conducted during a special meeting of the Council

Miss Power has been an employee of the City of Port St Lucie for the past two years and has served as post mistress at the temporary post office sub-station located in the City Hall

Weekly tourney winner named

PORT ST LUCIE--With the change to USGA handicap effective this week low net winners of the North Port Men's Golf League weekly tournament played Tuesday were

Flight A George Moore, with 58; Don Donahoo led Flight B with 54 Flight C went to Howard Matthews with 61, and Dick Lieberth's 58 took Flight D honors

Least number of putts was turned in by Charlie Cuidry. He potted only 25 times Vince Metzger was closest to the pin on the 17th green

The Northport group plays every Tuesday at the Stuart Holiday course which was rated by the USGA at 57.9

October 26 marks the beginning of the semi-annual tournament, which continues for five weeks

Library under-funded

PORT ST LUCIE--After criticizing fellow councilmembers for discussing items not listed on the agenda Councilman Larry Kimmel brought up still another unlisted topic for discussion

"The Regional Library is grossly and badly under funded," Kimmel told his colleagues

"The average library in the state is supported on the basis of $5 per capita, while according to the figures I have just received, the St. Lucie-Okeechobee Regional Library figure is 68 cents

"No matter how you slice it, our library is a long way below the state average," he said.

Noting the City of Port St. Lucie had increased its contribution to the library by $1,000 this year, Councilman Bill McChesney said the library asked for a specific amount ($2500) from the City of Port St. Lucie this year and was granted the request."

Although the Council agreed the library should be brought up to at least the state average, it was further agreed the library is the responsibility of the county

"They (library personnel) should not have to go from city to city begging funds" McChesney said.

"Since the county thinks the City of Port St. Lucy shouldn't get any more return on its tax dollar let the county take over the library altogether retorted Mayor Schuyler Sharpe

With that the Council proposed a letter be sent to the St. Lucie County Commission recommending the library funding be included in the next county budget

Chairman named

'Mayor's Night' at COG meeting

PORT ST. LUCIE--It was "mayor's night" at the meeting of the Council of Governments (COG) last week

St. Lucie Village Mayor Pat Beacom was host of the meeting at Pelican Yacht Club in Fort Pierce.

Port St Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe was elected COG chairman for the year

Fort Pierce Mayor Ben L. Bryan Jr. said he will recommend that Port Pierce rejoin the group

COG members started the meeting by choosing Mayor Sharpe as chairman, noting a permanent chairman will give continuity to the meetings

And the Port St. Lucie mayor brought up the need for a bus service linking Stuart and Fort Pierce. The group asked Mayor Bryan to investigate the possibility of helping travel agent Frank Bonfield to bring a bus line to the area

In other action, COG members discussed a mutual aid pact between the municipalities which would let them go to the aid of one another during disasters without fear of suit and with a chance to be reimbursed if disaster funds were paid by the federal government.

The governmental representatives agreed there would be no hesitation in aiding a neighboring community, but they also agreed that the pact should be drawn up.

A discussion was held on trying to unify master plans in the two counties, and they decided it would benefit the area if one planner could be hired to do the master plan for both counties so there would be some conformity in their goals

Sharpe also urged the governmental representatives to get their groups to toughen their stand on flood insurance pointing out that unless building codes are toughened, the cities or counties could lose the federally subsidized insurance

Several weeks ago Fort Pierce Commission and St. Lucie County Commission voted to pull out of COG noting that the meetings were a waste of time."

Mayor Bryan said last week that he thought a lot was accomplished and that COG may turn out to be a viable organization

St Lucie County Commission was not represented at the meeting but Mayor Beacom explained that this was due to sickness in the household of Commission Chairman W.R. McCain

The next COG meeting is slated in two months at Port St Lucie

CONSTRUCTION UNDERWAY--Construction of the cluster housing being built adjacent to the Sandpiper Bay Marina is moving along at a rapid pace regardless of the recent rains. The six units are being constructed by General Development Corporation.

Charter reviewed

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Charter Revision Committee is expected to meet within the next couple of weeks to review the proposed new Port St. Lucie Charter

Solomon Raffe, Charter Committee chairman, recently mailed the 30 page charter draft to members of the committee to study prior to the meeting date

The draft, which includes a number of changes from the present city charter, favors a city manager type of government and includes a number of recommendations made by Chairman Raffe and members of the committee

City Administrator Cox, an ex-officio member of the committee, has said the proposed charter will provide a good basis for discussion and negotiations

The charter draft reportedly includes a six page section dealing with municipal courts, which, according to Elmer Cox, the city attorney has determined will not become a part of the final draft

Meeting time and place will be announced later

The eleven-man Charter Revision Committee was appointed in January by Larry Kimmel, then mayor

Those serving on the committee include Irene Chapman, Robert Harris, Alice Jensen, Elmer Johnson Norman Kelly, Solomon Raffe, Milton Reddel, Robert Seeley, Jan Werges and Lee Johnson.

Navy show planned

Vikings will reenact landing of Leif Erikson this Sunday

JENSEN BEACH—Over 500 members of the Sons of Norway (S-N) will spend the weekend in Jensen Beach, celebrating Leif Erikson Day in pageant, sailing races and dancing on the Jensen Beach Causeway, as Vikings gather to reenact the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D.

The Sunday pageant will begin at 1 p.m. with a one hour concert by the 25-piece "Show Pak" unit of the U.S. Navy Band from Orlando. The band plans a program of Broadway show music along with the traditional martial airs.

At 2 p.m., Norman Sabee, representative of S-N zone nine, the Florida district, will introduce dignitaries, including Oystein Berg, vice-counsel of the Norwegian Embassy, stationed in Miami; Ed Trabulsey, president of the S-N third district; Bjarne Eikevik, vice president, Sons of Norway Foundation, and local officials.

There will be a parade of "bunads," colorful native costumes of different Scandanavian regions.

The pagent of the landing of the Vikings in America will follow the bunad parade, and visitors to the causeway event will see young S-N members take the parts of Vikings and Indians as three 100-year-old Norwegian sailing boats unfurl colorful square sails and produce a show that is both unusual and true.

As Rud Bjorgan, past president of the Ft. Lauderdale Lodge, S-N, narrates the pageant, the three boats, brought from Norway a few years ago, will sail to the causeway and Vikings will begin the realistic battle with the Indians.

This is one true battle in which the Indians win, and the Vikings are forced back to sea.

The fifth annual race between the boats will follow the pageant, and teams of six oarsmen-sailors will compete for a Leif Erikson trophy that has been won for the past two years by the local Gulfstream Lodge, and the previous two by the Ft. Lauderdale Lodge.

A fish fry will be held all afternoon long, open to the public, and the S-N plans booths of Norwegian handicrafts, sandwiches and other foods for purchase by the visitors, all in the pavilions along the causeway.

Nine Florida lodges are expected to participate in the event, including Gulfstream, Miami, Ft. Lauderdale, Orlando, Everglades (Naples), Jacksonville, Sarasota, Port Orange and Tampa.

Joan S. Leim is chairperson of the day, and Lynn Nelson is chairman of the causeway events. The host hotel for the group is the Holiday Inn, Oceanside, where the S-N members will hold Saturday meetings and a dance.

Sons of Norway plan for a party

JENSEN BEACH—While the public looks forward to the big pageant and entertainment on the Jensen Beach Causeway, the members of the Sons of Norway, with nine chapters in Florida, alone, plan their private party as a part of the weekend of festivities.

Friday and Saturday will be get together days, when the S-N members check into their motels and then meet at the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island to renew old memories and discuss planning for the Sunday event.

Saturday night the traditional S-N banquet will be held, with a hospitality hour beginning at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Of course there will be a smorgasbord.

Following dinner there will be a talent show with Bjarne Eikevik the master of ceremonies. Dancing begins at 10 p.m. to the music of Carl Greco and his orchestra. Registration and dinner tickets will be available in the lobby of the Holiday Inn from two to four p.m. and at the banquet.

There are many events planned on Friday and Saturday, including tennis, golf, volleyball and horseshoes.

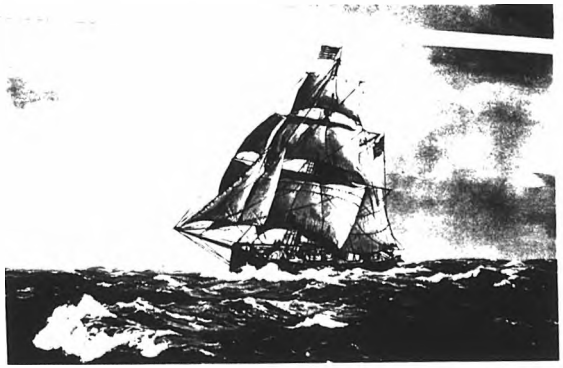
THE TOWN ON WHEELS

Sesquicentennial Celebration gets underway



One hundred and fifty years have passed since the first organized party of Norwegians sailed from the town of Stavanger on board the sloop "Restauration", bound for New York. Members and officers of the Norwegian American Chamber of Commerce have worked actively as members of seven committees in U.S. cities from coast to coast to celebrate the Sesquicentennial of that epic journey.

The century and a half following their voyage has witnessed the dramatic emergence on both sides of the Atlantic, of the modern industrialized world. Of the many nations which contributed to the building of the United States, Norway stands out because it sent more of its people in proportion to its population than any other country. And only one country, Ireland, sent a larger number of immigrants to the U.S.

The fifty-two Norwegian men, women and children who boarded the sloop the "Restauration" in Stavanger, Norway, on July 4th 1825 were hardly aware that this would be regarded by posterity as the beginning of the Norwegian emigration to America.

Actually, there had been other emigrants before them, many of them taking greater risks and enduring more hardship. We know of some twenty Norwegians living and working in the early Dutch dominated New Amsterdam. In fact, when the calumets were smoked and the Peace Treaty signed by the Indian Chiefs and the leading citizens of New Amsterdam in 1645, one of the two interpreters co-signing the Treaty was a certain Claes de Norman. From his native Sande in Norway, he came to Holland as a sailor and joined the West Indies Company as a mercenary. That brought him to the New World where he made a living as a trapper, and thus got to know the Indian tribes and their languages.

A compatriot of Norman's in New Amsterdam was a ship's carpenter by the name of Hans Hansen Bergen who had made his way from Bergen, Norway, to America by way of Holland. The records indicate that he was a respected citizen, a claim which is supported by the fact that the place where he settled in New Jersey still bears his name. Dutch-Norwegian contacts were very lively in those days and the natural route from Norway to New Amsterdam seemed to go via Old Amsterdam, Holland.

During the century leading up to 1825 some hundreds of Norwegians may have made their way to America, individually and by various routes. However, when the "Restauration" put out to sea, this represented the first organized party of Norwegian emigrants. Not unaptly, the "Restauration" has been referred to as the Norwegian "Mayflower".

The Norwegian National Gazette of July 15 of that year reports that "in a ship purchased for the purpose, five peasant families left this port (Stavanger) for America where they intend to settle and expect to find a Canaan's land. They are said to belong to a religious society which has gained a number of members in this district in recent years." The religious society in question was the Quakers, to whom at least the leader of the departing group belonged.

With its 45 tons the "Restauration" was not much of a ship for 45 passengers and a crew of seven on a transatlantic voyage. On October 8 after nearly 100 days they reached New York by way of the island of Madeira. Unwittingly, they had already violated American laws which ruled that no more than two persons per five tons were allowed to disembark. As this made the "Restauration" 28 people "overweight", the entire party was promptly arrested and only released after President John Quincy Adams personally intervened on their behalf.

A more friendly reception was prepared for them by their compatriot and organizer Cleng Peerson, the "pathfinder of Norwegian emigration" who had made his way to America in 1821. With the help of American Quakers he arranged for them to buy land in Kendall, a small community near Rochester, New York. Later, the majority of them moved further west in search of better soil and in 1836 founded the first Norwegian settlement in the Midwest, in Fox River near LaSalle, Illinois.

Reports from these early settlers to relatives and friends back home about the fertile prairie soil created quite an "America fever". Particularly the news that good arable land was to be had for $1.25 per acre and after the Homestead Act of 1862 for nothing brought about waves of emigration in such numbers that Norwegian officials feared the country would be depopulated. In the 1840's nearly one thousand Norwegians emigrated each year with the number increasing to more than 4,000 a year in the 1850's. In 1903 more than 20,000 Norwegians left their homes for the New World, and in one 12 month peak period the number reached 35,000.

By the time the National Origins Act was enacted in 1924, which established limits for immigration, the greatest rush was over. In the course of these 100 years some 800,000 Norwegians had moved to the United States. Today their descendants are estimated to total at least three million Americans of Norwegian descent. To grasp the relative size of the Norwegian emigration it should be kept in mind that the total population of Norway in 1975 is still only about 4 million.

In 1825 the Norwegian census showed a population of 1,044,172. Norway is the fifth largest country of Europe with a distance from north to south equal to that from Vancouver to San Diego. However, about one half of Norway is located north of the Arctic Circle and arable land constitutes only three per cent of the surface with no readily accessible natural resources the odds were against the ordinary man and woman attaining more than a subsistence level standard of living.

The lure of fertile soil was therefore one of the main reasons for the Norwegian emigrations. But the emigrants had other reasons as well. We know that some of the Sloopers of 1825 were Quakers who sought freedom from the persecution of the Lutheran State Church and there was undoubtedly other Norwegians who left for religious reasons. But perhaps equally important was an underlying element of longing for political and personal realization. After 400 years of Danish domination, Norway had as recently as 1814 acquired its own constitution. However as a result of the settlement after the Napoleonic Wars, Norway was forced into a union with Sweden. For the major part of the population this still felt like a continuation of the past foreign domination. The promise of freedom and equality in the New World therefore kindled many spirits in Norway.

It has been said that the vitality of the United States is built on the frustration of the European ghettos. It is a fact that many of the most dynamic people, those most ready to take a risk and least prone to submission to authority and poverty made their way across the Atlantic during the century following the exploits of Cleng Peerson and his friends.

Sexering sailed over 100 years

JENSEN BEACH–Three one-hundred-year-old boats brought from Norway by the Sons of Norway, are the featured attraction at the annual Leif Erikson Day Celebration on the Jensen Beach Causeway Sunday.

Two boats are called "sexerings" and the third an "ottering".

The boat names indicate how many oarsmen row and sail the boats: sexering for six, ottering for eight.

The boats were the main source of transportation in the fjord country of eastern Norway, where the farmers and fishermen used oar and sail to travel the narrow waterways.

Traveling through the farming country near Bergen, Bjarne Eikevik saw one in a farmer's barn, and thought it might be interesting to bring one to the United States for the first Leif Erikson Day picnic that was being planned. He arranged to have the boat brought over on the Nordic Prince.

The hand-hewn oars for the boat were carefully brought back by Scandinavian Air Lines, and the boat was a beautiful sight in that first Leif Erikson pageant.

Since that time, two more boats were brought from Norway, found to be in the Bergen area, shipped on the Nordic Prince, and outfitted by Florida lodges of Sons of Norway.

They form the fleet that sails in the causeway, their brightly striped sails catching the Indian River sunlight.

And now racing has been added to the festivities of Leif Erikson Day, with the Orlando, Ft. Lauderdale and Gulfstream lodges fielding their own crews to compete for the Leif Erikson trophy.

In the past three years of racing, Ft. Lauderdale won the first year and Gulfstream, the last 2 years.

A course is set up and the boats sail and oarsmen row on the two legs.

The authenticity of the boats is part of the deep feeling of the Sons of Norway members for the event.

Small center idea proposed

JENSEN BEACH–A Community Service Center could begin with one room and grow into a big complex if it proves workable," the Martin county planning director said Monday.

"It could be a very modest beginning," County Planner Kris Schenk said.

"It could be a room where the people of an area could drop in and talk to their commissioner, or used by sheriff deputies to fill out reports," Schenk observed.

Schenk's Planning Department will be asked by commissioners to make some recommendations in the near future on establishing Community Service Centers in the outlying areas of the county.

As Commissioner Timer Powers suggested, "It's taking the government to the people instead of the people going to the government."

Schenk said that his department would be looking at a variety of reasons why a center should be located at a specific area.

"We would look at the area where the people are, and where growth is anticipated."

"We would have to determine the size of the facility, and if it proves workable, really make it a big complex."

"We shouldn't think about what is at Indiantown to try and determine what should be established on other areas," Schenk said.

There is a big government complex at Indiantown which is used on a part-time basis by most courthouse officials and some state agencies. It has been in operation for several years.

"I would like to meet with people of the Jensen Beach area and see what kind of service they want. I want to get ideas from people," Schenk added.

Several County Commission meetings ago Commissioner Powers suggested that Community Service Centers in outlying areas should be established in the future.

Since that time several county officials have endorsed the idea saying that they could utilize the facility on a part-time basis.

"This is in direct contrast to the historical way of building bigger buildings in the county seat," Commissioner Powers observed.

Powers said he hopes to have money in the 1976-77 budget for service centers.

SOUP'S IN–The next time you buy some Campbell's soup, remove the label and save for the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA. PTA members are saving the labels which will be turned in to the company which, in turn, will be turned into equipment for the school. Holding some Campbell's can signs are Jeanette Weiss, left, PTA vice president, and Carole Selover, PTA president; and John Clyde, assistant school principal.

Chamber will make plans

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors will begin planning for the new year at its Monday, Oct. 13 meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m.

On the agenda for appointments are Nominating Committee chairman for installation dinner and a chairman for the Christmas program.

Committee reports include plans for the annual Halloween celebration at Langford Park.

Mrs. Virginia Van Dien is chairman of the Halloween festivities, and she reports that a parade of children in their costumes will be held at the park with Mary Killer in charge.

There will be prizes in several costume categories, Mrs. Van Dien said.

Also, there will be store window painting by the children of Jensen Beach Elementary School with prizes awarded.

Boat parade

House of Refuge ceremony is Saturday

JENSEN BEACH–Florida Secretary of State Bruce A. Smathers will be the speaker at ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the House of Refuge.

The Saturday, Oct. 18, program will get underway at 1 p.m. with Hoy Scouts dressed as Indians in canoes escorting boats which will participate in the marine parade.

Features of the brief event will be the marine parade in Indian River, passing in review and saluting the Jensen Beach landmark as a 48-star flag is raised over the compound by Commander Duane F. Smith representing Rear Admiral W.C. Wagner of the Seventh Coast Guard District.

Also, Mrs. Marshall Martin of Jacksonville will receive the first copy of "The History of Martin County," a 544-page volume published by the Historical Society's Gilbert's Bar Press.

Mrs. Martin's late husband was a brother of Gov. John Wellborn Martin, for whom Martin County was named 56 years ago.

The House of Refuge, one of two museums administered by the Historical Society, has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places, making it eligible for matching funds for complete restoration. It is listed on the Florida Bicentennial Trail.

Mrs. William Clark Shepard is chairman of the event with William Connolly co-chairman.

Florida Institute of Technology buses will be at Elliott Museum to transport people to the House of Refuge.

To take advantage of the incoming tide, the boat parade will start at 1 p.m. with the shore ceremonies to begin approximately half an hour later.

Edward H. Benedict is chairman of the marine parade and four patrol boats of Flotilla 59 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, and a communications boat have been assigned to the parade.

A circular route is being marked by floats to assure a low water depth of four feet.

The two-story House of Refuge was built for $2,900 in the fall of 1875 and was originally operated by the Life Saving Service and then the Coast Guard until 1945 when it was deactivated.

While it is no longer a refuge for sailors, the House of Refuge is now a place of safety for sea turtles.

This role began in 1966 when some turtles were hatched and kept in a Seminole Indian dugout canoe, a museum exhibit until they were released to the ocean.

Nuclear plant hearing is October 9

JENSEN BEACH–An Atomic Safety and Licensing Appeal Board will hear oral argument October 9 in Ft. Pierce on exceptions to a partial decision in the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's construction permit proceeding for Florida Power & Light Company's proposed St. Lucie Plant, Unit 2, on Hutchinson Island.

Oral argument will begin at 10 a.m. in Courtroom B-3rd Floor of the County Courthouse, Second Street, Ft. Pierce.

Following a public hearing on environmental and site suitability matters associated with the construction permit application, the presiding Atomic Safety and Licensing Board issued a partial decision on February 28 of this year which in effect authorized issuance of a Limited Work Authorization to Florida Power & Light. A Limited Work Authorization permits certain construction work to be done at a site at the company's financial risk, before a construction permit is issued. The company asked the Licensing Board to reconsider certain specific findings in the decision and the Board subsequently issued a supplement to the decision.

Exceptions to these decisions were filed with the Appeal Board by both the license applicant and the intervenors in the proceeding. Intervenors are represented by Martin H. Hodder who intervened for himself and as attorney for several other individuals.

VIKINGS CAME–The Vikings of the Sons of Norway found choppy waters as they reenacted the landing of Leif Erikson in America last Sunday on the Jensen Beach Causeway. Over 5,000 visitors came to see the pageantry, along with the 500 Sons of Norway members here for their annual festival. Full picture coverage will be next week in The Mirror.

Samaritans appeal for volunteer help

JENSEN BEACH–Expansion of the area served by the Jensen Beach Samaritan Free Ambulance has put a strain on volunteers, according to officials and an appeal is going out for new volunteers.

This week, the Samaritans added Hutchinson Island and North River Shores to coverage area that includes Jensen Beach, Rio, Walton Rocks, Sewall's Point and Ocean Breeze Park.

In an appeal to Jensen Beach physicians, Dr. Richard Pernick asked for volunteers to help the free ambulance service, now working on a 24-hour coverage of the area.

At present, only 33 volunteers are active in the service, with some working up to Pernick, working up to 36 hours a week. Samaritans plan to make an appeal to local clubs and organizations to get more volunteers to lessen the work load of those already in the service.

The Samaritans need both men and women as drivers and emergency medical technicians (EMT's).

Drivers must be 18 years old or over, hold a Florida driver's license, have taken or will take a defensive driver course, and have taken, or will take the ten hour medical self help course available locally, or the Red Cross first aid course.

For information, volunteers can call 334-1365 or 334-4457.

BOOK BARGAINS–The Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA had a successful children's books sale last Friday and Monday. Looking over some of the books that were on sale are, from left, Debbie Welker, fourth grade; Michael Meleika, first grade; Chris Oliver, first grade; Angela Wilson, first grade; and Debra Dufenbaker, third grade.

Executive Plaza suit will seek to halt building buy

JENSEN BEACH–A lawsuit was filed Monday, Oct. 6, in Circuit Court against Martin County contending that the contract between the county and Executive Plaza is "void and illegal."

The suit was filed by Attorney Richard Dungey for 10 plaintiffs, and asks the court for a "declaratory judgment adjudicating that the contract between Martin County and Executive Plaza Limited is void and illegal."

They said they are bringing the action against the county and Executive Plaza Limited for themselves and other county taxpayers.

It is contended in the suit that the contract in reality obligates the taxpayers of Martin County to pay for the purchase of the property without having the opportunity to vote on a bond issue to approve the purchase as required by the Constitution.

It also is pointed out in the contract that the property is appraised for 60% over the 1975 tax roll, but that the five-year lease-purchase (Oct. 7, 1975 to Oct. 6, 1979) is $1,188,510 at a yearly payment of $237,700.

Plaintiffs allege and ask the court to determine that said device, gimmick or scheme (lease purchase of aforesaid contract) does not successfully circumvent the provision of the Constitution.

It also is noted by the plaintiffs that the County Commissioners have placed the taxpayers, citizens, present commission, subsequent commission under compulsion and financial duress to levy, assess and collect a tax each year sufficient to pay the annual payments of the lease including interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

PTA carnival is set

JENSEN BEACH–The annual carnival sponsored by the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA is bigger and better each year.

And because Jensen Beach area is celebrating the nation's 200th birthday, the carnival this year will have a new name–The Bicentennial Carnival.

The "Fun For All" carnival will be held Nov. 1 from 2 to 6 p.m. at Langford Park.

Building buy causing concern

JENSEN BEACH–After some scurrying about by the Martin County attorney and some hasty huddles by the County Commission, a decision may be made today, Oct. 8, on purchase of the much maligned Executive Plaza Building.

County Attorney went to Tallahassee Friday to get an attorney general's opinion on whether the county's lease-purchase agreement on the Executive Plaza building is legal.

County Commissioners met Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of acting, one way or the other, on the building agreement.

The attorney general had not issued an opinion so the meeting was recessed until Wednesday afternoon (Oct. 8).

Meanwhile there was some legal maneuvering at the Tuesday session with Larry Buchanan, representing the Executive Plaza, agreeing to the one-day extension of the first payment.

The first payment of $237,700 was due Tuesday, Oct. 7. But Buchanan wanted assurance that the county would be responsible for any damage that might occur between Tuesday and the official closing of the contract. And he was assured of that fact.

Attorney Bob McRoberts, who represents Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs, asked if the commission were ready to close the deal. Commissioners replied that they were ready, and Chairman Russ Philbrick said he would sign the check.

Calvert said that if the clerk would sign the check "we could close."

Calvert also pointed out that if the commissioners voted for an illegal expenditure they all would be libel. He was responding to Philbrick's question on the legality of the deal.

Before the special Tuesday session Philbrick said he would not be opposed to a Grand Jury investigation to the lease-purchase agreement.

Mrs. Isaacs has refused to sign the $237,700 check for the first of five annual payments. She has been advised by her attorney that there is "substantial legal doubt on the validity of the purchase."

Voice of democracy contest begins

JENSEN BEACH–The Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 10086, Post 6194, Post 10130 and its Ladies Auxiliaries are sponsoring the 29th Annual Voice of Democracy broadcasting scriptwriting Scholarship Program.

The contest is open to students in grades 10-12 in Martin County public and private schools.

This year's theme will be "What Our Bicentennial Heritage Means To Me."

Participants are encouraged to express their beliefs in a three to five minute speech. The top three winners from each school will be selected to make presentations of their script with the tapes presented to the County Judging Committee.

The winner in Martin County will be presented a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and be eligible for competition in the Regional, State and National Contest.

The winner of the National Voice of Democracy Contest will receive a $10,000 Scholarship.

All scripts must be in before Nov. 21, 1975 for county wide judging. District selection will be made December 9. State and National Competition will be completed in January, 1976.

Mrs. Isaacs will speak to Republican women

JENSEN BEACH–The Martin County Republican Women's Club will hold its regular meeting at the Crow's Nest Restaurant, Rio, on Tuesday, Oct. 14. Luncheon will be served at noon.

Guest speaker, Mrs. Louise Isaacs, Clerk of Circuit Court since elected in 1972, came to Martin County well qualified for her position, having attended the American Institute in Washington, D.C. and employed in accounting for the U.S. Government at the Pentagon. Later, she served as Deputy Clerk of Superior Court in Watagua, North Carolina. She served as Deputy Clerk under the former Martin County Clerk of Circuit Court before being elected to the office in 1972.

Lutheran church site is purchased

JENSEN BEACH–The new Prince of Peace Lutheran Congregation announced the purchase of a site for it's proposed sanctuary. The site is located 2 miles north of Stuart on U.S. 1 just north of the entrance to the Vista del Lago Condominium. The Rev. A.V. Socker, Pastor of Prince of Peace, said that the site is more than adequate to meet both the immediate and long range needs of the parish and is ideally situated to serve Stuart, North River Shores, Jensen Beach, Rio and South Port St. Lucie.

Work to organize Prince of Peace was begun in April of this year and it has become one of the strongest congregations under development by the Lutheran Church in America in the State of Florida.

Plans now call for the construction of the first unit of a proposed three-unit facility. The first unit will be multi-functional and will include a sanctuary, classrooms and offices. The first unit will serve the needs of the congregation until the main sanctuary and educational units are completed in the future at which time the first unit will serve as a chapel and offices.

Prince of Peace now worships at the Trinity United Methodist Church in South Jensen Beach. Services are at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday mornings under a shared facility arrangement with the Methodist congregation.

Forced busing

WASHINGTON—Forced busing to achieve an arbitrary racial balance in schools - the very phrase sends shivers down the spine of most parents, black and white.

Both Houses of Congress have voted against arbitrary busing, yet it persists and will continue to

There was a victory of sorts recently when the Senate at last spoke out against busing, voting 49-34 to amend the Health, Education and Welfare Department's annual appropriations bill and prohibit HEW from using federal funds to require school busing.

It wasn't the staunch statement against busing that believers in the neighborhood school system wanted But, weak as it was, it was still the strongest prohibition against busing ever enacted by that body.

And it follows several, much stronger prohibitions enacted by the House.

Unfortunately, however, it will have little or no effect on busing. The amendment adopted by the Senate merely precludes HEW from spending federal funds to require busing on its own; it doesn't stop the courts from ordering busing.

And it is the courts which order most of the busing. It is the courts which have turned Boston and Louisville schools from houses of learning into centers of conflict.

And the only way to stop the courts from ordering massive busing programs to satisfy some arbitrary numerical pattern is a constitutional amendment.

There are literally dozens of proposed Constitutional Amendments to restore the neighborhood school system now pending before the House Judiciary Committee, just as there were during the 93rd Congress.

Yet, just as it did during the 93rd Congress, the Judiciary Committee sits on the amendments, effectively blocking any chance for full and open debate on this all important subject.

And the reason is simple. Those who support busing know full well that if the question ever reaches the floor for a vote, they will lose.

They know that if it was wrong to deny admission to public schools simply because of race, it is equally wrong to compel admission or to bus pupils far outside of their neighborhoods merely to achieve some artificial racial balance.

And so the matter is bottled up in committee.

For that reason, I and a number of other Congressmen have signed a discharge petition to bring this crucial matter to the House floor for debate and a vote. This is an unusual step, but one justified in this instance because of the great importance of the question and because of the arbitrary refusal of the committee to act as it should.

Further I have joined with more than 50 other Congressmen in urging President Ford and urging to send a Presidential message to Congress calling for action on an anti-busing Amendment.

The President has publicly stated his opposition to forced busing in the past, but his action in sending a message to Congress would do a great deal toward sparking action. After all it is the future of our nation we should be concerned about. And it is more than apparent from all the evidence of the past few years that court-ordered busing just doesn't work.

Instead of being a tool to end segregation and help all students, busing has all but ruined many school systems, sending the more affluent to private schools or to the suburbs and leaving the city school systems highly segregated and unable to pay for the quality education which is everyone's birthright in this country.

Busing doesn't work. And if it doesn't work, we must stop the courts from burdening our school districts with an outdated, ill-thought-out social scheme.

BOYS STATE—The three delegates to the American Legion Boys State held recently are shown with the director of Boys State and National VIP Representative, Chin Chew Get, second from right. Boys State representatives from Martin County were Michael Phillips, Robert Laird and Jay Pritchford.

Happy Birthday

America Ahead
It's a positive state of mind.

Early Americans

Two-hundred years from now the family pictured above and the generation they represent will be called early Americans. But, what will America be like 200 years from now? The ideals on which our great country was founded, along with our ingenuity, know-how and plain hard work have seen us through the first 200 years. We are living in troubled times with serious problems. We have had just as serious setbacks in the past. But, will Americans of the future enjoy the freedoms, the benefits of living in a free society that we now enjoy? We think yes. As we are preparing to celebrate our 200th birthday, it is appropriate to look back and pride ourselves on our accomplishments. We at First National also feel it is a time to look ahead, for America's sake. To look ahead with a positive state of mind. To carry on the fine traditions and ideals that have made this country so great. Let's work on our present problems and meet head-on those that would deny us our freedoms. Let's preserve America. We invite your participation.

Garden Club plans season opener

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Garden Club will hold its first meeting of the season at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, at the Jensen Beach Community Church Fellowship Hall on Skyline Drive.

Annabel Bower, program chairman, announces that Robert Wagner will be guest speaker, presenting a slide program and talk on "Florida's Last Frontier." Wagner, a Jensen Beach resident, is affiliated with Indian River Community College.

Jayne Morris, accredited judge of garden design and past president of the club, has planned a new feature to open the club year, a display of miniature design arrangements by members interpreting "Hallowe'en Party."

At an executive board meeting held at the home of President Anne Lartaud last week, Irene Stephenson, ways and means chairman, reminded members of the "Thrifty Shopper Sale" to be held at the Jensen Community Center on December 5 and 6, proceeds to benefit the club's civic projects. One of the most important civic projects underway in the community is the beautification of the landmark known as The Arch. Members had donated $300 to the County Commission for repair and painting of the structure and are now designing and installing planters to beautify the base. Landscaping will complete the project in early November.

Mrs. Lartaud will represent the local Club at a District Ten meeting of Florida Federation of Garden Clubs in Delray Beach on Oct. 17, at which time she will present a short talk on the club's civic projects and forthcoming activities including the Bicentennial Homes Tour in February 1976.

Women's Club will meet Wednesday

STUART–The Woman's Club of Stuart will hold their regular business meeting on Wed., Oct. 15. Refreshments will be served at 1 p.m. followed by the meeting at 1:30.

After the meeting, Mrs. W. H. Shafer, president of the Martin County Writers' Assoc. will review a recent best seller book "Jawa" by which the popular movie has been made. Mrs. Grauger from Jensen Beach, was formerly a government and radio copywriter and a contributor to the Islander, a South Seas newspaper of the Island of Simon Tia.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at 5 p.m. and at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, October 25 in the club house. The public is invited. For reservations call Adele Johnson 334-6686, Betty Moog 283-7386, Marian Kivern 283-3262.

The Literary Group of the Woman's Club will meet at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, October 20 at the club house. The following members will review these books: Mrs. R.A. Carter, Enchanted Places; Mrs. R.K. Miles, Ragtime; Mrs. L. Wright, Ecco Spasm.

Volunteens receive awards

STUART–The Volunteens, sponsored by the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, were honored at a tea held last week.

Mrs. Betty Smith, Volunteen chairman, welcomed parents and friends of the Volunteens to the tea and entertainment.

Mrs. Katie Sachrison, director of nurses at the hospital, was on hand to present certificates of appreciation from the hospital to the group for spending all their extra summer hours working at the hospital.

Volunteens had to work 50 hours to receive their caps. Total hours worked were 620. Rhonda Meister volunteered 105. Debbie Morris 81, Diane Heggie 95, Nat Lane, IV, 65, Joe Whittle 94, Dana Robinson 85, and Linda Dalamarter 95.

Attending from Martin Memorial were Mrs. Virginia Earle, assistant director of nursing, and Mrs. Cynthia Pantejo, in-service education director. Mrs. Marge Bishop, auxiliary president, was also present to thank the Volunteens and express appreciation to the hospital personnel for their help in making the Volunteen Program a success.

Real estate law course starts

STUART–A course in Florida Real Estate License Law is held at Martin County High School, SR 76, each Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday, at 7 p.m., in Room 17. The course started October 6, and runs through November 13.

Adults who are interested in learning about the legal aspects of Florida real estate transactions are invited to enroll in the course.

Mortgage money documentation, recording rights and liabilities are among the many topics discussed in class sessions.

Individuals who are involved in private real estate transactions as well as those who plan to take the Florida Real Estate License Law examination will find much value in the course.

Registration fee is $15 payable at time of registration. This fee covers the cost of the course and the textbook. Adults may register at the Adult Education Office at the high school prior to 7 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, or Thursday evenings.

ABC notehand is offered

JENSEN BEACH–A course in ABC notehand is starting on Thursday, October 9, at 7 p.m. in the Harry Hoke Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Assoc. on Commercial Street in Jensen Beach.

The class will be held each Thursday and is sponsored by the Adult Education Department, Martin County Public Schools.

The Stenoscript ABC Shorthand is a system based on the letters of the alphabet and common punctuation symbols. Because it is easy to learn and easy to write, you can begin writing Stenoscript on the first day of your class instruction.

The ABC notehand class is designed for beginners who want to learn a modified form of shorthand as well as a refresher for persons with some shorthand training.

Kiwanians install officers for year

JENSEN BEACH--A year of progress and a new beginning was the keynote of the installation of officers of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club last Friday night at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant.

PROGRAM--Robert Mayer, left, gathered some of the officers together as the program at the Kiwanis installation began. With Mayer are Neil MacMillan, secretary, outgoing President Dr. Richard Penick, and partially hidden Bill Herzog, director.

Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Mirror, was installed as president, succeeding Dr. Richard Q. Penick, as Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor Jack Strugis, of Vero Beach, charged officers and directors with their responsibilities. Past president Robert Mayer was master of ceremonies.

Penick traced the programs of the past year, outlining the many civic programs of public education, youth activities and participation in the Bicentennial celebration. He thanked various members for their work during the year, ending his brief talk with the comment, "It is finished."

Campbell said that the year that Penick had served was the turning point in the club's life, and said it wasn't finished, but was a beginning.

He then announced that the Kiwanis golf tournament to benefit youth activities would be the first program of the year, planned for December 6, at Sandpiper Bay Sowers course.

Other officers installed include Jack Scranton, vice president; Neil MacMillan, secretary; Chin Chew Get, treasurer; and directors Bill Herzog, Glenn Bryan, Bryan Karson, George Smith and Brian Bibeau.

HELLO--Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herzog welcomed The Mirror camera to the Kiwanis installation Friday night.

DISCUSSION--Captain and Mrs. Morgan Sprott seemed intent in discussion during the Kiwanis installation Friday at the Outrigger.

Kiwanis committees are named

JENSEN BEACH--Committee heads of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club were named for the new year Monday by Dick Campbell, president.

Brian Bibeau was named chairman of the program committee.

Past President Richard Penick was named chairman of the membership committee, with Eugene Peer vice chairman.

Richard Pinsky was named chairman of the citizenship and spiritualism committee, with Art Hansen, vice chairman.

Leonard Cottom was named chairman of the major emphasis committee, with Bill Herzog vice chairman.

Jack Scranton, Leonard Smith and E.C. Wareheim were named co-chairmen of the golf tournament committee and Chin Chew Get was named chairman of the chicken dinner committee with Ralph Norkin and Morgan Sprott.

CELEBRANTS--Cathy Rollins and the Leonard Cottoms enjoyed the dinner at the Kiwanis installation last Friday night.

LISTENING--Mr. and Mrs. Buck Mauldin seemed intent on the conversation at the Kiwanis installation last Friday.

Sweet Adelines celebrate

PORT ST. LUCIE--Throughout the past week Sweet Adelines all over the country celebrated "Share a Smile and a Song" week by entertaining with barbershop harmony.

Locally, a quartet from the Treasure Coast Chapter performed for the Indian River Inspirational Concert Series at the First United Methodist Church in Vero Beach.

Rita McMahon, lead; Pat Gillen, tenor; Delores Koonce, baritone, and Anita Carpenter, bass, sang several inspirational and patriotic songs.

In keeping with the theme, the Chapter also performed at the Abbey Jean Russell Nursing Home and will entertain residents of Park Terrace Apartments, both in Fort Pierce.

Treasure Coast Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. meets each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sunrise Boulevard Baptist Church, White City. All women interested in barbershop harmony and in "sharing a song and a smile" are welcome to attend.

Lucille and Roy Black of Nevada Ave. had a delightful trip to Minneapolis to attend their son Richard's wedding. Richard works for General Mills and has just been transferred to Seattle, Washington. Now the Black's have a new place to visit in the future.

Pat and Al Hasell of Duxbury Ave. spent about five weeks visiting in New Jersey and Michigan. Their daughter and her family live in Ann Arbor.

The Rynders, Art and Rubs, are back on Estia Lane after spending the summer in Wisconsin up near Fond du Lac. They had many visitors including some from Port St. Lucie, but they are ready for the season of golf, sewing and bridge here at home.

* * *

Bert Punk of Lobster Rd. visited all around New York State for a couple of months. While she was in Rochester, her son who lives in Missoula, Montana spent a few days with her on his way home from Boston where he received a Golden Key for a Charter Life Underwriter of the Lincoln National Life Ins. Co. Bert also visited with her daughter.

About 50 people had a good time at the dance at CESA last Saturday night. If you haven't attended one of these dances, which are held once a month, you're really missing a lot of fun. Only costs $1.00, which is donated to CESA and the next one is November 21. Mark it on your calendar.

* * *

Evelyn and Tom Norton returned to Port St. Lucie after spending the summer in Minneapolis visiting their son Tom, and in Menominee, Wisconsin, with their son Bill and his family including a new grand daughter, Becky. Evelyn would have liked to stay and spoil the new grandaughter, but Florida called.

* * *

John and Ann Butler of Florissa Drive returned to their home after visiting their daughter in Dayton, Ohio. John also mixed a little business with the pleasure of visiting their daughter.

* * *

The rains chased the Anglers Club picnickers from the Jensen Causeway last Thursday but the lunch was over and the fish didn't bite so everyone headed for home.

Festive affair

PORT ST. LUCIE--A festive Fashion Show Card Party to be held at CESA on Friday, October 24, will begin with dessert at 1 p.m.

Fashions by Thelma's of Fort Pierce will be modeled by Marguerite Feller, Olga Atkins, Irene White, Marge McChesney, Vera Abbott, Mildred Greiger, Ruth Adler and Pauline Griffiths.

Drawings for a bag from Thelma's and a leather craft picture donated by Marjorie Decker will enhance the door prize and table prizes.

In charge of the affair are Nina Keating, Maxine Erwin, Peggy Paul, Marion Ashe, Alyce Thomas, Marie Reading, Anna Searles, Marjorie Decker and Ruth McDonnell. Tickets may be purchased by contacting any of the committee members, or by calling Annette at CESA 878-3138.

Fall card party

PORT ST. LUCIE--The women of Holy Faith Episcopal Church in Port St. Lucie have set their fall card party for Thursday, October 9, beginning with dessert and coffee at 1 p.m.

Home baked pies, cakes, breads, jams and jellies will be on sale at a Bakery Table, together with hand made articles and items purchased abroad at the Boutique Table.

Mrs. Bernard B. Smith heads the committee in charge of the affair, which is to be held at the Port St. Lucie Marina on Prima Vista Boulevard. Those attending are asked to bring their own cards.

Improved service starts

JENSEN BEACH--The U.S. Postal Service first class mail service improvement program will go into effect at Jensen Beach Post Office on October 11, Postmaster Harold C. Saltzler said today.

Under the program, first class mail will receive service that is equal to or better than airmail.

The major new service step will extend to all first class mail weighing 13 ounces or less. "In practical terms what this service improvement means is that domestic first class postage now will purchase the level of service that previously only airmail could buy," said Saltzler.

"Under the new program there no longer will be an advantage in purchasing airmail postage for domestic delivery," he continued.

Priority mail (now starting at weight in excess of 13 ounces) which includes air parcel service, and international airmail are unaffected by the improvement program and continue in their present form, the postmaster said.

"Airmail stamps will be sold for use on priority and international airmail. They can also be used in various combinations with other stamps for first class mail," he said.

Customers can exchange airmail stamps and stamped envelopes and cards at full postage value for ordinary stamps, stamped envelopes and cards. Stationers bearing airmail indicia will be allowed to be mailed at the first class rate, Postmaster Saltzler said.

To aid postal customers maps showing the cities and areas targeted for next and second day delivery for mail from Jensen Beach will be on display in the post office lobby, the postmaster concluded.

Campus leaders are selected

PORT PIERCE--Indian River Community College's Campus Government elections were recently held on the campus. Voting was by the student body for class and county representatives.

Freshman Representatives elected are Kim Burdick, Indian River County and Dean Gaston, Indian River County. Sophomore representatives elected are Maureen McDevitt St. Lucie County, and Tom Skuseun Indian River County.

St. Lucie County representative to Connie Hastings, Okeechobee County representative is Lany Strickland, Martin County. Rep. is Debbie Zoratti and Indian River County Rep. is John Kirby.

C.C.G. Executive Officers elected are Chairman Mary Swanick, St. Lucie County, vice-chairman John Kirby, Indian River County, secretary Lani Strickland, Okeechobee County, and treasurer Terry Robison, Indian River County.

The C.C.G. is comprised of representatives from all student organizations on the campus including athletic teams, clubs and county representatives. C.C.G. has been busy organizing, coordinating and publicizing all student activities for the 1975-76 school year.

Ties, ties and more ties

PORT ST. LUCIE--Ties were the order of the day Tuesday when the North Port Golf League met in weekly tournament competition.

Flight A had a three-way tie with Vince Metzger, George Moore and Don Donahoo all scoring 58.

Least number of putts for the round ended in another tie. Art Gerhardt and Rob Brunton both had 27.

Ernie Riefler was closest to the pin on No. 8 green.

Winners are announced

JENSEN BEACH–Agnes Bond and Cora Ellis won the door prizes at the Jensen Beach Women's Association card party last week.

Marjorie Cowan took home the special prize a caftan.

Venture Out News

BY WILLARD AUCH

Well, I guess someone left the front gate open almost every day some of our northern friends are finding their way back to V.O.

Jake and Betty Davis, with friend Richard Feidler of Erie, Ohio, arrived last Wednesday evening. Jake is getting things all lined up, has their boat out of storage and we have seen them out in it several times. Betty's complaint is the heat. This we cannot understand as we are having a cool wave compared to what we have had this summer. It has been a hot one, but we love it.

J. Rubright of Big Bottom, New Jersey, arrived this week and hopes to get some cement work done on his lot before he heads back.

Tom and Fran Potter, from up Flint, Michigan way, arrived this past week and moved into their new trailer. They are planning some more concrete work on their sea wall patio. Getting davits, etc.

Tom retired about three years ago as teacher and coach from Flint Southwestern High School. One of his former pupils, Rich Leach, is the freshman quarterback at Michigan University who did a superb job in defeating Missouri last week. Tom also was a golf instructor, so you golfers better watch your handicaps.

Fran spent ten years teaching in the Head Start program. They have three boys, two daughters and 13 grandchildren, so you can see that Santa has a busy time at Christmas.

They love their lot and expect to be spending considerable time here at V.O.

The Dedakers are back after a sojourn visiting their son Nick, his wife Bobbi and grandson Bradley at Greentown, Indiana. While there, their son Gary drove up from Gainesville. On their trip south, they met the Preus and Wilsons at Kentucky Lake Village for a bit of square dancing. They then went to visit the Preus at their summer home in Highland, N.C. It was their first visit to the Smokys (or sea") and they had a grand time. Bob placed his boat in storage while they were gone and now is busy getting it ready for the boating season. Like many others, they enjoyed their trip but are glad to return to V.O.

Bernie and Frances Stotler are visiting in the park for a week. They are friends of Jim and Kay Gibson and live at Arlington, Va.

Frank and Gail Lawson arrived last Thursday and expect to spend the winter months here.

Wilda and John Wilson are back on their lot 604. They have been gone six months which John says is "five months too long."

After trailering to California and as far north as Portland, they spent two and a half months near their daughters in Ohio and Pennsylvania. On their way south they spent a week at Kentucky Dam Village for some square dancing. They say they had an interesting and enjoyable summer but are glad to be home again.

A letter from Floyd and Jean Reynolds from Penn Yan, N.Y. states:

"It is getting to that time of year when we are looking forward to our return to V.O. for the winter. We expect that to be about the first of November.

"It has been a beautiful summer here in New York State and now that fall is upon us, the hill sides surrounding our Keuka Lake home are in beautiful color. We have had a cool and rainy September which is unusual for this area.

"Jean and I have had a busy and enjoyable summer. We did some redecorating, gardening, boating, fishing and entertaining friends and relatives.

"The last week in June, Lydia and Milton Mills from V.O. and Anderson, Indiana, stopped in for a few days, and we enjoyed showing them around our area, visiting the Corning Glass works, one of the many wineries in the area, the Harris Hill Sail Plane event, and, of course, a boat trip around our lake.

"Last weekend Leonard and Estelle Shepard, friends, formerly from Holiday Out and Vermont, paid us a visit. Again we enjoyed showing them around our area.

"The grape harvest here is in full swing and the wineries are busy processing the many tons of grapes.

"We have enjoyed reading about Venture Out and the area news in the Mirror, and are looking forward to returning and joining our friends and the many activities at Venture Out. See you soon."

Clyde and Lola Bonar arrived this week. They spent the summer at their home at Wall Lake, Michigan swimming, fishing and playing a lot of golf. Number One hole is at the back door of their home, so they step right out on the golf course and tee off at Number Two. No problem, and right handy.

They expect to be here all winter and are looking forward to the arrival of their daughter Barbara and son-in-law Harry Grames with grandson Todd the latter part of this week. With their new trailer and screen porch they are all fixed up. Looking forward to meeting many of their friends this winter.

Post Office and SS office are 'no go'

PORT ST. LUCIE—In response to requests for consideration re establishing a Social Security contact site in Port St. Lucie from Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, U.S. Congressman Skip Bafalis, and U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said no, at least, not at this time.

A letter from Robert P. Bynum, acting director of field operations, states, further expansion of service is not feasible at the present time. The workload they project for the area is too small to justify sending staff to Port St. Lucie on a regularly scheduled basis."

City officials revealed they would be willing to make space available for a social security representative to hold office hours in the community on a regular basis, perhaps one half day per week or two full days each month.

They stated that it is difficult, if not impossible, for many of the community's senior citizens to travel 16 miles to Fort Pierce for social security service.

The administration's answer to this problem was, "We offer other means of contacting Social Security to those who find it inconvenient or impossible to travel to our Ft. Pierce Branch Office. Most social security business can be handled by telephone or mail. Telephone access to the branch office in the Port St. Lucie area is toll-free, and we encourage the use of the telephone whenever possible."

Bynum concluded by saying, "Although we do not find it possible to increase service to the Port St. Lucie area in the form of a regularly scheduled contact station at this time, we have asked local management and our regional staff to watch the situation closely."

"If future workloads justify adjustments in our service, we will take whatever action is necessary within the limits of our available resources."

Senator Chiles, in a letter to Mayor Sharpe, wrote "To date, I have not heard anything from the Post Office regarding the feasibility of a postal facility in Port St. Lucie. I will let you know as soon as I have any information for you on this matter."

So, at least for the present, it's "no go" for either facility in Port St. Lucie.

Angler's cookout is Sunday

PORT ST. LUCIE—The cook-out planned by the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club for Sunday, October 12, will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Northport Marina, rain or shine.

Adult members and guests will pay $1.75 and children under 12 will get in for $1. All are asked to bring their own table service.

Serving as co-chairmen with Forlenza are George Lindberg and John Jankoski. Also on the committee are Charles Hollander, Mike Calvacca, Vito Palazzolo, Charles Fisher, Ed Buffington, Sandy Cassone, Clyde Richardson.

Other committee members who will be on hand to promote the food and fun are Morgan Jones, Harold Maggard, Charles White, Spencer Eddy, Walt McNally, Wayne Whitaker, Bill Hoover, Don Peterson and Clyde Rhett.

CESA will be closed Oct. 15

PORT ST. LUCIE—Morning and afternoon classes and clubs will be cancelled on Wednesday, October 15 necessitated by having the electricity off during the change over to the new CESA addition.

All evening classes and clubs will meet.

Additional students are needed to inaugurate the Christmas Crafts Class to be held from 1 to 3:30 p.m. weekly on Thursdays, starting October 16. Reservations will be accepted through Thursday, Oct. 9.

Under the direction of Mrs. Susan Hamby, director of the Fort Pierce Community Center, the Christmas Crafts Class will cover decorations, small gifts, greeting cards all kinds of holiday items. Fee for the eight week course is $7, payable at the first class.

Registration for guitar lessons will be taken at the Community Center at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29. Classes will be held weekly conducted by Mrs. Kathryn Gibson. She has a B.S. Degree in music and is currently teaching at Lawnwood Elementary School in Fort Pierce. The fee is $12 for the eight week course. Students are required to furnish their own guitars and purchase books from the instructor. For further information, call Mrs. Gibson at 878-2080.

In response to several requests, registrations are being taken for a Cake Decorating Class at the Community Center starting Friday, Oct. 10, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon weekly. Pollene Stutzman will instruct the Indian River Community College sponsored course. Call 878-1398 to register, or registrations will be taken at the first class meeting.

$12,500 per acre

GDC offers city hall site

PORT ST. LUCIE—To accomplish anything, someone somewhere has to get the ball rolling and that is exactly what the City Council did relative to a site location for the proposed city hall complex.

Several months ago the city's Planning and Zoning Board recommended an approximate thirty acre site in three separate tracts at the intersection of Airoso and Port St. Lucie Boulevards for such a center, maintaining the area would provide for expansion and additions as the city grew and the breadth of city activities increased.

Tuesday it was announced that General Development Corporation, owners of the property involved, has informally proposed selling the land to the City of Port St. Lucie at the rate of $12,500 per acre. The GDC proposal offered the City 23.09 acres, more or less, situated in four tracts.

The Council unanimously agreed to turn the proposal back to the Planning and Zoning Board for review, study and recommendation.

According to the proposal, should the city require all these properties, Deacon Avenue could be abandoned. Such a move would add approximately 91 acres to the tracts.

The agreement further stipulated if the City would acquire all 24 acres, a thirty percent down payment would be called for within release with the balance payable over seven years at eight percent interest, payable quarterly, plus equal annual principal payments.

In the event the City would acquire only one tract containing approximately 14.49 acres, the cost per acre would still be $12,500, but such possible purchase would be for cash only.

The cost of connecting the entire 23.09 acres to a mini-sewer system would be about $26,000, according to GDC officials.

The GDC land sale proposal is conditioned upon acceptance not later than December 31, 1975.

The proposal as submitted to the City by Eric A. Traub, senior vice president, Commercial Properties Div. of GDC, was the culmination of discussions with President Louis E. Fischer, C.C. Crump, senior vice president, Traub, and Robert Seeley in mid-August and mid-September. Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, Ralph LaChance and City Administrator Elmer Cox attended the meetings.

In developing the preliminary plan for the municipal complex, the City's Planning Board divided the program into three basic parts.

The city hall complex or adjoining buildings would not only house the city offices, but the committee visualized the future activities as including various county, state and federal related services to be provided as well as the post office.

The second area would feature recreation and include an attractive shelter house for main offices of a recreation board and service areas for tennis courts, shuffleboard, basketball courts, swimming pool and a playground for children.

Completing the proposed city hub would be professional offices and related auxiliary services including medical, dental, accounting, legal and other professional agencies.

Council frowns on project plan

PORT ST. LUCIE—Although a preliminary project proposal for multiple family dwellings on the 21 acre tract adjoining Pruitt Road on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River received the recommendation of the City's Planning and Zoning Board in August, the Council Tuesday rejected the recommendation and returned the plans to the Board for further study, more detailed information and a complete re-evaluation.

The project plans as submitted by Wm. Croswell and Jack Limbeck indicate the development would consist of 240 apartment dwellings to be constructed on the 21 acre site.

The apartment dwellings are to be two bedroom, two bath apartments. Depending on sales, some three bedroom apartments would be constructed.

Three bedroom apartments would be limited to only 15 percent of the project. The buildings would not exceed three stories with parking facilities to be located underneath the buildings.

Plans indicate a clubhouse would be constructed which would contain a model apartment that would later be converted to additional clubhouse use.

It was further stated the apartment dwelling would be an adult community only and construction would be of masonry and steel.

The Council was told water and sewage would be provided through General Development Corporation and that a drainage system would be designed for use on the property.

The height of the project would not exceed thirty-five feet from top of the grade including the underground garage, with a density of 11.4 units per acre.

Apartments would be placed in the $50,000 price bracket, according to the developer.

In wrapping up the preliminary proposal, it was stated there would be a trash compactor on each floor of the buildings.

"I am not nearly so concerned about a trash compactor being located on each floor as I am about the traffic flow and the widening of Pruitt Road," Councilman Larry Kimmel said, adding that in his opinion the sketches provided looked like nothing more elaborate than an army barracks.

Vice-Mayor Frank Rose was quick to agree on the looks of the project.

No zoning change was required for the project since the area is presently zoned for multi-family.

CESA Golf Tournament is sell-out

PORT ST. LUCIE—A full field of 144 men and women will tee off Saturday in the first annual CESA Golf Tournament to be played over the Saints and Sinners courses at Sandpiper Bay.

A CESA spokesman said the event sold out faster than he had anticipated. Tax deductible contributions of $10 per player were charged to enter the tournament.

"In fact," he added, "we received about $275 in additional contributions from non-golfers who just wanted to be associated with the tournament."

Format for the event calls for separate divisions for men and women holding USGA handicaps, as well as male and female divisions using the Calloway system for non-handicap players.

Sponsored by General Development Corporation, the 18-hold tourney will raise funds for the Cultural, Educational and Social Association's (CESA's) Community Center in Port St. Lucie.

GDC will present winners of the men's and women's handicap sections with colorful blazers bearing the new Sandpiper Bay emblem. An array of other prizes, including golf bags and balls, will be awarded for such achievements as longest drive, low net, closest to the pin and in-the-circle on the green.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners by Robert L. Seeley, GDC assistant vice president and general manager of Port St. Lucie, at a luncheon at Sandpiper Bay immediately following the tournament.

Gang has British guests

PORT ST. LUCIE—Terrible Terry Gordon-brought guests to last week's session of the Friday Nite Gang, her brother, Ernest Kenyon, his daughter and granddaughter, Judy and Karen Dowell, all from Liverpool, England. The Gang gave them a rousing welcome, and the host told them the story about the Britisher who, on his first visit to America, became acquainted with the game of bingo.

Triple membership is goal

PORT ST. LUCIE—In announcing that the quarterly meeting of the Port St. Lucie Homeowners Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, October 16, President Norman L. Forrar said, "Bring a neighbor. We want to triple our membership in 1976, so that we can learn to have a voice in our community and make our city a more desirable place to live."

The meeting will be held in the newly expanded CESA Building. Forrar says, "Come and see what a job has been accomplished." "There is now an exhaust fan to remove annoying smoke."

Leslie Thomas, Security Officer for the City will address the group, talking about protection against crime and what his department is doing to make Port St. Lucie a safer place for all.

He will answer questions presented in writing at the meeting.

Following Thomas' talk, an open meeting will be held.

President Forrar urges, "Come prepared. This is your opportunity to express yourself. Only through your voice can we accomplish our objectives."

Garden Club plans season opener

JENSEN BEACH—The Jensen Beach Garden Club will hold its first meeting of the season at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, at the Jensen Beach Community Church Fellowship Hall on Skyline Drive.

Annabel Bowyer, program chairman, announced that Robert Wagner will be guest speaker, presenting a slide program and talk on "Florida's Last Frontier." Wagner, a Jensen Beach resident, is affiliated with Indian River Community College.

Signe Morris, accredited judge of artistic design and past president of the club, has planned a new feature to open the club year, a display of artistic design arrangements by members interpreting "Hallowe'en Party."

At an executive board meeting held at the home of President Anne Lartaud last week, Irene Stephenson, ways and means chairman, reminded members of the "Thrifty Shopper Sale" to be held at the Jensen Community Center on December 5 and 6, proceeds to benefit the club's civic projects. One of the most important civic projects underway in the community is the beautification of the landmark known as The Arch. Members had donated $300 to the County Commission for repair and painting of the structure and are now designing and installing planters to beautify the base. Landscaping will complete the project in early November.

Mrs. Lartaud will represent the local Club at a District Ten meeting of Florida Federation of Garden Clubs in Delray Beach on Oct. 17, at which time she will present a short talk on the club's civic projects and forthcoming activities including the Bicentennial Homes Tour in February, 1976.

Real estate law course starts

STUART—A course in Florida Real Estate License Law is held at Martin County High School, SR 76, each Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, at 7 p.m., in Room 17. The course started October 6, and runs through November 13.

Adults who are interested in learning about the legal aspects of Florida real estate transactions are invited to enroll in the course.

Mortgage money, documentation, recording rights and liabilities are among the many topics discussed in class sessions.

Individuals who are involved in private real estate transactions as well as those who plan to take the Florida Real Estate License Law examination will find much value in the course.

Registration fee is $15 payable at time of registration. This fee covers the cost of the course and the textbook. Adults may register at the Adult Education Office at the high school prior to 7 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, or Thursday evenings.

Women's Club will meet Wednesday

STUART—The Woman's Club of Stuart will hold their regular business meeting on Wed., Oct. 15. Refreshments will be served at 1 p.m. followed by the meeting at 1:30 p.m.

After the meeting, Mrs. W. H. Gauger, president of the Martin County Writers' Assoc., will review the recent best seller book "Jawbone" which the popular movie has been made. Mrs. Gauger, from Jensen Beach, was formerly a columnist and radio copywriter and a contributor to the Islander, a weekly newspaper of the Island of St. Simon, Ga.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at 5 p.m. and at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, October 25, in the club house. The public is invited. For reservations call Adele Johnson, 334-6686, Betty Moog, 283-7380, Marian Kivern, 283-3262.

The Literary Group of the Woman's Club will meet at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, October 29 at the club house. The following members will review these books: Mrs. R.A. Carter-Enchanted Places; Mrs. R.K. Miles-Ragtime; Mrs. L. Wright-Ecco Spasm.

Volunteens receive awards

STUART—The Volunteens, sponsored by the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, were honored at a tea held last week.

Mrs. Betty Smith, Volunteen chairman, welcomed parents and friends of the Volunteens to the tea and entertainment.

Mrs. Katie Sachrison, director of volunteers at the hospital, was on hand to present certificates of appreciation from the hospital to the group for spending all their extra summer hours working at the hospital.

Volunteens had to work 50 hours to receive their caps. Total hours earned were: Debbie Morris 81, Barbara Heggie 56, Nat Lane, IV, 66, Sue Kittle 94, Dana Robinson 85, Linda Dalamarter 95.

Attending from Martin Memorial were: Mrs. Virginia Earle, assistant director of nursing, and Mrs. Violet a Pantejo, in-service education director. Mrs. Marge Bishop, auxiliary president, was also present to thank the Volunteens and express appreciation to the hospital personnel for their help in making the volunteen Program a success.

ABC notehand is offered

JENSEN BEACH—A course in ABC notehand is starting on Thursday, October 9, at 7 p.m. in the Harry Hoke Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Assoc. on Commercial Street in Jensen Beach.

The class will be held each Thursday and is sponsored by the Adult Education Department, Martin County Public Schools.

The Stenoscript ABC Shorthand is a system based on the letters of the alphabet and common punctuation symbols. Because it is easy to learn and easy to write, you can begin writing Stenoscript on the first day of your class instruction.

The ABC notehand class is designed for beginners who want to learn a modified form of shorthand as well as a refresher for persons with some shorthand training.

For further information call the Adult Education Dept.: 287-6400 weekdays.

DESTINY--Tim Tealey, dean of Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach, discussed his speech to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday with Chairman Art Hansen. Tealey announced to the club that FIT Jensen Beach would be managing its own destiny.

Pancake breakfast

Jensen-Rio Community Fund Drive kicks off on Monday

JENSEN BEACH--A special treat for the kickoff of the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund was announced Monday when President LaVaughn Tilton told board members that the Jensen Beach Lions Club would serve a pancake breakfast to those attending the kickoff meeting.

Lions Club President Harvey Schlemmer agreed to have Lions in the service line at the 8 a.m. meeting at the Rio Civic Club. It is open to all residents and volunteers who are working on the Community Fund Drive.

"We are pleased that the Lions are taking part, and a hot breakfast will enable all our workers to get right out on the job, contacting all homes in the Jensen Beach-Rio area to collect for the Community Fund," Mrs. Tilton said.

Frank Wadle, former county commissioner, is the keynote speaker for the drive breakfast. Richard Neeson district chaplain for the American Legion, will lead a pledge to the flag and give a benediction.

Officers and directors will be introduced, and area captains will receive their materials and instructions for the drive.

The goal of the first drive is $18,000, plus overage needed for several county agencies.

The board of the Community Fund has decided to limit the first year drive to agencies directly related to Jensen Beach activities. It was announced. Those benefiting from the drive as prime agencies are the Samaritan Free Ambulance, the Langford Park Association, Palm Glades Girl Scouts, local boy scouts and cubs, the Mars Hill Community Association and the Martin County Council on Aging.

Agencies that will be served if there are sufficient funds include the Animal Rescue League, Red Cross, Crippled Children and Adults, and Mental Health Association.

Area captains include:

1 Special gifts: Richard Campbell

2 Businesses, Richard Neeson. Workers from Optimist Club

Name is changed

F.I.T., Jensen Beach to manage own destiny

JENSEN BEACH--The long and involved "School of Marine and Environmental Technology" that has been associated with Florida Institute of Technology in Jensen Beach is no more. Now it is "Florida Institute of Technology--Jensen Beach."

"We will manage our own destiny," Dean Tim Tealey told the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday as he announced the name change.

Tealey said that the Jensen Beach campus would eventually offer many more services to local businesses, including computer service through a terminal from the computer at the Melbourne campus.

FIT has been expanding its services to local residents, and this year offers an evening graduate program for a master degree in science or business communication, and adult education programs in scuba diving, welding, real estate and other areas of public interest.

Tealey also outlined the many civic, social and church uses of the facilities by local groups.

Once a year, the dean of the college has made a report to the Kiwanis Club outlining growth and programs of the growing school.

Efforts to enter the profit making field to offset increasing costs of private education are planned, Tealey said.

This year the campus plans completion of the new marine science building, completion of the new student center in the remodeled Leach mansion, a 150 foot dock (when we get the permits), a new soccer-recreation field, and several tennis courts.

Expansion of the on-campus living accomodations is not planned, as the school has acquired an interest in an off-campus apartment complex.

The new year held many surprises for the dean and the school administration surprises that have strained the facilities of the small campus.

"We projected 650 students this fall and as of October 10, we have 750 students. With the economy faltering, we have seen a cutback on the amounts of money foundations have been able to give, and we are as usual, in a financial crunch."

Tealey said that the name change will "spread the name of Jensen Beach all over the world." He added that there were 44 students on campus from South and Central America, and Europe and Norway.

The percentage breakdown of students shows that twenty percent come from the New England states and New York, ten percent from Pennsylvania, nine percent from North Carolina and Virginia, eight percent from Ohio, Illinois and Indiana, and fourteen percent from Florida, up seven percent from last year.

No way one way

JENSEN BEACH--The on again off again one-way traffic plan for Commercial Street is off again.

Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night decided to drop consideration of the Commercial Street one way traffic, and let the Traffic Committee study other streets--like a FEC railroad crossing at Ricou Street.

Don Wilkie said he was excited about having a crossing at Ricou Street so traffic could proceed from Ricou to Sunview Road.

After considerable discussion and receiving a petition with the names of 19 Commercial Street merchants who opposed one-way traffic, directors decided not to proceed with asking for a traffic study.

Commissioner Ross Philbrick pointed out to directors that another study wasn't necessary, but a review of the old study could be made.

Chamber president Art Hansen pointed out that about three months ago the directors voted not to take any action on the one-way plan, but at last month's meeting they voted to ask for a traffic study of the street.

Philbrick also reported that he was studying the possibility of paving sidewalks along Indian River Drive. "We would like to put as much of the sidewalk on the east side of the road as possible."

He also noted that he had about lined up on having a bike path from the Jensen Beach to Langford Park. He cited the railroad crossing as not being about to have the bike path.

In other action, directors supported L.D. Kirkpatrick's proposal of having monthly fellowship breakfasts.

"We hope the chamber will endorse the idea," Kirkpatrick said. "We want to promote and sell Jensen Beach."

Directors also approved the planning Committee of Fred Stein, chairman; Buck Mauldin and Dick Neeson.

Stein's group will report at the November general membership meeting.

CHAMBER COMMITTEE--The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night picked Fred Stein, left, as chairman of the Nominating Committee which will make its recommendations for new officers and directors at the Nov. 10 general membership meeting. Serving with Stein will be Buck Mauldin and Dick Neeson. Neeson was not present for the picture.

Causeway

Chlorination of water opposed

JENSEN BEACH--Chlorination of the Jensen Beach Causeway water was opposed by area residents Monday as they were filling their plastic jugs with the water that has been called "the best water in Florida."

If they do chlorinate the water, they'll ruin it, Al Wade of the Beach Club Cabins on Hutchinson Island, said.

"This water is the closest to spring water in the mountains of the Carolinas that I've found," Wade said.

Martin County Health Department Sanitation Supervisor John Barstow said he was going to ask the county to chlorinate the causeway water supply.

Barstow's comments followed the action of the Health Department last week when a sample of the water was taken on Sept. 29 and "did not quite meet Health Department standards."

This slightly substandard report could indicate beginning contamination of the well, but could also have resulted from accidental contamination of the sample," Dr. Archie McCallister, Health Department director said in his news report.

After studies of the samples the water was said to be "back to normal" by Dr. McCallister.

McCallister said before the sample report was available that he would drink the causeway water, but that his department had to warn the public.

Joining Wade in defending the soft, untreated water from the causeway was Jack Radcliffe of Port St. Lucie. "I like the water, it makes better coffee and tea, and it tastes better than treated water."

But Mrs. Marian Buckwald of 810 Terrace Road in Jensen Beach said that chlorine in the causeway wouldn't taste any worse than the water I have."

"I have sulphur in my water and you can't drink it, but you can cook with it," Mrs. Buckwald said.

"If they put chlorine in the causeway water, I won't bother getting it," Martin Clifford of Coral Gardens said as he filled his plastic bags.

"If I put softener in my water it is pretty good," Clifford said.

100 boats for 100th party

JENSEN BEACH--More than 100 boats will open the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the House of Refuge on Hutchinson Island at 1 p.m. Saturday, October 18.

Tom Sylvester, in his 34-foot boat "Sum Yot Too" will lead the boat parade in the Indian River according to Ed Benedict, chairman of the marine parade.

Secy of State Bruce Smathers will speak at the ceremony, and the first copy of the Martin County Historical Society's book, "The History of Martin County," will be given to Mrs. Marshall Martin, whose late husband was a brother of the governor for which the county was named.

Buses will be at the Elliott Museum to transport people to the House of Refuge for the brief ceremony.

It was announced Tuesday by officials of the Historical Society that the $100,000 goal to restore the interior of the House of Refuge had been reached. Half of that amount came from federal funds.

New art shows set

Artist of the Month at Jensen Beach Savings and Loan is Frances Sugden who works in oil, acrylics and water color. Mrs. Sugden has studied with the Washington School of Art in Ft. Pierce, with Fred Lindmuth, Mrs. Davis, Beany Backus, and Donna Privateer in Stuart. She has studied with Rita Martin and Madeline Rebeiter. Her work has been shown at the Ft. Pierce Art Gallery and at outdoor art shows in Stuart, Jensen Beach and Ft. Pierce.

Janie Smith's paintings are on display at the Martin County Library on East Ocean Boulevard. Her work has been shown at the Jensen Beach Savings and Loan and at numerous other local art galleries. Janie works in oil, water color and pastels. She has studied seascape painting with John George, pastels with Helen Terry and Edward Stevenson, and sketching with Mal Camina.

Mahlon Cline, former President of Art Associates, is currently showing his new paintings in oil and water color inspired by his summer working holiday at Gloucester, Maine. They may be seen during banking hours at the Stuart National Bank until November 14.

OLD PRICES–H.E. Donaldson of Ocean Breeze Park holds an old ledger that has some prices that Samuel F. Terril entered in the book back in 1856 at his home in Marion County, Iowa. Terril recorded paying 84 cents for 28 pounds of flour, 25 cents for white fish and 15 cents for four plugs of tobacco. And he sold steers for $28. Donald said Terril was his wife's grandfather.

Fishing report

JENSEN BEACH–Blues are still hanging in there, according to the Snook Nook report covering the past week.

Eric Green of Port St. Lucie had 4 blues and a mackerel; Mrs. Vic Suder caught 3 blues; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wallace, 7 blues; Kay and Joe Foxall, 15 blues; Art Ryan and Carl Herzog, 8 blues; and Vic Thew and Don Hoskin, from Ontario, had fun catching 19 blues.

Irv Fisher took 3 trout from the Indian River on plugs. Bob Carruthers had one 4½ pound trout; Bob Hunt and John Green, 40 blues; and Harold Jacobsen had a nice 9½ pound snook.

Joe and Irene Pinder caught 18 blues on cut bait; Charles Sperling, 5 blues; Wagner and Areni, 4 trout and a snook; H. McClure, 5 snook; and Steve Steele, 4 snook, 7 trout and 4 fluke.

Ed Wagner and Ted Bloom caught 8 trout and a blue on touts; Charlie Areni, 4 trout; H. Byers and M. Cooney, one snook and 19 snappers.

Wagner and Areni teamed up for 6 trout, one snook and a red, using Touts and Mirro-Lures. Ray Garlecki used Kroc's to catch 7 blues.

John and Laura Debrudel, trolling in the South Fork with Captain Russ Bolton, had 6 snappers, 5 snook, 2 sheepshead, and 3 jacks.

With bait fish in, sharks were spotted along Jensen's beaches over the weekend, especially up by the power plant.

No "Klett sez" this [illegible] he told The Mirror was unprintable.

Team plan for tourney

STUART–For the first time, the Stuart Sailfish Club's annual light tackle sailfish tournament will include a "team" category this year.

The oldest Florida sailfish tournament, this is the 22nd annual coming up, to be fished December 11 through December 14. Tournament headquarters will be at Bay Harbour Club. Entry deadline is December 4.

There will be three categories of anglers. Professional: those who fish a great deal and/or normally fish tournaments, including those who have placed in a tournament.

"Amateur": those who just want to go out and have some fun, get their feet wet in tournament fishing, but not have to compete against "the big boys."

"Team": two, three or four anglers fishing together as a team under all rules and not for individual prizes.

There will be daily awards in each category as well as over-all tournament awards.

A pre-tournament briefing and cocktail party will be held December 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the Bay Harbour Club, and the awards dinner will be held ther December 14 at 7:30 p.m.

GOP SPEAKER–Mrs. Louise Isaacs, Martin County Circuit Court Clerk, will be the speaker at the Oct. 21 luncheon of the Republican Women's Club at the Crow's Nest Restaurant. Reservations may be made by calling Jeanne Martin at 287-4175.

Fire damages Legion Hall

JENSEN BEACH–Fire damaged the American Legion Hall on South Savanna Road Saturday, Oct. 11, according to Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Chief Randolph Spinney.

Spinney said the department received the call about 11:15 p.m., and four trucks and 15 men responded.

"We had the fire knocked down in 30 minutes," Spinney said. He estimated damage to the building at about $2,000.

He said the fire apparently started in the area where trash is collected.

Cut taxes and spending

...SHINGTON—The monkey is on ...back: give the American ...a richly deserved $28 billion ...tax cut, but cut spending ...the same amount.

...sident Ford has hurled that ...enge at the Congress, calling it ...rent, crucial step toward ...ring the federal government to ...a need budget.

...takes the steam out of the ...s move to make permanent a ...ly similar to the temporary ...pression tax break adopted ...thus year because the ...se's tax cut is contingent on a ...rational commitment to ...federal spending by a like ...unt.

...ugh the President warned, any ...s not accompanied by a ...line on spending commit- ...ld be vetoed.

...hat is as it should be. In fact ...prefer to see even larger ...Federal spending. But a firm ...itment to keep fiscal 1977 ...ding at the $395 billion mark is ...e step in the right direction. ...the end of this fiscal year, the ...debt will soar close to the ...billion level. And, unless ...ress is willing to go along with ...Ford's proposed cuts in ...ing, it will approach the $650 ...mark by the end of fiscal 1977. ...hing as disturbing as the fact ...unrestrained federal spending ...ed by $9 billion to the already ...ing $40 billion plus the nation ...spend just to pay the interest ...national debt.

...deficit spending, as we have ...ed out here many times, does ...not just require the payment ...ge sums for interest—sums ...ld be put to better use ...here.

...ing puts the federal govern- ...to competition with banks ...ess and loans and other lending ...tutions, drying up money which ...d be better used for loans on ...homes, cars and businesses.

President Ford's proposal to ...pending by $28 billion won't be ...complished easily. He recognized ...when he announced he will send ...ress a budget in January with ...spending programs revised, ...modulated and held below ...posed levels.

...ere's no doubt the President said ...will hear loud protests from ...ress after another contending ...Washington should keep up an ...ing flow of subsidies. But we ...must face hard realities. Our ...ic resources are limited. We ...must learn to live within our ...means.

...The President went further ...telling us, 'America's greatness ...was built by taxing people to ...death but by letting our people ...keep their freedom and their ...profits to their limits. Only by ...using the full energies of our ...people—only by getting the ...government off your back and out of ...our pocket—will we achieve our ...goals of stable prices and more ...jobs.

If the spending cuts can be achieved—and I have doubts about achieving them in a 'tax and spend' Congress—President Ford's proposed tax cut will be extremely helpful for most Americans.

The President's plan calls for lowering the basic personal income tax rate, increasing everyone's personal tax exemption from $750 to $1,000, and raising the standard deduction. To a family of four earning about $14,000 a year this would mean a permanent tax reduction of $412, about 27 per cent.

And this is a tax cut long overdue.

There will be moans and groans from the giveaway artists in the Congress who don't want to tamper with welfare programs which encourage people to loaf who want to leave untouched our foreign aid mess, and who are convinced big government is better than letting people take care of themselves.

But I sincerely hope the people will make their voices heard and support both the tax cut and the reduction in federal spending.

America Ahead

It's a positive state of mind.

Early Americans

Two-hundred years from now the family pictured above and the generation they represent will be called early Americans. But what will America be like 200 years from now? The ideals on which our great country was founded, along with our ingenuity, know-how and plain hard work have seen us through the first 200 years. We are living in troubled times with serious problems. We have had just as serious setbacks in the past. But will Americans of the future enjoy the freedoms, the benefits of living in a free society that we now enjoy? We think yes. As we are preparing to celebrate our 200th birthday, it is appropriate to look back and pride ourselves on our accomplishments. We at First National also feel it is a time to look ahead, for America's sake. To look ahead with a positive state of mind. To carry on the fine traditions and ideals that have made this country so great. Let's work on our present problems and meet head-on those that would deny us our freedoms. Let's preserve America. We invite your participation.

Vikings landing termed a successful party here

JENSEN BEACH--Over 3,000 Vikings and friends of Vikings came to see the reenactment of the landing of Leif Erikson in America, and all seemed to have a good time, despite rough waters for the landing, and a high wind through the day.

Almost 500 members of the Sons of Norway in Florida gathered from the nine Florida lodges to celebrate for the weekend, and after parties and entertainment, picnics and comradship, most of them learned perhaps why the original Vikings didn't stay to populate America.

The program began Friday night, when the advance party of Vikings landed at the Holiday Inn Oceanside to plan the weekend of activities.

On Saturday, the numbers arrived, and the traditional smorgasbord and folk dancing held sway through the evening, after a day of renewing friendships and making new ones among Sons of Norway members.

The Norsemen and women even held an amateur show in the evening that featured popular Norwegian folk singing and specialty dancing.

On Sunday, the Orlando U.S. Navy specialty dance band gave two rollicking concerts, at the beginning and the end of the public portion of the Leif Erikson Day celebration.

The pageant reenacting the landing, with three Viking boats, all over 100-years-old, ended a success, with the choppy Indian River adding authenticity to the show.

Once the battle between the Indians and the invading Vikings was fought, the Indian maidens abducted, and the fallen Viking chieftain carried from the stage to face a firy funeral on his way to Valhalla, the real battle began.

It was race between three ancient boats, called "sexerings" (six oarsmen). The boats were manned by young Sons of Norway members from Ft. Lauderdale, Jensen-Ft. Pierce and Orlando. The race ended in a heated dispute between the crews, and no winner was announced.

(In the past, Ft. Lauderdale had won the race twice, and Jensen-Ft. Pierce had won it twice.)

The winner of the race remains in dispute, probably until next year when the three crews meet again.

Throughout the day the Vikings served food and sandwiches, and mingled with visitors wearing the traditional "bunads" (colorful native costumes).

As is the custom, the Sons of Norway members grouped to do the final chore, for which they are very popular. The entire causeway was cleaned of all trash and debris, leaving it cleaner than it was when the celebrants had come.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

Our hearts go out to Mabel Ackert on the death of her husband Doc. It seems as though he may have kept going until he returned to his winter home and could be among his many friends when his final calling came.

Doc was the president of the Nettles Island Church community. The Reverend Campbell presided at the funeral services. Doc was known and liked throughout the resort and we will surely miss him.

We received the tragic news that Jim Forsythe had passed away also. We extend sincere sympathy to all the Forsythe family. I'm sure you all remember Jim from his performance in the Minstrel Show last winter.

Wimpy Groover is home from his stay in the hospital. His next trip to the hospital will be to see his new grandchild. On Tuesday of this week Wimpy and Pat were proud grandparents again when their daughter Donna Move delivered her second child.

* * *

Back from their summer travels are Bob and Adeline Beckman. They covered various parts of northern Michigan with their travel trailer. Took the grandchildren camping, and had themselves a very enjoyable summer.

My traveling reporter is back too. Pat and Don Kitchen have returned after a delightful change of scenery and many happy stops in Tennessee and N. Carolina. Pat kept us informed while she was away of places they'd been and Nettle Islanders they met. It is always good to hear from those who are away for awhile.

* * *

Elmer and Helen Hagen will be here for the winter again. After spending the summer back in Wisconsin where Elmer underwent surgery, they flew to Hawaii where they had a great time.

* * *

With the Board of Directors meeting scheduled, Jim Erskine has returned for a two-week stay. You can always find Jim deep in conversation with fellow homeowners after he's found somewhere to have his morning breakfast that is.

* * *

Bill Creighton has also returned in order to be present at the board meeting. Bill will be remaining for the duration of the winter season while his wife Etta travels back and forth from Bonita Beach. Etta has been with her aged parents whom she has been taking care of for the past two years. They spend the winter at Bonita Beach from where Etta travels back and forth keeping a watchful eye on them.

How's this for a great beginner's record? It wasn't too long ago that George Gleason took lessons for the 18 foot Hobie Catamaran sailboat. Then he began racing for the first time.

Three weeks ago he entered the St. Lucie Sailing Club races and left with Non Pertz as his crew took two third places and a second. The next week at Lake Mangonia in West Palm he took a third place with Debbie Davis serving as crew. Again this past weekend he entered the Intercoastal Sailing Club's event at Jaycee Park in Fort Pierce and with Mike Henderson as his crew took a third place. A fifth and seventh place in the two races left him a total of 12 points ahead of his nearest competitor in the races.

The number 18 jersey he's wearing for the winter is evidence of his growing affection of the sport of Sailing and competition.

Saturday was a busy day from early morning to late at night.

The lot owners Board of Directors meeting began at 9 a.m. Scheduled from 10:30 to 1 p.m. for Dorothy's funeral held in Jensen Beach. The meeting reconvened at 1 p.m. and ran very smoothly, enabling all the business to be discussed and taken care of by 3 p.m.

The lady beach goers had time left for some fun in the sun.

There was still a lot of life left in the 40 islanders who came to enjoy the record dance Saturday evening. Maybe they all went home and took a late afternoon nap. I don't know, but they all were filled with yum and vigor.

According to the report Alden Orr instructed the group on the polka and they danced up a storm. I hear some superb dancers were present, prepared by Chef Lal Corpine and a good time was had by all.

There's no heart about the new gas pump which will be called an empty one.

Marie is the hostess at bingo and during intermission, thoughtful Sterling Cole came in with a birthday cake for her, making her day a happy one.

CESA nets over $3,900

Victor, Adamson place first in CESA Tourney

PORT ST. LUCIE–Lloyd Adamson and Fran Victor lead a field of 288 local golfers to take first place in their respective divisions of the CESA Golf Tournament played over the Saints and Sinners courses last Thursday.

Port St. Lucie Manager Bob Seeley presented the winners with state championship jackets embla zoned with the tournament's crest at the awards luncheon banquet by General Development Corporation following the shotgun event.

The prestigious affair which was sponsored by GDC netted the Port St. Lucie Community Center over $2,000.

A permanent plaque for the event was presented to CESA President Dick Lundin by Clem Bramley, president of the Port St. Lucie Bank and treasurer of the Tournament Committee chaired by Tom Chapman.

According to Lundin, the plaque will be hung in the new Community Center Lounge.

In accepting the funds, which incidentally included a check for the net rentals from Resort Manager Pierre Roellinger, Lundin briefly addressed the group.

"Our support of this tournament has been just wonderful. On behalf of the trustees of CESA and the residents of the community, I would like to thank all of you," Lundin said.

Top scorers in the event were:

Callaway Women's Winners: Virginia Lieberth 113-39-74; Ethel Collett 116-42-74.

Callaway Men's Winners: Tom Goodwin 93-8-72; Joe Mikita 93-9-72.

Sylvia Harrawood, 5-4, won the women's golf bag for coming closest to the pin on the Saints 16th Hole while Carlos Boaz 1-1 won the men's golf bag on the Sinners 3rd hole.

Joe Brannon took home a pair of golf balls by shooting a 125 earlier on the Sinners 16th.

Jane Zeiler had the longest drive on the Saints 12th in the women's division.

While there were candies on the Sinners 3rd and Saints 16th, offering golf balls to any golfer getting inside the drive, only Audrey Dorius, Betty and Fred Tressler, Charlie Brown and Charlie Heitner were successful in collecting a ball from Pro Chuck Johnson.

Causeway

Chlorination of water opposed

JENSEN BEACH–Chlorination of the Jensen Beach Causeway water was opposed by area residents Monday as they were filling their plastic jugs with the water that has been called "the best water in Florida."

"If they do chlorinate the water, they'll ruin it," Al Wade of the Beach Club Colony on Hutchinson Island said.

"This water is the closest to spring water in the mountains of the Carolinas that I've found," Wade said.

Martin County Health Department Sanitation Supervisor John Barstow said he was going to ask the county to chlorinate the causeway water supply.

Barstow's comments followed the action of the Health Department last week when a sample of the water was taken on Sept. 29 and "did not quite meet Health Department standards."

This slightly substandard report could indicate beginning contamination of the well, but could also have resulted from accidental contamination of the sample, Dr. Archie McCallister, Health Department director, said in his news report.

After studies of the samples, the water was said to be "back to normal" by Dr. McCallister.

McCallister said before the sample report was available that he would drink the causeway water, but that his department had to warn the public.

Joining Wade in defending the soft, untreated water from the causeway was Jack Radcliffe of Port St. Lucie. "I like the water, it makes better coffee and tea, and it tastes better than treated water."

But Mrs. Marian Buckwald of 408 Terrace Road on Jensen Beach said that chlorine in the causeway "couldn't taste any worse than the water I have."

"I have sulphur in my water and you can't drink it, but you can cook with it," Mrs. Buckwald said.

"If they put chlorine in the causeway water, I won't bother getting it," Martin Clifford of Coral Gardens said.

JACK RADCLIFFE

Radcliffe said as he filled his plastic jugs.

"If I put softener in my water it is pretty good," Clifford said.

City clamps down on violators

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–When Public Safety Director Leslie Thomas gave his report Tuesday morning, it became unmistakingly clear the City of Port St. Lucie intends to clamp down on those residents violating city ordinances.

Concluding his report for the period of September 20 to October 10, Thomas stated there were a total of 25 complaints investigated by the Public Safety Department.

Among these were 17 city ordinance violations, he said, adding, two were in violation of the leash law, owners unknown, four relative to junk cars, and eleven over grass height violations.

In one instance Vice Mayor Frank Rose questioned a lien being placed against the individual's property in the amount of seventy five dollars.

"Isn't that amount somewhat exhorbitant for a grass cutting job?"

At this point Thomas was backed by Mayor Sharpe in denying the billing exhorbitant.

"When the grass reaches eighteen or more inches in height it requires at least two mowings, is damaging to the equipment, and often takes more than one truck load to haul off the debris," the Mayor contended, emphasizing the city ordinances will be enforced.

KENTUCKY COLONEL–During a special ceremony conducted in his home at 441 Solar, Irv Kubasiak was presented with the honorary commission of Kentucky Colonel. Col. Art L. Jones made the presentation on behalf of Kentucky Governor Julian M. Carroll. Those attending the brief ceremony included Mrs. Kubasiak, Col. Ward White, M.D. and Col. Barry Jones. The Kubasiaks moved to Port St. Lucie one year ago from Gowanda, New York after vacationing in the area for the past several years. Kubasiak is an employee of the Port St. Lucie Bank. Pictured above, left to right, are Col. Irv Kubasiak and Col. Arthur Lincoln Jones.

Auxiliary police

PORT ST. LUCIE–Whether or not city officials will consider the possibility of using auxiliary police remains to be seen. However a representative from the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department spoke at length Tuesday on the merits of an auxiliary crew.

Captain Scrambler, St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department, told council members there are approximately 70 auxiliary policemen currently affiliated with that department.

The volunteers have a minimum of 80 hours training acquired at the police auxiliary school at IRCC, and furnish their own uniforms, sidearms and equipment.

The auxiliary force is not a first line defense. They have no arrest powers unless they are acting under the direct supervision of a full time officer.

The auxiliary is used for patrols, crowd control, and house checks, Scrambler told his listeners, adding he was satisfied the volunteers are helpful in curbing crime.

Although Capt. Scrambler admitted there are no statistics to verify that crime has been reduced by the use of volunteer police officers, he said there is little doubt the Sheriff's Department would continue the program if it wasn't thought to be beneficial to the citizens of the county.

"The great advantage to the auxiliary force is that it is flexible and can be adapted to specific needs of your city or community," Capt. Scrambler concluded.

Officials named to transfer pension $$$

PORT ST. LUCIE–The City Council Tuesday unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing the Mayor, City Treasurer and City Attorney to transfer the funds from the Port St. Lucie Pension Trust Fund.

The funds now held by the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart will be shifted to the First National Bank of Fort Pierce effective November 1.

The action is in keeping with First National of Stuart's request that the city find another pension fund trustee.

The Stuart bank had informed the city several months ago that it was withdrawing as trustee after the bank had to legally represent itself as the result of a long drawn out lawsuit brought about by the Interested Homeowners group. The group had charged the plan was much too liberal.

The Stuart bank's withdrawal was to become effective following a sixty day notice. However just two weeks ago they agreed to continue for an additional period or until November first.

The Council has, within the past month, listened to representatives from the State Retirement System and the Providence Washington Insurance Group.

Presidents Council meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Presidents Council of Port St. Lucie, consisting of the heads of the various organizations and clubs operating in River Park Port St. Lucie, will meet on Thursday, October 16, at the CESA building. Meeting time is 2 p.m.

The head of the council anticipates some interesting reports now that summer vacations are about over and clubs are beginning fall and winter schedules.

He also remarked that certain organizations have been conspicuous by their absence and urges full participation.

If a president cannot attend, he should send a representative. Other groups are interested in their activities.

Yacht Club will meet at CESA

PORT ST. LUCIE–The first public meeting of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club to be held at CESA has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, October 28.

Vice Commodore Nelson Howery announces that entertainment for the evening will be provided by The Harvest Singers, a vocal group from Fort Pierce.

Barry and Edris Kessler will serve refreshments. Commodore Mike Reeb says he would like to see a good membership turnout for the club's meeting in the new, larger quarters.

Bookkeeper applicants interviewed

PORT ST. LUCIE–Members of the City Finance Committee had their work cut out for them during a special meeting conducted Monday for the purpose of screening applicants for the position of city bookkeeper-accountant.

According to Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan, who doubles as the city treasurer and also heads the finance committee, twenty-two persons were interviewed for the position.

"We have submitted three names to City Administrator Elmer Cox for his consideration and I would hope a decision is reached within the week," Mrs. Kernohan told the Mirror Tuesday evening.

Several weeks ago Robert L. Johns of Fletcher and Johns Accounting firm recommended the city employ an accountant to perform "in house" financial tabulations for the city.

Fletcher and Johns have provided the city's audit for the past several years.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY–Staff members celebrated the second anniversary of the Port St. Lucie Bank with a dinner at the Sandpiper Bay last Thursday evening. Although the banking staff has nearly doubled in size, six of the original seven member staff are still at the bank serving the residents of the community. Total assets exceed the $8,000,000 mark.

News Notes from PSL

BY DOROTHY BRUNTON

Sue and Bert Miller flew out of Philadelphia to Munich and Bavaria on a tour with the Shrine Club of Reading, Penna. They were gone about 10 days. Sue said the trip was no gyp; they should have taken it 20 years ago.

And Berta and Ebu Costa of Bayran Drive just returned from a month tour of Europe. They first visited their hometown of Oerlikon (which means two bridges) in Germany then by Eurail Pass went thru Switzerland to Spain where they visited the sea coast cities then took guided tours thru parks and old castles and all the interesting spots along the way. After a delightful trip they flew home from Madrid.

The Whites, Don and Eureta, of Surfside Drive just returned from a wonderful 7 week trip up North. First they went to Aurora, Ohio to see the daughter and her husband of their former neighbor the late Mary Cat. Then on to Maywood, New Jersey, Albany, N.Y. (their former hometown), on to Round Lake, N.Y. where Don's former boss Syracuse, N.Y. was their next stop and finally to Burlington, Vermont to visit their son, his wife and their children. Even though Don and Eureta came home with the sniffles, they said how great it was to be back in Port St. Lucie.

Ruth and Spencer Eddy just got back to Port St. Lucie from a trip out west. With their new camper they set out for San Diego, California to see their son Robert get married to a lovely young lady. While in the area they visited Universal City and said it was most interesting. Then on to Las Vegas to spend two weeks with their other son Fred, his wife Nancy and three grandchildren. Like the Whites, the Eddys came home with colds, but the Florida sunshine will soon make them all well.

+ + +

California welcomed other Port St. Lucie residents John and Loretta Pugh flew to Claremont, Calif. to visit John's brother Joe and his wife Mary. While there they toured Palm Springs and Palm Desert. One side trip was to see the former home of Bob Hope. Loretta said it had been a fabulous home but was undestroyed by fire and only the shell was left. They then spent a week at Sun City, Arizona with Loretta's sister and her husband and drove to Tuscon for more family visiting. A nephew there attends the University of Arizona. From there on to Nogales, New Mexico where they visited the San Xavier Mission Church that was built in 1700. The church was having Fiesta Day the next day and was beautifully decorated with flowers. From there they flew home to Port St. Lucie.

Boatsmen meet

STUART–St. Andrews Society of Stuart meets at 7:30 p.m. Friday, October 17, in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart.

The scheduled program is "Pictures of a Family's First Visit to Scotland."

North Port men plan golf tourney

PORT ST. LUCIE–The North Port Men's Golf League have completed plans for the NPMGL Championship Tournament to be played at the Holiday Country Club starting October 21. Tournament play will continue for the four succeeding Wednesdays (Oct. 29, Nov. 4, 11 and 18), with the playoff scheduled for November 25, according to John Jankowski, tourney chairman.

Winners of Flights A, B, C, and D will compete in the playoff.

According to Jankowski, any player unable to play on one of the dates will be permitted to play a make-up round providing that round is played with another tournament member. A limit of one playoff round will be permitted per player and that round must be held within one week of the day play was missed.

A dinner will be sponsored at the Hill Top on Dec. 5 and tournament prizes will be awarded. A minimal entry fee will be charged.

Co-chairman of the event are Ed Rombach and Cy Leep.

Winners named

PORT ST. LUCIE–Low gross and low net winners in last week's St. Lucie Woman's Golf Assn. tournament play were:

Third Flight–Low gross, Marion Cole 95; Low net, Mary Kuhn 76.

Fifth Flight–Low gross, Ruby Mock 103; Low net, Helen Wolf 75.

Seventh Flight–Low gross, Grace Van Nostrand 117; Low net, Myrtle Fleming 84.

Low net tourney

PORT ST. LUCIE–Play of the day for the Nine Holers last week was a low net tournament.

Liz Langdon came in with a 35 to take first place in the First Flight. Jodie Fessel was second with 37.

Second flight honors went to Aletha Legge with 39, followed closely by second place Marriette Snee's 40.

Jodie Fessel won "first on the green" with a seven. Anne Searles and Inda Fiester tied for second with sixes.

The tournament was played over the Saints Course. The Nine Holers meet in tournament competition every Tuesday.

Welcome Wagon

PORT ST. LUCIE–Deadline for reservations for the Welcome Wagon luncheon meeting next Monday, is Friday, October 17.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Walter Kamel at 878-1561.

The affair will kick off with a social hour at 11:30 a.m. followed by luncheon at noon.

Mrs. Walter Dill, president, states that cards will follow the luncheon.

Fabulous event October 24

PORT ST. LUCIE–Delicious desserts and fabulous fashions will be the order of the day at CESA on Friday, October 24 at 1 p.m. followed by cards or games for those who wish to play.

Latest styles are to be modeled by Marguerite Feller, Olga Atkins, Irene White, Marge McChesney, Vera Abbott, Mildred Gresger, Ruth Adler and Pauline Griffiths. The show will be put on by Thelma's of Fort Pierce.

Adding to the fun will be tables prizes, a door prize and drawings for two special items – the first, a hand bag donated by Thelma, the second, a leather craft picture by Marjorie Decker.

Tickets are available from any committee member or by calling Annette at the CESA Center, 878-3138.

PORT ST. LUCIE–When the North Port Mens Golf League met for play Tuesday morning at the Holiday Course, Henry Plasini and Ed Rombach tied for the Flight A honors.

Lyle Thomas racked up the least number of putts (28), while Earl Graham shot closest to the pin on the eleventh green.

Riverettes meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–The monthly meeting and luncheon of the Port St. Lucie Riverettes will be held at the Ramada Inn, Fort Pierce on Monday, October 20.

Happy hour is 11:30 a.m. followed by a buffet luncheon.

Call Kay at 878-0626 for reservations.

School parade Friday

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County High School homecoming parade will be held Friday, Oct. 17 at 3 p.m. in downtown Stuart.

The parade route will be from Stuart Middle School down East Ocean Blvd. to Flagler Avenue and along Flagler to Old Dixie Highway and then Colorado Avenue to East Seventh Street.

'Good turnout' for homeowners meeting

PORT ST. LUCIE–A good turnout listened intently to Robert Seeley, Vaughn Lewis and Bill McChesney at last week's quarterly meeting of the Port St. Lucie River Park Homeowners Association, Inc.

President Bowman conducted a brief business session, then turned the meeting over to Program Chairman George W. Jacobi, who introduced the speakers.

Seeley discussed the procedures and problems of establishing a local hospital. He said that he is more optimistic concerning the possibility of getting a hospital here than he was when the idea was initiated.

Lewis talked of the long range plans for the South County area, exploring the effect these plans will have on residents in the Port St. Lucie River Park area.

McChesney's talk was also involved with planning. He noted that the residents of various South County communities have stated they are willing and able to work together to achieve common objectives.

Membership Chairman James Cummings showed letters and brochures that will be sent out soon for 1976 memberships. He said the association will ask for block captains to work on the drive and keep members informed about the activities of the association.

$3,000 kickoff

Community Fund drive begins in 'people doing for people'

JENSEN BEACH--Two special gifts donations totaling $3,000 were announced as the $18,000 Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund drive got under way Monday morning at a breakfast kickoff at Rio Civic Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude gave $2,000 and Ransom, Randy and Ren Tilton gave $1,000 to get the drive off to a good start.

Fifty-area captains and workers attended the kickoff breakfast, were served the popular Jensen Beach Lions Club pancakes and sausage, and heard former County Commissioner Frank Wacha deliver the keynote speech that praised the Jensen-Rio area for basic "people doing for people" projects.

"It is good that we meet at the Rio Civic Club, on a building built by the people, not by tax dollars. And our breakfast is not a commercial breakfast, it is served by the Jensen Lions people who are doing for people the spirit of Jensen Beach and Rio," Wacha said.

"If there is one thing the matter with the United States today it is that we have gotten away from the involvement in people working for people," he added.

Wacha urged the area captains to get other people involved in soliciting for the community fund.

He mentioned that the fund drive supported the Samaritan Ambulance, "which has the best track record in Martin County." He also asked that the volunteer workers take a look at Langford Park where community fund money bought all the equipment in the children's playground.

LaVaughn Tilton, president of the community fund, introduced area captains and gave instructions on collecting in the Jensen Beach-Rio area.

She said that the drive was expected to be completed by the end of the year, with funds being distributed to the agencies involved by January 15th.

Richard Neeson, American Legion district chaplain, spoke to the workers, asking them to make the drive a success "so that we will have one drive each year and not be involved in many drives."

Agencies participating in the drive include:

Samaritan Free Ambulance
Langford Ball Park
Martin County Council on Aging
Girl Scouts of America
Boy Scouts of America
Mars Hill
Martin County Animal Rescue League
Martin County Mental Health Assoc.
American Red Cross of Martin County
Emergency Fund

LaVaughn Tilton, president, Eugene Peer, vice president, Jackie Hall, secretary, Kathleen Spencer, treasurer, Richard Campbell, Richard Neeson, Jane Henderson, Bryan Bibeau, directors.

Area captains include:

Special Gifts, Richard Campbell, Businesses, Richard Neeson, Rio, Joe Forsberg & Jackie Hall, Beacon 21, Jackie Hall, St. Lucie Heights, LaVaughn Tilton, South Jensen Heights, Mrs. Wade Aycock, Jensen Homesites, Mrs. Raymond Loveday, Legion Heights, Mrs. Richard Pinsky, Jensen Highlands, Mrs. Cyrus Stoll, Mars Hill, William Delances & Jane Hill, North Skyline Drive, Mrs. John Moser, South Skyline Drive, Mrs. Ira Henderson, North of Commercial to County Line, Mrs. LaVaughn Tilton, North Indian River Dr. from County Line to Walton Road, Jackie Hall, South Indian River Dr. from Commercial to Palmer Road, Jackie Hall, No. Hutchinson Island, Eugene Peer, Beau Rivage East, Mrs. Thomas Welsh, Fishermen's Haven, Mrs. Fred Arndt, Riverside Village, Mrs. Ralph W. Naggle, Leilani Heights, Mrs. Richard Grant, Florida Institute of Technology, Dean E. Trailer.

KEYNOTE--Frank Wacha, former county commissioner, was the keynote speaker for the Community Fund kickoff in Jensen Beach and Ron Wacha called for more "people doing for people."

Sewall's Point loses Jensen fire services

JENSEN BEACH--Fire protection for the Town of Sewall's Point will not be provided by Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department after Oct. 31, Town Commissioner John Rossiter said Monday, further stating that the town will not be without fire protection.

Chief R.B. Spinney said Monday that he sent a letter to the Town of Sewall's Point advising them that service will be extended to October 31 only. Thereafter, we will not feel responsible to answer your fire alarms."

The letter was dated Oct. 16.

Chief Spinney gave the rapid growth of Jensen Beach as the reason for not extending the $1,500 per year contract with the town.

Commissioner Rossiter said he had been advised by the last meeting of the Town Commission to seek the advantages and disadvantages of other fire departments.

"I don't anticipate the town being without fire protection," Rossiter said. "There's no question of that."

"We will decide what to do at a workshop session or a special meeting," the commissioner added.

Chief Spinney said that he had not received any correspondence from the town about continuing the fire protection contract.

Earlier this month the chief said he sent a regular form letter to the town about continuing the agreement that had been in effect for several years, at no increase in price.

The brief note that had been sent to the town stated: "In reference to the Fire Assistance Agreement contract, if agreeable we will continue the agreement."

"We didn't receive a reply," Chief Spinney said. "That's why we sent the letter (Oct. 16)."

The contract with the department and Sewall's Point expired Sept. 30.

The town has been paying Jensen Beach Fire Department $1,500 each year since 1973 and for several years paid $400 per month for fire protection.

"For 15 years we provided service for nothing," the chief said.

The seven-member Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, Inc. board met and decided in sending the letter to the town terminating the contract.

Legal question disrupts meeting

JENSEN BEACH--A brief legal squabble disrupted Tuesday afternoon's County Commission meeting which resulted in one commissioner walking out and no action was taken on the Executive Plaza building lease.

Only three commissioners were present for the session which was called to consider cancellation of the lease-purchase agreement with the Executive Plaza owners and consider a new agreement.

County Attorney Steve Calvert recommended that Chairman Ross Philbrick disqualify himself from voting on cancellation of the existing lease-purchase.

Philbrick disagreed saying, "For the good of the county I should vote on item A." Mutual release and cancellation of lease-purchase.

Philbrick had abstained from voting on the lease-purchase of the building.

Commissioner Maggy Hurchalla apparently agreeing with Calvert, walked out of the meeting and since only Commissioner Tom Higgins was left with Philbrick, no quorum was present.

After the brief session, Philbrick said he didn't think that abstaining from voting on the lease-purchase of the building and voting were related.

"I don't think the two items should have been on the same agenda," Philbrick said. "I couldn't vote on item B."

Item B was to consider a new agreement with Executive Plaza owners.

Under the new agreement, the county would pay a rental of $227,700 for each of the next four years and would pay $210,139 the final year to purchase the building.

The lease-purchase agreement approved by the commission last month has been challenged by 10 residents in Circuit Court.

Government to people

Adjustment board hearings resume

The board is reviewing petitions from 56 property owners seeking reductions in assessment on their property.

Property owners are seeking reductions either through reduction in the appraisal or granting exemptions previously denied by the Property Appraiser's office.

Turkey Shoot is Sunday

JENSEN BEACH--The Tropical Farms Concerned Citizens Association is holding a Turkey Shoot this Sunday, October 26, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Tropical Farms Fire Department and recreation area just off Locks Road near Route 76.

Refreshments will be served. There is a brand new playground for children.

Proceeds will be used to put a fence around the playground area.

Simon wins Tournament

JENSEN BEACH--Two hundred forty four TBA (Tournament Bowlers Association) bowlers invaded Jensen Lanes Saturday at 1 p.m. and when the last squad finished at 10 p.m. there were 32 finalists. 24 men and six women.

Joey Simon of Tampa captured first place and took home $1,000 for the final game of 250.

Jerry Howsmon rolled a 215 game to take second place and $500 in cash.

The third spot was collared by Lorraine Durham of Fort Pierce, who won the contest for second by one pin. She was awarded $250.

Other area bowlers who qualified were Lou Papaidero, Jr., Pete Oates and Irene Matthews, all of Stuart; Jensen, and Roy Whitaker of Fort Pierce.

Chairman supports service centers

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick has pledged his support to the Community Service Center concept.

"North and south county are our areas of concern," Philbrick said.

"I would work and support a service center in north county," he added.

Philbrick represents the north county area on the County Commission.

"First I would want to determine the cost of a center," Philbrick said, "and there are some departments that could use a center like the Health Department and Supervisor of Elections."

Service centers in the outlying areas of the county was first proposed by Commissioner Timer Powers of Indiantown.

Several weeks ago County Planner Kris Schenk suggested that he would like to meet with people of the Jensen Beach area to discuss the center concept and land-use planning.

The Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday announced that Schenk would be the speaker at their No. 10 meeting at the Outrigger.

The Kiwanis session is one day prior to the County Commission meeting when Schenk plans to discuss with commissioners landuse concepts and "mini-government service centers."

It has been pointed out by the planner that residents should be able to transact commercial and government business close to their homes rather than traveling into Stuart.

In looking at possible locations for service centers, Schenk said, "We would look at the areas where the people are, and where growth is anticipated."

A majority of courthouse department heads have endorsed the Community Service concept he proposed the first of last month.

"Community Service Centers will increase efficiency in government," Powers believes. "It is an exciting concept of government."

The county has a service center in Indiantown that is used on a part-time basis by most county offices and some state offices.

Schenk pointed out that other service centers could be similar to the Indiantown facility.

"We could begin other centers with one room and, if it is workable, it could grow into a big complex," Schenk said.

Powers said he hopes to have money in the 1976-77 budget for service centers.

Halloween party is planned

JENSEN BEACH--A Bicentennial Halloween Celebration is planned for the "spooks" of the Jensen Beach area.

The halloween fun begins Wednesday, Oct. 29 when children at Jensen Beach Elementary School will paint windows of stores.

And then there will be the annual big halloween party, with costume parade, at Langford Park Friday, Oct. 31.

Mrs. Virginia Van Dien, chairman of the halloween event, said the judging of the window painting will be held Oct. 30, and winners will receive their prizes at the school Oct. 31.

"The Jensen Beach and Rio fire departments will sound their alarms at 6:30 p.m. on Oct. 31, and all the children will go to Langford Park," Mrs. Van Dien said.

After the opening ceremonies at 6:30 p.m. with a color guard, the costume parade will begin, she said.

Frank Wacha will be master of ceremonies with County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick and State Rep. Chuck Nergard and civic leaders serving as judges of the costume parade. Mrs. Van Dien said.

We will have hotdogs and soft drinks for the children, and donuts and coffee for the adults," she added.

"This event has been very successful the past four years. Vandalism hardly existed in the past four years of these halloween festivities," she said.

'Bicentennial' carnival

JENSEN BEACH--Plans are shaping up for the PTA Bicentennial Carnival to be held at Langford Park on Saturday, November 1, from 1 to 6 p.m.

Children are selling tickets for the drawing at 5:30 p.m. for a Hobie 10' sailboat, gas grill, 12-inch black and white TV, electric table grill, and two 5-speed bicycles. Homerooms are in competition for the highest sales.

The always fabulous PTA bake sale is being offered as a part of the festivities.

NEW RESTAURANT--An architect's sketch of the new Japanese Steak House on Hutchinson Island indicates a tropical effect, with a copper roof, aged wood and fire lanterns around the massive wood door. The restaurant plans a winter season opening.

100TH ANNIVERSARY–The 100th anniversary celebration of the House of Refuge on Hutchinson Island was held Saturday, Oct 18. It was a dark, rainy day, but more than 200 persons attended the celebration and many boats took part in the boat parade on the Indian River. This photo was taken from one of the boats in the parade, that included Boy Scouts dressed as Indians in six canoes.

Damp day for anniversary celebration

JENSEN BEACH–Many of the people who attended the 100th anniversary celebration of the House of Refuge took refuge inside the house on Hutchinson Island.

For the other spectators, they took refuge under umbrellas. It rained.

Mrs. Janet Hutchinson had planned a brief ceremony, and she stuck to her guns.

What wasn't planned, however was Secretary of State Bruce Smathers having to leave earlier than expected.

State Rep. Chuck Nergard read Smathers' speech about the history of the House of Refuge.

And Mrs. Marshall Martin was unable to attend to accept the first copy of the History of Martin County so her daughter attended and accepted the first copy from County Commissioner Chairman Hoss Philbrick.

Mrs. Martin's husband's brother was the governor for whom the county was named 50 years ago.

About 200 persons braved the showers and watched Boy Scouts dressed as Indians paddle six canoes out on the Indian River to welcome the boats who took part in the boat parade, which got the ceremonies under way.

HOUSE HISTORY–State Rep. Chuck Nergard read Secretary of State Bruce Smathers' speech about the history of the House of Refuge last Saturday. Smathers had to leave the 100th anniversary celebration of the House of Refuge early.

UNDER UMBRELLA–It rained last Saturday afternoon, and the people that couldn't find shelter at the House of Refuge for the 100th anniversary celebration took refuge under an umbrella. State Rep. Jack Poorbaugh was one of the many persons who watched the ceremony from under an umbrella.

FIRST COPY–The first copy of the "History of Martin County" was presented to Carol Martin Kennedy, left, with Alice Taggesell looking on. Mrs. Kennedy is the daughter of Mrs. Marshall Martin. Mrs. Martin, whose husband's brother was the governor for whom Martin County was named, was unable to attend the House of Refuge 100th anniversary celebration to receive the first copy of the book.

Marine patrol rammed

JENSEN BEACH–A Delray Beach man is accused of ramming a Marine Patrol boat and trying to run down four detectives who jumped overboard to swim for their lives.

William Walton, 33, was charged with aggravated assault with intent to commit murder after an incident which occurred in Big Mud Creek near the Indian River in St. Lucie County.

A juvenile was also apprehended and a third person was being sought in the incident.

According to the Sheriff's Department, the office received information from an informant that led them to watch the Intracoastal Waterway last Wednesday.

Authorities said that two craft left the Fort Pierce Marina Wednesday at about 11 a.m. and headed south. The first was an unnamed craft which Walton had berthed at the marina and it was pulling the Lady III.

Steve Bubino of the state attorney's office, left Bud Savage of the Sheriff's Department and Marine Patrol officers Calvin Dixon followed in a Marine Patrol boat and Capt. Glenn Scambler and Sgt. James Carter and Deputy Ron McSwain of the Sheriff's Department accompanied them in another boat.

According to officers the two suspects' craft were as far as Big Mud Creek where the three occupants stripped the Lady III.

They fired several rounds into the lower quarter of the boat, apparently to scuttle it in deep water, authorities said.

When the shots were heard, officers said they turned on their boats' blue lights and sounded the siren on the Marine Patrol boat and headed for the two craft at high speed.

Officers said the first boat pulled off, pulling the Lady III directly into the path of the Marine Patrol boat.

The four men jumped out just before the Lady III rammed into the patrol boat. The first cruiser made a circle and came toward the four men in the water.

The four men were picked up by the Sheriff's Department boat, and the Lady III sank in shallow water and the first cruiser rammed ashore.

The juvenile was found in the boat, but the third occupant was not found.

None of the officers were injured and damage to the patrol boat was not serious.

Orchid Society

STUART–The monthly meeting of the Martin County Orchid Society will be held at the Levi Johnson Agricultural Center on Thursday, October 25.

Meeting time is 8 p.m.

The program will be a Question and Answer Culture Forum moderated by Mrs. Kather Perrton.

Those attending are asked to bring plants about which they have questions for discussion.

Stone appointed to conference panel

JENSEN BEACH–Robert E. Stone, State's Attorney for the 19th Judicial Circuit, has been appointed to serve on the Criminal Justice panel dealing with juvenile delinquency and the role of the schools at the Ninth Criminal Justice Conference in Orlando October 31 through November 1.

Appointed by Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Florida, James C. Adkins, Stone was chosen because of his outspoken concern for the juvenile system in Florida.

The conference is sponsored by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Offender Rehabilitation and the Supreme Court of Florida.

third indication of the 10th 's concern with the energy ge and the constantly rising of fuel came in a question ed to show the respondents' ities in spending. Of the 11 ories of spending, ranging defense to foreign aid, the only es getting anything close to ncement for bigger budgets mass transportation, Bafalis comparison, only 23.3 percent e questionnaires returned called increased spending for conservation and the environment, while 42.2 ent wanted less appropriated in field. Another 34.5 percent ated the current spending el, Bafalis noted.

Bafalis 50 percent of the ndents, 49.3 percent rallied for e funds for mass transit, while ter 25.4 percent favored funding the current level. Only 28.3 ent were in favor of fewer ds for mass transit.

e questionnaire also shows the District's extreme dismay over current high cost of welfare grams, Bafalis noted. More than rcent of the respondents said favor reform of national e and food stamp programs to ease work requirements while 1.9 percent opposed the e more telling, Bafalis said, the fact that 83.3 percent of the ndents favored a reduction in ure spending, compared to just percent who favored the current funding level and 2.9 percent who felt more funds should be made available.

In fact, the Republican Congressman said, only the question of foreign aid received a more negative response. Of those answering, 91.1 percent favored less foreign aid, while only 7.7 percent favored the current spending level and only 1.2 percent wanted to see spending increased.

The district's anti-foreign aid feeling was borne out by the fact that only 29.1 percent of the returned questionnaires came out in favor of increased U.S. food contributions to a World Food Bank for less productive nations. The rest, 70.9 percent, opposed the concept.

More than half of the responses also opposed resumption of diplomatic and trade relations with Communist Cuba. Bafalis said. Only 40.6 percent of the returns supported a resumption of trade, while 59.4 percent opposed the idea.

Bafalis said the district's apparent distrust of the Communist countries was also shown by the fact that nearly two-thirds of the questionnaires, 65.3 percent, were opposed to a full public investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency, while only 34.7 percent favored such a probe.

Voters in Florida's 10th Congressional District are also concerned about the growing power of organized labor, Bafalis said, pointing to the 79.9 percent of the returns which felt labor should be subjected to the same anti-trust regulations now imposed on business. Only 11.1 percent of the returns wanted labor left with a free hand.

As always, Bafalis said, the questionnaire responses make it abundantly clear the voters of the 10th Congressional District are fed up with expensive government.

Only 34 percent of the returns favored a tax increase to finance medical care for all Americans, while 70.4 percent said they favor a tax reduction even if government services have to be reduced.

In fact, in most spending categories the 10th District wants to see less money appropriated, Bafalis said. Nearly three fourths of the returns wanted less spent on governmental regulatory agencies, while 20.2 percent favor the current funding level and only 5.2 percent want to see more spent in this category.

The same is true in the field of farm subsidies. Bafalis said only 9.4 percent of the returns want more spent on subsidies while 70.4 percent want less spent and the remaining 20 percent are happy with current levels.

Even in the field of housing, nearly half want federal spending cut, Bafalis said, citing the 48 percent for a reduction, 21.2 percent for an increase and 30.8 percent for the status quo.

Cuts in the fields of defense, health, education and highways, is there any sizeable support for the current spending level, Bafalis said. In fact, he said, 42.9 percent of the respondents support the current level of defense spending, while 29.2 percent favor an increase. Only 26.9 percent want to see a cut.

For health, 46.1 percent favor current levels, 14.6 percent want an increase and only 25.4 percent want a reduction. For education, 37.9 percent want a reduction.

Bafalis said the district's need for swift completion of Interstate 95 and Interstate 75 was reflected by the fact that 45.7 percent of the questionnaires supports current highway spending levels, while another 25.6 percent thought an increase would be in order. 28.7 percent favored reduced highway funding.

In making public the returns, Bafalis praised the more than 34,000 residents who took part in filling out the questionnaire this year. Although the total number of questionnaires returned was somewhat lower this year, 26,344 more actual responses were tabulated since the new format provided for two responses per family.

GED tests

JENSEN BEACH–Adult residents of Florida, over age 18, who lack a high school diploma, have an opportunity to qualify for an Equivalency Diploma by taking and passing a battery of tests.

Governor Optimist; Mayor Sharpe and Lee Pines, Governor of the Florida District of Optimist International.

If all goes well

Professional Center plans construction for January

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE--With any luck at all, perhaps the much delayed groundbreaking of the proposed million dollar professional center planned for Port St. Lucie will take place in the near future.

Bill Salva, one of the three men who comprise the GGS Corp., developers of the proposed facility, told The Mirror Tuesday a meeting has been scheduled later in the week with representatives of a financial institution.

"If all goes well and I am confident it will, we expect to have the major construction of the center completed by mid-January," Salva said.

The two acre site located approximately a mile south of the Prima Vista U.S. 1 intersection across from the entrance to Spanish Lakes was cleared in July however, financing of the facility caused an additional delay.

The proposed structure, designed to house twenty one doctors will provide 20,000 square feet of rental area.

According to Salva, GGS Corp has seventeen letters of intent from members of the medical profession throughout the country.

Of the letters filed, two are dentists, one druggist, thirteen doctors and one is for a laboratory.

The GGS Corporation is comprised of three equal partners, William Bill Salva, president; Joe Gerlak, vice president and Ed Glaser, secretary-treasurer.

City plan is updated

PORT ST. LUCIE--Three officials of General Development Corporation presented the Planning and Zoning Board with an up-dated master plan for the City of Port St. Lucie.

According to Dr. Charles Hoyt, vice chairman of the P&Z Board, the update included very few changes.

"Since the majority of land in the area has been sold, there is a minimum number of changes that can be expected," Dr. Hoyt said.

In essence the plan divided the community into seven sections, each one of which could be more or less self contained areas.

Describing the master plan as beautiful, Dr. Hoyt said everyone attending the Monday meeting was very impressed.

Although the density varies throughout the seven areas, the density figure is less than is permitted by the Planning and Zoning Board. The overall density is four units per acre.

Also included in the up-date is a possible site for a Mobile Home Park. The park would be situated east of U.S. 1, north of Walton Road.

According to Dr. Hoyt, the proposed mobile home park would have a low density less than that of Spanish Lakes and would be complete with swimming pool, recreation area and lake.

GDC officials maintain in the mobile home park will surpass the one in the firm's Port Charlotte community, which is looked upon as a model park throughout the country.

Commenting on the park, Dr. Hoyt said he is extremely pleased with the location.

"I am impressed with the plan and with GDC's attitude in doing a first class job.

"They are not pushing density up and in my opinion they are doing everything possible to come up with a first class city.

It was pointed out that when the land is completely sold Port St. Lucie will have a population of approximately 250,000 and will be one of the largest cities on the east coast.

The master plan also provides room for three more golf courses, two in the north and one in the west.

A master plan is not final, but is a proposal and open to changes.

Before any proposed development can proceed, the detailed plans must be approved by the Planning and Zoning Board.

Kids invited to spook

PORT ST. LUCIE--The annual Halloween Spook Hour at the Port St. Lucie Branch Library will be held on Thursday, Oct. 30 at 3:30 p.m.

All children from ages 5 to 11 are invited and are encouraged to come in costume. There will be Halloween games and stories and some witches brew to drink.

The library will be closed during this program from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Republicans elect officers

PORT ST. LUCIE--The election of new officers will be the first order of business when the Port St. Lucie Republican Club meets November 6 at CESA. Meeting time is 7:30 p.m.

Pear Troutman and Phebe Williams, co-chairmen of the hospitality committee, announce that refreshments will be served immediately following the meeting, adding "Bring a friend."

The PSL Republican Club meets the first Thursday of every month at the CESA. Community Center with regular sessions at 7:30 p.m., special dinners at 6 p.m.

Stamp and coin show

PORT ST. LUCIE--Coming up at CESA on Sunday, October 26, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. is a Stamp and Coin Exhibit sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Stamp Club. Proceeds from the show will benefit the CESA Building Fund.

Russell Privateer will display jewelry made from coins and take orders for same.

Members of the Stamp Club will exhibit stamps.

Jimmy's Rare Coins, Treasure Coast Stamp and Coins, Ye Olde Coin Shop and T.P. Regans Coins are some of the dealers expected to participate.

Coffee and sandwiches will be available.

It is suggested that anyone having stamps or coins to sell might contact the dealers.

A Stamp Club spokesman says, "Whether or not you are a collector come and browse and see the beauty of the exhibition. Admission is free."

Sandpiper Bay builds tennis pavilion, adds three new courts

PORT ST. LUCIE--Foundations were poured recently for a new tennis pavilion at Sandpiper Bay which will give the resort one of the most modern tennis facilities in South Florida when completed in early December.

Tennis pro Mario Obando said the new structure, which will carry out the rustic architectural theme of all buildings, will house a pro shop, locker rooms, an office, snack bar and patio as well as a grandstand for up to 450 spectators.

Work is also proceeding on three new tennis courts which will raise the total of championship playing courts to 11, eight of which will be illuminated for night play.

The new 1,000 square foot pavilion will be located just east of the existing courts and, when the new courts are completed, will be in the center of the tennis complex.

A unique feature of the pavilion is an elevation, three feet above ground level, to provide spectators with an excellent view of action on the courts. There will be a landscaped and trellised patio viewing area outside the snack bar as well as the concrete bleacher-type stands.

The three new courts will have a surface of Acryflex, a recently developed substance that is in use at only two or three other tennis clubs in Florida. The courts are being built by Florida Tennis Corporation which designed and built the courts at the President Country Club and Racquet Club in West Palm Beach and the Racquet and Yacht Club of Boca Raton, according to Obando.

"Acryflex is a very resilient substance," added Obando. "It is easy on the feet and thus makes for more enjoyable play. The surface will not play as fast as grass, yet it will be faster than clay. Because of this, I think our new courts will be just right for the active tennis player."

Recommendation stands

P&Z board stands firm

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE--Members of the City's Planning and Zoning Board maintained a firm stand relative to their recommendation of the Edgewater Villas, the proposed multi family dwellings to be constructed on a 21 acre tract adjoining Pruitt Road on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

Regardless of the board's recommendation, and based on nothing more than the preliminary, cold blueprints the City Council two weeks ago rejected the plans returning them to the P&Z Board for more detailed information, further study and a complete reevaluation.

"The whole thing was a mixup," explained Dr. Charles Hoyt, vice-chairman of the P&Z Board.

"The item was erroneously placed on the agenda for a special Council meeting held October 7, however the developers were not notified and consequently were not present at that meeting.

The matter was once again placed on the P&Z agenda for Monday, but this time the developers, T. Spencer Crowley, Jack Limbeck and George Wasser, architect for the proposed project, were present to answer any and all queries.

Also attending the meeting were all five members of the City Council.

Commenting on the earlier remarks of Vice-mayor Frank Rose and Councilman Larry Kimmel that the project resembled an army barracks, Wasser questioned where one might find $60,000 to $80,000 army barracks complete with swimming pool and underground parking.

According to Dr. Hoyt, the builders were questioned by every member of the City Council and from all indications the answers provided were satisfactory.

"We (the P&Z Board) have no intentions of reviewing the preliminary plans again. We went into this thoroughly several months ago and gave the project our recommendation at that time. That recommendation still stands," Dr. Hoyt told The Mirror Tuesday.

Hoyt pointing out that all the P&Z Board has to go on is the local ordinance, said the project engineers have met all specifications of the city and in instances have gone beyond.

The traffic survey, according to Wasser, will be forthcoming once the preliminary approval for the project is obtained.

The survey will be conducted by Kimley and Horn, one of the largest firms in the country.

"We will do everything we can to avoid creating a traffic hazard," Wasser told the group.

It is expected the plans for the proposed project will be placed on the City Council's agenda, possibly at the next meeting, October 28.

The development will consist of 240 apartment dwellings to be constructed on the 21 acre site.

The apartment dwellings are to be two bedroom, two bath apartments. Depending on sales, some three bedroom apartments would be constructed.

Three bedroom apartments would be limited to only 15 percent of the project. The buildings will not exceed three stories with parking facilities to be located underneath the buildings.

Plans indicate a clubhouse will be constructed which would contain a model apartment that would later be converted to additional clubhouse use.

It was further stated the project will be an adult community only, and construction would be of masonry and steel.

Water and sewage will be provided through General Development Corporation and a drainage system would be designed for use on the property.

The height of the project will not exceed thirty five feet from top of the grade including the underground garage, with a density of 11.6 units per acre.

Poppy Sale October 31

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Andy Matton Post 10130 and their Ladies Auxiliary will conduct the annual sale of Buddy Poppies throughout the Port St. Lucie-White City areas starting Oct. 31.

According to an announcement by Bill Gales, Post publicity chairman, the sale will continue through November 9.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, who signed the Poppy Sale Proclamation Monday, urged the citizens of the area to recognize the merits of the project by contributing generously.

All funds derived from the poppy sale, part of the Veteran's Day observances, will be used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, their widows and children in the area.

Although Gales stressed all proceeds from the poppy drive would remain in the county for the benefit of local veterans he did say the local Post supported the VFW home for orphans and widows of veterans. The home is located in Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Although there is no set charge for the poppies Gales is hopeful donations will be generous.

Chairman of the Poppy Committee is Joe Kuby, for the VFW and Mrs. Blanche McGary for the Ladies Auxiliary.

North Port ladies in tournament play

PORT ST. LUCIE--Members of the North Port Ladies' Golf Association teed off at the Holiday Country Club on Stuart last Wednesday, beginning what proved to be a sizzling first round of match tournament play.

Irene Fields led Flight B defeating Edna Kessler 3-2. Dorothy Peterson lost to Bessie Stimson 6-5. Carole Metcalf and Marge Foehr were 1 up. The match between Eleanor Wise and Betty Fields was re-scheduled.

C Flight winners were Kay Harris over Jo Cocheroner 7-6. Faith Opp over Marger Gehardt 5-3. Edith Huber and Mary Schlesainger 1 up and Alice Sharp drew a bye.

Nine-holers play

low net tourney

PORT ST. LUCIE--Three-way ties for second honors was the order of the day when the Nine Holers played a low net tournament on the Saints Course on Tuesday, October 14.

Edith Huber led Flight A all the way with a 36 -6 three-way tie for second found Inda Fiester, Penny Llewallen and Jo Hart all with 44's.

Flight B winner was Ann Fisher with 37 and Ann Bozarth took second place with 37.

Ann Fisher won Closest to the Pins with a 7 and Wanda Lundin, Marnette Snee and Pat Hyde all 6-6, resulting in another three-way tie for second.

The second round was scheduled for Wednesday, October 22.

Anyone interested in joining the North Port Ladies may call Alice Sharp at 878-0821 or Irene Fields at 234-2909.

Weekly golf

PORT ST. LUCIE--Tom Chapman edged out John Huncharek and Jim Dicos to win the weekly golf tournament of the Sandpiper Bay Men's Golf Association played over the Saints Course on Thursday.

The CESA Golf Tournament chairman was in fine form as he fired a gross round of 76, the best round of the day. Other low winners were Tom Wood also 76, Huncharek 77, Joe Chappelle and Larry Lamentson, 79.

One of the longest putts of the season was dropped by Tom Jelinek, playing in a foursome with Mike Reeb, Irv Kindlich and Dick Landin when he banged in an incredible 95-footer on the 12th hole for a birdie.

Leading scores for the round, an event featuring the dropping of three worst holes and a five-stroke handicap, were:

Flight A Chapman, 72-3, Huncharek, 53-6, Dicos 54, Wood 54-1, Ken Simmons, 54-5.

Flight B Virg Somsell 54-5, Carl Boaz 54-5, Joe Fiester 54-6, Gradon Smith 54-8, Woody Roberts, 55-5.

Flight C Bill Muller 52-8, Bob Mitchell 53-1, Jack Radcliffe 54, Tony Francoline and Hal Roberts 54-5.

This Thursday's competition is individual stroke play with full handicaps.

Club views "Florida's last frontier"

JENSEN BEACH–Jensen Beach Garden Club members enjoyed a visit to Florida's Last Frontier, a slide program of Everglades National Park presented by Robert Wagner of Jensen Beach who narrated informative and unusual facts about our largest park. Mr. Wagner through the cooperation of Park Rangers was able to photograph birds in their natural habitat, wild flowers, small animals in the hammocks, ancient trees, and alligators feeding, sunning, and with their young. Questions and answers by members were many and varied.

"Hallowe'en Party" was the theme of artistic design arrangements entered by members who explained their ideas and plant materials used. Signe Morris, club consultant for artistic design, gave constructive critique on each entry. Members showing were Doris Taylor, Laura Hansen, Irene Stephenson, Grace Whitson, and Signe Morris. November class will be place setting and design for Thanksgiving table.

Horticulture short talk on "Dishrag Gourd" was presented by Irene Stephenson who described history and use of dried gourds as pot scrubbers by our American Indians and early settlers. Club members agreed to feasibility of such use as they examined the gourds.

Club members have a work day planned for November 8 9 a.m. at The Arch which is landmark being renewed and restored as club's Bicentennial project. Planting of shrubs and finishing of planter will complete the club's effort. Local merchants are donating materials for the project. Members are cooperating with the Jensen Beach Bicentennial committee by handling telephone notices of their meetings and being on duty when the Committee has its Sales Day in Jensen. On display were pictures of the Garden Club's entry in Jensen Beach 4th of July Bicentennial Parade.

President Anne Lartaud greeted guests and thanked the hostesses Mrs. Herbert Combs, Mrs. Melburn Murray, Mrs. Elmer Hoffman and Mrs. Carl Schmidt.

For the November meeting Martin County Agricultural Agent Robert Whitty will hold discussion "Florida Soil What's the Problem." Members will also have plant sale and cuttings exchange.

Venture Harbour News

BY JESSIE SHAVER

Since I was out of circulation for a week my news shooping was not much of a success I would appreciate a phone call or a written account of any news of Venture Harbourites Please assist me by doing so

+ + +

Jean and Gil VanWilligen returned Saturday evening Like all our returnees, they say they are glad to be back

+ + +

When Sam Tucker gets here this week Wahoo Street residents will almost be in full force except for the Clarks Barbara and Stan will be home in Connecticut from their African trip the first of November, but will not be here until after the holidays

News from the other street is scarce The best news is that there is joy at the Tener home because Dick is improving and was able to be up and around to watch the football games Sunday Keep it up Dick

Betty Jones has been hard at work on her eggsacting craft of Egg Decoration She is finishing a Christmas design that will surpass all of her lovely collection

+ + +

Response to the letters sent out to members of Venture Harbour Association has already resulted in contributions to the J-B Rio Community Fund by over half of the members The general thinking is that this is our first chance to take on a civic responsibility as a group within a group Our contributions will go to the same source and will be a part of the whole Venture Out concept but our contributions will be consolidated and presented as the combined effort of the new Venture Harbour Association of Venture Out Those who have neglected to get their contributions in still have a few days to do so

Consumer course at academy

Howey-in-the-Hills--Howey Academy students are learning how to become wiser consumers at a time when the world's economic woes are front page news

A special course in Consumer Economics is being continued at this central Florida co-educational college preparatory school due to the high impact of this practical subject with last year's senior class

Instructor Mrs. Lorraine Treen, who holds a Home Economics degree from Florida Southern College has designed the course to enable each student to develop a sound decision-making procedure to evaluate the total marketplace and its products to get the most for his or her money.

Venture Out News

VENTURE OUT NEWS
BY WILLARD AUCH

Haven't had a recent weather report from the north country, but at the rate our good friends are arriving, it must be pretty bad

+ + +

Wayne and LaBelle Barrett arrived at the same time that Ward and Cora Lee Irwin pulled in Wayne looks fine and I believe I saw him out in his boat Saturday

Cora Lee and Ward arrived with Ward's new golf buggy and you will see him out keeping up with all the activities

Friday Bob and Marge Owens arrived and are busy getting things ship-shape Marge and Bob are sticking to their diets--or shall I say the diet that Bob needs and they both look wonderful It takes both of them standing side-by-side to throw a good shadow

+ + +

The Richdales, Guy and Jane from Somerville, N.J. have arrived for most of the winter They plan to journey home for Thanksgiving but will return with two of their children for Christmas

Just heard see how uptodate I am that Fran Tener during her vacation up in Maryland this summer attended swimming exercising classes She is graciously passing this on by leading a swimming exercise class at the Venture Out pool for Venture Harbour and Venture Out members Classes are from 3:00-3:30 p.m. Thus who have been attending are delighted and appreciate Fran's leadership

If you are at the park you will see that the Holiday Out and Venture Out guard house is now under construction Before long you will have to stop and give the countersign or password This is something that both parks have needed

Looking down the street awhile ago we saw Andy and Edna Watson pulling in their big 35 trailer They have a farm up in Canada They are now back to spend the winter months I told you when the frost gets on the pumkins that we will have a full park

We wish to welcome Tom and Edna Ortolani from Commack and Westerly N.Y. The story is that about five years ago Tom drove into Venture Out and spent about 10 minutes looking for a lot He purchased it and now this is the first time that they have been back They purchased a new trailer and are parked on their lot 708

Tom is now retired from Fairchild Republic Corp They will be spending their winter months with us and then return to Long Island at Wooster Edna and Tom owned a catering business for about 18 years which Edna operated

Tom states that Edna is an excellent cook We will have an opportunity to try out some of it when they attend the Pot Luck Suppers

We hear that John and Betty Starky have just returned from a vacation to London, England and Scotland Have not talked to them yet but we are sure they had a ball

+ + +

Doctor and Mrs. Marsano from Buffalo N.Y. are down to spend a couple of weeks relaxing and to absorb a little Florida sunshine

Millie and Bill Middleton came home last Tuesday afternoon They had an exciting summer vacation up in the New York State Capital area

The Middletons were together with all their children and grandchildren for the first time ever Bill, Susan and their son Shawn came from Durham New Hampshire Bob, Carol and Scott from Cleveland, Ohio and Arlene Wayne and their two children Lori and Beth from Castleton on the Hudson In the past it was impossible to get together, first it was education for the children each going to separate colleges then the war with the boys going to Viet Nam then business which led one boy in England, one in Ohio and Arlene teaching in Castleton

All the kids have been to Venture Out and they are very pleased that their parents are so happy down here

Bill did some hunting and fishing in New York and Vermont Also planted a garden at his son's home in Durham N.H. and one for himself in Schenectady, N.Y. Had the first tomatoes in his neighborhood

Millie has a new electric Pfaff sewing machine and would love to show it to you They also have a new 1976 Olds 98 it is a real road hugger No offense Mil'

Your Key to More SAVINGS
Mobile Homes Insurance

Do not renew your present mobile home insurance coverage until you check with one of the Rick Carroll agencies. We have the first major new concept in mobile home insurance that will not only save you money but give you more complete coverage. We can now insure your mobile home with exactly the same price and coverage as a permanent dwelling. The UTICA FIRE INSURANCE CO. of Utica, New York has appointed the RICK CARROLL INSURANCE agencies as their agents.
Please contact the agency nearest to you for more complete information on this new insurance concept. This policy will give you superior coverage of your mobile or modular home at a much lower premium than you are now paying.

Lake Manor News

BY SYLVIA SIMAN
334-6792

Greetings to all of you in the park and our friends who read us. We hope you had as good a vacation as we did. It was a bit hectic for us since most of our friends are younger, but it was most enjoyable visiting with relatives in Illinois and Wisconsin.

On our homeward trek we visited a niece in Normal, Illinois, a cousin in Mexico, Missouri, and finally, at Springfield, my brother Anders Ericksen and his wife Velma a delightful visit.

The north countryside was gorgeous in colors of gold to bronze and the southern states were a lush green.

We were fortunate to have our farmer grandson, Milton Vosa from Ashworth, Wisconsin, help us drive down. Milt is 18 years old and again was rewards at the State Fair at Elkhorn. His two younger brothers also won blue ribbons. Todd several, and Bruce, his first blue. Milton stayed with us three days and took time to go to Disney World and deep sea fishing. He also did a bit of fishing in our lake, catching many small bass and one large one, throwing them all back. But of course, we took a snapshot of the big one.

A most cordial welcome to these newcomers to our park. Mr. and Mrs. Willie F. (Cotton) Ferrenburg from Detroit, Michigan. Della and Cotton are residing in the former Neyhart mobile. We wish them a long, happy stay.

+ + +

The first couple to arrive after we did were Edna and Bill Eastman, and we gladly welcome them back. I'm sure all are eager for Thursday's (23rd) pot luck, so y'all come.

+ + +

It is great to be back and to be greeted so affectionately by all. We will appreciate your news items, so let's get into full swing and help make this column interesting.

And to all Peace.

Warners are home

JENSEN BEACH–Mr. and Mrs. A.C. (Gus) Warner have returned to their Rio home after a very busy summer in Canada, during which time they sold their home in Grimsby and moved into a lovely new apartment in the same area. They were down here in time to spend a few days with their niece, Mrs. Pamela Warner Graham, who was visiting here from the Isle of Man and staying with the Sid Warners on Hilltop Court.

Mrs. Graham, being active in the British Legion, was anxious to attend a meeting of the American Legion and was delighted when invited to Monday's meeting by Mrs. Charles Diffendal of Jensen Beach. Mrs. Graham returned to London, England on Tuesday and from there will fly to her home in the Isle of Man.

The Gus Warners are happy to be back in Rio and are busy tending their garden and renewing friendships. A cruise is planned for next month to celebrate Gus' 80th birthday. The Sid Warners and the Gus Warners are looking forward to the holiday aboard.

Community Bridge

JENSEN BEACH–Monday, Oct. 13, there were 10½ tables in play with an average of 97½ for North-South and 96 for East-West.

North South winners were Maree Hagg and Nel Seeple 123½, second Ray Blue and George Knoll 119, third Marion Heath and Ted Wallick 102½, fourth Fran Wilson and George Benoit 101.

East West winners were Flora Raffe and Grant Shaffer 118½, second Liz and Bill Cuthbert 109, third Charlotte and Bill Finnan 106½, fourth B. Hayes and M. Wilson 106.

On Friday, Oct. 10, a Howell Movement was played and in first place was Gladys Gilbert and Mildred Skinner, second Ruth and Bill Banan, third Marge and Fred Billing and a tie for fourth and fifth Bea and Bill Snelling and Jack Alger and Sid Schweiger.

Game time is 1 p.m. Mondays and Fridays in The Harry Hoke Community Room at The First Federal Savings and Loan, Jensen Beach. All players are welcome and a partner is always available.

News Notes from PSL

BY DOROTHY BRUNTON

Hennie and Lucy Demeules of Altura Ave. recently celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary with their five children and their families in Minneapolis.

Three sons and two daughters have a savings project going from year to year. The object of this year's savings project was a dinner for 150 people for this big anniversary event.

Before the dinner, Hennie and Lucy took part in the Blessing of Marriage Vows in St. Ann's Church in Minneapolis.

There were 16 grandchildren and one great grandchild at the dinner. One son lives in Fort Pierce, one in Oxon Hill, Md. and the three daughters live in Minneapolis.

Belated congratulations to these two very active Port St. Lucie residents.

Duplicate bridge

STUART–The Stuart Duplicate Club held its regular weekly session on Wednesday, Oct. 15 at the Youth Center. There were eight tables in play and a straight Mitchell movement was used. Average North-South was 72, East-West 82.

North-South winners were, Frank & Lucille Percuoco 85½, Fran Wilson and Joe Berg 83, Mary and Gerry Boyd 75, Toni Henry and Lou Collins 68½.

Game time is 7:30. Roger White is director and a partner is guaranteed.

Tuesday, Nov. 25th will be the continent wide charity game and the Stuart Duplicate club will again hold a game at the Youth Center.

Get acquainted session planned

JENSEN BEACH–The Treasure Coast Builders Association Women's Auxiliary has planned a get acquainted meeting of the general membership on October 23 at the Ramada Inn, Fort Pierce.

Purpose of the affair is to enable ladies from Martin and St. Lucie Counties to get to know each other better.

Happy hour starts at 6:30 p.m. dinner at 7, for this "first time ever" evening meeting.

Marilyn Ayers 283-7681 and Brenda Leaming 464-5575 are accepting reservations.

Another 50th Anniversary was celebrated on Ralmie Lane by Sara and Francis Saunders.

Their son Francis, Jr. and his wife gave a reception at the Saunders home.

Mr. Saunders was formerly with a steel company in McKeesport, Pa. and he also conducted a Sports Program on the radio in McKeesport. Our heartiest congratulations to them on their anniversary.

This seems to be the week for 50- and 25-year celebrations.

Marie and Charles Boyd of Sunshine Ave. celebrated their 25th Anniversary with a party held at the Zinters' home in Port St. Lucie. Then the Boyds took off for California, Hawaii and Las Vegas. A great way to celebrate!

+ + +

Another 25 year celebration was a party at the Ocean Village Inn in honor of Dick and Martha Downey. Anita and Charlie White, Bill and Hazel McFarlane and Merrill and Paul Gleason helped the Downey's celebrate.

Again, congratulations to all these fine people.

The Bruntons have two young guests visiting from Zurich, Switzerland. Gabriel and Hans Zeller decided to take a year off from their occupations and come to the United States. They bought a camper on their arrival in New York and plan to see America.

We have a little language problem but, after explaining what we mean, we get along fine. Words and expressions we take for granted, our Swiss Kids don't understand, but we manage to relate.

From Florida, they are heading south to the Keys, then to New Orleans, Mexico and South America. Back to the western part of the United States and then back home. Oh, to be young and adventurous!

Government to people

Minister backs service center

JENSEN BEACH–The Community Service Center concept has the enthusiastic support of the Rev. Frank Alvarez, pastor of All Saints Episcopal Church in Jensen Beach.

But Art Hansen, chairman of the Jensen Beach Incorporation Committee, wants a public meeting on the subject and added:

"I question if the need justifies the cost."

And two Commercial Street merchants had different views on the Community Service Center which was proposed by Martin County Commissioner Timer Powers last month.

"I believe that the citizens of Martin County are most hopeful that the service center concept will become a reality now," the Rev. Alvarez said.

"There is a real need for the people to be able to sort with county officials without having to travel too many long miles," the minister added.

"I understand that there are only two places in our county for the citizens to purchase various licenses. I suggest that each center provide the necessary service for the people to purchase auto plates, marriage licenses, car registrations, etc.

"For the county government to move to the people will be a great asset both to the citizens and our officials."

The community service center concept is a real step forward for the people of Martin County, and it could be that this idea will spread to other small Florida counties," the Rev. Alvarez concluded.

Commercial Street merchant Carol Pitman also thinks the Community Service Center is "a great idea, and it will save the businessman time by not having to travel to the courthouse in Stuart."

But Martha Moore, another commercial Street merchant calls the service center concept a "waste of taxpayers money." We don't need anymore courthouses. They should take care of the one courthouse they've got."

Hansen said that the subject of a satellite courthouse or local county service office in the Jensen Beach area is certainly one that every taxpayer in our area should take an interest in.

The decision pro or con should be based on the need as expressed by the people," Hansen said.

Hanlein pointed out that the people in the area voted "no" on the subject of bringing government closer to the people.

The incorporation of Jensen Beach-Rio area was defeated at the polls.

Hansen blamed one of the reasons for the incorporation defeat was "many feared the cost. And he raised the question of cost of a county facility in the area.

"If the people want it," okay; if they aren't interested, let's save the money. A public meeting would be one way to get the answers Hansen said.

Commissioner Powers has indicated on more than one occasion that he would meet with the people of any area to discuss the Community Service Center concept.

Spook party

JENSEN BEACH–The always fabulous halloween party with costume parade for Jensen Beach area children will be held at Langford Park Friday, Oct. 31.

But the halloween fun begins today, Wednesday, Oct. 29, for the children of Jensen Beach Elementary School when they will paint store windows.

Mrs. Virginia Van Dien, chairman of the halloween event, said the judging of the window painting will be held Oct. 30, and winners will receive their prizes at the school Oct. 31.

"The Jensen Beach and Rio fire departments will sound their alarms at 6:30 p.m. on Oct. 31 and all the children will go to Langford Park," Mrs. Van Dien said.

After the opening ceremonies at 6:30 p.m. with a color guard, the costume parade will begin, she said.

Frank Wacha will be master of ceremonies with County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick and State Rep. Chuck Nergard and civic leaders serving as judges of the costume parade, Mrs. Van Dien said.

"We will have hotdogs and soft drinks for the children, and donuts and coffee for the adults," she added.

"This event has been very successful the past four years. Vandalism hardly existed during the four years of these halloween festivities," she said.

PTA Carnival

JENSEN BEACH–Langford Park will be the scene of the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA Bicentennial Carnival Saturday, Nov. 1, from 1 to 8 p.m.

Advance ticket sales by the students indicate that once again the annual carnival will be a great success.

The always fabulous PTA bake sale is being offered as part of the festivities.

School homerooms are in competition for the highest sales.

Breakfast Club begin Monday

JENSEN BEACH–A business and professional breakfast club will be founded in Jensen Beach next Monday morning, November 3, according to Fred Meeker organizer.

Local Jensen Beach and Rio business and professional people have been invited to the 7:15 a.m. breakfast at the Holiday Inn, Ocean side.

"We plan to meet together each month in a positive, sharing attitude that will, hopefully, be inspiring to each and every one," Meeker wrote in the invitation to businessmen.

Meeker told The Mirror that the breakfasts would give the business and professional people an opportunity to meet one another, share ideas and find out what each has to offer the other and the community, discuss the needs of the community, and look into possible solutions for these needs.

"Jensen Beach is one of the nicest communities in Florida. We want to make it better," he said.

Long debates

Another 'yes' vote on Plaza buy

JENSEN BEACH–The running verbal hassle over the purchase of the Executive Plaza continued for two hours Tuesday before Martin County Commissioners voted 4-0 on a new agreement to buy the building under "lease with option to purchase."

Before the lengthy skirmish started, which included opinions from attorneys and comments from residents, Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick left the bench.

Philbrick once again disagreed with County Attorney Steve Calvert on whether or not he should vote on the building purchase issue.

"I see no problem with the release agreement," Philbrick said.

The first vote before the commission was a mutual release cancellation of the existing lease-purchase between the county and Executive Plaza owners.

At last week's meeting when no vote was taken on the release issue, Calvert said Philbrick should disqualify himself from voting.

Calvert maintained Tuesday that he was of the opinion that Philbrick was still disqualified.

Philbrick did not vote on the original purchase agreement last month. Philbrick is a director in the Jensen Beach Bank that has lent money to the building owners.

The chairman said Tuesday, however, his attorney had advised him that he could participate since he owns only a small share in the bank and that the bank does not have a lien on the building but only holds a note.

From the floor Tuesday, Philbrick noting the public opposition to the building purchase, suggested that the commission consider renting some office space, but vice chairman John Keenan disagreed with the proposal.

After the session, Philbrick admitted that the commission should look at some other alternates to the county office space needs.

Before the vote on the cancellation of the original release, Philbrick said, "Not having my attorney, I will step down."

There was repeated requests for a public hearing on the new contract or referendum before the commission acted on a new purchase agreement.

Attorney Dick Dungey, who represents the people in a suit seeking to halt the Plaza Building purchase, asked commissioners, "To step back and take another look at the needs. What could be the harm at looking at other options."

Also, Attorney Stuart Hershey raised the question of authorization of drawing up a new agreement. He asked if the commission in a public meeting authorized Calvert to draw up a new contract.

Attorney Hershey said that if the commission had not authorized the new contract in public that it was a violation of the Sunshine Law.

Calvert replied that he had general authorization to draw up contracts and ordinances, and the special Attorney Jim Vance for the county, said he had conferred with Calvert and County Administrator Jack Noble on the new contract.

Others pointed out that since it was a new contract a public hearing should be held, but commissioners maintained that sufficient hearings had been held.

Commissioner Timer Powers pointed out his main concern was that the new contract met all the legal requirements.

The new contract provides that the county will pay "rental" of $237,700 for each of the next four years and would pay $210,139 the final year to purchase the building.

This is a reduction of about $17,600 from the old agreement. Also, the new agreement corrects legally questionable terms of the old contract, the eight per cent interest rate, when the legal limit for counties to pay is 7.5 per cent.

The new release provides that rentals be pro-rated in event of invalidity. And the contract follows. If for any reason, this lease is found to be invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction, the leasee shall only be responsible for pro-rated lease payments during the period of its occupancy of the premises.

Lt. Gov. Williams

No district decision

JENSEN BEACH–No action has been taken for a new regional planning district, Lt. Gov. Jim Williams said.

State Rep. Chuck Nergard, who represents the Jensen Beach area, conferred with Williams by telephone last Friday on the status of the proposed planning district.

Nergard said there had been some meetings on the proposed new district, and that Williams may make a decision within the near future.

Commissioners of Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties passed resolutions last June requesting creation of a new planning district and took their resolution to Tallahassee and presented it to Williams.

Currently there are 10 regional districts in Florida, and it will be up to Williams Department of Administration to decide if the districts should be increased to 11.

The move to create a new planning district got its big push last spring when Palm Beach County decided to pull out of the South County Regional Planning Council District 10.

Neither Martin nor St. Lucie is a member of the South Florida Regional Council both having declined to join a couple of years ago.

Indian River County is in District 6.

In June, officials from Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties met and agreed to present a united front in asking the state to allow them, along with Okeechobee County, to form a new planning district.

The state Legislature decided in 1972 to solidify the concept of regional planning with two laws.

The first of these laws pointed out that a land development project, if it is sufficiently large, can have an impact on communities far beyond the boundaries of the city or county in which it is located.

The law named these major projects Developments of Regional Impace (DRI) and said that these projects ought to be reviewed by a multi county planning agency.

At the same time, a second law was passed giving the state Department of Administration the power to decide what the boundaries would be for planning these multi-county districts.

Region 10, the state announced, would include Dade, Broward, Monroe, Palm Beach, Martin and St. Lucie counties.

When the districts were being created two years ago, there was a move to have a district organized which would include counties that now seeks to create its own district.

At that time, however, Palm Beach County decided it wanted to be included with the large counties to the south, Dade and Broward.

There have been numerous complaints about the South Florida Regional Planning Council. But the most basic is that its membership is too diverse.

The smaller counties have complained repeatedly that they don't want to belong to any land planning agency which includes densely populated Dade and Broward counties.

Commissioners who met with Williams last July pointed out that they felt that the large counties of Dade and Broward were not sensitive enough to environmentally to problems of growth.

Astronaut speaker

JENSEN BEACH–An astronaut will be the speaker at the God and Country Day celebration Feb. 15, 1976, chairman Rev. Frank Alvarez announced.

Which astronaut will be available for the celebration isn't known.

Decision said 'no surprise'

JENSEN BEACH–We are disappointed, but not surprised at the action taken today (Tuesday) at the County Commission meeting, Bill Wasserman, spokesman for the people who filed the lawsuit against the county and owners of the Executive Plaza building, said Tuesday afternoon.

"By their actions, the commissioners once again have refused to consider the taxpayers in the matter. It was agreed however, that the contract would not become effective until Dec. 1, 1975. We are unable to determine why the commissioners were not open to the suggestion that there be some sort of public exposure in the next 30 days, prior to finalizing the contract."

Wasserman continued, "It makes one wonder why there is such a sense of urgency that can't be adequately explained, in the immediate decision to sign a new purchase contract."

Bicentennial momentoes

JENSEN BEACH–Flags, decals, medallions and commemorative momentos will be sold in Jensen Beach shopping areas on Saturday, November 8, as the Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee takes the nation's birthday celebration to the people.

Thar's fish in them thar holes

JENSEN BEACH--Fishing's picking up in the area, according to the Snook Nook report for the past week.

The Savannas gave up some black bass. Tony Westbecker used worms to catch two totalling 6 pounds and Howard Byers caught 8 black bass, also on worms. Charles Whitehurch had an 8¼-lb. black bass on a black worm. John Hurshman traveled all the way to the Kissimmee River to land a nice 8¼-lb. bass on a blue worm.

Joe and Irene Pinder caught 13 blues on cut bait, Frank Usziak, 3 blues, Bob Carruthers, 6 trout, and Art Venturi had 10 snook, 5 returned.

Red Smith used shrimp to land a 10¼-lb. grouper and 4 mangrove snappers. Earl Clause caught a snook off the Jensen Bridge on live bait. Caynor Partin had 10 blues and 5 mackerel.

Joe Apfelbeck had 12 drum and a sheepshead. Irv Fisher, 12 trout. Carol Anderson, 12 blues. Pete Peterson and Stan Lippincott, 5 trout. Mike Calvacca, 3 snook averaging 5 pounds. H. McClure, 4 trout and 3 snook.

Oscar Norman, back in Ocean Breeze for the winter, had an 8-lb. fluke and Adrian Bell, a nice 11¼-lb. snook. John Minaya caught a total of 11 snook, kept two and tagged the rest.

Ed Wagner and Pat Patterson teamed up to catch 22 trout and a lady fish. Wagner and Ted Bloom had 12 trout, and Wagner, out alone, had 9 trout. Bloom had a total of 44 trout and 10 ladyfish.

Art Ryan and Carl Herzog caught 18 blues and Ryan and Father Frank Alvares had 20 blues. Charlie Arens, 10 trout and 4 snook. Steve Steele, 13 trout and 7 snook.

Jack Myers used T-Zo Rigs and lures to catch 3 snook, 3 trout, 5 barracuda, one channel bass and a snapper, and Duck White had 11 snook (released 5), 4 reds, 3 fluke and a trout.

Suit asks plat okay

JENSEN BEACH--A Jensen Beach man has filed suit in Circuit Court seeking a court order to force the County Commission to approve his plat for a subdivision.

Elbert J. Silas alleges that at the July 22 commission meeting County Attorney Steve Calvert told commissioners that his plat for Silas Court subdivision met all requirements of the law, but the commission refused to approve it.

Commissioners raised the questions about whether the loss in the subdivision were large enough and suitable for installation of septic tanks.

V.F.W. donated flag

JENSEN BEACH--Through a casual conversation between President Lillian Hodge of VFW Auxiliary Post 10086-Jensen Beach, Port St. Lucie Post 10130 learned that Jensen Beach VFW Post was in need of a new American Flag, which they very generously donated and presented to the Post.

Our Commander Bill Masinda and the Jensen Beach Post 10086 wish to thank Andre J. Matton VFW Post 10130 Commander John Mullikin, Adjutant Walter Gerlock, Ladies Aux. President Anne Mullikin and the Bicentennial chairman Irene Gesse.

Campo faces slander suit

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County appraiser's secretary Doris Holcomb last week sued Executive Assistant County Appraiser Ted Campo for $150,000 for alleged slander in the courthouse.

Mrs. Holcomb alleges that on two occasions Campo called her a derogatory name.

She said this caused her nervousness, suffering and loss of her good reputation, she says in her suit.

IN-SERVICE--Martin Memorial Hospital in-service program is under way. These students are scheduled to graduate in April. Watching Denise Leffler fill a syringe with medication are, from left to right: Judy Farmer, R.N., Instructor; Helen Baker, Mickey Cummins, Sue Galloway, Mary Lou Heimer, Angela McClennan, R.N., Instructor; Celia Carter, Jerry Pfuntner, Barbara Grossnickle, Margaret Ray, Sharon Crandall, Linda Carson, and Ophe Panteyo, R.N., In-Service Education Director. Sophomores not pictured are Barbara Blake, Debbie Hepler, Debbie Koon, Dottie Maher, Debbie Menninger, Kathy Snyder, and Cindy Turner.

HIGHLIGHT--Fishing and water skiing highlighted Hans and Gabriel Zeller's stay with Bob and Dorothy Brunton. Visiting with the Bruntons is only one of the many places the young Swiss couple will visit on the anticipated one-year tour of the United States, Mexico, and South America. The 22-year old couple liked what they saw here in Florida and hope someday to make this their home. They are from Zurich, Switzerland.

Bazaar flea market Saturday

STUART--The Junior Woman's Club of Stuart presents its first annual Christmas Bazaar and Flea Market this Saturday, November 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The affair will be held at the Woman's Club House, East Ocean Boulevard.

Featured will be hand made crafts, books, plants, Christmas ornaments and a Treasure Chest Raffle. Refreshments will be available as well as a bake sale.

Sandra Randolph will be present to register voters and demonstrate the new voting machine.

All proceeds will go to the club's many community projects.

Halloween square dance

JENSEN BEACH--Costumes are optional for the Halloween square dance to be held Friday, October 31, at the Jensen Beach Elementary School on South Savanna Road.

Caller Jack Hosken will conduct the usual 7:30 p.m. workshop, with a fun club level dance to follow.

2nd round winners named

PORT ST. LUCIE--The second round of the North Port St. Lucie Ladies Golf Association tournament was played last Wednesday morning at the Holiday Country Club of Stuart.

Flight A honors went to Fay Moore, who defeated Rose Roth 3 and 2, and Fran Gehres who downed Alyce Scott, 1 up.

Winners of Flight B were Irene Fields over Beasy Stinson, 3 and 2, and Eleanor Wise over Carole Metcalf, 2 and 1.

Faith Opp downed Kay Harris, 1 up and Edith Huber defeated Alice Sharp, 4 and 3, to win Flight C.

Anyone interested in joining the association is asked to call Irene Fields at 334-2906 or Alice Sharp, 878-0821.

Vero stops gallant Tiger effort, 35-0

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH--Although it may seem that the Martin County Tigers are not a very good team, it is certainly not true. It is especially evident when you take a look at their effort last week in Vero Beach.

Indeed, the Tigers were defeated by a lopsided score of 35-0, and Eddie Frazier did gain 218 yards on 16 carries in only three quarters of playing time, but on the inside it was Martin County's best effort of their 0-6 season.

Coach Wayne Bowling brought the Tigers to Vero with the idea that he would use his entire playbook, and he did--and some more.

Quarterback Jimmy Williams came out passing, and for awhile, the game was interesting--and close. But Vero Beach was too much.

Going into last week's game, Vero Beach was good enough to make the honorable mention listings in the state's highest classification AAAA. They had been ranked third in the state behind Orlando Oak Ridge and Hollywood Hills until Marriti Island (now third) beat them 14-3 two weeks ago.

Vero Beach opened the scoring only three and a half minutes into the game. Frazier sprinted in from 43 yards out. It was Vero's fourth play of the game. Placekicker David Capellen added the extra point, and Vero Beach led by a score of 7-0.

On the next series, Martin County's Danny Garland caught a 36-yard pass from Williams to put Martin County in striking range, but they could not put it in and the score remained 7-0 throughout the remaining minutes of the first quarter.

Midway through the second quarter, Vero Beach capped off a 13 play drive that consumed 73 yards when Doug Jenkins rammed his way over from 28 yards out to make it 13-0. Capellen's kick made it 14-0 at the half.

Vero Beach capped off its scoring with a bang in the third quarter with three touchdowns. Frazier scored on all the three plays, with runs of 63, 48, and 3 yards. Capellen's kicks made it 35-0.

Martin County takes on Ft. Pierce Central this Friday on Halloween Night, the number four team in the state of Florida and the leader in the Suncoast Conference Eastern Division, in which MCHS is last at 0-5.

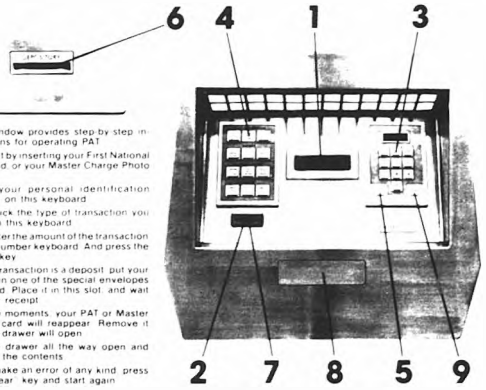
Moving Ahead 24 Hours A Day

First National is always moving ahead with service. And Pat, our Personal Automatic Teller, service is ready to serve you 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Pat is a convenient, safe and free customer service. Operating Pat is easy and a transaction usually takes less than thirty seconds. All you need is a free Pat card or First National Master Charge card and you're ready to use Pat. Here's how.



1. This window provides step-by-step instructions for operating PAT.
2. You start by inserting your First National PAT Card or your Master Charge Photo card.
3. Enter your personal identification number on this keyboard.
4. Then pick the type of transaction you want on this keyboard.
5. Now enter the amount of the transaction on the number keyboard. And press the enter key.
6. If your transaction is a deposit, put your money in one of the special envelopes provided. Place it in this slot, and wait for your receipt.
7. In a few moments, your PAT or Master Charge card will reappear. Remove it and the drawer will open.
8. Pull the drawer all the way open and remove the contents.
9. If you make an error of any kind, press this "Clear" key and start again.

Here's What You Can Do With 'Pat':

- Cash advance from Master Charge.
- Cash withdrawals from your checking or savings account.
- Transfer funds from checking to savings.
- Make deposits to your checking or savings account.
- Make loan payments by the touch from checking account, savings account or by enclosing actual "pat" in there.

If you're not using Pat, then you're missing out on one of the greatest and free banking services Martin County, Stuart, First National and Pat allow you. Now, it's time to move ahead with 24 hour banking.

VOL. 6 NO. 44, OCTOBER 29, 1975

DESERVING GROUP--The Port St. Lucie Homemakers Club thinks the Lucky Charms 4-H group is deserving, so deserving in fact that the Homemakers Club will turn the proceeds from the afghan drawing over to the young club to aid in financing their various projects. The Lucky Charms Club has won many awards during the past year. Pictured above, left to right, are Tammy Reeser, June Woodward, Beth Martin, Mrs. Charles Conrad, president of the Homemaker's Club, and Monica Nilsson. The afghan was made and donated by Mrs. Elsie Slupetz of Port St. Lucie.

Lt. Gov. Williams

No district decision

PORT ST. LUCIE--No action has been taken for a new regional planning district, Lt. Gov. Jim Williams said.

State Rep. Chuck Nergard, who represents the Jensen Beach area, conferred with Williams by telephone last Friday on the status of the proposed planning district.

Nergard said there had been some meetings on the proposed new district, and that Williams may make a decision within the near future.

Commissioners of Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties passed resolutions last June requesting creation of a new planning district and took their resolution to Tallahassee and presented it to Williams.

Currently, there are 10 regional districts in Florida, and it will be up to Williams' Department of Administration to decide if the districts should be increased to 11.

The move to create a new planning district got its big push last spring when Palm Beach County decided to pull out of the South County Regional Planning Council District 10.

Neither Martin nor St. Lucie is a member of the South Florida Regional Council, both having declined to join a couple of years ago.

The state Legislature decided in 1972 to solidify the concept of regional planning with two laws.

The first of these laws pointed out that a land development project, if it is sufficiently large, can have an impact on communities far beyond the boundaries of the city or county in which it is located.

The law named these major projects Developments of Regional Impact (DRI) and said that these projects ought to be reviewed by a multi-county planning agency.

At the same time, a second law was passed giving the state Department of Administration the power to decide what the boundaries would be for planning these multi-county districts.

Region 10, the state announced, would include Dade, Broward, Monroe, Palm Beach, Martin and St. Lucie counties.

Charter meet Monday

PORT ST. LUCIE--Following the cancellation of last Monday's session due to the unavailability of space, the Charter Revision Committee meeting has been reset for November 3.

The group will meet in the Patio Room of the Sandpiper Bay Resort Hotel at 1:30 p.m. according to an announcement released by Miss Anne Power, secretary.

This will be the second meeting the committee has held following an inactive summer, when the majority of members were away.

On October 13, the committee heard St. Lucie County Supervisor of Elections express his views on the intricacies involved in setting up separate political districts within the city, as proposed in the charter draft.

At that time the group spent nearly three hours reviewing the 57-page proposed draft compiled by Chairman Solomon Raffe.

Many sections of the document were reviewed extensively during the session, including the portion which would establish a city council of five members, a mayor and four councilmen.

The charter draft stipulates the mayor shall be elected city wide for a four year term while the councilmen shall be elected from four separate districts by the electors residing in that district.

ACCOUNTANT-BOOKKEEPER--City Administrator Elmer Cox announced Tuesday that Gerald Jerry Van Patten of 1956 Esplanada, Fort Pierce has been employed as the city's accountant-bookkeeper. Van Patten will take over the duties on November 1 with an annual salary of $10,000.

Construction near for new bowling lanes

PORT ST. LUCIE--Progress will soon be evidenced by local bowlers who have been keeping a watchful eye on the site of the proposed $800,000 bowling lanes to be constructed just north of Port St. Lucie at Kitterman Road.

Art Young, developer of the proposed 24 land facility, told The Mirror Tuesday all systems are go for the project.

I am awaiting the final plans from the architect at this point," Young said, estimating they should be completed and construction started within the next three to four weeks.

"At present we are shooting for a May, 1976 completion date which provides roughly six months for the construction," Young added.

The site (approximately nine acres), which is situated on the north side of Kitterman Road, west of U.S. 1, has already been cleared and is ready for the start of construction.

According to the developer, all necessary permits have been obtained and no delay is anticipated since the finalized plans are completed.

Nearly three months ago the St. Lucie County Commission approved the rezoning of the site extending the arterial zoning an additional 400 feet west of U.S. 1. The total distance involves 400 feet on Kitterman Road.

The property was previously zoned agriculture.

Young proposes to construct an initial 24 lane bowling alley which will be expanded to 48 lanes as the need becomes apparent.

Also under consideration by the developer, in addition to the bowling facility, is a roller skating rink for the young people of the area.

Luau planned November 5

PORT ST. LUCIE--"Aloha" will be the magic word at the CESA Community Center on Wednesday, November 5. That's when the special events committee is presenting a Polynesian Luau at 6:30 p.m.

Catered by Evelyn Norton, the Islands Buffet will feature a selection of foods prepared in Polynesian style, starting with a tropical punch and rice crackers.

Highlighting the gala event will be entertainment by Kualani and her Mu-U-Mu Mamas who are members of Millie Green's Hapa Haole Gals dancing class.

The new addition to the center will be opened for the occasion, and decorated with palms and lighting effects providing a South Sea Island background for the show. Leis will be given as favors, and tables will be centered with tropical arrangements.

Diners are urged to wear bright floral prints to lend additional color to the festive evening.

Luau tickets are available at the CESA office from members of Mrs. Green's class, and from the special events committee, including Mrs. Herbert Bowen, Mrs. Lawrence Heit, Mrs. Donald Porter and Mrs. J.J. Schreiber.

Tickets are limited in number, however, in order to allow sufficient space for the entertainment, so early reservations are encouraged.

Proceeds from the Luau will benefit the CESA operating fund.

Homemakers' Bazaar

PORT ST. LUCIE--November 18 is the date set for the Port St. Lucie Homemakers Club Christmas Bazaar.

The doors of the North Port St. Lucie Marina will open at 11 a.m. welcoming all to a "Christmas Fantasy." From then until 4 p.m. visitors may stop at the Bake Shoppe, General Store, and the Boutique featuring many beautiful hand-crafted gift items.

Refreshments will be served. Door prizes will be drawn at 4 p.m.

LOVELY MODELS--Eight lovely models from the Port St. Lucie area volunteered their services for the CESA Fashion Show last Friday at the Community Center. All fashions were provided by Thelmas of Fort Pierce and the narrating was by Mrs. Helen Quick. Over $250 was raised through the event which will go into the CESA Operational Fund. Pictured above, left to right, are Mrs. Vera Abbott, Mrs. Marguarite Feller, Mrs. Irene White, Mrs. Marjorie McChesney, Mrs. Olga Atkins, Mrs. Pauline Griffiths, Mrs. Mildred Grieger and Mrs. Ruth Adler.

Gang's pancake breakfast is November 9

PORT ST. LUCIE--How can one enjoy good fellowship, good food, and help a child have a merry Christmas? One excellent way is to partake of the Pancake and Porky Breakfast sponsored annually by the Friday Nite Gang, with proceeds used to purchase toys for needy five year olds.

This year's Pancake and Porky feast has been set for Sunday, November 9 from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the North Port Marina.

George Petrie and his group will mix and cook the pancakes. Fran Lee and her committee are to take care of tables and serve coffee. Lee Karbowonick will make the coffee and Frances Bernola will be the coffee maid.

Marie Benz, assisted by Evelyn Norton, cooks the sausage and Al Weigel will assist Gang Host Cedric Benz at the door.

Tickets are available from any Gang member or may be obtained at the door at an additional cost.

The Gang has been furnishing toys for needy kids for the past few years and members feel happy in the knowledge that they are making some children happy at this festive time of the year who, in the absence of action by the group, would no doubt have a dismal Christmas.

Contributions to the toy fund will be gratefully received from organizations and individuals in the area.

The Gang says, "Help us make some kids happy at Christmas."

PSL ponders Chamber

PORT ST. LUCIE--City Administrator Elmer Cox, concerned over the seasonal unemployment figures, suggested the time is right for organizing a Chamber of Commerce in this south county community.

"Granted we do not have a great number of businesses in the area to promote the Chamber, but there is nothing to preclude a citizen from becoming a member by paying modest annual dues," Cox told his listeners in seeking the Council's authorization to investigate the possibility of forming the organization.

The Council authorized Cox to investigate the proceedings for chartering a Chamber of Commerce membership.

OATH ADMINISTERED--Alfred J. Horowitz was sworn in Tuesday as the assistant city attorney for Port St. Lucie. The oath was administered by City Clerk Donna Baggan before a small crowd assembled at the city hall. Horowitz, an associate of City Attorney Spencer Gilbert, has filled in for the city attorney on two or three occasions within the past couple months.

WILDMAN AND WOMAN— "Jungle Jim" is threatening his woman with a big animal bone, but the way she is laughing, it must be a big funny bone. The couple in the jungle outfits are Harvey and Joan Schlemmer at Monday night's Jensen Beach Lions Club halloween party for the ladies. Schlemmer is president of the club.

Halloween party is enjoyed by Jensen Lions and their ladies

JENSEN BEACH—Lions and their ladies were dressed in all sorts of costumes at the Jensen Beach Lions Club Halloween party in honor of the ladies last Monday night at the Crow's Nest Restaurant.

Prizes were awarded to Arley Johnson for his female dress. Harvey Schlemmer won a prize for his cannibal dress and Doreen Peet won the prize for the most unusual dress — a wedding gown that was about 100 years old.

The Lions and their ladies had a good time spoofing one another, with lady pirates and men dressed in the latest women's fashions.

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. Ford announce the coming marriage of their daughter Patricia May Ford to Sgt. Neil Elliott Young, son of Mrs. Edna Young of St. Paul, Minnesota, and Victor Young of Nederland, Texas. A November 22nd wedding is planned at the home of the bride, 324 Cedar Street, Jensen Beach, with Reverend Clark Thompson officiating. Following their honeymoon trip, the newly weds will reside in Valdosta, Georgia, where the groom elect is stationed at Moody Air Force Base.

...and PSL Lions fed food

CHAMPION TICKET SELLER—Darryl Borgman proved to be the champion ticket seller when he sold 112 tickets for the Port St. Lucie Lion's Pancake Feedfest held last Sunday at the marina. Young Borgman was also on hand at the breakfast to lend a helping hand whenever needed.

FUN TIME—It was the annual halloween party in honor of the ladies by the Jensen Beach Lions Club last Monday night at the Crow's Nest Restaurant, and the guys and dolls had a lot of fun spoofing each other. Some wore halloween and other funny costumes.

Carmen and Beaver Rinehart of Ramie Lane enjoyed the fall colors of the leaves in Pennsylvania where they visited with their family.

And the leaves were just as colorful in West Virginia where Dorothy and Glenn Shaffer also of Ramie Lane, visited family. Endicott, N.Y. was also on their tour to visit their son, then on the way home a stop in Macon, Georgia to visit with their daughter.

+ + +

Carroll and Helen Everett of Estia Lane enjoyed a few days in Hilton Head, S.C. visiting friends.

+ + +

Tom and Grace Tews of Harborview Dr. had a great time in Harvey Cedars, N.J. this past summer. Tom tried to catch all the fish up there and now he's all set to catch the big ones back home in Florida.

Bunko parties off

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Bunko parties sponsored by the Veterans of World War I are cancelled for the rest of this year due to the holidays. The next party will be on the fourth Thursday in January.

Heidi Specht hunt in there at last week's session, winning three out of thirteen games played to take home the booby prize. She was allowed to pick the lucky number for the door prize which was awarded to Mildred Engleman.

High game winner to take first place with 10 wins was May Jones. A close second was Olive Marshall with nine wins and Claire Levy took third place, also with nine wins.

For the fourth spot, there was three way tie between Ethel Krall, Henry Baque and Leo Malone, all winning eight games. On the draw, Leo was the winner.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

Nettles Island is beginning to fill up with all the old familiar faces as they return for their winters stay among friends.

I'd appreciate it if you'd stop & let me know you're back and how you spent the summer. To tell the truth, I've been embarrassed more than once as many of you pass by with a friendly "Hi Dottie" and although the face is familiar, I can't for the life of me remember your names. So do me a favor and jot down your names, where you've been and what's new.

It's surprising how many people have The Mirror sent to them while they're gone from here. You can do the same, and enjoy reading about your friends and keep up to date on all the happenings here at Nettles Island.

Bob & Mary Couillard just returned. They stayed up in northern Michigan just long enough to enjoy the fall colors. They live in a rustic, wooded mobile home community in Leviatan where they enjoy the recreation center & swimming pool available there. They spent a week with their daughter in Northville, Mich. on their way back. Bob says they were ready for a change of scenery & could hardly wait to get here.

Bob & Carolyn Campman are back from Penn. They pulled in late one evening last week and stayed in the parking lot until daylight when they could see better to park their rig. They pulled their 35 foot trailer with their motor home and when they tried to park in a small town on their way down, they had to use three parking meters.

+ + +

Arlene & Loren Juhar are back from Minn. They've been working 16 hours a day on their soy bean farm the past few weeks in order to return earlier than usual.

Remember Loren and his little dog "Pico" from the minstrel show. He was the fashion model wearing burlap bags.

Chet & Jackie Dunmire also came in this week, pulling a new 35 footer with tipout. They're all settled, right down to the big TV antenna he installed.

+ + +

Audrey and Evan Sax just pulled in today & already spent quite some time out on the tennis courts. They brought the trailer down & will be going back in a few days to get their boat.

+ + +

Annette & Arthur Meindel arrived this week, too and the best darn visitor I ever met. "Tanya" is still with them.

Midge Beauchamp gave a nice birthday party for her husband Beau Sunday evening up on the rec hall patio. There were 10 or 12 guests for a nice buffet dinner. Happy birthday, Beau.

Meet Midge on the beach Sat.

Guild meets Monday

STUART—The monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Guild will be held Monday, November 3, beginning with Rosary and Benediction in the Church. The meeting follows immediately afterward in the Parish hall.

Final plans will be made for the Christmas boutique and bake sale to be held November 15 and 16.

The Guild sponsors an Arts and Crafts class given by the Martin County Adult Education department. All women of the parish are invited to attend the Monday morning sessions.

Adults are welcome to visit the party, but on Sat. night the costume party & dance will be held for you. The music will be provided by the "Music Makers" and if the party is as much fun as it was last year, you'll be glad you came.

With notebook in hand, I approached the beach area of Outdoor Resorts Sun. afternoon hoping to meet some of the Nettles Island residents who had just returned on an effort to get some newsy reports for the column.

A kayak had just come ashore and the young man who traveled in it was having lunch at Engels' snack bar on the beach. Kindly donated by the Conways who had read of his courageous adventures. With funds nearly depleted for food & lodging, their offer was kindly accepted.

Sun bleached hair & tanned skin, 33 yr. old Larry Capune, whose home is in Newport Beach, Calif. has paddled his way in the ocean from Portland, Maine and hopes to reach his goal, Corpus Christi, Texas. He set out 115 days ago & figures it will take another 100 days.

He states his reason for doing this is to demonstrate the "American Spirit." He's trying to show the kids what this country is built on. "doing the best we can with what we've got, and Larry doesn't have much materially. His only belongings were in a small sack strapped to his kayak, but he does have a lot of strength & courage & faith in people, for he's depending on us to be able to reach his goal.

The people of Humrock Beach, Mass. raised $400 for him on his journey. He found Maine, Mass., N.H. & R.I. to be the friendliest & New Jersey has the most polluted beaches.

The people in Georgia & S. Carolina were the kindest as he never had to pay for a place to stay. He is not asking for this to be a profitable venture, just to be able to do it & stay alive.

He said Nettles Island was one of the few friendly places he's found in Florida since he arrived Oct. 2.

He was fortunate to spend 3 days with the Kennedys in Hyannisport, a visit he'll never forget.

The best of luck on your venture, Larry.

NETTLES ISLAND YOUTH REPORT
By Carol Engel

Activities for the youth of Nettle's Island are underway.

Our first meeting was on Monday, October 20, with Dave Pearce of the security force helping us organize the meetings and get activities started.

We decided on a few activities and started a schedule, beginning with a pool party on Friday night which was a big success. Doug Brandow also a member of the security force supervised and helped to make it an unforgettable occasion.

Saturday morning we had a football game and that night, a fun game of "capture the flag" on Celebrity Island, also supervised by Doug Brandow.

Sunday afternoon a group of youths gathered on the beach to play frisbee preceded by a beach clean-up sponsored by the rec department. Many of us ended up sunburned from the fun on the beach!

Then there was a big game of softball in the rec hall parking lot. Mr. Vogel's team lost. Maybe next time, Mr. Vogel!

Wednesday, October 29 (today) we have a volleyball game and a rap session around a campfire on the beach planned. All youth are welcome, so come on down and join us. You're sure to have a great time!

I think it would be most appropriate to give a big Thank You to Dorothy Engel for the splendid job she is doing reporting the Nettles Island News.

Dorothy is a very busy girl, but always finds time to place the news in our wonderful paper, The Mirror.

I personally say thank you Dorothy, and I believe hundreds more feel the same way.

The very competent committee for the fine pot luck dinner last Thursday was headed by Gladys Oakes. Her assistants were Jee Robertson, Alex Bell and Bernie Dubuque.

Glen Oakes and Jack Bell poured the coffee. Tables had a lovely hibiscus at the center. Table grace was given by Bob Brice.

Announcements were made by Bob Brice, mentioning the birthdays of Doris Martin and Walter Duma, to whom "Happy Birthday" was sung.

Bob also introduced our new couple, Della and Cotton Ferrenburg.

Bob is here without his wife – now I wonder how he managed that!

We all missed Ken Dubuque, but I am happy to report that he is recuperating nicely from eye surgery.

It was announced that some activities are starting now.

Some of the folks sat around to visit for awhile as no program was planned. In the future we hope to have something planned for immediately after pot luck.

Men's coffee on October 25 had a good turn out of seventeen. Coffee and donuts were served by Charles Siman and Bob Brice and games and conversation were enjoyed.

+ + +

Lee King will be in charge of bridge on Monday evening, and anyone wishing to play other games is welcome any time after 7 p.m.

Bridge will also be played on Thursday afternoon at 1:30.

Bingo starts Friday evening, October 31, at 7:30.

We hope all who had birthdays in August and September had happy ones. In August, Mildred Magory, 2; Liz Krakaur, 8; Paul Christen, 13; Lee Tucker, 28; Sylvia Siman, 29; and Elma French, 31.

In September, Willard Morgan, 2; Edna Staples, 4; Bernie Dubuque, 4; Virginia Munro, 4; Roy Carver, 14; Jerry VanCura, 13; Caroline Shaeffer, 20; Gladys Oakes, 22; Karl Duffield, 24.

Congratulations on August wedding anniversaries to Howard and Elma French, 6; Vern and Alice Stoddard, 6; Bill and Edna Eastman, 8; Ken and Bernie Dubuque, 25; Jack and Alex Bell, 29.

And in September, Fred and Madeleine Belfanz, 9; Karl and Margaret Rosengarth, Harry and Dot Beamer, 16; Roy and Leona Carver, 21.

And happy anniversary to these October celebrants: Bob and Dot McCourt, 10; Walter and Mary Emminger, 12; Bob and Cap Brice, 18; Jim and Marie Williams, 25.

Have a good year!

It is nice to see Ruth Firth in the lovely mobile that was the Krakaurs' but how we'll miss Liz and Gene. We wish them much happiness in their new home.

Walter Reeder's birthday was October 20, so his wife Alice invited her mother, Mrs. Grace Stetser, her brother John C. Stetser, Jr. his wife Mary Lou, and her aunt and uncle, Alice and Harry Eastlack, to join in the celebration. I can vouch that the birthday cake was delicious, because the piece Alice brought me was just that.

Florence and Ralph Wilhems had a busy weekend entertaining Ernie and Betty Perkins of Wisconsin, who spend the winter in Florida, and Anna and John Lucas, of Ft. Pierce.

It was Nettie Keefer's turn to win the jackpot at bingo Tuesday evening, and I understand attendance was even better than the week before.

+ + +

Received a postcard from Darlene and Herman Painaude, who at present are in Momence, Illinois. They said the weather was cold and getting colder, and although enjoying themselves, they were about ready to return to the Land of Sunshine.

+ + +

It was good to hear Bob Mcbriar calling a greeting from the porch of his sister Agnes and brother in-law Arthur Surreney as I walked by. Welcome home from the hospital, Bob; we missed you.

+ + +

Canada's population has decreased by four now that the Binns and Willoughbys are occupying their homes here.

+ + +

Stella Dubrowolski was expected about two weeks ago, but word has reached us that she is confined to the hospital. Get well, Stella, and come down to D & M.

+ + +

The house next door has been sold, and my new neighbors are Leslie Lippert and his wife Leona, from Madison, Wisconsin.

+ + +

Emil Tweit's brother Ollie, from Key West, has bought the home formerly occupied by Juanita and Bob Brouillette, which means that Juanita and Bob will not be coming down this winter.

+ + +

While out walking I noticed that Vida and Tom Gable's place was open, and although I didn't see them, Marvin assures me they have returned.

Congratulations to the Lowries

JENSEN BEACH–Reverend and Mrs. A. Sydney Lowrie of 169 Ocean View Circle, Jensen Beach, are celebrating their 60th Wedding Anniversary on Monday, November 13.

The entire community joins in extending congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple.

Cromwell to address Auxilians

STUART–Guy Cromwell, Martin Memorial Hospital administrator will be the guest speaker at the November general meeting of the MMH Auxiliary on Monday, November 3.

Meeting time is 1:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Parish Hall on Osceola Street.

Cromwell will introduce the hospital's new assistant administrator and other department heads will be present to meet new volunteers.

Refreshments will be served before the meeting and a tour of the hospital will follow the meeting.

Connie Bauman, gift shop chairman, has announced that a special gift table will be on display and persons making purchases at that time will receive a free gift of Pinf perfumes.

Hostesses for the session are Mrs. Pat Harris and Mrs. Mary Alice McDonald.

FF BREEZE--The strong northeast wind whipped the sea for the past days causing erosion damage to Hutchinson Island beaches. The erican Flag flying over one of the Hutchinson Island condominium ments shows the force of the wind as it extends out from its flag staff

General membership meeting

Chamber leaders are named

JENSEN BEACH--Officers and directors of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will be elected at a general membership meeting Monday Nov. 10, at 7:30 p.m.

Officers selected by the Nominating Committee, which will be presented at the meeting include

L.D. Kirkpatrick, president; Jack Klett, vice president; Jack Davis, treasurer and Marilyn Epstein, secretary.

Nominated for two year directors are

Joseph Bumbera, Fred Stein, R.C. Breese, with Joseph Mauldin, Ernest Tealey, Arthur Henry, Ann Haven and Joan Betsch nominated for one year directors.

Brian Bibeau and Al Tomaszewski have completed the last year of two year terms, and president Art Hansen will serve on the board as past president.

Hansen said nominations can be made from the floor.

Plans for the installation dinner will be announced at the directors meeting which will immediately follow the membership meeting.

The Nominating Committee included Stein, chairman; Mauldin and Dick Newson.

CHURCH GIFTS--The Rev. D. Clark Thompson, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, presents gifts to Mrs. Alice Gunn, left, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bibbee at a supper Oct. 29, at the church Fellowship Hall. The two were honored for their many years of service in the music ministry of the church. The church gave them each a volume of prayer devotions and the choir gave them flowers.

Tax bills due Dec. 1

JENSEN BEACH--Tax bills will probably be mailed around Dec. 1, Martin County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews said.

The Dec. 1 mailing is late compared to the standard Nov. 1 date, but is early compared to the mailout of last year's tax bills in March of this year.

It's all in the process now, Andrews said.

He pointed out that the tax hearings delayed the tax bills.

Also computer problems delayed the tax bill process, according to the Tax Appraiser's office.

Andrews said that residents who pay their bills in December will receive a 4 per cent discount, and it will drop to 2 per cent in January and 1 per cent in February.

Island suffers erosion damage

JENSEN BEACH--Rough seas whipped by strong northeast winds over the weekend caused some major erosion to Hutchinson Island near Little Ocean Club and Little Ocean Place.

About a thousand cubic yards of sand from the oceanfront dune disappeared.

Residents of the project know how many cubic yards washed away because they bought the sand and had it packed onto the dune about six months ago, to keep the ocean from reaching their residences.

During last fall a northeast winds, the ocean washed away the dune to a point within about 12 feet of the nearest condominium building.

Owners of the project planned to place boulders instead of sand on the dune in an effort to halt erosion.

However, Martin County Commission refused to issue a permit for dumping boulders on the beach.

Sand was hauled after the county approved a proposal to build a rock revetment. The State Cabinet finally agreed with the County Commission and approved a plan to haul sand and rebuild the dune.

At nearby Hutchinson House condominium where sea oats were planted several months ago, they did not grown thick enough to do much good. Sand hauled to Hutchinson House also was washed away, though long roots of the sea oats are exposed to the air.

High tides and waves pushed by strong winds battered the beaches all weekend. Rough seas continued through Tuesday and lifeguards Tuesday posted beach closed signs.

The northeaster also cut into the public beach at Jensen, but not to the extent of damage last year. The waves had cut in behind the south end of the seawall at Jensen Beach.

Erosion has not cut nearly as close to the oceanfront condominium projects yet, but continued high winds and rough seas could change that.

SEA WALL HOLDING--While the south end of the sea wall at Jensen public swimming beach is holding, the strong northeast wind, pushing high seas, once again is causing the washing away of sand behind the south end steps.

Service Center reviewed

JENSEN BEACH--Community Service Centers in north and south Martin County were proposed more than two months ago by Commissioner Timer Powers.

Since that time, courthouse officials and Jensen Beach area residents have endorsed the service center concept in the outlying areas of the county.

Powers called the service centers "an exciting new concept in government. The principal is to bring governmental services to the people rather than taking the people to governmental services."

The service center proposal received lukewarm support from some residents, raising the questions of added cost to taxpayers and insufficient millage to support service centers.

Tax Collector Alvin Andrews called outlying centers "extension of bureaucracy. If the taxpayers want to pay the cost of service centers, that's their perogative."

Powers said that mileage is not important. It is the time involved and not having the traffic congestion. It is an alternative to having government in one area.

County Planner Kris Schenk noted that already there is a traffic problem for the north county area, crossing Roosevelt Bridge trying to reach Stuart.

And Schenk also noted that a Community Service Center could begin with one room and grow into a big complex if it proves workable.

There are more than 15,000 residents north of St. Lucie River that could be served by a service center.

County Judge Dwight Geiger said his office could use it. School Supt. James Naviasky said some school activities could be held in a service center, and health director Dr. Archie McCallister said the service center "is certainly not far from my thinking."

County commissioners are expected to get some direction on the service centers before next year.

Crash kills youths

JENSEN BEACH--Two Jensen Beach youths are dead as the result of a pickup truck accident on Indiantna Road, and three teenagers remain in serious condition in Martin Memorial Hospital.

Dan Hassinger, 15, of North Martin Boulevard was killed in the Friday night mishap and Paul Bellas, 18, of 2 North Julia Street died in the hospital Saturday night.

Both three in serious condition are Scott Lawson and William DeLoach, both 15 and both of Jensen Beach, Linda Winkie Dubois, 14, of Palm City, Sandra Shakra and Gary Vaillancourt, both 13, of Jensen Beach, and Doug Ripley, 14, of Rio, are in fair condition.

The driver and Thomas Graham, both of Jensen Beach, were released from the hospital.

The Florida Highway Patrol said charges are still pending against the driver of the truck, who has not been identified because of his age.

State Troopers Robert Dees and Jack Ritter said the pickup had been westbound on Savanna Road a mile and a half northeast of Stuart when it entered onto the shoulder, went out of control, and overturned three times.

All the occupants were thrown from the vehicle.

The accident occurred at 8:49 p.m. Friday, October 31.

President Ford sends message

JENSEN BEACH--President Ford has sent a Bicentennial message to God and Country Day Committee.

The President's message, which will be read at the Feb. 15, 1976 celebration, includes:

"I warmly commend all who participate in plans for the celebration of our National Bicentennial. Your efforts are symbolic of your deep sense of patriotism and civic pride. They also reflect the vitality and spirit of America.

"I wholeheartedly welcome your commitment to help make our nation's two hundredth birthday a fitting and memorial occasion for all of us.

"It is the second year that President Ford has sent a message to the God and Country Day Committee.

Deputy Special Assistant Milton E. Miller sent the message to the Rev. Frank R. Alvarez, a member of the God and Country Day Committee.

Miller's note stated:

"President Ford has requested that I extend to you and all who will be participating in the second annual God and Country Day sponsored by the American Legion Post 126 and All Saints Episcopal Church his warmest regards.

An astronaut will be one of the guest speakers at the celebration which will be held at Martin County High School gym.

The committee has not been notified which astronaut will be available for the ceremony.

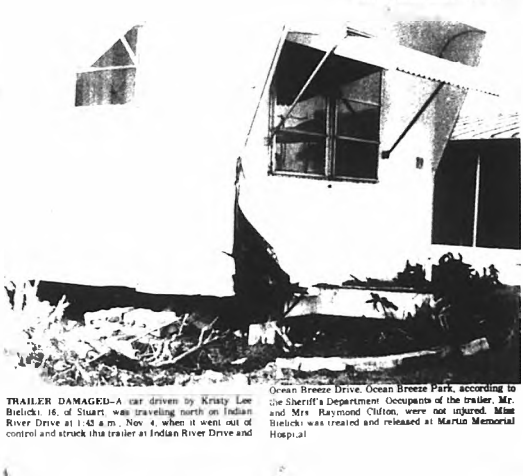
Sun sets on Center

JENSEN BEACH--The application of the solar auditorium may be withdrawn, according to Jay Jarrett of the Jensen Beach Environmental Studies Center.

Jarrett said that some discussions with members of the Solar Auditorium Planning Committee indicate that the application for federal help may be withdrawn.

He said that limited funds are available plus the extensive rewrite required before a federal agency will entertain the application.

"This has led us to feel that we will need to go back to the drawing board and calculators before reapplying next year," Jarrett said.



TRAILER DAMAGED--A car driven by Kristy Lee Bielicki, 16, of Stuart, was traveling north on Indian River Drive at 1:42 a.m., Nov. 4, when it went out of control and struck this trailer at Indian River Drive and Ocean Breeze Drive, Ocean Breeze Park, according to the Sheriff's Department. Occupants of the trailer, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clifton, were not injured. Miss Bielicki was treated and released at Martin Memorial Hospital.

Veterans Day program planned

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Barracks WWI will hold a Veterans Day observance at 10 a.m. Tuesday, November 11 at the Jensen Beach Women's Association clubhouse on Sugar Hill Road.

Seven veterans organizations, in addition to Barracks 854, will display their colors.

The observance commemorates the 57th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice that ended World War I in 1918.

The public is invited to join the veterans in the Memorial services. The Ladies Auxiliary of the World War I group will host a get together after the program.

Rev. Alvarez heads anglers

JENSEN BEACH--The Rev. Frank R. Alvarez was elected president of the Martin County Anglers Club at a special meeting at First Federal Savings and Loan, Jensen Beach, Monday night.

Other officers of the club for 1976 include Fred Dushanek, first vice president; Louise Sheward, second vice president; Robert Hemberger, secretary, and Kenneth Weidner, treasurer.

Directors are Al Benninger, Don Benedict, Will Bowman, Jack Klett, Dr. Fred Krauskopf, Dan Schmidt III, Charles Sprauer, Dr. Walter Stokes.

$100,000 houseboat burns

JENSEN BEACH--Fire destroyed a $100,000 houseboat last Sunday night just south of Jensen Beach Causeway, but the 10 persons aboard made it to land safely.

Owner of the boat was Marvin Richard Gauger, of Port Salerno.

A Coast Guard Cutter from the Fort Pierce station was called to the scene and attempted to fight the blaze.

The guardsmen got the craft in tow and were heading for shore when it sank, some 150 feet from shore.

Gauger, 40, told authorities that he had smelled smoke and opening the hatch, discovered a broken hydraulic line which was dripping hydraulic fuel on the hot engine and touching off a fire.

He told authorities that he and his family and friends were coming back from a picnic when the port engine caught fire.

The boat caught fire about a half mile south of the causeway, according to authorities.

With so many lot owners back in the park the recreation program is getting under way with plans for a gala season

On Monday, Nov. 3, the popular exercise classes began with vivacious Sophie Holler, instructress. If you have not already joined, bring your husband or wife, exercise mat and registration fee. Shape up time is 9 to 10 a.m.

Saturday, Nov. 8, is the first Lowanders Association meeting at 10 a.m. This is sure to be interesting.

Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 10 a.m. the Choral Group will start rehearsals. We all look forward to hearing them perform very soon.

Roland and Alpha Koepsell, lot 380, have been testing the new placement of the speakers in the rec hall. The speakers were formerly located in the core of the building but are now mounted on the perimeter and the acoustics are much improved, they report.

By the way, if you have records you would like to donate to our collection, they would be very much appreciated.

Richard Harper of lot 443 entered Martin Memorial Hospital Sunday for scheduled surgery. Tools is under the care of kind neighbors Opal and Irene Fawcett, and is doing well behaving like the little lady she is.

Steve and Edith Prunton, from Ajax, Ontario, Canada, are home on lot 181 and it is nice to have them back with us.

Board member Bert Turner has returned. Too. Welcome back, Bert and Nora, we missed you, and certainly did enjoy your letters about your experiences on that island in Maine this summer.

Stephanie and Fred Kiefaber are still traveling and wrote that they had visited Virginia City, Nevada and later the ghost town of Bodie, which is being reconstructed and is quite a place.

They met a Basque sheepherder whose English was about as good as Stephanie's French, but she did find out from the handsome devil that he had 1,000 sheep in his flock and he was taking them down to lower winter grazeland.

As soon as their mail arrived, they took off for warmer climes, dropped down over 7,000 feet to Bishop on Rte. 395. They took a ride to the Bristlecone Pine Forest and at Schulman Grove, elevation 10,000 feet, walked one half mile to see the Alpha tree which is 4,300 years old. Some of those trees were growing when the pyramids of Egypt were being built. They were quite old when Moses received the ten commandments and were several hundred years old when the Roman Empire ruled the world.

After camping for four days at the foot of Mt. Whitney, which at 14,496 feet is the tallest mountain in the U.S.A. they decided to ride up 13,000 feet for a better view. They road is good but up all the way with plenty of switch backs. There is a campground there and a lovely waterfall and the ice on it made it look like a picture postcard.

Then on to Mono Lake, a salt water lake which is called the Dead Sea of America. 87 miles in area and 156 feet deep.

When Stephanie wrote, they were at Dirty Sack Campground, which she said is not as bad as it sounds. It boasted a hot spa which they enjoyed. She asked to be remembered to all at Holiday Out.

Sorry to say that Arletta Wehlage is in the Community Hospital of Boca Raton, Florida. That is a long way from home and she would certainly appreciate hearing from folks here. We hope she will be back very soon.

Dee and Morris Brink literally blew in during the northeast wind storm, both looking marvelous after a great summer touring with daughter Bonnie to the west coast, Banff and Lake Louise.

* * *

Peggy and Clancy Guthrie came in with a new van. They traveled extensively in it this summer and had lots of fun doing so.

* * *

Betty Taylor has a new automobile. Best of luck with your new wheels, Betty.

Hail, Hail, the Gang's all here, well almost all. Department

Welcome back to returnees Lloyd Hoover with his granddaughter on lot 228, George Pearsall, lot 319, Edward and Evelyn Frost on 38, George and Ruth Trumbell, lot 187, Robert and Grace Murphy, 141, Donal Miller on 230, Harry and Vergual Smith on 376, Basil and Pinney Bennett, 436, Walter and Marie Valerie, 294, Stephen and Edith Pointon on 134, Mark and Mary Sumner, 325, Jay and Adelaide Boucher on 281, Betty Taylor on lot 50, Morris and Dee Brink, 379, Elmer and Helen Ambrogne, 161, Robert and Kathleen Wiley on 63, Burton and Cosby Watson on 297, Clancy and Peg Guthrie, 439, Dwight and Nellie Logan on 341, Arnold Gale, 156, Theodore and Ada Grauel on 466, Bert and Nora Turner, 20, Celia and Max Lewin on 231, and John and Elizabeth Bannon on 229.

Wellington and Ianbel Kennedy of lot 87 wrote that they expect to be here soon, but Herb and Pauline Rough of lot 110 do not expect to be here until after Thanksgiving.

* * *

Charles Armock of lot 196 is in the hospital with a serious illness, so he will not be down until later. If you want to send cards to help speed his recovery, please send them to Mrs. Mildred Armock, 7947 Footridge, Sparta, Michigan 49345.

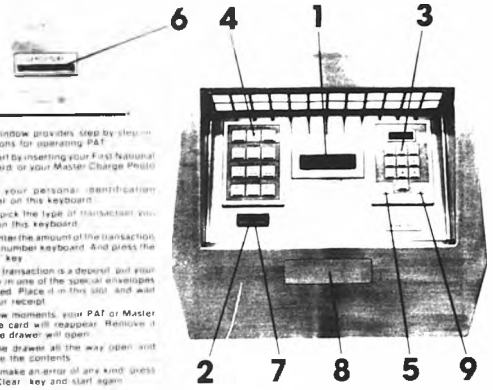
Moving Ahead 24 Hours A Day

First National is always moving ahead with service. And Pat, our Personal Automatic Teller service is ready to serve you 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Pat is a convenient, safe and fast electronic banking machine. Operating Pat is easy and a transaction usually takes less than thirty seconds. All you need is a free Pat card or First National Master Charge card and you're ready to use Pat. Here's how.



1. This window provides step by step instructions for operating PAT.
2. You start by inserting your First National PAT Card or your Master Charge Plastic card.
3. Enter your personal identification number on this keyboard.
4. Then pick the type of transaction you want on this keyboard.
5. Now enter the amount of the transaction on the number keyboard. And press the enter key.
6. If your transaction is a deposit put your money in one of the special envelopes provided. Place it in this slot and wait for your receipt.
7. In a few moments, your PAT or Master Charge card will reappear. Remove it and the drawer will open.
8. Pull the drawer all the way open and remove the contents.
9. If you make an error or are kind, press this Clear key and start again.

Here's What You Can Do With 'Pat':

- Cash advance from Master Charge.
- Cash withdrawal from your checking or savings account.
- Make deposits to your checking or savings account.
- Transfer funds from checking to savings and vice versa.
- Master Charge payments by deducting from check or savings account or by enclosing cash or check.

If you're not using Pat, then you're missing one of the greatest and free banking services in Martin County. Stop by First National or one of our other convenient locations. Any way you look at it, it's to move ahead with 24 hour banking.

Venture Out News

BY WILLARD AUCH

We are happy to welcome so many returning Venture Outers. Won't be long until all will be here.

* * *

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dietrick of Shalersville, Ohio. They are guests of the Fitzgeralds. Frank and Red have been friends for over 40 years. They are enjoying a pleasant get together, recollecting all of the good times they have had.

* * *

Floyd and Jean Reynolds arrived in V.O. this week. They are most happy to be back and are looking forward to joining in the activities in the park and doing a lot of relaxing.

* * *

Bingo was well attended last week and we are looking for bigger crowds from now on. Al Jones would appreciate any suggestions for new ways to play the game. Al has been calling bingo for over a year and would like a few helpers to take over once in awhile.

* * *

Bill Middleton has had an excellent run of fishing while wading in the Indian River. He has been using live bait and last time out caught 4 large trout, 2 snook and a sheepshead. Bill says he released several two-pounders and only kept the "Big Ones." How "Snookie can he be." For more information on how it is done, call Bill.

* * *

Bud and Lou Prew returned last week from their mountain hideaway in Highland, N.C. They have had a glorious summer, delightful weather and many good friends visiting them. Bud and Lou visited many places this summer, attending square dancing groups and meeting V.O. folks.

They are encouraging beginners classes in square dancing. Johnny Walters is teaching the beginners and calling the dancing each Sunday afternoon at 2 at the V.O. rec. hall. They urge all our neighbors from Holiday Out, Windmill Village and Nettles Island to come and enjoy the good fellowship.

For more information, call Bud or Lou at 334-0653.

Oh, let us add that they have a new addition to their family, a four month old cute as Misty Too.

* * *

Bill and Ginny Thompson arrived from their summer home in Kenmore, New York. On the way down, they made several stops visiting Bill's sister at Bethesda, Md. and Ginny's mother at Falls Church, Va. They too enjoyed wonderful summer weather and spent considerable time visiting friends and relatives. Both the Mills and the Reynolds visited them for delightful visits. We are overjoyed to find Ginny much improved and may expect to see her scooting around the park on her 100 H.P. Chicken Powered bike.

* * *

Jackie and Al Phillips arrived Tuesday. They are looking in the park and were delighted to find their trailer in very good shape.

* * *

Jim and Dorothy DeHaseth, from Lake Forest, Ill., hope to spend the winter with us in V.O. Jim retired recently and is now looking for that favorite "perfect spot" that many of us retirees have been looking for. They have three children, one son doing graduate work at the University of North Carolina, one daughter married, and another daughter still in college. They are now guests in our park on lot 720. They have met several of their neighbors and maybe, someday soon, will belong to the Venture Out group.

* * *

Curtis and Helen Varland have just arrived in their new motor coach to spend some time in their trailer. Curt is like many of us, retired, but just no quite ready to let go of the reins, so much keep in touch one way or the other. Their motor coach provides the answer, providing a home away from their summer and winter homes and allowing them to get around visiting their many friends.

VENTURE HARBOUR NEWS
BY JESSIE SHAVER

The ghosts, goblins and witches of Hallowe'en came in on such a strong wind that they played havoc with Venture Harbour plans for a patio party at the Drinkards.

Luckily, the rec hall was free for the evening, so Head Witches Betty Drinkard and Hazel Ramsay began to take down and transfer decorations and move the festivities indoors. With the help of other goblins and some mortals, the party was a huge success.

Joe and Amy Freitag won the prize for best costumed couple, and Fran Tener for the best witch. Al Jones received a booby prize for "I'm not sure what."

The main entertainment was a square dance exhibition by four talented couples: the Ramasays, Prews, Prices and Wenckens. The food was delicious and good fun was had by almost all of the Venture Harbourites.

A card from Barbara and Stan Clark from Kenya tells us they are enjoying their trip. They said Johannesburg, Cape Town and Pretoria are modern cities of South Africa, but East Africa is very different with lots of wild animals. They send their best to all.

* * *

So nice to have Sam Tucker back in residence, also Ann VanWilligan. Louise Sheppard should be here by the time you read this. Eileen Gleason and her aunt came in on the weekend.

* * *

The Ellises have a new grandchild. I didn't get details, but maybe will have more soon.

* * *

Have you seen Edith Painter's lovely American Beauty rose bush? It was covered with beautiful blooms, giving pleasure to all who pass their way.

* * *

Edwin and Clarence Arnold, parents of Betty Drinkard, spent a few days with them last week.

* * *

Kay and Bob Smyth have been visiting relatives in Virginia, but are due home now.

* * *

Helen and Roy Williams are in Stuart and stopped by to check on their home in Venture Harbour. Roy is doing very well.

Venture Harbour is almost right at the 100 percent mark for the Jensen Beach Rec fund. Only a few more donations are needed.

Sailfish entries

START. Recent entries in the summer tournament of the Sailfish Club were made by:

Dick Smith of Stuart for a 12-lb 5-oz channel bass, and David Lezak, also of Stuart for a 48-lb 10-oz blue fish.

New guidelines at MCHS

JENSEN BEACH—Mrs. Clara Fulton, principal of Martin County High School, announced new guidelines for pre-registration for the second semester. The pre-scheduling will take place during extended homerooms on November 5, 6 and 7.

The Guidance Department will furnish each homeroom teacher with a credit check which will reflect grades for graduation requirements and levels, a trial registration form, and a carbonized official registration form.

The Scheduling Committee will provide course descriptions and a scatter sheet which will inform the students of the course offerings for the second semester.

Homeroom teachers and subject area teachers will make recommendations of courses that the students should take. Students with specific scheduling problems can set up conferences with their Guidance Counselor.

Extended homeroom periods for pre-registration will be November 5, 6 and 7. Parents are encouraged to discuss the recommended courses with their children before the official registration form is completed.

Motel group meet is scheduled

JENSEN BEACH—The Motel and Restaurant Association will meet at the Outrigger Restaurant at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 6.

Officers and committee chairmen were elected at the Oct. 22 meeting. They include:

Roman Majors, president; Alan Quinn, first vice president; Steven Deutsch, second vice president; Miriam Wallace, secretary; and Mardee St. Clair, treasurer.

Quinn heads the membership committee, and Deutsch the tourism group with Mrs. St. Clair heading the program committee and Mrs. Wallace the publicity committee leader.

Haire is student at Florida Air Academy

JENSEN BEACH—Florida Air Academy, located in Plantation, Florida is pleased to announce the enrollment of Ronald Haire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haire of 325 Palmetto Avenue, Jensen Beach, for the 1975-76 school year.

Florida Air Academy is a private militar school which offers grades 1 through 9 with facilities for both boarding and day students. A comprehensive educational and social program is offered each cadet.

Q. Why can't FPL absorb the fuel adjustment costs?

A. The price of fuel oil has skyrocketed to a point where it now costs FPL three times what it did in 1972. The average cost per day has risen from $334,000 to over $1,000,000. The cost of fuel now comprises 59% of our total operating costs.

To give you a clearer idea of what these figures mean, the price we paid for fuel oil last year was 3½ times greater than our payroll expense and more than three times our total net income for the same year. That's why there's the fuel adjustment charge on your electric bill. However, we don't keep one cent of that money, it all goes to help pay the fuel bill. We don't like paying that much money for fuel any more than you do.

We're doing all we can to keep the cost of your electric bill down. That's one reason we're building more nuclear power plants. Nuclear fuel is the least expensive source of energy available to us today.

Letting you know is a part of our responsibility.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED—George Wasser, architect for the proposed 240 condominium units of Crowley-Limbeck, appeared before the City Council workshop session Tuesday to answer questions regarding the project. The Planning and Zoning Committee approved the preliminary plans for the development. The council is expected to vote on the matter at the next regular session, Nov. 12.

Regional system sought

GDC discontinues free bus service

PORT ST. LUCIE—In what could be considered a surprising move, Robert Seeley, GDC's general manager of Port St. Lucie, announced last Thursday, the developer would discontinue the courtesy bus service throughout the community effective November 26.

The announcement was made during a conference with a group of area residents who had been summoned to Seeley's office.

Within twenty four hours after GDC announced an end to the free transportation, The Regional Planning Council, comprised of representatives from the county and the three municipalities situated within it, Stuart, Fort Pierce and Port St. Lucie, voted to request the St. Lucie County Commission to apply for a transportation study grant.

The grant would be used to explore the possibility of creating a county wide bus service.

It was also suggested by the council that county officials inquire of Indian River and Martin Counties about the possibility of a regional system.

Duke S. Kimbrough, head of the Department of Transportation Mass Transit District Office, who was present at the Regional Council meeting, told members that an 80 per cent federal, 10 per cent state grant should be available for the study, leaving some 10 per cent or $3,000 to be made up by local governmental agencies.

Kimbrough said the application could probably be processed in 60 to 90 days meaning the study could be underway by early 1974.

Estimated cost of the study, which would take approximately six months to complete, would be $30,000.

According to Seeley, the last courtesy bus drivers have been conducting a survey for the past month to determine the number of residents availing themselves of the service on a fairly regular basis.

These are the residents I have attempted to contact personally to tell them of the discontinuance of the bus service," Seeley said, adding he did not want to make the announcement arbitrarily without giving these individuals time to seek alternate transportation.

Realizing the end to the 15 year old free transportation furnished by General Development will be a terrific blow to many of the elderly residents who do not drive or have close family to chauffeur them, Seeley explained that regardless how we fell as individuals, the company must look at the economics and increasing costs of operating the buses.

"Essential budget limitations because of the economy have forced GDC to take this action," Seeley told his listeners, pointing out the cost of the service has soared to approximately $12,000 a year.

Should the residents of the community be willing to pay for the bus service without franchising and state licensing, GDC would not be permitted to accept the payment, Seeley added.

We are going to do everything within our power to seek alternative transportation for these people and will keep the bus drivers posted on findings so they can in turn advise the individuals who use the buses," he said.

Seeley told the group about the transportation service provided by the St. Lucie County Council on Aging for those residents who meet the requirements.

To obtain transportation from this department, the individual must call the council office, 465-5220.

The Indian River Limousine, which has a desk at the Sandpiper Resort, has also been contacted by Seeley, to see if some arrangement might be made for providing transportation to the citizens of the community.

Bicentennial flag sale

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Port St. Lucie Woman's Club in cooperation with the bicentennial program have flag kits immediately available at a reasonable price.

The Woman's Club and bicentennial committee would like to see a flag flying proudly over every home in St. Lucie County.

For additional information, please call Mrs. Robert Grieger, 334-1574, Mrs. Edward Kulisek, 878-2584, Mrs. Harold Hazell, 878-0653.

CONDUCTS INTERVIEWS—Mrs. Pat Dugan, a representative from the Atlanta office of the U.S. Bureau of Census, conducted interviews Tuesday afternoon at the City Hall for the purpose of selecting ten local residents to assist in the census count in this south county community. Mrs. Dugan estimates the count will take between two and three weeks to complete.

Grand opening Monday

CESA open house Sunday

PORT ST. LUCIE—Sunday November 16 looms as a red letter day in the development of the Port St. Lucie Community Center. An "Open House" for the newly completed Lounge and Snack Bar is scheduled for 2 to 5 in the afternoon.

A large crowd is expected to drop by and view the new facilities as they are opened to the public for the first time.

General Development Corporation personnel and Port St. Lucie City officials have been invited as have the architect, George Aaklof, and Richard K. Davis and James F. Grimes, CESA Trustees, Directors and officers, and the Community Center staff will be on hand for the festivities. Doughnuts and coffee will be served with the members of the furnishings and decorating committee acting as hosts and hostesses.

This is the second "Open House" in the life of the Community Center. It was back in August of 1971, that the General Development Corporation deeded the first section of land to CESA. On this acreage was constructed the present building that opened April 14, 1972.

As the community grew so did the activities taking place at the center which encompassed the fields of cultural, educational and social events. The Trustees saw quickly that the center would have to expand and public pressure corroborated this.

In April of 1973, the General Development Corporation deeded an additional 3.29 acres to CESA, and with funds obtained from community residents and businesses in a brief 1974 Building Fund Finance Drive headed by Mel Broom, the new Lounge and Snack Bar have been built at a cost of $66,000 and a picnic and barbecue area added as well. Plans for the expanded facilities were developed by the building committee chaired by Judd Reading.

Dick Lundin, CESA president for the past two years and now serving in his third term, states that the success of the center is due to the involvement and dedicated commitment of so many residents who believe in the CESA goals and are willing to work for their fulfillment.

He urges all who were not substantial donors in the 1974 drive to please give what they can afford when canvassers Mel Broom, and Ed Fessel call on them for financial support in November.

Florence Dabney, head of the Snack Bar Hostess Committee announces that the Snack Bar and Lounge area is scheduled to open on Monday, November 17, and that the snack bar will be open from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. and the lounge area from 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

People count gets underway

PORT ST. LUCIE—A representative from the Atlanta office of the U.S. Bureau of Census arrived in Port St. Lucie Tuesday for the purpose of updating the people count in this south county community.

City officials have for some time been critical regarding the in accuracy of the population count relative to their area.

Mrs. Pat Dugan spent the morning hours Tuesday familiarizing herself with the area to be canvassed and conducted interviews during the afternoon for the ten enumerators who will assist in the count.

According to Cox, the census takers will be provided with the proper credentials for identification.

The count is expected to take between two and three weeks to complete, according to Mrs. Dugan.

Area golfers compete in Intercollegiate Golf Tourney

PORT ST. LUCIE—Two area college golfers, Bobby Frier of Stuart and Art McCormick of Fort Pierce, will compete in the 29th Annual Intercollegiate Golf Championship at the Sandpiper Bay November 6-8.

Frier, a graduate of Indian River Community College, holds down the number one slot for Florida Atlantic University. Competing against the junior is McCormick, a senior and former team captain, now assistant golf coach. They are just two of the state's finest players representing the sixteen Florida universities and colleges entered.

Playing for the state championship and ranking slots are some of the perennial powers, University of Florida, Jacksonville, Miami and Miami Beach Fall Intercollegiate winner Rollins College.

The highly competitive field includes Biscayne, Emory, Bethune Flagler, FAU, FIU, FSU, Florida Southern, Florida Technical, FIT Melbourne, St. Leo, University of South Florida, Stetson and University of Tampa.

The three day, 72 hole event will be played over Sandpiper Bay's 6747 yard, par 72, championship tourney course. Teams tee off from the no. 1 tee with the final round Saturday. Presentation of awards will follow final play, around 2:30 p.m.

The public is invited to watch the state's finest collegiate golfers in action free of charge. The hub of the activity will be the 19th Hole and Sandpiper Bay Pro Shop.

Memorial service and flag presentation set

PORT ST. LUCIE—In recognition of their fine cooperation in all VFW affairs, the Andy-Andrei Maston Post 10130 VFW and Ladies Auxiliary, will make a flag presentation to the Exxon Service Station, U.S. 1 and Riomar at 10 a.m. November 11.

At 11 a.m. sharp, a special memorial service will be held, same location, to honor all who gave their lives for our country, in all wars, that we may remain free.

Principal speaker will be Rear Admiral John E. Fradd, U.S.N. Ret., and Mayor Sharpe and Representative Chuck Nergard are expected to attend the service.

Post Commander Mullikin and Ann Mullikin, president of the Auxiliary, request full membership to attend the event in uniform.

Commander Mullikin said he hoped the public would turn out for both events, adding that, in his opinion, too many people take these services for granted.

Church Bazaar is Friday

PORT ST. LUCIE—The doors to Goddard Hall will open at 7 a.m. Friday, November 7, welcoming the public to the Port St. Lucie United Methodist Church annual bazaar.

The women of the church have been working for several months preparing for the event and promise quality items will be on display at the various booths.

A continental breakfast will be served starting at 7 a.m. and luncheon service will begin at 11 a.m. with a ham dinner, sandwiches, soup, chili on the menu.

A boutique featuring all hand crafted articles is planned by Millie Johnson and Marie Reading. Clara Cobus is in charge of the always popular baked goods table.

Dorothy Banker, Dorothy Schaffer and Retha York will be selling books and records. Mae Permain, nearly new jewelry. Stationery by Ralph Conley and home made candies by Nickie Porter will be available, and Lottie Davis will have new vanilla and other items for sale.

Marion Brundage is in charge of the breakfast and Ruth Barton and Lottie Davis are preparing for the lunch. Mrs. Gertrude Bidle is in charge of the dining room. Helen Everett president of the U.M.W. will be hostess for the day.

Overall co-chairmen for the event are Ruth McDonnell and Alyce Thomas.

Council meet Wednesday

PORT ST. LUCIE—City Administrator Elmer Cox announced Tuesday the next regular session of the Port St. Lucie City Council will be held at 9 a.m. Wednesday, November 12.

In observance of Veterans Day, the city hall will be closed all day November 11.

New manager named

PORT ST. LUCIE—Jim Bearce, a veteran of 25 years in the hotel and resort management field, has been named general manager of the Sandpiper Bay Resort of Port St. Lucie.

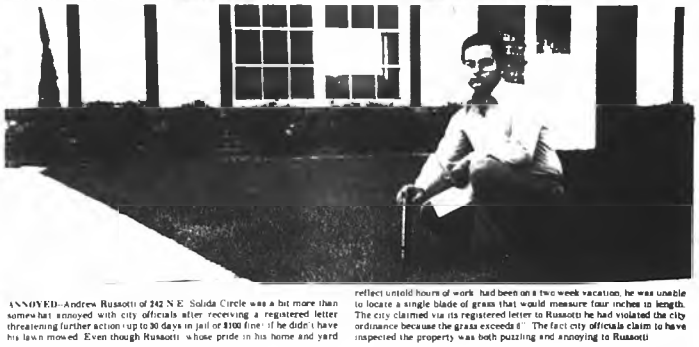
Bearce will succeed Pierre Rollinger whose resignation takes effect December 1.

The new manager, educated at St. Petersburg High School and the Cornell University School of Hotel Administration, comes from Freeport where he served as vice president Bahamas Princess Hotels International.

Previously he was with Ironbreak Resort and Golf Club in Tarpon Springs, Robert F. Warner, Inc. of New York, Emerald Beach Seaside Plantation, Nassau, and Key Biscayne Hotel and Villas in Miami and several St. Petersburg hotels.

Bearce, 47, is a past president of the Hotel Sales Management Association International, a 5,000 member organization.

He is married and has four children.



ANNOYED—Andrew Russotti of 242 N.E. Solida Circle was a bit more than somewhat annoyed with city officials after receiving a registered letter threatening further action up to 30 days in jail or $100 fine if he didn't have his lawn mowed. Even though Russotti whose pride in his home and yard reflect untold hours of work had been on a two week vacation, he was unable to locate a single blade of grass that would measure four inches in length. The city claimed via its registered letter to Russotti he had violated the city ordinance because the grass exceeds 6". The fact city officials claim to have inspected the property was both puzzling and annoying to Russotti.

Concert Association kicks off membership drive

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Fort Pierce Mutual Concert Association's membership drive will officially get underway at 7 p.m. Tuesday November 11, with the annual kick-off dinner at the Pelican Yacht Club.

Volunteer canvassers will be given instructions and membership lists for the two-week campaign, and the traditional salute to the workers who literally "beat the doahes" for memberships will be given.

The concert series, which has heretofore opened in the fall will not begin until January 13 this season so that many winter residents of the area may take advantage of the entire program.

The first concert, scheduled for Tuesday, January 13, will feature the Florida Symphony, whose appearance is an annual event. As in the past, the orchestra will present two free concerts for pupils of the local schools during the afternoon preceding the evening performance.

The fabled Gregg Smith Singers will appear on February 14, the Twin Pear, premier duo piano and percussion quartet, will perform on March 20, and to conclude the season the Mac Frampton Triumvirate will present a bicentennial musical spectacular.

Letters have gone out to former members who have not yet renewed their memberships, with the hope that they will renew by mail, somewhat alleviating the enormous task of the volunteer canvassers.

All residents of the Indian River area--St. Lucie, Martin, Indian River and Okeechobee Counties--are welcome as members of the association. For information, call President Roger White at 334-1122, or Executive Director, Jean (Mrs. Charles R.P.) Brown at 464-1389.

Citizenship is Homemakers' topic

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mrs. Larry Hett and Mrs. Ralph Huffman will present a program dealing with Citizenship at the November meeting of the Beautiful Waters Homemakers Club.

The meeting will be held on Thursday, November 13, 1 p.m. at the CESA Building.

Members are asked to bring one Christmas tree ornament (hand-made preferred) to be raffled. They will also participate in setting up the club's "White Christmas" display for the annual Silver Tea on December 4.

Mrs. Newton Nickelson is hostess chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Larry Hett, Mrs. William Sams, Mrs. Joseph Lesoravage and Mrs. Morgan Jones.

Lucky Charms install officers

BY MAGGIE BIGGS

Officers were installed at the Lucky Charms 4H Club meeting held at the home of Monica Nilsson on October 23. Anita Castagnola, president of the St. Lucie County 4H Council, was the installing officer. She was assisted by Mrs. John Barbara Martin, the club leader.

Installed were: Monica Nilsson, president; June Woodward, vice president; Beth Martin, secretary; Tammy Reeser, treasurer; Maggie Biggs, reporter; Erin Miller, council delegate.

Also: Dana Miller and Kathi Ewing, recreation co-chairmen; Tammy Batchelder, song leader; and Sonia Goins and Vicki Ewing, telephone chairmen. Debbie Whalen, devotional leader, was unable to attend.

Mrs. Charles Anne Conrad, president of the PSL Homemakers Club, was also a guest at the meeting. She showed the members an afghan made by Elsie Slipitz which will be sold at their bazaar on Nov. 16. The minutes, earned from the afghan will be given to the 4H Club.

During the business meeting, Tammy Reeser reported on the County 4H Recognition Dinner that she, Monica, Erin and Beth attended. June gave all members printed copies of the club's program for the year. Her committee, who assisted in preparing the program, were Tammy Reeser and Beth Tammy Batchelder reported that her committee made an exhibit. It was in the PSL Florist Shop windows last week. Assisting her were Erin and Maggie.

Erin reported that an Officer's Training School will be held at the next County 4H Council meeting on November 8. She, Monica and Beth attended the October Council meeting.

The president appointed the following committees:

Clothing tour: Erin and Sonya, skit: Maggie, Chr.; Debbie and Vicki.

The following members presented the program:

June gave a talk on "What Looks Best on You." Monica gave a demonstration, "Gingerbread," and Tammy Reeser demonstrated Tools for Sewing.

The next meeting will be on November 8 at the home of June Woodward.

STATEMENT ACCOUNTS GIVE ADDED BENEFITS

New Savings Service Offered

JENSEN BEACH, Fla. -- Thanks to the advent of the computer, the old-fashioned "passbook" is no longer necessary at First of Martin County.

All that is required is an identification card small enough to fit into your wallet or purse, which is your proof that you have a savings account at First of Martin County.

Any regular transaction: deposit or withdrawal, can be done by filling out the proper slip and showing your ID card. You'll receive a receipt from the teller and soon after the end of each calendar quarter, you'll receive a statement of your account through the mail. It will show all deposits and withdrawals, the interest you have earned over the last three months and your current balance.

No longer will it be necessary to carry a bulky passbook which has to be updated each time you make a transaction. No longer will you have to wait in line to have your interest posted at the end of each quarter. From now on, with an identification card you will be able to cash checks more readily at any of our offices. And as new services become available, your Statement Savings Account will bring them to you more rapidly.

Besides the convenience that a statement account provides, it also automatically keeps you updated on the interest you have earned. If you don't make frequent deposits or withdrawals, you'll recognize the value of this service.

Like all regular savings accounts at First of Martin County, Statement Savings Accounts earn the highest possible interest, 5.25% compounded daily for an effective annual yield of 5.39%.

Stop by at any of First of Martin County's five convenient financial centers and talk to a savings counselor about statement savings. They'll be happy to convert your present passbook account to a Statement Savings Account or, if you don't have a First of Martin County account, they'll be glad to open one for you.

Statement accounts may be opened at any of First of Martin County's five offices during regular business hours -- 9 A.M. to 3 P.M. Monday through Thursday, and 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. on Friday.

CESA seeks patronesses

PORT ST. LUCIE--Being firm believers in the premise that the best way to obtain the greatest possible degree of personal involvement is to go out and enlist it, the general committee of the Second Annual Spring Festival for the CESA Community Center has scheduled a Patroness's Tea for the afternoon of Friday, November 14, in the new lounge of the Center.

Invitations have been extended to 175 women in the area, all active leaders or participants in some phase of community life, to become Patronesses for the Festival set for March of 1976.

In seeking the prospective patronesses, Festival Coordinator Mrs. J.J. Schreiber and Festival Chairman Mrs. Donald J. Porter are requesting through questionnaires (included with the invitations) service on any number of various committees, donations to any of the booths already planned, assistance as hostesses or guides, permission for the use of their names in the program, and personal advertising of the event among their own circles of friends and acquaintances.

At the tea, following a general discussion of the festival as planned so far, individual chairmen will meet in selected areas with guests who want more detailed information about a specific booth or activity.

Also, Mrs. Mahlon Cline (Bessie), garden shop; Mrs. Robert Sweet (Nancy), children's activities; Mrs. Carroll Everett (Helen), refreshments.

Other members of the general committee to date are Mrs. Martin Heilbach (Terry), Mrs. Wilbur Armet (Flo); Mrs. W.J. Simpson (Elsie), Mrs. Violette Greenwood, Mrs. Olga Atkins, and Mrs. Herman Bowen (Alice).

CESA luau sold out

PORT ST. LUCIE--The CESA Community Center Luau, slated for Wednesday evening, is a complete sell-out. There are absolutely no more tickets available.

Because the demand has been so great, the committee has decided to re-open the doors at 7:45 for persons who want to see the entertainment only, in so far as space will permit. Admission will be charged at the door.

Doors for the Luau will open at 6:15 p.m.

Cabaret night planned

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Sisterhood, Temple Beth El, is sponsoring a gala Cabaret Night at the Temple on Sunday, November 23, at 8 p.m.

It will be an evening of music and comedy, directed by Hortue Selkin. Setups and munchies will be provided for the BYOB affair.

For reservations call Miriam Levine at 878-0091 or Betty Horowitz, 465-8450.

Temple Beth El is located on 23rd Street and Avenue B in Fort Pierce.

Boat-a-cade is next Club event

PORT ST. LUCIE--Bob Clemens of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club announced last week that the next club event will be a boat-a-cade to the Manatee Yacht Club restaurant at Port Salerno on November 15. Cocktail time will be from noon to 1:00 p.m. followed by a buffet. Music will be furnished by Johnnie Barea from noon until 3 p.m.

Fleet captain Bill Holzapfel requests that boat owners wishing to participate contact him at 878-3359 or Bill Hoover at 878-2403. Space is limited to twenty boats. Let them know before November 7 so that dock space can be made available.

Boats will rendevous at the Sandpiper Bay Marina at 10:30 a.m. with departure time set for 10:45 a.m.

Tickets are limited to 150 members and house guests and are available from chairmen John and Loretta Pugh 878-2263 or Virgil and Dorothy Samse), Dewey and Joy Lindsay, E.K. and Mary Shinn, Sam and Gemma Kerley, Rocco and Peg Logondice. Deadline for tickets is November 7.

There were approximately 180 members in attendance at the regular meeting held at CESA. Commodore Mike Reeb said he was well pleased with the turnout and remarked that it was the most members to attend a yacht club meeting.

Members were welcomed by CESA officials Mrs. J.J. Schreiber and Mr. Don Donahoe.

Commodore Reeb announced that the annual Coast Guard boat inspection will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, November 8, at the North Port Marina. There will be three inspectors on hand. Reeb urges all boat owners to attend. Inspected boats will receive a bicentennial decal to be displayed in time for the boat-a-cade.

The fifty-fifty was shared by Bob Corcoran, M. Winterling, Edris Kessler and Frank Gaskill.

Fourteen new members were introduced by membership chairman Fred Adler. John Schwartz welcomed and introduced them to the club officers and presented them with their burgees and badges. Florence Schwartz pinned corsages on the ladies.

The following were then welcomed by the members: Fred and Betty Westline, Jack and Betty Schled, Robert and Edith Bryson, George and Elizabeth Montooth, Edwin and Helen Dickinson, Rick and Nancy Veronis and Ralph and Mabel Fry.

Vice Commodore Nelson Howery introduced the Ryhart singers of Fort Pierce, who entertained following refreshments served by Harry and Edna Kessler.

Salad luncheon

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mrs. William Harris, President of the Episcopal Women's group of Holy Faith Church, Port St. Lucie, has announced a salad bar luncheon in Harrison Hall, Monday November 17.

There will be two sittings at 11:30 a.m. and at 12:30 for an array of delectable salads.

This has always been a popular church project and Mrs. Bernard R. Smith, chairman, has limited tickets available. Call Mrs. Harris at 878-2302 or the chairman at 878-4112.

Gang holds gangbuster

PORT ST. LUCIE--A large group turned out for the Halloween session of the Friday Nite Gang. A festive holiday atmosphere was evident, even though those attending didn't dress for the occasion.

Performing her duties, even though it was her birthday, the Snooper reported Rose Marie Duvalvis from Wayne, New Jersey, visiting Mrs. Lillian Heeseman. Visiting the Gang for the first time was Elaine Tradell, originally from Worcester, Mass.

Immediately following the first half, Charlie White showed a 10 minute film.

Main prize of the evening was won by Claire Levy.

Mingins, Tschudy tie

PORT ST. LUCIE--With a net of 56, Henry Pesanti and Jim Van Derhyde claimed the Flight A honors when the North Port Mens Golf League played at the Holiday Country Club Tuesday morning.

Flight B winner was Sam Spears with a net of 55, while Walter Kramel with a net of 58 led Flight C.

A net of 57 placed George Smith on top of Flight D.

Gwyn Mingins and Herb Tschudy tied for the closest to the pin honors during the play of the day. Mingins on the eighth, Tschudy on the 17.

SLCC Men's Golf

PORT ST. LUCIE--Ed Fessell, Bob Clemens and Tony Hofmeister were flight winners in this week's golf tournament of the Sandpiper Bay Men's Golf Association played Thursday over the Saints course. Net scores of flight leaders were:

Flight A, Fessell, 65; Mary Jensen, 67; Tom Chapman, Don Estes, Bob Wilson and Norm Nardone, 71.

Flight B, Clemens, Dick Lundin and Howard Klerk, 68; Vick Wagner, 70; Bert McDonnell, 71; Len Appel, 74.

Fessell shot a career low, gross 73 and had six one putt greens on the first nine, while Marv Jensen fired a one over par 73 his best ever round since moving to Florida.

Results of the first round of match play in the club's annual handicap championships (winners only):

Class A, Tom Jelnick, Karl Krecke, Fessell, Bill Flanagan, Tom Keeber, Nardone, Jensen, George Montooth.

BOOTH TIME--Before the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA Bicentennial Carnival got under way Saturday afternoon at Langford Park, there was a lot of work going on Saturday morning. Dennis Larson was one of several workers who were busy getting a booth ready for one of the games the children enjoyed in the afternoon.

COTTON PICKING--Mary Killer was taking cotton candy to her boys, but she took a small bite before delivering the fluffy goodies. Mrs. Killer and several hundred children and adults enjoyed the annual Jensen Beach Elementary PTA Bicentennial Carnival last Saturday at Langford Park.

LOOKING AHEAD--The fortune teller's tent was a busy place Saturday afternoon during the Bicentennial Carnival at the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA. The children wanted to see what was in the crystal ball.

Halloween costume winners announced

JENSEN BEACH--Winners in the halloween costume contest at Langford Park Friday night, Oct. 31, have been announced.

More than 350 Jensen Beach area children took part in the event which was coordinated by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce with other organizations participating.

In the pre-school group Steve Wallace and Bradley Breese tied in the most patriotic group with James Talbot taking second place with his most original costume.

In the second and third grade group, Cristy Breezey and Dianne Stockbauer tied for first in the most patriotic costumes with Wanda Meyer taking second place with the most original costume.

In the four and five age group, Sheri Meyer won first place and Bonnie Swanson second, both for the most original costumes.

Steve Wallace and Sheri Meyer tied in the best of all costume.

Organizations taking part in the halloween party include Lions, Women's Club, Rio Civic, VFW and Auxiliary, Legion and Auxiliary, Kiwanis, World War I and Auxiliary and Boy Scouts.

STEP RIGHT UP!--Gerry Areni was giving the old carnival pitch at her bean bag booth, and she had a long line of bean bag throwers all afternoon. Mrs. Areni operated one of several booths at the annual Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA Bicentennial Carnival last Saturday at Langford Park.

SPIRIT OF '76--Little Stephen Wallace had on his spirit of '76 costume and carried his American Flag at the Bicentennial Halloween celebration last Friday night at Langford Park. He is the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, 333 Croton Lane, Jensen Beach.

SPOOK PARADE--Jensen Beach area children did their thing Halloween night at Lankford Park. The spooks, in a variety of sizes and costumes, marched around the ball park for the crowd of adults and judges to enjoy before lining up for hotdogs and soft drinks at the fieldhouse.

Welcome Wagon rendezvous

PORT ST. LUCIE--The annual Treasure Coast Rendezvous and Christmas Boutique of the Welcome Wagon will be held at the Holiday Inn Oceanside, Jupiter-Tequesta, on Thursday, Nov. 20, beginning at 10 a.m.

Any Port St. Lucie Riverette interested in obtaining additional information and tickets for reservations, call Kay at 878-0680. Deadline for reservations is Friday, Nov. 14.

New duty for seaman

PORT ST. LUCIE--Navy Seaman David W. Lassiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Lassiter of 1769 Adair Road, Port St. Lucie, has reported for duty at the Naval Facility, Argentia, Newfoundland.

A former student of Martin County High School, he joined the Navy in January, 1975.

Nuclear risk said low

JENSEN BEACH--The risks attached to the operation of present-day nuclear power plants are very low compared to other natural and man-made risks, a three-year study shows.

The study was directed by professor Norman Rasmussen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and formed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's office of Nuclear Regulatory Research.

The study concluded that:

Nuclear power plants are about 10,000 times less likely to produce fatal accidents than many non-nuclear activities. This comparison is based on the study of both nuclear power plants and non-nuclear events such as fires, explosions, toxic chemicals releases, etc.

BEACH EROSION--A weekend northeaster pushed seas onto Hutchinson Island and caused considerable erosion damage to sand dunes. Thousands of cubic yards of sand were washed away from Little Ocean Club and Little Ocean Place oceanfront condominium projects.

HALLOWEEN SUIT--Bruce Tucker, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vermit Tucker, was one of several youngsters taking part in the costume parade halloween night at Langford Park.

BIG BITE--After taking part in the costume parade Halloween night at Jensen Beach's Langford Park, Erik Thompson, three-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. D. Clark Thompson, enjoyed a hotdog.

Country opry coming to Lyric

...ART–Playhouse Lyric pre... on November 15, curtain time 8 p.m. ...ents "The Florida Country Opry". Headlining the show will be The Florida Three and their guests, the Evans Family.

The Florida Three, Nashville recording artists with Sing Me Records, plan to do their own releases as well as some by other favorite country artists. Monty Montgomery's latest release, "Love Drives Out the Cold" will be a part of the repertoire. Monty plays rhythm guitar; Brenda's "Love Hangover" will be one of the songs features. She plays bass guitar, and Larry Montgomery plays lead or steel guitar.

The Evans Family have appeared at benefits churches, the Tourist Club, as well as on several radio programs. They have also been seen on WTVX TV Channel 34 in Fort Pierce.

Tickets are available at The Phoenix in Stuart and The Music Bin in Ft. Pierce. Reservations may be made by calling 287-6869 or after 5 p.m. call 287-8110.

Post Office offers gift ideas

JENSEN BEACH–Christmas shoppers should keep the Post Office in mind as a source of inexpensive gifts, Postmaster Harold Sattler said today.

Several varieties of inexpensive philatelic items suitable for Christmas gifts are on sale at the Jensen Beach Post Office as well as by mail order from the Philatelic Sales Division in Washington.

The products are key items in Postal Service efforts to create new interest in the world's largest hobby, stamp collecting. They include stamp collecting kits, the 1975 edition of "Stamps & Stories" souvenir mint sets, panels in the American Commemorative Series and Bicentennial Philatelic Passports.

The topical stamp collecting kits have subjects ranging from space to sports, and each kit contains enough stamps to start a collection. Also included in the kit is a small album, mounting hinges, insert sheets for additional stamps and a 32-page booklet entitled "The ABC's of Stamp Collecting."

"Stamps & Stories" is the popular pocket-size book which tells the stories of more than 3,000 stamps with illustrations and other information such as current catalog values.

Souvenir Mint Sets are offered for sale annually by the Postal Service and contain all the special, memorial and commemorative stamps issued during the year. Space is provided for mounting the stamps and a brief description of each issue is included.

The 1974 Mint Set is available and the 1975 Mint Set should be available for purchase in late November or early December.

Panels in the American Commemorative Series are on sale now. The series began with the Wildlife Conservation issues of 1972. The 8½-by-11¼ panels have a mint block of 4 stamps except for issues of more than 4 stamps, mounted adjacent to background information about the stamp or stamps. Each panel, featuring three engraved stamp-theme illustrations from the archives of the American Bank Note Company, is suitable for framing.

Earlier panels in the series, as well as all the other philatelic products on sale at the Jensen Beach Post Office, are available by mail order.

The Sales Division also stocks an extensive line of other philatelic items including many earlier issues of stamps and postal stationery.

'Might make sense'

Schenk sees mini-courthouse as decentralized government

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH--Planning for bringing government to the people came one step closer Monday as Kris Schenk, Martin County planner outlined the possibilities of the mini-courthouse system to Jensen Beach Kiwanians.

While Schenk said that his comments were "an idea that might make sense," it was obvious that he had given deep thought to the need for and projections of mini-court house services for Jensen Beach.

While much of the thrust of the promotion of "government to the people" has been toward making services available on the local level to citizens, Schenk said that the purpose of a mini-courthouse was two-fold--giving residents better access to government services and giving government the opportunity to find out what people want or what problems they have.

He cited the growth of Martin County from 30,000 in 1970 to 50,000 in 1975, and projected a possible population of 150,000 in 1985, just ten years from now.

"When you reach a population of 50,000, you lose the sense of a small town community. That is when the county must start to de-centralize," Schenk said.

"At 50,000 population you must think about providing service on a local level."

He said that while it takes just ten minutes to drive to Stuart, the county seat now, in a few years it might take a half hour due to heavy traffic.

Art Hansen, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce president and a Kiwanian, asked about the cost of additional personnel needed to man the new mini-courthouse. Schenk said that no additional help would be required in the beginning, as the office could be manned on a part-time basis by various offices that would be providing services.

"The most it would need would be a full-time secretary eventually, as each county office would be providing staff," he said.

The mini-courthouse envisioned by Schenk would be on five acres of ground, with room for expansion as growth dictates.

There would be a small building, preferably near fire, police or ambulance services and the building would be 1,000 square feet - about 20 by 50 feet. It would cost about $30,000 to build, and would provide twenty to twenty-five parking places.

Included in the services that might be offered would be voter registration, tax collection, licensing and property appraisal figures. A zoning book could be available for the public, and county records might be seen on a micro-film reader, now being bought by the county.

There could be a place for mobile services of the Health Department, or the county Bookmobile.

There might be a building and zoning inspector located there, and while the sheriff's department does not plan a substation there, it might be a possibility for the future, when growth demands such service.

"It would have to be on a main road, probably near a shopping center area for convenience," Schenk said, adding, "But it must be within one and one-half miles of the greatest number of people."

Schenk said that a ten-year projection of costs would be necessary before the county could consider establishing such a service. He indicated that the master land-use plan of Jensen Beach would be begun in the Spring, and the county staff would be seeking public opinion of service needs at that time.

"This couldn't replace county government, but many functions could be handled on a local level. A mini-courthouse would improve the two-way flow of information," Schenk said.

He added that Jensen Beach, Indiantown and Hobe Sound were the only areas that would need such mini-courthouses. Indiantown now has courthouse annex services.

Chamber dinner at Outrigger

JENSEN BEACH--The installation dinner of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held Friday, Dec. 5, at the Outrigger Restaurant.

Officers and directors who were elected at a general membership meeting of the chamber Monday night will be installed at the dinner, which starts with a social hour at 6:30 p.m.

In presenting the slate of officers and directors, Nominating Committee Fre Stein noted that some of the long time directors were not on the list of nominees.

We felt the need for new blood," Stein said, and he added that the directors who had served on the board in the past could serve as committee chairmen.

The slate approved by the members includes:

L.D. Kirkpatrick, president; Jack Klett, vice president; Jack Davis, treasurer; and Marilyn Epstein, secretary.

Two-year directors elected were Joseph Bumbera, R.C. Brenner, and Pete Henry, with Brian Bibeau, Tim Tealey and Stein as carryovers from two year terms.

One-year directors include Joseph Mauldin, Ann Baron, Joan Betsch and Al Tomaszewski.

Two persons were nominated for one-year directors from the floor, Ginny Van Dien and Ernie Baker, both declined the nominations.

In other business, members will attend an open house at Florida Institute of Technology Friday, November 21 beginning at 4 p.m.

After a welcome by Dean Tealey, students will conduct the chamber members on a tour of the campus.

And Mrs. Van Dien, as chairman of the Halloween celebration at Langford Park, thanked all the organizations and workers who gave their time and money "which was such a success for the children of Jensen Beach."

"I want to thank Frank Wacha, master of ceremonies, and Commissioner Ross Philbrick, Rep. Chuck Nergard and Marie Stewart for taking time from their schedules to judge the costume parade, and a special thanks to the committee, Mary Killer, Geri Leonard, John Heyburn and Al Tomaszewski."

PLANNER--Kris Schenk discussed mini-courthouse concepts with attorney Brian Bibeau, chairman of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club, following his speech Monday to the local club.

Free fishing clinics at F.I.T. auditorium

JENSEN BEACH--Vic Dunaway, nationally famed fishing expert, author and director of the South Florida Metropolitan Fishing Tournament, will hold two free special fishing clinics next week at the Florida Institute of Technology.

Scott Fletcher and Johnny Crawford, Martin County co-representatives of the "Met," emphasized that on Wednesday, November 19, 7:30 p.m., the clinic will be held for the general public. Members of all Martin County families and their children interested in fishing, are invited to attend.

On Thursday, November 20, 7:30 p.m. the clinic will be limited to all members of Martin County fishing clubs, their spouses, guests and all interested children.

Fletcher and Crawford explained that these are the first public clinics of their kind ever held in Martin County. The reason is because this year for the first time in the history of this oldest and best known public fishing contest in the nation has included Martin County and Lake Okeechobee within its fishing boundaries.

The Met, which runs from December 15, 1975, to mid-April, 1976, is open to anyone. No entry fee or advance registrations are required.

The Dunaway program will be divided into three parts. A brief slide show of Met highlights; a clinic dealing with spin fishing and also rod handling; questions and answers by Vic on any aspect of fishing, salt or fresh water.

At the clinic you will receive a free printed copy of the rules which also explain the four general divisions, the three casting divisions, spinning, plug casting and fly casting. The new Junior Division, which is a first for 1975-76, is a very important addition.

Resident and visiting anglers will be able to chase a total of 272 championship plaques and trophies. In addition, the Met awards thousands of free, personalized certificates, each with a new on jacket emblem, for entries of exceptional fish and for releases of game fish.

Scott Fletcher and Johnny Crawford said, "we urge every person interested in fishing to come and get the full story from Vic Dunaway. This could prove to be the most worthwhile fishing clinic you have ever attended."

Golf course hearing slated

JENSEN BEACH--A second public hearing on the Martin County Golf Course will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 25, at the Stuart Women's Club.

About 200 golfers jammed the meeting room of the County Commission last month and half of them were turned away by county officials because of lack of space in the meeting room.

Because of that, a second meeting was scheduled. A new golf link is expected to be ready for play next fall.

Martin County golfers have been paying $100 a year toward construction of a new public golf course. The new facility is to be built on surplus airport property which is next to the existing golf course.

Burning permits

JENSEN BEACH--No more open burning permits can be issued, Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Chief Spinney said.

Chief Spinney and other Martin County fire chiefs met last week with an official of the Department of Environmental Regulation (DER). It was found that state laws are very restrictive about issuing open burning permits.

Chief Spinney said Eric Nuzie of DER told them that chiefs have been issuing permits that they were not supposed to give out.

Former environmental officials said nothing about, Spinney said.

"You can't burn in your back yard because you have to be 150 feet from the nearest house or road," Spinney said. "How many are that far away?"

Nuzie told the chiefs that enforcement of the law is his agency's job and that violators could receive fines of up to $10,000 a day.

Plaza probe request failed

JENSEN BEACH--A grand jury probe into the purchase of the Executive Plaza building was asked by Martin County Commissioner Ross Philbrick.

But his motion died for lack of a second.

Philbrick made his motion for the grand jury investigation at Tues day's meeting of the County Commission.

It would dispel the fears and get the public behind the commission, Philbrick said.

Philbrick had disqualified himself from voting on the $1.188 million building, explaining that he is a director of the Jensen Beach Bank which holds an $18,000 note signed by one of the building owners. The note is not on the Plaza building but he still had decided not to vote on the purchase because of it.

Philbrick's motion failure was not the only one for the morning as he turned over his chairman's seat to Commissioner John Kiernan.

The Jensen Beach area commissioner made a motion for Kiernan as chairman and Tom Higgins as vice chairman. He received no second.

Kiernan and then Maggy were nominated and elected chairman and vice chairman.

And for the motion to retire all county employees for one year, Philbrick asked for removal of County Attorney Steve Calvert.

Calvert's refusing was turned over to the Personnel Committee and the commission will make a decision at a later date.

In other action, commissioners voted to seek a plaza on Florida's Turnpike within Martin County.

A move to get a turnpike plaza was attempted several years ago.

Sand holds against tides

JENSEN BEACH--Sand bulldozed from the ocean to the Jensen Beach swimming area just south of the seawall, was holding fast against high tides one week after the emergency action was taken by county crews.

Pounding surf pushed by a northeaster that started more than two weeks ago, eroded away the eastern bank that normally protects the parking lot and picnic pavilions.

The work was done under an emergency permit granted by the Department of Natural Resources. State and County officials say the temporary repairs to the beaches may not last long.

After the northeaster ends, the county's state permit to bulldoze sand from the beach against the bluff expires. Continued bulldozing would destroy the natural profile of the beach and would result in even worse erosion, according to state officials.

Meanwhile, coastal surveyors from the University of Florida will begin surveying a new coastal construction setback line.

The old line was drawn several years ago and apparently has become obsolete because of construction along the coast and erosion.

The work on the new project is expected to take about a month and cost about $47,000.

COMMISSION LEADERS--Martin County Commissioner John Kiernan was elected chairman at the organizational meeting Tuesday, and Commissioner Maggy Hurchalla was elected vice chairman.

Fire help for town

SEWALL'S POINT--Martin County District 2 Fire Department will serve the Town of Sewall's Point instead of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department.

The Jensen Beach Department has been serving the town for the past 20 years. The town will pay District 2 $1,700 a year, $200 more than Jensen Beach was paid.

District 2 Chief Dan Brady said he approached Sewall's Point officials about serving the town. It is a logical extension of his department's service area, which borders Sewall's Point, he said.

Chief Spinney said the Jensen Beach volunteers told Sewall a Point officials they were willing to continue service at $1,500 a year. But when he learned the town was "shopping around," the department sent the town a letter last month saying it would cut off service Oct. 31.

Chief Spinney said his department's response time in Sewall's Point averages three to five minutes. Brady said his department can be on the scene of a fire in five to seven minutes.

The Jensen Beach Department will respond to a Sewall's Point fire if asked, Spinney said, adding, his department doesn't need the $1,500. "We have good people in Jensen who contribute to us."

Garbage franchise areas are planned

JENSEN BEACH–Seven exclusive franchise areas for private garbage haulers are being considered by Martin County Commissioners.

Les Scherer, head of the county's Department of Environmental Services, told commissioners of the plan last week.

Scherer presented figures showing proposed franchised districts ranging in size from 155 square miles for Nichols Sanitation to 1.5 miles for an area to be served by Commissioner John Kiernan, which immediately surrounds his trailer park at Hobe Sound.

Proposed districts include the northern part of the county to all County Sanitation, the area north of the St. Lucie River and west of the Indian River.

The area has an estimated 3,316 residential units outside the Town of Sewall's Point.

Nichols Sanitation would be given Hutchinson Island and the area south of Stuart to Cove Road plus an area near the Martin-Palm Beach counties line. This would give Nichols about 8,800 residential customers.

The Indiantown Co. would be responsible for most of western Martin County while Pettway and Parks Sanitation Co. would have small areas in Port Salerno and Hobe Sound.

Kiernan who collects garbage in his Lakeside Village Mobile Home Park, would have an area extending about a half mile north and south of the trailer park.

Third youth dies of injuries

JENSEN BEACH–A third teenager died last Wednesday from injuries suffered in a Friday night Oct. 31 pickup truck accident on Savanna Road.

William Deloach, 15, of Jensen Beach died in Martin Memorial Hospital.

Jay Hassinger, 15, brother of the driver, died at the scene and Paul Bellas, 16, of Jensen Beach died Saturday night at the hospital.

Charges of manslaughter, vehicular homicide, have been filed against the driver of the truck, Daniel Hassinger, 16, of Jensen Beach, according to Assistant State Attorney Bruce Colton.

The youth has been turned over to the custody of his parents.

Two more of the 10 youths have been released from the hospital. They are Doug Whipkey, 16 and Joe Shakra, 15, both of Rio. Also, Daniel Hassinger was discharged from the hospital as was Thomas Graham, 15, of Jensen Beach.

Gary Vaillancourt, 13, of Jensen Beach, remains in fair condition at the hospital, while Wendee Dubois, 14, of Palm City and Brett Lawson, 15, of Jensen Beach, remain in serious condition.

Club landscaping Arch..again

JENSEN BEACH–Members of the Jensen Beach Garden Club have been busy working on the landscaping of the Arch. Last Tuesday with the help of Mr. Lartaud husband of the president and Mr. Leon Older, the rubble was cleared away from the base of the towers and cement block placed as an edging to the planting area.

The members assisting were Mrs. Lartaud, Mrs. William Stephenson, and Mrs. Arthur C. Mills. Two young men from FIT, Sam Snyder and Bill Bukevicz supplied the brawn in handling the blocks.

On Wednesday, Mr. Older, Mr. Stephenson and Mr. Richard Kupp cemented the blocks into place.

The committee wishes to acknowledge with thanks the donation of the cement block by Rinker Materials Corp. EWK for the gravel and Vista Del Lago for the topsoil.

Condo Commission sets meeting

JENSEN BEACH–Directors and officers of Condominium Associations in the Treasure Coast area are to hear about the concepts, prospective policies and procedures of this newly constituted division as these concern condominium unit owners on Friday, November 21.

Stanley Kristiansen, Chief of the Bureau of Compliance, is speaking at the request of Treasure Coast Condominiums Association.

Meeting time is 1:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan, Jensen Beach.

Directors of all condominium associations and owners associations where unit owners do not yet control their condominiums are invited to attend, even if they are not members of Treasure Coast. Over 20 condominiums containing approximately 6000 units in Martin, St. Lucie and Palm Beach Counties form the Treasure Coast Association. Non-member directors are invited to learn more about the protection of condominium owners rights.

Please call one of the following regarding attendance at this important meeting.

Basketball and soccer registrations start Saturday

JENSEN BEACH–The Optimist Club of Jensen Beach announces that registration for basketball and soccer will be held at Langford Park on Saturday, November 15 and Saturday, November 22 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

All boys and girls ages 8 through 14 who are living in the Jensen Beach area, are eligible to register. The registration fee will be $5 for each activity. Both sports are tentatively scheduled to be played on Saturday afternoons.

Soccer clinics will follow the registrations. On November 15, the clinic will be held at Sailfish Park in Stuart at 1 p.m. under the direction of the FIT soccer team. All attending the clinic are invited to stay and watch the FIT soccer game which starts at 2 p.m.

The November 22 clinic will be held at Langford Park at 1 p.m. also with the FIT soccer team.

Holiday Fair will be Nov. 14 & 15th

STUART–Women of Redeemer Lutheran Church, 2450 S.E. Ocean Blvd., Stuart, are busy finishing hand made articles for their third annual Holiday Fair to be held in the Fellowship Hall November 14 and 15, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Featured this year will be a Bicentennial booth full of unique gifts in red, white and blue, which can become cherished mementos of America's 200th birthday.

A thatched hut booth will be the setting for the Prayer and Mission Board. Profits from their sales will help a family, now in training for foreign mission service.

Always popular is the baked goods booth, offering a variety of delicious cakes, home made bread and cookies. The country store, white elephant collection, book nook, potted plant display, christmas cards and napkins, assure everyone of an enjoyable visit to the Holiday Fair.

Mrs. Louis Wilken is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Paul Kursum.

Rep. Skip Bafalis

In God we trust

SHINGTON—Every U.S. coin dollar bill carries the words "In d We Trust."

That phrase has been on our since 1955, when Congress
ted that it be carried on all and bills. Prior to that the had been used on some coins on others, with no
ity.

Unfortunately, eight years after Congress ordered the phrase "In d We Trust" placed on our
the U.S. Supreme Court
ed taken out of the public

Time after time, bills have been ed to correct this ridiculous
, only to be thwarted by the dominated House Judiciary
ittee and others convinced know better than our founding

In doing, these Members of ress have put themselves above wishes of the American people—public opinion poll taken in years has shown this

American people overwhelmingly in favor of an amendment to permit prayer in school.

Three years ago Florida voters had a chance to express themselves on the question in a statewide referendum. And, by a four-to-one margin, they came out in favor of a Constitutional Amendment to restore a right they had been sure was theirs, until the Supreme Court took it away.

That is one reason why, just three days after I was sworn in as a Congressman, I introduced a proposed amendment to restore prayer in our public schools.

And that is why I recently signed a discharge petition to take this crucial matter away from the House Judiciary Committee and bring it immediately to the House Floor for full debate and action.

While a discharge petition is considered a drastic step by some in the Congress, it appears the only way we can get any action on this all-important issue. Therefore, I am hopeful we will be able to obtain the required 218 signatures on the petition.

The discharge petition route was followed somewhat successfully in 1972. Enough signatures of Congressmen, a majority of the 435 members were obtained to discharge the Judiciary Committee of any responsibility for the proposed amendments and then were sent to the House Floor for full discussion.

Unfortunately, only 240 Congressmen supported the prayer amendment when it came up for a vote on the floor. While that was more than needed for a simple majority, it was 50 votes shy of the two-thirds margin required for approval of a proposed amendment to the Constitution.

And so the proposal died.

Since then literally dozens of new prayer amendments have been introduced, only to gather dust in the Judiciary Committee. Not only has there been no action, there has been no indication any action is even being considered.

Therefore, it became necessary for those of us who believe in the American people's right to public prayer, to seek a new discharge petition to yank the issue away from the Judiciary Committee.

And I am hopeful this time we will not only obtain the 218 signatures necessary to pull this issue from the committee, but the 327 affirmative votes necessary to approve a proposed Constitutional Amendment on the House Floor.

The American people have left no doubt about their desire for such an amendment.

Therefore, it is up to the Congress to act, and not let a small group of liberals on the Judiciary Committee bottle up the issue.

Venture Out News

BY WILLARD AUCH

We are sure glad to see so many of our seasonal friends arriving back in the parks. I am also glad for the assistance and take over in gathering the news by "The Pinch Hitters".

* * *

First the newly appointed Social Committee of Venture Harbour Indian River and St. Lucie has been busy planning activities for Venture dwellers. Events to make a note of are:

Bunco Party, Saturday, November 8th with cash prizes.

Thanksgiving Dinner on Nov. 27 - pot weekly pot luck dinners every Monday.

Cards and Art Classes. The Art Classes are still open and are held Tuesday afternoons and Thursday mornings.

Bingo is a wonderful way to get acquainted and is going strong with great attendance.

Committee members are Venture Harbour, Betty Drinkard, Edith Painter and Hazel Ramsay. Indian River, Lidia Mills, Mabel Cook and Louise Wyatt. St. Lucie, Jan DeBaker, Marge Owens and Lola Bunn. Mary Ellyn Meachum is [illegible] person.

Ambassadors Bill and Alice Nickau [illegible]. They returned last week, but [illegible] we missed out on it. They have just purchased into a new [illegible] that is on the golf course so [illegible] will be saving all their energy to improve their scores.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Jenkins from Knoxville are down for a short time to enjoy their new screen room and get everything fixed up for their winter stay. Aubrey brought so many items that he had to drive a truck down to haul it all.

* * *

Pete and Sylvia Lukowski also arrived this week to enjoy relaxing on their beautiful river front lot and to plan additional improvements to [illegible].

* * *

John and Louise Campbell from [illegible] Indiana was also out in force. John is busy outside doing [illegible] and Louise cleaning inside and trying to keep an eye on John. They really enjoy all of our [illegible].

* * *

The Wayne Barretts arrived two weeks ago. I looked around and they were gone. But are not back and we missed the reason for their absence was [illegible] Wayne is a charter member of the board of Copeland Oakes Retirement Home in Sebring and [illegible] here to attend the Home's first annual Foundation Day Banquet which was held November 6. Wayne was honored by the Home with a distinguished Service Award.

Dr. George W. Crane, who writes the "Worry Clinic" newspaper column was the key speaker. The [illegible] banquet was to help raise funds for the purchase of a wheel chair power lift. Wayne and LaRelle are the proud parents of three [illegible].

If I have missed anyone who is returning to the park, we apologize and are sure that, as soon as the Pinch Hitters get going, you will find this column more informative. We urge all to get into the swing and report all news and events of importance to us.

* * *

Guys and Gals - it has been suggested that people from our park go fishing on a drift boat. Great!

The boat is the "Lady Stuart", which is docked at the Sailfish Marina where you will find ample free parking.

We will board between 12:30 and 12:45 p.m. as the boat leaves promptly at 1 p.m. The date is Thursday, November 20. Cancellation will only be based on windy weather and high seas. Should this happen, the fishing trip will be postponed until a later date.

We will fish on the six mile reef about a half hour from the marina. All kinds of fish are ready to be caught.

Beer and snacks will be available on the boat or you may bring your own beer, sandwiches, etc. Don't forget a sweater or windbreaker as it sometimes gets breezy out there.

Please sign up at the V.O. rec hall on or before the 17th. The cruise is limited to 35 persons.

The committee consists of Betty and Paul Drinkard, Venture Harbour; Mary Ellyn Meechum, Millie and Bill Middleton, V.O. St. Lucie; Jinny and Gene Glaze, Indian River.

Rod, reel and bait are furnished free. Prizes will be given for the biggest, smallest and most fish caught.

* * *

Esther and Neil Owen, from Roanoke, Va., are visiting Millie and Bill Middleton. They are long time friends of the Middletons and are enjoying all the nice things here at Venture Out. Neil is several years away from retirement, and has definite plans of joining our happy family here at V.O.

The Owens and Middletons have vacationed together for the past 20 years in the Adirondacks' beautiful Lake George at Kittery Point in Maine and Cape Cod, Mass.

We know their stay here will be most pleasant as both enjoy our activities. Esther thinks the exercise classes in the rec hall and in the pool are super.

AND MORE V.O. NEWS
BY JACKIE PHILLIPS

So many people said how much they enjoyed Willard Auch's V.O. column these past months. He never let his busy schedule deter him from keeping us informed ... it was appreciated by all. Now he would like to have a sabbatical - hence the Pinch Hitters!

* * *

The Wayne Barretts made a flying trip home for a very special occasion. A dinner was given in Wayne's honor for he was instrumental in establishing the Methodist Retirement Home in Youngstown, Ohio some years ago. He has continued to give the Home a lot of time and energy, assuring its success for the past, present and future.

My, doesn't Wayne look healthy! The Heart Association should use him and Bob Owen as shining examples of the recuperative powers of the human body.

Speaking of Bob Owen, he and Marge are at it again - revamping their Park Model. They added a new carport and had beautiful new carpet laid throughout the trailer. I can't imagine what next, but there'll be something, you can bet on that.

Marge is on the newly formed recreation committee and has taken up oil painting. She says she's having a ball and can't believe what she has accomplished in art class after just one lesson. She also says that if she can do it, any one and urges more of us to join the class.

It was good to see the Greulings pull in on Wednesday, loaded with goodies from their garden which they shared with us lucky neighbors. Mate brought along her organ, too, so we expect to hear some lively tunes around here.

* * *

The frisky Fitzgeralds and friends, Kitty and Frank Dietrich, had a good time at the Elk's Club in Stuart Saturday night. The food and entertainment and dancing added up to a great night out. Red had joined the Elks in Ohio just before they returned to Venture Out.

* * *

We've had some very nice visitors on our finger from Leesburg, Florida. Jim and Pat Barnett. They have many friends in Holiday Out and make several trips to both Holiday Out and Venture Out during the winter. So, though their visit this time was short, we hope to see them again before too long.

* * *

Jake and Betty Davis invited Ginny and Bill Thompson, Al and Jackie Phillips on their lovely boat on Saturday. We all had a delicious lunch at the Manatee Marina. The weather was lovely, the company great. What a wonderful way to start the season!

V.O. INDIAN RIVER
BY MABEL COOK

The Terrys from northern Michigan arrived last week with a new concord for their second lot. They are working hard getting both trailers ship shape.

* * *

So glad to see George and Evelyn Sterling arrive Saturday. All you could see in the car was blooming potted plants. We think all they brought down was Evelyn's flowers, her square dance dress, and George's pool cue.

* * *

We welcome Frank and Gail Lawson who have purchased lot 842.

VENTURE HARBOUR NEWS
BY JERRIE SHAVER

Faye and Don Smith are here for a short time. Faye and her mother, Mrs. Withers, drove down a few days before Don and will stay a few days longer. Driving is too slow for Don, so he flies in when he can get a few days away from his business. Always good to have them, even if their stays are short.

* * *

Louise Shepard drove in with Sheila on Friday. She was delayed on her return because of illness in her family. Welcome, Louise.

Selma Velaro was one of the winners at bingo Wednesday night - the only winner from Venture Harbour.

Betty and Al Jones talked to Alice and Arthur Baumann who asked to be remembered to all. They are looking forward to being here in a few weeks.

* * *

I'm glad to comply with some requests and from now on will have a Happy Birthday with each week.

We missed Larry Atkin on November 4 - so belated greetings to you, Larry. Birthday wishes this week to Ron Ellis on November 15.

Larry and Hilda Atkin celebrated their 43rd wedding anniversary on October 29. Congratulations.

TNG–Mrs. Lois Philbrick enjoys visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward ...tz at the Beacon 21 party last Saturday night.

CHATS–Karen Hurley, a former "Miss Martin County," chats with a friend at the Beacon 21 party Nov. 8, marking the opening of the new clubhouse.

Guild's Christmas Boutique is this weekend

STUART–St. Joseph's Guild is holding its Christmas Boutique and Bake Sale this weekend, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, November 15, and from 9 to 1 p.m. on Sunday in the Parish Hall.

Guild members have been working all summer in preparation for the annual event. Featured will be an outstanding array of hand-crafted articles for children and adults.

All over chairmen of the affair are Betty Stuart, Calista Conrady and Grace Ryder.

Mary Gerner and Marion Kevern are in charge of the bake sale. They say all donations will be welcome.

Religious articles will be sold by Elsie Booth and Pat Green will be selling house plants.

Everyone is invited.

Rio Civic Club to elect

RIO–The Rio Civic Club will elect officers at a covered dish supper meeting this Thursday, Nov. 13, at 6 p.m.

At last week's card party, Susan Diener was a double winner, taking home a table prize and the door prize.

Other winners were Marge Hunting, Elsa Rhodant, Mary Stockwell, Jo Sutorius, Margie Pine, Homi Markus, Helen Smith, Dorothy Mercer and Lila Cunningham.

Hostesses for the event were Hazel Morris, Ann Jacobs, Edith Beck and Grace Lewis.

The next party is scheduled for Tuesday, November 18.

Action for Animals is A.B.C. topic

STUART–Action for Animals, a new state wide organization promoting animal welfare through legislation, will be discussed by Mrs. Clair Taibl Campbell at the monthly ABC meeting Thursday, November 13, 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart.

Reports will be presented on the spay neuter program and the Animal Attic Thrift Shop.

Visitors are welcome.

SMILES–Martin County Commissioner Ross Philbrick and his wife Lois enjoyed the Beacon 21 grand opening party at the new clubhouse last Saturday night.

Hospital Auxiliary dinner nets $2,400

JENSEN BEACH--The annual autumn dinner dance of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary netted $2,400 for the local auxiliary, Mrs. Frederic Schroeder said.

Mrs. Schroeder, chairman of the Auxiliary Ways and Means Committee, said the dinner dance "was a complete success" and thanked her committee.

The committee includes Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, Mrs. Les Combs, Mrs. Edward Nix and Fred Stein, Jr.

And the chairman thanked all the guests who were on hand at the Elks Club last Friday night to enjoy the steak dinner followed by dancing.

The event was opened with a welcome by Mrs. Roy Bishop, auxiliary president, and Guy Cromwell, hospital administrator, gave the invocation.

Many door prizes provided by local merchants made the evening more exciting for the lucky winners, and "we are very appreciative of the donations from the ones who were unable to attend the gala affair," Mrs. Schroeder said.

Huge corn stalks gathered by Stein from as far away as Clewiston greeted the guests at the front door and continued into the gala autumn decorations of the party room.

The next fund raising event will be a moonlight cruise which will be held in January.

SMILING--Smiling for the camera at the Martin Memorial Auxiliary annual autumn dinner-dance are Mr. and Mrs. John Schermerhorn.

VIGIL--Vice-mayor Frank Rose, center, spent a considerable amount of time last week keeping vigil over the work being done at Sportsman Park. Rose was instrumental in obtaining a loan of a bulldozer from the county for grading and clearing several acres of the park. Bob Morgan, left, was responsible for providing the heavy equipment operators, four off duty employees of the City of Fort Pierce. Don Mathis, one of the volunteer operators, is pictured in the background.

Commissioner Enns to address anglers

PORT ST. LUCIE--St. Lucie County Commissioner Edward G. Enns will be the featured speaker at next Tuesday's meeting of the Port St. Lucie Anglers' Club, program chairman Hughes Brininger announced this week.

Enns will talk about the county's efforts to establish new beach access areas, the county's new marina project, and other commission recreation efforts.

New officers will be elected at the meeting, which will be held at the Northport Marina on November 18.

An overflow crowd of about 100 persons enjoyed a fascinating film provided by the Shakespeare Company at last week's meeting.

Entitled "Big Mouth," the movie, filmed at Silver Springs, portrayed the life story of a large-mouth bass, their egg origin through growth, adjustment to the underwater habitat, and their battle with the angler. The photography was almost all underwater and the detail, color and human interest almost unbelievable, according to a spokesman for the club.

Lucie Lions announce fair date

PORT ST. LUCIE--The date and location of the Port St. Lucie Lions Club Fair was announced this week.

Saturday, November 22, is the date and the St. Lucie Plaza Shopping Center on U.S. 1 is the place.

Exhibition space is still available at $5 per unit. Clean re-salable items are acceptable and Lions will help in presenting items.

Exhibitors who need assistance in moving their offerings to the Fair may call for free pick up service. For space and pick up information, call Ed Gerth at 878-2705 or Dick Borgman, 878-3273.

The Fair is scheduled to open at 7 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. with the day's activities culminating in an auction at 3:30 p.m. at which time items not sold by exhibitors during the day will be put on the block with the help of Lions and an auctioneer.

Lucky Charms plan skit

BY MAGGIE BIGGE

At the regular monthly meeting of the Lucky Charms 4H Club, Maggie Bigge, chairman of the skit committee, reported on ideas for a skit that the club may enter at the County 4H Talent Show in February.

Tryouts will be held at 1 p.m. on November 15. Mrs. Larry (Theresa) Evans will judge the tryouts. The following members will be in charge of the skit: Vicki Ewing, music; Maggie, scenery; Tammy Batch, elder; props; and June Woodward, costumes.

During the business meeting, Erin Miller and Sonya Goins announced plans for a clothing project tour. The eight members taking a clothing project will meet at 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 20, to tour Nationwide Fabrics.

Monica Nilsson presided at the meeting. Members voted on the club constitution and goals for this year.

The program was presented by Maggie, who demonstrated "Super Frankly Supper," and Kathie Ewing, who talked on "4432 Formula."

Eleven members attended the meeting held at Maggie's home on November 6. The next meeting will be December 4 at the home of June Woodward.

GDC reports third quarter

PORT ST. LUCIE--General Development Corp. reported higher net income and earnings per share on lower total revenues for the third quarter ended September 30. Net income was $2.5 million, or $.27 per share, on revenues of $25.9 million. In 1974, net income was $2.1 million, or $.23 per share, on total revenues of $32.9 million.

Original CESA facility name 'The Kellstadt Room'

PORT ST. LUCIE--In an unprecedented move, the trustees and directors of the Port St. Lucie Community Center (CESA) voted at their meeting last week to name the original space constructed at the Center, "The Kellstadt Room" in memory of the late Charles J. Kellstadt.

Following the death of the former General Development Corporation Board Chairman several weeks ago, CESA directors had discussed possible memorials for Kellstadt. When new trustee Ed Klueppelberg, Jr. made the suggestion Friday, it was immediately adopted by the board.

"The Kellstadt Room is a most fitting memorial for this extraordinary man," says CESA President Dick Lundin. "for he and Fred Roach, GDC president, were the first to give us encouragement for the Community Center. They followed up their early support with the actual deeding of land on which the Center has been constructed and promised more when needed. Without their backing and assistance, the Center would never have become a reality."

CESA director Bob Seeley has been appointed to arrange a future dedication of the area.

Recreation board to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE--The city's newly appointed recreation committee will hold their first meeting Thursday evening at the Port St. Lucie City Hall, according to an announcement by vice-mayor Frank Rose.

The organizational meeting will commence at 7:30 p.m.

The six members appointed to the committee include Jean Andric, Esther Twinkle Bazan, Douglas Bernhardt, Jack T. Blair, Roxanne LaFache and Richard Schmidt.

An additional two members, to be designated by the Country Club Homeowners Association, are expected to be named Thursday evening.

All recommendations from the committee will be directed to Rose, who will in turn present them to the City Council.

Mrs Harris to address UMW

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mrs. Hazel Harris will be speaker for the day at a meeting of United Methodist Women (UMW) on Wednesday, November 10, in Goddard Hall, the fellowship center of the Port St. Lucie Methodist Church located on Prima Vista Boulevard.

All women of the church are invited to attend and are asked to bring any small appliance they could wish to donate.

Meeting time is 1 p.m.

Awards and officers for North Port ladies

PORT ST. LUCIE--Thirty members of the North Port St. Lucie Ladies Golf Association gathered at the Ramada Inn in Fort Pierce recently to elect officers and present awards at their first annual Tournament Awards Luncheon.

New officers are Irene Fields, president; Alice Sharp, vice president; Marge Foehr, secretary; treasurer; Virginia Leibert, Alys Scott and Dorothy Peterson, tournament chairwomen.

Builders Association Auxiliary to meet

STUART--The Treasure Coast Builders Association Womens Auxiliary will hold its monthly luncheon meeting on Wednesday, November 10, at the Ramada Inn, Stuart.

Luncheon will be served promptly at 12:30. The usual program will be dispensed with in order that the nominating board may present the slate of new officers to the members. All members will then be asked to vote on the slate and several other pertinent matters.

Annual dues will be accepted at that time.

Soroptimists will celebrate birthday

STUART– Soroptimist International of Stuart will become "of age" when members celebrate its 21st birthday November 21.

A dinner will be held at Bay Harbor Club at 7:30 p.m., according to plans announced by club president Betty Abbott. Reception will begin at 6:30.

Party theme will be "We've come a long way, maybe", tracing the history of the club as members are introduced with "brief hysterical moments" associated with the year they joined. Rosaleen Murray is to be mistress of ceremonies for the program.

This Stuart service club was organized in 1954 by business women throughout Martin County. Its first major project was the establishment of the House of Refuge as a historical county-owned museum. Many early special events were held at the club's birthday dinner site, then known as Sunrise Inn, including being host to an annual convention of the seven-state Southern Region.

Woman of the Year award will be presented by Janet Lavery, last year's recipient, to a Soroptimist who has been active both in club and community. Lillian Dasson charter president of the local club, will present silver charms to members with perfect attendance for the past year.

Guests will be welcomed by Catherine Walter, planning committee chairman. Helen Durkee, a former Southern Region Governor, will respond for guests. Betty Jane Williams, Southern Region secretary, will conduct a 21-candle salute, a traditional cake cutting ceremony. Both are members of Soroptimist International of the Palm Beaches. Invocation will be given by Jeanette Hamby, representing the Ft. Pierce club.

Former members of the Stuart club living in the area are invited to the dinner. Reservations for members and guests should be made by Nov. 18 with Mrs. Walter at 287-9290 or 334-2211.

Other committee members are Charlene Waxler, Elaine Orazi and Loretta Singer.

Delighted to see a picture of Fran Gehres in the Jensen Beach Mirror. Fran was winner of the First Flight of the North Port St. Lucie Ladies Golf Association Tournament played at the Holiday Country Club in Stuart. Congratulations, Fran!

The jackpot had to be split three ways last Tuesday, an unusual happening at the weekly Bingo game, but it added to the fun.

* * *

Edna May had a birthday Nov. 7th, and beside the gifts, cards and telephone calls she received, her sister-in-law Florence Williams and her husband Ralph, hosted a birthday lunch and a shopping trip in West Palm.

* * *

The Ritenours have as their guests, Hershel's niece, Beryl Reynolds and her husband William, of Youngstown, Ohio, who are here for their annual visit.

* * *

Mrs. Ritenour is happy that her brother Tom West and his wife Ruth, of Erie, Pennsylvania, have retired and purchased a mobile in a park close by.

* * *

There was a nice turnout of women for our first meeting of the Hobby Group Tuesday in the rec hall. Mona Arendt remains as president, Nettie Keefer accepted the job of vice president and Fran Gehres will continue as secretary. Mona and Fran were the hostesses and served delicious refreshments. Marie Johnson and I will be hostesses for the next meeting on Nov. 11th.

Plans for the coming year were discussed and it looks like some needed projects will be taken care of. Remember, all the women in our Park are welcome.

Minnie and Alan Fowler spent most of the summer at their home in Springfield, Mass., but took time to attend the weddings of several grandchildren, and to visit the Binns at their home near Montreal, Canada. Their Scotty, Angus has become a very sedate, well-mannered canine member of their family, and it was a pleasure to see all three of them.

* * *

The Penrods are busy clipping their hibiscus bushes that grew so rapidly while they were at their home in West Virginia; they couldn't open the canopies over their windows until the job was done.

* * *

Alice and Walter Reeder have just returned from a trip in their motor home to the "Road Atlanta at Gainesville, Georgia" track in Atlanta, so that Walter could participate in the S.C.C.A. "Sports Car of America" races. Their friend Bill Allen of Ackworth, Georgia, was one of the contestants and Walter was a member of his pit crew.

Each of the twenty-one classes raced for thirty minutes over the week-end, and the winners in each class received trophies. Bill Allen drove an E Production 356B Porsche.

Gem-mineral group plans annual meeting

WEST PALM BEACH–The Gem & Mineral Society of the Palm Beaches is happy to announce that their 9th Annual Show will be held at the West Palm Beach Auditorium, Nov. 29 and 30. After almost a decade The Gem and Mineral Show has become one of the landmark events opening the winter season in South Florida. This show has become known as the most beautiful and one of the best run shows in the Southeast. Hector Petretti, show chairman since the first show in 1967, promises another stellar event to cap the Thanksgiving holiday for 1975. The Tropical Orchid Society will mark their 6th year as creator of the show centerpiece of living gems; a beautiful display of orchids in a tropical setting that always evokes a rash of ahs and ahs.

This year there will be 27 retail dealers from the United States and overseas. Each dealer specializes in a particular facet of the gem or mineral hobby. Whatever your interest in earth sciences whether gems, fossils, minerals or micro mounts you will find it here.

Elmo and Louise Nolan will be on hand to demonstrate their colored sand paintings along with R.E. LoBuono who creates jewelry fashion in gold wire.

The small fry will not be forgotten either. This year there will be a mini-mine so the youngsters can dig for treasure stones. Alert all the moms to bring a sand shovel.

Another attraction is one of the dealers from the Australian Mining and Exploration Company. Mr. Ken Helfrand operates his own opal mine in the "outback" and brings fine opal rough and fine cut stones for your inspection. Of course, the wholesale room will be operating again with a wide assortment of jewelry awaiting your approval.

Country opry comes to Lyric

STUART—The sounds that fill the halls in Nashville, Tennessee, will fill Playhouse Lyric Saturday, November 15, at 8 p.m.

Providing that "Nashville Sound" will be the Florida Three and their special guests, the Evans Family.

An evening of real country music is promised, including Florida Three releases as well as some by favorite country artists.

Mostly on the rhythm guitar - Brenda on bass and Larry on lead or steel guitar are the Florida Three, Nashville recording artists with Sing Me Records.

The Evans Family is well-known locally, having made benefit, Tourist Club, church, radio and WTVX-TV appearances.

For reservations call 287-0888 or, after 5 p.m., 287-8110. Tickets are available at The Phoenix in Stuart and the Music Bin in Fort Pierce.

Playhouse Lyric is located at 216 Flagler Avenue, Stuart, and is a non-profit association for the purpose of advancing the arts in Martin County.

Area woman in 'Who's Who'

Sunday is 'FISH' day at Jensen Community Church

JENSEN BEACH—Sunday, November 16, is "FISH" day at the Jensen Beach Community Church. All persons attending services are asked to bring canned food for FISH, an all volunteer organization dedicated to providing help in emergency situations.

It is requested that all food donations be canned as glass and packages are difficult to store and distribute. Money donations will be gratefully received to be used to purchase bread and milk.

FISH is designed to help local citizens in time of emergency, providing transportation, companionship for the elderly or teenagers, baby sitting, translating, free meals or anything else that might come up in emergency situations.

The people who make up FISH are not professionals. They are housewives, retired couples, business executives, all kinds of people interested in spending time usefully.

The code name FISH does not stand for anything. When the idea for such an organization was conceived in England in the 1950's the fish was used as a symbol of Christian religion. A non-denominational branch in Connecticut was the first in the United States. It has spread throughout much of the country, but without religious ties.

FISH is now beginning a drive to recruit new members.

"We still need more volunteers, especially for the transportation department. We have only one volunteer in the Hobe Sound area so it is often necessary to send someone all the way from Jensen Beach to provide a ride for someone in Hobe Sound," a FISH spokesman said recently.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer or obtaining more information about FISH may call Martha VanGaasbeek at 287-6444.

Welcome Wagon meet Nov. 18th

JENSEN BEACH—Welcome Wagon North of Martin County will meet Tuesday, November 18th at the Tri County Rehabilitation Center on U.S. 1 South at 12 noon.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30, followed by guest speaker Mr. Foley, accompanied by his seeing eye dog.

Graduates and new residents of the area are invited to attend.

For reservations call Mary Nemath at 334-4531.

PLANS UNVEILED—Dick Rogers of the Brevard Engineering Company reported to the City Council on the extensive hydrological study performed by his firm, consultants for General Development Corporation, relative to GDC's plans for developing some 4,000 homesites bordering the Savannas

No impact on Savannas

East Port plans unveiled

PORT ST. LUCIE—A full barrage of General Development Corp officials were in Port St. Lucie Monday to unveil findings of extensive hydrological and drainage studies relative to the firm's proposed plan for the development of some 2,000 acres situated east of U.S. 1 and bordering the Savannas.

The development, according to Art Harper, GDC's vice president and corporate counsel, which will include approximately 4,000 home sites and provide an extensive drainage system designed to mimic the historic flow, will be completed in three phases.

Explaining GDC has contractual obligations to deliver buildable home sites, streets, water and drainage in the East Port St. Lucie area within the year, Harper added that although the plan presented is the basis for his firm's application for work permits, it is not fixed nor concrete at this point.

"From the time this area was platted and lots sold, many major changes have taken place in the state and federal environmental regulations," Harper said, adding GDC has gone to great lengths and untold expense to modify their plans and install such environmental controls as necessary to eliminate any impact on the Savannas.

"We want to be absolutely certain that what we do today will be acceptable tomorrow," he said.

Dick Rogers of Brevard Engineering Company, one of GDC's consultants for the hydrological study, told those attending the Monday special session his firm had looked over some 8,000 acres during the lengthy study.

As a result of that study, we have determined the effects of this development would not be felt by neighboring areas. If they were, they would be beneficial effects," Rogers said.

Pointing out that aerial photographs indicate the Savannas are drying up, Rogers said that, with the present plan, there is a potential for improving the condition by managing the water delivery to the Savannas.

The area GDC proposes to develop is separated from the Savannas, according to Rogers, by a pine land ridge, which will provide a tremendous buffer. To the east, the Savannas wetlands are bordered by a high sand ridge and the Florida East Coast Railroad.

Ed Clark, assistant vice president of GDC's engineering staff, said the plans call for rain canal systems through the development. Lots facing the canals would be graded toward the streets assuring rain water runoff would flow into a system of swales, thus avoiding direct runoff into the canals.

Three pumping stations would be installed to control the water level in the canals. During dry periods, this water could be diverted to the Savannas, Clark said.

"GDC is the largest single property owner in the Savannas.

In closing the presentation, Harper told his listeners the purpose of this meeting was to make everyone aware of what GDC has proposed for the area and the studies which are continually being conducted. According to Harper, many other such meetings will be scheduled to review the studies before GDC seeks construction permits from state and federal agencies, which include Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, the Department of Natural Resources, and others.

Attending the special meeting were several officials from St. Lucie County, including Commissioners Willie McLain, John Park and Eddie Enos.

Condo project gets approval

PORT ST. LUCIE—Although the developer is uncertain as to whether or not construction will start this year, the City Council did approve the preliminary site plans for the proposed multi-family dwellings to be constructed on a 21 acre tract adjoining Pruitt Road on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

The T. Spencer Crowley, Jack Limbeck multi-family project was the first condominium to receive the green light from Port St. Lucie officials.

A word of warning was issued at the same time however, when Mayor Schuyler Sharpe told the developer the City of Port St. Lucie has no intention of widening a road if/when just because he wants to build a condominium.

Limbeck said the project plans call for a de-acceleration and acceleration lane, which will be installed by the developer.

Also a traffic study was tentatively agreed to by both Crowley and Limbeck.

It was also suggested by the Council that the developer secure more recent information from General Development Corporation regarding the water commitment.

"It is my understanding there has been no further correspondence on this particular matter since 1974. I would suggest you get with them before you find yourself with a condominium and no water or sewer system," the mayor said.

At the request of the Planning and Zoning Board, the developer has agreed to a 55 to 70 foot minimum setback from the river.

The three story, six building complex will house 240 2 bedrooms, designed to sell in the $60,000 to $80,000 bracket.

The height of the project will not exceed thirty five feet from top of the grade including the underground parking, with a density of 11.4 units per acre.

Plans indicate a clubhouse will be constructed which would contain a model apartment that would later be converted to additional clubhouse use.

The proposed project received the approval of the city's Planning and Zoning Board several weeks ago.

CESA nets $1007

PORT ST. LUCIE—As a result of last week's successful White Elephant sale, the CESA Community Center finds its operations fund $1007 richer.

The combined efforts of a large number of local clubs including the Beautiful Waters Homemakers Club, the Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club, the Riverettes, the Yacht Club, the Gab 'n Eatas, the Rio Linda Garden Club, the Stamp Club, the Anglers Club and all the interested citizens who donated treasures to the sale helped to make the event a smash, according to Mrs. Herbert S. Bowen, chairman.

PORT ST. LUCIE—Vic Dunaway, nationally famed fishing expert, author and director of the South Florida Metropolitan Fishing Tournament, will hold two free special fishing clinics next week, at the Florida Institute of Technology.

Scott Fletcher and Johnny Crawford, Martin County co-representatives of the "Met", emphasized that on Wednesday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m. the clinic will be held for the general public. Members of all Martin County families and their children interested in fishing are invited to attend.

On Thursday, November 20, at 7:30 p.m. the clinic will be limited to all members of Martin County fishing clubs, their spouses, guests and all interested children.

Fletcher and Crawford explained that these are the first public clinics of their kind ever held in Martin County. The reason is because this year, for the first time in the history of this oldest and best-known public fishing contest in the nation, has included Martin County and Lake Okeechobee within its fishing boundaries.

The Met, which runs from December 15, 1975, to mid-April, 1976, is open to anyone. No entry fee required.

The Dunaway program will be divided into three parts. 1. A brief slide show of Met highlights. 2. A clinic dealing with spin fishing and also rod handling. 3. Questions and answers by Vic on any aspect of fishing in salt, or fresh water.

At the clinic you will receive a free printed copy of the rules which also explain the four general divisions, the three casting divisions, spinning, plug casting and fly casting.

Resident and visiting anglers will be able to chase a total of 272 championship plaques and trophies. In addition, the Met awards thousands of free, personalized certificates, each with a new-or jacket emblem, for entries of exceptional fish and for releases of game fish.

Scott Fletcher and Johnny Crawford said, we urge every person interested in fishing to come and get the full story from Vic Dunaway. This could prove to be the most worthwhile fishing clinic you have ever attended.

Gala Bicentennial dinner scheduled

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Port St. Lucie Bicentennial Committee has announced plans for a gala red, white and blue Candelight Ball January 10, 1976 at Sandpiper Bay to celebrate the nation's 200th Anniversary.

There will be separate tables for each of the 50 states, according to the announcement, and a highlight of the evening will be the cutting of a giant-sized birthday cake in honor of the occasion.

Tickets are limited to 400 and will be sold for the event. Persons ordering early may select the state table of their choice on a first-come first-served basis.

A six-course gourmet dinner, prepared especially for the occasion by Sandpiper Bay's chef, will be served along with wines with the different courses. Music for dining and dancing will continue throughout the evening.

The dinner committee for the Candlelight Ball consists of Russell Wall, Mrs. William McChesney, Lt. Col. Horace Cole, Mahlon Cline and Mrs. John E. Fradd, Chairman.

Tickets may be ordered by calling Mrs. Fradd at 334-4842.

Finance committee to meet Monday

PORT ST. LUCIE—The next meeting of the city finance committee will be held November 17 at 2 p.m. according to Council woman Lolita Kernohan, city treasurer.

City officials are re-appointed

PORT ST. LUCIE—Even though Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and Vice Mayor Frank Rose and City Treasurer Lolita Kernohan have held their respective offices since April 7, it was Monday before the appointments were officially made.

According to Alfred J. Horowitz, assistance city attorney, the appointments originally made at the April 7 re-organizational meeting were approved by a motion.

"These appointments should have been made by resolution," Horowitz said.

To clear up the matter, the council adopted the resolution re-appointing the mayor and vice-mayor retroactive to April 7 by unanimous vote.

The re-appointment of Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan as city treasurer was adopted by a four one vote.

Councilman Larry Kimmel cast the dissenting vote, maintaining the appointment is illegal under the Florida Statutes and in the attorney general's opinion.

Christmas Bazaar is Sunday

PORT ST. LUCIE—A Christmas Fantasy Bazaar sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Homemakers, is set for Sunday, November 16, at the Port St. Lucie Marina.

Committee chairmen for the all-day affair have been announced.

Boutique chairman Ann Borna will have all hand-crafted items on display in her booth. These articles were all made in the club's weekly workshop sessions.

Mrs. Larry Goring, refreshment chairman, will serve refreshments from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Elio Costa is in charge of the always popular "General Store" which will offer many old and new items.

Mrs. William Campbell, bake shop chairman, will have home made goodies in her booth.

A highlight of the bazaar will be the drawing for a Bicentennial Afghan, proceeds from which will be donated to the Lucky Charms 4H Club of Port St. Lucie.

Mrs. Elsie Silpert and Mrs. Ernest Pink are in charge of drawings and door prizes. Drawings will take place at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Charles Conrad is general chairman of the Christmas Fantasy. Profits from the event will be donated to various charitable projects.

FRIENDLY CHAT—Tom Kindred, head of the St. Lucie County Recreation Department, and Port St. Lucie Vice-mayor Frank Rose get together after the Special Council meeting Monday for a friendly chat. Kindred, along with several other St. Lucie County officials, attended the Monday meeting to review the plans submitted by GDC officials pertaining to their holdings in the Savannas.

Isaacs hold pen

Purchase hassle continues

JENSEN BEACH--The Executive Plaza hassle continues.

Martin County Circuit Court Clerk Mrs. Louise Isaacs once again refuses to sign a check for the lease-purchase of the building.

And former Martin County Commission Chairman Frank A. Wacha, who represented the Jensen Beach area for 12 years, once again questions the purchase and asks "why" to a couple of reasons commissioners have given for the lease-purchase.

Mrs. Isaacs said last Friday that she has been advised again by her attorney not to sign a $227,700 check for the first payment on the Executive Plaza.

She said that Attorney Tom Warner advised there are doubts which must be clarified.

A written opinion on the issue will be given to Mrs. Isaacs later this week.

After voding the first pact, County Commissioners negotiated a new one which the County Attorney said corrected the defects.

Mrs. Isaacs said her attorney still questions the amount of interest being paid by the county in the purchase.

The first agreement payment of eight per cent interest had been approved which is higher than the 7.5 per cent limit on county purchases.

The second agreement was designed to meet the 7.5 per cent limit.

Meanwhile, Wacha sent a letter to The Mirror which stated, in part:

"One commissioner gives as a reason for favoring the purchase that no alternatives were given. Another commissioner gives as a reason a critical need for space. To both reasons we must again ask, why?"

Wacha went on to point out:

"The county has on file plans for a Justice Building, planned to be built to the east of the jail. The building was to house complete court facilities, offices for the circuit judge and other court facilities.

"Bids on the construction of the proposed Justice Building were received on 12-19-72. The bids came in a little higher than the amount budged, and even though the federal government was to pay about 40 per cent of the building costs, the board voted down all bids, and has done nothing in the way of planning for the 1972 recognized needs since that date."

Building permits for island condos

JENSEN BEACH--The Hutchinson Island developers may get building permits, but they must be willing to install water storage tanks on their projects or to join to build a million-gallon storage tank to serve the entire island, county officials said.

The developers have until Dec. 31 to acquire permits, but they must be able to demonstrate residential and fire protection.

A building moratorium was imposed by Martin County Commission last summer because of low water pressure, but have agreed to ease the moratorium.

The moratorium was imposed while officials studied the Southern Gulf Utilities, Inc. system that serves the island.

County Engineer Ken Ferrari, conducting the study, recommended building permits for Ocean View, Hutchinson House West and New Port Jensen, with the stipulation the developers agree to construct storage tanks before certificates of occupancy are drawn. The permits would allow 267 more units on the island for a total 1,158 units developed or under construction.

The engineer recommended that Ocean View and New Port Jensen each have 200,000 gallon storage tanks and Hutchinson House West have a 140,000 gallon tank to ensure sufficient water to fight fires.

Firefighting tests on the island several days ago proved that the island water pressure is inadequate to fight fires.

Ferrari reported that when two fire trucks pumped at the same time from hydrants at island condominiums about two miles apart, one of the hoses went limp.

He said that the trucks were only pumping about 300 gallons a minute which is below the 500 gallons per minute needed to pump in fighting fires.

The building moratorium will be reimposed Jan. 1 until a comprehensive study of the Southern Gulf Utilities system is completed and improvements can be made according to the engineer.

Uncle Sam, Betsy Ross contest winners

JENSEN BEACH--Winners in the Bicentennial Celebration Committee's "Mr. Uncle Sam" and "Miss Betsy Ross" contest were announced Monday by the Selection Committee.

Gregory Bruce Beattie, Blanchard won the "Mr. Uncle Sam" title and Becky Blackford winning first place in the "Miss Betsy Ross" competition.

Their winning essays were on "The Lantern in the North Church Tower."

Beattie is the 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J.J. Blanchard of Gator Trail, Palm City Farms and is a seventh grade student at Stuart Middle School.

He is a veteran essay contest winner winning the local DAR contest twice, the first one when a fourth grade student.

Miss Blackford, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Blackford 28 N. Shore Road, Stuart, and is a student at Martin County High School.

Members of the Selection Committee gathered at the two schools to tell the students that they had written winning essays.

The committee is composed of Father Frank Alvarez, chairman, John Clyde, assistant principal at Jensen Beach Elementary School, Mrs. Virginia Ray a member of the high school English Department, and Mrs. Martha Moore, owner of Lord and Lady Shop in Jensen Beach.

The winners will receive $25 Saving Bonds donated by Mrs. Virginia VanBrett, owner of Joan's Beauty Salon in Jensen Beach.

Over one-third collected in Community Fund drive

JENSEN BEACH--Community Fund workers reported reaching the one-third mark as the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund moved toward the $18,000 goal this week according to LaVaughn Tilton, president.

Over $6,500 was reported received or pledged in the drive, as workers went door to-door seeking donations, and the committee sent letters to areas that cannot have door to-door drives.

Mrs. Tilton reported that a new area captain, Mrs. Wilbur Herzig, 435 South Indian River Drive, has agreed to handle Area 14, covering from Commercial Street to the county line, east of the F.E.C. Railroad tracks.

Jack Cargill, FIT area captain, reported that the college has set up a campaign that would handle employee payroll deductions with the first solicitation check being turned in to the fund on December 15.

Cargill said that the drive would cover faculty, staff and students.

A new drive thermometer was installedon Jensen Hardware at the foot of Commercial Street to keep residents informed of the progress of the drive.

Also, a gift of $500 from Ocean Breeze Park was announced by Gene Hoke, mayor of the town.

Some of the gifts announced thus far include $2,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude, $1,000 from Ransom, Randy and Ren Tilton, $100 gifts from Arthur Hansen, Si Minton, Church C. Norris, Tilton, Alvin and Doris Rupp, and American Legion Post 128 and $50 from the Crow's Nest Restaurant, Lord and Lady Dress Shop, Mirror Newspapers and Tuff Kote of Martin County.

Persons can mail donations to the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund, P.O. Box 134, Jensen Beach, Florida 33457.

Boat show on causeway

JENSEN BEACH--Over half the show space is already sold out to the major marine businesses for the second annual M.I.T. Boat Show on Jensen Beach Causeway, December 5-7, according to Herman Reitz, chairman.

Pancake Day

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Lions Club will hold their annual Pancake Day Sunday, December 7, at Langford Park beginning at 8:30 a.m.

PROGRESS--Residents of Jensen Beach and Rio will be able to watch the progress of the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund drive as it seeks the $18,000 goal with this new drive thermometer. LaVaughn Tilton, president of the drive, paints the $6,000 raised thus far on the thermometer. It is located on the south end of Jensen Hardware, at the foot of Commercial Street, and was donated by City Sign and Porter Lumber.

PTA meet Thursday

JENSEN BEACH—The Elementary PTA will meet Thursday, Nov. at 7:30 p.m. with babysitters provided.

Mrs. Miller, the Guidance Counselor, will present a film on report card grading, followed by oral discussion.

A reminder—please save your Campbell's Soup & Pork and Bean labels for Phys Ed equipment. These may be deposited in a barrel at the school or at the local grocery stores.

We wish to thank all the parents, teachers and friends who worked so hard to make our carnival a great success.

For the second year in a row we have reached our 100 percent membership goal. The Kindergarten class won with the highest percentage.

Early learning

"A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS"—opens at The Barn Theatre beginning December 5, with performances on the 6 and 7, 12, 13, 14, and 19, 20, 21. The play celebrates Sir Thomas More who was Chancellor of England in 1532 when Henry VIII broke with the Pope over the divorce of his first wife, Catherine of Aragon. Above, Lady Margaret More (Karen Wood) is talking with Sir Thomas, played by Richard Franklin. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m. Photo by R. Conant.

Wind change benefits surf anglers

JENSEN BEACH—Although it brought some record low temperatures throughout the state, the wind change from northeast to northwest had benefits for local surf fishermen.

According to the Snook Nook report for the past week, blues and some snook and whiting were back in the surf.

Eric Greene had 6 blues. Al Wise 26 blues and teamed up with Mrs. Wise for 10 blues. Joe and Irene Pinder, 15 blues and a mackerel. Pete Peterson, 14 blues, and with Stan Lippincott, 16 blues.

John Minaya used a spoon to catch 6 blues. John Servin had 19 blues. Earl Sheehy, 19 blues. Fred Hogmann, 13 blues to 2 pounds. Rick Serpas and Jessee Cash, 26 blues. Mr. Southerland, 5 blues.

Walter Lindell caught a 14½-lb. snook on a Krocodile Lure. Byers and Cooney, 16 sheepshead, 2 snook and a trout and Dutch White, 3 trout, one snook and a mackerel.

John Master had a 7-lb. snook. Carl Sutton one trout and one snook. Steve Steele, 4 trout and a mackerel. Karl Clouse, 5 trout and 2 snook released.

Fred Apfelbeck had 6 sheepshead, one weighing in at 4½ pounds. Bob Carruthers, 2 trout and a channel bass. Ray Moore, 2 trout. Jack Myers, 4 snook, one barracuda and a trout. Ira Foster, one trout, and Gideon and Della Fetterolaf and Mervin and Carol Fagg caught 18 blues and 10 whiting, using cut bait.

Russ Bolton, Ed Charles and Dr. Fassler used plugs and shrimp to take a snook, 3 snapper and 3 jacks fishing the South Fork.

Walt Sund and Wes Nichols fishing in the St. Lucie Inlet on the "Cherie", had 6 channel bass and a tiger.

Cassandra D. Brown tried the Park and Fish area off Stuart and landed a 5½' sailfish on a sea witch.

New sanctuary to be dedicated Sunday

STUART—The public is invited to share the joy of dedication of the new sanctuary of the First United Presbyterian Church on Pine Lake Drive in North River Shores Sunday, November 23, at 11 a.m.

The church first met in 1925 in the high school auditorium which is now the Instructional Center. They subsequently met in the old Women's Club building at 210 S. Albany Ave., Woodman's Hall, the Chapel at 312 Osceola St., the Lyric Theatre, the Sanctuary on Osceola Street, the old First Methodist Church, and the Fellowship Hall, which is adjacent to the new sanctuary. Dedication of the new sanctuary marks the end of a 50 year odyssey in search of a fitting home in which the Presbyterians of this area might worship and glorify God.

It is truly a beautiful structure with a seating capacity of 500 including the choir lofts. Two magnificent stained glass windows, one in the chancel and one at the narthex, create an atmosphere of reverence. The chancel window rising some 32 feet high is an abstract design depicting the resurrection with a sunburst falling onto the chancel cross. This window is dedicated to the Rev. Robert J. Harman, pastor of the church from 1968 until 1974. The Narthex window is a more formal design. It is 44 feet tall and is dedicated to the Rev. Malcolm Harris, pastor of the church from 1958 to 1968.

The Chancel cross stands 16 feet tall with a 7 foot width at the arms.

With the new sanctuary, there has been an enlarging and refurbishing of the Sunday School rooms and Fellowship Hall. A new library-conference room has been created and a larger and more modern kitchen. Adjacent to the sanctuary is the annex which houses the choir room, offices and restrooms.

The new Allen Digital Computer Organ is one of the finest in the area. It is a two manual, five speaker organ with custom designed antophonal speakers. There will be a special free organ recital by the noted organist Wayne E. Belton at 4 p.m. on the afternoon of the dedication. The public is invited.

The Rev. Dr. Carl K. Pollhein will preach the dedication sermon and recognize those responsible for the building the architect, Lopez Frank Vann of Miami; Wendell Orr of Stuart, associate architect; Contractor, Richard Jacobs Construction Co. of Rock's Point; Superintendent of construction, Joseph Herzog. Members of Presbytery, and the members of the Building Committee: Kenneth Knowles, chairman; Robert Tatje, Kenneth Larson, Grace Peters, Tilla Jo Mauger, Fred Preston, Robert Hussell, T.H. Thompson, Janie Zorn, Robert Fenton and Elmer Brown.

A reception will follow the service with Mrs. Charles Hall, Mrs. Robert Tatje and Mrs. Harry Scott serving. Everyone is invited to inspect the new church after the service.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—Joe and Margaret Forsberg of Rio celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary Wednesday, November 10th. Married in New York City, they moved to Rio in 1969. Forsberg is a veteran of World War I, U.S. Army, and Mrs. Forsberg is a veteran of World War II, U.S. Marines. Their son Robert was in the Navy during World War II and grandson Jeffery is a sgt. in the U.S. Army.

Postal stamp messages

JENSEN BEACH—A little-known by-product of U.S. commemorative stamps is their social impact, Jensen Beach Postmaster Harold Saltzer said today.

According to Saltzer, each carefully researched commemorative stamp issued broadcasts about 100 million concise, constant and public reminders to Americans about the world around them.

In March 1971, a public service commemorative was issued bearing the words, "Giving Blood Saves Lives." Saltzer pointed out that, according to the American Association of Blood Banks, the stamp produced enough blood donors to replenish nationwide blood bank shortages for six months.

In the past years, the Postal Service has used the stamp's purpose to stamp to get messages across on various public service projects.

Stamps have urged Americans to preserve the environment (1974), give to help retarded children (1974). These two issues are still available at local post offices at the end of stamps of the entire year's commemorative issues. The year's issues are brought together as a convenience to customers who want to save these bits of history.

Stamp fans learn more from mail delivery services, is graphically demonstrated by U.S. tourists leaving the Swiss Inn, the world's smallest one-room of stamp collecting.

What we don't need

WASHINGTON--The American people are fed up with big government and huge budgets and politicians all across the nation are getting the message.

In Colorado, the Democratic governor, Richard Lamm, has publicly warned of an "economic Dunkirk" unless sanity is restored to federal spending processes. In Wisconsin, Democratic governor Patrick Lucey proclaimed, "We are beginning to recognize that there are limits to what government can and should do."

Here in Washington, Senator Edmund Muskie has gotten the message too, thanks no doubt to knowledge he is gaining as chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. In a recent speech, he challenged liberals to do something about a government so big, so complex, so expensive and unresponsive that it is dragging down every good program we've worked for.

Unfortunately, however, the message has yet to reach all of the Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee. The majority of the Democrats, including the chairman, scoffed and jeered when President Ford proposed a $28 billion tax cut in the fiscal 1977 federal budget can be cut a like amount.

Instead these Ways and Means Democrats want to give the already tax-burdened American people a smaller tax cut, but without a corresponding cut in federal spending. This will mean more fuel for the fires of inflation, mean more deficit spending and therefore mean a reduction in the purchasing power of those few dollars left after we pay our federal, state and local taxes.

More deficit spending is not what this country needs. We are already too deeply in debt, and we are getting deeper and deeper in the hole every day. In just two years, the national debt has increased by a mind-boggling $113 billion, to a point where it approaches the $800 billion level.

In the not too distant future, we will be able to proclaim - I hope, not too proudly - that we have increased the national debt by 50 per cent in just five years.

Unfortunately, going that far into hock means we must pay interest on the money we owe. And right now, we are paying $100 million a day in interest.

$100 million a day, that's $4,160,000 an hour, or $80,000 a minute.

And that is an interest rate which makes virtually bankrupt New York City look solvent.

It was running a government in just the same manner which brought New York City to the fix it is in now. And, anyone who doesn't believe a nation can get itself into the same mess needs only to look at Great Britain.

Welfare - everything for everyone for no cost - has brought that nation to the verge of chaos. Government takes up 60 per cent of Britain's gross national product, more than twice the level here. And, as a result, the British are unable to either cut inflation or halt recession.

Fortunately, we are not quite so far down the road to economic disaster that we can't pull out. But if we are going to pull out, it will take a determined effort by everyone - including the Ways and Means Committee.

It may take a lot of pressure from the folks back home. But, hopefully, the Congress will get that pressure during the upcoming Thanksgiving recess.

If they do, then we will be able to add one more blessing to our list of things for which we are thankful.

Fair Time

JENSEN BEACH--Fall is Fair Time at Jensen Beach Community Church. This year's Fair will be presented on Saturday, November 29, with the doors to the Fellowship Hall opening at 11 a.m.

Coffee and donuts will be served from 11 a.m., luncheon from 12 noon, and a pancake supper starting at 4 p.m.

Food plants, Christmas gifts, cards and decorations, Elegante Jungle - all will be available for viewing and buying throughout the day.

Beautiful Bicentennial jewelry will be a special feature, great for gifts or mementos of the U.S.A.'s 200th birthday.

The Jensen Beach Community Church Fair always offers fantastic foods, including salads, baked beans, preserves as well as the ever popular home made baked goods.

On hand to wash automobiles while their owners are enjoying the fair will be members of the Youth Group. They do a complete job inside and out.

The Jensen Beach Community Church is located on north Skyline Drive. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Inside "History of Martin County"

I offered the railroad $200 in cash and all the land they required if they would give us a railroad dock and depot on this side. They accepted the land and built the dock.

This was the offer Walter Kitching gave Henry Flagler in 1894 to entice the railroad builder to lay his tracks across the St. Lucie River to Potsdam, the tiny community which today is called Stuart. They were different times and different people, but the life they carved with ingenuity and the pioneer spirit comes to us rich in the stories and legends related to us by their offspring.

In spite of snakes, wild turkeys, Indians, bears, deer, masses of mosquitoes, millions of sand flies, no roads, no bridges, no schools, there was marvelous soil along beautiful waterways, stupendous fishing, and the prospect of becoming an overnight millionaire citrus grower.

Their adventures, trials and successes are now recorded in detail in the "History of Martin County," the newly published record of the story of the building of a county published by the Martin County Historical Society.

When the first train of the Florida East Coast Railway rumbled across the wooden trestle that spanned the St. Lucie River May 1, 1894, the residents and business people alike realized that this was the dawn of a new era -- that before them lay a new way of life. Some felt that the end of paradise was at hand with the prospective opening of the area for freight and passengers -- gone would be the quiet, self-contained neighborly region. Others saw the advent of the railway as an answer to their financial prayers; still others saw it as an opportunity for a professional life (lawyers, doctors, dentists, the clergy), where before there had been very limited need.

The first train wrote finis to frontier and pioneer life on the east coast of southern Florida. With regular schedules, the great northern and western markets were open and accessible by mail and trading with the settlers.

Be sure and purchase your copy of the "History of Martin County" from the Martin County Historical Society located in the Elliott Museum. You'll want to own this handsome hard bound First Edition containing 544 pages and 200 photographs. $12.50, 4% sales tax included.

Pinelake Village Tattler

BY MARY GRAU

Coming up this Saturday, November 20, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., we are having our first Pinelake Village Fair. There will be tables of all kinds of crafts, jewelry, plants and planters, macrame, paintings and baked goods.

It's a good place to buy hand made articles for birthday or Christmas gifts. There will be something for everyone. Come and see for yourself.

If anyone wishes to display and sell products at the fair, tables are available for a nominal sum. Your proceeds will be your own, of course.

There will be plenty of food, too.

Florence Compton was the winner at bingo last week.

+ + +

Pill pool winner on Thursday night was Al Seccia.

Don't forget shuffleboard starts Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 and there is a game on Friday afternoon at 1:30.

This is your last chance to join the square dancing group on Thursday night at 7:30. After that it will be closed.

It is a great deal of fun and very good exercise. Outsiders are welcome. If interested, call Sharon Tilton, 334-1414, or Barney Means, 334-7028.

Bunko and poker players, take notice. There will be no bunko or poker this coming Friday, November 21, because the tables will be set up with the articles for the fair.

+ + +

Sue and Jack Mays spent the weekend at Key West with friends.

Lucille and Nick Maxim entertained Nick's sister, Helen Mytray from San Diego, for the past week. Ronny and Renee Maxim and children also visited them this past weekend.

Leo and Vi O'Neil have just returned from a visit to the Keys and the Everglades. They also spent some time with friends in Ft. Lauderdale on the way back.

+ + +

Bill Duren's brother Dutch, from Osage Beach, Missouri, is back in the park with the Durens again.

+ + +

I entertained my good friend Lampi Grims from Hicksville, Long Island, New York, and Florence Koblentz from Lake, Florida, recently. Florence and Lampi are life long friends.

+ + +

Don't forget the Fair is Saturday!!!

Club gets tips on color planning

JENSEN BEACH--Barbara Capan, a resident of Sewall's Point, kept the Garden Club spellbound on Monday, Nov. 10 when she talked on "Arranging Plants in the Landscape". She taught the members how to work with color planning in a garden, how to frame with open spacing and how to get privacy through planting. She gave the members a fresh, new look on making landscaping individual and beautiful. Miss Capen is formerly of Bellport, New York where she was a landscape architect for various schools and churches, as well as the Westbury Gardens on Long Island. She has written for the Sunday Gardening Section of the New York Times and other publications.

The welcoming hostesses were Mrs. Carl E. Schaefer and Mrs. J.C. Cress. Mrs. Roger Schneider welcomed 8 new members. Mrs. Juanita Edwards, Mrs. John B. Nairn, Mrs. Marjorie Eldridge Smith, Mrs. Hubert Yelton, Mrs. Henry Langheinz, Mrs. Robert G. Mack, Mrs. Paul Wilkins and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

Mrs. Dan H. Cross spoke on "Use of Garden Material for Decoration" and demonstrated the use of dried palms and ferns and pine cones in decorative arrangements, as well as the making of hats and mats with palm.

The tea hostesses were Mrs. John C. Curran, Mrs. John Clemens, Mrs. Lewis Altshul, Mrs. Harry Sp[illegible], Mrs. Henry Bockstrom and Mrs. W.R. Bryant.

The Garden Club of Stuart, a member of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs, is well into an exciting and involved year under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Edward Neill.

'Star Spangled Christmas' is parade theme

STUART--In keeping with the Bicentennial celebration, the theme of the annual Christmas parade sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Stuart is "Star Spangled Christmas".

Clubs, businesses, civic organizations and churches are urged to enter the parade which already includes bands, marching units, floats, cars, storybook characters and horses. Entry blanks are available by calling Sally Vollmer at 283-4922.

This year there will be a new trophy for the best civic organization entry.

The club needs a flatbed trailer for its Santa Claus float. Anyone who has one is asked to call 283-4922.

Saturday, December 18 at 6 p.m. is the day and time for the colorful event which annually kicks off the holiday season in Martin County.

Club to tour girl's ranch

STUART--Members of the Woman's Club of Stuart will conduct a bus tour on November 24 to the Hacienda Girls Ranch in Melbourne, Fla. The Ranch is sponsored by the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. This home is the first of ten they hope to build in Melbourne. It has been named the Katie Pratt Building in honor of the president of the Federation who was presiding at the time the building was completed. Plans are under way for the start of the second building and they will be breaking ground shortly.

The Stuart Club has contributed $300 this year toward the maintenance of the home and, in addition, the members have worked hard knitting colorful decorative pillows for the girls' rooms. These will be presented to them on the 24th. Mrs. Adele Johnson is chairman of the Hacienda project.

Census favorable

Population boosted by 1200

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–Although the recent census figure was not all the City Fathers had hoped for, the preliminary total indicated a population of 3,921 in the south county community.

This reflects an increase of approximately 1200 residents which Elmer Cox, city administrator, considers to be favorable for the city.

"Since the City of Port St. Lucie derives approximately one half of its annual budget from ad valorum taxes, the new figures will be most useful and important," he said, pointing out that for the past two years the city's revenue sharing has been predicated on a population count of 2,600.

The city will have until December 8, 1975, to make its position known to the Bureau of Census as to whether or not the figure is considered to be fair and equitable.

"Should we discover any new evidence of additional count, we are to report these findings to the Bureau of Census on or before the December deadline," Cox said Tuesday afternoon.

Cox praised Mrs. Pat Dugan, who represented the Regional Office of the Bureau of Census in Atlanta, for the splendid job.

"Her enumerators worked very hard and she checked and double-checked all reports and findings before reporting the preliminary 3,921 count," the administrator said.

According to Mrs. Dugan, the city of Port St. Lucie has a lot of snow birds, those persons who rent or own homes here but do not spend six months of the year residing in the area.

Such persons cannot be considered permanent residents.

"The city officials have been concerned about the accuracy of their people count for some time. We have had only an unofficial figure furnished us by Florida Power & Light, Southern Bell Telephone, St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department and the U.S. Postal Service which estimated the population of the city to be approximately 6,000," Cox said.

That figure could only be true with respect to including the permanent residents and the so-called snow birds, Cox explained.

Cox also pointed out that, despite Mrs. Dugan's access to official figures at the Atlanta Regional Office and the top levels of Washington, the city's 1970 census total was only 330 as of April, 1970, compared to the 3921 count of today.

Although Cox said the 1200 increase in population should have a salutary effect on the city's revenue sharing, he added there are two other factors involved in the formula.

"We have also to demonstrate our tax effort," Cox said, adding he thought the record in that area is pretty good.

The City generated a little more than $309,000 in ad valorum taxes for the fiscal year of 1975-76.

The third factor to be included in the per capita income which Cox said is difficult to determine because there are no yard sticks, either official or otherwise.

The Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Chamber of Commerce recently reported the per capita income as being $10,800, a figure Cox could not consider as fair.

"I think the census was very useful and important even though it did not reach the figure we had anticipated of at least 5,000. We know now exactly where we stand," Cox said.

GOP has clout

PORT ST. LUCIE–More than 19,500 Democrats are registered in St. Lucie County, compared to about 8,300 Republicans, but in the Port St. Lucie area, members of the Grand Old Party (GOP) have the clout.

In four precincts in the southern part of the county–Port St. Lucie Marina, Spanish Lakes, Port St. Lucie City Hall and CESA building, 2,643 Republicans are registered compared to 2,269 Democrats.

St. Lucie County Supervisor of Elections, James Brooks released the latest voter registration figures this week.

For the City of Port St. Lucie there are 892 Republicans registered, 685 Democrats, 162 Independents for a total of 1,739 registered voters.

Precinct 20, voting place is Port St. Lucie Marina, has a total of 2,466 registered voters – 1,239 GOP and 1,068 Democrats – one of the largest precincts in the county.

Total registration in the county is 29,140 with 19,502 Democrats, 8,356 Republicans and 1,192 Independents.

President's to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Presidents Council, made up of the heads of the various organizations and clubs operating in Port St. Lucie, will hold its regular monthly meeting at the CESA building on Thursday, November 20, at 2 p.m.

This will be the last business meeting in 1975 as the December session will be the Christmas party.

Many changes in organization heads are now taking place, so the new presidents are urged to attend.

P & Z approves model home rules

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–Following a fine tooth going over by the Planning and Zoning Committee Monday afternoon it is expected the proposed model home ordinance will be presented to the City Council for consideration at the next regular session.

According to P&ZX member Dr. Charles Hoyt, the board overwhelmingly approved the ordinance with only minor changes recommended.

"First of all, the ordinance stipulates the model home must be registered as such. It limits the length of time to 18 months that it can be used as a model. And third, it restricts the use of model homes as display units only," Dr. Hoyt said, adding these models cannot be used as branch offices or primary offices for any builder developer, sales agent or real estate company.

Over and above that, the ordinance also restricts to some degree the use of flags, banners and signs on the premises.

It has been reported that several small builders have voiced objections to the ordinance, claiming they do not have sufficient resources to construct a new model home every eighteen months.

The builders are also of the opinion it should make no difference whether or not the house is lived in while being used as a model.

According to Dr. Hoyt, the P&Z Board has worked hard to come up with what he terms a fair and reasonable ordinance.

Another matter which claimed a good part of the afternoon session was the review of the City's Zoning Ordinance. The original document has been amended and re-amended time and time again.

A special meeting will be held December 1 for the final review of the proposed zoning ordinance which the Board hopes will be polished off and adopted by the City Fathers the first of January.

There has been nothing particularly new added to this ordinance, Dr. Hoyt told the Mirror Tuesday. "In essence what the P&Z Board has tried to do is pull it all together, making certain all the 'i's' have been dotted and the 't's' crossed.

Then by a unanimous vote, the Board recommended a zoning change from C-1 to R-1 for a section of Morningside Boulevard just east of the Westmoreland Blvd. intersection at the request of GDC engineer Mark Bagget.

General Development has proposed country club style homes be constructed on the site. However the number of units and other details will be presented at the time the preliminary site plans are submitted to the P&Z Board.

Although the Board was expected to hear a formal presentation on the proposed 550-unit Holiday Trailer Park, the request was withdrawn by GDC until additional information could be made available on the matter.

LONG AWAITED–The long awaited double landing of Westmoreland Boulevard is now underway in Port St. Lucie. General Development Corporation started the project approximatley two weeks ago on the remaining quarter mile section which intersects Morningside Boulevard. No completion date has been set.

Did you notice a few weeks ago under the heading "Ten Years Ago in the Mirror" these statements:

"Hurricane Betsy arrived in the area, packing 80 mph winds and torrential winds. Most serious damage was in the form of beach erosion.

"A picture showed a fishing boat owned by Gene and Dick Hoke sitting on the bottom of the Ocean Breeze Park marina, a victim of Betsy.

I remember! We have lived in O.B. for 18 years. Lil Bit Lane now occupies the area that used to be the marina.

Cathy Cumpsty was happy to receive a long distance call from Mrs. William Temple in New Jersey. She is Charles and Ann Temple's daughter-in-law and says that Charlie and Ann are doing fine. Ann has been in the hospital twice recently, but was released last Thursday. Their winter plans, including their arrival on Hibiscus Street, are indefinite right now.

Lillian Reiner of 25 Bay Drive had a birthday on Thursday, November 13. On Friday, her husband Herman, sister Rose Swan and an old family friend, Sid Rosengren, enjoyed a birthday dinner with her at the Crow's Nest.

The former Georgianna Reed was married in early October to Ward Tiffany. They had been neighbors in New York State for many years. They spend about a week in Ocean Breeze and plan to spend this winter in his home in Zephyr Hills.

+ + +

Winnie Henley, "baby sister" of Sally Krowarz, told me that Sally is now 89. She is sitting in her wheel chair feeding herself and trying very hard to walk again. She hopes to go to Texas to visit her new phew and his wife. Sally and her husband Bill lived on Sixth Street for many years.

Ruth Nelson, Ken and Edith Raymond's daughter drove her parents to Ocean Breeze.

Then she said, "I'll never know what it is to ride a Greyhound unless I try it." So she climbed on a bus and was back home in Springfield, Vermont, in just 36 hours.

Walter and Alva Scott were delighted to have their daughter Carol Slavin of Summerville, New Jersey, spend a week with them here. On November 14, they helped Mr. Scott celebrate his 85th birthday, just exactly one month ahead of time. They had dinner at the Crow's Nest.

We hope you have a happy time, December 14 too, Walter.

The Milton Fullertons celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary in June. Their five children and their families put on a beautiful party for them at the Masonic Temple in Woodstock, Vermont, and all friends were invited.

Their family came from far and wide for the celebration. Two families came from New York, two from Vermont and one all the way from Tucson, Arizona, whom the Fullertons had not seen for almost nine years. Included in the gathering were all ten of their grandchildren, one of whom is married and attended with his wife.

A highlight of the party was the unveiling of a painting of the Fullerton home in Vermont presented to them by their children. It was a great surprise.

The delicious wedding cake was made by a friendly neighbor and was served along with punch and home made goodies.

A childhood playmate of Mrs. Fullerton's, who played the piano at their reception 50 years ago, and her husband were there from New Hampshire and other friends came from Massachusetts.

Bea Tourville shares the following with us:

"The four modes of transportation were what made me decide to join our hospital auxiliary in a tour to Europe in September.

First, we flew to Vienna where we spent five delightful days exploring the city, touring the countryside, dining at famous spots, etc. The ride through the Vienna Woods was lovely. This included a visit to Mayerling, former hunting lodge of the Habsburg family, and also to a huge 65-room mine. We saw the Royal Lipizzaner horses and riders in a training session at the Spanish Riding School. We also visited a Viennese "Heurigen" where Austrian wine was served while we listened to "Schrammelmusik" and watched folk dancers perform in their native costumes. Some of us joined the performers in the simpler dances.

"We also attended a performance of "The Magic Flute" at the famous Opera House. I thoroughly enjoyed the glitter with everyone in evening clothes, and the mingling at intermission for refreshments.

Second, we rode by hydrofoil to Budapest, a four-hour ride on the Danube. This gave us the opportunity to see much of the countryside along the river and note the neatness of the farms in Austria compared to those in Hungary. The city tour of Budapest included among other things the impressive Heroes' Square and the Fishermen's Bastian way up on a hill with a panoramic view of the city below.

Also the Citadel where a huge statue of Stalin was displayed, reminding us all that we were in a Communist country. We enjoyed a typical goulash party in the Buda hills. Bacon and sausage roasted on the spit, goulash soup and Hungarian wine, accompanied by folk dancers, singers and gypsy music.

"Third the day-long ride on the Orient Express to Salzburg, back in Austria. This was my first ride on a "compartmented" train. I was startled as I stood in the corridor looking at the passing scenery to see armed guards. Then I realized we were approaching the border. This was another reminder that we were in Communist country.

"In Salzburg we enjoyed a tour of this fascinating, friendly city. It was very warm, their Indian summer, our guide told us. We had dinner at a local "Stiegkeller" - beer cellar/restaurant with local music and entertainment including yodeling. We also went on the "Sound of Music" tour where the movie of the story of the musical Trapp family was filmed. Beautiful countryside. At night some of us attended a performance of "Don Giovanni" at the Marionette Theatre. Very clever. Hard to believe the puppets were only about 18 inches tall - an optical illusion.

Fourth the ride by tour bus from Salzburg to Munich along the Bavarian Alps. We were fortunate to arrive in Munich in time for the opening of the Oktoberfest. An outstanding parade had 60 units which I was fortunate enought to view while sitting on a curb about 150 feet from the TV cameras, where each unit performed, so I didn't miss a thing. Munich has a population of one and one third million, and over five million came from outside for the event which lasts for 16 days.

"While in Munich, we saw the Glockenspiel in operation and snacked at sidewalk cafes where coffee costs from $1.50 to $2 a serving. Everything is very expensive in Germany. We went to the famous Hofbrhaus one evening for a litre of beer, large pretzels, radishes and, of course, music. We also visited the site of the fateful 1970 Olympics and had a ride on the largest ferris wheel in the world.

"Our bus tour to the Royal Castle of Neuschwanstein, former home of Mad King Ludwig, was perfect until around noon when we ran into a cloud in the mountains and experienced our first rain - only a drizzle, really - but it spoiled our view from the palace high up on the mountain. That day we also visited what is considered the most beautiful church in Germany, built in 1746 in the middle of nowhere. Pilgrimages were once made to it by foot - sometimes with dried peas in shoes as a penance.

"There you have it - transportation by plane, hydrofoil, Orient Express and tour bus, all in one trip. And to top it all off, our day flight home was highlighted by a beautiful sight as the sun shone on the ice floes over Iceland. As I sat there admiring the display, I couldn't help wishing I had stuck in Kodak the cameras were really clicking!"

"Good News" For Savers

SHORT TERM CD'S A GOOD INVESTMENT

Provide High Interest & Flexibility

JENSEN BEACH, Fla. — According to savings counselors at First of Martin County, short term certificates of deposit offer outstanding values for many savers.

Besides the all-time high rates of interest that can be earned, shorter term certificates provide a flexibility that can be an added value for many people. Since federal regulations require substantial interest penalties when you withdraw savings from any certificate before it reaches maturity, the shorter term CDs are a way of taking this risk out of your savings program.

Furthermore, at First of Martin County, all certificates, no matter what the length of their term, have the lowest possible deposit requirements, just $1,000. And whether for ninety days, a year or two and one half years, First of Martin County pays the highest allowable interest. No other savings and loan pays more, and no bank can pay as much on short term certificates.

For instance, a ninety day certificate pays 5.75% with an effective annual yield of 5.92% due to daily compounding of interest. A one year certificate pays 6.5% with an effective annual yield of 6.72%. For those who are sure that they can leave their savings on deposit for a longer term, there are two and one half year certificates paying 6.75% interest with an effective annual yield of 6.98%.

First of Martin County savings counselors stress the point that each individual has different needs and requirements for an effective savings program. They recommend that you consult with them about your specific requirements at any of First of Martin County's five convenient financial centers. Individual attention and advice is always yours for the asking at First of Martin County.

Savings counselors are available at all five First of Martin County offices during regular business hours: 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday.

SAY WINNER–Gregory Bruce Blanchard, a Stuart Middle School student, won the Bicentennial Celebration essay contest. Mr. Uncle Sam

TSY ROSS ESSAY–Becky Blackford, a Martin County High School ior, holds her winning essay in the "Miss Betsy Ross" contest with Frank Alvarez, chairman of the Bicentennial selection committee

Betsy Ross contest essay

Editor's Note: The following essay, "The Lantern in the North Church Tower" was written by Becky Blackford, winner in the Bicentennial Celebration Committee "Miss Betsy Ross" contest. Miss Blackford, 17, is a student at Martin County High School.

THE LANTERN IN THE NORTH CHURCH TOWER

Most American school children are told the story of the Lantern in the North Church Tower and of the midnight ride of Paul Revere. History is a little confused in this instance due to the romanticizing of the incident by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in his poem "Paul Revere's Ride."

The significance of the light, however, does not lie in the fact of who made the ride. The Lantern served to warn of the immediate threat of a hostile British garrison set on its way to arrest two of the greatest champions of American liberty, John Adams and John Hancock. If these men had been taken prisoner, I think that the rebellious American spirit would have been severely dampened.

The general danger of the British as a whole, however, was a little different. King George III had been depressing the English citizens in the American colonies of their English rights not only by taxing them without their being represented in Parliament but by also taking from them rights that their ancestors had fought to win from their monarchs.

In short, the Englishmen in the colonies were not being treated as the Englishmen in England were. They were forbidden to demonstrate and troops were unlawfully quartered in their homes. The colonists' stand to uphold the time honored rights they did not possess.

Today, the United States is no longer directly dominated by any foreign country. It no longer has the obvious immediate threat of an army invasion hanging over it. The danger now is much more subtle than that.

The main danger that we face today is losing contact with our government. In colonial times the colonists suffered cruel abuse from British government and partially as a result, misunderstandings arose. Today, although there is a gap between Americans and the government, has climbed as a result of the misuse of power by the people. The American people are no longer close to their government. This fact is proven in the taxpayer's reluctance to really change anything in politics and in the ever-increasing disinterest and apathy against the establishment and state politics are both very strong.

The United States government has many flaws and its main saving grace is its ability to survive and take steps to correct these flaws.

There is now nearly a century and a half between us and the men who are considered our forefathers. Their deeds shining out as stars. This night is long and shall remain locked and unbreakable in our Constitution.

Their institution poses a warning to the attack from the would-be established foundation and guard against its ever being changed. I believe that a government, such as ours, a great country, such as we are, will last forever, as long as its basic principles of freedom and justice are never altered.

That light of today was created by men with wisdom and foresight; the same men who took heed from that signal light then as we should now.

Uncle Sam contest essay

Editor's Note: The following essay, "Lanterns in a Church Steeple," was written by Georgiea Bruce Blanchard, winner in the Bicentennial essay contest. Miss Blanchard, 12, is a student at Stuart Middle School.

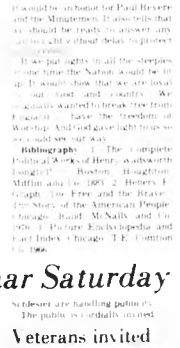
LANTERNS IN A CHURCH STEEPLE

In April 1775, the British were very mad at the people in Boston because of the Boston Tea Party. The Patriots dumped the King's tea in the water because of the high taxes. General Thomas E. Gage wanted to punish them by burning the City of Boston and seizing the colonist's supply of guns at Concord and Lexington.

The Colonists found out about the British plan and began to watch their closely. They decided on a signal to hang lanterns in a church tower to warn the people about the British attack. If the British went by water, we would show two lanterns in the North Church steeple, and if by land we would show one lantern as a signal.

Shortly before midnight on April 18, Paul Revere saw two lanterns hanging in the signal tower. Paul Revere and William Dawes then left to tell the Minutemen. Minutemen were a special group of Americans who had promised to answer without delay a call to fight for their country.

Shortly before midnight on April 18, 1968, I think we should put lights in all Church Steeples throughout the United States. I have several reasons why I think we should do this. It would be a good way for the people to celebrate the Bicentennial



(I could be an honor for Paul Revere and the Minutemen.) It also tells that we should be ready to answer any call to fight without delay to protect our country.

If we put lights in all the steeples across the Nation, it would be lit up. It would show that we are loyal to our land and country. We colonists wanted to break free from England to save the freedom of Worship. And God gave light to us so we could see our way.

Localites impressed with Oceana opening

JENSEN BEACH–The sun setting on a clear cold drew orange stripes across the sky as Martin and St. Lucie county's government, civic and social leaders got their first awaited glimpse of Oceana, a two-stories condominium on Hutchinson Island.

Though the cold front passed through Thursday in the late afternoon and wind whipped somewhat, shivering spectators the exception to the design and decor of and was anything but cold.

The breathtaking view from the building, either of the Atlantic or of westward across the Indian River, Jensen Beach, the terraces and patios further is one of the interior of the apartments each with oceanfront rooms is something else again.

Jan Powell, a Stuart interior designer used color well in each building and has tastefully decorated the model apartments to the point of perfection.

Of the opening owners Brack Hale and Bob Beasley placed champagne on the first and sixth floors with bars in both and a calypso trio playing both back terrace and dance music. Planned as a reception by torchlight gave way to the unexpected 50-degree weather to an impromptu party in the lobby area.

The building is the first 127 units of the expected 286 unit complex. All units face the ocean, and are one and two bedroom units that range in price from $44,500 to $70,000.

Oceana is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. It is a development of the Waters Corporation a company headed by Hale and Beasley, both residents of Jensen Beach.

Hale, a native of Pasadena, California has been active in real estate and real estate development for many years. Brack as he is known to his friends graduated from the University of California in Berkeley prior to spending many years with Coldwell Banker Co. as a national real estate firm in Newport Beach, Rancho California.

SALUTE–Peter Jefferson, architect, and Bill Hohmann, advertising executive, joined the festivities at the opening of Oceana last Thursday.

PROUD OPENING–Bob Beasley and Brack Hale were joined by interior decorator Jean Powell for the opening of Oceana, the new 127-unit, two-stories condominium on Hutchinson Island, last Thursday. The opening was a proud moment for Beasley and Hale, owners, and Ms. Powell, who did the decoration of the model units.

Sergeant gets award

FORT ST. LUCIE–Staff Sergeant Kenneth P. Ambrogi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Ambrogi of 2850 Italy Ave., South Port St. Lucie, is a member of an Air National Guard unit that recently received the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Sgt. Ambrogi is a communications operations specialist at Roslyn Air National Guard Station, N.Y., with the 226th Mobile Communications Squadron.

Democrats attend meeting

JENSEN BEACH–A delegation of 10 Democratic Party officers and members attended the Democratic Bicentennial Convention in Orlando last week.

Representing the Martin County Democrats were Kenneth Mylar, county chairman, Mardee St. Clair, state committeewoman, John Marr, state committeeman, president of the Martin County Democratic Club; James Sharpe, Mrs. Bertha McManus, county executive treasurer, Mrs. Martha Kuhn, Susan Rivers, Gilbert Miller and Dr. David Anderson, and Lillian Marr, secretary to the Democratic Club.

UMW Bazaar Saturday

JENSEN BEACH–The United Methodist Women of Trinity United Methodist Church are presenting a Bazaar Bake Sale Snack Bar this Saturday, November.

Doors to the church's Fellowship Hall on Arch Street will open promptly at 9 a.m., offering an opportunity to see and purchase all kinds of Christmas gifts, decorations, cards and napkins, plants and attic treasures.

Over all bazaar chairman is Ruth Townsend, assisted by Jeanette Witt and Ruth Tomasik in charge of the bake sale. Nancy Garden with Attic Treasures, Grace Dunham, cards and napkins, and Myrtle Dooley, bazaar items.

Sydnestr are handling publicity. The public is cordially invited.

Veterans invited

JENSEN BEACH–[illegible] Commander of American Legion Post 128, Jensen Beach, announced Tuesday that John Bushy will be the guest speaker at the Post meeting Monday, November 24 at 8 p.m.

Bushy is Department and Assistant National Legislative Chairman and will talk about the changes in veterans benefits.

All veterans of the area are invited to the Post Home to hear this important discussion.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

Just about the time we think our summer weather is back, Mother Nature does an about face and hits us with temperatures that set records for the coldest November on record. That sudden change was a little hard to take. Thank goodness we don't have to suffer through a whole winter like that.

In spite of the cold temperatures, we can still come up with some rousing good times and if you missed out on the "Fiesta Italiana" last Sat night, you missed out one one of the best dinners and evening of fun ever put on here.

When Mickey & Dave Henry take charge they think of everything. Dave even built a big warming cabinet to keep the lasagne hot so whether you were first or last to be served everything was deliciously perfect.

The doors opened at 6:30 to a beautifully decorated hall with the red white & green Italian flag decor complete with dondole and trestle with vines & grapes that lit up the stage, complimented by two centerpieces on both sides of the stage designed and set up by Martha Briggs who, along with a few others, was responsible for the decorations. Harry Briggs also spent a lot of time helping to set up and lending a hand when needed.

While dinner music filled the background, Herb & Irene German, Marie Wylie, Rose Gschwind & Mickey took the tickets & seated the guests at tables complete with red & white checkered cloths & candles in wine bottles.

With George & Melva Cook, Elsie & Art Kidney, Ruth & Harold Belavance & Dave Henry and Elsie Buck working in teams, the lasagne, meatballs & sauce were served nice & hot, and was it delicious!

Our compliments to the cooks, Ruth Belevance, Elsie Buck & Elsie Kidney and Mickey Henry.

Salad, Italian bread, chianti & Italian pastries completed the menu which everyone is still raving about.

We can't forget Ceil Trembly, the girl behind the scene, who worked in the kitchen getting it all ready for the serving carts. Also all the individuals who warmed the lasagne in their ovens before bringing it to the hall.

The evening's entertainment started out with our own Nettles Island orchestra. We certainly are lucky to have such talented musicians such as Frank Byron, Walter Avard & Pat Conway. These gentlemen are ready to entertain whenever asked and do a superb job. Pat Conway not only plays the concertina but sings as well. Marie Wylie sang a medley of Italian songs and also led the group in a sing-a-long.

Dave Henry had the evenings entertainment going all night long, providing a barrel of laughs. When the request for more wine was made, he merely pulled up the tub of grapes, took off his shoes & stomped out some more wine. He's quite a "ham." He even made the auctioning off of the over supply of food a hilarious event.

We had some surprise entertainment when Mama Rose, Mickey's mom, sang in Italian with a beautiful voice.

When the guests hate to see it all end, you know it was a big success.

Let's not forget this Sat's entertainment. The Martin Mariners present "An Evening in Harmony" and if you were on hand a few weeks ago after potluck when "The Sailor's Choice" performed, you got a taste of what's to come as that quartet was just a small part of the group you'll hear Sat. night. You can get your tickets in advance at the rec hall.

This Wed. after potluck at 7:30, the female barbershop choir "The Sweet Adelines" will be here for an evening of music. Even if you can't make potluck, come for the entertainment & make the gals feel really welcome.

There was a good turnout for the Yoga demonstration last Thurs evening. There were some interested in having a class on Yoga here & the opportunity is available. You can sign up on the list posted on the bulletin board by the Post Office.

Anyone interested in mahjongg" Annette Miendel is trying to get interested players together anytime you're available. So sign up at the rec hall or see Annette, lot No. 1399.

The first of the seasons Men's club Beer Busts was a real success - even the weather accommodated so we could enjoy the affair at the beach cabana.

Thanks to all the helpers - Jimmie Brown, Frank Byrnes, Loren Juliavon the Kega - Arthur & Annette Miendel took in the funds - May & Bob Tifft lent a hand.

The Har-Mar duo had charge & hope you all had a good time eating & being entertained by Pat Conway on the accordian & assorted singers.

The food was cooked by Ron Engel & his son, Mark.

Jack & Edye Adams No. 646, are back from Michigan. Jack spent some time in the hospital for tests and everything is okay.

Edye arranged & directed, and Jack produced a musical presentation, the theme being "Happy Birthday U.S.A."

It was a three night presentation put on in Milford, Mich. So it looks like the Adams were kept busy for the summer.

Chuck & Fran Walters, also residents of N.I. were present for the musical.

Maybe you can try it out with the Nettles Island Players.

I hear Pat & Coleman Dee are back and both looking real good. Besides being avid beach combers they're quite active in the resort.

If you play bingo, you know Charlie & Rose Ostrander are back for the winter. Charlie's the original "too-too" - everytime "I 11" is called. He's always there to lend a hand when needed, too.

+ + +

Larry & Betty Hagen, from Detroit, Michigan are residents of Nettles Island, lot 1051, for the winter. They will be here until June and find everyone so nice and friendly. Maybe its because Larry and Betty were so nice and friendly to begin with. We welcome you both.

+ + +

Wayne & Jodie Borecki and Ron & Dorothy Engel and their children were very happy to see Wayne & Ron's parents again. Lucille & Hank Borecki pulled their trailer down from Wisconsin to its winter home at Holiday Out. Although Hank could only stay two weeks, he tried to get in as much as possible. He almost froze his feet in the cold sand trying to surf fish the day the cold snap set in. The fishing report said they should be biting so he went to find out (no luck). Hank had to fly back but Lucille will stay on for a while.

It's good to see Ron & Donna Siperly back on Nettles Island. They spend a few months on and off here during the winter and are very active and most helpful during their stay. Welcome back.

Got a last minute report from George Gleason. He won 3 third places Sun. out of 8 boats sailing at the Stuart Causeway in the Hobie Fleet 27 races. This was the first part of a two series race. George will not be here for the second race as he will be leaving us for 6 or 7 months working with the "Merchant Marines".

Council elects

JENSEN BEACH—A Jensen Beach resident has been elected treasurer of the Gulfstream Area-wide Council of the Council on Aging.

John Marr succeeds Mrs. Ladye Flanagan as treasurer. The election was held last week in the auditorium of Howard Johnson's Lodge in Stuart.

About 20 persons from the tri-county area, Martin, St. Lucie and Palm Beach counties, attended the meeting.

NETTLES ISLAND YOUTH REPORT

BY CAROL ENGEL

This week started out with a bouncing game of basketball Saturday morning. Even though the weather was quite cool, many showed up.

Then following a short softball practice there was another famous, fast moving Nettles Island youth group football game. During the game, Mike LaFortune threw the football and the ball decided to take its own course right into the river! Usually we retrieve the ball from the river with the pool net, but this time it wouldn't reach, so Dave Pearce went for a little swim after it.

That night 12 youths started out for a walk on the beach. After half a mile, six of them got tired and turned back. The other six continued on until they reached the 7 Eleven store where they rested for awhile then headed back. They all enjoyed themselves and hope to do it again.

Sunday the activities started with another football game. This game turned out to be one of the roughest games yet, but everybody had fun! They were all minor accidents so nobody was taken to the hospital. Mike LaFortune and Doug Brandow were the big tacklers of the day for the boys and Theresa Sims was the tough tackler for the girls.

Next was a fairly destructive softball game. Cindy Bridges got hit with a bat, but it wasn't too hard and she survived. Sunday night a few of the group gathered at the rec hall to have a game of Battleship. They had a lot of fun!

Tigers lose game, quarterback lost

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH–If an 0-9 record isn't already bad enough, the Martin County Tigers learned early Saturday morning that their starting quarterback, Jimmy Williams, will be missing from the Tigers' lineup when they take on Curley in Miami next Saturday night.

At least, the word is that he "probably" won't be able to play in the Tigers' season finale. Doctors report that the Tigers' sophomore sensation has a very bad sprain of his ankle, suffered while running an option play in last Friday night's 27-7 loss to Boca Raton at Boca.

Backup quarterback Willie Garland was unsuccessful in trying to maintain a 7-6 halftime lead, and another injury, this one to defensive end Bobby Hall, hampered the Tigers' containment of the end sweep.

In fact, Boca Raton's go-ahead touchdown was scored on an end sweep by Alvin Price on a play which covered 80 yards and gave the Bobcats a 14-7 lead after three quarters.

Boca's other two touchdowns came in the fourth quarter. The first came on a 36 yard pass from Vince Mitchell to Greg Williams, and the final score was brought about by a 20-yard pass from second string quarterback Don Weppner to Scott Plymesser.

MCHS's only scores came after a 70 yard drive had culminated with a 1 yard run by Gary Reed. Reed then booted his second consecutive extra point to give MCHS a 7-6 lead at that juncture.

Barracudas edged 8-0 in title game

JENSEN BEACH–While the Jensen Beach Barracudas prepared to meet the Indiantown Thunderbirds last weekend at Langford Park, somebody apparently forgot to tell them that they were supposed to lose.

In the long run, they did - but not before the Barracudas (2-4-2) put up one of the biggest fights ever given to an Indiantown squad by the Jensites in a long time.

The T-Birds, who came into the game as "shoe-ins" for the championship, found it hard to move the football across the JB goal line, except for one drive - the one that helped to give them the Lower Division title, 8-0.

The Barracudas alternated three players at quarterback, (Brad Larson, the starter, along with John Atkinson and Darryl Baker), but that tactic proved ineffective against the strong T-Bird defense.

Indiantown (7-1-0) got its only touchdown on the first possession of the ballgame, when they drove down the field on strong running by David Garrett and Craig Johnson, and moved in for the score when Garrett scooted in from a yard away with five and a half minutes remaining in the game to give Indiantown a 6-0 lead.

Jensen Beach then began to move down the field, but Indiantown's Jerry Roberts put a quick end to that drive the first of two interceptions at the Indiantown 29 yard line.

Jensen Beach's game plan was to try to give the ball to Larson who is bigger than most of the players on the field, and is capable of picking up good yardage. However, as the game progressed, it became apparent that JB could mount no offense whatsoever. On the other hand, Jensen Beach's defense shut down the T-Birds and gave up no more points during the rest of the game.

The only other score of the title contest came when Victor Martinez blocked a Richard Sowden punt and watched it roll out of the end zone for a safety.

Of the year, Jensen Beach was 2-1-1 inside their conference, with wins over Palm City and Port Salerno. Out of the conference, they lost to Stuart and Indiantown (twice, counting the title game), and they tied Ft. St. Lucie in a scoreless tie.

Bridge game will benefit cancer society

STUART–Stuart bridge players and many other players in and around the Gold Coast and Treasure Coast area will join thousands of others throughout the United States, Canada, and overseas in such faraway places as Australia, Indonesia, Iran, the Philippines and Singapore next Tuesday evening, Nov. 25th in a unique competition to benefit the American Cancer Society.

The Stuart Duplicate Club, an affiliate of the American Contract Bridge League, is sponsoring a section of the Fall 1975 ACBL Continent wide Charity Game with play starting at 8 p.m. at the Stuart Youth Center.

The competition is truly international with players from the United States, Canada, Mexico and Bermuda taking part, and unique because every player in every game in every city will play the exact hands under nearly identical conditions. Only one winner will emerge - the pair with the best percentage score on the computer-dealt set of hands.

Last year the fall event attracted 22 tables (28 players) and the contribution to the Cancer Society was over $300. In the spring event, held in March, the game again attracted 25 tables and $250 was sent to the fund.

Roger White, director of the local club, invites all local players to participate in Tuesday night's game.

Proceeds from this game will be distributed through the ACBL Charity Foundation to the American Cancer Society.

For further information and tickets, call White at 334-2310 or 334-1422.

From all reports a good crowd is expected to attend the Port St. Lucie Community Dance to be held Friday, November 21, at the CESA Center. The affair will start at 7:30 p.m. Music will be provided and proceeds from the minimal donations will benefit the CESA operating fund.

It will be a BYOB and setups affair. Hope to see you there.

BIG SPIKE AWARD–Was recently presented to Mrs. Arline Signore of Stuart by the Florida Home Builders Association for recruiting 42 members during the past year. As president of the Treasure Coast Builder's Woman's Auxiliary and area vice president for the N.A.H.B. Womans Auxiliary, she is currently organizing memberships for new auxiliaries in Florida, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Soccer and basketball registrations end this week

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Optimist Club announces that registration for soccer and basketball will end this week.

Registrations will be taken at Langford Park Field House Thursday and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., with final registration on Saturday, November 22 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

All boys and girls from 8 to 16 years of age in the Jensen Beach area are eligible. Registration fee is $5 for each sport.

Following the Saturday registration, a soccer clinic will be held at 1 p.m. at Langford Park. FIT's soccer team will assist the Optimists with the clinic.

Vero girl sees first football action

BY DONNIE WILKIE

VERO BEACH–It might not usually be important because a player on Vero Beach's powerhouse football team saw action for one play last week against Eau Gallie High School, but last week's incident was not usual by any means of the imagination.

Bobby Best, a Junior wingback, saw her first action of the year–that's right, Bobby's a young lady.

Vero Beach Head Coach Wayne Griffith inserted her with his fighting Indians leading the Eau Gallie Commodores 38-6 in the fourth quarter. On her first (and only) play, Bobby was penalized for illegal motion, and the Indians lost five yards.

Best, who is listed at 170 pounds, is 5 feet, 10 inches tall, and does not mind playing football with the boys. However, she does have to dress at home before reporting for the games.

Winter festival at St. Joseph's

STUART–The third annual Winter Festival, sponsored by the Home and School Association of St. Joseph's School, is set for this Saturday, November 22, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Featuring plants, baked goods, rides, a boutique table, a country store and raffles, the Festival promises something for everybody, an Association spokesman said.

Immediately preceding the Festival, starting at 9 a.m. in the cafeteria, there will be a rummage sale.

The public is invited to come to the sale and stay for the Festival.

1976 SIGN--The new God and Country Day car bumper stickers have arrived and Joan Betsch, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce director, displays the red, white and blue sticker on a bumper. The second annual God and Country Day will be held at Martin County High School Sunday, February 15.

Commission vote

Plaza purchase in court

JENSEN BEACH--The court will decide the legal questions on the proposed lease-purchase of the Executive Plaza building by Martin County Commission.

Commissioners voted four to one Commissioner Ross Philbrick voted against the motion to seek a court decision on the legality of the commission buying the $1.1 million building for administrative offices.

The commission's action was prompted by Circuit Court Clerk Mrs. Louise Isaacs refusal to sign the first rental payment check.

Monday, Mrs. Isaacs presented commissioners a letter from her attorney Robert McRoberts advising her against signing the check.

The county's attorney is expected to file the county's motion Monday and Mrs. Isaacs said she will have 20 days to answer the county's suit.

I will advise my attorney to attempt to speed up the action so we can resolve this as soon as possible, Mrs. Isaacs said.

In a three-page opinion, Mc Roberts and his law partner Thomas Warner advised Mrs. Isaacs:

"It is the opinion of our firm that substantial legal questions remain in regard to the validity of the agreement and the extent of the county's authority under the lease-purchase statute (Florida Statute 125.031. We advise you not to sign the check for the first rental payment until there has been a judicial determination of these legal questions.

Our doubts about the validity of this agreement are the results of extensive research into the budget and finance laws of the state of Florida. Nevertheless we feel that the opinion of the Attorney General dated Oct. 8, 1975, provides sufficient basis for our opinion that the new lease purchase agreement may be illegal. As you know the Attorney General's opinion of Oct. 8, 1975 dealt with the validity of the original lease purchase agreement but it is our view that the comments contained in Robert Shevin's opinion are applicable to the new agreement. In his opinion Shevin stated that the lease purchase state does not authorize a county to enter into a strictly purchase contract under the guise of a lease with an option to purchase.

There has been controversy over the county's proposal to move administrative staff officers to the Plaza since early October when Mrs. Isaacs refused to sign the $11,000 check for the first of five annual payments.

It turned the commission to seek an opinion from the attorney general and that opinion along with the lawsuit filed by 16 local residents forced the commission to renegotiate original agreement with owner of the building.

It was also learned [illegible] McRoberts that the county is [illegible] to spend $100,000 to improve the Executive Plaza Building.

Furthermore, since the stated rental payments are [illegible] the fair rental value of the property, the excess of the purchase price over the fair rental value would be [illegible] the county were the [illegible] total purchase of the building.

In conclusion, we feel that the [illegible] purchase statute was not intended to be used to circumvent the budget and taxing procedures of Florida and the constitutional prohibitions against pledging of credit of the county without voter approval.

Community Fund reaches $8,539 as drive continues

JENSEN BEACH--Jensen Beach Rio Community Fund workers continued their canvas of the homes in their areas as the drive reached $8,539 on Monday.

LaVaughn Tilton president reported that the Rio area including Beacon 21 was tops in collections with $1,275 turned in thus far. Joseph Forsberg is the area captain for Rio.

Mrs. John Miner, captain of the North Skyline Drive area reported collections of $433 and Mrs. Ira Henderson, captain of the South Skyline Drive area, reported a third place collection of $412.

Close behind was Mrs. Cyrus Stoll, collecting $327 from the Jensen Highlands area, and Mrs. Tilton covering St. Lucie Heights with $306.

Other figures not yet complete will be reported as they come in. Not included in the usually competitive area races include $3,500 in special gifts and a report of $878 from Jensen Beach Rio businesses according to Richard Neeson.

Mrs. Tilton urged all residents who have not yet been contacted to call their area captains or to mail their gifts to the Community Fund in Post Office Box 134, Jensen Beach.

Area captains include:

Special Gifts, Richard Campbell; Businesses, Richard Neeson; Rio, Joe Forsberg & Jackie Hall; Beacon 21, Jackie Hall; St. Lucie Heights, LaVaughn Tilton; South Jensen Heights, Mrs. Wade Aycock; Jensen Homesites, Mrs. Raymond Lovelady; Legion Heights, Mrs. Richard Pinsky; Jensen Highlands, Mrs. Cyrus Stoll; Mars Hill, William Delancey & Jane Hill; North Skyline Drive, Mrs. John Miner; South Skyline Drive, Mrs. Ira Henderson; North of Commercial to County Line, Mrs. LaVaughn Tilton; North Indian River Dr. from Commercial to Palmer Road, Jackie Hall; So. Hutchinson Island, Eugene Peer; Bean Rivage East, Mrs. Thomas Welsh; Fisherman's Haven, Mrs. Fred Arndt; Riverside Village, Mrs. Ralph W. Suggs; Leilani Heights, Mrs. Richard Grant; Florida Institute of Technology, Dean E. Tealey.

Chamber to honor past presidents

JENSEN BEACH--All past presidents of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will be honored as a part of the installation banquet of the Chamber on Friday, December 5 at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant.

It is only proper and fitting that as we install officers during this bicentennial year we recognize those who have done so much to help our Chamber of Commerce grow, said Art Hansen president.

Many of the past presidents have indicated that they plan to attend. They include Don Tucky, 1954; Joseph Mauldin, 1973; John Heyburn, 1972; David Dee, 1971; Donald Wilkie 1970 and 1968; Dean Tooker 1969; Albert Palmer 1966 and 1965; Richard Campbell, 1964; Frank Forsberg 1963; Martin Coulter 1962; Dorothy Artz, 1961 and 1960 deceased; Joseph Stefan, 1959; William Weiss 1958 and 1957; John Crawford 1956; Frank Wartha 1955; Edward Whitman 1954 and 1953 deceased; James Langford, 1952 and Bill Porter 1951 deceased.

The installation begins with a reception at 6:30 p.m. and the dinner will begin at 7:45 p.m. Tickets are $9.50 per person and reservations can be made by calling Helen Richardson chamber manager at 334-3444.

Pancake day Dec. 7

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Lions Club expect to have the best ever pancake day Sunday, Dec. 7 at Langford Park Fieldhouse beginning at 6:30 a.m.

Club members have 1,500 tickets to sell, pancake day chairman Virgil Wilson said.

Advance ticket selling has been very good, he added.

The lionesses will hold a bake sale outside the fieldhouse to supplement our Youth Exchange Program (YEP) Fund.

Also, club members Bill Wass and Dick Pinsky will have their eyes on hand to conduct free eye examinations according to Wilson.

Club members have their assignments for the big pancake day including Saturday night set-up crew of Arley Johnson, Al Walker, Wally Redit, Jim Dean, Cal Nichols, Clarence Rydell, Sam Johnson and Wilson.

Tax bills due soon

JENSEN BEACH--Tax bills are expected to be in the mail the first week in December, Martin County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews said Tuesday.

They are printing the tax bills today, Tuesday, he said.

The December mailing is late compared to the standard Nov. 1 date but is early compared to the mailing of last year's tax bills in March of this year.

Andrews noted that the 1974 tax roll, which was $32 million more than $1 a million was collected.

About 80 per cent of the taxpayers received the 4 per cent discount according to Andrews.

Tax hearings and computer problems delayed the bills.

Andrews said that residents who pay their bills in December will receive a 4 per cent discount and it will drop to 3 per cent in January and 2 per cent in February.

Library bids are received

JENSEN BEACH--A Stuart contractor was the successful bidder for the addition to Martin County Library addition.

Kochman Construction submitted a base bid of $232,766. With the architect's fee the total bid was $250,202.

Six bids were received for the library project with Ben Wood Construction of Fort Pierce the second low bidder with $268,975 and Buls Construction of Palm City third low bidder with $270,958.

Post Office closed

JENSEN BEACH--The Post Office will be closed for business on Thanksgiving Day, but will open for business as usual at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Kiernan opposes Grumman lease

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Commission Chairman John Kiernan said he is sending a letter to Grumman Aerospace Corp. officials outlining his position on the county airport lease.

Kiernan kicked up a big controversy last week when he proposed renegotiating Grumman's airport lease.

The commission chairman asked Grumman vice president James Zusi to consider a renegotiation of the lease as part of the overall airport plan.

Zusi responded that this would be the first step toward asking us to leave.

Kiernan said he wanted the company to meet its obligations to the community instead of continuing to enjoy a tax free status on its building.

Why should they get a free ride? Kiernan said. If we're going to give them a free ride just because they employ 800 people let's give the same break to the companys that only employs 9 or 10 people.

Grumman officials say they meet their obligation by paying all maintenance and operating costs at the airport including the control tower.

Grumman signed a lease with the county in 1950 and doesn't expire until 1989 and it has an automatic option to renew to the year 2024.

Breakfast Club meeting is scheduled

JENSEN BEACH--The Breakfast Club will meet Monday, Dec. 1, at 7:15 a.m. at Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island.

Businessmen, professional people and all interested citizens are invited to attend. Leonard Cottom, CPA, will be the speaker.

Meanwhile, the Stuart City Commission Monday night authorized a sewage service for Grumman Engineer Cal Montgomery repre[illegible] senting the company's [illegible] main plant, a cafeteria, [illegible] site and would prefer [illegible] service rather than septic tank.

Bus system talk scheduled

JENSEN BEACH--The commissioners in Martin and St. Lucie counties have discussed bus service in recent days and the Council of Governments (COG) will take up the subject at its Tuesday, Dec. 2 session.

"General discussion on the possibility and feasibility of a tri-county bus service" is one of the items on the COG agenda.

State Department of Transportation (DOT) officials met with Martin County officials last week. A study on a bus program in Martin County is expected to be ready in mid-January.

Meanwhile St. Lucie County commissioners last week shelved the idea of starting a mass transit system, but pledged support to the one-year old senior citizen bus line.

The Council on Aging in Martin County has operated a bus and escort system for senior citizens for more than a year, and council officials point out that there is a distinct need for public transportation. And Sam Lawder executive director of the Community Action Organization (CAO) in St. Lucie County also points out that the CAO buses are for people over 60 years of age who have no access to transportation in the household.

Lawder does not cover the needs for public transportation. "A Council [illegible] on Aging [illegible] serving [illegible] operates two days a week north Stuart, two days south of Stuart and has hauled 5,556 riders, 96,185 passenger miles in its first year that ended in October.

In St. Lucie County, Lawder reported that the bus system carries 1,125 riders a month and the total annual operation cost for two small 12 passenger buses is $27,800.

Lawder said the problem is the two buses aren't enough to serve all areas of the county.

Martin County paid $6,000 Phase I held in 1972 and the [illegible] turned over $7,250 for Phase II [illegible] handled under DOT supervision.

Advisory committee will be formed within the next few weeks to assist the consultants in discussion of public interest.

Consultants for the study hope to determine the operating costs and locating funds to build the system.

Council on Aging hopes provide door-to-door service for seniors shopping and medical complexes. It operates two days a week north Stuart, two days south of Stuart and has hauled 5,556 riders, 96,185 passenger miles in its first year that ended in October.

In St. Lucie County, Lawder reported that the bus system carries 1,125 riders a month and the total annual operation cost for two small 12 passenger buses is $27,800.

Lawder said the problem is the two buses aren't enough to serve all areas of the county.

THANKSGIVING LUNCH-The third grade class at Jensen Beach Elementary School held their annual Thanksgiving lunch last Monday. Students dressed as pilgrims and Indians for the occasion and PTA members and room mothers served the turkey with all the Thanksgiving trimmings. Mrs. Arlene DeStefano and Miss Shirley Oden are the teachers for the class.

Southern Bell introduces new long distance service

JENSEN BEACH–The most accurate and technically advanced telephone service will be available to customers in the Stuart and South Port St. Lucie area beginning December 7, 1975. Called Special Service Dialing by Southern Bell, it is a high speed electronically controlled system used by customers to dial all their own calls including those charged to another number, person-to-person, collect, and credit card.

The new equipment, Glenn Sutton, local Southern Bell manager, said is quite different in appearance from the present switchboards with their familiar cords and plugs. Operators will now have individual work areas containing sleek, modern, push button consoles equipped with panels on which called numbers, rates, or timing information are electronically displayed.

After the customer dials his call and while it is speeding to its destination, an operator comes on the line to determine the type of call. Operator response is almost instantaneous. The equipment automatically records the number from which the call is being made, and the number being called.

When a customer makes a person-to-person call and gives the name of the desired party, the operator presses appropriate buttons needed for billing information. When the called party has been reached, the operator then presses a start timing button and a call release button. Collect and credit card calls are handled in a similar manner. Sutton emphasized there will be no change in direct distance dialed calls.

If the call is being made from a coin telephone (coin telephones equipped with the service will be identified by red, white, and blue instruction cards), the equipment automatically notifies an operator when the initial calling period is over. The necessary charge information is also provided.

In further describing the new service, Sutton said that due to the computer-like system, call completion time can be cut in half. The reason for this is that the new equipment frees the operators from paper work by automatically doing the time and record keeping presently associated with these special types of calls.

Sutton said that Special Service Dialing is being introduced gradually because of its complexity and cost to the company, both of which are great. The new service was introduced in Palm Beach County and Hobe Sound in September, and will serve everyone with a "283" "286" "287" or "334" telephone number on December 7th. With daily volumes of calls rising steadily, this equipment will make it possible to keep up with the yearly increase in long distance calls. The Port St. Lucie-North area "878" telephones will receive the service next year, according to Sutton.

In concluding his explanation of Special Service Dialing, Sutton emphasized that this Bell System innovation will improve the accuracy, efficiency, and speed of the long distance service customers receive.

Sailfish entries

STUART–Record entries in the Sailfish Club Winter Tournament were made by:

Joseph Hall of Palm City for an 11 lb. 4 oz. channel bass.

John Kuna of Somerdale, N.J., a 3 lb. 13 oz. ladyfish.

Fishing tourney deadline December 1

JENSEN BEACH–The 22nd Stuart Sailfish Club light tackle release tournament will be Dec. 31 through Dec. 14. Thursday through Monday.

Deadline for entries is Monday, Dec. 1.

Sam Evert of Lost Tree Village, winner in 1966, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971 and 1972, has already entered. Eleanor Bartlett Reed, winner in 1973 and her husband Donald P. Reed, winner in 1960 of Seward's Point, are expected to enter.

Lloyd Wideman of Rumson, N.J., last year's winner also plans to fish the tournament in defense of his title.

Dr. Rudy Steinhauer of Tequesta, winner in 1964, also is expected to fish.

Last year's tournament tied a record for the number of boats set in 1967–49.

Soundings made by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in St. Lucie Inlet this month indicate the inlet will be in great shape for the tournament. The Corps had promised to dredge if necessary, but soundings showed no need for dredging. Two of the markers buoys will be moved slightly to mark the deepest channel, which has ample depth for the largest boats which might fish the tournament, according to Ellison.

Headquarters will be at the Bay Harbor Club, formerly the Sunrise Inn, at Port Sewall. The committee boat will be the Fin-N Fun owned by Dale Hudson of Stuart.

Early entries include: Amateur Division–Deanna C. Brown, Port St. Lucie, on the Har Dee; Capt. Bob Pelon, Thomas L. Monz, Boca Raton, Ragin Cajin, Capt. Leo Sadler, Miami; Lowe Charlotte, Mich., High Tension, Capt. Carl Marles, John Roby Penn, Jr., Fort Lauderdale; Rerun, Capt. Bill Fish, Cox Kamm, Fort Lauderdale; Pita II, Capt. James Young, Lee Sheron, Mar-Jon Stuart, Capt. John Sheron, Edward J. Dyas, Jr., Sewegna, Park, Md.; Hooker, Capt. Robert Kirwan.

Professional Division–Arthur S. Lazarus, Kendall, Fla.; Born Free, Capt. Tom Hutcheson; Robert L. Wentz, North Palm Beach; Growler, Capt. Bud Eppinger; Ted Sabarese, Colts Neck, N.J.; That's My Hon, Capt. Dick Greiner; Charles Robinson, Jr., Fairfax, Va.; Poor Boy, Capt. Bruce Sesaoma; Marie Pittman, Stuart; Dauntless II, Capt. Ed Hallee, Jr.; Mark S. Phillips, Fort Lauderdale; No Slack, Capt. not listed; S.H. Evert, Lost Tree Village; and Bloomsburg, Pa., Sandra D., Capt. Ken Collins.

Team Anglers–Charles Cornell and Robert Lummis, both of Woodbury, N.J.; Miss Liz, Capt. Tom Calos; W.B. Adams, Roanoke, Va., no partner listed as yet; Sea Hawk, Capt. Peter Crepeau.

Fishing will be from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day. Observers will be picked up at the Bay Harbor Club piers at 8 a.m. All boats must be back to the piers by 5 p.m.

Pre-tournament briefing will be held at 6:30 p.m. December 10 at the Bay Harbor Club. The awards banquet will be held at the same place December 14 at 7:30 p.m.

GETTING MARRIED–Becky Woodruff, daughter of Arlene and the late Roland Woodruff, and Douglas Hambrecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hambrecht of Huntington, Long Island, New York, will be married at 2 p.m. December 27 at the Jensen Beach Community Church. A reception will follow at the Jensen Beach Women's Association Clubhouse. Friends are cordially invited.

History repeats in New York

WASHINGTON–The lessons it takes us the longest to learn and that cause us the most pain are the ones we remember best.

Therefore, New York City's chaotic financial condition may yet prove to be a blessing in disguise.

A similar catastrophy hit Florida some 48 years ago. And, while it caused a great deal of teethgnashing and financial disruption, the long-term effects have served the state well.

In the 1920s, Florida experienced a land boom practically unduplicated in modern history. And, as usual, there were those who were convinced it would never end, so they blithely borrowed against the future to have money to spend immediately.

In 1927, when the bubble burst and the bottom dropped out of the land sales, several communities went bankrupt. Even the state government was broke.

Some smaller communities never came back from the shock and the financial chaos. But most did, working their way out of it slowly.

Now, with the state and local governments with a few scars but still on their feet, with a determination that will never happen again.

That's why the Florida Constitution carries a strict ban against deficit spending by any governmental body. And the laws implementing by local and state governments are equally as strict.

No local bond issue pledging property taxes must be approved by the voters. Revenue certificates that pledge guaranteed sources of income must be proven financially sound in court before they can be sold.

The fact that all Florida counties and school boards in Florida are prohibited from spending money that is actually in hand. In fact, they must hold back a 5 per cent reserve of estimated revenue to insure against overspending.

Consequently, the cities and towns in Florida haven't been able to do what New York City has done.

They haven't been able to operate tuition-free colleges by floating fancy bond issues. Florida cities haven't been able to offer municipal employees fancy salaries and exhorbitant pension plans which allow workers to retire in their 40s, without ever contributing a cent to their pension program.

They haven't subsidized mass transit systems to the tune of millions of dollars a year. And Florida cities haven't been able to provide a fleet of telephone-equipped limousines for their officials.

No, the cities in Florida haven't been able to do any of those things because they know they have to live on their income, holding their borrowing to a minimum.

However, that isn't the only reason for the fiscal conservatism shown by Florida. Behind the laws and the strict boundaries on spending is a public which still recognizes the need to have government do what the people do, live within its means.

Like the child who burns his finger on the candles on his birthday cake, Florida cities and Florida voters have learned to stay away from the fire.

New York City, unfortunately, is still playing with the matches.

Even more disturbing is the fact that letting the federal government come to New York City's rescue could amount to giving gasoline to a child playing with fire.

There is no real sign yet that New York City has learned the error of its ways. The fancy limousines are still in use. The subway isn't paying its way. The salaries are still too high and the pensions still too financially unsound.

And, without some such signs Fun City has learned its lesson, federal assistance might be wasted. In fact, there are some who compare the idea of helping New York City to giving your credit cards to a playboy, a move guaranteed to bring about financial disaster.

Chorus presents The Messiah

JENSEN BEACH-Area residents and guests of Martin County are invited to attend the presentation of The Messiah at 4 p.m. Sunday, December 7 at First United Presbyterian Church North River Shores.

Hearing this well-known oratorio is an especially appropriate way to usher in the Christmas season.

The Messiah performed by the Martin County Community Chorus under the direction of Donald M. Large contains the prophecy of the coming of the Messiah and the story of the Nativity.

The second part of the oratorio tells of the Passion and Resurrection of Jesus, reaching its climax in the great Hallelujah Chorus. The third part of the musical composition is concerned with man's redemption and his hope for eternal life.

Membership in the Community Chorus is composed of adults of the community, who enjoy singing good music.

Mrs. Marvin Keller is organist. Mrs. Fred Paulsen is pianist.

Soloists for the performance are Mrs. Deborah French and Mrs. Jeanne Van Degriek, sopranos; Mrs. Mildred Marlow, alto; Roger White, bass; and Robert Cooper, tenor.

All presentations of the Community Chorus are offered without charge to the community as a cultural service made available through the Adult Educational Department, Martin County Public Schools.

It is hoped that all area residents and guests will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear The Messiah performed by an experienced chorus under the capable direction of a lifetime member of the National Association of Music Directors.

EMT deadline is changed

FT. PIERCE–Terry Miller director of municipal services at Indian River Community College has announced an extension of the deadlines for applying to the Emergency Medical Technician-EMT-Program at IRCC.

For the Spring Term beginning on January 6, 1976, the new deadlines for application to either the EMT-I or the EMT-II Program will be December 1, 1975. No EMT applications will be accepted or considered for the Spring Term after that date. Persons interested in EMT training are asked to contact Miller on the IRCC main campus for further information.

Food donations

JENSEN BEACH–Members and friends of the Jensen Beach Christian Church Lydia Circle are asked to bring donations of food to the church for the Christmas basket to be given as gifts.

The next Circle meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Bennett in Stuart the date is Wednesday, December 17.

Last week's session was held at the church, under the direction of President Zylpha Salyards. Dorothy Greeber was in charge of the devotional period.

A business meeting followed and, as usual, their Thanksgiving offering was for the Christian City Home in Atlanta.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the meeting.

Thanksgiving invitation extended

JENSEN BEACH–A Thanksgiving service will be held at the First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 26.

Included in the program will be special music.

Everyone is invited to worship in the spirit of gratitude.

Theme for fair told

STUART–"Seventeen In Seventy Six" has been chosen as the theme for the 1976 Martin County Fair to be held March 8-13.

Red, White and Blue will be the predominating colors chosen to commemorate the Bicentennial Year.

Christmas Fair Saturday

JENSEN BEACH–Special bicentennial jewelry, home-town cookbooks, Christmas gifts and decorations, all will be available at the Jensen Beach Community Church Fair this Saturday, November 29 starting at 11 a.m.

Coffee and donuts will be served from 11 o'clock on, luncheon starting at 12 noon and pancakes will be served by the Men's Brotherhood from 4 to 6 p.m.

The food store will offer home made baked goods as well as delicate foods including baked beans, salads and deviled eggs.

A collection of "Elegante Junque" has been gathered, featuring many nearly new items and some very fine jewelry.

The public is cordially invited to patronize this, and whatever takes their fancy. And they may have their cars washed while doing so by the Youth Group.

The Jensen Beach Community Church is located on north Skyline Drive.

Bicentennial Variety show January 23 and 24

STUART–This year there will be a special Bicentennial production of the annual Rendell Variety Show sponsored by the Martin County Association for Retarded Citizens.

Bobby Lord, well-known country western singer will serve as master of ceremonies, and direction will be provided by Lenny Laden and Pete Rand.

The show will be presented on January 23 and 24 in the Lyric Theatre in downtown Stuart.

Audition dates for the show have been set for 7 p.m. December 2 and 4 at the Julian Parker School. Audition application blanks are available at the Stuart News, Little Professor Book Store, McGrath Music Center, or by telephone request to the Association at 286-1600.

The Variety Show is noted for the abundance of talent presented. Dancing, singing, comedy, instrumentals and dramatic skits are all needed. Everyone interested in offering his talent is urged to audition.

Helpers are also needed to produce the show. Those behind the scenes are just as important as those on stage.

Chamber members tour FIT

They toured the campus and classrooms of the Florida Institute of Technology.

Before the tour – conducted by students Blair Hough, Charles Wargo, Mark Dryden and John Kelly – they received a briefing by Dean Tim Tealey and Peter Navaretta, assistant dean.

"We are a young university," Dean Tealey told chamber members describing its start 18 years ago at Cape Kennedy.

"I came down here in 1969 and fell in love with the campus," he said.

He reminded the chamber members that FIT is supported by free enterprise and the school now has 740 students, and the limit will be 1,500. "We need more buildings."

Navaretta noted that 84 per cent of the students graduating found employment. "We are working to obtain 100 per cent employment. All our programs are geared to that end – employment for students."

He also noted that industry had donated $190,000 worth of equipment for the school's underwater program.

The school offers programs in medical technology, electronics technology, oceanographic technology and environmental technology.

Club gives school $200

STUART—Mrs Mabel Witham, director of the Open Door School for handicapped children, was presented with a check for $200 by Betty Abbott, president, on behalf of the Soroptimist International of Stuart, on Thursday.

Mrs Witham was a guest speaker at the club's November program meeting, telling of the work with children from age two years and up. She displayed pictures of the students at the Open House held at the school's new quarters in Port Salerno.

D & M News Notes

BY MILDRED STINNETT

334-4486

Mona and Arthur Wendt, together with their constant companion Teddy, visited cousins Edna and Peter James who live in Madiera Beach on the west coast, and spent a week there and at Boca Ciega.

+ + +

The hobby group met Tuesday afternoon in the rec hall as usual. Mona Wendt, president, presided and the hostesses were Stella Dubrowolski and Celia Barr. We were happy to welcome back several women who had recently returned. Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, the next meeting will be on December 2.

+ + +

The arrival of Hannah and John McBriar from Madison, Wisconsin, means that we now have four McBriar families here in our park: David and Eilene, Bob, Hanna and John, and Arthur and Agnes Surrency (nee McBriar). How's that for togetherness?

Talked for a while with the Hogues, who son drove them down from Indiana and will fly home after a brief stay.

Agnes and Harry Eastlack are putting the finishing touches to the installation of their new home, which is larger than the former, and beautiful inside. We wish them much happiness and many years of good living in it.

Marvin and Don Winninger have just returned from a hunting trip up Paoli, Indiana. Marvin told they hunted for five days and bagged well over one hundred quail. Out of the nine members of the hunting party six were brothers all Winningers.

Marvin and Don acquired a bird dog for the occasion, then gave it to Devon before they came back. They had to purchase a freezer so they could bring home three hogs and a steer.

The elder Winningers accompanied them on the return trip, and they were all happy to be back where there is no snow and the temperature is considerably above the 30's they left behind. Jane and Lou were delighted to have their men back, and we were all glad they had such a memorable trip.

Mrs Binns and Mrs Moran have volunteered to check with all our residents to ascertain how many will attend the Thanksgiving dinner held every year in our rec hall, and to plan the menu. The management always donates the turkeys, and it is an event everybody looks forward to.

Auxilians will hear Sweet Adelines

STUART—The December meeting of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will be held Monday, December 1st at 1:30 p.m. at St Mary's Parish Hall.

In keeping with the season, the program will be music. The Martin County Prospective Chapter of Sweet Adelines under the direction of Roberta Crawford, will render not only their traditional barbershop style of singing but Christmas music as well.

The hostesses for the day are Mary Boden, Lola Cameron, Mary Bjorklund, and Vida Butcher. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Well, the big fair day is over. It was fun, but a lot of work, too. Everyone concerned thought it was worthwhile. To no one's surprise the cake and cookie table did a booming business.

It was successful, but we do not know the exact amount yet. Next year we'll have a bigger and better one.

CAP celebrates "34th"

JENSEN BEACH--Civil Air Patrol, now celebrating its 34th anniversary, was founded Dec. 1, 1941, 6 days before Pearl Harbor with a view toward providing volunteer civilian assistance in the defense efforts of its country. The founders were vividly aware of America's shortcomings in air power, as compared with the combatants in the early stages of the war in Europe.

During the war CAP became famous when they flew their light airplanes on coastal patrol helping spot enemy submarines along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

They also performed a great variety of other civilian defense tasks during the war years to help the war effort.

Since that time the organization has devoted its efforts along the line of air search and rescue, combined with ground forces who assist, and to numerous humanitarian, search missions during local or national disasters.

Through its aerospace education program, the organization seeks to promote America's supremacy in aviation and the aerospace sciences and, through its cadet program, helps motivate its teenage members toward careers in these fields.

As Civil Air Patrol observes the 34th anniversary of its founding in those bleak days of World War II, we join in paying tribute to the dedicated, volunteer members of this unselfish organization.

Thrifty Shopper' sale

JENSEN BEACH—The Jensen Garden Club is sponsoring a Thrifty Shoppers' sale to be held at the Community Center December 5 and 6. Baked goods, plants and gift items will be featured at the sale.

Highlighting the session was guest speaker Robert Whitty. His topic "Florida Soil What's the Problem" furnished ways and means of improving the local soil to attain the proper balance so that plants may absorb water and fertilizer. He answered specific questions from those in attendance thus affording a most informative program for all.

Mrs. William Stephenson reported on the progress at The Arch. A faucet has been installed through the efforts of Vince Bocchino which will aid in watering the plants. The work is completed with the exception of laying the plastic and gravel. As soon as the gravel arrives the project will be completed.

Mrs. Arthur Mills displayed articles made from native materials using dried palmetto cones, nuts and fresh materials for wreathes door swags and table decorations.

Four capsule arrangements interpreting a Thanksgiving table setting were discussed by Mrs. Fred Morris chairman who also supplied the arrangement for the tea table. Those exhibiting were Mesdames Harold Lartaud Arthur Mills William Stephenson and Dorothea Taylor.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Floyd Jones and her committee Mrs. William Ellis Mrs. Paul Robertson and Mrs. Leon Older.

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS—Common Man John Ferra and the Duke of Norfolk (Roy Adams) listen intently to Sir Thomas More portrayed by Richard Franklin in Act I Scene I of the Robert Bolt drama to be presented at The Barn Theatre December 5, 6, 7 and succeeding weekends through December 21. Celebrated drama Dec. 5 at Barn

STUART—Robert Bolt's "A Man for All Seasons" opens at the Barn Theatre on December 5. It is the story of Sir Thomas More who was Chancellor of England in 1532 when Henry VIII broke with the Pope over the divorce of his first wife, Catherine of Aragon. Coming at the time of church reformation and great political and cultural upheaval throughout Europe, Henry's action provoked a split of the Church of England from Rome and increased tensions with Spain, Catherine's homeland. All Englishmen were compelled to choose sides.

Throughout, a man of wonderful humanity, dignity and morality is seen, a model all persons in every time could emulate.

The cast of The Martin County Players regard this play as quite a challenge.

"They will be trying to emphasize the thrill of seeing man at his finest," says Shields McManus, director. McManus has been with The Barn for three years. He has acted in several past productions and is remembered especially for his portrayal of the Frenchman in "South Pacific" last February. Shields, a Stuart attorney, has always been interested in the theatre, inheriting that interest from his mother who was active in little theatre groups as he was growing up.

Dick Franklin, who plays More, has been in the area less than a year. Already a Barn veteran, he was last seen as Felix in the highly acclaimed production of "The Odd Couple."

The Duke of Norfolk is played by Roy Adams, an actor with an impressive background, having been associated with the Uptown Players of Chicago for a number of years, where he played with such luminaries as Melvin Douglass and Tyrone Power. During the war years, while stationed in California, he corralled Kay Kaiser's band and many Hollywood starts to put on weekly performances for the thousands of sailors on their way to the Pacific.

John Ferra, in the role of the Common Man, is a familiar face to Barn theatregoers. He has performed in many past productions, including "Oliver," "Room Service" and "Tom Jones."

The entire production of "A Man for All Seasons" is in the hands of Minabelle Conant, a Martin County Players veteran. Producer Conant has been active in the Barn since its inception five years ago. In fact, this participation is a family affair, Minabelle, husband Roger, and children have been involved in some way or another in every production of the theatre group.

Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m.

ARCH CHAIRMAN–Milton Riedel, vice-chairman of the Charter Revision Committee, conducted a joint meeting with the city's Planning and Zoning Board last Monday at the Sandpiper Bay Board Room. Purpose of the meeting was to gather input from the city planners to be incorporated into the proposed city charter. The proposed charter is undergoing what the committee feels will be the final review before presenting the draft to the public.

GDC offer considered 'high'

BY ALICE BICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–The city's finance committee Tuesday labeled the $12,500 per acre selling price for the proposed city hall complex site as "plain boring to high priced."

The 23 plus acre site, previously recommended by the Planning and Zoning Committee as ideal, is situated at the intersection of Airoso and Port St. Lucie Boulevards.

General Development Corporation owners of the land situated in four tracts informally proposed selling the land to the city last October. At that time the matter was referred back to the Planning and Zoning committee and the Finance Committee for further study.

At the request of Mayor Sharpe Councilmember Lolita Kernohan who chairs the city finance committee agreed the committee would do some investigating on their own to see if they could come with a possible alternate site.

Although the Planning and Zoning Board has recommended the 23 acre tract, perhaps your committee can come up with a better deal or at least one will be able to put your mind to rest on the matter," Mayor Sharpe said Tuesday.

The current lease on the present city hall will expire January 1, 1977.

The agreement submitted by GDC stipulated that should the City acquire all 23 acres a thirty percent down payment would be called for without release with the balance payable over seven years at eight percent interest payable quarterly plus equal annual principal payments.

In the event the City would require only one tract containing approximately 10 acres the cost per acre would still be $12,500 but such a possible purchase would be for cash only.

According to GDC the cost of connecting the entire property to a main sewer system would be about $20,000.

The GDC land sale proposal was conditioned upon acceptance not later than December 10, 1975.

In developing the preliminary plan for the municipal complex the City's Planning Board divided the program into three basic parts.

Tentatively the city hall complex of adjoining buildings would not only house the city offices, but the committee visualized the future activities as including various county state and federal related services to be provided as well as the post office.

The second area would feature recreation and include an attractive shelter house for many offices of a recreation board and service areas for tennis courts shuffleboard basketball courts swimming pool and a playground for children.

Completing the proposed city hall would be professional offices and related ancillary services including medical dental accounting legal and other professional services.

ARCHEARED–Sam Lawder, director of the St. Lucie County Council on Aging, was at the North Port Marina Monday morning to meet with a number of local residents to make certain there is no misunderstanding about the transportation service which will begin December 1, 1975, continuing each Monday thereafter in North Port St. Lucie and River Park. Approximately a dozen residents were on hand to hear Lawder outline the services.

Charter revision input from P&Z

PORT ST. LUCIE–Job protection and tenure restrictions were the result of the joint meeting Monday between the Charter Revision Committee and the city's Planning and Zoning Board members.

Vice Chairman Milton Riedel had invited the P&Z Board members to attend the Monday afternoon session in the Sandpiper Bay Board Room for the purpose of acquiring their recommendations as to what they would like to see incorporated in the proposed charter.

Ed Fessel, P&Z chairman told the charter group he felt it most important that the P&Z Board be a working board with the authority to nominate its own replacements from within. These nominations would be presented to the City Council for their selection.

In an effort to keep the Planning and Zoning Board free of political influence or domination, Fessel also recommended the term of appointments and the election of officers by the Board be incorporated as a part of the proposed City Charter.

Although the P&Z Board has held the height restriction in the city to 35 feet, it was the Charter Revision Committee who favored spelling out that restriction in the new charter.

When Planner Dr. Charles Host explained the complications that could arise if the structural height was limited to 35 feet it was agreed the limit should apply to livable structures thus allowing flexibility in allowing for exceptions on a case only individual application.

Examples according to Dr. Host would be for the construction of church steeples radio and television transmitters.

The recommendation which the Charter Committee has considered will be turned over to the City Attorney for review and legal terminology.

The next meeting of the Charter Revision Committee will be held Monday in the Sandpiper Board Room at 1:30 p.m. according to Riedel.

Second Flight Kay Stabler low gross 58, Marnette Snee, low net 33.

Bus system talk scheduled

JENSEN BEACH–The commissioners in Martin and St. Lucie counties have discussed bus service in recent days and the Council of Governments (COG) will take up the subject at its Tuesday, Dec. 11 session.

General discussion on the possibility and feasibility of a tri-county bus service is one of the items on the COG agenda.

State Department of Transportation (DOT) officials met with Martin County officials last week. A study on a bus program in Martin County is expected to be ready in mid-January.

Meanwhile St. Lucie County commissioners last week shelved the idea of starting a mass transit system but pledged support to the nine-year old senior citizen bus line.

The Council on Aging in Martin County has operated a bus and escort system for senior citizens for more than a year and council officials point out that there is a distinct need for public transportation. And Sam Lawder executive director of the Community Action Organization (CAO) in St. Lucie County, also points out that the CAO buses are for people over the years of age who have no access to transportation in the household.

Our bus does not cover the needs for public transportation," a council on Aging official said. "There is a large need that is not being filled because we don't carry anyone under the age of 60.

Kimley and Horn and Associates of West Palm Beach will draw up several alternatives for a transit system in Martin County.

It is the second phase of a mass transit development study for the county.

Martin County paid $8,000 for Phase I, held in 1974 and the staff turned over $7,500 for Phase II to be handled under DOT supervision.

An advisory committee will be formed within the next few weeks to assist the consultants in the discussion of public interest.

Consultants for the study hope to determine the operating costs and locating funds to build the system.

Council on Aging buses provide door-to-door service for seniors to shopping and medical complexes. It operates two days a week north of Stuart, two days south of Stuart and has hauled 9,586 riders at 86 passenger miles in its first year that ended in October.

Sr. St. Lawder added. Lawder reported that the bus system averages 925 riders a month and the total annual operation cost for the school 12 passenger buses is $27,000.

Lawder said the problem is the two buses aren't enough to serve all areas of the county.

COA starting bus service in area

PORT ST. LUCIE–The St. Lucie County Council on Aging, in the interest of the elderly in North Port St. Lucie and River Park areas will begin operation of bus transporta tion Monday, December 1 and each Monday thereafter.

Although the Council has only two buses that already carry 1,150 riders a month a change in scheduling has been made so that those being stranded in those areas may have an opportunity to have at least one day for shopping.

One bus will be available with first trip beginning at 1 p.m. and the second trip at 2 p.m. Anyone wishing transportation must call the office 466-3226 anytime Tuesday through Friday of the week prior to the Monday schedule.

The first trip to call will be transported at 1 p.m. The second trip will leave at 2 p.m. There will be approximately two hours for shopping. The bus will drop passengers at Port St. Lucie Shopping Center, J.M. Fields, Searstown, Grand Plaza and the downtown mall.

Eligible riders are persons 60 years of age and older with no transportation within the household. These guidelines are directed by the Division of Aging, Tallahassee.

According to the area to be covered the bus will pick up riders as close to one or as near as possible as time permits. Due to the carrying capacity of the bus only one member of a family can make use of the service at a time.

There will need to be complete cooperation of the riders with the bus driver.

There will be no fee charged but donations will be accepted.

Demos gain 58 members

PORT ST. LUCIE–Fifty eight new members were enrolled when a standing room only crowd of more than 160 persons attended a recent meeting of the South St. Lucie County Democratic Club.

Following a repast of hot dogs beer and other delicacies, Sheriff Lanie Norvell addressed the group talking about law enforcement and how lay people can help combat crime. A spokesman expressed the club's appreciation of Norvell's acceptance of their invitation in view of his rigorous schedule and heavy work load.

Serving on the hospitality committee were Emily Fennell, Helen Lewis and Lil Hoffman.

C. R. Seelinger superintendent of St. Lucie County schools was among the local dignitaries present.

President Larry Johnston expressed pleasure with the large turnout and thanked all who donated food for the occasion.

The next regular meeting will be held at 8 p.m. December 10, at the North Port Marina.

Mayor salary is cut by $200

PORT ST. LUCIE–Effective Dec. 1 Mayor Schuyler Sharpe will take home $200 a month less due to a resolution approved by the City Council Tuesday.

At his own request the Mayors salary was reduced from $500 to $300 per month.

The reduction will apply only to Mayor Sharpe and will not affect any succeeding Mayors of the City of Port St. Lucie.

For several months Mayor Schuyler Sharpe had contributed one of his monthly salary back to the city earmarked for beautification projects.

Tuesday's action will eliminate considerable bookkeeping and according to Assistant City Attorney Alfred J. Horowitz the move is a perfectly legal one.

City rejects electric bids

PORT ST. LUCIE–Another delay in obtaining lights at Sportsmens Park was forthcoming Tuesday when the City Council rejected all bids submitted for the completion of the electrical work at the park.

When the four bids received for the proposed project varied in the amount of $24,000 the Council voted unanimously to reject the bids and refer the matter to the city's consulting engineer for a complete investigation of the specifications.

Thomas Electric of Fort Pierce the only local bidder submitted the lowest figure of $31,930.56 while R. Hunt Inc. of West Palm Beach bid $36,018.

The other contractors included Dixon of Cocoa $37,260.79 and Ackerman Inc. of Fort Worth with a bid of $41,866.96.

With the extreme variation city officials feared there had been some misinterpretation of the specifications pertaining to the work.

STUDENTS–Getting ready for the show and sale scheduled for Sunday, November 30; from 1 to 4 p.m. at The Marina are students of Mrs. Donna Privateer. The public is invited. There will be free refreshments. The art class is sponsored by Indian River Community College.

Flag kits offered at special price

PORT ST. LUCIE–An organization spearheaded by the Port St. Lucie Woman's Club is offering flag kits to help celebrate the Bicentennial. Dorothy Sue Cooper, who is selling a unique "Do the Flag Kit" is a member of the club's Bicentennial committee.

The kits, which contain all the materials necessary to make the flag, are available at the Port St. Lucie Women's Club with the address of Post Office Box 1, Port St. Lucie. Cooper said.

Each kit contains enough material to make a flag measuring 5 feet by 9½ feet. Cooper said. The kits are selling at a unique "Do the Flag Kit" at a cost of enclosed price for the kit including postage.

The kits, which are available in blue and white, are packaged in a plastic container. A flag carrying handle and metal stuff complete the kit, which comes complete with the rope necessary to raise the flag.

Packaged in a red, white and blue carton, the kit makes a unique gift item for the holiday season.

For more information on the planned supply, persons may contact one of the following members of the Women's Club: Mrs. Helene Forster, Sunnyside Estates, 878-2258; Mrs. Barbara Gillespie, in Lauderdale Manor, 466-4299; or Mrs. Harold Russell of North Port St. Lucie, 429-9951.

Register to vote in Jensen

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Supervisor of Elections Sandra Randolph will be at the Jensen Beach Plaza on Commercial Street Saturday, Dec. 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

I will be at the shopping center in a Red Cross mobile unit to register persons qualified to vote or persons wishing to change addresses in Martin County," Mrs. Randolph said.

We will have a sign on the trailer so people will be aware of where to go," she said.

It will be my first time to use the Red Cross trailer, and it should be a tremendous help," Mrs. Randolph pointed out.

She said the visit to Jensen Beach area, her first, is part of her plan to take her office "to the people."

It really is an extension of the program I started in 1972," she noted.

Mrs. Randolph said she registered 1,25 persons during November during her visits to four county communities.

We will be going to more areas in December and January before the books close Jan. 24."

The registration books close Jan. 24 for the March 9 presidential primary.

I will be back in the Jensen Beach area in June or July to register voters before the registration books close for the September primaries," Mrs. Randolph said.

Honor presidents

Chamber installation dinner is Friday

JENSEN BEACH--Recognition of all past presidents will be the highlight of the annual installation dinner of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce Friday, Dec. 5, at the Outrigger Restaurant.

The evening begins at 6:30 p.m. with a reception and the dinner starts at 7:30 p.m.

After a pledge to the flag, the head table guests will be introduced, and then there will be the introduction of past presidents.

Many of the past presidents have indicated that they plan to attend the dinner.

Outgoing president Art Hansen will give a report on the past year's activities, and will present awards to returning directors.

Installing officer will be former Martin County Commission Chairman and former chamber president (1955) Frank Wacha.

New president L.D. Kirkpatrick will make a speech and introduce the principal speaker for the evening, Donald Stoppel, development director of Florida Institute of Technology.

Dean Tim Tealey of FIT will be master of ceremonies.

Officers for the new year, along with Kirkpatrick, include Jack Klett, vice president; Marilyn Epstein, secretary, and Jack Davis, treasurer.

Directors, to be installed, include Joseph Bumbera, R.C. Clemens, Pete Henry, Buck Maddin and Ann Baron.

Tickets are $6.50 per person and reservations must be made by calling the chamber office, 334-3444.

Boat Show on causeway

JENSEN BEACH--More than [illegible] persons are expected to attend the second annual Marine Industries Association of Florida Boat Show Friday through Sunday, Dec. 5-7, on the Jensen Beach Causeway, show chairman Bertram Reed said.

Two things will boost our attendance this year," Reed said.

First, we are holding the show on December when most of our other competitors are here and second there is a growing interest in boating in our area."

Reed said that last year's attendance was [illegible].

There will be a host of marine related exhibits as well as boats and motors, Reed said. Representatives of

We will have exhibits of marine accessories, marine electronics, boat financing, air conditioners and other marine products," Reed said.

There will be added special interest attractions on Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday there will be an eight man rowing race and Sunday sailboats will take the spotlight with many boats expected to participate," Reed noted.

He said the show sponsors will be Zam Bessenger and Chris Burnett.

They will be on hand during the show to welcome visitors," Reed said.

He said there will be a complete show program free to those who attend, and admission is free.

Countdown starts on Community Fund

JENSEN BEACH--Workers began [illegible] for a drive to bring the Jensen Beach Rio Community Fund to the $18,000 goal in the next few [illegible] days, as the fund passed the [illegible] mark Monday.

[illegible] totaling $1,800 brought the fund total to $10,344, according to Vaughn Tilton, president.

The past week's large donations included $100 gifts from Customers of [illegible] and Randy Steel, a $100 donation from A&W Inn, and a [illegible] donation of $50 from W.H. [illegible].

[illegible] were turned in, $65 [illegible] and $1,130 was reported [illegible] but not yet turned in.

We hope that all the citizens in the need of our local agencies [illegible] will put the drive over the top [illegible] next few weeks," Mrs. Tilton said. We are trying to contact all persons to have them wrap up their [illegible] so we know how close we are [illegible] meet the [illegible].

Agencies supported by the Jensen Beach Rio Community Fund [illegible] Samaritan, Free Ambulance, the boys and girl scouts, Girls Club, Mars Hill Community Center and Martin County Council on Aging.

The drive exceeds the $16,000 [illegible] funds will be distributed to the Red Cross, Mental Health Association and Animal Rescue [illegible].

Tilton urged all who have not [illegible] or have not yet been [illegible] contacted to send their contributions to Jensen Beach Rio Community Fund, PO Box 134, Jensen Beach, Florida.

For the area persons wishing to have their area captain contact them, their gift may be given to the captain.

Area captains include:

Kiwanis golf tourney Saturday

JENSEN BEACH--The annual Golf Tournament of the Kiwanis Club of Jensen Beach will be held Saturday, Dec. 6 at Sandpiper Bay Sinners Course at Port St. Lucie.

Starting time is 9 o'clock on a first-served basis, according to tournament director Dick Campbell.

The $15 fee includes greens fees and cart, and Campbell pointed out, We need the golfer's name and address and phone number so we can get your prize to you if you win."

There will be special features in the tournament, including longest drive and closest to the hole, Campbell said.

Golfers should send their checks and information to Dick Campbell, PO Box 787, Jensen Beach, Fla. 33457. For further information call 334-4113.

Federal funds

Solar auditorium 'on' again

JENSEN BEACH--The Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach has reinstated its application for funds to construct a solar auditorium, center director Jay Jarrett said Monday.

We had offered to withdraw our application on the grounds that it did not meet all the requirements," Jarrett said.

However, we received a phone call from the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) assuring me that our original application was still under consideration."

The center submitted its application last April, but Jarrett received a letter from ERDA last October which led him to believe that the center's application did not meet all the requirements of the most recent set of application guidelines.

We were assured that our original application was still under consideration," Jarrett said.

Our Solar Auditorium Committee will meet Thursday night, Dec. 4 to get organized," he said.

An update on present solar energy technology will be presented to the committee," Jarrett added.

The center is seeking $150,000 of the approximately $100 million in grants to be given by ERDA.

We are asking the federal government to pick up the entire cost of the building from the ground up, and it shouldn't cost the school board a cent," Jarrett said.

We have a better than even chance of getting the money."

A 150 seat auditorium is planned with a lobby with space for exhibits and demonstrations.

In addition to heating and cooling, Jarrett said the planners propose that distillation of salt water with solar power can be demonstrated.

The purpose of the project is to show that solar energy doesn't have to be expensive, according to Jarrett.

Center gets program mail

JENSEN BEACH--Approximately 150 Florida educators have requested information about the Jensen Beach Environmental Studies Center's program and consultant services, director Jay Jarrett said.

Jarrett said materials are being sent to the school officials and "we will wait for further response."

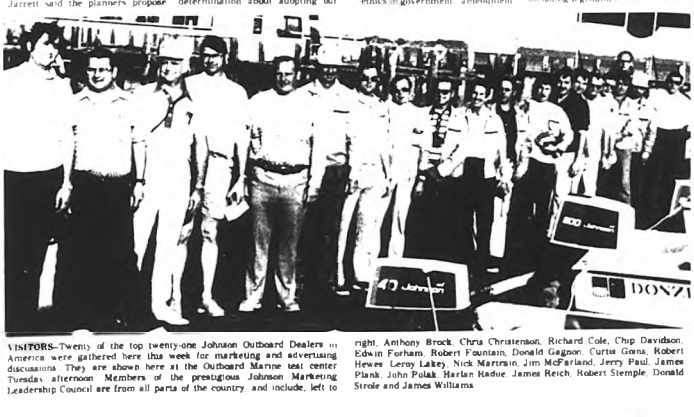
We expect a few will ask to visit and look us over prior to making a determination about adopting our program," Jarrett said.

Two pilot implementations of the fourth grade program in St. Lucie County has been scheduled and the program, to a group of administrators and teachers will be presented Dec. 10 in Fort Pierce, according to Jarrett.

Commissioner is drive leader

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Commissioner Maggy Hurchalla has been named chairman of the 10th Congressional District for Gov. Reubin Askew's petition drive for an "ethics in government" amendment to the Florida Constitution.

The proposed amendment calls for full financial disclosure by all constitutional officers in the state, including legislators.



VISITORS--Twenty of the top twenty-one Johnson Outboard Dealers in America were gathered here this week for marketing and advertising discussions. They are shown here at the Outboard Marine test center Tuesday afternoon. This will be for the sale of stamps and the mailing of parcels. No money orders will be on sale at this time.

Basketball registration

JENSEN BEACH--Registration for the Optimist Club's Junior and Pony Basketball leagues will start Saturday, December 6 and continue on Saturday, December 13.

Tryouts and registration for girls and boys between the ages of 8 and 15 will be held at Langford Park from 12 noon to 1 p.m.

Tax 'avoidance' is outlined at meeting

JENSEN BEACH--Local merchants learned that "the name of the game is tax avoidance," Monday morning as the second monthly breakfast club meeting was held at Holiday Inn-Oceanside.

Local certified public accountant [illegible] merchants that the tax laws were set up to provide rules for the Internal Revenue Service to get as much tax money as it can, and for citizens to avoid as much taxes as they can.

He gave the merchants a list of criteria used by the IRS to audit income tax returns. The list included deductions used for contributions, interest, taxes, medical and total deductions as a percentage of adjusted gross income.

If you stay within the bounds of the figures you can virtually assure yourself of no audit and get through the IRS computer, Cottom said. He added that all businesses should play by the rules, and not try to claim more than is proper, because sooner or later the IRS will catch up with you.

The next meeting of the breakfast club will be held the second Monday morning of January, due to the holiday season.

Early mailing schedule

JENSEN BEACH--Postmaster [illegible] has issued continuous listings of residents of Jensen Beach to mail as early as possible and observe the following suggested holiday mailing dates:

Riveria puts end to PS winning streak

BY DONNIE WILKIE

STUART—Quarterback Ken Jones threw two touchdown bombs in key situations last weekend to help defeat the previously undefeated Pt. Salerno Panthers Senior Division team 12-7 in the second annual Sailfish Bowl Football Classic.

Jones' final pass was a 35-yarder to Kevin Baker with only 1:56 remaining in the game. Up until that time the Panthers had clung to a narrow 7-6 lead.

Riviera had taken the lead with :31 to go in the first half when Jones hurled a 42-yard spiral to Charles Gibbs, who caught the ball at the five and high-stepped into the end zone. The extra point try however fell short as Cleveland Coolidge was held for no gain.

Early in the third quarter, Jeff Smith took it in from five yards out to cap off a 63-yard drive which took ten plays. Jimmy Clabo converted the extra point on a three-yard run, and the Panthers had the lead for the first time and the last.

Immediately after the touchdown the Panthers Danny Rose recovered a fumble at the 32-yard-line of the Riviera Eagles and the Senior Division Champions had a golden opportunity to close the lid on the coffin.

After a six-yard run by Clabo and a 15-yard face masking penalty placed the pigskin at the eleven, four downs later Port Salerno was no points richer and 17 yards poorer after a series of losses.

Port Salerno (8-1) won the Senior Division three weeks ago at Langford Park in a 32-14 thriller over the Indiantown Firebirds (6-2).

In other Sailfish Bowl action the Lower Division All-Stars led by Jensen Beach quarterback Brad Larsen annihilated Wynnebrook of West Palm Beach 22-0.

C.D. Atkins of Stuart opened the scoring with a 47-yard interception return to give the All-Stars a 7-0 halftime lead. Then in the third quarter Larsen ran for one yards and a 13-0 lead on a quarterback sneak.

Tom Daniels broke the game open late in the fourth quarter with a 72-yard return and run of a pass from Larsen. Daniels sight-toped his way down the right sideline and outran the Wynnebrook secondary en route to a 20-0 lead.

The All-Stars capped off the scoring with 40 seconds to go in the game when Rick Johnson, son of Jensen Beach area Exabus representative Jack Johnson, tackled Wynnebrook quarterback Tommy Coppolo in the end zone for a safety.

The only other action of the day saw Jupiter's Riverside defeat the Senior Division All-Stars 20-0 in a rather sloppily played bungalow. Fumbles plagued both sides, and defense was the dominant force on the rain soaked, mud bound Wendall Pistole and Clarence "Pop" Delancy were standouts for the All-Stars. All three are from Jensen Beach.

The only score of the game came when, with only 11 seconds left in the first half, Marvin Bozeno caught a 30-yard bomb for a touchdown. Ron Butler's extra point run was good and Jupiter had all the points they would get—and all that they would need to get.

Tigers trounce Pahokee in opener

STUART—Led by All-American candidate Walter Campbell and Lawrence Dowling and a ball hawking defense that wouldn't give up the Martin County Tigers successfully opened their basketball season here last Friday night with a 67-30 victory over the Pahokee Blue Devils.

Pahokee (0-2) was playing at a distinct disadvantage in that most of their varsity basketball players also play football, and the Blue Devil football squad was participating in the State Championship Playoffs in Melbourne against Central Catholic. To make things even worse, the football team won. Unfortunately the basketball team wasn't as lucky.

Martin County opened the game with eight points in the first minute and eighteen seconds before Pahokee tallied its first points a jumper by Art McKay to make it 8-2. But the Tigers combination of the boards started to show and the home team ran off 25 points without any response from the Blue Devils. By the end of the first quarter, Martin County was setting the pace 33-2.

The second quarter was not much different except that Pahokee scored four buckets. The Tigers run of 30 points ended with 6:47 to go in the second quarter when Everett Pittman of Pahokee dropped one in from six feet out. The halftime score was 63-10 also usually in favor of the Tigers.

The halftime stats were unbelievable. Campbell had missed only one shot from the field and had scored 23 points in all. Laverne McFadden had 12 while Dowling had 8.

The second half went just like the first and although Campbell did not score any in the second half, mainly because he played only a couple of minutes. The Tigers were still overpowering. Also, Tony Flowers asserted in the middle. Flowers, perhaps the best backup center in the state, showed his strength with 11 points and eight rebounds.

The Tigers take the court for their third game of the season and their first on the road this Friday night at Vero Beach against the Fighting Indians. Next Tuesday, they travel to Lake Worth to play their first conference game against John U. Lennard's Lancers. Martin County's next home game is against the Key West Conchs on Friday, December 12.

Football banquet is this Thursday

JENSEN BEACH—With the Junior Football League season now completed, it is time for the annual Jensen Beach football banquet.

The dinner will be held this Thursday night at the Jensen Beach Elementary School and all football players along with any other youngsters who participate in the sports programs at Langford Park are invited.

The Jensen Beach Optimist Club was trying to get Sal Moore, Miami Dolphins wide receiver and kickoff return specialist to speak at the dinner. However it was still uncertain at press time as to whether or not Moore would be able to come.

The decision to invite all youngsters in the area to the banquet was made some time ago in the Optimist Clubs Board of Directors.

T-Birds edge Cabana Colony

STUART—James Shanks' 47-yard touchdown and a perfect defensive performance gave the Indiantown Thunderbirds a 6-0 victory over Cabana Colony in the second annual Sailfish Bowl Football Classic.

Indiantown was able to move the ball at will against a hapless Harder defense, while the T-Bird defense completely shut down their opponents. Cabana Colony had only 24 yards of total offense.

Shanks' run came in only the sixth play from scrimmage on a third down and fifteen at the T-Bird 47 yard line. The all purpose runner took the handoff from quarterback Robert White, broke to the outside and then ran wide in the end zone celebrating his accomplishment.

The Thunderbirds (8-3) in Martin County's regular class appeared to be on the way for another score after Isaac Young—a 44 yard run midway through the first period but the best they could do was to get the ball to the Cabana Colony 10 yard line.

Ron Baker led the Raiders in rushing with 84 yards on 15 carries while Shanks led Indiantown runners with 102 yards on 20 carries. Young only carried twice but picked up 48 yards for the T-Birds.

Indiantown's only other scoring opportunity went to the wards when, late in the third quarter, Robbie Souza, in the open in the end zone, dropped a pass from Willie that would have given Indiantown a 12-0 lead.

Each team picked up four first downs during the game.

Christmas party

STUART—Boys and girls kindergarten through fifth grade are invited to attend an hour of stories, songs and surprise events when the Martin County Public Library presents a Christmas story hour and party on December 16.

Robert L. Tilson, Jr. of Jupiter caught a 9-ft. sailfish and a 6-ft. 8-in. wahoo aboard the Rainbow with Captain Bob Pelton.

Richard H. Langdon, Port St. Lucie, a 31-lb. wahoo caught while fishing from the Nassau II with Captain Wm. W. Donaldson.

Steve Steele, Jensen Beach, for a 4-ft. 8-in. fluke.

Shaffer and Schweiger set pace

STUART—North-south winners Sid Schweiger and Grant Shaffer set the pace when the Stuart Duplicate Club held its regular weekly session on Thanksgiving Eve. With seven tables in play, average north-south was 30. Each west average was 60.

Shaffer and Schweiger had 84% to lead both directions. Other north-south winners were Morris Berg and M. Norman, second with 78½; third Gladys and Elmer Nordstrom, 71½ for third.

Winners east-west were Joe Lewis and Roger White 65. Mr. and Mrs. Laurens McKinley, 64½; Jean and Mart Stapleton, 60½.

Game time is 7:30 every Wednesday evening. Roger White is director and a partners are always available.

Venture Out News

FROM THE PINCH BITTERS
By Jackie Phillips

Welcome home, Mary Ellen. We were glad to hear that Mary Ellen Meachum left the hospital Saturday evening. After a good rest at beautiful Venture Out, we're sure she will soon join her many friends in all of the activities planned for the future.

Congratulations are due the recreation committee for the well planned, delicious, turkey dinner served Thanksgiving Day. We have heard nothing but praise on the whole affair.

* * *

Welcome, Toad Bowling. Those of us on Swordfish Lane were glad to see Toad arrive, knowing that where Toad is, Lucy is sure to follow. However Lucy won't be here until January for she is busy helping daughter Cindy recuperate from ear surgery, as well as getting ready to welcome their other daughter and family from California for the holidays. Toad is getting their lot, boat and trailer ship-shape then he will fly home, enjoy the holidays with the Bowling family and bring Lucy back with him.

* * *

Mate and Bill Greuling, Bob and Marge Owen drove to Lighthouse Point on Monday to attend the General Motors Retired Employees Exec. Club Christmas Luncheon. A good time was had by all.

* * *

Five Sidewalk Superintendents and Bob Owen felled Owen's dead palm tree last week. Someone remarked that the Owens had set a record: 3 big palm trees in the same hole. One of the superintendents asked Bob, "Are you sure you're setting it down with water?" No answer.

* * *

Good to have Grace and Gus Thau of 606 back, and Millie Ludwig on 605.

* * *

Cora Lee and Ward Irwin welcomed their daughter and son-in-law and granddaughter Beth Ellen for Thanksgiving. Grandpa Ward had some exercise he hadn't counted on, walking for Beth Ellen took over his golf cart and drove it around the park like a veteran. She's as cute as a button, just like her grandmother.

The snow birds are returning. Those arriving in time for Thanksgiving were John and Dot Harris and Bill and Helen Vandler Heck.

Steve and Lucille Baloski spent Thanksgiving in Clearwater with Lucille's father and niece.

* * *

The Men's Club billiard tournament was won this week by Chuck Ward.

By Jessie Shaver

Holiday time brings visitors to enjoy our beautiful weather and location. If I miss telling of any, it is because I didn't hear of it so call me please when you have visitors or go on trips.

* * *

Catherine Higgins is home from the hospital and is improving. She was able to be home to enjoy Thanksgiving with daughter Ann and family of Jensen Beach, and her sister and grandson who were here for a visit.

* * *

Al and Betty Jones had friends from Hollywood for a few days. They are Marion and Jim Jost who are getting ready to take a 37 day trailer trip in their motor coach to Mexico.

* * *

Thelma and Max Dickey have Elsie and M. Bower of Valparaiso, Ind. as guests.

* * *

Louise Shephard had Tery Riggs and his mother Winifred Riggs of the Isle of Jersey as visitors recently. Louise spent Thanksgiving Day with friends, Fran and Dutch Heilenmith who live in Okeechobee.

* * *

Edith and Dick Painter had daughter Margie and her husband, Bucker Terry, with Joanna and Lee of Jacksonville here for Thanksgiving. Then son Richard Painter of Connecticut came in the day after. He is staying some time with them.

* * *

Betty and Paul Drinkard had as weekend guests Betty's mother and father, Evelyn and Claude Arnold of Ft. Lauderdale.

* * *

Jessie and Lester Shaver had as Thanksgiving guests their daughter Mary and her husband Rodney Branch also granddaughter Sharon and grandson Rodney, Jr. and Thomas.

* * *

Had a letter from Alan and Barbara Clark in which they send their regards to all. They say they are anxious to get back to Venture Harbour. They plan to leave Connecticut on January 2nd or 3rd to return. They will tell us then about their enjoyable trip to Africa.

* * *

Joe Freitag reports that quite a few have signed up and purchased their tickets for the Barn Theater party on December 13. Still time to get in touch with Joe if you want to attend.

By Velma Yates

The entertainment committee of Venture Out Venture Harbour, chaired by Mary Ellen Meachum, had on its agenda a Thanksgiving dinner. When Mary Ellen became ill three lovely gals, Marge Owens, Mabel Cook and Lula Bonar, volunteered to be co-chairpersons. They organized the affair and with the assistance of their committees of willing men and women created a near miracle.

The recreation hall was transformed. The theme was in the true Thanksgiving tradition: pilgrims, turkeys and greenery covered the walls. The tables were decorated with fresh greenery and flowers and orange candles. The food was plentiful and delicious. Seconds were offered to all, again in the Thanksgiving tradition.

The spirit of Thanksgiving was present and we then and now give thanks again to be able to join with our family, our friends and neighbors to enjoy the fruits of our great land.

An exceptionally happy footnote: Mary Ellen is out of the hospital and recuperating at home.

Open door - to a point

YOUNG AND YOUNGER–Mrs. Mel Broom was among those present at the Port St. Lucie Shopping Center last Friday evening to greet Santa Claus when the younger of the youngsters had their turns on Santa's lap. Mrs. Broom seized the opportunity to tell her favorite Santa what she would like

Officials discuss park plan

PORT ST. LUCIE–Members of the Port Pierce-St. Lucie County Recreation Board presented the City Council with a proposed agreement relative to Sportsmen's Park during a workshop session conducted Tuesday at City Hall.

Whereas the agreement confirms the St. Lucie County Commission has budgeted the sum of $14,000 for the 1975-76 fiscal year for the development and/or operation of the facility, it also stipulates the park will be open for the use of all county residents.

Councilman Bill McChesney objected to the open door policy.

"I realize the County has budged $14,000 toward the Park facility but bear in mind, the City has put in a great deal more than that toward the purchase and development of the park.

While in my opinion, it is not the intention of the city to close the door to county residents, I do feel we (the city) should have a little more to say as to the priority regarding the park use and scheduling," McChesney told his listeners.

Councilman Larry Kimmel sided with McChesney, saying he would hate to see in the distant future county residents arriving by the bus load at Sportsmen's Park monopolizing the entire facility without the people of Port St. Lucie having some priority.

Although Tom Kindred, who heads the County Recreation Department, stated he could foresee no problems with county residents taking over the park, he had no objections to the City Attorney Spencer Gilbert inserting a paragraph into the agreement which would insure that park scheduling would be coordinated between city and county officials.

Both of the County and State Little League handle their own scheduling throughout the county.

It is likely the agreement will be finalized within the week.

General Development Corporation donated the park site to the City of Port St. Lucie last September. The deed for the 16 acre site was explicit in restricting the use of the land for park and recreation purposes only.

Priority has included $30,000 in the 1975-76 budget earmarked to start the improvements at the park.

PRESENTS AGREEMENT–Tom Kindred, head of the Fort Pierce-St. Lucie County Recreation Board, Tuesday presented the city council with a tentative agreement relative to the development and operation of Sportsmen's Park.

Council rejects model home rules

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–The model home ordinance which the city Planning and Zoning Board had worked so diligently to prepare was rejected by the Council at Tuesday's workshop session.

While there were no objections voiced by the builders present or their legal counsel to the restrictions on the use of flags, banners, signs or business activities conducted on the premises, they did object strongly on four major points of the proposed ordinance.

All four points of disagreement, however, seemed to center on the proper definition of a model home.

As one builder put it: "All the homes in Port St. Lucie are model homes."

Stuart Attorney John Darlison, representing the builders, told the Council the ordinance as proposed although it does not come right out and say it, suggests the model home constitutes a nuisance by its mere existence.

Other points opposed by the builders included the limitation of 18 months the model is to be used as such; the quarter mile limitation between models constructed and living in the models.

It was suggested by the Council that P&Z Board members meet with the builders, or their legal counsel and see if a meeting of the minds can't result in an ordinance everyone can live with.

Proposed charter could limit council spending

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–With both the city attorney and his assistant present at the Monday meeting of the Charter revision committee, members had the opportunity of discussing at length the possibility of placing limitations on the city council with regard to spending surplus funds out of the city treasury.

Although there were no set figures established at the moment, the committee is talking in terms of limiting the council spending to just more than twenty percent of the surplus in any fiscal year without referendum.

"We have been toying around with some way of limiting the council's capacity to expend surplus funds without referendum for some time," vice-chairman Milton Riedel said Monday evening, adding: At this point the committee is in agreement the council should not be permitted to reduce the total surplus in the city treasury below eighty percent of what it was at the beginning of the fiscal year.

"Whether or not job protection height and density limitations should be incorporated in the proposed charter was another topic which was discussed at length.

At the suggestion of City Attorney Spencer Gilbert, the board proposes to extend an invitation to a gentleman from Fort Pierce to discuss the ins and outs as pertains to the function of a city charter in relation to the zoning and planning boards.

According to Gilbert, the person he has in mind has a great deal of expertise to offer along these lines and should prove to be a big help to the revision committee.

The next meeting of the Charter Committee will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Patio Room of the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

P & Z polishes off law

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–No major changes were forthcoming relative to the city's proposed zoning ordinance during the special meeting conducted Monday by the Planning and Zoning Board.

The special session was called for the purpose of polishing off the proposed document and as one board member stated, making certain all the t's have been dotted and the i's crossed.

Aside from corrected a few typographical errors spotted by the scrutinizing board, the document was approved and will be forwarded to the city attorney for his review.

Once the document has the stamp of approval from the city attorney as far as legality and terminology are concerned, the ordinance will then be presented to the Council by the Planning and Zoning Board for its adoption, hopefully the first of January.

Last week when members of the Planning and Zoning Board met with the Charter revision committee they expressed the desire to see the proposed City Charter provide assurance that all matters pertaining to future planning or zoning would be referred to the P&Z Board.

Under the present ordinance such short cuts are theoretically a possibility, the will of the people and the P&Z Board could be ignored.

Although the P&Z Board has the authority to do no more than review and recommend a project to the Council, it would take a four-fifths vote of the Council to over-ride the recommendation.

Charter revision vice-chairman Milton Riedel assured P&Z members attending the joint meeting that such a provision would be considered in the proposed charter.

Because the original zoning ordinance, 70-1, has been amended and re-amended time and time again, the P&Z Board has been working for several months to "put it together" and tie up all loose ends in the proposed zoning laws, likely to become Ordinance 76-1.

Boat Show on causeway

JENSEN BEACH–More than 30,000 persons are expected to attend the second annual Marine Industries Association (MIA) Boat Show today through Sunday, Dec. 5-7 on the Jensen Beach Causeway, show chairman Herman Reitz said.

"Two things will boost our attendance this year," Reitz said. "First we are holding the show in December when more of our winter visitors are here and, second there is a growing interest in boating in our area.

Reitz said that last year's attendance was 12,000.

There will be types of marine related exhibits as well as boats and motors, the chairman pointed out.

"We will have exhibits of marine accessories, marine insurance, boat financing, yacht furniture, and other marine products," Reitz said.

There will be added special events attractions on Saturday and Sunday.

"On Saturday there will be an all-woman crew rowing race and Sunday sailboats will take the limelight with many boats expected to participate," Reitz noted.

He said the show queens will be Miss Bessemer and Chris Bonert. "They will be on hand during the show to welcome everyone," Reitz said.

Jury reports on records

PORT ST. LUCIE–Financial irregularities in the City of Port St. Lucie bookkeeping procedures were criticized in a St. Lucie County Grand Jury report released on Tuesday.

In the interim report, the grand jury found "no justification" for city officials to maintain the accounting procedures in the manner which they did, particularly since evidence indicates that accountants of the city pointed out the deficiencies to the city officials prior to the audit.

It also was pointed out in the Grand Jury report the questionable legality of the city council members serving as city employees with a suggestion that Port St. Lucie may wish to investigate recovering all of those salaries paid out.

Auto expense reimbursements were criticized, although the jury found no criminal wrongdoings in that bookkeeping.

And the city pension fund was labelled as not in the best interest of the citizens of the city.

The Grand Jury has been reviewing the state auditor general's audit of the city between July 1, 1968 and May 31, 1975.

State Attorney Robert Stone said last September that he had received several complaints pertaining to alleged violations.

Stone said the scope of the Grand Jury investigation is expected to include apparent irregularities discovered in a recently conducted state audit of the city's finances.

Kiwanis golf tourney is Saturday at Sinners

JENSEN BEACH–The annual Golf Tournament of the Kiwanis Club of Jensen Beach will be held Saturday Dec. 6 at Sandpiper Bay Sinners Course at Port St. Lucie.

Starting time is "first-come, first-served basis," according to tournament director Dick Campbell.

The $15 fee includes greens fees and cart and Campbell pointed out, "We need the golfer's name and address and phone number so we can get your prize to you if you win."

There will be special features in the tournament, including longest drive and closest to the hole, Campbell said.

Golfers should send their checks and information to Dick Campbell, PO Box 787, Jensen Beach, Fla., 33457. For further information, call 334-4333.

Philomena takes main prize

PORT ST. LUCIE–Even though she was busy looking after her flock, Philomena Esperfido kept track of the main business of the evening and took home the Friday Night Gang's main prize last week.

The Gang Stranger had a good report coming up with Teddy DeArruda back after a long stay up north, Grace Commisar back after a long illness, and present for the first time, June Ryan originally from Glassboro, New Jersey.

In an effort to enlarge the Gang's Ten Pin Kitty, Fran Lee donated a large doll which was raffled off, raising $11. Fran's good friend, Marie Renz was the winner and the doll is going to Austell, Georgia, the home of Irene Hunt and Marie Renz's great granddaughter.

In a report on the Toys for the Kids at Head Start project, the host stated that with added donations to the fund, particularly the last one of $50 from the PSL Yacht Club, he is happy to say that the kids are going to have a happy Christmas.

A committee, chaired by Thelma Weigel, spent Saturday in Stuart buying toys and will meet again to check over all the toys purchased.

F. C. ROSE, JR.

TAKES COMMAND–For the first time since his election to office, Vice-Mayor Frank Rose took over the helm of the Port St. Lucie governing body during the Tuesday workshop session. Rose is filling in for vacationing Mayor Schuyler Sharpe.

Billy Schumacher wins

Top racing drivers pit skills in our boats

BY DICK CAMPBELL

MIAMI—Seattle bakers sweep Bill Schumacher rallied the Bill Muncey Marine Invitational Race piece of German chocolate cake as he collected the $10,000 first prize money.

Schumacher, who is champion of the unlimited field and won the Champion Spark Plug Regatta last Spring, beat fourteen other champions in a race that featured Made on Stuart" labels on the ruresults both alike boats that made steering skill the only factor in the four heats.

The Outboard Marine Test Center Stuart handicapped seventeen boats, tested each, and then tuned them to between 75 horsepower and 80 horsepower.

Speeds to within one mile an hour of each other to provide the equipment for fifteen international racing stars in the ABC televised Wide World of Sports event.

The race will be shown on television some time in January.

It was a razor-sharp start that led to Schumacher's win, for no one in the following boats could touch him as he led off, hitting the buoys on the stop watch second of starting time.

It was the same in the previous three heats. The leading driver with the fastest start won the race.

Seventeen boats were enough for the fifteen racers. Two of the boats crashed in the opening heat, before the start, and the remaining fifteen went all the way, a tribute to the tuning of Stuart OMC technicians.

Geoff Briggs of New York took second place, followed by Roger Jenkins, England, and Johnnie Sanders, Denver, Colorado, placed fourth.

The fourteen foot Seebold racers averaged above sixty miles per hour in the three six lap heats and the final ten lap marathon. Following American Power Boat Association rules, only twelve drivers competed in the final race.

If there was a "goat" of the day it was Vancouver's Berry Woods. He collided with Brazil's Wally Frank as the boats were warming up for the first heat, barely made the start after finishing fourteenth in the first two heats, and then in second place in the final lap of the race sputtered to a stop losing his place and $1,000 runner up winnings.

The sun was bright and the water calm as the drivers began drawing lots for their boats.

Mickey Redmund, Indian racing champion, was asked how he planned to handle the wind. "Very carefully," he commented with a smile.

And Angelo Vassena of Italy answered the question of what he thought of the wind with, "Very nice."

The race was the first in which the boats were alike, with even the weight of the driver handicapped to

ROUGH TURN—The speedy tunnel hull boats threw rooster tail plumes of water high in the air as they were driven around the boomerang course at Miami Marine Stadium. The boats were outfitted and handicapped at the Stuart Outboard Marine Test Center. Photo by Chris Slater

Rio LindoGarden Club

PORT ST. LUCIE—On Novembe Mrs. James Howell was guest speaker and her delightful progra was on Workshop and Lasting which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The tables looked colorful and pretty with a reminder of Thanksgiving. The refreshments were delicious. The hostesses responsible for all this guests were Mrs. H.W. Losey, Mrs. John Armstrong and Mrs. H.S. Seagull.

Alys Scott wins

PORT ST. LUCIE—In last week Beth Port St. Lucie Ladies Golf Club low gross tournament play Alys Scott led the field with a Class A second place winner was Earl Fishers with 83.

Ray Harris, 88, and Faith tied for first Class B winners and Class C honors went to Jo Cochinower, 10 and Mary Schlessinger, 106.

The North Port Ladies play every Wednesday at the Holiday Country club of Stuart.

Winners listed

PORT ST. LUCIE—The nine holes played a low gross and low net tournament on Nov. 25 on the Saints course.

The winners were

First Flight: Low Gross, Liz Hagdon 51; Low Net, Pat Hyde and Betty Lewallen with a tie score of 62.

Second Flight: Low Gross, Kay Fowler 62, Low Net, Ann Fisher 58 and Hyde had the lowest number of putts with 16.

Party is planned

PORT ST. LUCIE—A Sherry and Tea Party will be held at the Fish Community Center Sunday evening, December 14, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The affair will be sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Shuffleboard Club and proceeds will be turned over to the CESA Operating Fund.

Music throughout the evening will be provided by Charles White.

Italian-American Assn. installs officers

PORT ST. LUCIE—Two hundred and [illegible] guests gathered at the [illegible] Port Marina on [illegible] when officers for the [illegible] were installed by the Italian-American Civic Association.

[illegible] dinner was served, followed by a "Las Vegas" night with the Jaycees of Fort Pierce giving an assist with personnel and equipment.

The next meeting will be held at the CESA Building. The change in meeting place was necessitated by the rapid growth of the group. Plans for the Christmas and New Year's Eve parties will be finalized at this session.

The purpose of the Port St. Lucie Italian & American Civic Assoc. is to provide a social society and benevolent association to promote a united effort toward peace, charity and equity. Candidates for membership may attend with a friend.

Cousino and Troutman place

PORT ST. LUCIE—Art Cousino and Lee Troutman were the only Port St. Lucie Shuffleboard Club participants to place in the Central Florida League and doubles competition held recently. They came in fourth.

The Indian River League plays last week at Whispering Creek. PSL brought home four wins. Whispering Creek carrying off six wins. PSL winners were Judd Reading and Al Mitchell in doubles and George Drake and Ab Bailey and Barney Mingo in [illegible] Dominique and Harold Hamill.

PSL Central Port Coast players took two wins from Whispering Creek before rain washed out the play. Winners were Ruth and Bob Dobbler, Jeane Spirato and Tom Scott.

Two more wins were in play when the Stuart group played here. It ended in a tie, five wins apiece with George Burkowitch and Joe Keating, Bob Cousino and Art Conley, Ward White and Glen Hayden, Al Bailey and Barney Mingus, Harold Hazell and Don Dominique bringing in the wins.

In central play at Stuart the score was two all. PSL winners were Les Troutman and Toni Scott.

Star class sailboat race at Sandpiper

PORT ST. LUCIE—Star Class racers will compete in General Development's Southern Star Championship on December 13 and 14 at the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Skippers from the U.S. and Bahamas will compete in the fifth annual event held at the resort. The Southern Star Championship is the second leg of Florida's Triple Crown of Star Class racing. The other events on the circuit are the Ryder and Bacardi Cup races.

Two man crews will sail the sleep 23-foot racers on the picturesque north fork of the St. Lucie River. Skippers and crewmen will challenge a 5-mile triangular course with two heats on Saturday and the final race on Sunday.

Entries include Miamians James "Ding" Schoonmaker, defending 1974 Southern Star Champion and former Bacardi Cup European and South American Champion and Frank Zagarino, former Southern Star and Bacardi Champion. Former World Champion and Olympic challenger, Dick Stenis, of Northfield, Illinois will head up the highly competitive field.

Former two-time World Champion Arlie de Cardenas of Miami will be chairman of the race committee. Race headquarters will be the Captains Quarters next to the resort's dockmaster's building.

Regatta officials have announced there are still a few positions open. Sailors planning to enter should contact Ken Knight director of corporate communications at 305/561-1256.

The weekend regatta will be open to spectators, free of charge.

Christmas prelude at Dutton

PORT ST. LUCIE—The officers of Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church are sponsoring two events this Sunday, December 7. An Advent celebration will be featured at 11 a.m. and "A Prelude to Christmas" at 7 p.m.

Just before the morning s sermon, "The Road from Chaos," there will be a ceremony of ordination and installation of officers. Billy Elder will be ordained and installed as an Elder the most coveted position in the church. George Hill is to be installed for a second term as Elder.

Mrs. Joseph Keegan, Mrs. Richard Miller and Mrs. James Leslie have been elected to serve as Deacons and will also be installed on Sunday. Thomas Brack and Alan Lulay are to be installed as Trustees for three-year terms.

The theme of the evening worship experience is "They Were at Bethlehem." Members of the Elizabeth Circle of the Women s Association will be the main participants. Mrs. M.T. Rust of Port St. Lucie is chairman of the program arrangements.

Memorial flowers, presented by Mrs. Esther Richards of Spanish Lakes, will adorn the altar for both occasions.

A nursery and kindergarten for small children will be provided for both observances, under the direction of Mrs. Frank Conrad. Mrs. William Elder and Mrs. David Eller in the morning, and Mrs. Magnus Thorlakson in the evening.

Members of the Board of Trustees are scheduled to meet in Campbell Hall on Monday, and members of the Session will assemble on Wednesday evening.

Beth El Sisterhood to elect officers

PORT ST. LUCIE—An election of officers will highlight the general meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth El in Fort Pierce.

The meeting, scheduled for December 15 at 8 p.m., will be held in Heller Hall.

A slate of officers for the coming year will be presented by the nominating committee.

Nominations will also be accepted from the floor prior to the elections.

Refreshments will be served at the [illegible]

Bicentennial tourney draws 144 golfers

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Bicentennial Golf Tournament staged by the PSL Bicentennial Committee drew a field of 144 community golfers who played a shotgun affair on the Saints course of the Sandpiper Bas Resort Sunday with Helene Collins, Elfreda Wochatz, Rick Vernoui and Tom Hohman the foursome carrying off major honors in what was billed as a tri-awards day of fun and patriotic golf.

The 36 mixed foursome actually played three separate tournaments all over a placarded course featuring names of states and their capitals, the first a 13-hold affair the second over the last five holes and the third made up of holes 11 2 3, 7 and 5 to reflect the date of play.

The foursome of Collins-Wochatz-Vernoui-Hohman had a net score of 210 to win the 13-hole Original 13 States of the Union tournament, with bicentennial rugs their prizes.

The five-hold Presidents' tournament was won by Marge Hand, Betty Peach, Norm Nardone and Howard Hickman with a net 83.

The Current Date tournament was won by Edith Shear, Charme Bramley, Mike Reeb and Jack Fradd with a net score of 78.

Tourney Chairman Paul Miller reported that Co-Tournament Chairman Jan Werges shot low women s gross for the day, 82, with Addie Hannum having second low at 97. Jim Ucram s 76 was low for the men, and Miller and Joe Moniz were second best with 77's.

Holiday luncheon

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Christmas Luncheon of the Welcome Wagon of Port St. Lucie will be on Monday, December 15th with Social Hour at 11:30 a.m. followed by the special Christmas luncheon at 12 noon. An afternoon of cards will be featured after the luncheon.

Reservations must be made before Thursday, December 11th, with Mrs. Walter Kramel at 878-1581.

President, Mrs. Walter Dill anticipates a large turnout for the luncheon, and extends to all members of the Welcome Wagon, a Happy Holiday Season.

Pinelake Village Tattler

BY MARY GRAU

Everyone is very busy preparing for the Christmas season. For the coming of the Christ Child each in his own way. Gifts are being made and bought, cookies baked and homes decorated. Soon the holiday will be upon us.

* * *

Last Wednesday night Joe White won the jackpot. He missed the grand jackpot by one number.

There is quite a bit in the pot by now. It will make somebody a nice Christmas present. It might be you, if you are there!

There was no pill pool last week. There will be a session this Thursday, Dec. 4 at 7:30.

* * *

Don't forget the last chance to join the Pinelake Village Square Dancers is this Thursday, Dec. 4 at 7:30.

Also Happy Anniversary to the Wilsons, Dec. 9th; the McPhersons, Dec. 15th; and to the Bates, Dec. 26th.

Welcome to Pinelake Village Bob and Maud Anderson. They come here from Detroit, Michigan. They have 3 children and 4 grandchildren. Maud's birthday is Nov. 11th and Bob's is June 17th. Their anniversary is June 14th. Bob is retired but is planning on opening a two-way radio sales and service business.

Also welcome to Skip, Mildred and Russ Stevens. They come to us from up-state New York. Skip was a teacher and then worked as an administration assistant in Washington, D.C. Russ worked for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. They both play golf. They plan to winter here but expect to spend some time in New York. Skip's birthday is Feb. 12th and Russ' May 17th. Their anniversary is Feb. 25th. The Stevens are newlyweds.

* * *

Esther Yost is in Martin Memorial Hospital. She is having repair work done. George tells me that she may be coming home this Thursday.

Marriage announced

JENSEN BEACH–Mrs. Anna Rogers Wilkinson and C. Gale Kiplinger were privately married on Thanksgiving Day by Rev. Donald Johnson in the Jensen Beach Community Church. After a Caribbean cruise, they will reside in Sewall's Point.

Mrs. Wilkinson was attended by her sister, Mrs. Elsie Rogers Fairbanks, of West Palm Beach. Harold Cole Kiplinger served as best man for his father.

Mrs. Wilkinson is a sister of the late Jeannette Rogers Kiplinger and is on retirement from The University of Massachusetts Amherst. Mass. Kiplinger is a consulting investment engineer with The Kiplinger Washington Editors, and is locally associated with various civic organizations.

Ocean Breeze News Notes

BY LETA KEITH

334-4366 6 Vista Drive

Glad to see you back Iva Gill. Mike and Kathi Schillace, Vera Thomas, Dean and Rosemarie Murray, Frank and Mable McLain, Catherine Shannon, Ernest and Catherine Grant, Alma Goodman, Lora Merrill and Mary Mulligan.

And to Alix and Rose Foverest, Norman and Beatrice Harrison, Edmund and Winona Moore, Peter and Pauline Schaefer, Gertrude Cochrane, P.T. and Katherine Mathis, Lloyd and Edna Rutis, Reuben and Mary Martin, Ted and Sophia Cox.

The Cates are newcomers to Ocean Breeze Welcome.

Fred and Ann Erdmann were our table departees.

I'm told that the first 80 years are the hardest ... and here is some more good news.

At 80 you can relax with no misgivings. You have a perfect alibi for everything. Nobody expects much of you.

If you act silly, it's your second childhood. Everybody is looking for symptoms of softening of the brain.

Or, I might add, hardening of the arteries.

Activities have really started. We have everything we had last year except yoga and Spanish lessons.

* * *

A new bride and groom were in the park Sunday. The bride is the granddaughter of Nettie Christie of Fifth. They were married Saturday, November 22, and had spent a week on the west coast of Florida before coming here.

* * *

Dr. Alexander passed away Saturday, November 29, at Martin Memorial Hospital. The funeral and interment were held in Lewistown, Pennsylvania. He was a retired dentist and had lived here with his wife Mildred for twelve years. Their only daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Harbst of Louisville, Kentucky, has been here. We all offer condolences to the family.

* * *

Irma Benz of Banyan Drive died early Sunday morning, one hour before her only son and his wife arrived. They stayed with Irma's sister-in-law, Lucie Schwarz, on Oak Street.

There are four Benz grandchildren. We are sorry for the family in their loss.

* * *

Mrs. Eunice King flew to Canton, Ohio Wednesday night because her youngest sister had died in Marietta, Ohio. Due to the holiday weekend rush, Eunice was unable to get a flight back to Florida until Monday night.

We sincerely sympathize with Eunice in her loss.

Al and Jean Tomaszewski prepared a large turkey and all the trimmings Thanksgiving Day.

Twenty former neighbors came at noon carrying covered dishes and a delicious dinner was enjoyed by Ed and Flora Schaubach, Irvin and Earl Sheehy, John Carter and daughter Carol, Ed and Fern Austin, Oscar and Evelyn Wallquist, Orville and Deedee Mertz, Milton and Mary Fullerton, Ken and Edith Raymond and Irvin and Leta Keith.

Fritz and Bunny Springman had Bunny's sister Betty Johnson and her husband Hank of Durham, Connecticut, all last week. Bunny cooked their Thanksgiving dinner.

It was the first time that the sisters had been together at Thanksgiving time for 30 years. Other dinner guests were former neighbors Escott and Edith Kirkbride and Ed DeWeir.

Hesaie Klein arrived Sunday afternoon. This summer she attended the golden wedding celebration of some friends and a wedding where her granddaughter was maid of honor for her cousin.

On her way north last spring, Hesaie visited with her son Bob and wife Betty in Lexington, N.C. She spent the summer in the home of one daughter. Another daughter and her husband are leaving their home in Akron, Ohio, December 13 to come here to spend the holidays.

Beth Bailie tells me that the Sociable Six and friends, totaling 14, had a carry-in dinner Thanksgiving day in Clement Hall. Included in the group were the former Georgianna Reed and her new husband, Ward Tiffany of Zephyr Hills.

* * *

Ruth Troger and Carole Chapman leave Saturday, December 6, for South Africa. Carole will visit her son and family, and Ruth will visit her grandson and family.

* * *

Luther and Mary Weeks of S. Sixth spent from Wednesday until Sunday with her sister Louise and husband Benny Benoit in Key West. Luther says that he had a nice fishing trip down there.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Art Mulligan and son Pat brought his mother, Mary Mulligan, home and spent a week here. Mary is one of our well-known local artists.

* * *

Irene Burgess is a little better but still in M.M.H. Marie Tweed is spending the nights with Irene's sister.

* * *

James Skinner is in the hospital for tests.

* * *

Stanley and Florence Hughson hosted Earl and Lila Erhmann, Kay and Luther Schmoyer, Evelyn and George LeBon and Mother Sally Bankston on Thanksgiving day.

The Hughsons cooked the turkey and guests brought covered dishes.

After enjoying the feast, they finished the day playing pinochle. I hate to say it, but the men were the winners.

Harry and Bernice Covell of Tenth St. were lucky to have her sister Althea and husband Doug Mahon of Causeway Trailer Park in Fort Pierce bring a turkey all ready prepared to add to the food the Covells fixed. Together they had a lovely dinner.

* * *

Eileen Mason and Debby Landforce of Eugene, Oregon, were given a motor home as a gift on graduating from Oregon State College.

They immediately set out on a leisurely tour of America. At church in Amherst, Mass., they met up with the Redingers who were doing the same thing.

That was weeks ago, but Wednesday the girls dropped in to pay their new friends a surprise visit. Now they are old friends, for Oregon people are pretty special with the Redingers. It was a delightful "old home week" celebration for all.

Starting Sunday, December 7th, you'll be able to dial all kinds of long distance calls you couldn't dial before.

Special Service Dialing lets you dial your own person-to-person calls, collect calls, credit card calls, and calls charged to another number.

People in other areas who already have this service know how easy and convenient it is.

In fact, it's like Direct Distance Dialing, except you start with "0" instead of "1."*

We're happy to be bringing you this time-saving new service. Get set to take advantage of it.

New Special Service Dialing begins December 7 for customers in the Stuart and in the South Port St. Lucie area whose telephone number begins with 283, 286, 287, or 334.

Southern Bell

*Direct Distance Dialing calls do not apply to Special Service Dialing.

Commissioners okay liquor law

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Commissioners Tuesday passed an ordinance which shortened the distance separating bars and restaurants that serve alcohol from churches.

The ordinance reduces the distance to 300 feet from 2,000 under the old law.

County planning starts

JENSEN BEACH--A "grass roots" campaign is under way by Martin County Planning Director Kris Schenk.

Schenk and his staff are looking for guidance in drawing up plans for the county's future development.

The county planner expects to be in the Jensen Beach, Rio and North River Shores areas March and April of 1976.

Schenk has sectioned the county into seven planning areas. He said he will draw up development plans for them, one-by-one, during the next year and a half.

He met with Rocky Point residents to get his grass roots program underway, and he will be in Port Salerno this week.

Members of the Planning Board were informed by Schenk last Thursday that he will hold two or three neighborhood meetings in each of the seven planning areas to get ideas from residents who live there.

The idea is to find out what residents of the county's communities would like to see in their neighborhoods two years from now, he said.

Schenk has distributed posters around the county inviting residents to "have a voice in your future."

The seven planning areas include Rocky Point, Port Salerno, Palm City and its fringes, Jensen Beach, Rio, North River Shores, Hobe Sound and its fringes, South Stuart, and Tropical Farms, Indiantown and western Martin, and south county, between Hobe Sound and the county line.

After area development plans are adopted for each of these, the planning staff will wrap them all together in a comprehensive plan for the whole county, Schenk said.

Savannas purchase still 'on'

JENSEN BEACH--Proposed purchase of the south savannas by the state under the endangered-land program still has high priority, chairman of the Governor's Advisory Council on Parks and Recreation reported.

Mrs. Marjorie Alder said some residents of Martin and St. Lucie Counties have been concerned over reports that the state is reexamining purchase of the vast wetlands in the two counties.

Mrs. Alder said she talked with Nev. Landrum, head of the state Division of Recreation and Parks, earlier this month and he noted that $20,000 in state money has already been spent on appraisal of land in the savannas.

At the council meeting in Fort Lauderdale, Landrum told us that the re-examination was only for projects in the application stage.

"The savannas project is grandfathered in and there will be no re-examination," she said.

There are more than 200 landowners in the 10,200+ acres of freshwater marsh and wetlands that extends from Midway Road in St. Lucie County south to the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road in Martin County.

The savannas meets all the requirements for purchase under the $103 million available for purchase under the environmentally endangered lands program.

riend-Haynes win

iwanis tournament

NSEN BEACH--Lewis Friend ero Beach shot a spectacular for 80 to win the Jensen Beach ina Club golf tournament at the ers Course of Sandpiper Bay rt last Saturday.

pend's handicap gave him a net

ond place was taken by Paul ewicz, Holiday Out, with a 83, with sixteen handicap for 67. Third place was a tie ween Ben Jones and Clyde Farland. Jones had a 41-39--80, ndicap for a net 70, and Farland had 39-39--78, 8 ap for 70.

the Calloway division, Lloyd es scored a 56-52--108 for a net 71 to win first place. He was followed by a tie H. Hertling with 28-44--82 for a net 72 and Tim Beegle with 42-39--81 for a net 72. Beegle had the longest drive.

82 golfers participated in the benefit tournament.

911 dial system is delayed

JENSEN BEACH--The state mandated 911 emergency telephone system has been delayed at least a year, Martin County Commission Chairman John Kiernan said.

The latest setback to the 911 plan, dialing 911 on the telephone to get emergency fire, police or ambulance assistance, came last week when the School Board voted not to trade the old Dunbar School facility for 25 acres owned by the county.

A couple of months ago, the state rejected a plan to use an abandoned satellite tracking station in Jonathan Dickinson State Park for the emergency communications facility.

Kiernan said the county was going to have to hire an architect or get an engineer to design a building, and that it's going to take more time and money.

He said that originally the plan was to get a building and federal funds for the sheriff's office and Civil Defense communications.

"Then we would have applied for more funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA)," Kiernan pointed out.

The county budgeted $40,000 toward the project this fall, and this, together with $78,000 available from federal and state sources, would have been enough to complete the center, he said.

Use of 911 as an emergency telephone number is a nationwide project designed to enable persons facing an emergency with a fast method of getting help, even in an unfamiliar place.

St. Lucie County built practically all of their 911 system with LEAA funds, Kiernan noted.

COG to meet Thursday

JENSEN BEACH--The Council of Governments (COG) will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 11 at Martin County Courthouse.

There are several items on the agenda, including a master land use plan, and feasibility of a tri-county bus service.

Senate okays inlet funds

JENSEN BEACH--The U.S. Senate has approved $175,000 for the St. Lucie Inlet project under the Public Works Appropriations bill, according to U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles.

Sen. Chiles said the bill came from the House "unfunded" but he was able to get funds approved.

The bill goes to the House-Senate Conference Committee for consideration. Last year the funds were disapproved by the Conference Committee.

If approved, $100,000 would be used for continuation of the project, and $75,000 to repay local funds.

TEMPORARY OFFICE--Supervisor of Elections Mrs. Sandra Randolph is shown at her typewriter during her visit to the Jensen Beach Plaza last Saturday. Mrs. Randolph registered 25 persons, and called it a "good turnout." She has been visiting county communities in her campaign to "take her office to the people."

ensen park owner sued

NSEN BEACH--One of three uits filed against mobile-home operators was filed in Martin y Monday against a Jensen ch park owner, Russell and ers Bollen, owners of the Blue n-Mobile Park.

Assistant State Attorney General Stacker alleges that the Bollens ated the state's 1972 protective for mobile home owners by ding residents of the park putting a "for sale" sign on mobile home.

Stacker alleges that the Bollens and Arthur and Dorothy Cielo to ve their "for sale" sign or else their mobile home from the letter from the park owners to Cielos, exhibited in the suit, states that if the sign was not removed immediately the letter "will serve as a 30-day notice of eviction."

The suit states that the Cielos put up the sign Nov. 8, and got the letter Nov. 12.

"If you refuse to comply with park rules your mobile home will be removed from the park by you no later than Dec. 15," the letter states.

Stacker says the attorney general has already issued an opinion that a ban on "for sale" signs in mobile homes decreases the mobile homeowners' ability to sell and violates the Florida Statute protecting mobile homeowners.

Suits also were filed in Sun Valley Estates of Tarpon Springs and Windmill Village of Sarasota.

THRIFTY ITEM--Esther LeMessurier is shown at the clothing table at the Jensen Beach Garden Club's Thrifty Shoppers Sale Dec. 5-6 at the Community Center.

Baptist School auction is Friday

STUART--The First Baptist Christian School will hold an auction Friday, December 12th, from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Stuart Youth Center on Flagler St. All proceeds will go toward supporting the school.

Prior to the kickoff of the auction, "The Joint Heirs" will present a portion of their patriotic musical package. This group is under the direction of Rev. L.C. Campbell, associate pastor at the First Baptist Church, and recently performed at the chamber of commerce banquet at Sandpiper Bay.

Auctioneer will be Roger Chancey. His style of auctioneering alone is well worth being there, according to a spokesman for the committee in charge.

Over 150 items totaling approximately $6,000 have been donated by local merchants. Some of these include: 18" of custom kitchen cabinets, a four-fifths scale model reproduction of a 1909 oldsmobile pick-up truck, a side by side refrigerator-freezer with ice-maker, and much, much more. There is guaranteed to be something for everyone whether large or small.

Donations are still being accepted. To donate an item, call 287-5745, 283-5966, or 287-5161. All donations are tax deductable.

BAKE SALE--Kathleen Spencer, treasurer of Rio Civic Club, holds two of the many bake items on sale at the club's annual Hobby Bazaar last Friday and Saturday.

Whiting in the surf

JENSEN BEACH--"Whiting, whiting, whiting! The surf is loaded with whiting!" says Jack Klett, delivering the Snook Nook report to The Mirror office.

And there were surf fishermen out catching 'em!

Bob Scott and Rene Maurice caught 53 whiting on shrimp.

Cotton and Della Ferrenburg used shrimp to take 115 whiting and croakers from the surf on Monday.

Adam and Sophie Lowjewski had 29 whiting and croakers, a blue and two jacks in a couple of outings.

Vivian and Chet Wolfe caught two snook on kroks, and Joe and Irene Pinder had 13 blues and 5 jacks. Al Wise had 15 blues.

Art Ryan and Carl Herzog used fleas and shrimp to catch 5 pompano and 5 large whiting.

Ted Bloom had 22 blues and a trout; John Wilbert, one trout and a snook; Bob Carruthers, a snook and a trout; Charles Areni, 11 trout.

Ed Wagner had a busy week catching 4 trout and a red fish on Friday. Wagner and Harold Egeland teamed up for 14 trout and a channel bass earlier in the week, and Wagner and Frank Paterson, 21 trout and one channel bass. Pat Paterson and Wagner had 10 trout; Sandy Adair and Wagner had 4 trout.

Herb Hagadorn caught two blues in the river on cut bait, 3 and 4½ pounds. Duck White had 2 trout and 2 snook; Steve Steele, 2 trout and 1 snook (released 5); Dan Mason, one trout and a snook; Floyd Gillem, 2 trout, totaling 10 pounds.

G. Zorattis caught a 6-lb. 11-oz. trout on Monday; Tony Sallazzo, 2 trout weighing 10 pounds; Oliver Kelly, a 6-lb. channel bass; Frank Paterson, 6 trout.

Irv Fisher had 18 trout; Frank Hoffman one 2-lb. pompano; Pete Peterson and Stan Lippincott, 10 trout; Sandy Adair, 3 trout; Norman and Blanche Brauchy, 30 trout and a red.

Russ Bolton and Dr. Ernst and Larry Hofman, trolling the south fork, used jibs, spoons and shrimp to catch two snook, 4 snapper, 7 jacks, 2 ladies, a redfish and a sheephead.

Offshore on Thursday, Willard Porter landed two kings, 35 pounds each.

Ed Klett and John Campbell had a kingfish on Tuesday.

REPAIR WORK--Fred Stein of Casa Rio Boat and Motor Sales, Inc. drives some nails on steps leading up to one of his boats that was at the boat show last weekend on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

Chamber members talk to Hendry

JENSEN BEACH--Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night talked about roads, water, economy and garbage with Martin County Planning Board vice chairman Al Hendry.

Hendry told the directors that the county needs input from the residents to aid in developing the comprehensive plan.

He pointed out some things that the planning members have to look at, including a "balanced economy."

A "community survey" was passed out to directors by Hendry, and some of the questions include:

Transportation, what the community service needs are; zoning for areas; types of dwelling units preferred; single family, multiple or mobile home parks.

And chamber directors voted to endorse Brenda Sue Fulton's candidacy for West Point, and will write to the area congressman asking him for his support.

Backing of a candidate to the U.S. Naval Academy is expected at next month's meeting.

1,600 enjoy pancakes

JENSEN BEACH--More than 1,600 Jensen Beach area residents attended the Jensen Beach Lions Club's annual pancake day Sunday at Langford Park Fieldhouse, and had their blood pressures and eyes tested before leaving the premises.

Lion Club President Harvey Schlemmer highly commended Virgil Wilson, general chairman of the successful event, for the excellent manner in which his committeemen conducted their various duties.

The line of hungry customers commenced forming shortly after the doors opened at 7 a.m., and by 2 p.m. the last of the visitors finished his generous portion of pancakes. He then joined the others in having his blood pressure checked by members of the Jensen Area Samaritans, and his eyes examined for the possibility of being afflicted with glaucoma.

Those who had never had their eyes tested by a non-contact Tonometer, were pleasantly surprised with the ease and quickness of the test. Many men and women who previously had been screened for glaucome by other methods which require the application of eye drops were relieved that a mere glance into the delicate machine, which ejected a puff of air against each eyeball, was all that was required.

Before each person left the bus in which the examinations were conducted, they were informed whether or not further examination was necessary.

COFFEE BREAK--Jensen Beach Lions Club president Harvey Schlemmer and his wife Joan take a coffee break at the club's pancake day last Sunday at Langford Park.

Young-Ford exchange vows

JENSEN BEACH--Patricia May Ford and Sgt. Neil Elliott Young were joined in marriage on Saturday, November 22, at the home of the bride's parents in Jensen Beach.

Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. Ford, 324 Cedar Street. SI Young is the son of Mrs. Edna Young of St. Paul, Minnesota, and Victor Young of Nederland, Texas.

Reverend Clark Thompson of the Trinity United Methodist Church officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long sleeve, powder blue gown and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Denis (Liz) Ford was the bridesmaid, wearing an orchid, blue, and pink print long gown.

Denis Keith Ford served as best man.

The bride's mother wore a red and black print. The groom's mother chose a navy and white flower print. Both wore corsages fashioned of red and white carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Serving were Wendy Schelerf and Jennifer Foreman.

Reheiser students exhibit Sunday

JENSEN BEACH--Indian River Community College is sponsoring an art show at the Elliott Museum this Sunday, December 14, from noon to 5 p.m.

All of Madelene Reheiser's students in the Continuing Education Classes at Spanish Lakes, the Youth Center, and the Roschmann Center (IRCC) will exhibit works in various classifications and media.

Plaza rule is requested

JENSEN BEACH--A Circuit Court suit has been filed by Martin County Commission special attorney asking Judge Royce Lewis to rule on the validity of the county's proposed purchase of the Executive Plaza Building.

Attorney James Vance has asked the judge to:

Declare the county's agreement to buy valid; order Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs to sign the check for the first $237,700 payment and for the other four annual payments to acquire the building, and assess costs of the court action against Mrs. Isaacs.

Mrs. Isaacs refused to sign the check for the first payment on the building because of "substantial legal questions" raised by her attorney, Robert F. McRoberts.

More government than we can afford

WASHINGTON–10,888 proposed new laws–that's how many bills had been introduced in the House of Representatives by the time the Thanksgiving recess started

And more bills are being introduced every day, sometimes to the tune of 100-150 at a crack

Fortunately, nowhere near all these bills will become law In fact, most will die a quiet death in some committee, abandoned by all except the author and sometimes even by the author

But every bill has to be printed and 3,000 copies distributed And the cost of just the printing can be staggering It costs $70 just to print the required 3,000 copies of a two-page bill And believe me, two pages is by no means the normal length of a bill Some bills run as high as 600-625 pages

The recent so-called tax reform bill ran to 625 pages, so the cost of printing that one was probably closer to $20,000

If the average bill is eight pages long, then it costs $297 to print each one, according to the Government Printing Office That means that the 11,000 plus bills introduced this year will cost the government more than $3 million just to print

If the average bill runs to 16 pages and no one is really sure just how long the average bill is, the cost jumps to $596 for the mandatory 3,000 copies of each bill So, for the 11,000 plus bills introduced just this year, the annual printing cost jumps to more than $6 5 million

But the huge volume of bills introduced each year costs the Congress and therefore the taxpayers more than just money It costs time, time that would be better spent elsewhere

In fact, I would like to see the Congress declare a temporary moratorium on all but essential legislation If we worried less about passing new laws and spent more time looking into just how effective the existing laws really are, the country would be a lot better off

The biggest single weakness of the Congress in its failure to carry out its oversight responsibilities Part of the reason, of course, is the simple fact it is easier to dream up new laws than it is to look into ways to make existing laws work better And introducing new laws pays off better in terms of publicity

Unfortunately, by failing to carryout oversight responsibilities the Congress is effectively turning the country over to the bureaucrats to run

In all too many cases, the bureaucrats have ventured far beyond the intentions of Congress in writing the rules and regulations to implement a Congressional directive More than one Congressman has looked aghast at regulations written to implement the bill he had authored and cried "This is not at all what I had in mind"

Now the fault doesn't lie completely with the bureaucrats Congress must accept a good portion of the blame for passing laws which are vague and filled with high sounding but meaningless generalities If the bills passed by Congress were more specific the bureaucrats won't have a chance to expand the authority of the law

Even if legislation is often too vague, corrections can be made if the Congress is willing to take the time to look back at the laws it has written, determine just how well they are doing the job and then make the necessary changes

But Congress doesn't look back it plunges blithly forward, passing new laws and creating new programs

That's why we have more government than we can afford and a lot more than we need

BENEFIT–The Richard K Carolla arrive at the benefit for the House of Refuge held at the Elliott Museum Carolla, who is the trustee responsible for the Historical Society's well known collection of antique and classic automobiles, lives and works in Jensen Beach Historical Society photo by Dennis Doyle

Lake Manor News

BY SYLVIA SIMAN
334-6792

Ken and Bernie Dubuque were happy to have Ken's sister Rae and her husband Ralph Tierney here for four days over Thanksgiving. The Tierneys are from Connecticut and enjoyed their stay here very much.

Congratulations are in order to the new great grandparents of Matthew Poulter of Salem, Oregon. Edna and Bob Staples both feel "great" and "grand" over the new baby.

Peg Sommer was pleased to have long time friends Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Calley, formerly from Massachusetts, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Uek from New Jersey spend a day with her. They all now live in Ft. Lauderdale.

Jerry and Lee Van Cura enjoyed the company of some long time friends for two days. Mr. and Mrs. George Pinta from Berwyn, Illinois.

While I was getting this bit of news, I was being served some delicious apple strudel made by Lee Lucky.

Ladies hobby class on December had 16 interested gals. Some of them were eager to learn how to make the pretty bead bells like Dot Beamer had made, so she was kind enough to teach us.

Bingo on Friday night had a good turnout of 25 with Harry Beamer and Pat Scriven doing the calling.

A hearty welcome to the Dirk Halls who are now here to stay. Glad to have you.

We are sorry to tell you Mary Ratliucci is in the hospital for some surgery. We all wish her the very best and a quick recovery.

Also in Martin Memorial is Ruth Firth and we wish her the best, too.

We now have a new office across from the shuffle court. Some of our men were a big help in skirting it immediately.

Good luck to Bob Brice, our new manager.

Because of the long column last week, we held over the December birthdays until now. So, a most Happy Birthday to the following:

Carl Roman, 4th; Jenny Bollenbacher, 5th; Herbert Burmeister, 6th; Bob McCourt, 12th; Margaret Rosengarth, 22nd; and Bob Brice, 22nd.

Sorry for those that are late. Many good wishes to you in this coming year.

The Social Committee had their monthly meeting on Thursday evening. It was conducted by Bob Brice, president, and Olive Allwardt took over for Marie Bradley as secretary. Minutes were read and accepted. A committee is needed to help Dora Martin with the New Year's Eve party.

Men's Saturday morning coffee was well attended by 24. Pat Scriven and Bob McCourt served and games were enjoyed as well as just visiting.

Now, be good to yourselves and others too. And to all: Peace.

Republican Women recommend

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Republican Women's Club delegates to the National Federation of Republican Women's meeting in Dallas were Past President Barbara Lindsey, Jane Henderson and Dorothy Effinger.

Speakers at the convention included President Gerald Ford, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, former Governor of California Ronald Reagan, Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater, Texas state and national representatives and others.

Having more than 500,000 members, the Federation is the largest political volunteer organization of women in America. Resolutions passed by the 3,000 delegates representing over half a million women who are members of Republican Women's Clubs throughout the country, included:

"We request the Congress and the President to keep the Panama Canal intact as American territory."

"On national defense, we encourage Congress to make it stronger and urge them not to give away all of our defenses."

"On busing, we went on record opposing forced busing and we encourage spending for quality education for everyone instead of forced busing as a means of achieving equality."

"On Cuba, we urge Congress to maintain our present policy toward that country."

"On energy, we encourage the de-regulation of natural gas and oil and encourage the free market as a means of regulating prices. We encourage the development of more coal, natural gas and oil resources, and the continued advancement of new means of energy, such as nuclear energy plants."

"On big government, we urge there be more governing power returned to state and local governing bodies which can operate more efficiently."

"On internal security, we urge restoration of the House Committee on Internal Security."

Copies of the resolutions were sent to the President and every member of Congress.

The next meeting of the club will be held at 12 noon Tuesday, January 20, at the Crane's Nest, at which time the newly elected slate of officers will be installed.

Guests, prospective members and associate members will be welcome.

AWARD—Mrs. Lois Philbrick, president of the Republican Women's Club, displays the Bronze Plaque Achievement Award inscribed "For dedicated service in achieving the objectives of the National Federation of Republican Women," which has been presented to the local club by the Federation.

Club names 'Woman of Year'

JENSEN BEACH—Martha Norton, Martin County Extension home economics agent, was named "Woman of the Year" by Soroptimist International at its recent 21st birthday party. The surprise presentation was conducted by Janet Lavery, last year's recipient of the club award. This year's determination was based on criteria following the "Women Helping Women" theme of International Woman's Year.

Mrs. Norton's duties are in the teaching of homemaking skills to women and girls in training leadership to carry on the various programs on the county and state levels. She teaches classes in arts, crafts, sewing and cooking in the communities throughout Martin County and publishes a newsletter to homemakers. She secures, trains and supervises 4-H leaders locally and attends camps and seminars with them as well as with the young 4-H members. She has accompanied students on various state and national trips.

Grand jury scores officials

PORT ST. LUCIE--The St. Lucie County Grand Jury report issued last week concerning the City of Port St. Lucie was free of any indictments, but was critical of some past "carelessness involving management of city funds."

The report pointed out, however, that such irregularities have been corrected.

In the report -- covering city activities beginning July 1, 1968 to May 31, 1975 -- it was pointed out that the Grand Jury "could find no justification for city officials maintaining the accounting procedures in such a manner particularly since evidence indicates that accountants for the city pointed out the deficiencies to the city prior to the special review by the Auditor General's report and they were not corrected."

Some other major points contained in the report included:

As for councilmen being compensated for two positions, "The Grand Jury found that those individuals accepted positions as city employees in the light of legal advice given to them that such action would not violate any state laws or be against public policy."

Because it is the finding of the Grand Jury that the councilmen involved acted only after seeking a legal opinion and that their actions were taken in good faith, no crime was committed," the report stated.

The Grand Jury also was convinced, the report notes that councilmen of this city who served as city employees "faithfully carried out both their duties as councilmen and as employees of the city." The report added that since such action is "of questionable legality," the city may wish to investigate the possibility of recovering all salaries" paid to those individuals.

Along the lines of "Office and Administrative Expenses," the St. Lucie County Grand Jury noted that for a 15-month period during 1973 and 1974, some councilmen received monthly checks from the city in the amount of $150. There is nothing on the city's records to indicate what the amounts represent," the five-page report noted, although it said evidence given to the Grand Jury points toward automobile expenses.

These payments were not authorized by ordinances or resolutions and appear to have been improperly made," the report stated adding the Grand Jury found no evidence of any intent on the part of the councilmen involved "to receive any city funds by fraudulent means." The report however, said the practice is "obviously in conflict with good accounting procedures and should not have been permitted."

Under the category of "Other Payments Made to Councilmen," the Grand Jury report points to other areas where payments were improperly made or to which they were not legally entitled.

"The Grand Jury again finds that there was not intent on the part of councilmen involved to receive any funds by fraudulent or any other illegal means but these improper payments, as well as the others examined in this report point to evidence of an appalling carelessness by those entrusted with the management of the affairs of the City of Port St. Lucie."

Noting that the legality of the alleged overly-generous pension fund has been upheld in a recent civil suit, the "Grand Jury feels obligated to question the morality of the pension fund as it was established.

"Although the legality of the plan is not in question, the Grand Jury is of the opinion that the pension fund as established in Ordinance No. 74-1 has been amended and councilmen and the city attorney no longer participate in the fund-in step with Ordinance No. 75-3."

The Grand Jury also noted the "improper reimbursements for travel expenses," however, it commended the present city council for its prompt action in correcting the deficiencies pointed out in the special review.

And the jury noted there was lack of management involving the construction of the new South Port fire station, but found no actual specific wrongdoing.

The report was based on evidence heard from 21 witnesses including all five members of the present council, some past councilmen, Bernard Rubin, former city clerk-administrator Elmer Cox, present city administrator Rupert Smith, former city attorney Ralph La Chance building official Marc Ball, a building inspector in the city Leigh Loop Port St. Lucie bureau chief of the News Tribune, Linda Harrison, former Palm Beach Post reporter resident Elmer Johnson, and some deputies of the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department.

WILL BE DOGGED--While the city council made a dogged effort to find ways of enforcing their own leash law, one of the canine causes of the furor sat outside City Hall as if awaiting the outcome. Earlier in the morning session council members passed a resolution accepting an agreement with the Humane Society to provide services in this south county municipality. Cost of the services is $2,500 for the fiscal year 1975-76 which the city will pay quarterly.

HOLDING ITS OWN--According to Mrs. Florence Dabney, who voluntarily manages the non-profit hot at the CESA Community Center, the facility is holding its own. Mrs. Dabney reported that the snack bar has cleared $50 over and above expenses since it was opened three short weeks ago. Pictured above, Lorraine Woodams returns to her painting class with a hot cup of coffee last Wednesday morning.

Lions organize a Leo

PORT ST. LUCIE--Of the fifty-eight Lions Clubs in its district, the Port St. Lucie Lions organized the only existing Leo Club in the district.

Last night at the home of Lion Paul Zinter, chairman of the Leo committee, the Leo Club elected officers for what promises to be the most constructive and community serving young adult club on the Treasure Coast.

The Leos are a young adult adjunct of the Lions International, supervised and advised by their local Lions Club and, at present, the age bracket is between ages 13 and 17. They elect their officers, run their bi-monthly meetings, originate their own projects and disburse the funds which they originate by their own decisions.

All of these activities are monitored by and observed by a Lions committee chaired by Zinter and advised by Lions Daniel Sams and Jack Cullifon.

Santa at marina

PORT ST. LUCIE--Santa will be at the North Port St. Lucie Marina, located on Prima Vista Blvd., December 14, at 2 p.m.

The jolly visitor will arrive in a boat chauffeured by Paul Rose.

Pictures will be available to those interested. Treats will be given by Santa.

All Port St. Lucie residents are invited to attend.

Holiday schedule approved by city

PORT ST. LUCIE--Appointing an advisory committee, establishing the legal holidays and house numbering were only three of the items for which the City Council approved legislation during the regular council session held Tuesday.

City employees were assured of ten and one half days off when the council members put their stamp of approval on the list of legal holidays the City of Port St. Lucie would observe this coming year.

The first of the holiday leave will comence Christmas Eve starting at noon and including December 25 and 26.

New Year's will be celebrated January 1 and 2.

Others on the list will include Washington's Birthday, third Monday in February; Good Friday; Memorial Day, last Monday in May; Independence Day, July 4; Labor Day, first Monday in September and Veterans Day on November 11.

Thanksgiving Day will be observed the fourth Thursday in November.

According to the schedule, in the event a legal holiday falls on a Saturday, the Friday before will be observed.

Should the legal holiday fall on a Sunday, the following Monday will be observed.

In other action, the city fathers passed a resolution appointing an advisory committee consisting of the city administrator, a building official, and the city clerk to the pension plan trust agreement. Committee members will work with First National Bank of Fort Pierce, trustee for the pension plan.

As a safety measure, Council members approved an ordinance requiring all residences within the city limits to be legibly numbered for identification purposes.

Although City Attorney Spencer Gilbert said house numbering was all important in the event of an emergency, he claimed the ordinance would be unenforceable since no sizes were stipulated for the numbers used.

Dutton children to present pageant

PORT ST. LUCIE--The children of Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church School will present a Christmas pageant in the church Sunday evening, December 14 at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Billy Elder, Mrs. Darrel Eller and Mrs. Diane Walters will direct the Christmas dramatics.

Mrs. Edward Dutton is in charge of the music, while Mrs. Ronald Williams and Mrs. Stephen Neil will direct the children in singing the traditional carols.

Speaking roles will be played by Jim Matula, Vernon Sherrill, Kenneth Rose and Joyce Brown.

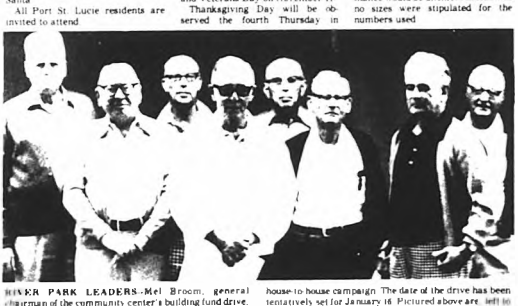
Wendy Williams will portray Mary, the Mother of Jesus and Buddy Sherrill will portray Joseph. Other actors include Leann Sherrill, Karen Giberson, Robert Williams, Christopher Brown, Garry Brack, Tommy Harkrew, Jimmy Soap and John Linebarger will be the Wise Men.

Mrs. Elder will narrate the pageant.

Immediately following the performance, there will be a Christmas party in Campbell Hall. Children, parents and members of the church will enjoy cookies and beverages as they sing carols around an illuminated Christmas tree. Santa Claus will be on hand with a gift for each child.

The Advent proclamation for Sunday morning will be "The Road from Chaos." It will be based on the first nine verses of the 63rd chapter of the Book of Isaiah.

Dutton's nursery and kindergarten will be directed during the hour of worship by Mrs. Joseph Danis and Mrs. John Hull.



RIVER PARK LEADERS--Mel Broom, general chairman of the community center's building fund drive, met with a group of regional chairmen to coordinate details of the drive. The regional chairmen will recruit the canvassing staff which will conduct the house-to-house campaign. The date of the drive has been tentatively set for January 16. Pictured above are, left to right: Fred Wiggins, George Lindberg, Judd Reading, John Pugh, Ed Searles, Joe Keating, George Jacobs and Herb Feller.

Civic league reports activities

PORT ST. LUCIE--Action to change the Board of Directors of the Port St. Lucie Civic League to 7 members will be sought at the annual meeting of the league scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, January 14, at the Sandpiper convention hall.

Board members approved this recommendation at their monthly meeting December first in order to broaden representation from all areas and all groups in the city.

The league's newsletter to members, mailed this week, reports on league activities since its involvement in the city elections earlier this year.

Attending council meetings and workshops and expressing view-points believed to be representative of citizens' opinions has constituted the league's major activity.

The league's presentation at budget hearings asked for a thorough study of present and future police protection matters, for care in handling surplus funds, and for a monthly reporting of city expenditures to determine that spending remains in line with budget limits.

The league has named a committee to study the proposed charter revision, and a committee to study revisions of the zoning ordinance.

The league reports good cooperation from City Hall, by being provided with minutes of council and other meetings.

This type cooperation helps the league fulfill its major function of providing a realistic means of communication between City Hall and citizens.

Hunters warned not to hunt in city

PORT ST. LUCIE--If you enjoy the sport of hunting, you had best take aim in hand and travel certainly far enough to get outside the city limits of Port St. Lucie.

In an effort to eliminate any confusion relative to hunting within the City of Port St. Lucie, the council Tuesday, approved on the second reading, Ordinance 75-37 which repeals one previous ordinance and amends a second.

The new ordinance repeals Ordinance 68-12 which prohibited hunting east of the Turnpike only, and amended Ordinance 75-20 adopted earlier this year which prohibited the discharge of firearms within the city limits "except those certain specified areas wherein lawful hunting is permitted."

The latest piece of legislation deleted the word "except those certain specified areas wherein lawful hunting is permitted."

While it has taken council members more than one ordinance to prohibit hunting in their city, be assured they have accomplished the desired goal.

FIT speaker

Fun, economy at Chamber affair

JENSEN BEACH--It was a fun time for Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce members and their guests last Friday night at the Outrigger Restaurant for the annual installation dinner, but it also was a time for hearing about the economic health of the community.

The economic impact of Florida Institute of Technology Jensen Beach Campus (FIT), and the contributions of its students was emphasized by a FIT vice president.

And outgoing chamber president Art Hansen pointed out some impressive chamber statistics.

As business leaders in the Jensen Beach community, one of your major concerns is the economic health of the area," Donald Stophlet, FIT vice president, said.

Stophlet, the principal speaker for the occasion, said, "I'm sure that not too many people recognize the college as one of the 'big businesses' in town.

He noted that a survey of students showed that approximately $1.1 million was spent over a nine-month period by students, including off campus housing, food, clothing, entertainment, etc.

"Now add to that the money that the college needs to operate, a good portion of which feeds back into the community, either directly or indirectly," he said.

And the vice president pointed out that the school's operating budget last year was almost $2 million--$600,000 in salaries, $225,000 for local utilities, some major expenditures for capital expenses of about $250,000, etc.

"As temporary citizens of the Jensen Beach community, students are deeply involved in many of its activities as volunteers," Stophlet said.

He noted that students serve as lifeguards during the summer, contributed at least 300 pints of blood, serve as registered emergency medical technicians (EMT), and were active in the Save Our Beaches campaign.

The brief history of FIT (18 years from Melbourne to Cocoa Beach to Jensen Beach) was review by Stophlet.

He concluded his remarks by reminding chamber members and their guests, "FIT is your university in your community. It contributes in countless ways to make Jensen Beach an even greater community. Help yourselves by helping FIT grow. It needs your support."

In his annual report, outgoing president Hansen noted that chamber membership is now 215, an increase of 10.

Hansen also noted that about 25,000 fishing guides were distributed, 12,000 maps were given to individuals and some 10,000 either visited or make phone calls to the chamber office, seeking information regarding the community.

He also pointed out the many civic activities the Chamber participated in during the year, including starting the Jensen Beach Bicentennial program involving 27 local organizations.

Former Martin County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha installed L.D. Kirkpatrick as president; Jack Klett, vice president; Marilyn Epstein, secretary, and Jack Davis as treasurer.

RETIRING--Presented with certificates of appreciation at the Jensen Chamber banquet Friday were these directors, Ginny Van Dien, for service since 1970, past president John Heyburn, for service since 1970, and past president Don Wilkie, for service since 1959.

INTRO--As Dean Tim Tealey, master of ceremonies of the Jensen Chamber's installation banquet, introduced the guest speaker, he pulled a skeleton from a box. Portly Don Stophlet, the speaker, proved to be more than that.

GUESTS--Dean Tim Tealey and his wife, Terry, center, welcomed Don and Jan Stophlet to the Jensen Beach Chamber banquet Friday night at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant. Stophlet, vice president of development of Florida Institute of Technology, was the guest speaker. Tealey, who heads FIT Jensen Beach, was master of ceremonies of the installation banquet.

DIRECTORS--Ann Bacon, Buck Mauldin and Art Hansen, outgoing president, were installed as Chamber of Commerce directors Friday night at the installation banquet, held at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant.

WELCOME--Pat Moore and Ann Bacon welcomed guests to the Jensen Chamber of Commerce banquet, pinning name tags on all.

LISTENING--Fr. and Mrs. Frank Alvarez were in rapt attention to the comments of Chamber Manager Helen Richardson at the Chamber's installation banquet at the Outrigger Friday night.

VISITING--Doing some table hopping before the Jensen Chamber installation banquet Friday at the Outrigger were Mike Fredricks and Dr. Richard Penick. Seated is Mrs. Clarence Rydell.

HAPPY--Fred Silvers enjoyed the Chamber installation banquet.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH--Celebrating birthdays this week are Pearl Wilcox and Bonnie Schrock on December 11; Pauline Robinson, Sally Peters, Carol Y. Smith and Mary Jo Neeson, December 12.

Dennis Doyle will be 14 (or so) on December 13, and Jack Huggins, Kitty Robertson, Marie Yurillo, Frank DeStefano and Dory Hurley will be celebrating on December 15.

Have a happy day and a good year!

D & M News Notes

BY MILDRED STINNETT
334-4486

We were all saddened by the death of John Wild on November 28th. His wife Alma survives him, and three daughters. Mrs. Leonore Evertsen of River Grove, Illinois; Mrs. Gertrude Casteller, Lead Hill, Arkansas; and Mrs. Sonia Zuzu, Anchorage, Alaska. The three daughters, their husbands, and five grandchildren, all came here by plane and car to be with Mrs. Wild and Mr. and Mrs. Zuzu will remain with her for several weeks.

Many of Mrs. Wild's friends and neighbors in D & M offered their homes when the family arrived, and their offers were gratefully accepted.

Lois and Don Wininger have been entertaining their old friend, Rev. Larris Turner of Whitwell, Tenn. who came to Florida for a church convention and accepted their invitation to remain for a few days afterward.

Was happy to see the Andreasen's home opened, because we missed them last winter when they opted to remain in the cold North.

Florence and Ralph Williams have been indulging in their passion for fishing, and have brought home some nice, large whiting and pompano. They almost didn't get to bring the pompano home, because they buried it in the sand for safe keeping, marking the spot with a piece of driftwood. When Florence turned from her fishing she saw a woman and two boys toaning the driftwood marker around. She quickly followed, retrieved the wood, and all of them hunted for the spot where it had been. Luck was with them, so the strangers took off again with the driftwood and Florence had her pompano.

The Hobby Group met as usual on Tuesday. Mona Wendt, president presiding. After the minutes of the previous meeting were read by secretary Fran Gehres, the refreshments were served by our hostesses Grace Steiner and Alice Eastlack. During the business part of the meeting, it was decided to have a gift exchange at the Christmas Party on December 16th, at which Dorothy Morley and Olive Birum will be the hostesses.

At the December 9th meeting Ethel Phillips and Esther Grindles will act as hostesses and Marguerite Ritenour and Verna Moran will share the honors on the 30th.

It was also decided to hold the annual Hobby Show on Tuesday, February 24th from 1 to 4 p.m. with Marie Johnson and I as co-chairpersons. There was no dearth of volunteers for the various committees and we expect to make this show the best ever.

We congratulated Stella Dobrowolski on the birth of a great grandson on Sunday, November 30th. His parents are Michelle and William Thomas Cordes of Summerville, New Jersey, and the baby is also the great grandson of Catherine Cordes of Jensen Beach.

* * *

The birth of Craig Zane on November 26th brought joy to his grandparents, Alice and Walter Bender, whose daughter Shirley and son-in-law Everett of Sewell, New Jersey, are the parents.

Christmas covered dish is December 17

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Garden Club will hold its annual Christmas party at Fellowship Hall of the Community Church Wednesday, December 17, at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Floyd Jones and her committee will be in charge of the covered dish luncheon. Please bring your own service.

A mini flower show "Christmas At Home" will be held. Mrs. Fred Morris is the consultant. Call her at 334-0114 if you wish to exhibit a table arrangement, door decoration or corsage.

The Thrifty Shoppers sale netted over $200 for the civic beautification fund. The county has agreed to clean up the Triangle and remove the dead palms. As soon as completed, a new planting will be made.

Civic Club plans children's party

RIO–The Rio Civic Club is again sponsoring a children's Christmas party on Saturday, December 20, at the clubhouse on SR 707.

The party will be divided into two sections: pre-school from 10 to 11:30 a.m., 6 to 12 year olds from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

A survey is being made of the Rio area to determine the number of children who will attend. Parents who have not been contacted are asked to call 334-0469 or 334-4332.

Woman's Club meets Wednesday

STUART–The Woman's Club of Stuart will hold its regular business meeting on Wednesday, December 17. Refreshments will be served at 1 p.m. followed by a program of music and arts at 1:30.

The Joint Heirs, an octet from the First Baptist Church of Stuart, will entertain.

The business session is slated to follow the refreshments and entertainment.

Welcome Wagon extends invitation

JENSEN BEACH–Welcome Wagon North of Martin County invites graduates, guests and new residents of the area to their December meeting and Christmas party on Tuesday, December 16.

Festivities will begin with a social hour at 11:30 a.m. at the Manatee Resort Restaurant located in Port Salerno.

Everyone attending is asked to bring a gift costing no more than one dollar for exchange.

Call Mary Nemath at 334-4531 for reservations by December 11.

Card party at All Saints

JENSEN BEACH–All Saints Guild is sponsoring a dessert card party to be held at All Saints Episcopal Church on Thursday, December 18.

Charity bridge nets $125 for cancer

STUART–The Stuart Duplicate club held its third nationwide charity game for the benefit of the American Cancer Society on November 25.

There were 15 tables in play and $126 was sent to the Society for cancer research.

Winners overall were Mrs. Gussie Pittman and Ken Booth of Riviera Beach with 183 points. Second place overall went to Jack Hudson and Grant Shaffer with 170½ points. Sara and Jim Classen were third with 168½, fourth Stella McCoy and Louise Bender with 167½. In fifth place were Gladys and Elmer Nordstrom 164½, and sixth overall were Jack Alger and Edith Johnson with 162.

Placing north-south were Forest and Mildred Lambaer, 145½; Margaret Atchison and Peter Raczkowski, 141½; Roger Bellows and Frank Henderson, 138½.

Placing east-west were Jean and Mart Stapleton with 153 points.

The nationwide charity games are held twice each year under the auspices of the American Contract Bridge League. The Stuart Duplicate Club, sponsored by the City of Stuart Recreation Department, is a member of the ACBL.

The next nationwide game will be held in the spring and Roger White, director, says that the local club will participate again.

Jensen Beach Rio Community Fund

$1,000 GIFT–Jack Cargill, community fund captain of the Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach area, hands a check for $210 to LaVaughn Tilton, president of the fund drive. FIT plans a payroll deduction donation that will be delivered to the fund drive quarterly.

Workers scurry

Gifts push Community Fund over $13,000 as end nears

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–Concern for others adds to the concern of LaVaughn Tilton for the $18,000 goal of the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund, especially in this Christmas season.

Special gifts pushed the community fund total over the $13,000 mark on Monday, but the fund is still $5,000 short of the magic mark that will see all Jensen agencies taken care of for the next year.

"We had hoped that we would be able to make our goal by Christmas and distribute the funds to our agencies by January 15, but now it looks like the drive will have to continue into January," Mrs. Tilton said.

As she spoke, workers for the voluntary fund drive scurried through Jensen Beach seeking homes and businesses not yet contacted for donations.

In special gifts during the past week, Gene Hoke, Mayor of Ocean Breeze Park, presented a check for $500 to the fund. First Federal Savings of Martin County gave $250. Publix Super Markets gave $200. Checks for $100 were received from Dr. and Mrs. Richard Penick. The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and Porter Lumber Co. County Commissioner and Mrs. Ross Philbrick gave $75, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meader and Casa Rio Boat Company gave $50 each.

Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach, reported $213 collected thus far in its division of the drive.

Mrs. Tilton again asked that local businesses and families that have not yet given, send their donations to

Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund
Post Office Box 134
Jensen Beach, Fla. 33457

Agencies supported by the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund include the Jensen Beach Samaritan Free Ambulance, Jensen boy and girl scouts, Langford Park Recreation, Mars Hill Recreation, and Martin County Council on Aging.

If the fund drive surpasses the $18,000 goal additional funds will be allotted to the Animal Rescue League, Mental Health Association, and the Red Cross.

Santa at Chamber Saturday

JENSEN BEACH–Santa Claus will visit the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, 51 Commercial St., Saturday, Dec. 20, from noon to 3 p.m., and all Santa's little friends are invited to visit with him.

Chairman Mary Killer said Santa would have candy for the children, and coffee for their parents.

"Be sure to visit Santa at the chamber and tell him what you want for Christmas," Mrs. Killer advised all area children.

$500 GIFT–Mayor and Mrs. Gene Hoke presented a gift of $500 from the Town of Ocean Breeze Park to the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Fund this week. The gift moved the total raised over the $13,000 mark, heading for an $18,000 goal.

COG meeting

Planning law is outlined

JENSEN BEACH–Requirements of the state's new comprehensive planning law were outlined by a state official at the meeting of Council of Governments (COG).

Ed Hughes of the state Department of Community Affairs, said that some counties and cities have already adopted comprehensive plans for future development, but expressed some doubt that these would meet all of the state requirements.

Hughes advised governments that have already adopted comprehensive plans to send copies to the director of state planning to find out whether they do meet state requirements.

St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Ed Enns said St. Lucie has already adopted a plan which he thinks should meet the state requirements.

"Send it to the director of state planning and find out what you're lacking and let them react," Hughes advised Enns.

Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and St. Lucie Mayor Pat Beacon complained that the state requires programs such as complex transportation planning without providing enough money for it.

Hughes said federal aid is available but probably will go to counties and cities to apply for federal aid and to help pay for their planning activities.

"It appears the division of state planning will reward lack of initiative and inefficiency by funding governments that have done no planning work," Hughes added.

Hughes outlined 10 elements required by the state for plans from counties and cities the size of those in Martin and St. Lucie, including:

A comprehensive land-use plan; a plan for traffic circulation; plans for sewage and garbage disposal and portable water supplies; comprehensive plans for conservation; plans for open space and recreation; plans for housing; coastal protection plan; plans for coordination of development activity; utility plans; and capital improvements plans.

Martin County Commission Chairman John Kiernan estimated it would cost Martin County $70 million to $80 million for a water and sewer system, making it an impractical goal for the county, but yet it is required by the state.

Kiernan called the planning program "very idealistic" but wondered where the money was coming from.

The Martin County Commission chairman pointed out that the state law limits tax raises to about 10 percent under normal circumstances.

All land use plans will be reviewed by the division of state planning and local governments should send complete portions of their land-use plans to Tallahassee for approval, Hughes said.

The state says the plans must be finished by 1979.

Grand jury probes Plaza purchase

JENSEN BEACH–The Martin County Grand Jury started an investigation Wednesday, Dec. 10, of the County Commission plan for purchase of the Executive Plaza for county new office spaces for administrative personnel.

It is reasons stated for results of the...

County Commissioners Timothy ... John Kiernan, Maggie Hurchalla, Roscoe Philbrick and ... Higgins.

County Administrator Jack Noble, County Attorney Steve Calvert, County Finance Director Vivian Sullivan and Special Counsel to the Commission legal counsel James ...

Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs ... has refused to sign a check for ... down payment on the building.

Real estate broker Ralph Hart ... who appraised the building for the commission.

Executive Plaza owners Albert Bachelor, Joel Pyle and B.V. ...

Attorneys from the firm that represents the owners, Walter Meyerson, Larry Buchanan and David Leary Jr.

Meanwhile Monday, Commissioner Hurchalla asked State Attorney Robert Stone to step down as legal advisor to the grand jury.

Commissioner Hurchalla said she wants Stone disqualified because ... of his Martin County Assistants Dale Anderson, Dick Rogers and Stewart Hershey have appeared before the building purchase, and their firm represented 10 local people in a court suit aimed at blocking the building purchase.

Foreman of Grand Jury foreman Lee Brock also was requested by Commissioner Hurchalla, pointing out that Brock "would seem to have a serious conflict in investigating a ...

Winners named

JENSEN BEACH–The final round of the Stuart Sailfish Club's 22nd annual Light Tackle Sailfish Tournament was cancelled Sunday because of gusty winds and high seas.

Port Salerno fisherman R.J. Miller and Stephen T. Miller of Virginia Beach, Va., leaders after the third round were declared winners in their respective divisions.

R.J. Miller won the pro division ... with seven releases fishing aboard the Lady Margaret (Capt. Carlton Williams). Sam Evert of Silver Tree Village was second with ... releases.

Stephen T. Miller took the amateur division with six releases aboard the Temptress (Capt. Chip Schaefer).

A total of 138 sailfish were released in the tournament.

Housing project for purple martins

JENSEN BEACH–The purple martin will eat mosquitoes, popular with man, and are clean.

Because of these wonderful traits, Jensen Beach Elementary School students have started a public housing project for them.

"The bicentennial purple martin bird house building contest is underway," school assistant principal John Clyde said.

Judging in the contest will be held Wed. Dec. 17, at the school, Clyde said.

The Jensen Beach Kiwanis club is giving four $25 savings bonds in the four categories of the contest–most unusual house, house made of recycled material, most unique design for a contemporary house, and house built to resemble colonial architecture.

A savings bond will be given to the builder for the first fledgling hatched in a contest-built house, according to Clyde.

The bird house must be built by both child and parent, Clyde said.

He noted that last week a meeting was held to instruct parents and children on how to build the houses and more than 250 persons attended.

He noted that the purple martins nest in flocks, and "consequently they live in condominiums."

He said that the house should be designed for easy inspections and cleaning, and have at least four compartments.

According to information on the purple martin, they can eat 2,000 mosquitoes a day, and feed exclusively on the wing.

Historically, martins have always been popular with humans. Indians hung gourds to attract them to villages. European settlers built large wooden houses and these persisted and were common sights on farms throughout America until about 1920 when chemicals caused a loss of interest in birds as insect controllers.

The birds were nearly extinct in the early 1960's, and through the cooperation of the Wild Bird Society in Griggsville, Ill., they have managed to regroup and expand the flocks.

Arrival of the first nesting birds usually begins in January in Florida, and birds begin to leave in mid-August and start the journey to South America.

Some taxpayers overcharged

JENSEN BEACH–Of the approximately 32,000 tax bills mailed last week, about 12,000 were faulty ones overcharging Martin County taxpayers up to nearly $4.

Tax Collector Alvin Andrews said he will go ahead with the collection on the faulty tax bills.

The homestead properties will receive a credit in the amount of what they overpaid, he said.

Andrews said people who have the $5,000 homestead exemption were billed for $1.82 more than they should have been while persons with $10,000 exemptions were billed an extra $3.75.

The tax collector said he went ahead and mailed the bills because he didn't think people wanted another delay.

Another correction would have meant another 30 day delay, according to Andrews.

Tax bills were supposed to be mailed out Nov. 1, but several problems, including the mini computer in the tax appraiser's office held up the mailing.

Andrews said the 4 per cent discount on tax bills would remain in effect during February with no discount if bills are paid in March.

The 3 per cent penalty begins April 1.

Island taxing district okayed

JENSEN BEACH–A municipal service taxing on Hutchinson Island was approved Tuesday by Martin County Commission.

Commissioner Ross Philbrick, a resident of the island, said, "It didn't pass the ordinance now we won't be able to collect taxes in 1976."

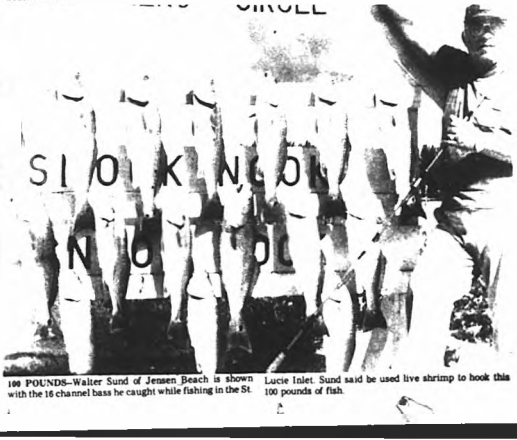
Philbrick said he considered it a "standby" ordinance. "We will use it when we need it."

The municipal service taxing district would provide for fire protection, law enforcement, beach erosion control, recreation service and facilities, water, streets, sidewalks, sewage collection, etc.

In other action, the commission:

–Approved a resolution requesting from public service to R-3 and R-3A, placing Florida Institute of Technology in its proper zoning classification.

–Approved Martumes' request for planned unit development (PUD). And approved PUD for Newport Jensen.



100 POUNDS–Walter Sund of Jensen Beach is shown with the 16 channel bass he caught while fishing in the St. Lucie Inlet. Sund said he used live shrimp to hook this 100 pounds of fish.

Area health, planning moving

JENSEN BEACH–A decision on a new regional planning council isn't expected until next summer, a state official told the Council of Governments (COG).

Officials of Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties last June passed resolutions asking the state to form a new planning district, and took them to Tallahassee.

Ed Hughes, a representative of the state Department of Communities Affairs, told COG members last week not to expect a decision until next summer because of other problems.

Public hearings on the formation of a new regional planning district are not expected to begin until next February or March.

Lt. Gov. Jim Williams agreed to study the request of the four counties, and predicted it would take about 30 days to look at all aspects of the new council.

Lt. Gov. Williams received the request early last July.

Martin and St. Lucie Counties are designated members of the South Florida District but have never sat on the governing council or paid dues. Indian River is still actively participating in planning efforts of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Only Palm Beach County is directly affected by the delay. That county pulled out of the South Florida Council last June, objecting to some actions of the big counties of Dade and Broward.

Meanwhile, a public hearing was held last week on the proposed new five-county Health Planning Council. The new organization seeks approval as the health services agency to serve Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River, Okeechobee and Palm Beach Counties.

Under the plan, the new agency will have authority over all health programs using federal funds.

When it is approved by the state, the plan will be forwarded to the regional office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Atlanta, and then to Washington, D.C.

In contrast to the present three-county Health Planning Council, which can make recommendations to the state and federal government, the new agency can approve or turn down any plans for health-related programs which use federal funds.

The St. Lucie County Commission officially protested the council formation because it gives 18 votes to Palm Beach County with only 12 votes divided among the other four counties – four for St. Lucie, three each for Indian River and Martin, and two for Okeechobee.

County commissions in the five counties have been asked to name one representative from their county to the council board.

Until April 1, the present Health Planning Council will continue in operation, but representation from Indian River and Okeechobee Counties has been added to make a smooth transition from three to five counties.

If approved, the new council will seek a $298,800 budget to be funded by the federal government, with no local contributions required.

Delegation meeting is Jan. 9

JENSEN BEACH–The Martin County Legislative Delegation will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, Jan. 9, in the Martin County Commission meeting room.

Several items on the agenda including a "citizens forum." Dr. Ralph E. Schmidt and the association of retired physicians regarding a proposal for physicians creating limited medical license.

Also some proposed special acts, including one relating to premiums on group insurance for county employees.

Tigers win two more, still tops in state

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH–The word is out. Loads of coaches around the state are beginning to formulate ideas on how to stop the Martin County Tigers on the basketball court this year.

The Tigers, who by virtue of two victories last weekend are now 6-0 on the year, could further improve their reputation this week in the annual Orlando Sentinel Star Basketball Classic, which includes such powers as Deland, ranked third in the state 4A class, along with Orlando Evans, ranked eighth.

The Tigers first round opponent will be Orlando Colonial, a relatively weak team compared to Deland, Evans and Ft. Lauderdale Cardinal Gibbons, a powerhouse in the 3A classification.

Martin County had a squeaker against John F. Leonard last Tuesday, having to come back from a 13-point deficit at the start of the fourth quarter.

Martin County's chief menace in the Suncoast Eastern Division this year will be fourth-ranked Ft. Pierce Central. But the Cobras didn't find Leonard too weak either. It it hadn't been for Greg Merrick's last second heroics in a three-point play, Ft. Pierce would not have won the game, 53-52, and kept their ranking. Leonard had an eight point lead, 48-40, with only minutes remaining, but somehow the Cobras pulled even and went ahead.

Against Boca Raton, Martin County had no difficulties whatsoever. Walter Campbell scored 20 points, as the Tigers romped to an easy 94-53 win over the Bobcats. The win was important in that it placed the locaiters at the top of the Suncoast East standings, with a 2-0 mark. Lavern McFadden helped the Tiger cause with 14 points, while Oscar Delatte poured in twelve markers. Six Tigers finished in double figures on the night.

The following evening against Key West, it wasn't quite as easy, as the Tigers came out with an 80-70 triumph. The lead changed hands on numerous occasions in the first half, with the Tigers scoring last before intermission to make it 29-26.

Martin County travels to St. Petersburg on December 26 for the St. Pete Invitational, which always features some of the toughest competition in the state, including 4A ranked St. Petersburg Northeast.

Martin County's next regular game will be on January 6 against Ft. Pierce Central in Ft. Pierce in the first of their two showdowns which span only eight days. Their next home game is January 9 versus Forest Hill. High School at the Martin County gym, located on State Road 76 at the high school.

Golf tourney ends in tie

PORT ST. LUCIE–The ladies of St. Lucie Country Club Golf Association played Point Tournament Pairings-Strokes, where they fall when the group met last week.

Scoring was as follows: Bogie-1, Par-2, Birdie-3, Eagle-4.

Tied for First, 46 points: Alice Rozell and Marian Brandon.

Tied for Second, 38 points: Dottie Offner, Lola Jelnick, Vereen Kelly.

Tied for Third, 37 points: Angela Lobrutto and Ethel Osborne.

Tied for Fourth, 36 points: Jan Berges, Bunny Leybourne, Cynthia Swenson and Marian Cole.

Tied for Fifth, 35 points: Lois Ritter, Eva Dean Bouck, Jean Sullano, Ines Bowman.

Sailfish entries

STUART–The Stuart Sailfish Club have issued citations to the following fishermen:

Ruth Caterino, Jensen Beach, 48-lb. 8-oz. amberjack. Michael Caterino, Jensen Beach, a sailfish, fishing from The Sundance with Capt. Don Chason.

R.D. Sias, Traverse City, Mich., 7-lb. 4-oz. Spanish mackerel & a 32-lb. 12-oz. king mackerel, fishing aboard the Lago Mar.

John Rice, Silver Springs, Md., 6-ft. 7-in. sailfish, fishing from the Big G with Capt. Costa Aposto-lopoulas.

New time for basketball

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Optimist Club has announced that all practices for both divisions of the Junior Basketball Program will be moved from 12 noon to 2 p.m., and also has disclosed plans for a January 10th start to the season.

All boys and girls aged 8-16 are invited to participate in this Saturday's practice (2-4 pm) if they register. They can do so in the Langford Park fieldhouse before and during practice if a parent is present. Registration fee is $5, to cover various expenses.

The Optimists would also appreciate it greatly if all coaches and scorers would report to the practices Saturday. That includes all those already involved, but especially those who would like to participate, but were not sure how to go about it.

As of press time, only 44 youngsters had registered for the program, sponsored annually by the year and a half old Optimist Club. Plans call for at least 4 teams in each of two divisions, along with a travelling squad similar to the one that played a two-game series with Miami last year. However, if more youngsters don't register soon, those plans could fall through.

Bowman receives masters

JENSEN BEACH–Richard W. Bowman was awarded a Masters degree in Building Construction by the College of Architecture, University of Florida, last Saturday.

He is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bowman of 211 Jeannette Ave., for a few days then will return to Gainesville before moving to Houston, Texas (in Jan. 2. Bowman will start work with Fluor Co. as an assistant scheduling engineer.

Bowman, a 1968 graduate of Martin County High School, received a degree in electronics at Indian River Community College, served four years with the Air Force and was discharged a Master Sergeant.

Haugk, Rhodes exchange vows

JENSEN BEACH–With the music of gentle waves breaking on the shore, Jeannette Hope Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Rhodes, Jr. of Jensen Beach, and Fredrick James Haugk, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Haugk of Decatur, Indiana, were joined in marriage on the private beach of the Windjammer on Hutchinson Island on November 28.

The Reverend Edgar E. Stauffer officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off white, long sleeve, hooded caftan gown trimmed with yellow and rust floral embroidery. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of yellow and rust chrysanthemums with baby's breath and yellow carnations.

Sandra Pogi served as her sister's matron of honor, wearing a gown of rust nylon polyester with soft, ruffled V-neck. She carried a bouquet of rust and yellow mums.

The best man was William H. Haugk, brother of the groom from Decatur, Indiana.

Mrs. Rhodes chose a gown of green guiana with a corsage of yellow miniature carnations for the occasion.

The groom's mother wore a sheer cotton gown, white with black pin stripes, and a corsage of yellow miniature carnations.

A reception was held at the Rhodes home.

Following a trip to Disneyworld and a tour of Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Haugk, Jr., are living in Windmill Village Estates, Hutchinson Island.

The bride is a graduate of Martin County High School and the Barbizon School of Fashion Modeling. Until her marriage she was employed as dental assistant to Dr. C.M. Fogt, of Stuart.

Haugk graduated from Adams Central High School in Decatur and earned a B.S. Degree in Business Administration at Indiana University. He is a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity, and is the manager of Windjammer, Inc. of Hutchinson Island.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Samuel N. Rhodes of Media, Pennsylvania, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mahan of Swarthmore, Pa.; Mrs. William Backur and son of Ft. Lauderdale; Mr. and Mrs. John Faunce, Key Biscayne; and Ann Haugk, sister of the groom, from Indianapolis, Indiana.

Ridiculous laws

WASHINGTON–Imagine a bill to make it a crime to harm an intruder who breaks into your home.

Ridiculous as it sounds, there is such a proposal pending before the U.S. Congress. It is part of the Criminal Justice Reform Act now before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Criminal Justice Reform Act, a huge 700-plus page proposal started out as a good idea. At present, criminal statutes are scattered throughout the United States Code, making them extremely difficult to find. So, the idea was to codify them all in one section.

Unfortunately, there are always those who see a chance to twist a good idea into something else. And such was the case with this bill.

Instead of keeping it a simple codification of existing laws, some new ideas were added. And not all of them were good, as this provision to severely limit the homeowner's ability to defend his property shows.

This concept is part and parcel of the theory being expounded by some do-gooders, that criminals are to be protected, are to be granted more rights than honest citizens.

If we accept that theory, the next step will be a requirement that all homeowners install safety glass so the robbers won't cut their hands when they smash the windows to get in.

Well, I refuse to accept the theory, just as I refuse to accept the idea that homeowners have no right to defend themselves and their property from robbers, thieves and burglars.

All such legislation will do is pave the way for a massive wave of breaking-ins all across the nation. And anyone who has looked at the latest FBI statistics can tell you the crime rate is going up fast enough without making breaking and entering more attractive.

So this particular section of the Criminal Justice Reform Act must be defeated.

However, the entire bill cannot be defeated. There are some good new sections proposed including one to restore the death penalty for certain federal crimes.

I am convinced it is high time we completely changed our attitude toward the criminals in our society. And the Criminal Justice Reform Act may provide us with that opportunity.

If the Congress refuses to tie the hands of homeowners and allows them to defend themselves against intruders, and if the Congress acts to restore the death penalty, we will be serving notice on the criminals that we've had enough.

The only difference between life in a jungle and life in a civilized society is that civilization has rules to protect everyone. Those who break the rules must be punished, swiftly and surely. Otherwise, the rules stand for naught.

There are those among us who interpret any sign of weakness in the enforcement of the law as an invitation to break the law. All that keeps them from returning to the law of the jungle is the knowledge that punishment may be in the offing.

Take away the certainty of punishment – as the liberals on the courts and in the Congress have done – and we move closer to return to the old concept of "survival of the fittest."

This is why the Criminal Justice Reform Act, if carefully reviewed and revised, could be one of the most important pieces of legislation acted upon by the 94th Congress.

It could very well mean the difference between the "rule of law" and "the law of the jungle."

Night classes

MELBOURNE--A degree program in applied sciences will be offered at Florida Institute of Technology during the evening hours beginning January 5, 1976.

The Bachelor of Science degree can be achieved in six years through the evening program which is designed to meet the need of students working in the science and engineering fields.

Options are also available for specialization in electrical and mechanical engineering, mathematics, computer science, physics and space science.

Richard E. Enstice has been named counselor for the program which was announced by Dr. Harry P. Weber, Dean of the School of Science and Engineering at FIT.

Additional information on the evening program may be obtained by contacting him at Melbourne 727-3701, Ext. 291.

BARRACKS PARTY--Veterans of World War I Martin County Barracks 854 held their Christmas party at the Crow's Nest Restaurant December 9. Some of the Barracks officials at the party are Henry and Marcella Hill, Oscar Deese, Charles and Eleanor Diffendal, Marcella Deese, Henrietta Horton, Julia Callahan and Joseph Netik.

Civic Club bazaar a hit

RIO--Fun, good food and a bounty of prizes highlighted the day-long Hobby Bazaar presented recently at the Rio Civic Club.

Turkey sandwiches and home-made pie headed the menu and chairman Lillian Manwaring, and her committee, Hazel Houghton, Susan Deiner, Dot Mercer, Isabelle Napper, Aileen O'Neal and Edith Beck, were kept busy.

Sylvester Fluegel of Fort Pierce won the quilt drawing and Mrs. Max Reid of Stuart took home the afghan.

The many door prizes were won by E.C. French, Ethel Podesta, Mrs. R.L. Vogt, Mary Grant, Elinor Scholz, Ruth Dodd, Joe Foster, and Marie Knight.

Also, Mildred Mason, Jane Sheean, William Cisco, Ernest Brosgalla, Karl Engerud, Margaret Miller, Sally Herman, Loretta Helms, H.B. Hurst, Ernest White, Mrs. G. Diedrick.

Betty Larson, Mildred David, George Smith, Peggy Bean and Grace Mowder were all door prize winners, as were Roy Williams, Val Manwaring, James Morris, Jo Sutorius, Sabina Forster and Orin Falkenburg.

Over all co-chairmen for the event were Janice Cary and Inez Barry.

Floor committee chairman was Kathleen Spencer, assisted by Winnie Dahl, Rae Zajic, Madge Hunting, Margaret Forsberg, Ella Bernhardt, Eileen O'Neal, Edith Beck, Midge Wilkinson, Jill Morris, Wendell Morris, Grace Lewis, Gen Heasley, Joe Forsberg, Jack Barr, and P.A. Cary.

Our church service was inspiring and beautiful last Sunday. Reverend Clark Thompson officiated. S McCart performed lay services. Dee Brink played the organ, and guest Andre Cole was the pianist. Ushers were Mark Sumner, Ted Storck and Robert Barton.

A special treat was hearing a junior choir from the Hobe Sound Bible College under the direction of Mrs. Rice and Mrs. French. The large crowd was thrilled by their beautiful singing.

Stephanie and Fred Kiefaber took a step into yesteryear when they attended the 26th annual Death Valley Encampment held at Death Valley. Well attended by 35,000 persons, the encampment lasted four days.

Everyone at at chuck wagons. There were plenty of western and mountain singers, banjo and guitar players. The evenings were saved for story telling and song fests around the campfire. They also had square and social dances under the stars which were well attended.

Burro races drew the largest crowd, however. The distance from start to finish was one feet in the center pole and back. First the man had to take the burro around the pole unloaded, then once again around loaded with two boxes to hold pick, shovel, blanket, rope, fry pan, wood, butter, etc.

On the return trip he had to unload the burro, make a fire, heat the fry pan, pour in the batter and fry it done enough to hold between his thumb and forefinger and feed it to the burro.

Simple? No!

Nothing is more stubborn and unpredictable than a burro. Some never left the starting line. Some were pulled, pushed, cajoled and still didnt move.

The Kiefabers said it was great fun.

Naomi and Scherly Green hosted a "Meet Your Neighbor" cocktail party on their new screened porch. Edith and Steve Pointon, Clara and Milner Myers, Jackie and Audrey Aubin, Maxeen and Ken Ritter, Mignonette and Robert Harel, Inez and George Watkins, Alpha and Roland Kuepsell were the guests.

* * *

New arrivals during the past week included Morris and Freda Wenn, trauh, lot 402; Orvilla Quick and son, lot 313; Maxine and Sam Graber, 83; William May, 165; Andre Cote, 81; Robert Murray, 274; Chester Gramstorff, 340; Dorothy and Frank Brady on 382; Paul Brunelle, 392; Gladys and Timothy Hales, 387; Earl and Carol Meierdiercks, 80; Earl and Edwina Palmer, 209.

Welcome to all.

The children and adults all will be happy to learn that there will be pinball machines, a music machine and pool tables in the rec this week.

Best wishes for a happy birthday are extended to Marvin Terry and Naomi Green celebrating Dec. 19. Lillian Bare and Howard Clugston, Dec. 21, and Jack Cammack, Dec. 22.

Kate and Haden Steen are celebrating a wedding anniversary on Dec. 21. Luther and Mary Traynor and Mark and Mary Sumner, Dec. 22.

Congratulations and best wishes for many more happy years.

The festive Christmas dance was enjoyed by a lively crowd of 110, most of whom danced every number played by the Fred Rhoades trio. The trio does play "our kind of music" that is with a lilt and for the young in heart.

The dance committee chaired by Peg and Clancy Gutheil, assisted by Ann and Mac Williams and Thelma and Ike Gingrich, were fine hosts. The tables looked most attractive with center pieces of pine boughs and holly and lighted candles. The grown-ups were by the Holiday Out gals were lovely and their escorts were gallant and handsome - a delightful evening.

What harried lot owners recently battled caterwauling felines in the dark of the moon?

It seems that a pair of large black cats chose underneath an innocent Holiday Outer's car for their serenades or whatever it was they were doing and efforts to dissuade them with a water hose were frustratingly unsuccessful for a time. Finally, the cats, as cats are wont to do, departed the premises when it suited them to do so, and everything was once more serene.

Their new mobile home in Melbourne is now ready for them, so Fred and Helen Stumph Pascoe are leaving the park very soon. We are sorry to see them go but wish this couple health and happiness in their new home. Don't forget where Holiday Out is!

* * *

Three Holiday Out artists, Peggy Wray, Vergual Smith and Mac McKeever, exhibited paintings at the Indian River Community College art show. The exhibition was in conjunction with the open house at the college on Sunday, December 7, and it was reported to be a most interesting affair.

* * *

Paul Pinkerwicz won second place in the Jensen Beach Kiwanis golf tournament at the Sinners Course of Sandpiper Bay on December 6. The tournament was won by Lewis Friend of Vero Beach who netted 66. Paul netted 67. It must have been an exciting contest.

Paul and Ethel have returned to their home in Port Orange for Christmas but will be back here December 28, bringing their grandson, John Marriotte, from Williamantic, Connecticut, with them. The trip to Florida is Grandma and Grandpa's Christmas gift to young John.

* * *

The entertaining Leisters, Betty and Bob, were at it again with another screen room party Saturday. Guests were the Max Lewins, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dionne, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lantz, and the Roland Kuepsells.

* * *

About nine bridge players from Holiday Out went to "Professor" Mac McPherson's refresher bridge course at Pinelake Village last week with spectacular results for at least one of the attentive students.

The student, Winnie Pohl, won second place with a score of 3440 playing at our rec hall Wednesday night.

Sophie Hunter was first with a score of 3970 and Mary Sumner third with 3310.

Marvin and Everett Rupert stopped by Saturday to see Ellena Perez and Liz Paul's new trailer. The Ruperts love their new condo but miss their park friends.

* * *

Earle and Edwina Palmer drove into the park Sunday afternoon.

* * *

Marvin and Lee Terry have flown home to drive daughter Sue and granddaughter Tanja down.

* * *

Bert and Ace Goodwin celebrated their anniversary at the Musicians Supper Club in Vero Beach on December 10. Peg and Al Ray went along and all said the place is dandy.

* * *

Ralph and Jean Taylor spent several days in the Keys last week.

* * *

Kay and Cort Hamann drove over from Haines City to spend the weekend visiting friends in the park. Cort is now Assistant City Manager at Haines City.

* * *

Twenty-five friends dropped by Betty Taylor's patio for coffee and cookies in celebration of Evie and Marvin Smith's 28th anniversary on Saturday evening.

* * *

Cecil and Beryle Roy had dinner with Nelson and Trudy Beatty on Saturday evening. The Roys left Monday for California to spend the holidays.

Burton Thomas and Mary Webber of Bradenton, Fla., were guests Friday evening of Mr and Mrs Carl McClintock. Mr Thomas is their grandson.

Linda Woerner of Ashtabula, Ohio has returned home after spending a few days with her grandparents Mr and Mrs Carl McClintock.

A luncheon was enjoyed this past Tuesday at the King's Inn by twenty some hobby ladies.

Mr & Mrs Hank Johnson and Mr & Mrs Virgil Robinson joined the Carl Ruona's for dinner and dancing last week in celebration of the Ruona's anniversary.

+ + +

Bingo jackpot winners this past week were Ken Bigham on Tuesday and Mary Gerder on Friday.

We welcome Mr and Mrs [illegible] back in the park again.

Henry and Fray Johnson have moved from their trailer on 3rd Street to their new home on 2nd Street.

Fifty one persons were served a hearty Thanksgiving dinner at the hall. Turkey and all the trimmings were served, followed by mince and pumpkin pies for dessert. There was plenty of food left and 38 people returned for a buffet supper that evening. Chairmen for the dinner were Florence Brynilsen and Fray Johnson.

Plans are now in progress for our annual Christmas dinner. Edith Ruona and Marcella McGinley are co-chairmen for that event.

The December meeting of the Riverside Village Association was held Wednesday with 60 residents of the park attending.

+ + +

We welcome several new residents in the park this year. Bill and Catherine Keller from Pennsylvania who are making this their permanent home now. Also, Mr and Mrs Edward Slover and Edith Romaine from New Jersey, and Mr and Mrs Stevenson from Iowa. Welcome to Riverside.

Plans are underway for our annual Christmas Eve party. Also, our first dance of the season is planned for New Year's Eve.

Willard and Maybelle Morgan recently spent three days in Orlando where they visited with many friends as well as attending the 1975 Florida State Championship Celebration of the Walking Horse Association.

Then they went on to Moore Haven for five days to spend a pleasant Thanksgiving at the home of their good friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Ferrell.

Maybelle informed me that Willard will be singing in a "Hallelujah" chorus on December 21 at the First Baptist Church in Boynton, Georgia, where their son Bill is Minister of Music.

Glenn and Gladys Oakes were happy to have a visit from their nephew and his wife, Charles and Nancy Oakes from Tampa.

+ + +

Carl and Tansy Roman were delighted with a day's visit with their niece and her husband, Jim and Lyla Spata are from Kenosha, Wisc.

Jen Robertson was happily surprised Tuesday by a visit from her nephew William Culhane from Hawthorne, N.J.

It was kind of Margaret Rosengarth to offer the use of the beautiful gold chandelier that she had made for the Beamer party. We were very grateful to have it. Sorry we overlooked this in last week's issue.

+ + +

Dora Martin is rounding up a committee for New Year's Eve. She will appreciate offers of help and game suggestions.

The committee on decorating the hall has started and will be joined by all ladies at the cookie party on December 17. We are grateful to the committee who are Alice Stoddard, Clara Burmeister, Helen Christen and Ethel Bullock.

+ + +

Bingo had a good turnout of 26 on Friday with Andy Bullock and John Hollenbacher calling.

+ + +

We are happy to welcome Walter and Jessie Atwood, back from the north. Walt will now manage the shuffling on Mondays at 1 p.m. Dot Beamer took care of the previous several weeks.

+ + +

There will be a men's coffee this Saturday, December 20, at 10 a.m.

Listen for the Carollers on Tuesday evening, December 23, after 7 p.m.

Take time to relax, it pays.

And now to all...Peace and a Blessed Christmas.

Joyful Cantata is Sunday

JENSEN BEACH–Area residents are invited to hear the Christmas Story in Christian song at the First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach.

"The Saviour is Born," by Evelyn Turner will be performed by the combined Adult and Young People's Choirs, with an assist from the Children's Choir, all under the direction of Harlan Thorne.

The time is 7 p.m. Sunday, December 21.

The First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach is located on top of the hill on West Commercial Street.

Q. Why can't FPL absorb the fuel adjustment costs?

A. The price of fuel oil has skyrocketed to a point where it now costs FPL three times what it did in 1972. The average cost per day has risen from $334,000 to over $1,000,000. The cost of fuel now comprises 59% of our total operating costs.

To give you a clearer idea of what these figures mean, the price we paid for fuel oil last year was 3½ times greater than our payroll expense and more than three times our total net income for the same year. That's why there's the fuel adjustment charge on your electric bill. However, we don't keep one cent of that money, it all goes to help pay the fuel bill. We don't like paying that much money for fuel any more than you do.

We're doing all we can to keep the cost of your electric bill down. That's one reason we're building more nuclear power plants. Nuclear fuel is the least expensive source of energy available to us today.

Letting you know is a part of our responsibility.

Not covered by a pension?

Start your own tax-deferred plan!

Are you a professional person? The owner of a small business? A free-lance artist or musician? Employed by a company with no pension plan?

Now you can start your own tax-deferred pension plan when you open an Individual Retirement Account (I R A) at Community Federal Savings.

Community Federal's new I R A will allow you to save — and deduct from your pre-tax income — up to $1500 or 15% of your annual earnings, whichever is less.

You can also transfer funds from a company pension into an I.R.A. when you leave that firm's employment.

The new tax law means you will not pay any taxes on your contributions, or the accumulated interest, until the time you retire. And you're likely to be in a lower tax bracket then.

Visit the Community Federal office nearest you soon to see if you qualify for a tax-deferred Individual Retirement Account.

If you don't have a company pension to take care of your retirement, Community Federal will help you take care of yourself.

Auditor's report discussed

Civic League urges study

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–Directors of the Port St. Lucie Civic League Tuesday urged the City Council to make a thorough study of recommendations contained in the recent highly controversial Fletcher Johns report covering city affairs. The request was conveyed to the council at its Tuesday morning workshop session by Roy Hannum, League vice president.

The Fletcher Johns 28 page comprehensive report was prepared at the request of City Administrator Elmer Cox to the tune of $1300.

The report, which was submitted to the Council back in October, recommended in part the reductions of personnel in the city's building department and the abolishment of the office of Public Safety Director Jim Thomas.

While we recognize the need for enforcement of building codes we feel the City is not able to afford the luxury of having the Building Department Head position be that of an administrative nature," the report noted.

It was further recommended by the accounting firm the Building Department head should be primarily operational performing the duties of inspector thereby eliminating the need for two additional full time inspectors.

The League, according to their letter indicated particular interest in the auditors suggestion that the job of public safety director might be abolished pointing out the city's agreement with the St. Lucie Sheriff's Department conveyed to the sheriff complete law and order control within the city.

"It is not the intentions of the Civic League to criticize these two departments but instead to encourage an in-depth study of both departments by the city," said another league spokesman.

"Such a study should settle once and for all the actual need in these two departments and the degree of efficiency with which each is operated."

This is the only way it can be determined whether the two departments are worth their cost to the taxpayers of this city," Hannum added.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe promised a complete study would be conducted and the results and corrections, if necessary, would be released upon completion.

The City Administrator spoke in defense of the Building Department claiming he had for sometime closely observed their activities and strongly felt they were by no means over staffed.

In view of Cox's remarks, Port St. Lucie resident Lee Johnson questioned the city would be in a position to conduct an unbiased study.

Assistant City Attorney Alfred J. Horowitz had little to say on the matter except for suggesting the city Council recognize Fletcher Johns as public accountants and not personnel administrators.

Cox who said he had requested a general report setting forth specific financial procedures in compliance with the Auditor General's report, claimed Fletcher Johns had gone far afield when it came to their recommendations on the structural government of the city.

Ralph Lattanzio who heads the city Building department, spoke briefly at the close of the discussion to advise those present that each employee in his department was required to keep an up to date log of his activities.

These records are open for inspection by anyone on this city at anytime," Lattanzio said.

City applies for planning funds

PORT ST. LUCIE–With all the co-operation that can be mustered from General Development Corporation the city's largest land holder it is estimated approximately $22,500 in cash will be needed to prepare the master land use plan required by State law.

Although City Administrator Elmer Cox gave due credit to both the city's Planning Board and General Development Corporation for their efforts along this line he suggested professional assistance would be essential to draft the long range land use plan for the city.

During a special meeting held Tuesday at 9 a.m. the Council passed a resolution providing the city submit an application for a Comprehensive Community Plan Grant with the Florida State Department of Community Affairs.

Whether or not the city of Port St. Lucie will receive funding under this grant is not known however Cox said he thought it worthwhile to apply.

The deadline originally set for July 1977 for municipalities to comply has been extended to July 1979.

Inasmuch as our city encompasses seventy seven square miles we do indeed have a lot of planning to do," Cox said.

In response to questions posed by Councilman Larry Kimmel relative to the cost and the effect this would have on other planning projects the city is currently involved in specifically county wide sewers, Cox assured there would be no interference and at the same time estimated an operational fund of $25,000 to be adequate based on his previous experience in handling such matters while employed by the City of Fort Pierce.

Cox was hopeful the funds could be derived by $20,000 in Federal funds and $5,000 from the City of Port St. Lucie. The city's share would be comprised of $2,500 in cash and the additional $2,500 in service in kind.

Cox told the Council he was confident a very capable planning firm could be employed for this figure.

COG meeting

Planning law is outlined

PORT ST. LUCIE–Requirements of the state's new comprehensive planning law were outlined by a state official at the meeting of Council of Governments (COG).

Ed Hughes of the state Department of Community Affairs said that some counties and cities have already adopted comprehensive plans for future development but expressed some doubt that these would meet all of the state requirements.

Hughes advised governments that have already adopted comprehensive plans to send copies to the director of state planning to find out whether they do meet state requirements.

St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Ed Enns said St. Lucie has already adopted a plan which he thinks should meet the state requirements.

Send it to the director of state planning, and find out what you're lacking and let them react," Hughes advised Enns.

Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and St. Lucie Mayor Pat Beacom complained that the state requires programs such as comprehensive planning without providing enough money for it.

Hughes said federal aid is available but probably will go to counties and cities to apply for federal aid and to help pay for their planning activities.

It appears the division of state planning will reward lack of initiative and inefficiency by funding governments that have done no planning work," Hughes added.

Hughes outlined 10 elements required by the state for plans from counties and cities the size of those in Martin and St. Lucie, including:

A comprehensive land use plan; a plan for traffic circulation; plans for sewage and garbage disposal and potable water supplies; comprehensive plans for conservation; plans for open space and recreation; plans for housing; coastal protection plan; plans for coordination of development activity; utility plans and capital improvements plans.

Martin County Commission Chairman John Kiernan estimated it would cost Martin County $70 million to $80 million for a water and sewer system, making it an impractical goal for the county, but yet it is required by the state.

Kiernan called the planning program very idealistic but wondered where the money was coming from.

The Martin County Commission chairman pointed out that the state law limits tax raises to about 10 percent under normal circumstances.

All land use plans will be reviewed by the division of state planning and local governments should send complete portions of their land-use plans to Tallahassee for approval, Hughes said.

The state says the plans must be finished by 1979.

Hooper is Welcome Center associate

Hooper relocated at Port St. Lucie in 1974 upon his retirement from the Western Union Corporation in New Jersey after 35 years of service in various management and executive positions, one of which was the construction, acquisition and leasing of real estate for the corporation.

His first position was that of uniformed bicycle messenger. When asked if he was a singing messenger he says, You bet, everything from Happy Birthday to Anniversaries. In those days we got 25 cents either as a single or a member of a quartet."

I preferred the singles. That way you didn't have to split the tips."

His last position with Western Union was that of Assistant Vice President Quality Assurance.

Hooper's long service was interrupted only for military service in World War II and continuing education at the University of Richmond and Harvard School of Business.

As a result of his youthful employment, he retired at age 51 and looks forward to a career in residential real estate sales.

Hooper resides at 964 SE Tegan Drive, Port St. Lucie and is a member of the Port St. Lucie First Baptist Church. He is married and has three children, the youngest of whom is a junior at Florida State University.

Schoonmaker wins title

PORT ST. LUCIE–It was James Ling" Schoonmaker and his crew Gerry Ford who had the third consecutive year clinched the Southern Star Championship held this past weekend at the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Schoonmaker several times continental champion in Star Racing, totaled 36 points in the two-day competition to retain the Star Championship for the third year.

Russ Bogie of New Platz, New York and Frank Zagarino of Miami finished with 31 points.

Fourteen boats were entered and twelve finished the two day competition held on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

This was Schoonmaker's fourth win in the six years since General Development Corporation created the event in 1970.

Schoonmaker and Ford are both from Miami.

Catholic Church to present pagaent

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Folk Choir of the St. Lucie Catholic Church will present a Christmas Pagaent, Desidarata You are a Child of the Universe" Sunday, Dec. 21 4:17 30 p.m. on the church grounds on Prima Vista Boulevard.

This will be the third endeavor of the Folk Choir, a group of young adults, who previously presented Living Stations of the Cross" and An Evening with Mary."

The public is invited. No seating is available, you are advised to bring your own chair.

Toy campaign is huge success

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Friday Safe Gang was in a happy mood as its session last week when some 250 toys were on display.

Many expressed amazement at the number of toys and the host explained this was not due only to the Gang but rather to the people in the city and the organizations and clubs to which they belong.

Through the generosity of many individuals and area clubs the Gang's committee was able to purchase sufficient toys to guarantee a gift for every tot at Headstart. Helping out were the Yacht Club, Shuffleboard Club, Anglers Club, Veterans of WWI, Garden Club, Wimbledons, River Park & Port St. Lucie Homeowners and many, many individuals.

The Gang's sincere appreciation is extended to all, and to the committee who did the legwork.

Florida Weigel, chairman, Frances Lee Weigel and Marie Berg.

A committee headed by Martha Campbell, Police Chairman for Headstart, was on hand Friday night to accept the toys and reported they will have their Christmas party on Friday, December 19 at 10 a.m. when the toys will be presented to the tots. The Gang is invited to be present.

The regular Snooper was absent visiting grandchildren and great grandchildren in Maryland for the holidays so Frances Lee officiated in her place coming up with one Emmi Laura Wagner from Buffalo, New York, visiting the Ruhrbos.

This Friday, is the Gang's Christmas session with gifts exchanged and special refreshments.

PRACTICE SESSION–More than a dozen young soccer players turned out Saturday morning at Spartamans Park for their weekly practice session. Dick Schmidt, vice chairman of the newly appointed recreation committee, was on hand to coach the group

Visit the First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach will hold a Christmas Eve service beginning at 730 p.m.

Business up, weather fine

JENSEN BEACH–Business is good and the weather is getting better.

They are buying everything that isn't nailed down, one Commercial Street merchant said Tuesday as she smiled at the jingle of the cash register.

And Mrs. Helen Richardson, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce executive secretary, placed the telephone back on the hook and reported Tuesday afternoon.

I just talked to a lady in Pennsylvania and she wanted to know the temperature down here. I had to tell her it was 53.

She said it was snowing up there and she would be down here next week.

Mrs. Richardson also noted the increase in tourist traffic reporting that on Monday, Dec. 22, there were 36 people in the office and 25 on Tuesday, Dec. 23, in mid-afternoon.

On Friday, Dec. 20, of last year there were only 15 people in the office and on Monday Dec. 22, there were 26 people in the chamber office, she reported.

While some Commercial Street merchants reported business up "at least 25 per cent" over last year, newly elected chamber president L. Kirkpatrick, was a little less enthusiastic about the increase of Christmas business over 1974 figures.

"I would say that business is up about 10 per cent," the owner of the Man from K.I.R.K. said.

"But compared to the past six weeks business has increased 200 per cent," Kirkpatrick said.

"I would say that people are packing better goods, and of course I have had to do more selective buying so that people could upgrade their buying," Kirkpatrick observed.

Don't step on a bird-watcher

JENSEN BEACH–Those venturing abroad in the early hours of December 27 had best be forewarned of half glimpsed shadowy forms which may be seen crouched in the underbrush or barely discerned peering from the dense leaves of a banyan tree.

Have no fear! Just watch where you step.

The vital clue is that most will be wearing tennis shoes as Martin County Audubon "little old ladies and gentlemen slog their way through briar and swamp on the Christmas Bird Count Day.

The day begins before dawn as hardy members scan the night skies for secretive owls and night herons. By evening the shorelines, hammocks, swamps, pineland and even residential areas must be checked as to the number and species of birds that can be found.

The exceptionally mild November and early December weather should have induced many half hardy species to linger a little longer in Martin County and counters may very well find a yellow-billed cuckoo, a tardy roseate spoonbill or even a belated purple martin.

So, do not be startled at the sound of a quiet footfall on Saturday and next time, when you hear the question: What has happened to all the birds around my house this year? remember the Martin County Christmas Count is trying to find out!

BANK DIRECTORS–Jensen Beach Bank officials and directors are shown at the bank's new drive-in facilities which open Monday, Dec. 29. Shown at the new facilities, on Ricou Boulevard across the street from the main bank building, are E.C. Warrelhelm, chairman of the board; Ronald Mitchell, bank president; and directors Harry F. Dyer, Walter Kuck, E.W. Lawrence, T.T. Oughterson, Ross Philbrick, Leonard Smith, Ernest Tealey, W.B. Tilton and William Wohlleb.

The Messiah tobe broadcast over WMCF

JENSEN BEACH–The Messiah performed by Martin County Community Chorus, will be broadcast by radio station WMCF Christmas Day, December 25 at 6 p.m.

The Chorus, under direction of Jim Carpp, presented this great musical work Sunday, December 14 at First United Presbyterian Church, North River Shores, to approximately 500 persons.

Broadcast of The Messiah on Christmas Day will give other area residents and guests the opportunity to hear this talented chorus perform.

Thrift Shoppe to new quarters

JENSEN BEACH–Luella Miner, director of the Jensen Beach Community Chapel's Thrift Shoppe, announced that the shop has been moved into new quarters located at 21 Commercial Street, Jensen Beach and is now re-opened.

The director and staff of volunteers state that the new facilities allow for more storage, in addition to a larger, more attractive customer service area.

Nashville sound at Lyric

JENSEN BEACH–That good ole Nashville sound will once again fill the halls of the Lyric Theatre on December 27 at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at The Music Bin in Fort Pierce and The Phoenix in Stuart. Also, the box office will be open from 9 a.m. on Dec. 27th until show time.

The Florida Three, special guests for The Sundowners and a very special guest DOT recording artist Mark Dalton, are opening to put on a Country Music Show that you won't want to miss.

Jensen bank opens new facility

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Bank will open a new drive-in facility Monday, December 29, 1975, Ronald F. Mitchell, President announced.

The new drive-ins are located on the north side of Ricou Boulevard across the street from the parking lot adjacent to the main bank building at 401 Commercial Street.

Mitchell announced the new facility will consist of five drive-in lanes. Four of the lanes are equipped with pneumatic tubes, the fifth a commercial lane. The facility will also provide two walk-up windows. The entire facility will be easily accessible to the Jensen Beach Post Office, which is located across Ricou Boulevard.

Models from the Turnabout Charm School will direct traffic opening day and present each person driving through the facility with a specially designed, pocketsize road atlas.

E.C. Warrelhelm, chairman of the board, said the bank currently has total assets of more than $28 million and total deposits of more than $25 million. Total loans now exceed $14 million.

Jensen Beach Bank is a member of First Bancshares of Florida, Inc., a 14 Bank Holding Company.

The new drive-in facility was built by Nettis Const. Co. of Vero Beach.

405 animals have been helped

JENSEN BEACH–A total of 405 Martin County animals have been helped in the spay-neuter program of the Animal Birth Control organization. This was made possible by contributions to this worthy cause and support of the Animal Attic Thrift Shop, 918 S. Old Dixie Hwy., Stuart.

If you stop to figure how many kittens and puppies were prevented from being born in our county, you will find this a staggering figure. This is the only humane way of animal control, for the unborn do not suffer. Statistics show that of all born, only 20 percent find homes, what do you think happens to the other 80 percent?

The December meeting held at the First National Bank was the installation of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Jackie Hall, president; Mrs. Pat Villa, vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Butler, treasurer and Mrs. Marion Homier, secretary.

A Christmas party followed the business meeting with refreshments being served and gifts from the Animal Attic being exchanged.

Civic Club has parties for adults and children

JENSEN BEACH–The Rio Civic Club's annual Christmas party was held Sunday, Dec. 14, with 85 people in attendance.

The clubhouse decorations were prepared by Jack Barry, Joe Forsberg, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Morris, Mrs. Kathleen Spencer, Minnie Dahl and Hazel Morris.

The dining room decorations were prepared by Janice Cary, Inez Barry and Hazel Morris.

The Shakra family roasted the turkeys.

Music for the evening was provided by Connie Reisch at the piano, Al Reisch on the drums, Dot Wiggin played saxophone and Joe Forsberg the violin.

Santa appeared at the Civic Club for the children on Saturday Dec. 20. About 50 children lined up to give Santa their wish list.

Doris Rupp was hostess assisted by Sue Deiner, Dorothy Mercer, Bert Allen and Sarah Lee Smith.

Santa presented each child with a gift of a box of cookies and gift certificates to McDonald's.

Refreshments were served and the cups, napkins, place mats and orange drink were provided by McDonald's.

Games were played and Christmas carols were sung accompanied by Doris on her accordion after which each child left with a balloon.

Club party Dec. 30th

JENSEN BEACH–The next card party of the Rio Civic Club will be held Tuesday, Dec. 30 at 1 p.m. at the clubhouse.

The card party held Dec. 16 was well attended, and the door prize donated was Grace Lewis.

Table prize winners were Ethel Schreiber, Berta Lettenmaier, Chris Schellaneder, Kathleen Spencer, Minnie Niven, Aileen O'Neil, Hazel Morris, Jill Morris, Margaret Lesegard, Inez Karker, Dorothy Drake, Dot Crannell.

Hostesses for the event were Edith Ford, Grace Lewis, Hazel Morris and Mary Grant.

Lydia Circle will meet January 21st

Jensen Beach–The next meeting of the Lydia Circle of the Jensen Beach Christian Church will be held at the church Jan. 21 at 2 p.m.

The December meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Thelma Bennett in Stuart, where President Zylpha Edwards presided and Elsie Simmons led the devotions.

A LARGE CROWD—A large crowd turned out to enjoy the annual General Development Corporation sponsored Christmas party for the Port St. Lucie Presidents' Council last week. Over thirty persons attended the affair held last Thursday at the CESA Community Center.

Arrangements are judged at Christmas meeting

JENSEN BEACH—Mrs. Harold Lartaud welcomed members and guests to the Christmas Buffet meeting of the Jensen Beach Garden Club on December 17. Fellowship Hall of the Community Church, decorated with the arrangements exhibited in the mini flower show set a festive air to the meeting.

Three new members were introduced by Mrs. August Burmeister, membership chairman. Mrs. Ethel Podesta, Mrs. Edith Hall and Mrs. Lois Frey.

The Federation has asked each garden club to plant a "Liberty" tree in their community in honor of the Bicentennial Year. Mrs. Lartaud asked Mrs. E. J. Curtis to look into a suitable location.

Mrs. Fred Morris introduced the exhibitors in each class and asked them to comment on their arrangements as to materials and methods used.

First place prize winners in each class, determined by popular vote were: door decoration, a large Della Robbia wreath, Mrs. Clyde Hanson; dining table centerpiece, a can delabra lighted and decorated, Mrs. Leon Older; coffee table, an arrangement of hibiscus and carnasa, Mrs. Lartaud; and the corsage class, Mrs. Podesta who used native materials.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Floyd Jones, chairman, and her committee, Mrs. William Ellis, Mrs. Older and Mrs. Paul Robertson.

IACA New Year's party is at JBWA

PORT ST. LUCIE—The New Year's Eve party of the Italian and American Civic Association will be held at the Jensen Beach Women's Club Dec. 31, 8 p.m. till ? Guests are welcome but at this point, tickets are very limited.

Dance music will be provided and a continental breakfast will be served.

The next meeting of the Association will be held at the CESA Building Jan. 4.

Over 150 members of the club were on hand Sunday night to greet Santa at the CESA Building.

Santa was resplendent in his red velvet suit, but even his long white beard wasn't enough to disguise Val Geib, president of the club. He had gifts for everyone, including many beautiful, handcrafted ones.

Santa's helpers entertain

PORT ST. LUCIE—The Port St. Lucie Woman's Club celebrated their first annual Christmas party on Wednesday, December 17. The party was held in the new CESA Lounge.

Mrs. Celia Levison was chairman for the event. She and her committee gave the ladies a lovely party. "Mrs. Santa's Helpers", a choral group entertained with a variety of Christmas songs. They were accompanied by Mrs. Elsie Grieger.

Mrs. Ann Fisher, president, welcomed the members and wished them a Merry Christmas. She reported the Charity Ball, held at Sandpiper Bay in November, was a success and thanked all for their work and attendance.

NEW HOST—It was GDC's office manager Mel Broom, his secretary Sandy Radcliff, and his wife who stepped in to host the GDC sponsored Christmas party for the PSL Presidents' Council last week at CESA. Bob Seiler, GDC's general manager, presented Council President Cedric Berg with an engraved plaque honoring him for his years of unselfish service to the community.

Dutton celebrates Ephipany

PORT ST. LUCIE—Members of the Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church of White City are planning to celebrate Epiphany on this immediate weekend. This season recognizes the reality of the visit of the Wise Men to the scene of the birth of Jesus. The theme of this pulpit has been designated as "The Road From Bethlehem". Dutton's Chancel Choir under the baton of Mrs. George F. Hill, has arranged to sing Lani Smith's "A Child of Hope". A seasonal masterpiece of Lani Smith, "A Babe In Manger Hay" will be featured by James F. Wingerter in a solo. Mrs. Robert Barrett, organist, has chosen to play C.H. Nicholson's "Snow Scape". Shaminade's "Pastorale and Peace's "Celebration". The children of Ronald Williams are providing the flowers for the altar. They will place the bouquet in the chancel as a memorial to their grandfather, Robert Wilson.

Special lunch program planned

JENSEN BEACH—The first Christmas in Florida was celebrated by a prayer service in 1539 near Tallahassee at the Indian Village of Anhayea by the Spanish explorer Hernando de Sota and his research party which included twelve priests. His Spanish flag was red, white and yellow picturing the castle and the lion.

Twenty five years later (1564) the French Huguenots arrived to establish Fort Caroline at the mouth of the St. John's River just north of the present day city of Jacksonville. Their French flag had three gold lilies on a blue field.

In 1763 after several disasterous battle attempts Britain finally acquired Florida as the result of the French and Indian War when Spain traded Florida for the then, British owned Havana. For the next few years until the close of The American Revolution the double crosses of red and white on blue waved over our land of flowers.

During the sad years of our civil strife (1861-65) the capital at Tallahassee was under the confederate flags - five different designs.

Now the beautiful red, white and blue banner of the United States of America with its fifty stars flys proudly above the emblemed State flag in every school yard in Florida.

So, for our school lunch theme for Christmas in this historical year we have chosen to honor these flags and people who have celebrated Christmas in Florida over the past 437 years.

Mrs. Joseph Danis and Mrs. Richard Moore have volunteered to supervise the little ones in the Nursery and Kindergarten.

The Friendship Class, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Albert and the Sayers Group, under the guidance of Mr. Thomas Brack, have gathered items of food for Christmas baskets and have delivered them to their designated recipients.

The Sayer Group are planning to gather on Saturday, December 28 at 6:30 p.m. in Campbell Hall to enjoy a spaghetti and meat ball supper. Their celebrated chef will be Mrs. Ross Case of Fort Pierce. There will be the singing of the seasonal carols under the direction of Miss Dottie Wingerter.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH—Congratulation and best wishes to this week's birthday people, including Dan Doyle, celebrating on Dec. 26. Carol Sawusch, Dec. 27. Olive Binns, Dec. 28. Carol Pitman, Margaret Morgan and Charlotte Kleine, Dec. 29.

Betty Aderhold, Larry Papaidero, Polly Chapman and Don Wilkie have birthdays on December 30, and Dorothy Addy on New Year's Eve.

I want to wish all a Merry Christmas with their good friends and relatives. It is so nice and jolly this time of the year, a time to have some time for meditation, and to be thankful for all our blessings.

There are so many comings and goings this season, it keeps your phone ringing! Some of the folks that are braving the rigors of the highways, chimes to spend the holidays with family and Yankee kin are: Mr. & Mrs. David Carthy, off to visit their sons and families in Maryland & New Jersey. . . and Mrs. Al Criscone to Bethlehem and Mr. & Mrs. John Carson, who also headed for New Jersey. And we license plate watchers think everyone from New Jersey is in Florida this time of the year. Also Mr. & Mrs. Mac McKeown will be going north to Lothian, Maryland for Christmas. I wonder why. Brr Brr.

Mr. & Mrs. Ike Gingrich have gone to Houston Texas for Christmas to be with their son, his wife and family.

Sunday Church Services was well attended. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Guest soloist was Mrs. Norma Quillan, organist Mrs. Dee Brink. Martha Lewis took up the offerings. Bert Turner did the lay services, ushers were Mark Sumner and Bing Cressy.

The Holiday Hut traditional tree lighting was a big success and enjoyed by all who attended. Santa Claus was Max Lewen. Mrs. Santa Claus was Mrs. Dot Clark. Dot Blair played the piano. Will Henneksen played his golden trumpet. Ellena Perry was music director in the carol singing and Betty Taylor, Jean Taylor and Bert Turner were our teacher, here for two weeks and Jand & Bill Ferguson and daughter Kim from Grasse Fiante. With Dan Blake a friend is also with them. After Christmas, Joe's sister and daughter from Detroit will be down for a short visit.

Martha Lewis opened the ceremonies by reading a Floridian version of The Night Before Christmas which was very good.

The Christmas Bazaar was a very big success. Practically everything was sold, especially the home baked goodies and home made candies. Bazaar committees were Grace Mullen, Vicki McKeever and other helpers. Tree trimming committee were Jim and Martha Lewis, Vicki and Mac McKeever, and Lee Foote. Refreshment committee members were Ruth Jacobson, Ellie Harrison and Trudy Beatty. All of the committees deserve a big thanks for a job well done. The wonderful evening ended with cookies and coffee for all. All donations will be distributed as follows: Toys to Tots, Food to Salvation Army, and money to both from the Christmas Tree Lighting Party.

A warm welcome to new lot owners. If you are near, stop in and meet them. William Hallaver lot 307 and T. Allnutt lot 318.

Mr. & Mrs. Jim Lewis will be spending Christmas in Bradenton.

Mr. & Mrs. Dottie & Elmer Edwards and their dog Dietschen from Greensboro, Md. arrived late Tuesday to spend Christmas in Florida. Sue and Nellie & Jack Yeager from Columbus, Ohio are here until March. Winnie & Allan Hall are expecting their family for Christmas. Allie Arelestier and Elaine Wehlage will have their family here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clancy Guthrie are expecting their daughter and family here. Mr. & Mrs. Milton Hall's grandson also from New York for the holidays.

Ted & Mae Schein have their son, daughter and grandchildren for over two weeks. Winard, Christine, Robert and Michael from Horsham, Pa.

Jim and Ruth Engstrom have only 4 days from Hospital, which is a speed

Bridge scores were: Sophia Hollis 3760, Bob Barton 4766, Grace Madden 3740.

A good crowd and a lot of fun was had at Friday nite bingo. 1st cover all Gert Simpson 2nd cover all Marge Sheller, winner take all Bob Middleton.

The friends in N. End of Fred & Helen Stumpf Pascoe gave a cocktail party hidding them good bye. They are leaving to live in Sebastian, Fl. We are sorry to see them go.

Doris & Fred Hennigs went to Pompano for Christmas.

Peg and Ken Spencer of Ga. drove down from N.Y. to spend about ten days on their lot. With them were daughters Karen, Kelly and a friend.

Bob & Gert Lang will spend Christmas at home in Ft. Lauderdale but will spend the week after Christmas on their lot and see in the New Year here.

Betty & Art Nagy after Christmas at home will greet the New Year at Holiday Out. Betty's brother Robert Allnutt will also be here for New Years.

Joan & Roger Byrne have been entertaining their Marine son Dougjust back from boot training at Parris Island. The Byrnes will spend the week after Christmas on their lot.

Earl & Helen Earls got a brand their new trailer and as it is bigger, a new screen room was added.

Some good news. Mr. Dubberstein is home from the hospital. Now the sunshine and fresh air of this delightful spot will surely work their healing magic for him.

We visited Nancy Lantz at Martin Memorial Hospital on Friday and found her in good spirits, especially with the knowledge that she could be home on Sunday. Which is very good news for all of her friends.

Always there seems to be the sad news. Jane Strickland has received some shocking news. Several had neighbors while visiting in Ft.

fireman climbed on the truck with his gear and as the truck turned a corner he fell hitting his head. Death was instantaneous.

Pauline Rough will be in Martin Memorial Monday for a weeks stay. She elected to go for Christmas week and be over with it, to start the New Year right. Her many friends will miss her for the week and hope she can come back sooner. A new screen room was started by Santa Claus for her to enjoy when she returns.

Gene & Millie Gray left for Houston Texas as Gene will be entering a hospital for surgery. All his friends wish him well and to return home soon.

We welcome returning owners and guests: John & Lucille Dunphy, lot 27; Dick Dubbins, 515; Horace Taylor, 150; Ed Butler, 305; Max & Kay Johnson 247; Jack Irving's 351; Elmer Edwards 408; Fred & Alice Plate 286; Anne Reichenbach & Harold Robbins 351; Ronald Koechliges 31; Ken Sawyer 49; Merle Howard 134; Merlie Steele 9; Wm. JENSEN BEACH. The Hartman Tilton Insurance Agency was low bidder for the property and casualty insurance for the City of Stuart.

Bids were opened at Stuart City Hall Monday and will be awarded December 31 according to Norm Wilson manager of the agency.

Shelter seeks animal food

JENSEN BEACH. The Animal Rescue League has boxes in all stores on Stuart and Jensen Beach asking for donations of cat food and dog food for a Christmas gift to those homeless animals at the Shelter.

Also the annual membership letters are in the mail. We encourage all to join as your membership helps keep those animals over the ten days required by law and gives them that added chance to find homes plus any medical needs and makes this organization to a Humane Society rather than just Animal Control.

NEW gives presents

JENSEN BEACH. NEW Post 1606 presented gifts to the children at the Tri-County Rehabilitation Center on Monday.

Presents donated by Post members and friends were given to about 40 children at the Center.

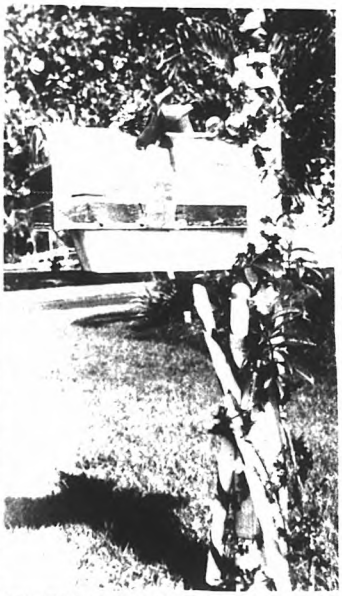
ANTA IN YARD--This Santa Claus, that looks like a snowman, stands next to a decorated tree in a yard on Sunny Acres Road, and at night the tree and Santa are both lighted. It is one of the many houses in the area that is decorated and lighted for the holiday season.



YULE SCENE--Residents on Sewall's Point Road in High Point decorated their mail boxes, giving the overworked mailman a pretty scene and making a beautiful Yule scene for passing motorists.

Grand jury is recessed

JENSEN BEACH--The Martin County Grand Jury, which is investigating the county's proposed purchase of the Executive Plaza has recessed for the holiday, and will continue its probe Jan. 5.

State Attorney Robert Stone called the Grand Jury into session last Wednesday, and the first witness was County Commissioner Maggy Hurchalla.

Besides Mrs. Hurchalla, the jury met with Commission Chairman John Kiernan, County Administrator Jack Noble, county attorney Steve Calvert, special county legal advisor Jim Vance.

Circuit Court Clerk Louise Isaacs, who refused to sign the first payment check for the building on advice of her attorney, appeared before the jury Thursday, and also one of the Plaza owners, A.C. Schenholm, appeared Thursday.

Also, Bill McInenny, of Stuart, reportedly a construction worker at the St. Lucie nuclear power plant, appeared before the jury.

Stone said he decided to call the jury to investigate the Plaza purchase after he received comments from three elected officials and more than 10 letters from residents.

Meanwhile, Stuart building official H. Hoffner said that the Plaza does not meet city requirements for parking space and that he will not approve its use for public meetings.

He said that the building is about 50 parking spaces short of the number it needs for public meetings. He said the building meets requirements for an office building but not for a public assembly hall.

There are 130 parking spaces at the Plaza.

SANTA IN HEDGE--This little toy Santa Claus with a star on a tree is in the hedge at 22 Marguerite Court. Many residents in the area decorated their trees and shrubs in the yards for the holiday season.

UP, UP AND AWAY--These reindeer, which are probably off to meet Santa Claus, are part of the decoration at the intersection of Palmer Road and SR 707 in Jensen Beach.

HIGH POINT NEWS
BY LOU FALCE

Our first show at the rec building was held on Monday the 22nd. It was well attended by all the residents. The show, written and put together by Tess Falce the director, included the following.

The opening number, a dance by the Hyetts all residents, and singing of Hello Neighbors. Mary Crispi performed a guitar solo which included several Christmas songs. Karl Hoffmann gave several renditions of songs as done by Al Jolson, a dancing number and singing of the Good Old Days by the Hyetts. Chuck Wetsel did a song and dance called the Chicken Song and the Chicken Reel, audience participated with the Hyetts singing Come All Ye Faithful, dance exhibition by the Sandy Shoes Steppers. Hyetts performed dance number to tune of Jingle Bell Rock, a western style square dance was performed by Sandy Shoes Steppers. Finale was Hyettes singing Good Night Neighbors.

The enthusiastic audience requested another show.

The cast included: Lou Falce master of ceremonies, with Hyettes cast of Alice Schellhase, Cecile Scott, Helen Streeter, Franes Doewell, Terry Doucette, Edith Guilmann, Terry Radecki, Tony Miller, Lill Gitterman, Edie Curtis. Sandy Shoes Steppers were Jenny & Joe Garavaglia, Val & Bill Korbel, Betty & Jack Hoskens caller; Lou & Tess Falce.

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

I never thought "Jack Frost nipping at your nose" would apply to us in Florida at Christmas time, but he's doing it this year. It not only looks like Christmas here on Nettles Island, it feels like it. Soon we will have the jingle-jangle of sleigh bells and hear that jolly "Ho-ho-ho" as Santa arrives in the rec hall and all the little children gather around the Christmas tree to visit him.

Santa already made one visit to Nettles Island Wednesday afternoon the Women's Club met to decorate the Christmas tree upstairs in the hall and, while the ornaments were being hung, there was a surprise visit from old Mr. Claus himself. I'd say he enjoyed his visit as much as the women and their husbands enjoyed seeing him, for the ladies all went up and sat on his lap and gave him a nice big kiss.

Carols were sung and tasty refreshments were served, ending a very enjoyable tree trimming party.

* * *

The big event last week was the Flea Market. Another Women's club venture, it was chaired by Madeline Kramer.

All the baked goods disappeared in no time and they served a delicious lunch. There were lots of bargains and useful items available. It drew a large crowd and looked to be another successful venture.

The Tops (Take Off) Pounds Sensibly club met on Friday last week to accomodate the Flea Market on Saturday. This ended the five week long Christmas contest to see who could lose the most pounds in that length of time. Dorothy Engel was the winner and had her name placed on the star atop the Christmas tree where the weekly weight loss was charted on ornaments hanging from the tree.

Since the Nettles Island chapter started in October, the gals have lost a total of 197½ pounds. Anyone looking for an aid to dieting is welcome to join. Come to the meeting on Saturday at 9 a.m.

The residents and vacationers here last Sunday enjoyed an evening of Folk Tales, told be Connie Regan and Barbara Freemen, storytellers. As they weave a colorful pattern of our heritage. They captured the audience with a unique blend of humor, mountain tales and contemporary stories which were appealing to both young and old.

* * *

Instead of the fishing class on Monday evenings, a Nettles Island Anglers Club is being formed. The club is open to all Nettles Islanders who would like to learn more about fishing or share their fishing skills with others. Besides sponsoring the Anglers Club, Tom Vanmeter of the Bait Box in Jensen Beach is also sponsoring a fishing tournament taking place through January 4. It is open to all Nettles Islanders, young or old, and more than $100 in merchandise from the Bait Box is being awarded to the winners. There are two age groups and many categories, so check the rules posted on the bulletin board in the rec hall.

The exercise classes in the rec hall upstairs are becoming more popular as the attendance is growing. Come on up and "Look lovely with Lillian" on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays at 9 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Grappy, lot 511, are looking forward to Christmas as their daughter Joanne, her husband and their two grandchildren Robbie and Ryan will be visiting over the holiday. Joanne's husband is State Senator R. Bubb Dwyer from Pennsylvania.

Their other daughter Sandy and her husband Bill have moved their residence from Toronto, Canada, to Sewickley, Pa., where he is now employed as an environmentalist. Bill's parents also live on the Island.

Expected to arrive December 26 for a two week visit is Gerry Desmond of Southington, Conn. Gerry, sister of Dottie Dandrow (Mrs. Charles) of lot 643, is an officer and personnel director of an insurance company.

NETTLES YOUTH REPORT

BY CAROL ENGEL

With Christmas so near, people are flowing into the park and the more people, the more young people.

This week there were no planned activities but everybody was still active.

The kids who live here year-round are meeting many kids from all over the country and Canada, and with all these kids here, we're bound to find something fun to do. If the weather was nicer, it would help a whole lot though.

The usual basketball games are much larger. Everyone's hoping for some warm weather and sun so we can go swimming and get a tan. Even the people who live here are turning white. But everywhere you look there are young people and that's good to see.

Happy Holiday.

We're pleased to announce that Harry Caropreso's brother, Louis J. Caropreso, made a hole-in-one recently at Ocean Village golf course. They were especially enthusiastic since Louis is considered a beginner. Harry, who owns lot 1200, was so elated, he ran home, only lives 50 yards from No. 7 green where the hole-in-one was scored, got his Polaroid and got a good picture.

Congratulations.

Herb and Irene German were back home in Miami for a week and spend the weekend here again before heading for Alabama. They won't be back here until April.

Herb, who has been taking care of setting up our sound system whenever needed, will certainly be missed.

Idel Leger just might be able to come home to the Island for Christmas. Idel has been hospitalized for the past two weeks and, after a short visit home, will have to return to Martin Memorial until her condition improves satisfactorily. Visitors will be most welcome at the hospital.

* * *

Many men and women are volunteering some of their free time to work with our Volunteer Safety Patrol during the holiday season. Their help and interest in protecting our condominium is greatly appreciated at a time when the population on our resort increases vastly, making it an impossible job for the employees to handle alone.

* * *

We are sorry to report the death of Tom Foran on Sunday afternoon. He came here from California.

May the warmth and cheer of this Christmas season fill the hearts of us all. With the outside temperatures down, the warmth will have to come from within.

Have a Merry Christmas.

Heise heads church board

JENSEN BEACH—Arthur Heise was elected chairman of the official board of Jensen Beach Community Church at the December meeting last week. C. Gale Kiplinger is vice chairman.

Working committee chair appointments were made as follows: Dorcons, Margaret Mack, Benevolences, Gladys Burnett, Custodial, Robert Hemberger, Christian Education, Helen Richardson, Financial Secretary, William Bishop, Music, Lew Wade, Recreation, Robert Wagner, Auditing, C. Gale Kiplinger, Personnel Committee, Arthur Heise, William Bishop and one member at large to be named in January. Task Force Study, Alvin Rupp, Publicity, Louise Taulbee.

Other elected officers are: John Miner, treasurer, Dorothy Peers, Sunday School Superintendent and Church Secretary, Doris Ogden. The youth representative for 1976 will also be named at a later date.

DECORATION. There was an extra special treat in store for Cedric Benz ... of the PSL Presidents Council during the GDC hosted Christmas ... for the group. An engraved plaque recognizing Benz for his years of ... service to the community was presented by GDC General ... Bob Seeley.

Long agenda moves

PORT ST. LUCIE—Of the nine ... passed Tuesday by the ... Lenght were relative to ... of local building ... to a level above the ... of the Southern ... Code. The remaining ... was the annexation and ... of a 20-acre tract of ... fronting the Catholic Church.

... ordinances were passed by a ... vote of the council ... present. Mayor Schuyler ... Councilwoman Lolita ... and vice-mayor Frank ... Councilman Bill McClendon ... absent due to illness and ... Councilman Larry Kimmel was on vacation.

In a nutshell, the various building ordinances would permit the city to hire plumbing inspectors who have less than ten years experience. The new legislation would allow the city administrator and the building official to determine who would be a qualified plumbing inspector.

Other provisions of the new building ordinances include the following:

ALLOWS the city to adopt with amendments, the 1975 edition of the National Electric Code, the 1973 edition of the Southern Standard Gas Code, the 1973 edition of the Southern Standard Mechanical Code and the 1975 edition of the Southern Standard Plumbing Code.

CALLS for exterior studs to be set at 16 inches on center and interior studs 24 inches on center.

REQUIRES hurricane clips to be attached to every other exterior vertical stud, and roof clips to be attached between every truss.

SET permit fees for the installation of solar-heating apliances at $10 for the first $1,000 of construction and half that amount for each additional $1,000.

REQUIRES a contractor who requests a final inspection, either residential or commercial to submit in writing to the Building Department the names of all sub-contractors.

ESTABLISHED permit fees for the construction of private roads and streets, setting forth the submissions of plans and specs by builders for the approval of the City's Engineering Department.

SETS forth a minimum floor grade for residential building and provides for any change in elevation to be approved by the City's Engineering Department.

Jaycees sponsor contest

PORT ST. LUCIE—Judging of the ... Christmas lighting contest ... annually by the Port St. ... Jaycees is currently being ... throughout the city. ... second place awards will ... in each of the five ... best overall, locals ... rooftop, religious, and ... according to Steve Waters, ... president and chairman of ... lighting contest.

... lighting which began Monday and will continue through the week ... conducted by the Port St. ... Jaycees Club. President Mrs. ... Luther is in charge.

... will periodically tour the ... during the week to determine ... the various categories.

... Waters, winners will be announced Monday night and ... will donated by local ... also will be presented later in the week.

ENCHANTED. Little Sherrenna Beasley was positively enchanted as she told Mrs. Santa of her Christmas wishes at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School last week. Sherrenna attended the third grade Christmas party with her brother Steve.

The Miracle of Christmas

Nothing but a Miracle can so transform men
That in kindness and love they will live once again
To live without violence and exchange for "the sword"
The peace power of Love born of Faith in the Lord

Tickets still available for Candlelight Ball

PORT ST. LUCIE—Mrs. John E. Fradd still has some choice seats available in Hawaii, Vermont, South Dakota, Utah and a few other states.

Mrs. Fradd is chairman for this city's gala bicentennial Candlelight Ball at Sandpiper Bay on January 10, but she says she is beginning to feel more like a travel agent.

Each table is named after a state in honor of the country's 200th birthday, she explained, and I find myself urging people to accept an alternate state table when the one they requested is fully reserved.

Mrs. Fradd says dining at the table of their choice seems more important to people than anything else about the music-filled evening at which a specially prepared Sandpiper Bay dinner with appropriate wines will be served.

Shortly after the Candlelight Ball was announced I received a telephone call from some people in Long Island who insisted on dining at the Kentucky table, she said. "I also heard from a Michigan couple who seemed quite disappointed when I had to tell them that table was sold out. They settled on Arkansas, however, after a little urging on my part.

A highlight of the Sandpiper Bay extravaganza will be the cutting of a huge birthday cake in honor of the bicentennial, according to the ball chairman. She added that guests are being urged to wear their service uniforms in honor of the occasion.

That will add more color to an already colorful event, she said, providing they can still get into the uniforms.

Mrs. Fradd said more than three quarters of the tables have been filled but she added "there's still room in Nevada, Texas, New Jersey and some other states."

Tickets may be ordered by calling her at 334-4843.

Insurance bids opened

JENSEN BEACH: The Hartman Tilton Insurance Agency was low bidder for the property and casualty insurance for the City of Stuart.

Bids were opened at Stuart City Hall Monday and will be awarded December 31 according to Norm Wilson, manager of the agency.

Shelter seeks animal food

JENSEN BEACH: The Animal Rescue League has boxes in all stores in Stuart and Port Orange, Jensen Beach asking for donations of cat food and dog food for a Christmas gift to those homeless animals at the Shelter.

Also the annual membership drives are on the way. We encourage all to join as your membership helps keep those animals over the ten days required by law and gives them this added chance to find homes, plus any medical needs and makes this organization to a Humane Society rather than just Animal Control.

VFW gives presents

JENSEN BEACH-VFW Post 1006 presented gifts to the children at the Tri County Rehabilitation Center on Monday.

Presents donated by Post members and friends were given to about 40 children at the Center.

Community fund drive stalls during holidays

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Rio Community Fund drive stalled at the $11,000 level in the past week as Christmas and New Year holiday preparations took precedence over collections, according to Mrs. LaVaughn Tilton, president.

We have some area captains who are just getting started, and many people are yet to be contacted, Mrs. Tilton said.

She did express concern that the drive may yet close out short of the $18,000 goal, but had hopes that the drive would go over the top in January.

Richard Newson, business chairman, told The Mirror that he had about forty businesses that have not yet been contacted, but we are getting to them this week and next. The holidays are murdering us because this is a time when many of the businesses are just too busy to talk about donations.

Newson received assurances from L.K. Kirkpatrick, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and owner of Mart from Kirk, men's store, that the merchants would support the drive.

The fund drive, a local project supporting Jensen Beach agencies and projects, targets for the Jensen Beach Samaritan Free Ambulance [illegible] and the Martin County Council on Aging.

SEEK CONTRIBUTIONS: Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Chief Randolph Spinney, left, and Lt. Joe Curtain hold 1,200 letters which will be mailed to area residents seeking contributions to the department. The department holds a drive for contributions once each year, beginning in January.

Chamber goals listed

JENSEN BEACH–With the initial Bicentennial year behind them, new president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce wants the chamber to assist in awakening the community in the spirit of '76.

In outlining some goals for the chamber in 1976, president L.D. Kirkpatrick said: We want to have as much emphasis on 1976 as 1776. We shouldn't get so involved in 1776 that we lose sight of 1976.

We also want to continue our good name for cooperation with and assisting civic organizations and others, Kirkpatrick continued, in outlining some goals.

Kirkpatrick also will outline the first chamber board of directors meeting Jan. 12. also said that he wants the chamber to serve as a liaison between Jensen Beach and Rio and government officials.

We also want to stress the importance of small businesses in the total business structure. The small businesses return money to the community.

We don't want to neglect the big businesses, Kirkpatrick said, but we want to address the importance of the small businessman.

Special commission is scheduled

JENSEN BEACH–A special meeting of the Martin County Commission will be held Tuesday, January 6.

The regular staff review session slated for Tuesday, Dec. 30, was cancelled, and items that had been set for that session will be presented at the special commission meeting, according to County Administrator Jack Noble.

Fire department gets truck

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Fire Department has added a new piece of fire fighting equipment to its already well equipped department.

A 1976 Ford pumper truck with a 1,250 gallon capacity arrived at the department last week.

The new truck cost $17,300 and was paid for by donations. Fire Chief Randolph Spinney said.

I want to thank the people of Jensen Beach, Ocean Breeze Park and Hutchinson Island for their generous donations that made the purchase of this new truck possible, Chief Spinney said.

The department received $2,500 from the estate of Mrs. Edna Holzhauer.

She left that amount to the department in her will and we are especially thankful for that gift, the Chief said.

We also want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude for their $1,000 donation.

With the addition of the new truck, the department has six trucks and a total of 5,600 gallon capacity, he said.

The new truck later will replace our 1952 Rio truck, he added.

In addition to the new truck, the department has a "cherry picker" ladder truck, two tankers, a woods fire fighting truck, and one house and woods fire fighting truck, according to the chief.

We have 18 men in the department and they spend an average of 150 hours a month fighting fires, the chief noted. And we have training sessions twice a month with each man putting in about four hours each month in the sessions.

Once each year, the first week in January, the department holds a campaign seeking donations.

We will mail out 1,200 letters to area residents asking for donations, Chief Spinney said.

Money collected is used for purchase of equipment, repairs and supplies. No money is used for recreation, the chief said.

Voters avoid jury duty

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County Supervisor of Elections Sandra Randolph said Tuesday that many people avoid jury duty by not registering to vote.

She said that some other means should be used in selecting prospective jurors than from the voter registration rolls.

It was noted by Mrs. Randolph that a full has been pre-filed in the legislature that a driver's license or some other form be used as a basis for a jury list.

The driver's license may not be the answer, she said, "but some citizens do not register to vote because of the likelihood it would result in a future call for jury service," she said.

Older people feel they aren't physically able to serve on juries, and younger people consider it an economic hardship.

Mrs. Randolph said her staff has registered about 350 people in December, but the total registration of about 23,500 is down from the October figure of about 25,000.

Some 2,000 persons were removed from the registration list since October. Most of the names removed from the list have left the county, but many are still here but have not voted in two years.

She said that registration is picking up, and that her office in the courthouse would be open on Saturday during January.

People are registering for the 1976 elections," she said.

Traffic heavy in community

Klett, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce vice president, was referring to the cars on Indian River Drive and the fishermen in his store.

And Mrs. Helen Richardson, executive director of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, agreed with Klett.

She noted the increased traffic on Commercial Street and the number of visitors in the chamber office.

The tourist season is in full swing, and Mrs. Richardson noted that the area motels are fairly well filled up.

And the travel trailer resorts on Hutchinson Island report a booming business, and a check Monday on the island's A1A and Jensen Beach Causeway showed a lot of cars and travel trailers on the move.

And the fishermen are out in great numbers along the causeway and bridges.

But the Florida Chamber of Commerce reports in its December newsletter that "It's not just the holiday season that has the streets and highways more congested than before.

The state chamber notes that the state now has 80 per cent more vehicles on its roads than five years ago, and 35 per cent more drivers at the wheel.

The state's motor vehicle registrations and licensing office reports that Florida now has 6.8 million motor vehicles and 5.4 million drivers.

Church set January 1 service

JENSEN BEACH–Father Frank Alvarez and All Saints Episcopal Church will hold a New Year's Day service at 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 1.

Safe boating classes

JENSEN BEACH–United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 59, based in Stuart, is starting off 1976 with public education classes in boating skills and seamanship.

Like defensive driving skill on the highways to avoid accidents, a boat operator's skill in handling his craft proves that "Safe Boating is No Accident."

Flotilla Public Education officer Joe Frietag announces that classes will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting January 13, from 8 to 10 p.m., in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan, Commercial Street and Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach.

The 12 lesson course will be conducted by qualified Flotilla 59 instructors and will cover the following subjects:

Boat handling
Legal requirements
Rules of the road
Aids to navigation-locks & dams
Charts and compass
Marine engines & marlinespike
Sailboats
Weather
Radio telephone
St. Lucie Inlet
Final examination & graduation

Pre-registration will be held at Flotilla headquarters at the foot of Flagler Avenue, Stuart, on Tuesday, January 13, from 12 noon to 1 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. prior to the first session at First Federal, Jensen Beach.

Commander John Herman advises the 12 week course has been developed for the benefit of the entire family. He stated the final session will be of special interest to all boat owners as it will cover the status of the St. Lucie Inlet, how to navigate it during various weather conditions.

The course is free except for a $5 charge for cost of materials.

Commander Herman says, "As our waterways become more crowded and the popularity of boating continues to increase, it becomes imperative that anyone venturing on the waterways, whether it be in the open sea of our protected rivers, should have adequate knowledge of proper procedures to insure a safe and enjoyable outing or fishing trip."

Hambrecht-Woodruff exchange vows

JENSEN BEACH–In a lovely setting of evergreens, candles and poinsettias, Becky Woodruff, daughter of Arlene Woodruff, Jensen Beach, and Douglas Hambrecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hambrecht of Long Island, New York, were joined in marriage at the Jensen Beach Community Church on December 27.

Reverend Donald E. Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Freeda Paulsen was at the organ console and presented a beautiful program of music including "My Heart Ever Faithful" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Craig Johnson sang "The Wedding Song" during the ceremony.

The candles were lighted by Pancho Woodruff, nephew of the bride.

Given in marriage by her older brother, Michael R. Woodruff, the bride wore a long antique satin gown with full length appliqued lace panel and a short train. Her veil was of illusion with lace appliques. She carried a bouquet of daisies, roses and lily orchids.

Martha Bacon served as her friend's maid of honor wearing a long gown of Christmas red chiffon over satin. Her bouquet was of daisies and red roses. Kelley Egeland and Sally Bricker were the bridesmaids. They wore long pale green dresses and carried nosegays of daisies and green roses.

Kent Hambrecht, brother of the groom, was the best man. Groomsmen were Al Larreau and Mario de Cardenas and Robert Woodruff, brother of the bride, served as an usher.

The mother of the bride wore a black and silver gown with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Hambrecht, mother of the groom, chose a deep rose gown and accessories for the occasion and wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Robert Spaulding, grandmother of the bride, wore a blue-green print with winter white accessories.

A reception followed at the Jensen Beach Women's Association clubhouse, which was decorated with Florida holly, poinsettias and candles. Nancy White and Cristy Woodruff, sister and sister-in-law of the bride respectively, served. Bartenders were Harold C. Salzler and Richard Canant.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Frank Hambrecht and Kent Hambrecht of Huntington Station, N.Y.; Frank Hambrecht, Farmingdale, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hambrecht, Port Jefferson, N.Y.; Gail and Justin Hambrecht, Frank in Square, N.Y.; Kathe Purcell and Sam Harding, Clemson, S.C.; Robert M. Wood, Jr., of Columbia, S.C.; Marshall B. Wood, Atlanta, Ga.; Albert Larreau and Linda Thomson, Macon, Ga.; Lil and Mary Johnson, Naples, Fla.; Mario de Cardenas of Houston, Texas; Ignacio de Cardenas, Miami, Fla.; James Fish, Washington, D.C.; Michael Cristy and Pancho Woodruff, Charleston, S.C.; Dave and Nancy White, Kelley Egeland, Lee and Jo Harris of Gainesville, Fla.; Craig Johnson, Tampa, Fl.; Tom Zoll, Winter Park, Fla.

The bride graduated from Martin County High School with honors in 1974 and attended the University of Florida, Gainesville, where she was initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta, National Honor Scholastic Organization for freshman women.

Hambrecht is a 1968 graduate of Sewanhaka High School, Floral Park, N.Y., received his Bachelor of Building Construction degree from Clemson University, Clemson, S.C., in 1973 and his Masters of Building Construction from the University of Florida, 1975. He is presently employed with the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation in Rockville, Maryland.

They have postponed their wedding trip until a later date and are at home in Gaithersburg, Maryland. The bride designed and made her own gown and veil.

A new year's resolution

For years I have made a list of New Year's resolutions and for the same number of years I have broken them, one by one.

This year is going to be different.

I will not break a single resolution because I am making none.

This will indeed simplify the situation.

To me, resolutions have always been somewhat like the politician's promises — either broken or forgotten by the following day.

Speaking of politicians, and promises, and holidays, and resolutions, and traffic jams, I am convinced the governing body of Port St. Lucie need renew and stick with at least one resolution this year.

I trust they will resolve to plan for the expansion of the city's facilities to keep pace with the population growth lest they find themselves in the same fix as their neighbors to the south, Martin County, Stuart and Jensen Beach.

I don't believe I have ever been more frustrated in my life than I was just the other day.

The traffic jams in the Stuart and Jensen Beach areas were positively unbelievable.

With a quick errand to run I decided to slip into Stuart along Indian River Drive thus avoiding the downtown Stuart traffic.

What a shock it was to find traffic backed across both bridges on East Ocean Boulevard.

I had passed the point of no return. There was nothing to do but fall in line and wait — and wait — and wait.

It took over two hours to make the fifteen minute round trip.

While I wanted even the holiday spirit could not erase some of the unkind thoughts racing through my mind.

I could not find it within my heart to blame our northern visitors for the unbelievable traffic situation.

The livelihood of many of our residents is dependent on the tourists and the economy of all south Florida benefits from their presence.

I do, however question where our planners have been all these years when the population of our area has been growing by leaps and bounds.

While with only the stroke of a pen the commissioners of Martin County were perfectly willing to jump headlong in debt to the tune of a million dollars to purchase an executive plaza they have given far too little thought to the ever growing inadequate roadways of our county.

Anything short of a mass miracle has accomplished nothing when it comes to getting bike paths particularly through Jensen Beach and a connecting path to Stuart.

I have every reason to believe with the physical fitness programs being stressed for the young and old alike more folks would turn to bicycles for transportation if a safe place were provided for riding them.

Bike paths would help eliminate or at least greatly reduce the traffic congestion, to say nothing of the air pollution factor, the cost of fuel, the pollution factor, the cost of construction as opposed to maintenance of road projects and the safety factor.

Certainly the bike paths would be less costly and more beneficial than an executive plaza county residents won't be able to get to because of the traffic.

Granted it is hard to realize the Port St. Lucie area developed to a point when traffic would become a major problem but that day is fast approaching.

Let us hope the leaders of Port St. Lucie will resolve to maintain the foresight to plan for the days ahead and not make the same mistakes their neighbors have made and the residents are paying for.

The veto compromise

WASHINGTON—The last few days of the first session of the 94th Congress were very interesting ones to say the least. There was an old fashioned show down between the President and the leaders of the Congress over the fiscal policies of the federal government. The issue in question was the extension of the present tax rates into next year.

President Ford wanted to tie all tax cuts to comparable cuts in federal spending. The Congressional leaders of the Majority Party wanted to extend the present tax cuts with no adjustments at all in federal spending.

The stage for the show down was set when the President vetoed the bill which provided for an $84 billion six month extension of the present tax cuts. I joined in voting to sustain this veto in the House. Compromise was obviously necessary.

The end result of all the negotiations was a compromise tax bill which extends the present tax cuts through June 30 of next year and which also contains language stating the Congress will make every effort to tie all future tax cuts to comparable adjustments in federal spending.

This may not seem like such a monumentous occurrance to most Americans but rather an exercise in good common sense. Yes, while this action on no way locks the Congress in to a balanced budget it is the first time I have seen the Congress state the need to relate federal revenues to federal expenditures. Perhaps a combination of mounting public pressure to reduce the size and cost of the federal government and the vivid example of New York City's financial ruin caused the Congress to relent and endorse a policy of fiscal responsibility. Hopefully the Majority leaders will make every effort to keep their intent.

For far too long the Congress has operated under a 'have your cake and eat it too' policy that you can cut taxes and increase federal expenditures without any resulting problems. But fortunately the American people are no longer willing to be duped by such actions. They are now demanding fiscal honesty from their representatives.

Whenever proposals to cut taxes but not government spending he is not proposing a cut on real taxes. Whatever the government spends must be paid for by the people in one form or another. If income taxes are reduced but federal spending is not, it does means that the difference will be made up by a more subtle form of taxation — inflation. To cover up its deficits the government must either borrow funds or print more money.

If it borrows, it drains the capital markets and drives up interest rates — hence people are taxed in the form of less capital investment which means less economic growth, fewer goods and services and higher prices.

If on the other hand the government prints more money to cover its deficits, then the value of the dollar is reduced, which also results in higher prices.

Thus a case for extending current tax cuts without placing limits on government spending was not a case for a reduction in taxes. It was merely a case for lower direct taxes coupled with higher indirect taxes in the form of inflation. I prefer direct taxes as an honest way of telling the people how much of their money the government is spending. Inflation is simply a means of covering up the real cost of government.

If we want a real tax cut we need cuts in our federal spending. The Congress has finally gone on record as being aware of this need. Let us get on with it.

COOL AND WINDY–It was cool and windy on the last weekend of 1975, the surf temperature was 69 on Sunday, Dec. 28, but the vacationers still crowded the Jensen Beach public swimming area. Some of the visitors (left) use mats (mats) to get near the water, but enjoyed the sand and sun.

Senator Chiles sets county visit

JENSEN BEACH–Sen. Lawton Chiles (D-Fla.) will hold organizational meetings for his re-election campaign in 21 Florida counties during the first two weeks of 1976.

That will bring to 40 the number of counties where Lawton Chiles re-election campaign organizations have been established since the senator announced for re-election in late June.

Martin County's organizational meeting will be marked by a dutch treat lunch-eon at the Stuart Holiday Inn on Highway U.S. 1. The public is invited to this luncheon which begins at noon on Monday, January 5.

The first two weeks of January will also find the senator making his second report on a fund raising activities to the Federal Election Commission.

The first quarterly report showed contributions of $40,863 to the senator's re-election campaign, representing more than 4,000 individual contributors.

That money and all others collected fall under the ten dollar per contributor limit imposed by Senator Chiles.

The one equal share concept where no one can give more than ten dollars to this campaign, has captured the public's interest and has already resulted in thousands of individual contributors, Senator Chiles said.

"I am sure that many of these people have never given to a political campaign before and that is just what we have set out to do–interest and involve those who have never before been interested or involved," Chiles added.

Chiles January schedule calls for him to visit Collier, Charlotte, Martin, Highlands, Pinellas, Hernando, Citrus, Putnam, Flagler, Nassau, Marion, Washington, Seminole, Brevard, St. Lucie, Monroe, Hardee, DeSoto, Indian River, Baker and Union counties.

The senator has previously held organizational meetings in Bay, Broward, Columbia, Dade, Duval, Escambia, Hillsborough, Jackson, Lake, Lee, Okaloosa, Orange, Osceola, Palm Beach, Pasco, Polk, Sarasota, Volusia and Walton counties.

'First Wednesday' card party

STUART–The Woman's Club of Stuart continues the regular first Wednesday of the month card games at 1 p.m. next Wednesday, January 7, at the Club House.

The public is invited.

1975 in review

PORT ST LUCIE—As the bells ring out and parties are in the making for welcoming in the new year, Port St Lucie has added another chapter to its brief history with the happenings of yesterday.

The year 1975 saw many changes take place in this south county community as residents and leaders alike poured their efforts into building a better city in which to live and work.

Some of the efforts of community officials and leaders are reflected in the headlines of 1975, including:

JANUARY

Area leaders from the south county gathered at Port St Lucie City Hall to seek out and discuss a solution to the ambulance situation in this area and the South Port area were presently under contract with the Stuart Police Ambulance to service their areas and it was reported the contracted service would be discontinued effective April 1, 1975.

Winners of the first Jaycee Christmas lighting contest were awarded prizes by Jaycee President Jim Kissel at the North Port Florida Winners included Debra Darrow, Walter Stauber, Anthony Gallagher, Grace Stauber, Joan Darrow, Carmine Gilberti, Phillis Gallagher, Chuck Barrow and Bill Darrow.

Hospitalized three times in one year, Vice-Mayor Franklin Beard resigned from the City Council effective December 31. Beardsley was originally elected to the Council in 1967.

Two new classes were added to the adult education schedule. Astrology and Vegetable Gardening.

The Port St. Lucie Homemakers Club installed their new officers including Mrs. Charles Conrad president, Mrs. M.L. McLaughlin vice president, Mrs. Pat O'Neill, secretary, and Mrs. Alfred Wilson treasurer.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul B. Lewallen received the yard of the month award from the Rio Lindo Garden Club.

Mayor Larry Kimmel announced proposed list of residents to serve as members of the Charter Revision Committee.

Vaughn Lewis was appointed vice mayor.

Gray Drugs opened in the St. Lucie Plaza and homeowners were given a sneak preview of the Brass Rail, pet restaurant with a cocktail lounge on New Year's Eve prior to the grand opening of the facility.

Court action on charter interpretation was expected after Stuart attorney James Littman, representing the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc., and City attorney Rupert Smith disagree on various points in the charter.

The State Department of Pollution Control filed a $1 million lawsuit against the St. Lucie County Commission for installing a culvert across Walton Road replacing an old wooden bridge.

The PSL Lions sponsored free glaucoma tests.

A new group of Hadassah was formed.

Elementary school held an open house prior to its official opening.

FEBRUARY

The first nine holes of the Wilderness Park Golf Course was reviewed for limited play.

City officials were shaken by Judge James P. Alderman's ruling that the Group Two seat occupied by Mayor Lewis must be included on the March city ballot. Lewis was permitted to fill the vacancy created by the death of Mayor Eugene P. Kavanaugh. The Group Two seat will be for the two year unexpired term while groups One, Three and Four are for the full four year terms. Gordon also ruled Mayor Larry Kimmel could continue to fill the position of city engineer but without compensation.

One hundred seventy-five new voters registered during a two-day session conducted by Supervisor of Elections James Brooks.

Civic League views March election as critical endorses candidates.

Councilman Bill McChesney was named finance chairman.

The Council retained additional legal counsel in connection with the suit brought about by the Interested Homeowners.

Miami Director Ronie Hill honored at Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church of White City.

GDC offered the city a 20-acre tract situated in the northern part of the city for annexation.

Italian American Club installs officers.

Councilman Ken Thompson announces retirement intentions.

Seven file for city elections.

MARCH

Local shuffleboard hosted General Development Corporation sponsored Central East Coast District Shuffleboard Tournament.

A group of interested women met for the purpose of forming the Port St. Lucie Women's Club. Florida Federation.

Schuyler Sharpe, Lolita Kernohan and Frank Rose win council seats in election.

Public support was urged by Charter Revision Committee.

The PSL Presidents Council heard Dr. Thomas Frist of the Hospital Corporation of America speak. Plans for a new hospital were revealed.

The Women's Club is chartered.

The Mirror increased rates to fifteen cents per copy.

Mrs. Eugene P. Kavanaugh was named in civil suit by homeowners.

Action taken by the St. Lucie County Commission approving an 8-foot blacktop bike path to be constructed along the south side of Prima Vista Boulevard, brought immediate protests from residents.

Recreation funds were sought for south county area after residents learned $14,000 originally earmarked for south county was turned over to the County Recreation Board to use as they saw fit.

APRIL

The County Commission grants a re-hearing on the bike path situation and the public is urged to attend.

Sidney S. Harris won the three minute shopping spree at the new Winn Dixie Supermarket in the St. Lucie Shopping Plaza.

GDC and City officials agree to one year test period prior to the official takeover of certain specific areas situated in sections 6 and 24 in the northern part of the city.

Before a packed city hall, Schuyler Sharpe, Frank Rose and Lolita Kernohan in consecutive three-two votes became mayor, vice-mayor and treasurer respectively.

Safety director Jim Thomas outlined a complete budget for the start of a city police department. According to Thomas figures it would cost the city approximately $100,000 to set up its own force.

City Attorney Rupert Smith submitted a letter to the city stating he did not wish to be considered for the position.

Spencer Gilbert was appointed city attorney for a salary of $1,333 per month until October 1 when he will then negotiate with the city for continued terms.

The Charter Revision Committee conducted its first night meeting for the purpose of introducing the first draft of the document to the public.

Mayor Sharpe appointed committee members to head up the city's newly created planning, zoning and appeals boards.

Mrs. Arthur Coulon was installed as president of the Rio Lindo Garden Club.

Youngsters at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School collected 87 pairs of eyeglasses and several lenses which they donated to the local Lions Club.

MAY

A team of state auditors under the direction of State Attorney Robert E. Stone is presently examining the city's books and records. Three hundred ninety three registered within the city petitioned the State Attorney's office for a full and complete audit of the city's financial practices. The petition was circulated by the Interested Homeowners of PSL, Inc.

City officials were warned by City Administrator Bernard Rubin "to shake a leg and come up with some traffic needed policies and make the long awaited decisions" regarding the renting of the adjacent office space for the city offices.

City Attorney Spencer Gilbert presented the council members with his opinion in regards to Government in the Sunshine Law. The action was triggered when three members of the council met in an adjoining office immediately following a council workshop session for the purpose of persuading the city administrator to continue in that position with the city.

Developers of the proposed 21 unit medical facility to be constructed in the south county area were optimistic the construction would be underway within two weeks.

General Development Utilities, Inc. announced utility bills for water and sewer will reflect prorated increases granted by the Florida Public Service Commission. Increases became effective April 30.

Rubin's resignation is accepted by Council effective May 19.

Public hearings are scheduled by charter revision group

PORT ST. LUCIE—Within one year of the time former Mayor Larry Kimmel appointed an eleven member board to review and draft a new city charter, the approximate 60 page proposed document will be submitted for public hearings at two locations within the city, according to an announcement made Tuesday by City Administrator Elmer Cox and ex-officio member of the committee.

Two public hearings both of which will be held in the evening, have been called for by the Charter Revision Committee in order to get a more definitive input on the four major proposals included in the charter draft.

The first of the night meetings will be held Wednesday, January 7, in the Florida North Room at the Sandpiper Bay Hotel. Meeting time will be 7:30 p.m.

The second public hearing has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, January 9, at the CESA Community Center on Prima Vista Boulevard.

The four major issues up for discussion will include the election re-districting, city manager form of government, the control and use of municipal surplus funds, and the restrictions on building height and density.

The importance of a good attendance at these meetings cannot be stressed too strongly. Much time and effort has gone into the four basic proposals that, for the uninitiated and it is imperative public support is needed.

According to Cox, a final public hearing will be held when the charter has been completed. No date has been set at this time.

Each of the charter can be adopted through a voter referendum only.

Senator Chiles sets county visit

JENSEN BEACH–Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., will hold organizational meetings for his re-election campaign in 21 Florida counties during the first two weeks of 1976.

That will bring to 60 the number of counties where Lawton Chiles re-election campaign organizations have been established since the senator announced for re-election in late June.

Martin County's organizational meeting will be marked by a dutch treat luncheon at the Stuart Holiday Inn on Highway U.S. 1. The public is invited to this luncheon which begins at noon on Monday, January 5.

The first two weeks of January will also find the senator making his second report on a fund raising activities to the Federal Election Commission.

The first quarterly report showed contributions of $440,863 to the senator's re-election campaign, representing more than 4,000 individual contributors.

That money and all others collected fall under the ten dollar per contributor limit imposed by Senator Chiles.

The one equal share concept, where no one can give more than ten dollars to this campaign, has captured the public's interest and has already resulted in thousands of individual contributors, Senator Chiles said.

I am sure that many of these people have never given to a political campaign before and that is just what we have set out to do–interest and involve those who have never before been interested or involved, Chiles added.

Chiles January schedule calls for him to visit Collier, Charlotte, Martin, Highlands, Pinellas, Hernando, Citrus, Putnam, Flagler, Nassau, Marion, Washington, Seminole, Brevard, St. Lucie, Monroe, Hardee, DeSoto, Indian River, Baker and Union counties.

The senator has previously held organizational meetings in Dade, Broward, Columbia, Dade, Duval, Escambia, Hillsborough, Jackson, Lake, Lee, Okaloosa, Orange, Osceola, Palm Beach, Pasco, Polk, Sarasota, Volusia, and Walton Counties.

Dutton celebrates Holy Sacrament

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church of White City is making preparation to celebrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper on this first Sunday of the New Year January 4 at 11 a.m. The officers, who approved the celebration are Lynn Calhoun, Billy Elder, George F. Hill, Aleta Keller, John Schneider and Dr. Evert Stabler.

There is to be a short challenge to the congregation prior to the Sacrament. The minister of the church refers to it as "The Mark Of The Intelligent." His message is being based on 1 Kings 2 3:13 and Matthew 2 1:12.

Appropriate sacramental music will be sung by the Chancel Choir under the baton of Mrs. George F. Hill. Mendelssohn's "If With All Your Heart" will be presented by a group of the young adults of the church.

The management of Country Garden Florist is providing the Chancel flowers for the altar. Their gift is a memorial to the loved ones of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Matula. The Matulas are to host the congregation, at the front doors of the sanctuary, on this occasion.

Mrs. Hubert Yelton, President of Dutton's Women's Association, has announced the Association will meet on Tuesday, January 6, for a luncheon meeting in the dining area of Campbell Hall. Every lady of the church is urged to attend. Mrs. Wesley Tompkins is the secretary and Mrs. Warren Sawyer is the treasurer.

Biblical discussion and prayer participation will be sponsored at noon each Wednesday between now and Easter. Each participant is requested to bring a snack. Beverages will be provided.

WELL PROTECTED–Twelve year old Terry Clark was well protected while zipping along the sidewalks of Port St. Lucie on his skateboard. Viewing the thick elbow and knee pads one might suspect Terry has at one time or another found out first hand the pain a spill can cause.

week.

Faced with their outside sources of funding being wiped out completely, the board went into a huddle and emerged with the obvious solution. CESA will go it alone.

Judd Reading elected head of the River Park Port St. Lucie Blood Bank.

Rio Lindo celebrated fifteenth anniversary.

JUNE

Mayor Sharpe sought to have the council consider the city's assumption of street lighting costs using fifty percent of the FP&L franchise revenues for the job. The suggestion brought heated debate and no conclusion.

The long awaited state permits for dredging the canals in Port St. Lucie were issued to General Development Corporation.

City's books inadequate, petty cash incomprehensible, according to Lolita Kernohan, councilwoman and treasurer. Mrs. Kernohan said the finance committee found office methods and procedures relating to city finances were "totally inadequate or non existent."

A favorable recommendation handed over to the Council by the Planning & Zoning Board makes the annexation of a 70 acre tract in the northern part of the city virtually a certainty.

Plans for a proposed 116-bed, non profit hospital to be situated in the Midport area of the city were unveiled before members of the press.

Bridge-o-ramas in Port St. Lucie net $600 for Martin Memorial Hospital.

Court orders $7,600 to be returned to city till Circuit Court Judge James Alderman ruled former councilman Franklin Beardsley owes the city $1,081 in former mayor and councilman Larry Kimmel, who served as city engineer, will have to return approximately $4,000 and former Councilman Dr. Harold Sottiley, who returned after his term was completed, must also return $1,800 in severance pay to the city.

Mrs. Dorothy Brunton was named Mirror correspondent.

Council to discuss the "Who pays the tab for street lighting" topic again.

JULY

Petitions in support of the proposed Port St. Lucie Community Hospital are being circulated in the City and in Jensen Beach, as the effort to gain approval for the new facility continues. Turned down by the Martin St. Lucie Health Planning Committee officials took their case to the area Health Planning Council and were granted a 60 day extension to prepare a more complete case showing need for this hospital in the area.

Earl Graham set a record for Northport Golf Association with a [illegible] of 56 at the Holiday Course.

GDC gets city a final approval for the construction of six cluster housing units to be constructed adjacent to the marina in the southern part of the city.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held for the CESA Community Center's $44,899 expansion program.

Officials questioned whether the withdrawal of Fort Pierce and the St. Lucie County Commission from the Indian River Council of Governments would cause the death of COG.

The third and final stage of the 25th Street extension got underway. Bids for the final stretch, Midway to Edwards Roads, excluding the Ten Mile Creek bridge, were opened in June and the contract awarded to Gorham Construction Company.

GDC President Louis Fischer flies to Port St. Lucie to offer the developer's intention of transferring Sportsman's Park to the city, thus clearing the way for city park participation in the St. Lucie County Recreation budget. The area involves approximately a 17-acre tract.

The South St. Lucie County Democratic Club kicked off telethon with a splash and cocktail party at the Sandpiper Bay pool.

Chester "Clem" and beef stew enjoyed by PSL Republicans.

County Commissioners of the four county area wanting to form a new regional planning district got the support of Lt. Gov. Jim Williams.

AUGUST

The possibility of a 24-lane bowling facility to be located on Kitterman Road just west of U.S. 1 came one step closer to reality when the St. Lucie County Commission approved the rezoning application of Art Young.

Littman, attorney for the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, filed a motion to tax costs arising from the suit. The motion against defendants asks for $387.45 to cover costs of the action, including court filing fees, summons service fees, witness fees, court reporters, at trials and depositions, and certified copies introduced into hearings as evidence.

Condo owner sues developer

JENSEN BEACH–O. R. McGuire Jr., owner of Apt. 404 Building No. 2 in Dolphins Bay Condominium on Jensen Beach Causeway, is seeking $300,000 in punitive damages from developer Floyd J. Voght.

In the complaint filed in Martin County Circuit Court, McGuire's attorney Tom Wackeen is challenging the time-sharing plan has reduced the value of his unit.

McGuire claims in the suit he was never told that some of the units would be sold on a time-sharing basis and he would have not purchased his unit had he known about it.

Under the time-sharing plan, a buyer can own a condominium unit for as little as one week each year, using it as a vacation retreat.

Other owners use the same unit during different times of the year, reducing the cost to each owner.

McGuire claims in his suit that the time-sharing plan in effect converts the project into a transient, motel like facility and damages the value of usefulness and quiet enjoyment of his property.

Gang ho-ho's at Christmas party

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Friday Nite Gang really "Ho-Hoed" at its Christmas celebration.

After a review of Gang activities during the past year and especially the Toy campaign just concluded successfully, they were really in the mood for a party and the three dozen of Christmas Elixir, provided by the host, helped put all in the mood for a celebration.

For the Gang, Host Benz wishes all the individuals an organization members who were so cooperative a Happy and Blessed New Year.

In the absence of the regular Gang Snooper, the sub came up with a blank sheet, no visitors, no first-timers, no birthdays, no anniversaries.

The Christmas bird, a nice butter ball turkey, was won by Grace Commare.

Last week's session, with Christmas and all the things that go with it in the past, provided everyone with a relaxing time. Gang members just sat back and let the trailer do the work. Al was on the ball and provided an enjoyable evening for all.

The substitute Snooper did a nice job reporting four visitors, Mrs. R. Heidelman, Diana and Scott Heidelman from New Carrollton, Md., visiting Cass Moscure; and Helen Hook, from Sarasota, Florida, visiting the Bulgners.

The main prize of the evening, a miniature steel engraving of Abraham Lincoln, was won by Maxine Smith.

The Gang will be in session as usual this Friday, January 2, at the North Port Marina.

Host Cedric Benz says, "U all come!"

Best Wishes

May the New Year be ... [illegible] and contentment for you and your family.

Venture Out News

WITH THE PISCO HITTERS

By Jane Nolan

Kevin Repka of Lancaster, N.Y. is visiting his grandparents Ray and Muriel Repka for two weeks. It was doubtful whether he was coming due to the plane strike but things worked out okay and everyone is happy that he was able to be here.

* * *

Steve and Lucille Rabowsky have their daughter Joann, her husband Orvin and their children Fred and Steve visiting them for the holidays. The family spent Christmas Day at Clearwater with Lucille's father.

Steve, I hope you continue to have good luck with the fishing.

Frank and Jane Nolan's son Tom, daughter in-law Cathy and their two children are spending ten days with them. The children enjoyed the party and also Santa Claus on Christmas Eve.

Roger and Mildred Forten spent Christmas at Boynton Beach with son Roger and daughter-in-law Donna. They returned to take their trailer to Venture Out at Cudjoe Cay and will spend the balance of the holidays there.

* * *

John and Ruth Balash had the pleasure of hosting the Repkas for Christmas dinner along with son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren.

* * *

Hal and Jean Payster of Holland, N.Y. have now joined us. Hal will be here for a short time then return home for business. Jean will remain to enjoy the Florida weather.

Richard and Verta Bennett of St. Augustine spent a few days with us and are returning home.

* * *

Cravalle Lane would like to wish a Happy New Year to all.

Those of us who were here for the holidays had such a good time at our tree trimming party. The men really pitched in and transformed our rec hall into a warm and inviting Christmas spot. The social hour following was enjoyed by all.

* * *

Christmas Eve caroling was superb. Mary Ellen Meacham's son-in-law provided the music and made all of us sound good.

Santa Claus looked superb on his specially decorated cart, and the children really enjoyed his visit.

More than 100 Venturites were at the Christmas dinner. Marge Owens and Jean Reynolds served as co-chairpersons for the lovely dinner.

Our thoughts were with all of our friends and family who were not here to celebrate Christmas with us and we are looking forward to seeing them on their return.

To one and all: Happy New Year!

VENTURE HARBOR NEWS

By Jessie Shaver

Holidays bring families together and that is very evident here at Venture Harbour.

The Ravinets are enjoying their son and his family from Indiana. Jean and Gil Van Wilngan have their son and his family from Kentucky with them.

Joe and Amy Freitag have their youngest son Joe, Jr. and his family from Connecticut making their days happy.

Hilda and Larry Atkin are sharing their holidays with Bernie and Gertrude Landau from Yonkers, N.Y. Gertrude is Larry's sister.

Ron and Ellie Ellis's daughter and son-in-law, Sandy and Fred Burnett, and grandchild Chad are here for the holidays. Fred's parents Alf and Betty Burtnett are also visiting.

This column would not be complete if we did not mention one very important visitor. Flower who is the pet of the Gerrard's grandchildren.

* * *

Flower is a small black animal with a white streak down its back, yes a skunk but, thankfully, de-scented.

* * *

Don and Faye Smith came in after Christmas for a short visit.

Sam Tucker spent Christmas with his family in Massachusetts and will be returning with good friends Tom and Winnie Widtake.

Happy birthday to Selma Valaire on December 29.

* * *

We wish all our friends and neighbors a happy and prosperous New Year.

News Notes from PSL

BY DOROTHY BRUNTON
878-0904

Another year has ended and we all look forward to a new one. We ask what will the new year bring — happiness, sadness, good health, illness? No one knows, but we can all live each day as it comes and when night time falls, thank God for another day on this good earth. My wish to all of you is for a Happy, happy, New Year and many thanks for the opportunity of sharing news with you in 1975.

* * *

Darlene and Frank Gastill of Ulman Ave. recently entertained guests from their home state, New Jersey. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fecher and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bierl, Mrs. Fecher's parents. The visit was concluded by a cruise to the Bahamas. It was the first visit to Florida for the Bierls and they really enjoyed Port St. Lucie and are sure to return soon.

* * *

Alice and Schuyler Sharpe of Harbortown Dr. had a wonderful visit from their daughter Janet and her husband Dr. John Pinkerton and their son Gary from Beaver Falls, Penna. From here the Pinkertons will visit his parents in Syracuse, New York.

* * *

Florence and John Schwartz of Calhoun Drive had a happy Christmas with both their daughters visiting from out of state. Barbara, Mrs. James Callahan, and her husband and son John from Lakewood, Ohio and Nancy, Mrs. Jerry Maldovin and her husband from Allison Park, Penna. The sons-in-law and grandson enjoyed fishing in Florida and were happy to have caught snook. Some people have all the luck.

* * *

Mrs. Ippolito of Penna Vista has received a card from her son Ernest John a Jesuit Father in Marion, Ohio. The Reverend is also a teacher in a Correctional Institute in Marion.

* * *

Mike and Lee Reeb had out of town guests to share their Christmas Holidays too. Lee's sister, Mrs. Walter Lyons from Vincennes, Indiana and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stevenson of Port Richie, Florida helped make the Reeb's Christmas a little brighter and happier.

* * *

Howard and Evelyn Smith of Ardsley Drive were more happy to have their son Ronald and his wife Chris and grandson Paul here for the Christmas Holidays. Ronald and his family live in Cape Cod, Mass.

Lake Manor News

BY SYLVIA SIMAN

A marvelous Christmas dinner consisting of fruit cup, turkey, ham, vegetables and luscious salads and pies was enjoyed by forty nine of us with twenty-eight persons daring enough to return for supper. Visiting was also enjoyed.

We are most grateful to the capable committee Ed Stuart, Pat and Mary Scriven, Rus and Olive Allwarde headed again by Gerry Stuart. The prettily decorated tables done with green tulle trees, gold and silver garlands and colored ornaments, contributed to the festive mood.

* * *

Andy and Ethel Bullock were very pleased to have his son Jim, his wife Davette and daughters Sandy and Ann and son Bob join them at Christmas dinner in our clubhouse.

* * *

Ed and Gerry Stuart also were happy to have their son Dick, his wife Chris and sons Mark and Brian join them at dinner.

* * *

Dick and Marie Bradley had company for four days. They were Marie's sister Pauline von Bose and her husband Max who also attended dinner in the hall. They are from Miami.

Pauline brought along some Julekage (Norwegian Christmas bread). This gave Marie incentive to make some. Getting a recipe from me, I was included in the pleasant tasting treat.

* * *

Fred and Madeleine Ballanz had as guests Harold and Edna Egeland from Circle Drive.

* * *

On our way from supper on Christmas night we met Jack Bell out for a walk accompanied by his niece Delores and her daughter Dr. Jack Finger, Delores, and their four children had a pleasant visit with Jack and Alex. They are from Saginaw, Michigan.

* * *

It was very refreshing to have some children in the park for the Christmas holiday.

* * *

Charlie and I had much pleasure talking with all of our family, 15 of them including 10 grandchildren, who all were gathered at our youngest daughter's home on the Walworth, Wisconsin farm.

Our son Charles and our daughter Delores whom many of you have met, send Season's Greetings to all of you here.

* * *

Friends of long standing surprised Roy and Leona Carver, George and Marion Lilly and son David from Pendleton, N.Y., had a delightful day's visit. The Carvers lived in Pendleton at one time.

* * *

All are invited to a gala New Year's Eve party Wednesday night at 8 p.m. Bring a plate of snacks.

* * *

The first meeting of the Bible study group will be held on January 9, 10 to 11 a.m., at the clubhouse, under the leadership of Cap Brice. Everyone welcome.

* * *

Men--remember your morning coffee Saturday, January 3, at 10 a.m.

* * *

Listening to the group of carollers on Tuesday evening made a happy feeling for all in the park. Since I wasn't able to join them outside, Charlie and I had the pleasure of singing along with them at our open door.

* * *

Alice Stoddard has done well to keep up this tradition, which we all appreciate.

* * *

Bingo had a fair turn out on the 26th with Bob McCourt and George Marsh calling.

* * *

May you all have a very good year.

And congratulations and best wishes for a happy anniversary to Robert and Edna Staples, New Year's Day; Karl and Elizabeth Duffield, Jan. 4th; George and Kay Layton, 15th; Glenn and Gladys Oakes, 26th.

All are invited to an open house for the Oakes' 50th anniversary on January 25, from 2 to 4 p.m.

* * *

Reminder: art class starts January 6 at 1 p.m.

* * *

It's time again for all those good intended resolutions that give us something to work for in 1976.

Make it good for others, and yourself too!

Happy New Year to all and Peace.

Halpatiokee will celebrate

STUART—A gala 37th birthday celebration is planned by Halpatiokee Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for Friday, January 9, at the Holiday Inn in Stuart.

A business meeting for members will be held at 11 a.m. Guests and members of other chapters will be welcome for luncheon and the program at 12:15 by calling Mrs. C.D. Hayes at 287-3398 for reservations.

Halpatiokee Chapter members are asked to make reservations as early as possible by calling Mrs. C.W. Kennedy at 287-6986, or Mrs. H.S. Russell at 287-4683.

Principal speakers will be Mrs. M.F. Hartmann of Golden Anchor Chapter and Mrs. W. Fowler of Commodore David Porter Chapter, both of Miami. They are DAR state officers and are seeking election for other state offices at the next Florida conference. There will also be a slide presentation on "DAR Insignia."

A highlight of the session will be presentation of the DAR "National Good Citizenship" medal to an as yet unnamed young man.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH—Best wishes and congratulations are extended this week to Mrs. Charles Zajic, Richard Gipp, Louise Sheward, Arron Ives and Eric Pederson, all celebrating birthdays on January 2.

And to Bill Gesner, January 3; Gerta Hoverman, January 5; George Lawrence, Sid Reed, Ransom Tilton and Joanne Yurillo, January 6.

Mildred Vossmer, Lillian Driscoll and Mildred Nichols will celebrate on January 7.

Happy birthday! Happy New Year! Have a good time!

News of Riverside Village

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Freebury have returned to the park after flying to Michigan to attend the wedding of their granddaughter Suzie Mueller in Pontiac on December 13.

* * *

Holiday visitors in Riverside include:

John, Kraig and Connie Lucia, visiting Frank and Jeanette Lucia of 128 First St.

Sam and Helen Straub, from South Bend, Indiana, visiting D. Harden on 5th Street.

Harry Nordstrom is home from Martin Memorial Hospital recuperating from his fractured arm.

Helen and John Gibbins spent Christmas with their daughter and her family, the DiStefanos in Leilani Heights.

Olive Clappison of 4th Street is happy to report good news from Michigan where her daughter underwent surgery. The reports turned out very well, and she is recuperating nicely.

It has been a full house at Olive's. Her son, daughter-in-law and three year old grandson have been visiting her from Ft. Lauderdale.

* * *

Ruby Duhring of 4th Street is in Boca Spring Lake Nursing Home in Hobe Sound. She is getting along nicely and enjoys company.

* * *

Bingo jackpot winners last week were Betty Fritz on Tuesday night, Orpha Woodring on Friday.

Postage goes up

Postal Service 'Tightening belt'

JENSEN BEACH--The Postal Service has implemented a national belt-tightening program necessitated by the service's serious financial problems, Postmaster Harold C. Salzler said this week.

Severe inflation and an inordinately slow rate-making process have teamed up to drive the four-year old U.S. Postal Service into a grave financial situation, Salzler explained, adding that the result was a deficit last fiscal year of nearly $1 billion.

He said that even with the rate increase on December 28, the Service's finances for the present fiscal year are in a perilous state. But the Postal Service has launched a series of cost reduction moves that include:

A strict limitation on outside hiring to fill postal job vacancies.

A lid on all but the most essential overtime work, unless it is directly connected with the distribution and delivery of mail.

Implementing nationally a program to equalize the work load of letter carriers.

Involuntary transfer of excess employees to post offices where they can be used more efficiently.

A closer look at small post offices that are uneconomical to operate. Closing such offices may be increased if alternative methods can provide an equivalent or improved level of service.

In regard to closing small post offices, Salzler pointed out the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, issued a report last June that said the Postal Service could close 12,000 small offices and save $100 million a year without a decline in service.

He added that the Jensen Beach Post Office does not fall into the small office category.

The postmaster defended the postal rates and the service performance of the $12 billion a year system that employs 700,000.

In fiscal year 1971 it took 1.63 days for the average first class letter to reach its destination. In the fiscal year ended in June, it took 1.56 days, he said.

When you think about it, it is astounding that the overwhelming majority of the nearly 90 billion pieces of mail we handle each year gets through on time without incident.

Stating that he would like to dispel some of the things the general public thinks it knows about the Postal Service which simply aren't so, Salzler said that the service welcomes constructive criticism.

We recently introduced a new Consumer Service Card program that is encouraged people to bring their criticisms to us, or to make whatever comments they wish about the Postal Service.

What concerns me is that a rising tide of unwarranted and plain wrong criticism may actually be reaching such a point as to cloud the improvements we have made in mail service over the past four years.

One of the most often heard remarks is that the service has declined since it was relinquished by Congress and turned over to the Postal Service.

Now, that simply is not true.

He said that there has been a decline a steady one but that it has been in the average number of days it takes from the time a deposit to the delivery of a letter.

During fiscal year 1975 we regularly delivered correctly addressed local first class mail overnight at least 95 per cent of the time. There were some serious delays during the Christmas season when our daily mail volume doubled but such delays have always prevailed under those circumstances.

We have moved recently to upgrade regional and cross country service for first class mail to a level previously accorded to air mail, eliminating the need and expense of air mail postage.

And about rate increases, he said the public belief that increases must be met with a parallel improvement in service completely ignores the fact that the same impact that inflation has on the individual family or business is felt by the Postal Service -- but in even greater measure because we must purchase a great deal more in goods and services than any average individual or business.

Citing the fact that it costs twice as much to fill a car's tank with gas as it did a few years ago without doubling the mileage or that a hamburger costs twice as much without going twice as far or being twice as good, Salzler asks "Some people expect mail service to keep improving in leaps and bounds when rates are increased."

He says that, compared to other industrialized nations our rates are still a bargain. Converting the various currency to U.S. tender, in Germany it costs almost 20 cents to mail a letter, in the United Kingdom 10.5 cents, in Sweden 21.1 cents, Japan 16.8 cents, Australia 23.5 cents.

And in the United States as of December 28, 13 cents.

In response to whether the rate increase and belt-tightening will solve the service's financial woes, "Probably not entirely," Salzler said, "but other solutions are being constantly studied."

We are proud of the job we do, he concluded, "and it's going to get better."

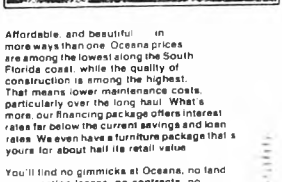
The affordable beach house.



Affordable, and beautiful... in more ways than one. Oceana prices are among the lowest along the South Florida coast, while the quality of construction is among the highest. That means lower maintenance costs, particularly over the long haul. What's more, our financing package offers interest rates far below the current savings and loan rates. We even have a furniture package that's yours for about half its retail value.

You'll find no gimmicks at Oceana, no land or recreation leases, no contracts, no hidden costs. Our furnished models are open 10 to 5 daily. Come see us. Oceana. We're the Affordable Beach House.

Guild meets Monday

STUART-The regular monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Guild will be held Monday, January 5, beginning with Rosary and Benediction in the church at 1 p.m.

The meeting will follow immediately in the Parish Hall. All women of the parish are welcome.

Tickets will be available for the annual luncheon and fashion show to be held on February 5 at Miles Grant, with clothes by Frock and Frill.

Stuart boy wins Orange Bowl Tourney

STUART-Twelve year old Bruce Coleman of Stuart won the Bantam Handicap division of the Orange Bowl Bowling Tournament at Coliseum Lanes in Coral Gables.

Bruce, who qualified at Jensen Lanes in late November, began bowling last summer and the Orange Bowl Tournament was his first test of pressure competition.

He went to Miami Thursday night to be on time for his qualifying round on Friday and was second high qualifier, rolling 1230. He swept through the finals on Monday to capture a major tourney his first time out, with a fine 2167.

Young Coleman rode in the Junior Orange Parade and received the Coca Cola Orange Bowl Award.

UMW meets Tuesday

JENSEN BEACH-The United Methodist Women of Trinity Church, Jensen Beach, will meet in the Fellowship Hall next Tuesday, January 6 at 1:15 p.m.

Mrs. Aethen Witt will present the program. "The Magic Penny." and Mrs. Lester Cottrell, Jr., of Cocoa will be a special guest at the meeting. Mrs. Cottrell is president of Melbourne District UMW.

Barracks 854 meets Friday

JENSEN BEACH-Barracks 854 Veterans of WWI and Auxiliary will hold their monthly meeting this Friday, January 2, at 1:30 p.m. in Langford Park Hall.

The Auxiliary will serve coffee and cake following the meetings.

All World War I veterans are invited.

Second term at Howey

Howey-in-the-Hills--New students enrolling for most Howey Academy second semester courses January 26 will start on equal footing with present Howey students because instruction will be starting afresh.

Courses in the social sciences, English, Speech, reading, typing, art, music and other electives will start new phases for both newly enrolled and current students, said William Branyon, Headmaster of this central Florida co-educational college preparatory school.

Branyon added that small classes with personalized instruction would assure easy transition for students newly enrolled in year long subject areas of mathematics, science and languages.

Applications from boys and girls in grades 7-12 are now being accepted for the second half of Howey's school year scheduled January 26-May 28 with graduation set for May 29.

Branyon said Howey's second semester coincides with that of other Florida public and private schools to facilitate transfer of first semester credits earned by newly enrolled students.

School lunches

JENSEN BEACH--The elementary school lunches for January 5 thru 8 are as follows. No high school lunches will be served for this brief period, however, will resume January 12.

Monday, Jan. 5--Toasted cheese sandwich, tomato soup, green pepper & carrots, peanut butter cake with chocolate icing, milk.

Tuesday, Jan. 6--Spaghetti with meat & cheese, garlic bread, green salad, fruit jello, milk.

Wednesday, Jan. 7--Hamburger on buns, french fries, raw carrots, applesauce, cookies, milk.

Thursday, Jan. 8--Chili con carne, cabbage salad, corn bread, chocolate pudding, milk.

Joyous New Year

Sail into it with our best wishes and our thanks for your kindness and loyalty. We appreciate knowing customers like you!
